In answer to the theory that suicides increased with civilization, Prof. Hume pointed to the periods of greatest epidemics of suicide in Greece and Rome and in France during the revolution, which all occurred during their decline from their highest point, and not while they were at the zenith of their culture and civilization. He could find no support for the theory that genius, insanity and suicide were closely allied. Undoubtedly most suicides were lacking in judgment and self-control, and to that extent of unsound mind, but the many verdicts of suicide while temporarily insane were due to sympathy, and a desire to avoid the penalties imposed by Church and State.

That there is something in modern civilization needing to be reformed in order to remove the causes of suicides was Prof. Hume's conclusion. Direct legislation must be largely ineffective, but legislation which will improve general conditions, remove poverty and check drunkenness and gambling may act as a preventive. Increased attention to literary and scientific studies, devotion to moral and philanthropic ends, by elevating and drawing the mind away from itself, and higher purposes in life than the acquisition of money, fame or notoriety will all tend to repress suicide. The greatest deterrent, Prof. Hume considered is the encouragement and consolation of religion, while the loss of religious faith is one of the predisposing causes.

Walked Under Water.

In diving for the body of Joseph Webb of Courtright, Ont., opposite there, a week ago, Diver Reed of Sarnia, had a strange adventure. He told of having found a sunken schooner, with the hatches all securely fastened down. He also found a wagonload of brick and the skeletons of a team of horses, which were drowned in crossing the ice two years ago. In searching for Webb the diver walked on the bottom of the river from the Diamond Crystal Salt Company's plant to the Oakland, which is nearly a mile. At the mouth of Pine River the diver found a quantity of water-soaked logs. Mr. Reed purposes going down to the boat again and uncovering the hatches, find out what cargo the boat carried, if any.

BAGDAD.

A slave I slept—a Sultan I awoke,
In a midnight dream.
All clad in purple robes and ermine cloak
And crown agleam
Of gold and sparks of gems that flashed like fire.
I ruled Bagdad, At Raschid's town of spire
And tower and dome.
Of synagogue and mosque. Down many a walk
I chose to roam
Disguised, as did Haroun, to hear the talk
Of men at home.

I heard and saw soft music and fair maid;
And in the nave
Of murky mosque the Moslem knelt and prayed,
To thundering harps by dark-eyed damsels played;
Adown the wave
Of turbid Tigris, boats like phantoms swept;
Enchanted down to flowery band I strayed
And laid me in the perfumed palm tree's shade,
Till, lulled by dreay song, I, Sultan, slept—
Ah, slept—
And woke a slave.

DISTRESSING AFFAIR IN HALIBURTON.

Station Agent Barton Ends His Life by Taking Poison.

Worried by the Loss or Theft of a Sum of the Company's Money, the Unfortunate Man Drank a Solution of Battery Mixture and Died after a Week of Horrible Suffering.

While our north country was sealed up for weeks by the hand of King Winter—whose tight grasp was not broken until last Tuesday — a harrowing tragedy was enacted in the little village of Haliburton, the terminus of the Victoria branch of the Grand Trunk, which, threw the people of the hamlet into a state of great excitement. The occurrence referred to was the determined suicide of C. H. Barton, the Grand Trunk station agent at that point, who had been an occupant of the position for about three months. Owing to the continuous blockade of the line, and the dreadful state of the roads, the particulars of the tragedy are only now available. The Grand Trunk authorities here were notified at the time, but the details were only learned recently.

Barton, we understand, succeeded Mr. F. H. Strike, the former agent, about three months ago. He came from Thornhill, on the Toronto-Allandale branch, and was married, but his wife did not accompany him on his removal to the village, it being arranged that she should first complete certain business arrangements. It is reported that a melancholy state of mind into which he had fallen, was increased by the theft of a sum of money from the station cash drawer while temporarily absent one evening. On Feb. 23 his wife arrived unexpectedly, and Barton appeared greatly pleased, but next evening the unfortunate man was found in the office in a state of extreme agony, he having drank a quantity of battery mixture. He lingered in great pain until March 2nd, being conscious at times.

The bereaved wife, wishing to take the remains to Hyfield, west of Toronto, waited day after day for the promised opening of the Haliburton line, the blockade of which had set in on February 29th. On Friday last, the 11th inst., and the condition of the body rendering further delay impossible, the poor woman was obliged to seek passage with the remains on the stage carrying the mail from the village as far as Kinmount, and frequently on the rough journey through the drifts she was forced to lend her aid in the task of keeping the coffin in the vehicle. At Kinmount Mrs. Barton was met by her brother, to whom she had telegraphed, and on Saturday they set out by sleigh from that village in the direction of Lindsay, reaching there Sunday night after a most exhausting trip. They were met by Station Agent Paton who looked after their comfort, and the preparation of the necessary papers for the carriage of the body to Hyfield, where the remains were taken Monday morning—ten days after death had occurred.

A BUSY TIME WITH LEAKY HOUSE ROOFS.

The Thaw is Making itself Very Evident to the Despair of the Housewife.

The number of householders who are not being inconvenienced by the present thaw, is very few. Almost everybody is having a trying time with leaky roofs, and flooded cellars. Never before has the trouble been felt so much as it is at the present time, and it is a matter of observation that the thaw has only just set in. Men cannot be obtained in town, for love or money, to clear away the snow which has accumulated and frozen on to the house tops, and the anxious housewife is having an unenviable time placing basins to catch the everlasting drip from the ceilings.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY WAS HONOURED.

The T. A. S. Concert was a Complete Success.

A MOST ENJOYABLE EVENT

Interesting Features of the Programme Convent People Made the Hit of the Evening.

As has been their custom in years past, St. Peter's T.A.S. provided a St. Patrick's Day concert last night, on the evening of the anniversary of the day upon which the birth of the patron saint of Ireland occurred, and that given last night was a success, both as regards the quality of the entertainment and the number in attendance. The local talent, by which the programme was largely contributed, acquitted themselves particularly well, and to them is due in a great measure the success of the evening.

Perhaps the largest audience that has honoured a concert in the opera house this season, was that which last night gathered to participate in the event, which was to culminate St. Patrick's Day. The excellent record which the T.A.S. has made for itself by the high class entertainments given in previous years, was responsible for the packed house which greeted the artists last night. Early in the evening the crowds began to gather, and when the T.A.S. orchestra played the opening selection, there was not a vacant seat in the hall.

The programme was one typical of the occasion, and the stage was very becomingly decorated, the background being formed by an immense Irish flag, with the cross of St. George and the Irish emblem, the Harp, on its folds. A profusion of flowers also added to the beautiful appearance which the stage presented. The T.A.S. colours, black and red, were prominent, and nearly all who participated in the programme, wore them on their persons. The programme gave evidence of having been carefully planned, and that its execution, as far as the local talent was concerned, was highly creditable, no one will deny.

Two features of the entertainment which were perhaps the most highly enjoyed, were those of the choruses by the Convent pupils and solos by little Miss Nellie Hallihan. These numbers were enthusiastically applauded, and the audience evidenced its unmistakable appreciation of them.

The T.A.S. is to be congratulated upon the highly successful outcome of their annual event, and the reputation so well earned by former successes was fully sustained in the event given last night.

The first number on the programme which opened after the orchestra had rendered two very pleasing selections was a chorus by about forty Separate school boys, who looked very pretty in white blouses, with green sashes. The chorus, "Hibernia's Champion Saint, all Hail," was sung with a vim and patriotic enthusiasm that was contagious, and pleased the audience thoroughly, so much so in fact that one appearance was not sufficient, and the boys were recalled, rendering as an encore, "Beneath the flag," which, like its predecessor, had a stirring martial air, and like it also was much enjoyed. The boys did themselves and those who trained them, credit, and in their marching, which preceded and followed the singing, gave evidence of careful drilling, the effect of which must have been gratifying to those entrusted with this work.

They were trained by the teachers in the Murray street school, to whom a large share of the honour is due.

Miss Mae Clancy was next heard in a vocal solo, "Happy Days," in which her sweet soprano voice was heard to excellent advantage, and that the audience was pleased with her contribution to the programme, was amply evidenced by the heartiness with which all parts of the house demanded an encore, to which she graciously responded.

Mr. Wilson, a Toronto gentleman, was next on the programme. This was Mr. Wilson's first appearance in Peterborough, and while his work gave evidence of cleverness, his selections would have been more highly appreciated had they been in keeping with the day that was being celebrated. His contributions were not of as high an order of merit as those provided by the local talent, and he was somewhat disappointing to the management. Outside of this one feature, the entertainment provided was all that could be desired and it is through no fault of the management that this portion was not what they had been given reason to believe it would be.

The fourth number was a vocal solo by Mr. Mackie, whose selection was "Good-Bye Sweet Day." Mr. Mackie possesses a baritone voice of good range, and his numbers were each heartily encored.

Master Harvey Gahans, the boy violinist, who won popular favour in Peterborough last fall on the occasion of the concert given by a fraternal society, when he was one of the principal artists on the programme, was heard again last night, and it is safe to say that his popularity has not suffered by his work last night. The T.A.S. are to be congratulated upon their enterprise in securing his services again, and in his selections given last night, he met with the same hearty expression of appreciation which characterized his first appearance. Each of his three selections were enthusiastically applauded.

A sacred duet, "Face to Face," sung by Miss Lewis and Mr. Mackie, was the next number, which was highly pleasing to the audience, a fact which was attested to by its hearty reception. A selection by Mr. Wilson closed the first part of the programme.

During the interval between the first and second parts, the orchestra again rendered some pleasing numbers. A chorus, "The Little Minstrels," by about 20 little tots, pupils at the Convent, constituted the first number in the second half of the programme, and too much praise cannot be given the little ladies, who simply took the hearts of the members of the audience by storm. They were all very prettily gowned in white dresses, with red velvet caps, and each wore a bunch of black and red ribbon, the T.A.S. colours. Their singing was very well done, indeed, and the proficiency attained must have represented many weeks of training, by those who had that work in charge. The thunderous applause, which greeted the participants in the chorus, spoke eloquently of the pleasure given by its rendition, and in response a second number was given. The little girls were trained by the Sisters in the Convent, and the results of their work must have been very gratifying to them. A violin solo by Master Gahans followed, which, like his preceding number was fully appreciated.

A quartette, "The Last Rose of Summer," by Misses M. and L. Clancy and Messrs. Mackie and Legg, was next heard and fully enjoyed. The singers' voices blended well, and the selection was a pleasing one.

Little Miss Nellie Hallihan, in a vocal solo, "Will My Soul Pass Thru' Old Ireland," was the next number, and her performance was a distinct credit to herself. She possesses a voice which is sweet and clear, and her words were distinctly heard in every part of the large hall. Added to this was her delightful simplicity of manner, which captivated her audience. She was made the recipient of a handsome bouquet of flowers, and in answer to a demand for an encore responded pleasingly with a doll song.

A contribution by Mr. Wilson, and the National Anthem closed the programme and the general opinion of those who were present was that a highly enjoyable evening had been spent. The accompanists of the evening were Miss McCabe and Miss Lewis, both of whom performed their duties remarkably well.

RAILWAY CASE AT THE POLICE COURT.

C. P. R. was Fined $1 for Obstructing the Sidewalk.

At the police court this morning two hours were taken up in the case against the C.P.R. for the obstruction of the sidewalk on George street, where that line intersects the thoroughfare. The informant, Mr. LePlante, deposed that on the 10th inst. the six-foot sidewalk was obstructed by some cars placed on the siding for the purpose of being unloaded. These obstructions are a daily occurrence, according to witnesses' testimony, and greatly incommode pedestrians. The cars were across the sidewalk for more than 5 minutes, the time allowed by law. Three other witnesses were also examined.

Police Magistrate Dumble adjudged there had been a breach of the law, and although but a slight one, he was going to impose a nominal fine as a warning. He commented strongly on these practices of both the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific Railways, and dwelt on the inconvenience to citizens. Judgment of $1 and $3.05 costs.

If, as is claimed, whiskey improves with age, then the longer a man lets it alone the better it is for him. And so it was with William Wilson, who admitted to His Worship that he had been on a three days' "drunk." Judgment was reserved until to-morrow morning.

MARCH 17TH CONCERT WAS A GREAT SUCCESS.

Delightful Affair in St. Andrew's Church Last Night.

Miss O'Neill, Elocutionist, Made a Marked Success An Excellent Programme and a Large Audience.

For many years' past the anniversary of St. Patrick's birthday has been observed by some sort of an entertainment held in the Sunday school of t. Andrew's church, and in the past concerts of undeniable merit, which were not only a credit to the promoters, but to the church generally, have been held. But admitting that these pleasant events have been successful, there is no hesitancy in saying that the concert last night, in point of the merit of the programme and the large attendance, totally eclipsed all previous efforts. Never before has there been such an encouraging attendance as there was last night, and this alone should act as a spur to the promoters to attempt next year to outshine even last night's delightful affair. While the attendance last night was larger than was expected, the programme, also, was far above the expectations of the audience. Of the many contributors to the pleasure of the evening, and no reflection is in the slightest degree cast upon the others, for they were all excellent, Miss O'Neil the elocutionist, made the most pronounced impression upon the minds of the audience, who demanded encores to every one of her selections, without exception, and on each occasion her encores were received with deafening applause. Miss O'Neil is not unknown to Peterborough audiences, but never before, in this town, has she received so rousing a reception. The audience was ecstatic in the extreme and in this paid Miss O'Neil one of the greatest compliments she has ever received. The other selections were greatly admired, especially those of Mr. Young and Miss Florence Miller.

The programme was opened by a duet by Mrs. Kerr and Miss VanEvery whose creditable efforts, judging from the hearty reception with which they met, were highly appreciated.

Rev. J. G Potter, who officiated as chairman during the evening, took the opportunity at this juncture, to address the audience. His introductory remarks were expressive of pleasure at seeing so many present, honouring the feast of Ireland's great National Saint. He shortly sketched out the programme, giving the various contributors words of commendation. In conclusion he called upon Mr. Young for a solo.

Mr. Young is a new and valuable addition to the musical fraternity of the town, he being the new leader of St. Andrew's choir. The name of his selection was, "The Rose, My Life," which he rendered in a very captivating manner. Mr. Young ha a clear mellow voice, of considerable range and power, and it will be with pleasure that he will be heard again. The audience applauded most enthusiastically but the chairman informed those present that Mr. Young would be heard again before the end of the programme.

Miss O'Neil's first selection "Biddy's Troubles," followed, and created uproars of laughter, the selection being a most humorous one, relating the troubles of Biddy, an Irish servant girl, in service in America. Miss O'Neill's character imitation was excellent, and she graciously replied to an encore.

Miss King was the next contributor her selection being a vocal solo, "The Minstrel Boy," a well known air, which she sang with success.

Another reading from Miss O'Neill, "The Bridge of Sighs," evidently touched the hearts of the audience, who demanded and were fortunate enough to be favoured with an encore.

A vocal solo, "Rory Darlin'," by Miss Florence Miller was greatly appreciated, and at its conclusion was enthusiastically applauded. Comment on Miss Miller's singing is superfluous — it is too well known for that.

A violin solo, "Alexis," by Miss Ruby M. Jolliffe, was excellently translated. Miss Jolliffe has a decided talent, and it was evident by her selection that she had a power over her delicate instrument to a noticeable degree.

Miss O'Neill's reading, "A Base-Ball Game," was encored, the artiste giving a most humorous skit on a child's first song.

"There's a Land," a vocal solo by Mr. Young, was greatly admired, and was followed by a selection by Miss Miller, "Sing Me to Sleep," in which she scored as equally great success to that in her former number.

Miss O'Neill's last number was "Peter Patrick," and Mr. Young brought the programme to a close with a vocal selection, "The Arab's Ride."

A vote of thanks was then tendered the various contributors and the chairman, and the entertainment was concluded by the audience singing the National Anthem.

NEW SPRING STYLES AT MISS DELANEY'S.

Beautiful Millinery — Handsome Showing of Fashions-Latest Whims.

"The most stylish millinery in town," was the complimentary expression of a fashionable lady yesterday, after an inspection of Miss Delaney's new styles. It would be an almost impossible task to picture in better words the wealth of beauty and exclusiveness which are shown in spring's smartest modes, at this store. To appreciate the exclusive styles in models of pattern hats, "my lady" must see for herself. The daintily trimmed ready-to-wear hats, which will be the principal favourites for Easter, are distinctive in style and very attractive. No matter how high you place your fashion ideals, nor how exacting your ideas, Miss Delaney's swell selections will meet them in a gratifying manner. The New York patterns are right up to the New York styles, but are one half less in price. The display is worthy of Peterborough's growing importance, as well as being a feast for winter-tired eyes and all who appreciate what clever brains can conceive in designing artistic headgear. The reputation which Miss Miss Delaney enjoys for first-class work is being worthily sustained by new skilled trimmers from the city.

Miss Delaney's formal spring opening days will be Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 24th, 25th and 26th. At these special receptions the ladies are cordially invited to be present, as they will more forcibly illustrate the grandeur of Miss Delany's preparations for this spring's business.

HIGH CONSTABLE HAD COMPASSION.

And Although He Drove Sixty Miles to Make an Arrest, the Accused Still Free.

A DEPLORABLE CONDITION.

Mr. Cochrane and Mr. Moore Found the Man Wanted, with Wife and Family and Had to Haul Fodder for His Stock Four Miles on Hand Sleigh The Arrest Not Made—Leniency Appreciated.

Mr. George Cochrane, the High County Constable, and Mr. Archie Moore, had an experience this week which neither wish to have repeated. It became their duty to execute a warrant for the arrest of a man in Galway, charged with assault upon a Boy, and in the fulfillment of their duty they passed through a great many hardships. They left here on Wednesday afternoon on their 120 mile drive, and that night stopped at a house eighteen miles the other side of Bobcaygeon, after experiencing considerable difficulty in reaching there. Mr. Cochrane states that the quantity of snow in the north country is something terrible. He had no idea it would be as bad as he found it it to be, and persons who have not gone over the roads cannot imagine their condition. They frequently had to unhitch their team from the sleigh to enable another rig to pass, and the snow has formed such a crust that once a horse gets off the road it is in great danger of being badly cut by the frozen snow.

They again started bright and early yesterday morning and reached their destination before noon. But the condition of things that Mr. Cochrane found moved his heart, and indeed would have moved a heart harder than that of the High Constable, who, although in his private life is one of the most kindly disposed men, is fearless and uncompromising when dealing with criminals. The man whom the constables sought was not at home, but was only a short distance away, and could have been secured had Mr. Cochrane been so disposed, but the condition in which he found affairs to be so impressed him, that he left without making the arrest. The man he sought was a married man with a family, none too well circumstanced. The husband was the only man around the place, which is a small farm. He found cattle and horses in the barnyard, for which the owner had not a bite of fodder on the farm, and the little they were given to keep life in their bodies until the long-looked-for spring should come, was hauled by the man on a hand sleigh from a marsh four miles distant. This had been the condition of things for weeks, and with no prospect of the stock being able to pick their living out of doors for a month or six weeks yet, the outlook is indeed one not at all pleasing. Mr. Cochrane knew that to execute the warrant which he held in his pocket, would mean great hardship to the wife and family of the man, and probably death to his little stock, and the High Constable's compassion prevailed, and the arrest was not made. He had a conversation with the man's wife, in which he said, "I have a warrant in my possession for the arrest of your husband, on a serious charge, but I am not going to execute it to-day. I know that to take him away from you and your little family, while the conditions are such as I see them now, would be to work a hardship upon you, but I want him to come in to Peterborough next Thursday and give himself up. This will give him time to make what arrangements may be necessary to take care of his stock and family during the absence, which will necessarily ensue."

The woman, who, while feeling very badly over the fact that her husband was to be arrested, tearfully expressed her gratitude to Mr. Cochrane for his kindness in exercising the leniency that he did, and she promised to deliver the message to her husband on his return. The High Constable warned her that unless the man came to Peterborough and gave himself up, as he directed, he would come out again and arrest him. And the wife assured him that the instructions would be complied with. The kindness of Mr. Cochrane in thus giving the man an opportunity to leave his family in circumstances in which they could help themselves, was certainly commendable. He was 60 miles from home, and had travelled over a road, the like of which he had never seen before, and had only the woman's word that her husband would come to Peterborough and give himself up, and in case he failed to do this, the journey would have to be gone over again, probably on roads which would be even worse than the condition in which he found them yesterday. As it was he had a 120 mile drive for nothing, when, by the exercise of his authority, he might have secured his man. His kindness will commend itself to all humanely dispositioned persons.

The position of the farmers in the north country, Mr. Cochrane describes as being in some cases deplorable. Many have no feed for their cattle and horses, and have to travel long distances to swamps and bush to get marsh grass or saplings for their stock. Unless spring comes soon great hardship will be experienced.

ATHLETICS FAVOUR AMALGAMATION.

Have Been of the Opinion that Only One Team Should Represent Peterborough.

The suggestion contained in the letter from Mr. Kenner, in last night's issue of the Examiner, to the effect that an amalgamation of the Athletic and T. A. S. Lacrosse clubs be formed, is a good one, and in conversation with a number of the players on the Athletic team, it is learned that, as far as that team is concerned, the proposal is one into which they would enter with willingness. In fact they have for the last two seasons entertained the same wish.

As far as can be learned, the players on the two teams have only the kindliest feelings for each other and from the players' standpoint there is no visible objection to the carrying out of the plan which has been considered by them during recent seasons.

SUTCLIFFES WON BY THREE TO ONE.

In the Return Game with Richard Hall and Sons.

The Examiner has been requested to publish the following report of a hockey game: The finest game of hockey played here this winter was played last night when J. Sutcliffe & Sons' team and Richard Hall & Son's team came together in their second game, which resulted in a victory for Sutcliffe's fast seven by 3 goals to 1. The game was clean and fast throughout, only one man decorating the fence half a minute for slashing. Gerald McFadden, in goal, played an excellent game, stopping numerous hot shots. He, with J. Kearns at point, and G. Kearns at cover point, made a strong defence, while Miller, Hopkins, Duncan and Crane also played well. George Kearns, by a pretty piece of individual work, carried the puck through the crowd twice and scored, while Charley Crane landed the third goal in the nets, Hall's team scoring only once. The teams were as follows:

THE LIFE AND WORK OF CONSUL BOOTH-TUCKER.

Interesting Lecture in the Salvation Army Barracks Last Night.

"The Life and Labours of Consul Booth-Tucker," was the title of an illustrated lecture given in the Salvation Army barracks last night by Brigadier Pickering of Toronto. The room was crowded to the doors, notwithstanding the many counter attractions. Rev. J. A. Wilson, assistant pastor of St. Paul's, occupied the chair. The meeting was appropriately opened by devotional exercises, Brigadier Turner of Montreal, leading in prayer.

The chairman then made a short introductory speech in which he referred in most eulogistic terms to the late Consul Booth-Tucker. Brigadier Pickering spoke for more than two hours in a clear, attractive voice and throughout the whole time held his audience almost spell-bound. He spoke of the noble life of the deceased, and her glorious work, and told the story of the railway wreck in which she lost her life. At the conclusion of the lecture a number of moving pictures were shown, among which was the burial of the great, Salvationist of whom the Brigadier had spoken.

Captain Russell of the Red Knights, sang several selections during the evening, which were greatly appreciated.

To-night views of the work of the Salvation Army in the Boer war will be shown by Brigadier Pickering.

THE BRIDAL NECKLET.

Hindoo Girls Betrothed With a Thali Instead of a Ring.

In many parts of India Hindoo girls are wedded, not with a ring, but with a necklet or thali. At the wedding of the daughter of a leading native at Moulmein there were present among the numerous guests a Hindoo maiden and her lover, whose suit had not so far progressed to his satisfaction, says The London Daily Telegraph. While the wedding ceremony was in progress, the young man suddenly went up to her, and before any one suspected what his object was, pulled out a thali from his pocket, and quietly tied it round her neck. Of course there was a hubbub and parental lamentations over this episode, but so great is the veneration for the thali among Hindoos that no one dared to remove it from the neck of the astonished maiden. All concerned, therefore, repaired to the Marriamme Temple, where the act was ratified, and the maid who went to the wedding of her friend fancy free left the scene as the legal wife of a bold and successful husband. A correspondent writing to The Pioneer on the general use of the thali says:

"I was the guest of a Christian family of position in South India which had so far departed from the ordinary rule which prevents women from appearing before strangers that the mistress of the house had deputed her young daughter-in-law to represent her as hostess. The young lady was profusely decked with jewelry some of which was unique in its nature, and she had not the slightest objection to its being admired. At dinner I was suddenly struck with the absence of the wedding ring from her finger, and on my asking her the reason she shyly pointed to her neck. This seemed somewhat strange, but I thought that probably for some reason she had attached the ring to the chain she was wearing round her neck. I could, however, see no trace of it, and felt somewhat puzzled till her husband explained that no wedding ring is used on the occasion of a marriage, but for it is substituted the thali, to which my hostess had drawn my attention."

Among the Dravidians of South India the thali plays the same part as the wedding ring among the Christians in other parts of the world. No marriage can be solemnized without it. It is a small piece of gold leaf in the shape of a cucumber seed which is attached to a necklet of worsted thread or silk. The Brahmins, who celebrate their marriage according to Vedic rites, have adopted its use, and after the sacred fire is prepared and worshiped with oblations of ghee, the blessings of the gods are invoked, and the thali is tied round the neck of the bride by the bridegroom, and then the couple go round the sacred fire. The Mohammetan converts, like the Christians, find it hard to give up this little jewel, with its happy associations, and it may be seen adorning the necks of their womankind. But, though the thali is an indication that a girl is married, I found, much to my surprise, that in some instances it did not necessarily imply that she was the wife of any particular individual. Within the precincts of the temple I once met an attractive-looking woman, dressed very gracefully and decently, and amid the rich jewelry with which she was adorned the thali was displayed somewhat obtrusively. I took her to be the member of some highly respectable family, but was surprised to learn that she was a devadassi (handmaiden of the god), and was, in fact, a dancing girl attached to the temple. There is a special caste of these women, who, as soon as they grow out of girlhood, are taken to the temple, and, with much ceremonial, formally married to a sword or a god, the thali being tied round their necks by some man of the caste. This class is sometimes recruited from girls belonging to the Boyas, Bedawus, and certain other castes, who, in the absence of male issue, dedicate a daughter to some deity, who, they believe, will give them sons.

How to Grow Ugly.

The natives of the upper Zambezi have a most disfiguring habit of removing the upper front teeth at the ages of from ten to twelve years. The only reason for following such an absurd and barbarous practice is that by so doing they imitate their oxen, which they look upon as sacred, and also are unlike the zebra, or quagga, which they view in a less favorable light, hating them with an intensity based on some hereditary tradition. The women pierce their upper lip to insert a stud or a small piece of ivory, which as they grow older is increased in size. They smear their hair with ocher and clay, training it out in numerous pigtails about two inches long. These are encouraged and lubricated by the fat of oxen, which is especially favored if rancid. In fact, they lose no conceivable opportunity of making themselves grotesque and hideous as possible.—Golden Penny.

New Use of Steam.

A revolution in the use of steam power is at hand—that is, if the hopes of Mr. Peter Thornley, a Burton-on-Trent engineer, are realized. Mr. Thornley has just completed a working model of a motor almost small enough to be carried in a typewriter case, which is said to be capable of developing 1,500 revolutions a minute and giving 15 horse-power, and it is claimed that the development of his invention may result in express railway engines running at twice the present speed at only half the cost, and in liners crossing the Atlantic in three days. All this apparently is to be accomplished by greater economy in the use of steam. A ton of coal, says Mr. Thornley, will produce as much power with his engine as eight tons with existing types. It sounds as remarkable that the expert tests announced as shortly to be made will be awaited with interest.

GLAMIS CASTLE.

Secret of Hidden Room Never Disclosed —A Semi-Human Monster.

The death on Feb. 16 of Lord Strathmore has revived the story of the mystery that always surrounded Glamis Castle, in Forfarshire, one of the seats of the Strathmore family. That some weird secret exists there is not doubted.

Many times curious things happened when guests were staying there. One wet afternoon, when a party of guests were in the hall, His Lordship suddenly appeared and said: "I want to ask all of you to go to your rooms at once and stay there till the bell rings." All hurried off, and reassembled twenty minutes later when they heard the bell, but no one made any remarks, knowing the existence of the mystery.

Once an enquirer was curious to know what was in the secret chamber, and the late Earl replied: "If you should guess even the nature of this secret you would go down on your knees and thank God that you were ignorant of it."

One Lady Strathmore tried to locate the chamber by sending some one to every room to hang a towel out of the window. On one casement no towel was displayed, but no means of gaining access to the hidden room could be discovered.

On one occasion a young doctor, who was staying in the castle professionally, found on returning to his bed-room that the carpet had been taken up and relaid. He noticed that the mark of the carpet was different at one end of the room. By moving the furniture and raising the carpet he laid bare a trap door, which he forced open and found himself in a passage. This passage ended in a cemented wall. The cement was still soft, leaving the impress of a finger. He returned to his room, and next morning received an envelope containing a cheque for his services, with the intimation that the carriage was ready to take him to the station for the first train.

The secret of the castle is known only to three persons at a time, the holder of the title, the heir when he becomes of age, and the Earl's factor or agent. The secret has never leaked out. The favorite legend of the country folks regarding the mystery is that there is in existence some semi-human monster, born in the family, which is still living after centuries.

He Took It Quietly.

John Morley in his life of Gladstone tells how the latter received his first invitation from Queen Victoria to form a ministry. It was in 1868. He writes: "On the afternoon of Dec. 1 he received at Hawarden the communication from Windsor. 'I was standing by him,' says Mr. Evelyn Ashley, 'holding his coat on my arm while he in his shirt sleeves was wielding an axe to cut down a tree. Up came a telegraph messenger. He took the telegram, opened it and read it, then handed it to me, speaking only two words. 'Very significant,' and at once resumed his work. The message merely stated that General Grey would arrive that evening from Windsor. This of course implied that a mandate was coming from the Queen charging Mr. Gladstone with the formation of his first Government. After a few minutes the blows ceased, and Mr. Gladstone, resting on the handle of his axe, looked up and, with deep earnestness in his voice and with great intensity in his face, exclaimed, 'My mission is to pacify Ireland.' He then resumed his task and never said another word till the tree was down.'"

Has Many Climates.

Perhaps no portion of the world of the same area is better favored than New South Wales, with its varied climates and soils, for the production of fruits, vegetables and flowers. It is really surprising how great a variety can be grown to perfection, and at a minimum expenditure of labor. Exotics from cold, temperate, and even tropical countries thrive equally well within the limits of this comparatively small area; and still more remarkable is the fact that so many of these plants from different climates will grow side by side in many favored localities. With all the advantages it seems strange that comparatively little attention should be devoted to the raising of vegetables for home use, or the cultivation of flowering and ornamental plants for the adornment of the homes of the settlers in the country districts.

SELF-MADE MEN.

Notable Instances in Modern Times in Great Britain.

We hear so much of American captains of industry, of John D. Rockefeller, the farm laborer's son; of Edison, the newspaper boy, and of Herkes, the youthful soap jobber, that we are apt to forget British giants of perseverance. Livingstone worked as a factory hand until twenty-five. The man who sought and found him in the wilds was born in a workhouse. The great firm of W. H. Smith & Sons was begun by two brothers so poor that the wife of one had to go into domestic service. The house of Tangye began in a little workshop whose rent was but 1 shillings a week. That of Lever Bros. had a scarcely more pretensions start at Bolton. A coffee stall on a London curb was the fount and origin of Pearce & Plenty. Seven hundred pounds sterling once formed the total capital of the "universal" Whiteley. Bass' brewery was founded by a carrier and the Elder-Dempster line of steamers by a ship's apprentice, now Sir Alfred Jones. The inventor of Bessemer steel was once a poor, almost starving boy in London, the poorer for having devoted his labor to an invention of whose profits the Government robbed him. So one might go on throughout the whole range of our industries. It is the sergeant and the plain constable of life's affairs who have made this nation industrially great and carried its flag and fame to the ends of the earth.—St. James Gazette.

The Colonel's Lameness Grew.

In a certain skirmish a Colonel ——— (general he came to call himself) got a slight scratch on his leg. The wound was a matter of great glory to him, and he nursed it through after days, growing lamer with every year, that the memory of his bravery might be ever near him.

One day, late in his life, as he sat nursing his leg and pondering the glorious past, a young man, visiting the family for the first time, approached and sympathetically remarked:

"Lame, general?"

"Yes, sir," after a pause, and with inexpressible solemnity, "I am lame."

"Been riding, sir?"

"No," with rebuking sternness, "I have not been riding."

"Ah! Slipped on the ice, general?"

"No, sir," with actual ferocity.

"Perhaps, then, you have sprained your ankle, sir?"

With a painful slowness the old man lifted his pet leg in both hands, set it carefully on the floor, rose slowly from his chair, and, looking down upon the unfortunate youth with mingled pity and wrath, burst forth in the sublimity of rage:

"Go read the history of your country, you puppy!"—London Tit-Bits.

Art and Sir John's Trousers.

"Idealism? Sense of the picturesque? Fiddlesticks!" declared Mr. George Wade, an exceptionally talented English sculptor, pausing in his work of modelling a full-length statue of a recently deceased statesman. "Unless art in portraiture possess a rigid fidelity, it is not in my humble judgment, worth the cost of the stone or bronze necessary to evolve it. Idealism—that is the cry of the sculptor who is deficient—who is dependent rather upon the resources of a departed school than of himself. Why, should a sculptor seek to be otherwise than faithful, even to the buttons on the waistcoat of his subject? To cite an instance, some time ago Sir Charles Tupper viewing my first model for the Macdonald statue, observed: 'I see you have buttoned only a single button of Sir John's coat. I never remembered seeing my friend's coat not entirely buttoned. It was one of his characteristics.' When my visitor left I destroyed the old, and commenced a new model." . . . But to enforce our point, in spite even of the eloquent utterance of Mr. Wade, we, who were privileged to have seen Sir John Macdonald in the flesh, assert positively that we never saw that flesh draped in such trousers. The fact is, certain men never wore such trousers. With one or two exceptions the trousers presented in the course of this article—examples collated with no little care—are artistic trousers, trousers of art, and never intended to be the trousers of Reality, because the trousers of Reality, either express too much or too little, or express something entirely in dissonance with the sculptor's idea of the character he is modelling. — Ronald Graham on Trousers in Sculpture, in The Strand Magazine.

Saved His Friend.

This little story is told of two Scotch laddies who, while fishing in strictly preserved water, for which only one was provided with a permit, were suddenly confronted by the bailiff. One of them quickly collected his tackle and ran his might across the field, the bailiff in quick pursuit. After covering a large tract of country the angler sat down completely exhausted and awaited the panting and enraged pursuer.

"Do you know that you should not fish in that water without permission?" asked the irate man.

"Yes," said the lad, "but I have permission. I've got an order."

"What made you run then, you young scoundrel?"

"Oh, just to let the other lad away—he hadn't got one."

A Sudden Stroke Of Paralysis.

Only Results After Months or Years of Nervous Exhaustion There are Alway's Symptoms to Give Timely Warning.

It is a great mistake to imagine that persons of robust health and good vitality are suddenly seized with paralysis.

All nervous diseases are slow in coming on, and for this reason the victim often odes not realize his danger until overtaken by prostration or paralysis.

Loss of interest in life, sleeplessness, irritability, failure of memory, inability to concentrate the mind, muscular weakness, indigestion, headache, twitching of the nerves, feelings of depression and despondency are among the symptoms which tell of an exhausted nervous system and the approach of paralysis.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food stops the wasting process by which the nerve cells are being destroyed, and by forming new rich blood, and creating new nerve force positively and permanently restores the nervous system.

There is no other way in this world by which nervous exhaustion can be overcome and prostration and paralysis prevented.

Stimulants and narcotics merely hasten collapse. Restorative treatment is necessary.

The process of reconstruction is necessarily gradual, but you can be absolutely certain that every dose of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is doing you lasting good.

It is your duty to study your symptoms and prevent the dreadful results of neglected nervous diseases.

Mrs. M. A. Sharp, 316 Dublin street, Peterborough, Ont., states: — "For some years I was troubled with indigestion which developed into nervous dyspepsia and besides suffering from nervousness, strange dizzy spells would come over me. Hearing of the good results obtained from Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I decided to try it. After a pretty thorough test of this medicine I can say that I never used anything that did me so much good. It seemed to be the very treatment that I needed and as a result of the use I am quite restored to health."

BY MARY J. HOLMES,

CHAPTER XLX.

For three weeks Katy had been at the Mountain House, growing stronger every day, until she was much like the Katy of one year ago. But their stay among the Catskills was ended, and on the morrow they were going to Saratoga, where Mrs. Cameron and her daughters were, and where, too, was Sybil Grandon, the reigning belle of the United States. So Bell had written to her brother, bidding him to hasten on with Katy, as she wished to see "that chit of a widow in her proper place." And Katy had been weak enough for a moment to feel a little throb of satisfaction in knowing how effectually Sybil's claims to belle-ship would be put aside when she was once in the field; even glancing at herself in the mirror as she leaned on Wilford's shoulder, and feeling glad that mountain air and mountain exercise had brought the roses back to her white cheeks and the brightness to her eyes. But Katy wept passionate tears of repentance for that weakness, when an hour later she read the letter which Dr. Grant had sent in answer to one she had written from the Mountain House, confessing her short-comings, and lamenting that the evils and excesses which shocked her once did not startle her now. To this letter Morris had replied as a brother might write to an only sister, first expressing pleasure at her happiness, and then reminding her of that other life to which this is only a preparation, and beseeching her so to use the good things of this world, given her in such profusion, as not to lose the life eternal.

This was the substance of Morris's letter which Katy read with streaming eyes, forgetting Saratoga as Morris's solemn words of warning and admonition rang in her ears, and shuddering as she thought of losing the life eternal, of going where Morris would never come, nor any of those she loved the best, unless it were Wilford, who might reproach her with having dragged him there when she could have saved him.

"Keep yourself unspotted from the world," Morris had said, and she repeated it to herself, asking "how shall I do that? how can one be good and fashionable too?"

Then laying her head upon the rock where she was sitting, Katy tried to pray as she had not prayed in months asking that God would teach her what she ought to know and keep her unspotted from the world. But at the Mountain House it is easier to pray that one be kept from temptation than it is at Saratoga, which this summer was crowded to overflowing, its streets presenting a fitting picture of Vanity Fair, so full were they of show and gala dress. At the United States, where Mrs. Cameron stopped, two rooms, for which an enormous price was paid, had been reserved for Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Cameron, and this of itself would have given them a certain eclat, even if there had not been present many who remembered the proud, fastidious bachelor, and were proportionately anxious to see his wife. She came, she saw, she conquered; and within three days after her arrival Katy Cameron was the acknowledged belle of Saratoga, from the United States to the Clarendon. And Katy, alas, was not quite the same as she who on the mountain ridge had sat with Morris's letter in her hand, praying that its teachings might not be forgotten. Saratoga seemed different from New York, and she plunged into its gaieties, never pausing, never tiring, and seldom giving herself time to think, much less to pray, as Morris had bidden her do. And Wilford, though hardly able to recognize the usually timid Katy in the brilliant woman who led rather than followed, was sure of her faith to him, and so was only proud and gratified to see her bear off the palm from every competitor, while Juno, though she quarreled with the shadow into which she was so completely thrown, enjoyed the eclat cast upon their party by the presence of Mrs. Wilford, who had passed beyond her criticism. Sybil Grandon, too, stood back in wonder that a simple country girl should win and wear the laurels she had so long claimed as her own; but as there was no help for it she contented herself as best she could with the admiration she did receive, and whenever opportunity occurred, said bitter things of Mrs. Wilford, whose parentage and low estate were through her pretty generally known. But it did not matter there what Katy had been; the people took her for what she was now, and Sybil's glory faded like the early dawn in the coming of the full day.

As it had been at Saratoga, so it was at Newport. Urged on by Mrs. Cameron and Bell, who enjoyed her notoriety, Katy plunged into the mad excitement of dancing and driving and coquetting, until Wilford himself became uneasy, locking her once in her room, where she was sleeping after dinner, and conveniently forgetting to release her until after the departure at evening of some young men from Cambridge, whose attentions to the Ocean House belle had been more strongly marked than was altogether agreeable to him. Of course it was a mistake—the locking of the door—and a great oversight in him not to have remembered it sooner, he said to Katy, by way of apology; and Katy, with no suspicion of the truth, laughed merrily at the joke repeating it down stairs to the old dowagers, who shrugged their shoulders meaningly and whispered to each other that it might be well if more young wives were locked into their rooms and thus kept out of mischief.

Though flattered, caressed, and admired, Katy was not doing herself much credit at Newport; but save Wilford, there was no one to raise a warning voice, until Mark Ray came down for a few days' respite from the heated city, where he had spent the entire summer, taking charge of the business which belonged as much to Wilford as to himself. But Wilford had a wife; it was more necessary that he should leave, Mark had argued; his time would come by and by. And so he had remained at home until the last of August, when he appeared suddenly at the Ocean House one night when Katy, in her fairy robes and child-like simplicity, was breaking hearts by the score. Like others, Mark was charmed, and not a little proud for Katy's sake, to see her thus appreciated; but when one day's experience had shown him more, and given him a look behind the scenes, he trembled for her, knowing how hard it would be for her to come out of that sea of dissipation as pure and spotless as she went in.

"If I were her brother I would warn her that her present career is not one upon which she will look back with pleasure when the excitement is over," he said to himself; "but if Wilford is satisfied it is not for me to interfere. It is surely nothing to me what Katy Cameron does," he kept repeating to himself, but as often as he said it there came up before him a pale, anxious face, shaded with Helen Lennox's bands of hair, and Helen Lennox's voice whispered to him: "Save Katy; for my sake," and so next day, when Mark found himself alone with Katy, while most of the guests were at the beach, he questioned her of her life at Saratoga and Newport, and gradually, as he talked, there crept into Katy's heart a suspicion that he was not pleased with her account, or with what he had seen of her since his arrival.

For a moment Katy was indignant but when he said to her kindly: "Would Helen be pleased?" her tears started at once, and she attempted an excuse for her weak folly, accusing Sybil Grandon as the first cause of the ambition for which she hated herself.

"She had been held up as my pattern," she said, half bitterly, and forgetting to whom she was talking—"she, the one whom I was to imitate; and when I found that I could go beyond her, I yielded to the temptation, and exulted to see how far she was left behind. Besides that," she continued, "is it no gratification, think you, to let Wilford's proud mother and sister see the poor country girl, whom ordinarily they would despise, stand where they cannot come, and even dictate to them if she chooses so to do? I know it is wrong—I know it is wicked—but I like the excitement, and so long as I am with these people I shall never be any better. Mark Ray, you don't know what it is to be surrounded by a set who care for nothing but fashion and display, and how they may outdo each other. I hate New York society. There is nothing there but husks."

Katy's tears had ceased, and on her white face there was a new look of womanhood, as if in that outburst she had changed, and would never again be just what she was before.

"Not always—not wholly," Mark answered, "and still you misjudge it greatly, for all are not like the people you describe. Your husband's family represent one extreme, while there are others equally high in the social scale who do not make fashion the rule of their lives—sensible, cultivated, intellectual people, of whose acquaintance one might be glad—people whom I fancy your sister Helen would enjoy. I have only met her twice, but my impression is that she would not find New York distasteful."

Mark did not know why he had dragged Helen into that conversation, unless it were that she seemed very near to him as he talked with Katy, who replied:

"Yes, Helen finds good in all. She sees differently from what I do, and I wish so much that she was here."

"Why not send for her?" Mark asked, casting about in his mind whether in case Helen came, he, too, could tarry for a week and leave that business in Southbridge, which he must attend to ere returning to the city.

It would be a study to watch Helen Lennox there at Newport, and in imagination Mark was already her sworn knight, shielding her from criticism, and commanding for her respect from those who respected him when Katy tore his castle down by answering impulsively.

"I doubt if Wilford would let me send for her, nor does it matter, as I shall not remain much longer. I do not need her now, since you have shown me how foolish I have been. I was angry at first, but now I thank you for it, and so will Helen. I shall tell her when I am in Silverton. I am going there from here, and oh, I so wish it was to-day."

The guests were beginning to return from the beach by this time, and as Mark had said all he had intended saying, he left Katy with Wilford, who had just come in and joined a merry party of Bostonians only that day arrived. That night at the Ocean House the guests missed something from their festivities; the dance was not so exhilirating or the small-talk between so lively, while more than one white-kidded dandy swore mentally at the innocent Wilford, whose wife declined to join in the gaieties, and in a plain white muslin, with only a pond lily in her hair, kept by her husband's side, notwithstanding that he bade her leave him and accept some of her numerous invitations to join the giddy dance. This sober phase of Katy did not on the whole please Wilford as much as her gayer ones had done. All he had ever dreamed of the sensation his bride would create was more than verified. Katy had fulfilled his highest expectations, reaching a point from which, as she had said to Mark, she could dictate to his mother, if she chose, and he did not care to see he relinquish it.

But Katy remained true to herself. Dropping her girlish playfulness, she assumed a quiet, gentle dignity which became her even better than her gayer mood had done, making her ten times more popular and more sought after, until she begged to go away, persuading Wilford at last to name the day for their departure, and then, never doubting for a moment that her destination was Silverton, she wrote to Helen that she should be home on such a day, and as they would come by way of Providence and Worcester, they would probably reach West Silverton at ten o'clock, a.m.

"Wilford," she added in a postscript, "has gone down to bathe, and as the mail is just closing, I shall send this letter without his seeing it. Of course it can make no difference, for I have talked all summer of coming, and he understands it."

CHAPTER XX.

The last day of summer was dying out in a fierce storm of rain which swept in sheets across the Silverton hills, hiding the pond from view, and beating against the windows of the farm house, whose inmates were nevertheless unmindful of the storm save as they hoped the morrow would prove bright and fair, such as the day should be which brought them back their Katy. Nearly worn out with constant reference was her letter, the mother catching it up from time to time to read the part referring to herself, where Katy had told how blessed it would be "to rest again on mother's bed," just as she had so often wished to do, "and hear mother's voice," the deacon spelling out by his sputtering tallow candle, with its long, smoky wick, what she had said of "darling old Uncle Eph," and the rides into the fields; Aunt Betsy, too, reading mostly from memory the words: "Good old Aunt Betsy, with her skirts so limp and short, tell her she will look handsomer to me than the fairest belle at Newport;" and as often as Aunt Betsy read it she would ejaculate: "The land! what kind of company must the child have kept?" wondering next if Helen had never written of the hoop, for which she paid a dollar, and which was carefully hung in her closet, waiting for the event of to-morrow, while the hem of her pongee had been let down and one breadth gored to accomodate the hoop. On the whole, Aunt Betsy expected to make a stylish appearance before the little lady of whom she stood in awe, always speaking of her to the neighbors as "My niece, Miss Cammen, from New York," and taking good care to report what she had heard of "Miss Cammen's" costly dress and the grandeur of her house, where the furniture of the best chamber cost over fifteen hundred dollars.

"What could it be?" Aunt Betsy had asked in her simplicity, feeling an increased respect for Katy, and consenting the more readily to the change in her pongee, as suggested to her by Helen.

But that was for to-morrow when Katy came; to-night she only wore a dotted brown, whose hem just reached the top of her "bootees," as she went to strain the milk brought in by Uncle Ephraim, while Helen took her position near the window, looking drearily out upon the leaden clouds, and hoping it would brighten before the morrow. Like the others, Helen had read Katy's letter many times, dwelling longest upon the part which said: "I have been so bad, so frivolous and wicked here at Newport, that it will be a relief to make you my confession, depending, as I do, upon your love to grant me absolution."

From a family in Silverton, who had spent a few days at a private house in Newport, Helen had heard something of her sister's life, the lady had seen her once driving a tandem down the avenue, with Wilford at her side giving her instructions. Since then there had been some anxiety felt for her at the farm-house, and more than Dr. Grant had prayed that she might be kept unspotted from the world, but when her letter came, so full of love and self-reproaches, the burden was lifted, and there was nothing to mar the anticipations of the event for which they had made so many preparations, Uncle Ephraim going to the expense of buying at auction a half-worn covered buggy, which he fancied would suit Katy better than the corn-colored wagon in which she used to ride. To pay for this the deacon had parted with the money set aside for the "great coat" he so much needed for the coming winter, his old gray having done him service for fifteen years. But his comfort was nothing compared with Katy's happiness, and so, with his wrinkled face beaming with delight, he had brought home his buggy, putting it carefully in the barn, and saying no one should ride in it till Katy came. With untiring patience the old man mended up his harness, for what he had heard of Katy's driving had impressed him strongly with her powers of horsemanship, and raised her somewhat in his respect. Could he have afforded it Uncle Ephraim in his younger days would have been a horse jockey, and even now he liked nothing better than to make Old Whitey run when alone in the strip of woods between his house and the head of the pond.

"Katy inherits her love of horses from me," he said complacently; and with a view of improving Whitey's style and mettle, he took to feeding him on oats, talking to him at times, and telling him who was coming.

$500 REWARD FOR WOMEN

WHO CANNOT BE CURED.

Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States, for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

They have the most remarkable record of cures made by this world famed remedy ever placed to the credit of any preparation especially designed for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments.

A beautiful Georgia lady, Vice-President of the East End Palmetto Club, of Savannah, and prominent socially there, relates the following experience: "You certainly have produced the finest medicine for suffering women that is to be had in the country. I want to recommend it especially to mothers. I was seventeen years old when my darling boy was born. Felt very exhausted and weak for a long time, and it seemed I could not get my strength back. My sister in-law bought me a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription (after I had tried several of the other remedies which are so much advertised, and found no relief). I had little faith in the medicine at the time and was so weak and sick that I felt discouraged, but within a week after I had commenced taking your 'Prescription' I was like a different woman. New life and vitality seemed to come with each succeeding day, until in a few weeks, I was in fine health, and a happy, hearty woman. My boy is now two years old, and, thanks to your splendid medicine, I am enjoying perfect health. If at any time I feel tired or in need of a tonic, a few doses of your 'Favorite Prescription' recuperates me at once. My address is No. 518 Jones Street, East, Savannah Ga.

WAS TROUBLED WITH PAIN IN HER HEART FOR SIX YEARS.

Expected Her Friends Would Find Her Dead.

MILBURN'S Heart and Nerve Pills.

She tells of her experience in the following letter: "I was troubled with a pain in my heart and weakness for six years. Most of the time I could not lie on my left side. I consulted a doctor but got no relief and was completely discouraged. I did not think I would live long and expected my friends would find me dead. A friend brought me a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and I took them to please her, not thinking they would do me any good. I had not used half the box when I commenced to feel myself getting better and by the time I had taken two boxes I was completely cured and can recommend them to all sufferers from heart trouble."

There is no specific for consumption. The nearest approach to a cure is right living and Scott's Emulsion. No matter what the treatment may be Scott's Emulsion will prove a valuable addition. It has often turned the scale of health the right way. Because Scott's Emulsion contains the pure cod liver oil it furnishes heat and fat. The hypophosphites provide tissue-food, blood-food and marrow-food. The combination of the two represents a wonderful form of nourishment and one that can be readily taken and retained at any stage of the disease. Scott's Emulsion gives best results when used most regularly. Made a part of the consumptive's regular diet it will invariably afford relief. Occasional use of Scott's Emulsion is a test unfair to the Emulsion and the patient.

QUOTATIONS ON THE WALL STREET MARKET.

The Fluctuations of the Leading Stocks

The bull movement in the Wall street market continued this morning and one of the features of the opening was the C.P.R. which opened at 114. M.O.P. too was strong, selling as high as 91 1-2. London came higher, which, together with the prospects of a good bank statement, had a stimulating effect upon the bull contingent. Prices eased off at times but there was a general tendency upwards.

At two o'clock a violent slump occurred in the stock market, caused, no doubt, by the failure of a southern cotton King. Prices fell away from one to two points.

The Roads and the Snow.

Half a dozen newspaper men who had come to town to attend the annual meeting of the Press Association were talking about the severity of the winter, the abundance of snow, and the disorganized train service.

"The train I traveled on," said Mr. Arch. McNee of the Windsor Record, "was delayed for nearly a day at Forest, and we made part of the journey with eight engines pulling the train."

"The train I came on," said Mr. Young of the Rodney Mercury, "was nine hours making fifteen miles between St. Thomas and London, and when I got to Toronto the two-day convention was over."

"In our town," said Mr. D. Williams of the Collingwood Bulletin, "careful measurements have been made of the snowfall this year, and the fall has amounted to 96 inches. If it had not melted and packed down, we would have had eight feet on the level."

"Up in our country," said Mr. W. Ireland of the Parry Sound North Star, "there's too much snow to carry on lumbering operations. Coal is scarce, and wood is hard to get because people can't get it from the bush. Why, if you chop down a tree up there the snow's so deep that the tree just falls down in the snow and is buried clear out of sight, and the chopper won't be able to find it until next spring."—Toronto Star.

LEGISLATORS' AGES.

Physical Age of the Men Who Sit at Toronto and Make Laws for the People of Ontario.

Speaking of young men in politics, the Conservatives have eight under 40 sitting in the Ontario Legislature, and the Liberals only one. Ed. A. Dunlop is the most youthful, being only 27. Dr. Currie, Liberal, comes next, at 34. Macdiarmid of West Elgin, is 35, Hugh Clark 36, Dr. Nesbitt 37, Gamey, Carnegie Downey, Lucas 38. Next to Dunlop, the most youthful appearing member is Lucas. They call him the "boy wonder," because he is beardless and talks wisdom like a Socrates. Kidd of Carleton, is 39. Donald Sutherland and C. M. Bowman, the Liberal whip, just get into the forty section, claiming the even four decades. Hanna comes in at 41. Dr. James is 42, Thompson, McKay, Hislop are 43. The Provincial Secretary is 44. Others of the age are Little of Cardwell, Graham, Gross, Kribs and Tucker. The 45 boys are Powell, Guibord, Carr, and if you add one year to this you get the age of Hendrie, Michaud, Smyth of Algoma, Beck, Brower and Eilber. Then Jamieson is 47, and in company with him are Hon. Frank Latchford, Dr. Routledge, Dr. Reaume and Duff. Those who began life 48 years ago all chose surnames beginning with "P"; Pettypiece, Pyne, J. J. Preston of Durham, and T. H. Preston of Brant. St. John feels like a boy of 19 at 49, and so does Fox. Sam Clarke has been just half a century cracking jokes, and Auld and D. C. Cameron of Fort William, likewise saw the light fifty years ago. Cameron of West Huron, is not above fifty, but his exact age is withheld for strategical reasons. Another who is too young to admit his years is McCart of Cornwall. His neighbor McLeod, the "man from Glengarry," is only 51, and so is Valentine Stock. Hon. E. J. Davis is no more than 52, but looks several years older than Lackner. Pearce is 53, and the Minister of Education, Hon. Richard Harcourt, John Brown and F. E. A. Evanturel are all 54. Quite a number came into the world 55 years ago—Morrison, Reid, Russell, Conmee and Pense. The last named has been running the Kingston Whig for 40 years, so he must have started servin the public at 15. Taylor figures in the 56 list, as do also Foy, Crawford, Truax, Dickenson and Burt, Joynt, Matheson, Lee and Carscallen of Hamilton, are 58. Dr. Willoughby and Richardson are quite well at 59, thank you, while Mr. Whitney is only 60. Dr. Jessop, T. G. Carscallen, Caldwell, Dr. Barr are also of that age. The Attorney-General is 61, and along with him are Holmes, Hoyle and Murphy. Premier Ross has been 62 years with us, while the Speaker is as old, Hon. John Dryden, Pardo and Barber claim to be 63, Gallagher and Davidson are 64. At 66 Little of Norfolk looks like a boy, and at 67 Anderson and Beatty have not yet passed the period of usefulness. The oldest man in the House rejoices in the somewhat odd name of Smith—John Smith of Peel. He is a mere 72. From 27 to 72 is a long stretch in the life of a man. These are the extremes of age in the Parliament of Ontario.

Lord Strathcona's Gifts to McGill.

The announcement of Lord Strathcona's benefaction of $20,000 to Manitoba University brings to mind the extraordinary series of gifts that this princely donor has made to the cause of education. If there be any complete record of these, Lord Strathcona alone possesses it; but the list must total several millions of dollars. The Cambridge College (St. John's), which enrolled him when he took an honorary degree at that University, benefited to the extent of $60,000; and this is but one of many gifts to English institutions. In Canada there is probably not a college of higher learning that has not benefited from his generosity, but his chief interest has always been in McGill University, the University of his adopted city of Montreal. To that University he is known to have given a considerable amount anonymously, and his open benefactions total close on $600,000, of which the following are the particulars:

Subscriptions for current expenses, '81-2	$ 5,000
Subscriptions for current penses, '87-8	3,000
For book purchases	450
For museum	150
Endowment for Pension Fund, 1894	50,000
Endowments for Botany Chair	1,250
For Botanic Garden	362
Sessional Lectures, '91-99	42,000
Donalda Endowment, R. V. C.	120,000
Maintenance, etc., of R.V.C.	175,000
Leanchoil Endowment, Medicine	50,000
Campbell Memorial Endowment	1,500
Chair of Pathology	50,000
Dept. of Hygiene	50,000
Lady Strathcona Endowment, Medicine	50,000
	$599,212

The T. D. King Shakespeare collection, the joint gift to McGill of Lord Strathcona and Sir William C. Macdonald, consists of 214 volumes, and is valued at about $5,000. It is the only gift of Lord Strathcona's to the University which was made in kind.

How to Save Gas Bills.

A man who has a passion for reading out-of-town newspapers and also for answering many of the advertisements he finds in them, tells this on himself. The other day he answered an advertisement in one of the New York papers stating that for $1 a method for saving gas bills would be sent. In two days he received a printed slip by mail which read: "Paste them in a scrapbook."—Toronto Star.

BEREAVEMENT OF REV. A. F. KELLY, P. P

Former Resident of Peterborough Sustains Loss of a Parent.

A special despatch to the Catholic Register from Trout Creek, tells of the death of Mrs. Charles Kelly, mother of Rev. A. F. Kelly, P.P., who is well known in Peterborough, having been for some time a resident at St. Peter's. His Lordship Bishop O'Connor appointed Father Kelly to be parish priest of Trout Creek some years ago. His many friends here will deeply sympathize with him in his bereavement. The Register says:—

"Mrs Charles Kelly, the mother of our beloved pastor, died at Ogdensburg, N.Y., on Friday morning, Feb. 19th, having received the holy sacraments and consolations of Mother Church.

"During her illness she was often visited by the zealous priests of the Cathedral and the kind nuns, and her son, Father Kelly. The funeral cortege left the family residence, 134 Jay street, at 9.30 a.m. Monday morning, Feb. 22nd, and proceeded to St. Mary's Cathedral, where the remains were received by Rev. Father Jas. E. Cole.

"At 10 o'clock Solemn High Mass of Requiem was sung by Rev. A. F. Kelly, son of the deceased, assisted by Very Rev. J. H. Conroy, V.G., as deacon and Rev. Thomas Plunkett as sub-deacon. Rev. Father Fogarty was master of ceremonies. His Lordship Bishop Gabriels occupied his throne, assisted by Rev. C. Burrick and Rev. Jas. E. Cole, and the absolution of the body was performed by His Lordship Bishop Gabriels, assisted by the officers of the mass. After the service the body was again placed in the hearse and the procession proceeded to the Cathedral cemetery, where the body was laid in the mortuary vault. Mrs. Kelly had been a well-known and respected parishioner of St. Mary's parish. Had Mrs. Kelly lived until next birthday, March 16th, she would have reached her 74th year.

Besides her husband, she leaves to mourn her loss one daughter and three sons, Rev. A. F., Kelly, P. P., Trout Creek; Alderman John J. Kelly, Michael P. Kelly, and Miss Mary C. Kelly, who reside at Ogdensburg. One brother and sister survive her, Martin Kelly of Prescott and Mrs. Patrick Heavy, Buffalo, N.Y.

SOMETIMES.

Sometimes the sun shines faintly
Through mist and haze;
Sometimes his light is shaded
For days and days.

Sometimes the raindrops gather
The leaves are still;
But rain and shine together
Perform His will.

Sometimes the tempest lowers—
The storm king raves;
My quaintly moulded flowers
Fall to their graves.

Sometimes the stars are hidden
By leaden skies,
That, folding 'round, unbidden,
Bring tearful eyes.

Sometimes the chill wind, blowing,
Creeps to the heart;
While all the sleet and snowing
Know well their part.

Far worse when faith is shaken
In fellowmen;
When for the good partaken
There comes again
Base envy's arrant arrow,
(The coward's dart)
Used only by the narrow,
Weak, shrivid heart.

And so the recreant water
Where bread was thrown,
Dashing in heartless clatter,
Returns alone!

Through storm and shadows, singing
And trusting still;
With heart and hand still clinging
To principle,
Brave, lofty, eagle spirits
Can toil and wait,
Pressing God-given merits
To Heaven's gate;

Each duty well performing,
As seeing Him,
Invisible, who, yearning
Through ages dim,
For faith and love that look above
The gloom of night,
For motives pure, that can endure
'Till dawns the light—
And comes the right!

A Busy Canadian Dead.

Alexander McGibbon, Inspector of Northwest Indian Agencies, who is dead at Calgary, at the age of 75, was formerly a well-known merchant in Montreal. An energetic Scotchman, he was president of the St. Andrew's Society there, and took part in many public demonstrations. He was in charge of the transport of stores during the Rebellion of 1885, and was for years in the Montreal Field Battery, commanded by Col. A. A. Stevenson. Subsequently he received his permanent appointment in the West from Sir John Macdonald's Government, and has lived there since.

ENGLISHMAN DANDLED THE CZAR ON HIS KNEE

A Famous Minature Painter, Well-Known in Peterborough had That Privilege.

Gerald Sinclair Hayward, of New York, one of the foremost miniature painters in America, is at the Walker House. Mr. Hayward visited Canada two years ago, and executed a number of commissions for well known Canadians. Among the portraits which he then painted were those of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Lady Minto and her children. Mr. Hayward is an Englishman by birth, and before taking up the art of portrait painting he passed through some adventurous experiences. He happened to be visiting in Canada at the time of the Fenian Raid, and he enlisted and went to the border with a Toronto regiment. For this he received the Raid medal from the Government a couple of years ago. Shortly after the Raid he went to the Western States, and there he had a narrow escape from being killed in an Indian massacre. Mr. Hayward has painted several portraits of European royalty, including one of Queen Alexandra. He is probably the only man in America who has ever dandled the present Czar of Russia on his knee, he having painted a minature of the Czar when the latter was three years old.—Mail and Empire.

Mr. Hayward is a brother-in-law of Mrs. Stuart Hayward, town, and is well known in Peterborough.

AN ABSOLUTE NECESSITY.

So Thinks at Least one Travelling Man.

I would as soon think of starting out without my mileage books and grip as to start out on a trip without a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in my valise, said a travelling man who represents a St. Louis hardware house. Why? Because I have to put up at all kinds of hotels and boarding houses. I have to eat good, bad and indifferent food at all hours of the day and night and I don't believe any man's stomach will stand that sort of thing without protest, anyway I know mine won't. It has have something to break the fall and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the crutch I fall back on.

My friends often "josh" me about it, tell me I'm an easy mark for patent medicine fakers, that advertised medicines are humbugs etc., but I notice that they are nearly always complaining of their aches and pains and poor digestion while I can stand most any old kind of fare and feel good and ready for my work when it needs me and I believe I owe my good digestion and sound health to the daily, regular use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, year in and year out, and all the "joshing" in the world will never convince me to the contrary.

I used to have heartburn about three times a day and a headache about three or four times a week and after standing for this for four or five years I began to look around for a crutch and found it when my doctor told me the best investment I could make would be a fifty cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and I have invested about fifty cents a month for them ever since and when I stop to think that that is what I spend every day for cigars, I feel like shaking hands with myself for I can keep my stomach and digestion in first class order for fifty cents a month. I don't care for any better life insurance.

My druggist tells me they are the most popular of all stomach medicines and that they have maintained their popularity and success because they do as advertised. They bring results, and results are what count in a patent medicine as much as in selling barbwire.

WHAT DOES NORTH MONAGHAN GAIN?

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I notice by the report of the proceedings of the North Monaghan council, at its last meeting, published in your daily paper of Wednesday, that Mr. E. Peck, barrister and Warden of the county, appeared before the council, asking a franchise for the Radial Street Railway for Lansdowne and Lock streets and exemption from taxation for twenty years. I am not surprised that Mr. Peck, as a lawyer should appear for the company and ask such privileges, but I confess that I was somewhat surprised to read that the council passed these by-laws granting these privileges in short order.

Now I should like to have some member of the North Monaghan Council explain what advantages the township is to gain in return for surrendering one of its highways and exempting the property of the railway company for 20 long years. Where does the township get value for this liberal concession? I admit that it will perhaps benefit the ratepayers of Peterborough who will have easier access to the boats at the locks, but I can't see where the township comes in for any particular benefit. I am always ready and willing to assist and encourage any project for the good of the township but I am bound to say that I cannot see wherein the township council acted wisely or discreetly in the matter in question.

I could understand the liberality of the council if they would grant right of way for the side of the highway to extend a line of railway through the township to Scott's Corners and by a loop line back to Lock street, or if the township were getting some consideration for a privilege which must be valuable or the street railway would not be so anxious for it. Perhaps some member of our council, or perhaps Mr. Peck, in his capacity of warden and guardian of the interests of the municipalities of the county will furnish the information I ask through your paper.

Yours truly,
QUID PRO QUO.

ALEXIEFF REPORT JAPS KILL A HORSE.

Viceroy Alexieff's Report of a Skirmish Near Anju.

FAIL TO JOIN THEIR FLEETS.

St. Petersburg, March 19.—Under yesterday's date Viceroy Alexieff cables from Mukden as follows:

"Gen. Mishtchento reports that Pingyang is occupied by Japanese infantry with some guns, and that Corean carts are carrying their supplies. The enemy's cavalry is not visible in large bodies, and only isolated horsemen are seen. Their horses are poor.

"Our patrols discovered the presence of the enemy's infantry on the banks of the Cheng Cheng River five verts (about 3 1-3 miles) from Anju. The enemy opened fire and killed one of our horses."

Has Left Port.

Paris, March 19.—The Petit Parisien's St. Petersburg correspondent cables: "I learn from a sure source that the Russian Vladivostock squadron has left port. The officials absolutely refuse to discuss the destination of the squadron. Seventy-two hours have passed since the ships left Vladivostock."

Fail to Join Their Fleets.

London, March 19.—This morning's papers contain vague rumors of unsuccessful attempts of the Port Arthur and Vladivostock squadrons to join hands.

The Standard's Tientsin correspondent says that Paul Lessar, Russian Minister to China, has renewed his protest against the despatch of Chinese forces outside of the Great Wall, and intimated that unless they were withdrawn Russia may be compelled to act on the assumption that China is abandoning her neutrality in favor of Japan.

The Minister is also reported to have renewed his threat that on the slightest movement on China's part Russian troops will march on Pekin.

It is understood that in reply to this, the correspondent says, China refused to recall her troops.

The Newchwang correspondent of The Times, cabling under yesterday's date, asserts that there are no Japanese north of the Yalu River, and that not any of their scouts have been there since the beginning of March. On the other hand, the correspondent says, the Russians are reported to have crossed the Yalu to the north, leaving a small force to guard the river.

Hit By Floating Mine.

St. Petersburg, March 19.—Concerning the loss of the armored cruiser Boyarin at Port Arthur, a private letter received here says the vessel was struck by a floating mine dropped by the Japanese. Naval engineers are preparing to raise the Boyarin, though it is considered doubtful that she will be fit for fighting purposes, as it is feared that the tremendous concussion sustained from the explosion of the floating mine has more than likely strained the frames.

War of Long Duration.

St. Petersburg, March 19.—Admiral Stackelburg says that the war will be of long duration, judging from the extensive Japanese preparations.

Stark Tried to Suicide.

New York, March 19.—A Paris despatch from St. Petersburg says it is reported that Vice-Admiral Stark, who was relieved from the command of the fleet at Port Arthur and called home after the battle of Feb. 9, has tried to commit suicide.

HE KILLED MEECHAN

Italian Named Donato at Port Arthur in Jail on Charge.

MEECHAN ATTACKING PARTY

Victim of the Revolver Shot Headed a Disorderly Party Which Attempted to Get Into Money Till and Insulted Mrs. Donato—When Ordered Out Meechan Struck Donato Who Shot Him.

Port Arthur, March 19.—An Italian named Donato is in jail here on a charge of murdering J. Meechan, C.P.R. fireman, of Fort William. According to John Beyers, carpenter, who was employed in the shop, a number of young men went to Donato's fruit and confectionery store on Water street. They were intoxicated, acted disorderly and attempted to get at the money till. Mrs. Donato, who was in charge of the store at the time, ordered the men out. They left, but two of them, Meechan, who was killed, and H. Laney, went back a few minutes later. They became noisy, and, it is said, used some filthy language to Mrs Donato, who screamed, and Donato, who was at the rear of the building, rushed in. He requested the men to get out, and told them that he would not have such language used in his house.

Struck the Italian.

Meechan then struck Donato in the face with his fist, and Laney ran over to assist his companion, and kicked Donato a number of times in the stomach. The Italian was getting badly beaten, when three other Italians who were in the store rushed to his assistance. They forced the men out of the store and braced themselves against the door. Meechan and Laney made desperate efforts to get in, breaking one of the windows. Donato then, acting under excitement, ran and got a revolver and fired, one shot going wide and the second striking Meechan in the breast. It is supposed that Meechan had his arm up, endeavoring to protect himself as the bullet went through the fleshy part of the forearm. After being shot, Meechan walked to Busquet's corner, about fifty yards distant, when he toppled over into a ditch and died in a few seconds.

Gave Himself Up.

Donato, when he perceived the enormity of the crime he had committed, ran up to the police station and met Chief of Police Nichols just as he was coming out of the station, and said. "I am the man you are after. I did the shooting." He was taken into the station, where he produced the revolver and handed it over to Nichols. It was a .32 calibre, and two shots had been fired from it. Laney, sometime during the fracas, received a stab in the abdomen, inflicted, it is thought, by one of the Italians with a knife. He was taken to Dr. McCrady's office, where his wound was attended to. He is not injured seriously.

Mob Was Furious.

Shortly after the shooting, hundreds of infuriated people crowded around the store, and for some time it looked bad for the prisoner, and it was thought the mob would endeavor to raid the police station and lynch Donato. As soon as possible he was conveyed to jail. Meechan's body was taken to the morgue.

George Did the Killing.

St. John, N. B., March 19.—The inquiry into the death of Millie Gee was concluded yesterday afternoon. The jury brought in the following verdict: "That the death of Millie Gee was caused by a rifle shot wound inflicted by George Gee." It is likely that the preliminary examination of Gee will take place at Woodstock today.

Guilty of Horse Stealing.

Whitby, March 19.—Herbert McKeon and Norman York, both of the Town of Uxbridge, charged with horse stealing, received their trial yesterday before Judge McCrimmon. McKeon was acquitted and York found guilty. He was sentenced yesterday to six months in the Central Prison.

Family of Thieves.

Winnipeg, March 19.—Mr. and Mrs. Elgin of MacLeod, Alberta, were sent to Stony Mountain Penitentiary yesterday, having been found guilty at that town on a charge of stealing cattle. Both are aged and careworn. Their two sons have been convicts in the penitentiary for over a year, having been found guilty of a similar offence.

The Toronto Scandal.

Toronto, March 19.—The Civic investigation, as far as concerns the Assessment Department, is concluded. To-day at 11 a.m., the argument will commence. Mr. Lobb, on behalf of the city, will be the first to address the judge. He will be followed by Mr. Du Vernet on behalf of Ald. Dunn. Mr. Johnston, will present Commissioner Fleming's side of the case. Mr. Hales will have something to say in favor of Harry Page, and Mr. Godfrey will follow on behalf of Ald. Woods; then Mr. Riddell will sum up the whole case.

Infernal Machine Kills.

Liege, Belgium, March 19.—An infernal machine exploded early yesterday morning outside the residence of Commissioner of Police Laurent, fatally injuring an artillery officer, Major Papin, and seriously wounding half a dozen other persons.

LUMBERMEN'S ASSOCIATION.

Lumber Prices Advance With Decrease in Cut and Stock.

Toronto, March 19.—At the annual meeting of the Lumbermen's Association of Ontario, held at the Queen's Hotel, President Lummis, in his report, declared that prices will probably be 10 per cent. higher than last year, the Ottawa men having already secured that advance. The severe weather has increased the cost and curtailed the cut and the blocked railways will have accumulated shipments to handle.

According to the report of Secretary W. B. Tindall, the production of white pine lumber showed a decrease last year from 1902 of 25,000,000 feet, the production being 485,000,000.

A scarcity of low grade lumber is reported, there being absolutely none in first hands, what is available being held by dealers for distribution. Compared with other years, the figures of stock on hand shows: 1903, 150,000,000 feet; 1902, 170,000,000; 1901, 181,000,000; 1900, 216,349,000; 1899, 120,000,000.

The cut of hemlock for 1903 was 1,334,404,000, and stock, 515,935,000.

The meeting passed resolutions to appoint a committee to consider means for preserving young pine and growing timber and replanting limits, and to have the Railway Commission's attention drawn to the shortage of railway cars, and the rate and regulations on ties and cedar posts.

The officers were re-elected as follows: W. B. Lummis, president; R. Laidlaw, first vice-president; George Cook, second vice-president; W. B. Tindall, secretary-treasurer.

SANK BRITISH SUBMARINE.

Ran Into By a Donald Currie Liner—Eleven Drowned.

Portsmouth, March 19.—The British submarine boat No. A1 was run down and sunk off the Nab Lightship yesterday by a Donald Currie Liner, and eleven persons were drowned, including Mansergh, the senior officer, engaged in submarine work. The liner passed on and reported that she had struck a torpedo.

At the time she was struck the vessel was off the lightship, engaged in the manoeuvres, and was lying in seven fathoms of water, waiting the approach of a battleship.

The boat was one of the newest of the fleet of submarine vessels, and was built from the latest models, but she had always been a bad diver. She was inspected recently by both King Edward and the Prince of Wales.

Back to the Mines.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 19.—The vote of the miners on the scale of wages offered by the operators is announced as follows: For accepting the scale, 98,511; against the scale and in favor of a strike, 67,373; majority against a strike 31,161.

Died Aged 104.

Charlottetown, P.E.I., March 19.—A despatch from Souris states that Mrs. Hugh McLean aged 104 years, died near there. She was born at Ben Mochulugh, Southwest Scotland, June 28, 1800.

Surprises Mr. Nosse.

Montreal, March 19.—The Japanese chief consul is to be moved from Montreal to Ottawa. This has just been announced to Hon. T. G. Nosse by a cable from the Japanese Government, and he will leave for Ottawa in a month's time. The order has come as a surprise to Mr. Nosse.

Gets Silver Medal.

New York, March 19.—Miss Alphousene Remillard of Montreal, received the Belasco silver medal for technical proficiency at the American Academy of Dramatic Art.

INTERESTING MEETING OF EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Mr. J. Jefferies Will Speak on Tennyson's "The Holy Grail."

On Monday evening next George street League will hold its regular Literary meeting, when Mr. Jeffries of the Collegiate Institute staff, will take up the study of the poem, "The Holy Grail," from Tennyson's "Idylls of the King." A most enjoyable and instructive evening is expected, and a cordial invitation is extended to all to be present. A short musical programme will also be given.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES.

St. Joseph's Hospital Does not Refuse Contagious Patients.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—There seems to be some misunderstanding in the public mind regarding the reception into St. Joseph's hospital of persons afflicted with contagious diseases. The impression appears to be prevalent that we have absolutely refused to receive patients having such diseases. We do not object to receive and attend them. The fact is, we are most willing, and have been willing to accept these patients upon any terms that are reasonable. All that we are asking is that the town give us a fair and equitable remuneration for the treatment of such patients as are unable to pay their own expenses. This differs materially from an absolute refusal to accept them, and we think it unfair and unjust to have such reports circulated.

We have been receiving diphtheria patients for nearly three years, and during that time the town has given us very little remuneration. While we are unwilling to continue doing this work for practically nothing, we are certainly willing to do it for a fair compensation. This is a question which should receive consideration, but in the past the members of the town council have never entered into serious negotiations with us regarding it. Almost all the diphtheria patients of the town and surrounding country have, for the past three years, received treatment in our hospital, and we have, without doubt, done the work in a satisfactory manner. During this time no contagion has ever spread from this ward of the hospital, which proves clearly that our isolation has been successful.

Considerable discussion has, of late arisen regarding the erection of an isolation hospital for the town. Before taking such a step our civic fathers should examine the matter thoroughly. Will such an hospital prove more effective in the isolation of contagious diseases than our present hospitals? Its cost will certainly be much greater. An isolation hospital with its furnishings and equipment will cost at least from $20,000 to $30,000. The interest on this sum will amount annually to about $1,000. Add to this the cost of maintenance, which will range from $6,000 to $10,000 yearly, and you will have some idea of the burden that will thereby be imposed upon the town.

If one-quarter of this yearly expenditure were devoted to the improving of the present arrangement, and one-quarter more to the bettering of the sanitary conditions of the town it would soon be impossible for a germ of a contagious disease to find a habitable spot in our community.

Yours truly,
W. J. McCOLL.

TRICKERY.

The Opposition in the Ontario Legislature have never achieved a very high standard of statesmanship, but on Friday afternoon they performed a stroke of statesmanship of so lofty a character as to entitle their names to a place on the scroll of petty infamy and their faces to be pictured in the gallery of political tricksters. It is an understood arrangement—made by the respective party whips and universally assented to by members on both sides of the House—that no contentious subjects shall be introduced and no divisions taken on Mondays or Fridays, when, on account of many members leaving early to be home for Saturday and Sunday, and return late or not all on Monday, there would be a small attendance of members. Trusting to this arrangement, several of the Liberal members on Friday afternoon absented themselves preparing to take trains for home. Under normal conditions a similar number of Conservative members would have done likewise, but it appeared as if by preconcerted arrangement, the Opposition members stayed almost as a body in the buildings, lurking as if secretly in the lobby or other places of concealment, in order to lull the Liberals into a false security, but ready to appear in answer to the call when the division bell rang. Then in further violation of an explicitly understood arrangement — which with honourable men, would have all the force of a pledge, under oath—the Opposition, through Mr. Beattie Nesbitt, introduced a contentious subject and challenged a vote, feeling certain that with some Liberal members absent and with a solid phalanx of Opposition members in the House or lurking unseen but on tap, they would be able to catch a snap adverse vote and be able to make the empty boast that the Government was defeated — empty boast, for if the trick had succeeded it would have had no effect upon the standing of the Government, nor any other effect than to intensify the odium which must attach to the Opposition for the abortive trickery they attempted, with so much good will. But the petty little plot was defeated. The Liberal whip got sufficient Liberal members in to outnumber the plotters, with the result that no vote was taken. After a couple of hours of ten minute speeches, the adjournment of the House was moved, which was assented to by the discomfited Opposition, without protest, thus showing that no considerations of public interest had influenced their little game. We are giving this incident more attention perhaps than it deserves, but it is done to show that the opposition are so hungry for office, so anxious to attain power, that they even try by dishonourable efforts to indulge in make-belief that they have defeated the Government on a division. Such an attempt to win a snap verdict would not be so bad under normal conditions of the House, but the deliberate and dishonourable breaking of a solemn agreement — an agreement as binding on gentlemen as an international treaty bearing royal signs—manual and state seals—to concoct a scheme, unworthy of a clique of lubberly school boys, cannot be deprecated in parliamentary language. The incident shows how low an estimate many of the Opposition members of His Majesty's loyal Opposition place upon the dignity of the House, and upon their responsibility as members of the Legislature, and their scant respect for the many decent and honourable citizens numbered among their constituents. Maximus in minimis.

THAT REACTION.

The "Conservative reaction" is a euphemism begot of winning a bye-election or two, which were lost to the Liberals more by local dissensions than on political grounds. But the "reaction" is more fancied than real, and there is no doubt that Sir Wilfred Laurier stands as firmly entrenched in popular favour as at any time in his brilliant career. On Wednesday Guysboro, Nova Scotia, in the election of a member to fill the place of Mr. D. C. Fraser, elevated to the bench, chose a Liberal by the largest majority ever given in a Federal election in that county. The contest was not a walk over, for the Conservatives, encouraged no doubt by the illusive mirage of the Conservative reaction, put forth the most strenuous efforts to win the seat. The fight was the hottest ever waged in the Province of Nova Scotia, and a most energetic attempt was made to buy up the constituency. But in spite of this, in spite of the Conservative "reaction," the normal Liberal majority was largely increased, and Mr. J. H. Sinclair, the Liberal standard bearer, goes to Ottawa as the representative of largely increased confidence in the Laurier Administration, and the vaunted Conservative reaction hides its diminished head.

FRENZY OVER COTTON.

New York, March 19.—Daniel J. Sully, the cotton operator, who has for fifteen months been the biggest figure in the cotton markets of the world, and who has "bulled" cotton from 7 cents a pound to over 17 cents, announced his inability to make good his engagements on the New York Cotton Exchange yesterday. Within a few moments cotton fell nearly $13 a bale from the highest figures of the day. Traders in the street have witnessed stock panics in previous years, corners have been broken, and many crashes have been recorded, but none has been accompanied by such frenzy and confusion as that of yesterday.

Both had previously been arrested and each gave bond in the sum of $1500.

THE POPULAR COUNTY CLERK OF THE CITY OF SAN FRANCISCO.

HON. WILLIAM A. DEANE, OF SAN FRANCISCO.

Hon. Wm. A. Deane, Clerk of the city and county of San Francisco, was Chief Deputy in the office of his predecessor during the latter part of his term. He is a Native Son, having been born and raised in the city of San Francisco, and has for many years been prominently identified with the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West, as well as other fraternal organizations. He is an exceptionally popular young man, socially and politically also, as evidenced by the ballots cast at the late election, he having defeated his opponent for the office of County Clerk by nearly 8,000 votes.

In a letter written January 28, 1899, from San Francisco, to Dr. Hartman, Mr. Deane has the following to say of Peruna:

The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Gentlemen:—"I would not be without Peruna, as I have found it to be the best remedy for catarrhal complaints that I have ever used. I have tried most all of the so-called catarrh remedies advertised, and can conscientiously say that of all the remedies for catarrhal complaints recommended to me none have been so beneficial as Peruna."—WILLIAM A. DEANE.

CATARRH assumes different phases in different seasons of the year. There is, therefore, four quite well-marked varieties of catarrh. Winter catarrh, spring catarrh, summer catarrh, and autumn catarrh. In each of these varieties different organs seem to be the principal seat of the catarrh.

In the winter the catarrh is more frequent in the head, throat and respiratory organs. In the spring the catarrh seems to chiefly affect the stomach and nervous system. In the summer the bowels suffer the oftenest; while in the autumn the liver and kidneys seem to be particularly subject to the ravages of catarrh.

Of course it is not meant by this that catarrh is absolutely confined to these parts of the body during the season to which we have assigned them. Catarrh may attack any organ in any season of the year, but the liabilities are so much greater for catarrh to attack particular organs in certain seasons that these four distinct varieties have become recognised.

Mr. Robert Douglas, Homeopathic Specialist, cor. 6th and F Sts., N. W., Washington, D. C., in a recent letter to the Peruna Medicine Co., of Columbus, O., has the following to say concerning their noted catarrh remedy, Peruna:

"I have been a practicing physician for some years, during which time I have administered Peruna to a number of my patients for colds, catarrh and general debility with great benefit to them. I have paid particular attention to its effects, and I have absolute confidence in its curative qualities, and have no hesitation in giving it a most emphatic endorsement."

Hon. Clement M. Hammond is one of the best known newspaper men in New York City. He was for years editor of one of the principal papers in Hartford, Conn., later was prominently connected with the New York Recorder and New York World. He has traveled extensively and is known all over the United States for his talent as a newspaper man. Writing to The Peruna Medicine Co., he says:

Hon. C. M. Hammond

"For about six years I have had trouble every fall and winter with my voice. At times it has extended to my bronchial tubes and lungs. I think all this trouble came from whooping cough, which I had when I was about twelve years old, and which left me with catarrh. Since I have taken Peruna, my voice has been clearer than in over two years, all of which I am willing to testify to." Mr. Hammond's address is "The Arlington," 64 Montague street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Peruna is an internal remedy—a scientific remedy for catarrh. It cures catarrh wherever located. It cures last. Peruna gives strength by stopping waste. By saving the mucus it enriches the blood. By cleansing the mucous membranes it preserves the vital forces.

No remedy can possibly supply the place of Peruna. Insist upon having Peruna. Take no other remedy. There is no substitute for this catarrh medicine. Send for a free book on catarrh. Address the Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.

THEIR OWN WHIP PROTESTED

Wordy Discussion on the Advisability of Selling the Islands in Lake Temagami —Sharp Practice on Part of Conservatives Fails—Government Measure For Free Text Book in Rural Schools.

Toronto, March 19.—In face of the emphatic statement of the Conservative Whip that he had on the previous day informed the Government representative that it was not intended to take up any contentious matter on Friday, Dr. Beattie Nesbitt, supported by his leader, insisted in the Legislature yesterday on pressing a motion that the islands of Lake Temagami be not sold but leased.

Hon. Mr. Davis explained that detailed information was now being obtained respecting the islands, and urged that it would be unwise to tie the hands of the Department until that report had been received. The matter was being given most careful consideration in order that the best interests of the public might be guarded, and he suggested that the motion be withdrawn.

Refused to Withdraw.

Dr. Nesbitt refused to withdraw, influenced apparently by the fact that more Government than Opposition seats were vacant. The Government refused to be taken advantage of in this way and proceeded to debate the resolution, and later a motion to adjourn, until absent members could be secured. On the motion to adjourn only ten-minute speeches were permissible. Dr. Nesbitt was particular in timing each speaker. At 5.50, two hours after the motion was first moved, and when it was evident the Government were in a majority of about six, the Speaker put the motion to adjourn and it was carried without dissent.

Free School Books.

The Minister of Education introduced a bill to amend the Education Department act providing for free text-books in rural schools. The measure permits the apportionment, under the provisions of such regulations as may be made by order in Council, of all sums of money voted by the Legislative Assembly for aiding Public and Separate School Boards in rural districts to furnish certain text-books free of cost." Mr. Harcourt will explain the proposed regulations on Tuesday next.

Mr. Hendrie moved that the bill to incorporate the Hamilton, London & Lake Erie Railway be re-committed to the Railway Committee.

Hon. Mr. Gibson said that he did not oppose the motion, but it might be debatable whether it were advisable to encourage this practice, and, in the absence of the Chairman of the committee, suggested the motion should stand as a notice of motion. Mr. Hendrie adopted the suggestion.

Read a Third Time.

The following bills were read a third time: To amend the High School act, Hon. Mr. Harcourt; to confirm the sale of certain lands by Guelph, Mr. Downey, respecting Indian Lands of Refuge, Hon. Mr. Stratton.

Mr. Carscallen (Hamilton) was informed by Hon. Mr. Davis that the total acreage of mining lands sold and leased from 1898 to 1903 was 334,345 acres.

Mr. Powell was informed by Hon. Mr. Davis that the Government has under consideration the extension of the time for application for military land grants to those volunteers in South Africa who have not yet returned.

IS THE RACE GOING BACK?

Are Canadians not so Strong and Vigorous as their Fathers?—Bad Stomachs to Blame Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets the Remedy.

Is the race deteriorating? Are men, and women, too, not as strong and vigorous as the pioneers who carved Canada out of the forest? General observation and medical expert opinion both tend to these conclusions.

And the reasons advanced are what we eat and how we eat, or to get right at the root of the matter the fault lies with the stomach. Quick lunches, swallowing the food without taking time to chew it properly, too many rich dishes, have resulted in worn out and disordered stomachs.

Those stomachs want help and the help they want is contained in Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. Mr. H Bailey, of 256 Patrick street, Winnipeg, says:—

"Though my appetite seemed good no matter what I ate I never seemed to put on any flesh or to gain much strength. But with using Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets I think my food was properly digested and turned to flesh and strength. I have been taking Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets only a short time but I have already gained in weight eight pounds. I can heartily recommend them to anyone suffering from Dyspepsia."

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets never fail to relieve discomfort after eating. And they do not only relieve but cure Indigestion and Dyspepsia of any stage.

Sir Charles' Relief.

London, March 19.—(C A P.)—Sir Charles Tupper, speaking Thursday night, said he believed Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Government would carry the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway bill. The Laurier majority would shut their eyes and ears and vote in favor of it. If the country instead of the House was able to speak, the measure would be defeated.

FOR EVERY DAY A NEW STORY

Of Splendid Cures Made by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Kenlis, N.W.T., Tells why They are Popular on the Prairies—Greatest Tonic of the Age.

Kenlis, N.W.T., March 18.—(Special.)—Every newspaper has its story of health restored and suffering banished by Dodd's Kidney Pills and this neighbourhood is not without its proofs that if the disease is of the kidneys or from the kidneys Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure it.

Among those who shout the praises of the great Canadian Kidney Remedy is Thomas L. Hubbs, a well known farmer of Indian Head. Mr. Hubbs tells the reason why as follows:—

"About a year ago I was thrown from a wagon causing a strain on my kidneys I tried several remedies but could get no relief till I was led to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. One box cured me completely.

"My wife has also used Dodd's Kidney Pills and got great benefit from them."

Dodd's Kidney Pills make healthy kidneys. Healthy kidneys make pure blood. Pure blood makes good health. That's why Dodd's Kidney Pills are the greatest tonic of the age.

BRANTFORD AROUSED.

Extensive Charges Against P. C. Allan Involving Cole Murder.

Brantford, March 19.—A sensation of considerable importance was sprung in this city yesterday when it became known that P. C. Allan had been summoned to appear before the Police Commissioners at their next meeting. The charges are of a very extensive character, and all the more interesting because of their bearing on the recent Cole murder case.

Allan is charged with making certain statements about the police during the Kennedy trial last month. The impression created by these statements was to the effect that the police had acted in a very stupid manner in their search for the murderer of Irene Cole. It is charged that Allan stated that some important clues were left altogether uninvestigated and never seriously considered.

Other charges of hardly less interest are to the effect that Allan also made statements charging the police officials with misappropriation of fines derived from liquor prosecutions.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Six Chicago firemen were caught under a falling roof, and one may die.

Emperor William arrived at Gibraltar Friday. He was royally welcomed.

J. C. Chisie is wanted at Fort William for getting about $1,000 on forged cheques.

Hon. Edward Blake's Speech.

London, March 19.—Hon. Edward Blake, at the St. Patrick's Day dinner, responding to "The Irish Parliamentary Party" toast, said he entered the party at a time when a majority of the party was not representative of the whole Nationalist sentiment of Ireland. He had, however, seen the happy day when union and concord were restored, and today, after several years' experience, he could say with absolute sincerity that he had never seen a party so loyal, so united, so cordial, so absolutely one in its feelings, its sentiments and its relations, man to man. When the elections draw nigh there need be no fear for the results in Ireland.

Burned to Death.

St. Thomas, March 19.—A sad fatality occurred at Ridgetown yesterday morning at 6.30. A small cottage occupied by a widow lady, aged 65 years, named Mrs. Twigg, near the railway station, was burned. The fire was caused by a lamp upsetting, and the building was entirely enveloped in flames before the arrival of the fire company, who gained an entrance and carried out the charred remains of the occupant. It is supposed that she must have been overcome with the smoke and suffocated, as the body was lying on a lounge. The deceased leaves two daughters. An inquest will be held.

Lord Minto's Successor.

Ottawa, March 19.—The view in official circles here is that a successor to the Earl of Minto will not be appointed until September or October next. It is deemed hardly likely that the Imperial Government will make an appointment now if they are going to the country at Easter, seeing that the present Governor's term does not expire until November. In the event of their defeat the appointment would rest with the incoming Government.

Expects It To Live.

London, March 19.—(C.A.P.)—Andrew Bonar Law, M.P., Under Secretary of the Board of Trade, addressing the Unionist Association at Glasgow, said he heard ten times more in Glasgow than in London of the Government defeat. If any one present thought the Government was nearly dead he would not advise them to buy mourning yet, for he fully expected the Government would be alive this time next year.

Three Colonists Killed.

Port Arthur, March 19.—A wreck is reported to have taken place at Missannabie, on the Canadian Pacific, yesterday morning. A colonist train left the rails, fourteen cars being smashed up. Three colonists are reported killed and a number injured.

Simply Sign This and Know How to Get Well.

That is all. Send no money. Simply sign above. Tell me the book you need. I will arrange with a druggist near you for six bottles of

Dr. Shoop's Restorative

Take it a month at my risk. If it succeeds the cost to you is $5.50. If it fails the druggist will bill the cost to me and I leave the decision to you.

DON'T WAIT UNTIL YOU ARE WORSE

Taken in time the suffering of this little one would have been prevented. Her mother writes me:

"Two years ago my little girl was sick continuously for six months. We tried many doctors and they failed, yet it took only two bottles of your remedy to cure her, and she has remained cured. You can tell others of this cure if you so desire. Mrs. C. H. Avery, Rockdale, N. Y."

'Tis a pity she did not first write me before the case was dangerous.

The wife of Omer Andrus of Bayou Chicot, La., had been sick for 20 years. For 8 years could do practically no work. He writes:

"When she first started taking the Restorative she barely weighed 90 pounds; now she weighs 135, and is easily able to do all her housework."

Twenty "dark" years might have been "bright" ones.

J. G. Billingsley of Thomasville, Ga., for three years had been crippled with disease. Now he is well. He writes:

"I spent $250.00 for other medicines, and the $3.00 I have spent with you have done me more good than all the rest."

Both money and suffering might have been saved.

And these are only three from over 65,000 similar cases. These letters—dozens of them—come every day to me.

How much serious illness the Restorative has prevented, I have no means of knowing, for the slightly ill and the indisposed simply get a bottle or two of their druggist, are cured, and I never hear from them.

But of 600,000 sick ones—seriously sick mind you—who asked for my guarantee, 39 out of each 40 have paid. Paid because they got well.

If I can succeed in cases like these—fail but one time in 40, in diseases deep-seated and chronic—isn't it certain I can always cure the slightly ill?

WHY THE RESTORATIVE SUCCEEDS

You may oil and rub, adjust and repair a weak engine. It will never be stronger nor do its work better, without steam. More power—more steam is necessary.

And so with the vital organs. Doctor them as you will. That's mere repairing. Permanent cures never come save through treating the nerves that operate those organs.

And that my Restorative does.

After almost a lifetime of labour—of study at bedsides and research in hospitals—I made this discovery. I found a way to treat, not the organs themselves, but the nerves—the inside nerves—that operate these organs and give them power and strength and health. That discovery has shown me the way to cure.

It makes my offer possible.

I know the remedy. I never can forget the study, all the research, the trials and tests that perfected it. I have watched its action year after year in cases difficult, discouraging. Time after time I have seen it bring back health to those poor ones whom hope had almost deserted. I know what it will do.

My only problem is to convince you.

And so I make my offer. And the bare fact that I make such an offer ought of itself to convince you that I know how to cure. Please read it again. It means exactly what I say. No catch—no misleading phrases in it. Simply this—you take the medicine and I will take the risk.

And you—not I—decide if you are to pay.

ALL YOU NEED TO DO

Simply sign the above—that is all. Ask for the book you need. The offer I make is broad—is liberal. The way is easy—is simple. The Restorative is certain.

But do not misunderstand me.

This is not free treatment, with nothing to pay. Such an offer would be misleading—would belittle the physician who made it. But I believe in a sick one's honesty—his gratitude. That when he is cured, he will pay the cost of the treatment—and gladly.

I make this offer so that those who doubt may learn at my risk.

Tell of it, please, to a friend who is sick. Or send me his name. That's but a trifle to ask—a minute's time—a postal. He is your friend. You can help him. My way may be his only way to get well.

I, as a stranger, offer to do all this. Won't you, his friend, his neighbour, simply write?

He will learn from my book a way to get well. Perhaps, as I say, the only way to get well for him. His case may be serious—hopeless almost. Other physicians—other specialists may have failed. The matter is urgent, then

Mr. R. J. Kidd Gave Officers and Teachers of Charlotte Street Sunday School Pleasant Evening

It is safe to say that all those who partook of the hospitality offered by Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Kidd, at their residence last night, thoroughly enjoyed themselves. Members of the teaching staff, officers and orchestra of the Charlotte street Methodist Sunday school, of which Mr. Kidd is the superintendent, to the number of forty, were entertained in a pleasant manner by the kind host and hostess of the evening. Games of a nature to make each one acquainted with the other, were indulged in, and created great merriment. An impromptu programme of song, story and music was given by several of the guests. This opened with a number of selections by the orchestra. Following, Miss Clara Belleghem sang "The Shoogy Shoo," in her pleasing style. Miss L. Thomas favoured the company with a humorous reading which was heartily applauded. Mr. J. Robinson told "How to Set a Hen," and gave a very graphic description of one of Rubenstein's piano recitals. Mr. Norman Jolliffe contributed to the evening's enjoyment with two songs, "Boys will be Boys," and "Rock Me to Sleep," Miss Ruby Jolliffe accompanying him in the latter number with violin obligato. Mrs. T. J. Mowat and Miss Mabel Clarry ably presided at the piano during the evening.

Luncheon was then served, at the conclusion of which, Rev. Mr. Jolliffe moved the hearty thanks of those present to Mr. and Mrs. Kidd for the enjoyable evening spent at their home. This was seconded by Mr. D. D. C. Dawe in a few well-chosen words, and approved of by the company singing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." Mr. Kidd in his reply expressed his pleasure at having the teachers and officers of the school present, and the hope that they would feel drawn closer to each other by thus coming into contact.

The most enjoyable evening was brought to a close by singing "Blest be the Tie that Binds."

SHOULD A COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE BE ERECTED?

Additional School Accomodation is an Absolute Necessity—The Ratepayers to Vote on the Proposal Next Month.

At some date during April the ratepayers of Peterborough will vote on the proposal to raise money for the purpose of erecting a Collegiate Institute building. This question is one which has been more or less discussed for some time, and now for the first time the ratepayers will be given an opportunity of expressing their opinion on it.

It seems to be a generally accepted fact that an Institute is something which the town needs, and needs badly and for the purpose of obtaining the views of various business men, and educationists on the question, the Examiner interviewed a number of gentlemen this morning, whose views were asked. They were unanimous in their opinion that some further school accommodation was an absolute necessity, and would have to be provided in any case, and the general concessions of opinion was that the more advantageous plan would be to erect a Collegiate Institute, and take the present Institute building for a Public School for the needs of which the present buildings are inadaquate.

Members of the Council and other gentlemen, not connected with the Board of Education, expressed great confidence in the ability of the present members of the Board of Education. They pointed out that it was composed of thorough-going business men, and believed that the citizens would do well to adopt the recomendations made by them, as being in the best interests of the town. The fact was also recognized that in the matter of school buildings Peterborough was behind that of other towns and cities of a corresponding population, and that to place this town on an equality with other places, money would have to be spent in providing school buildings and equipments. Mr. J. J. Hartley, chairman of the Board of Education is one of the most ardent advocates of the new Institute, and being in touch, as he is, with the class, of people, to whom the Collegiate would be of the greatest benefit, he should be in a position to judge with a good degree of accuracy what would be best for the general needs of the people.

In proportion to the amount of good practical education made available to the people, will they be successful in business and professional pursuits, and the great factor entering into the almost phenomenal success which the youth of Ontario has attained, is the splendid school system, which is admitted by nearly all, to be the finest in the world. But the Government must be given the co-operation of the municipalities, and in providing a Collegiate Institute, modernly equipped, it is pointed out by those interested, that the pupils who leave the Public School and enter the Institute would be better qualified to fit business positions with a greater chance of success. The opinions of a few of the business men are quoted below:—

Mayor Roger, when asked for his opinion, said that Peterborough property would greatly increase in value steadily for the next few years at least, and the sooner a site was bought and a new Collegiate Institute building was erected, the better for the town. He thought that when the town had good responsible business men to represent it, such as there are on the School Board, that they would be wise to be guided by their recommendations. He believed that their estimated cost a very reasonable one, considering the magnificent building which they intended to erect. He thought the idea of having the new armouries and the Collegiate Institute buildings together, would be an economy from the financial point of view, as the open space would serve the double purpose of a play and drill ground. If a new Collegiate Institute were built the present one he lieved would serve the purpose of the public schools for some time.

Ald. M. A. Morrison — "I believe we ought to have an up-to-date Collegiate Institute building. There is is nothing in the world that makes good citizens, like a good education. While probably 90 per cent. of Peterborough students will not have the opportunity of being taught in the Collegiate Institute, yet it should be available for the other 10 per cent. I have such faith in the town that I expect the population will be doubled in the next ten or twelve years. We must then look forward to the future and build accordingly. As to to the kind of building or the expense, I have not gone into the question but am relying entirely on the school board, the members of which are men of ability. They have thoroughly gone into this question, and should be able to advise the citizens of Peterborough on the matter."

Mr. Adam Hall candidly admitted the need of a new Collegiate Institute building, and thought that from $40,000 to $50,000 would at the least be required for a suitable one. He said that what was badly needed was a large playground for the scholars, and thought the proposition of having the new armouries and school buildings adjacent, a good one. He was a thorough believer in education and thought that not enough money could be spent in not only getting good school accommodation but also first class teachers.

Crown Attorney Wood expressed the opinion that the Board of Education was doing the right thing in asking for money for a new Institute building. It was a very necessary thing, and he thought the price named a reasonable one.

These interviews will be continued in Monday's issue of the Examiner.

NEW SPRING STYLES AT MISS DELANEY'S.

Beautiful Millinery — Handsome Showing of Fashions—Latest Whims.

"The most stylish millinery in town," was the complimentary expression of a fashionable lady yesterday, after an inspection of Miss Delaney's new styles. It would be an almost impossible task to picture in better words the wealth of beauty and exclusiveness which are shown in spring's smartest modes, at this store. To appreciate the exclusive styles in models of pattern hats, 'my lady' must see for herself. The daintily trimmed ready-to-wear hats, which will be the principal favourites for Easter, are distinctive in style and very attractive. No matter how high you place your fashion ideals, nor how exacting your ideas, Miss Delaney's swell selections will meet them in a gratifying manner. The New York patterns are right up to the New York styles, but are one half less in price. The display is worthy of Peterborough's growing importance, as well as being a feast for winter-tired eyes and all who appreciate what clever brains can conceive in designing artistic headgear. The reputation which Miss Miss Delaney enjoys for first-class work is being worthily sustained by new skilled trimmers from the city.

Miss Delaney's formal spring opening days will be on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, March 23rd, 24th, 25th. At these special receptions the ladies are cordially invited to be present, as they will more forcibly illustrate the grandeur of Miss Delany's preparations for this spring's business.

REPORTS EVIDENCED SUCCESSFUL YEAR.

The Anniversary Festival of the Park street Baptist church was held Thursday night. Temporary galleries were built for the accommodation of the children, and when filled had a pleasing effect.

Each class supplied one or more numbers to the programme which consisted of over forty items and was full of interest from start to finish. The costumes were attractive, an entire class being all in white with coloured sashes and the distinctive characters represented in the dialogues were both charming and amusing, and to say the children were delighted is putting it mildly. The whole proceedings were an evidence of enormous work and were the result of much careful, painstaking preparation. The teachers and a number of volunteer helpers saw that the children were well supplied and when the tables were cleared the church rapidly filled until every foot of standing room was taken and numbers were turned away. The secretary's report was given as follows:

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORT.

The annual meeting of the Park street Sunday school was held on Tuesday evening, Dec. 15th, 1903. The officers were then elected for the ensuing year, as follows:

Hon. Supt.—Rev. A. H. Brace.
Superintendent—Miss Mann.
Asst. Supt.—Mr. Gillespie.
Secretary—Mr. Tranter.
Treasurer—Miss Mann.
Librarian—Mr. Holt.
Organist—Miss Buntin.

In reviewing the work for another year, we feel we have abundant reason to thank God for his great goodness to us. It has indeed been a time of encouragement and progress. The work has gone steadily on and a deeper interest is being manifested in the work than ever before. There are enrolled on the class books 18 teachers and officers with an average attendance of 15; and 140 scholars, with an average attendance of 115. We have noticed with pleasure the earnest work of the teachers and the regular attendance of the scholars. Our school is divided into 3 departments,—primary department, 1 class; intermediate, 12 classes; and a Bible class. We have 33 scholars enrolled in that class alone and since our pastor takes charge of it it is sure to grow larger yet. We have added to our library, making in all about 450 books. Nineteen scholars have joined the church this year, not including the Bible class. We rejoice in what has been accomplished and hopefully enter the year praying that it may be one of more zealous work and more earnest prayer for blessing on every branch undertaken in His name. W. J. TRANTER, Secretary.

The treasurer's report showed receipts to the amount of $114.59; expenditures, $107.65, leaving a balance on hand of $6.94.

A very interesting number on the programme was when the pastor called the trustees to the platform, at the same time with Miss M. Mann, the superintendent, who read the following address to them:

As superintendent of the Sunday school, I wish to say that the teachers and scholars are watching with deep interest the growth of the church and congregation and the unmistakable demand for a larger building. As the church grew out of the Sunday school we naturally rejoice in its prosperity. The children and teachers were determined to do their best and in their name I have great pleasure in presenting to the trustees the sum of $165.53 as our share toward the purchase of the lot, assuring them that they can reckon on the Sunday school to stand by them until the new church is up. M. MANN, Superintendent.

Deacon Gillespie responded and in a neat speech thanked the officers and children for the valuable present, saying that the lot had cost $300, of which sum $100 had been paid down, and with this $155 it would leave only $35 to complete the payment. We, he said, should be able to raise it, at the same time promising the first five dollars. Inside of fifteen minutes the lot was paid for and Secretary Mr. Herb Fair said: "Stop giving; we have enough." Great excitement prevailed and the whole audience rose and sang "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow," after which the programme was resumed. Three scholars, Mary Booth, Mabel Pitman, Viola Booth, were called to the platform and presented with rewards for distinguishing themselves in a prize contest. Mr. Oldham enlivened the proceedings with several selections from his excellent phonograph. Mr. Smith rendered several violin solos with much acceptance and very pleasing indeed was the instrumental by Mr. Brenton, on the mandolin. The benediction by the pastor closed one of the most remarkable festivals in the history of the school.

"Law of Heredity."

Rev O. C. Elliott will be the speaker on the above subject at the Y.M.C.A. on Sunday at 4 p.m. Herb Mowat will sing.

GENERALLY SPEAKING

COMPLAINTS have reached the press to the effect that on certain streets in the town, after dark, police protection and patrol is not as efficient as it should be. In these complaints no suggestion is made that the members of the force are not doing their duty, but it is recognized that the force, particularly at night is not as large as it should be to properly patrol the streets. Particular reference has been made to Aylmer street, upon which some nights, it is stated the conduct of young men and boys, all of whom are old enough to know better, is anything but gentlemanly. In fact at some times the sidewalks are filled with these persons, who annoy ladies passing to such an extent, that few ladies who find it necessary to travel upon that street take the sidewalks, and run the risk of being insulted, and the majority of them walk on the road, if they have occasion to pass along Aylmer street at night. It has become a popular rendezvous for drunken men who know that in going on George street they run risk of being arrested, but who feel comparatively safe on Aylmer street, as they know that there is seldom an officer on that street during the night. The residents along certain portions of it are frequently considerably annoyed and inconvenienced by the conduct of street strollers, who apparently have little or no regard for the comfort of those whose rest they disturb.

THERE IS NOT ANOTHER town in Canada, perhaps, with an equal population to that of Peterborough, in which the police force is not considerable larger than that of Peterborough. The members of that important branch of the civic service are as good, individually, as can be found in the Dominion, but they cannot be expected to do impossibilities, and one man cannot be expected to patrol the business portion of the town at night, and give attention to the residential section as well. Peterborough has now reached the status of a city, and should provide for the protection of its citizens as a city is supposed to do. The statement is also made that on Sunday evenings Aylmer street is made a regular race-course upon which young fellows, and their companions in livery rigs, make themselves most objectionable to those who live on that street, or have occasion to use it for legitimate purposes. The question of increasing the police force is one which might receive some consideration at the hands of the council.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT made in last night's issue of the Examiner that the Hydraulic Lift Lock would probably be opened on May 12th, and that the ceremony incidental to the opening would be attended by a majority of the members of the Federal Parliament, suggests that the event might be made one from which Peterborough might reap very material advantage. Parliament will still be in session at that time, and the occasion of the visit of the legislators to the town might be taken advantage of to impress upon them the many great advantages which would accrue to the country if the Trent Waterway were completed. It would seem to be an opportune time to bring to their attention the facts, which by that time will have been presented to the Royal Transportation Commission. A banquet might be arranged, at which some speakers would be deputed to bring to the attention of the visiting members of Parliament some of the main reasons why it would be in the interests of Canada to complete the waterway as a national enterprise. It must be recognized that in no other way can the interests of Peterborough be so well served as by the completion of what has been commonly known as the Trent Valley Canal, but which might be more properly termed the Trent Waterway, because as a matter of fact only a small portion of the work is, or will be, actual canal, the route for the greater part being a natural waterway. There are those who are opposed to the waterway, and it will take some work to convince them, and every opportunity which presents itself should be embraced.

AT THE GRAND LODGE of the A.O.U.W., it was decided to admit women to membership in the Order. Notwithstanding the many admirable features of the Order, and the large advantages of membership, one or two things may operate to deter ladies from joining. In the first place, the title "Ancient," is not attractive to a lady, whose antipathy to the idea of having anything "ancient" identified with themselves, is well known. The members are now known as "Workmen,"—a term evidently inapplicable to the gentler sex. If the term "workwoman" is substituted, there is still objection—there are no more "women"—only "ladies." We have saleslades, charladies, washer ladies and scrub ladies, and the same sentiment will taboo "Workwomen." It would appear on the face of it that the admission of ladies to the Order is a special favour to the sex. One lady we know, says it is no favour, but another exhibition of man's selfishness. A man who gets his wife's life insured through membership in the A.O.U.W., will himself be the beneficiary, not the wife. After death he will collect the amount of the policy, and within a month or two will expend a considerable portion of it in buying new clothes and "sprucing himself up" to entrap another woman into matrimony. This same lady says she has noticed that men who, as husbands, are slovenly, careless and even slatternly, in their attire, on becoming widowers, blossom out into veritable dandies. But this is the opinion of only one woman who may have been soured by an unfortunate matrimonial experience, and has therefore become cynical and suspicious, and would look upon a proposal by her husband to have her life insured as the first step towards having her tea sweetened with arsenic some fine morning, in order to get the benefit of the insurance. But this is an extreme case, and there are thousands of noble women who would give their lives—and are giving them by degrees every day—for the benefit of their husbands.

WHY NOT? Yes; why not have Peterborough made the head quarters for the Third Military District, and a central depot for military stores? Now that Lord Dundonald has recognized the strategetic importance of Peterborough, from a military point of view, and armouries are to be erected in the town in keeping with this condition, why not go a step further and make Peterborough the head quarters of No. 3 Military District and a centre for military stores? This town is situated sufficiently far inland to be a safe depot and its central position in relation to No. 3 District, is a strong point in its favour. This district comprises the town and county of Peterborough, the counties of Victoria, Durham and Northumberland, Hastings, Lennox and Addington, Frontenac and the city of Kingston. Kingston is situated at the extreme eastern limit — the flank—of the district, while Peterborough is as nearly as possible its exact geographical centre with railways radiating directly to every county of it. Kingston has only one line of railway communicating with the rest of the district with the single exception of its home county, it is situated upon the lake point, easily accessible to an attacking force in case of hostilities. On the other hand, Peterborough is thirty miles inland, and an invading force from the lake port would have to cross the Northumberland hills or scale the heights of Garden Hill to reach the town. Under the circumstances, would it not be well for the Board of Trade, the Town Council and the local military element to bestir themselves in an effort to procure in addition to the new armouries, the making of Peterborough the head quarters of No. 3 District, and a depot for military stores? Now is the time to strike, while the iron of radical organization of the militia is hot.

TWO VISITORS FROM PORT ARTHUR.

Messrs. A. and H. Dawson Here on a Visit with Friends.

Mr. Albert Dawson, in company with his brother, Herbert, of Port Arthur, is in town on a visit to his father, and gave the Examiner a pleasant call this morning. Mr. Dawson, like his brother, is in business in that rapidly growing town, and like all the citizens of the new country is quite optimistic regarding the great future of the West. Mr. Dawson has been at Toronto on a deputation to the Municipal Committee of the Legislature, and was also in Ottawa interviewing the members of the Government with reference to questions affecting the town of which he is a representative. He is a most ardent advocate of municipal ownership of public franchises, and states emphatically that the franchises operated by the town of Port Arthur have proved highly successful. He will remain over Sunday visiting friends.

THE FADED TINTYPE

Beneath the weight of many years his aged back was bent,
But from his gentle, big blue eyes there shone a light that lent
A radiance to his old face, and as a seat he took
He glanced about him with a smile then sought his pocketbook
And everyone who gazed his way
Wished that his car fare they might pay.
For that one cheery look.

His clothes the old and worn, were clean and pa ched with loving care.
His trembling hands in home-made gloves; the well-combed fringe of hair
Beneath his almost furless cap all told of some one who Loved this old man as much as when life's lt partnership was new
A moment more and he unwound
The string with which his purse was bound
And brought his wealth to view.

A scrap of cloth, a pen-ll small, a key and next a dime
And then he stopped, in happy thoughts he seemed lost for a time;
A faded tintype, that was all; a sweet old woman's face,
And yet he kissed it softly ere he put it back in place.
And then we knew what made his life
So happy just a faithful wife
Gave his old age its grace.

First Memorial Window.

The first memorial window to the late Lord Salisbury has been designed and carried out in London and is to be publicly unveiled in St. Peter's Church, Newlyn, Mounts Bay, Cornwall, at the end of this month. The window, which is to be placed above the font, in which is known as the "Artists' Parish Church," contains a representation of the Good Shepherd, and the figure, which, of course, follow the traditional subject, is surrounded by ruby diapered work, while above, in dark and light green, are clusters of grapes, and the foliage of the vine surrounds the whole of the figure. The Good Shepherd bears one lamb in the right arm, in the left is the pastoral crook, and below are the lambs feeding in the green pastures (Psalm 23). It is entirely the work of English artists and craftsmen. The inscription at the base is as follows: "In pious memory of Robert Arthur Talbot Gascoyne Cecil, third Marquess of Salisbury, Chancellor of the University of Oxford. 1869-1903, thrice Prime Minister of Britain, born February 22nd, 1830, died August 22nd, 1903—the gift of his devoted admirer, a benefactor of this church."

Our Peace and War Footing.

Under the new military establishments which have just been approved, our total forces on a peace footing will be 46,013 men, and this will be capable of expansion in war time to 100,000 men. The peace training establishments will include all the officers and non-commissioned officers and a certain percentage of the rank and file. The 100,000 men will be Canada's first line of defence.

In addition to this important first line, these establishments further provide sufficient officers and non-commissioned officers to form the basis of a second line For example, each regiment of infantry will have a field officer and each company a captain, a subaltern, a sergeant, a corporal and two men as their nuclei for this purpose, the intention being that as soon as the first line has been mobilized for active service these nuclei will at once set about training duplicates of the corps which have gone to the front, so that in a very short time after hostilities have commenced another line of 100,000 men can be put into the field.

All of the officers and non-commissioned officers of the first line will be available for both peace training and war service, and the men will be divided into two classes, as follows: (a) Those engaged for both peace and war service, who will be paid and be liable for training in peace; (b) those engaged for war service only. The officers and non-commissioned officers who form the nuclei of the second line will be required to do training in time of peace.

James Bay Railway.

Toronto, March 18.—A very influential deputation waited on Premier Ross yesterday and asked the aid of the Government for the James Bay Railway. Members of the Toronto deputation pointed out that this railway would be a part of the Canadian Northern system, while another deputation asked that when assistance was granted it should be upon the stipulation that the Canadian Pacific Railway be given running rights over the tracks of the railway. The several deputations united in asking the Premier to guarantee the bonds of the company, as the province would enable the company to finance its undertaking with cheap money without incurring any expenses.

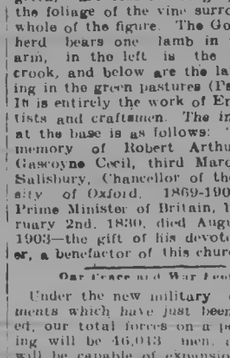
To use an eighteenth century phrase, this is an "o'er true tale." Having happened in a small Virginian town in the winter of 1902 it is a story very much of the present. Up to a short time ago Mrs. John E. Harmon, of Melfa Station, Va., had no personal knowledge of the rare curative properties of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. "Last January," she says, "my baby took a dreadful cold and at one time I feared that she would have pneumonia, but one of my neighbours told me how this remedy had cured her little boy and I began giving it to my baby at once, and it soon cured her. I heartily thank the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for placing so great a cure within my reach. I cannot recommend it too highly or say too much in its favour. I hope all who read this will try and be convinced as I was." For sale by all druggists.

British Army Reminiscences.

Lord Wolseley in his book of army reminiscences tells this story of conditions in the British service when he was young: "It was then a common belief that the barrack master and his old sergeants made a good thing out of the charges levied upon young officers as barrack damages. A cracked pane of glass was a small silver mine to these men. Fifty ensigns may have occupied that quarter with this cracked pane in it, and all had to pay for a new one. After I had embarked, the barrack sergeant presented me with his bill, one item being for a latchkey which I had about me. In my innocence I proffered the key and asked him to erase the item. He positively refused. I paid the several shillings demanded, its outside value being, I should say, one, and foolishly imagined I had scored one against the harpy by throwing the key into the river."



HOW IT'S DONE.

It's from the stomach the blood is fed and the nerves controlled.

Undigested food ferments for lack of gastric juice. The fermentation and putrefaction in the stomach and alimentary canal are the main causes of disease.

It upsets the nerves.

It poisons the system.

Dr. Leonhardt's Anti-Pill increases the necessary supply of gastric juice in quantity and quality to insure perfect stomach action. It has similar action on bile formation. Anyone can prove this for himself by addressing WILSON-FYLE Co., Niagara Falls, Ont., for free sample.

HISTORY OF THE COACH.

The First of These Vehicles Was Built in 1457.

As popular as coaching is in some parts of the country, but little reliable information has ever appeared in the public press respecting its history and development. At the town of Kotze, in Hungary, in 1457, the first coach was constructed. This was soon afterward presented to Charles VII. at Paris. The first authentic record of a stagecoach in England shows that six of such vehicles were in use there in 1062. So popular did they become in that country that a few years later they were in general use on all the principal roads of the kingdom.

Steam railways have to a large extent done away with the use of the coach as a link in the commercial chain, but as a means of furnishing the highest type of recreation the coach and four is as popular today in the British empire and in France as it was when this was practically the only means of locomotion in those countries.

Stagecoaching in America was almost coextensive with the settlement of the colonies, and in the early history of the country there were few if any places of any importance that did not welcome the sound of the coachman's horn as one of the fascinating incidents of pioneer life. As civilization pushed itself westward the stagecoach was ever in the lead of those agencies which blazed its pathway. These vehicles, as well as their equipments, were comparatively crude in their construction and unpretentious in their appointments, but they admirably served the purpose for which they were intended and laid the foundation for the popularity of coaching as a pleasurable pastime developed in later years.

Coaching parties had been popular in England and France for several generations before they were introduced in this country, yet the sport is so wholesome and enjoyable that it cannot be doubted that in time it will become as popular here as it is across the Atlantic.

Zola and Dreyfus' Book.

The editor of a Paris paper, recalling what Zola had done for Dreyfus, called upon the novelist to have him review the unfortunate captain's book, the history of his troubles. The visitor found him at the big table in his library, doing his day's work. "Review Captain Dreyfus' book!" he repeated when the proposition was made to him. He got up and ambled round the table—a short man, with a stomach and no presence—grunting at intervals. Finally he said: "Why should I review his book? He never even read mine."

The Bigger the Better.

A Scottish parish minister was one day talking to one of his parishioners, who ventured the opinion that ministers ought to be better paid.

"I am glad to hear you say that," said the minister. "I am pleased that you think so much of the clergy. And so you think we should have bigger stipends?"

The Retort Unexpected.

"Yes," she said with sarcastic bitterness, "I believe it is true that a man is known before marriage by the company he keeps."

"No doubt," he smilingly replied. "I remember that I kept company with you for fully four years."

He who wishes to secure the good of others has already secured his own.

HISTORY OF KISSING.

Introduced by Romans Into England, It Became Very Popular.

The story runs that kissing was introduced into England by Rowena, the daughter of Hengist, the Saxon, says a writer in The Penny Magazine. At a banquet which was given by the British monarch in honor of his allies, the Princess, after pressing the brimming beaker to her lips, saluted the astonished and delighted Vortigern with a little kiss, after the manner of her own people. So well did the kiss thrive in the genial climate of England that it gradually grew into an everyday enjoyment, and the English soon became celebrated far and near as a kissing people. In fact, so far had their celebrity spread in this respect that when Cavendish, the biographer of the great "child of honor, Cardinal Wolsey," visited a French nobleman at his chateau, the lady of the house, on entering the room with her train of attendant maidens for the purpose of welcoming the guest of her husband, thus accosted him: "Forasmuch as you be an Englishman, whose custom it is in your country to kiss all ladies and gentlewomen without offence, and, although it be not so in this realm, yet will I be so bold as to kiss you, and so shall all my maidens." Whereupon the rafters of the chateau rang again with the heartiness of the osculation, no doubt to the great satisfaction of the fair chatelaine, herself, her many and merry maidens, and, above all, to the modest Cavendish.

A Pig Sticking Incident.

Captain James D. Graham, Indian medical service, Fourth Bengal Lancers, quartered at Allahabad, has sent to the Indian Medical Gazette an account of a pig sticking accident which is probably unique. A lieutenant who was out pig sticking came up with the beast, which was on his off side, and stuck it. It swerved across to the near side, and the spear, striking the pony's off shoulder, was wrenched out of the rider's hand and also shaken clear of the pig. It was flung butt to the ground, and the point, rising in the air, penetrated the pony's near shoulder, passed through its chest and ribs and out at the flap of the saddle. Thence it entered the fleshy muscles at the back of the rider's left thigh, passing out about six and a half inches higher up. The pony stopped still, and the lance was extracted after the shaft had been cut. The lieutenant recovered, but the pony died of pneumonia a week later.

A Sudden Stroke Of Paralysis.

Only Results After Months or Years of Nervous Exhaustion There are Always Symptoms to Give Timely Warning.

It is a great mistake to imagine that persons of robust health and good vitality are suddenly seized with paralysis.

All nervous diseases are slow in coming on, and for this reason the victim often does not realize his danger until overtaken by prostration or paralysis.

Loss of interest in life, sleeplessness, irritability, failure of memory, inability to concentrate the mind, muscular weakness, indigestion, headache, twitching of the nerves, feelings of depression and despondency are among the symptoms which tell of an exhausted nervous system and the approach of paralysis.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food stops the wasting process by which the nerve cells are being destroyed, and by forming new rich blood, and creating new nerve force positively and permanently restores the nervous system.

There is no other way in this world by which nervous exhaustion can be overcome and prostration and paralysis prevented.

Stimulants and narcotics merely hasten collapse. Restorative treatment is necessary.

The process of reconstruction is necessarily gradual, but you can be absolutely certain that every dose of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is doing you lasting good.

It is your duty to study your symptoms and prevent the dreadful results of neglected nervous diseases.

Mrs. M. A. Sharp, 346 Dublin street, Peterborough, Ont., states: — "For some years I was troubled with indigestion which developed into nervous dyspepsia and besides suffering from nervousness, strange dizzy spells would come over me. Hearing of the good results obtained from Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I decided to try it. After a pretty thorough test of this medicine I can say that I never used anything that did me so much good. It seemed to be the very treatment that I needed and as a result of the use I am quite restored to health."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Company, Toronto. To protect you against imitations, the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 12

Purified by Suffering

BY MARY J. HOLMES,

Dear, simple-hearted Uncle Ephraim! the days which he must wait seemed long to him as they did to the other members of his family But they were all gone now,—Katy would be home to-morrow, and with the shutting in of night the candles were lighted in the sitting room, and Helen sat down to her work, wishing it was to-night that Katy was coming. As if in answer to her wish there was the sound of wheels, which stopped before the house, and dropping her work Helen ran quickly to the door, just as from under the dripping umbrella held by a driver boy, a tall young man sprang upon the step, nearly upsetting her, but passing an arm around her shoulders in time to keep her from falling.

"I beg pardon for this assault upon you," the stranger said, and then turning to the boy he continued "It's all right, you need not wait."

With a chirrup and a blow the horse started forward, and the mud-bespattered vehicle was moving down the road ere Helen had recovered her surprise at recognizing Mark Ray, who shook the rain-drops from his hair, and offering her his hand said in reply to her involuntary exclamation: "I thought it was Katy." "Shall I infer then that I am less welcome?" and his bright, saucy eyes looked laughingly into hers Business had brought him to Southbridge he said, and it was his intention to take the cars that afternoon for New York, but having been detained longer than he expected, and not liking the looks of the hotel arrangements, he had decided to presume upon his acquaintance with Dr. Grant, and spend the night at Linwood. "But," and again his eyes looked straight at Helen, it rained so hard and the light from your window was so inviting that I ventured to stop, so here I am claiming your hospitality until morning, if convenient; if not, I will find my way to Linwood."

There was something in this pleasant familiarity which won Uncle Ephraim at once, and he bade the young man stay, as did Aunt Hannah and Mrs. Lennox, who now for the first time was presented to Mark Ray. Always capable of adapting himself to the circumstances around him, Mark did so now with so much ease and courteousness as to astonish Helen, and partly thaw the reserve she had assumed when she found the visitor Was from the hated city.

"Are you expecting Mrs. Cameron?" he asked, adding, as Helen explained that she was coming to-morrow. "That is strange. Wilford wrote decidedly that he should be in New York to-morrow. Possibly, though, he does not intend himself to stop."

"I presume not," Helen replied, a weight suddenly lifting from her heart at the prospect of not having to entertain the formidable brother-in-law who, if he staid long, would spoil all her pleasure.

"Thus at her ease on this point, she grew more talkative, half wishing that her dress was not a shilling calico, or her hair combed back quite so straight, giving her that severe look which Morris had said was unbecoming. It was very smooth and glossy, and Sybil Grandon would have given her best diamond to have had in her own natural right the heavy coil of hair bound so many times around the back of Helen's head, and ornamented with neither ribbon, comb, nor bow. Only a single geranium leaf, with a white scarlet blossom, was fastened just below the ear, and on the side where Mark could see it best, admiring its effect and forgetting the arrangement of the hair in his admiration of the well-shaped head, bending so industriously over the work which Helen had resumed—not crocheting, nor yet embroidery, but the very homely work of darning Uncle Ephraim's socks, a task which Helen always did, and on that particular night Helen knew it was not delicate employment, and there was a moment's hesitancy as she wondered what Mark would think—then, with a grim delight in letting him see that she did not care, she resumed her darning-needle, and as a kind of penance for the flash of pride in which she had indulged, selected from the basket the very coarsest, ugliest sock she could find, stretching out the huge fracture at the heel to its utmost extent, and attacking it with a right good will, while Mark, with a comical look on his face, sat watching her, and her cheeks were growing very red, while her hatred of him was increasing, when he said, abruptly: "You follow my mother's custom, I see. She used to mend my socks on Tuesday nights."

"Your mother mend socks!" and Helen started so suddenly as to run the point of her darning-needle a long way into her thumb, the wound bringing a stream of blood which she tried to wipe away with her handkerchief.

"Bind it tightly round. Let me show you, please," Mark said, and ere she was aware of what she was doing, Helen was quietly permitting the young man to wind her handkerchief around her thumb which he held in his hand, pressing it until the blood ceased flowing, and the sharp pain had abated.

Perhaps Mark Ray liked holding that small, warm hand, even though it were not as white and soft as Juno's; at all events he did hold it until Helen drew it from him with a quick, sudden motion, telling him it would do very well, and she would not trouble him Mark did not look as if he had been troubled, but went back to his seat and took up the conversation just where the needle had stopped it.

"My mother did not always mend herself, but she caused it to be done, and sometimes helped. I remember she used to say a woman should know how to do everything pertaining to a household, and she carried out her theory in the education of my sister."

"Have you a sister?" Helen asked, now really interested, and listening intently while Mark told her of his only sister Julia, now Mrs. Ernst, whose home was in New Orleans, though she at present was in Paris, and his mother was there with her. "After Julia's marriage, nine years ago, mother went to live with her," he said, "but latterly, as the little Ernsts increase so fast, she wished for a more quiet home, and this winter she is coming to New York to keep house for me."

Helen thought she might like Mark's mother, who, he told her, had been twice married, and was now Mrs. Banker, and a widow. She must be different from Mrs. Cameron; and Helen let herself down to another degree of toleration for the man whose mother taught her daughter to mend the family socks. Still there was about her a reserve, which Mark wondered at, for it was not thus that ladies were accustomed to receive his advances. He did not guess that Wilford Cameron stood between him and Helen's good opinion; but when, after the family came in, the conversation turned upon Katy and her life in New York, the secret came out in the sharp, caustic manner with which she spoke of New York and its people.

"It's Will and the Camerons," Mark thought, blaming Helen less than he would have done, if he, too, had not known something of the Cameron pride.

It was a novel position in which Mark found himself that night, an inmate of a humble farm-house, where he could almost touch the ceiling with his hand, and where his surroundings were so different from what he had been accustomed to; but, unlike Wilford Cameron, he did not wish himself away, nor feel indignant at Aunt Betsy's old-fashioned ways, or Uncle Ephraim's grammar. He noticed Aunt Betsy's oddities, it is true, and noticed Uncle Ephraim's grammar; but the sight of Helen sitting there, with so much dignity and self-respect, made him look beyond all else, straight into her open face and clear brown eyes, where there was nothing obnoxious or distasteful. Her language was correct, her manner, saving a little stiffness, lady-like and refined; and Mark enjoyed his situation as self-invited guest, making himself so agreeable that Uncle Ephraim forgot his hour of retiring, nor discovered his mistake until, with a loud yawn, Aunt Betsy told him that it was half-past nine, and she was "deeput sleepy."

Owing to Helen's influence there had been a change of the olden custom, and instead of the long chapter, through which Uncle Ephraim used to plod so wearily, there were now read the Evening Psalms. Aunt Betsy herself joined in the reading, which she mentally classed with the "quirks," but confessed to herself that it "was most as good as the Bible."

As there were only Prayer Books enough for the family, Helen, in distributing them, purposely passed Mark by, thinking he might not care to join them. But when the verse came round to Helen he quickly drew his chair near to hers, and taking one side of her book, performed his part, while Helen's face grew as red as the blossoms in her hair, and her hand, so near to Mark's, trembled visibly.

"A right nice chap, and not an atom stuck up," was Aunt Betsy's mental comment, and then, as he often will do, Satan followed the saintly woman even to her knees, making her wonder if "Mr. Ray hadn't some notion after Helen." She hoped not, for she meant that Morris should have Helen, "though if 'twas to be it was, and she should not go agin it;" and while Aunt Betsy thus settled the case, Uncle Ephraim's prayer ended, and the conscience-smitten woman arose from her knees with the conviction that "the evil one had got the better of her once," mentally asking pardon for her wandering thoughts and promising to do better.

Mark was in no haste to retire, and when Uncle Ephraim offered to conduct him to his room, he frankly answered that he was not sleepy, adding, as he turned to Helen "Please let me stay until Miss Lennox finishes her socks. There are several pairs yet undarned. I will not detain you, though," he continued, bowing to Uncle Ephraim, who, a little uncertain what to do, finally departed, as did Aunt Hannah and his sister, leaving Helen and her mother to entertain Mark Ray. It had been Mrs. Lennox's first intention to retire also, but a look from Helen kept her, and she sat down by that basket of socks, while Mark wished her away. Awhile they talked of Katy and New York, Mark laboring to convince Helen that its people were not all heartless and fickle, and at last citing his mother as an instance.

"You would like mother, Miss Lennox. I hope you will know her some time," he said, and then they talked of books, Helen forgetting that Mark was city-bred in the interest with which she listened to him, while Mark forgot that the girl who appreciated and understood his views almost before they were expressed, was country born, and clad in homely garb, with no ornaments save those of her fine mind and the sparkling face turned so fully towards him.

"Mark Ray is not like Wilford Cameron," Helen said to herself when as the clock was striking eleven she bade him good-night and went up to her room, and opening her window she leaned her hot cheek against the wet casement and looked out upon the night, now so beautiful and clear, for the rain was over, and up in the heavens the bright stars were shining, each one bearing some resemblance to Mark's eyes as they kindled and grew bright with his excitement, resting always kindly on her—on Helen, who leaning thus from the window, felt stealing over her that feeling which, once born, can never be quite forgotten.

Helen did not recognize the feeling, for it was a strange one to her. She was only conscious of a sensation half pleasurable, half sad, of which Mark Ray had been the cause, and which she tried in vain to put aside. And then there swept over her a feeling of desolation such as she had never experienced before, a shrinking from living all her life in Silverton, as she fully expected to do, and laying her head upon the little stand, she cried passionately.

"This is weak, this is folly," she suddenly exclaimed, as she became conscious of acting as Helen Lennox was not wont to act, and with a strong effort she dried her tears and crept quietly to bed just as Mark was falling into his first sleep and dreaming of smothering.

Helen would not have acknowledged it, and yet it was a truth not to be denied, that she staid next morning a much longer time than usual before her glass, arranging her hair, which was worn more becomingly than on the previous night, and which softened the somewhat too intellectual expression of her face, and made her seem more womanly and modest. Once she thought to wear the light buff gown in which she looked so well, but the thought was repudiated as soon as formed, and donning the same dark calico she would have worn if Mark had not been there, she finished her simple toilet and went down stairs, just as Mark came in at the side door, his hands full of water lilies, and his boots bearing marks of what he had been through to get them.

"Early country air is healthful," he said, "and as I do not often have a chance to try it, I thought I would improve the present opportunity. So I have been down by the pond, and spying these lilies I persevered until I reached them, in spite of mud and mire. There is no blossom I like so well. Were I a young girl I would always wear one in my hair, as your sister did one night at Newport, and I never saw her look better. Just let me try the effect on you;" and selecting a half-opened bud, Mark placed it among Helen's braids as skillfully as if hair-dressing were one of his accomplishments. "The effect is good," he continued, turning her blushing face to the glass and asking if it were not.

"Yes," Helen stammered, seeing more the saucy eyes looking over her head than the lily in her hair. "Yes, good enough, but hardly in keeping with this old dress," and vanity whispered the wish that the buff had really been worn.

"Your dress is suitable for morning, I am sure," Mark replied, turning a little more to the light the lily, and noticing as he did so how very white and pretty was the neck and throat seen above the collar.

Mark liked a pretty neck, and he was glad to know that Helen had one, though why he should care was a puzzle. He could hardly have analyzed his feelings then, or told what he did think of Helen. He only knew that by her efforts to repel him she attracted him the more, she was so different from any young ladies he had known—so different from Juno, into whose hair he had never twined a water lily. It would not become her as it did Helen, he thought, as he sat opposite her at the table, admiring his handiwork, which even Aunt Betsy observed, remarking that "Helen was mightily spruced up for morning," a compliment which Helen acknowledged with a painful blush, while Mark began a disquisition upon the nature of the lilies generally, which lasted until breakfast was ended.

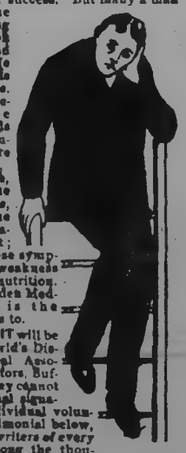
AT THE TOP.

It is a laudable ambition to reach the top of the ladder of success. But many a man who reaches the topmost rung finds his position a torment instead of a triumph. He has sacrificed his health to success.



A man can succeed and be strong if he heeds Nature's warnings. When there is indigestion, loss of appetite, ringing in the ears, dizziness, spots before the eyes or palpitation of the heart; any or all of these symptoms point to weakness and loss of nutrition. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the medicine to turn to.

$3,000 FORFEIT will be paid by the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Proprietors, Buffalo, N. Y., if they cannot show the original signature of the individual volunteering the testimonial below, and also of the writers of every testimonial among the thousands which they are constantly publishing, thus proving their genuineness.

"For about two years I suffered from a very obstinate case of dyspepsia," writes R. E. Secord, Esq., of 13 Eastern Ave., Toronto, Ontario. "I tried a great number of remedies without success. I finally lost faith in them all. I was so far gone that I could not for a long time bear any solid food in my stomach; felt melancholy and depressed. Could not sleep nor follow my occupation. Some four months ago a friend recommended your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' After a week's treatment I had derived so much benefit that I continued the medicine. I have taken three bottles and am convinced it has in my case accomplished a permanent cure. I can conscientiously recommend it to the thousands of dyspeptics throughout the land."

We Shall Spend $500,000

To Give Liquozone Away.

This Company, after testing Liquozone for two years in the most difficult germ diseases, paid $100,000 for the American rights. That is the highest price ever paid for similar rights on any scientific discovery.

We are now spending $500,000 to give the product away—one bottle to each of a million sick ones. We are doing this so that every sick one may let Liquozone itself prove what it can do.

Kills Inside Germs

The greatest value of Liquozone lies in the fact that it kills germs in the body without killing the tissues, too. And no man knows another way to do it. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease, as every physician knows.

Liquozone will do for sick humanity more than all the drugs in the world combined. It does what no skill can accomplish without it. It cures diseases which medicine never cured.

Acts Like Oxygen

Liquozone is the result of a process which, for more than 20 years, has been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research. Its virtues are derived solely from gas, made in large part from the best oxygen producers. By a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time, these gases are made part of the liquid product.

The result is a product that does what oxygen does. Oxygen gas, as you know, is the very source of vitality, the most essential element of life. Liquozone is a vitalizing tonic with which no other known product can compare. Yet it is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill.

The reason is that germs are vegetables; and Liquozone, which—like oxygen—is life to an animal, is deadly to vegetal matter. It is carried by the blood to every cell of every tissue, and no touch of impurity, no germ of disease, can exist where Liquozone goes.

Germ Diseases

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone kills the germs, wherever they are, and the results are inevitable. By destroying the cause of the trouble, it invariably ends the disease, and forever.

LOCAL HOCKEYISTS HAVE A GRIEVANCE.

Against the Lindsay Hockey Club, Which Failed to Carry Out its Contract.

Mr. DeVine, the secretary of the T.A.S. Hockey Club, a team representing which recently visited Lindsay, to play an exhibition game, tells a story of the team's treatment by the Lindsay team which reflects but little credit on the latter. The Lindsay club, it appears, was in financial difficulties, and had repeatedly asked the T.A.S. to give them an exhibition game, in order that they might get a gate, and help place them on their feet again. A game could not be given earlier because of the fact that the T.A.S. had championship games on, but as soon as the Trent Valley season was over a game was arranged. The Lindsay team agreed to pay the expenses of the visiting team, and a certain sum in addition. But it would seem that their memory on this point was a little short because, notwithstanding the fact that Mr. DeVine was in the town all day Wednesday, the day after the game, the manager of the team never showed up, and although the crowd was the largest that had been in the rink all season, and the gate a good one, the secretary of the T.A.S. team had to come home without receiving the amount which the Lindsay club offered them to play the game.

Mr. DeVine naturally feels sore over the treatment which he received.

MIDLAND LEAGUE ELECTED OFFICERS.

Annual Meeting of Football League Held This Afternoon.

The annual meeting of the Midland Football League was held this afternoon in the Y.M.C.A. Board room, with the following present: — Dr. Morgan, A. Noble, E. Renton, J. E. Sullivan, E. Brumwell, M. Scott, E. Shortell, T. J. Andersen, R. N. Jelliffe, and M. J. Hutchinson.

The president, Dr. Morgan, reviewed briefly the work of the league in 1903, and expressed confidence in the prospects for this season.

The first business was the election of officers which resulted as follows:

Hon. President—Hon. J. R. Stratton.

President—Dr. Morgan.

Vice-President—Mr. A. Noble.

Secretary-Treasurer—M. J. Hutchinson.

The Executive Committee will be appointed at the meeting to arrange the schedule, which will be held on Saturday, April 9th, at 1.30, in the Y.M.C.A.

It was decided that the fee for the season be $3.00 for each club.

The league starts out in the season with excellent prospects, and it is confidently expected that there will be a larger number of clubs entering this year than there were in 1903.

PUCKERINGS.

A fast game of hockey was played in the Brock street rink last night between the Young Lock Works and the Suicides. At half time the score stood 1—0 in favour of the Lock Works, and at the end of 30 minutes' hard playing the Suicides at last succeeded in scoring one goal in a scrimmage in front of the net. The line-up follows:

Suicides.—Goal, Wilson; point, Lafave; cover point, H. Ellis; forwards, R. Walker, C. Curtis, C. Delaney, R. Hendry.

* * * *

To-night between 7 and 8 o'clock the Young Handsmen and the Tool Makers play a game of hockey for the tin cup presented by the blacksmiths of the C. G. E. This will be a fast game, as the teams are evenly matched. The 57th band will furnish music.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

I notice by last night's issue of your paper that J. Sutcliffe & Sons' hockey team speak very highly of themselves, and while they were speaking of the game they did not mention that one of there men was ordered to the fence twice and another once, but both refused to obey the referee's orders. Hall's boys might say that each team has won a game and as soon as their goal minder, H. Kingscote, is able to play again, they will be pleased to meet the same team, they played Thursday in a clean game of hockey. W. Todd, Captain of Hall's team.

The "Athletics" hockey team challenge the T.A.S. to a game to be played Tuesday night, to decide the city championship. An answer is requested through the Examiner.

FOOTBALL.

The acting secretary of the Midland Football League has received a letter from the secretary of the Caughnawaga Football team saying that they may be counted upon entering a team in the League.

* * * *

The annual meeting of the Midland Football League was held this afternoon in the Y.M.C.A. building with Dr. Morgan, president, in the chair. The work of last year was reviewed by the president, who said that the season had been a successful one, but he looked for even greater success this year. A larger number of clubs will enter the league this season this year than there were in 1903.

JESSE ARRIES FREE WITH MONEY

On the Night Mrs. Charles Baker was Robbed.

BOUGHT SEVERAL DRINKS.

Highway Robbery Case in the Police Court His Friend's Sensational Statement Prisoner Committed for Trial.

Exceptional interest was taken in the Jesse Arries case, and the Police Court was crowded to the doors, men even standing on the window-sills. Long before the Court was opened a crowd had gathered outside and when the doors were finally thrown open a rush was made for the stairs. In the Court room, the men elbowed, pushed and almost fought with each other for places from which they could see the prisoner.

After two minor cases had been heard, Arries was brought up from the cell by P.C. Stewart, and led to the 'prisoners' dock. He seemed to be in good spirits and smiled now and then at a familiar face in the crowd. He did not seem to realize the seriousness of the charge against him, and sat well back in the dock, out of the gaze of the crowd, in a very indifferent manner.

He was charged with robbing Mrs. Charles Baker, on the night of Wednesday, March 2nd, and after the evidence had been heard, prisoner was committed for trial at the next Court of Competant Jurisdiction. Prisoner pleaded not guilty of the offence. Crown Attorney R. E. Wood conducted the prosecution, while Mr. R. F. McWilliams defended the prisoner.

On Thursday Arries will appear, and answer to two other charges.

The following in parts is a verbatim report of the evidence:—

Mrs. Charles Baker was the first witness called. She lives on Gilchrist street, and deposed that she was in town on the afternoon of Wednesday, March 2nd. She started home about ten minutes to ten o'clock, and had company as far as the Protestant Home. From there on she went home alone. As she was crossing the railway bridge she saw a man stooping down lacing his boots. He unexpectedly snatched her hand satchel. It contained two purses; one had a five dollar bill and two or three ones and the other contained about a dollar in silver. The man was dressed in a short coat and had a peak cap on the back of his head; his hair in front covered the peak; he had a young face, and was clean shaven. To the best of her knowledge witness identified the prisoner. She could not positively swear that he was the man, but said that his general appearance was the same.

Edward Kimble was next examined and said that he saw the prisoner at ten o'clock on Wednesday night, March 2nd, at the City Hotel. He had plenty of money in his pockets and was buying drinks freely.

Crown Attorney Wood asked — How long were you in the City Hotel?

Witness—We were there for about ten minutes and left together.

Mr. McWilliams protested that that was superfluous evidence. It was immaterial what Arries did subsequent to the alleged robbery. His objection however did not stand.

Question—Did you have any more than one drink at the City Hotel?

Answer—Not then.

Q—Did you go out directly after?

A—After we had the drink we sat down, and shortly after he asked me to go up street with him.

Q—Where did you go next?

A—To the Oriental Hotel.

Q—What time did you get there?

A—About ten minutes past ten o'clock.

Q—What did you go there for?

A—To see them play pool.

Q—Did he ask you to have another drink?

A—Yes, there were four or five others there.

Q—What did the treat cost?

A—About 35 cents.

Mr. McWilliams again objected, saying that the prisoner had money to spend then.

Mr. Wood ironically enjoined that he certainly had.

Q—Did he pay for the drinks in bills or in silver?

A—In silver.

Q—What next occurred?

A—He treated all around to another drink. The same number of us drank.

Q—What did it cost him?

Q—Did you see him take the bills from out of his pocket?

A—YES; HE TOOK THEM FROM A PURSE WHICH HE GOT OUT OF A POCKET-BOOK. The purse was of a dark colour.

Q—How much money did you see?

A—He had a five dollar bill and another one, but I do not know its denomination.

Q—Did he treat again?

A—Yes, several times.

Q—Did you see the number of the bill he broke?

A—No.

Q—Did any others join the party and drink?

A—He called in a man from outside. He was the only one.

Q—Did prisoner say anything about the money?

A—No. I asked him how much he had and he said $7 or $8. He also told me that he had been working "on the other side."

Q—He said nothing further?

A—No.

A—To Leary's livery stables.

Q—Who suggested that?

A—Arries.

Q—For what purpose did you go?

A—Arries wanted to be driven home.

Q—Was he sober?

A—I don't know that he was drunk.

Q—Did you go to Leary's with him?

A—Yes.

Q—What happened there?

A—Arries asked Mr. LeBar to drive him home, but he said that he could not, as he had to meet the midnight.

Q—How was prisoner dressed then?

A—Similar to what he is now.

Q—Did Arries get a rig?

A—John Elliott, a driver, came in the barn shortly after, and Arries engaged him.

C—Did you go with him?

A—No, sir.

Q—Did prisoner tell you how much he had spent?

A—No, sir.

Q—Do you know how much it was?

A—No, sir.

Q—What price were the drinks; were they expensive ones or did he take common beer?

A—He got a 10-cent cigar and drank ale.

Lewis Elliott was next called and Crown Attorney Wood asked — You were in the City Hotel on the night spoken of, and saw the prisoner?

A—Yes.

Q—What time was that?

A—A little after 10 o'clock. I looked at the clock at a quarter past.

Q—How was the prisoner dressed?

A—Same as he is now—a pea jacket, shoepacks and peak cap.

Q—Did you not make a different statement to the chief?

A—I do not think so.

Q—Did you see what money he had that night?

A—Not the exact amount.

Anson Henry, bartender at the Oriental Hotel, on being sworn answered as follows:—

Q—Did you see the prisoner on the night in question?

A—Yes, sir.

Q—How much did he spend?

A—I don't know. He treated several times.

Q—Can you tell the Court what bills he changed?

A—No. He first paid in silver and later changed to bills. No, I do not remember seeing a $5 bill.

Q—Could you place the time?

A—No.

Q—Were they Canadian or American bills?

A—I do not know.

Q—Did you not tell the Chief on Saturday the nationality of the bills?

A—Not for sure. I remember that there was a $1 Canadian bill.

Vasa LeBar was next examined. He is employed at Leary's livery stable and related what occurred when Arries and Kimble came into the barn on Wednesday night, March 2nd.

John Elliott, one of Mr. Leary's drivers, told of Arries engaging him to drive him home. He gave him 25 cents or half a dollar—he was not sure which.

Fred Dunsford gave evidence to the effect that he had seen prisoner in the bar of the City Hotel on the night in question about ten p.m. He was spending money freely.

Robert Howland created a sensation when on being sworn he said he knew that the prisoner carried money in a card case somewhat similar to the one produced in court by Mrs. Baker.

Policemen Adams and Stewart also gave evidence regarding the prisoner's arrest.

This concluded the case.

Mr. R. F. McWilliams made a strong argument for the prisoner, but Police Magistrate Dumble remarked that in his own mind he was certain Arries had robbed Mrs. Baker.

Two other cases were heard.

A complaint against Chas. Mundon for keeping a vicious dog was poured forth into the Magistrate's ears. The case was enlarged until next Wednesday morning in order that more evidence might be gleaned.

RUSSIANS DISBELIEVE REPORTED CAPTURE.

1800 Japs Said to be Prisoners are not yet in Russians' Hands.

TRIPLE ALLIANCE FORMED.

Special G. N. W. Despatch to the Examiner.

A TRIPLE ALLIANCE.

St. Petersburg, March 21.—The Novoe Vremya publishes prominently a Paris dispatch declaring it is believed there that a triple alliance between Japan, China and Korea has been formed, and that this was the real object of the Marquis Itos' visit to Seoul.

REPORT NOT CREDITED.

St. Petersburg, March 21.—Beyond the movement of troops to the far East, which is progressing satisfactorily and in a accordance with Russian plans the Government advices indicate little change in the situation no official telegrams announcing collisions with the enemy had been received up to noon. The Government has no information to substantiate the reported capture of 1800 Japs near the Yalu River, it is assured that it would have been reported immediately if true.

A RUSSIAN CAPTURE.

Kobe, March 21.—Cossacks have captured a Japanese major; five other officers and two civilians near Wiju. All the prisoners were sent to Irkutsk, Siberia. The Russians near Yalu River have informed the Corean authorities that anyone caught supplying fodder or any military provisions to the Japs will be considered an enemy to Russia, and will be liable to be shot.

London, March 21.—Nothing has reached here to confirm the report that a battle has taken place on the Yalu, in which it was said the Russians had captured 1,800 prisoners.

A despatch from St. Petersburg to a news agency, dated yesterday says there has been no change in the war situation, and that all is quiet on both land and sea.

On the Russian line from Pingyang to the Yalu River, and the Japanese line to Gensan there have been slight skirmishes between scouts, but no battle has taken place, as the distance between the opposing armies is great. The bulk of the Russian forces, the despatch adds, has not yet passed the Yalu River.

The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Daily Telegraph says that the military authorities were startled by the attempt of the Japanese to land in Helena Bay, as the nearest Russian force that could have been used against them consisted of three rifle regiments at Newchwang. The weather having hindered the Japanese landing, energetic measures are now being adopted to prevent such a descent. Among the other devices adopted has been the concentration of troops at Foochow, twenty-one miles south of Helena Bay.

In cabling the fact that all British and American residents at Newchwang must remain within the walls, a correspondent of The Daily Chronicle at Newchwang, says:

"I was arrested while attempting to leave yesterday."

The correspondent reported that a Japanese squadron arrived at the mouth of the Liao River Saturday night and landed a party which, after reconnoitering, re-embarked.

Alexieff Is Supreme.

Paris, March 21.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Echo de Paris has had an interview with Vice-Admiral Avellane, the Russian Minister of Marine, who said it had been necessary to replace Vice-Admiral Stark, the condition of whose health was deplorable, by an energetic man like Vice-Admiral Makaroff, but the Minister denied that the presence of either Vice-Admiral Makaroff or Gen. Kuropatkin affected the position of Viceroy Alexieff, adding that Vice-Admiral Makaroff's telegrams to the Emperor would pass through the Viceroy's hands. The Minister said he did not expect that there would be any further changes in the Emperor's principal representatives at the seat of war during the entire period of the duration of hostilities.

The correspondent says he learns that the Russians are fortifying the mouth of the Yalu at Wiju as well as the Tatung River.

Russian Protests.

Paris, March 21.—The Russian Embassy has received from St. Petersburg and has handed to Foreign Minister Delcasse for transmission to the French Minister at Tokio, who is entrusted with the charge of Russian interests in Japan, a protest against an alleged infraction of the laws of war. It appears that during the attack on Port Arthur, March 10, the Japanese fired over fifty projectiles at the quarantine station on the Island of Sanshantao, resulting in the injury of numerous persons.

Count Lamsdorff, the Russian foreign minister, considers this to be a violation of the laws of war, notably of the twenty-fifth class of The Hague convention, to which Japan was a signatory. The Minister therefore asks France to call Japan's attention to make answer apart from the general protests contained in the recent Russian note to the powers.

The French Government has already transmitted to Tokio Russia's protest against the seizure of Russian whaling vessels wintering at Nagasaki before the expiration of the date fixed for the departure of Russian vessels from Japanese ports. To this Japan replied that a prize court, having already passed upon the question, it was no longer a diplomatic one, but the powers had a right to appeal to a superior court. Russia refuses to take this view of the matter, and ask France to renew the protest.

Warships Ready.

Libau, Russia, March 21.—The warships which have been wintering here are now ready to go into commission.

Battleship Sails.

Canea, Island of Crete, March 21.—The Russian battleship Ossliabya, with Admiral Wirenius on board, sailed at 11.30 o'clock yesterday morning for an unknown destination. Three torpedo boats followed the battleship. The torpedo armored cruiser Dmitri Donskoi arrived here yesterday afternoon.

Japan's Parliament Met Sunday.

Tokio, March 21.—With stately ceremony, the special session of Parliament, convened to provide the money needed towards the war against Russia, was opened at 11 o'clock yesterday morning. The Emperor read the following speech from the throne:

"We hereby open the Imperial Diet and address each and all the members of the House and Peers and the House of Representatives. We announce with high satisfaction that our relations with the treaty powers are steadily growing in cordiality and understanding. Prompted by an earned desire to maintain a permanent peace in the extreme east, our Government by our command, entered into negotiations with Russia, but we regret that, owing to an absence of sincerity on the part of Russia in her peaceful professions, we have been compelled to appeal to arms, and having taken that step we cannot hesitate until the object of the war is attained.

"Our forces, in the presence of unwonted hardships and privations, are now displaying their steadfast loyalty and valor, and we hope that all our subjects will co-operate in perfect unity for the enhancement of the glory of the Empire.

"We trust that you will, in compliance with our will, fulfil the duty incumbent on you and give cordial consent to these budget and bills which are specially urgent in connection with the situation and which we have ordered the ministers of state to lay before you."

THE FIRE RECORD.

Car Barns At Chicago Destroyed With Loss of $150,000—Fires at Napanee, Wallaceburg and Ingersoll.

Chicago, March 21.—Fire last night destroyed the Union Traction Company's car barns at Division street and Western avenue, causing a loss of $150,000. Five of the company's employes who were fighting the flames before the firemen arrived were imprisoned in the burning structure by a falling roof, and all were painfully burned before they were rescued. This is the second of the Union Traction Company's barns to burn within a week, and both fires are believed to have been of incendiary origin.

Big Fire at Ingersoll.

Ingersoll, March 21.—Nearly $20,000 damage was caused by a fire which destroyed R. N. Thurtell's drug store, J. Andrew's barber shop, Frederick Dutton's grocery store and the Ingersoll Amateur Athletic rooms in the McKinnon building early yesterday morning. The firemen were called out at 2 o'clock, and stuck to their posts until nearly noon. The origin of the fire is unknown. There was $4,000 insurance on the building, and the following on contents: Frederick Dutton, $3,000; I. A. A. A., $500; J. Andrews, $400; R. N. Thurtell, $4,100.

Worst in 18 Years.

Napanee, March 21.—Just at the noon-hour yesterday fire was discovered in E. E. Richardson's photograph gallery in the Grange Block, Dundas street. The whole upper portion of the block was gutted. The following parties suffered loss, mostly through water: A. E. Lazier, woollen goods; John Paisley, grocer; James Walters, tailor; Haines & Lockett, boots and shoes; E. E. Richardson, photograph gallery, a total loss. James Walters and A. E. Lazier removed most of their stock. It is over 18 years since Napanee has had such a disastrous fire as this one.

Printers May Strike.

DUE TO THE LIBEAL TARIFF.

The protectionist press of the country, are like the scriptural description of Ephraim, joined to their idol, a Chinese-wall tariff, and carrying it about with them like a Russian soldier, his ikon, ready to fall down and worship it in season and out of season. They pretend with monstrous absurdity to believe that all the prosperity the country enjoys under a Liberal Administration is due to the Foster tariff; but they forget to mention that that wonder-working tariff did not bring prosperity when it was administered by its creators. It was only when a Liberal Government modified it and adapted it to their requirements of the country that it was anything more than an unmixed evil. The Mail and Empire declares that the purchase of the Montreal Locomotive Works is not a triumph for the Fielding tariff, but that it is due to the post-mortem influence of the Foster tariff. The organ forgets that the Montreal Works did not come into existence under the Foster tariff, because the Foster tariff instead of protecting such an industry, oppressed it. The Mail and Empire asserts that the duty on locomotives is the same as under the old tariff, but the revised Liberal tariff made it possible for locomotives to be profitably made in Canada. The effect of the old tariff was simply to make Canadian railways pay more for their locomotives which they were compelled to import from abroad, for the Kingston Works, the only one of the kind in Canada, led a sickly existence under the baneful influence of a practically prohibitory tax on the raw material—iron and steel, which chiefly entered into the construction of locomotives. By reducing the duty on iron and steel the Fielding tariff made it possible to manufacture locomotives profitably in Canada. So that it is the Fielding tariff, a common-sense modification of the bull-headed, unbending principle of "protection," and not to the Foster tariff, that not only the existence, but the revived activity of the Montreal Locomotive Works is due; and not only that but under the Fielding tariff the Canadian Pacific Railway has established works at Hochelaga for the construction of the locomotives it needs on its immense stretch of metals.

LAME REASONING.

Mr. Matheson, the financial critic of the Opposition, speaking in the House, declared that the resources of the province had not been "properly conserved," the cost of the Temiscamingue Railway, could have been met by the sales of timber for 25 or 30 miles on each side of it, whereas a large portion of the results of timber sales had been used for the ordinary expenses of the Government. Mr. Matheson is essaying the impossible—trying to have his cake and eat it. It is true that many millions of revenue from timber have gone into our public buildings, millions have been devoted to the maintenance of our public institutions, and for other services, which would have had to be maintained by direct taxation of the people if the services they give had been provided. If our pine forests had not been converted into money they would have been swept away by fire or deteriorated by natural decay. Mr. Matheson's criticism is weak—it is on a line with the argument that if a man could save all his earnings or income, and spend nothing, he would become rich.

THE LIVING CHRIST; THE SON OF MAN.

Rev. W. B. Heeney, of Belleville, at St. John's Church.

Rev. W. B. Heeney, B.A., of Belleville, conducted both services at St John's church yesterday, exchanging pulpits with Rev. J. C. Davidson. His text at the evening service was—"Whom do men say that I, the Son of Man, am?" St. Matthew xvi, vs. 13.

In his introductory remarks Rev. Mr. Heeney asked the congregation to break away in mind from the present and to go back over all the intervening centuries to the time of the words and works of Christ Jesus—not to the Divinity, but to Christ the Man. This thought of humanity in the Saviour was almost forgotten in the theology of the present day, probably because after His ascension the apostles and disciples were so filled with the idea of His divinity that they almost forgot his manhood. But He was a man, the son of a carpenter. In the Old Testament, frequent reference is made to the Saviour as a man. As a man He was born, lived, hungred, thirsted, worked, slept and was susceptible to the joys, sorrows, and temptations of humanity. Pontius Pilate said, "Behold the Man." The thief and the centurion at the Cross saw him as a man, and so ought all of us to see him as a man. In speaking He almost always referred to Himself as a "Son of Man," not "Son of God." On the deathbed nothing is longed for more than one who understands, and loves—a human person; and so let us forget the theology, as taught to-day, and cling to the living Christ—the Son of Man.

MARRIED FOR HALF A CENTURY,

Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary of Mr and Mrs. Ed. Sargent Celebrated.

On Sunday, March 6th, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sargent, of Westwood, celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Sargent have been resident in Westwood for about 48 years, and during that almost half century's residence have made a wide circle of friends, from whom came many expressions of good wishes on that day.

Mr. John Sargent, their only son, with his family, spent the day at his parents, and a quiet day was spent, in celebration of the pleasing event, which took place half a century previous.

The Examiner joins in the general congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Sargent, and expresses the hope that many years may yet be spared to them.

GREAT FUTURE FOR CANADIAN COAL.

Nova Scotia Alone Contains Seven Billions Tons.

Of the World's total annual production of coal, exclusive of lignite, amounting to over 700,000,000 tons, the United States produces over one-third, and the United Kingdom a little under one-third. Since 1899 the United States has continuously held the lead in production, though in value of production the United Kingdom still holds first place. Of the per capita production the United Kingdom leads with 5 1-2 tons; the United States is second with 3 1-2 tons, and Belgium third with 3 1-3 tons. In productive capacity the United States miner is far superior to his competitors in other countries. This is partly due to the use of improved coal cutting machinery in the United States and to the fact that the mines worked there are nearer the surface. In point of consumption the Unites States use more coal than any other country and is second to the United Kingdom in its per capita consumption. In Canada the consumption of coal is much greater than the production, deficiency being supplied from the United States. However, Canada will not need to depend on foreigners long for her coal, as in Nova Scotia alone the undeveloped coal areas are estimated to contain 7,000,000,000 tons. The production of coal in Canada in 1903 was 7,639,000 tons, as against 5,560,000 tons in 1902, a remarkable increase.

THREE GATEWAYS TO THE WEST.

Since The South-west Limited, the new electric-lighted train of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway, has been placed in service, Chicago to Kansas City, this company offers the best of train service to the the West through three important gateways — Kansas City, Omaha and St. Paul.

The Pioneer Limited, Chicago to St. Paul and Minneapolis, for years has been the most popular train between these cities. The Overland Limited, Chicago to Omaha and San Francisco, is the most famous of transcontinental trains through Omaha.

The South-west Limited, Chicago to Kansas City, with its standard and compartment sleepers, library observation cars and other excellent equipment, offers travellers to the Southwest better service than they have heretofore enjoyed, and in consequence has proved a success from its initial trip.

MACEDONIAN REFORMS.

Pressure Brought to Bear on Porte to Accept Scheme.

Constantinople, March 21.—The Russian and Austrian Embassies yesterday renewed their pressure upon the Porte to accept unaltered the Austro-Russian scheme of reforms in Macedonia. The Russo-Austrian note pointed out that the counter proposals of the Porte made on March 17, which objected to the placing of foreign officers in command of the gendarmie in Macedonia did not tally with Turkey's original acceptance of the reform scheme. The note warned the Porte of the grave consequences that would follow any further delay.

REDMOND'S ULTIMATUM.

Irish Will Keep Anti-Home Rule Government Out of Office.

Manchester, March 21.—John Redmond, the leader of the Irish party, addressing an Irish demonstration here yesterday, said that the first business of the party was to strike down the present Government and then to see that no Government was put into office which would not grant home rule to Ireland. He said it was ridiculous for Liberals like Herbert H. Asquith to call home rule an "academic question."

Hague Tribunal's Cost.

London, March 21.—A news agency despatch from The Hague says it is rumored that the United States intends to refuse to supervise the carrying out of The Hague Tribunal's decision concerning the payment of the costs of the procedure in the Venezuela case. The rumor is unconfirmed. Should the United States refuse, the various Governments concerned will pay the minimum cost of arbitration, which would be £110 10s each.

Brings a Fine Lot.

Halifax, N.S., March 21.—The Dominion Liner Kensington from Liverpool arrived last night after a stormy passage. The steamer has 330 passengers, 116 second cabin, and the balance steerage. The passengers are chiefly English, Irish and Scotch, and a few Scandinavians. They are a splendid lot and appear to be in good circumstances. Most of them are bound to the Canadian Northwest to settle.

Arrested the Anarchist.

London, March 21.—A despatch from Brussels to a news agency here says the police believe that the explosion of a dynamite bomb early Friday morning, resulting in the killing of an artillery officer, and the serious wounding of half a dozen other persons, was the work of an Anarchist printer, whom they have arrested.

Fear Loss of the Queen.

The Hague, March 21.—Queen Wilhelmina's failing health continues to cause great anxiety. She has been ordered by her physician to take a villa on Lake Maggiore, and will set out for Italy almost immediately. She is a prey to continual depression.

One of Dr. Chase's oldest patients in Canada is Mr. G. W. Parish, of Sturgeon Bay, Simcoe County, Ont., whom he cured of kidney disease in 1867 by means of his now celebrated Kidney-Liver Pills. Mr. Parish writes that he does not think there is any medicine half so good, and he always keeps Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in the house as a family medicine.

LADY CAIRNS SUNK

British Barque Goes Down After Collision Off Dublin Bay.

CREW OF 22 WERE DROWNED

German Barque Mona Collided With the English Barque Off Dublin Bay, and Latter Went Down in a Few Minutes—New York and British Troopship Assaye Also in Collision.

Dublin, March 21.—The German barque Mona collided with the English barque Lady Cairns, off Dublin Bay, yesterday morning. Her crew of 22 men were drowned. The Mona, which was much damaged, was assisted into Dublin Harbor.

The Lady Cairns was a three-masted iron ship of 1,186 tons. She was commanded by Captain T. Evans, and was bound from Liverpool for Timaru, New Zealand. The Lady Cairns was built in Belfast in 1869, and was owned by L. Tulleroch of Swansea. The Mona was commanded by Captain Schwarting.

BIG SHIPS IN COLLISION.

The New York and the British Troopship Assaye Crash in a Fog—No One Was Injured.

Southampton, March 21.—The American Line steamship New York, Capt. Young, from New York, March 12, for Plymouth, Cherbourg and Southampton, met with two mishaps yesterday, grounding off Cape La Hague, France, in the early morning, and later coming into collision in the English Channel with the Peninsular and Oriental steamship Assaye, under contract to the British Government, and used as a troopship. The Assaye was bound for Bombay with 500 troops.

The New York grounded while approaching Cherbourg at 2.30 o'clock yesterday morning during a fog. The sea was smooth and the tide rising, and an hour and a half after she grounded the vessel was floated without assistance. Her bottom was damaged and there was water in the hold, but she was able to proceed.

During the voyage up the channel a dense fog descended. When off Hurst Castle, England, the Assaye suddenly appeared, and it was found impossible to avoid a collision. The New York's bow crashed into the Assaye's starboard bow, tearing a great gap in that vessel. The New York's bowsprit and figurehead were carried away and the latter was smashed into fragments. There was great excitement, but no panic on either vessel. The boats of the Assaye were lowered and the troops were mustered, but the bulkhead of the troopship saved her.

Both vessels were able to enter Southampton, and the New York was docked at 4.30 o'clock for temporary repairs. Nobody was injured. It will be impossible to estimate the damage to the New York until she has been put into dry dock. It is believed that both vessels have been rather seriously injured. Another troopship will replace the Assaye.

When the New York grounded at Cape La Hague, the passengers who were asleep hardly felt the shock.

James Sellers, a passenger, says that 1.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, while he was at luncheon, there was a grating noise followed by a tremendous shock. Everyone, he says, ran to the deck, and it was found that the New York's bow was firmly fixed in the side of the Assaye. Mr. Sellers was close enough to observe the marvelous discipline aboard the troopship. Not a second was lost, and there was no sign of hurry, and while the boats were being prepared for launching the soldiers were mustered with the precision of a ordinary drill.

"As the vessels parted," concluded Mr. Sellers, "we saw a gaping hole in the Assaye 100 feet wide and sticking on our stem was a portmanreau and other portable property. There was no panic on our boat. Had we struck the Assaye amidships she would have sunk."

All Hope Abandoned.

Portsmouth, March 21.—Any hope that the crew of the ill-fated submarine boat, A1, struck and sunk by the steamship Berwick Castle, might possibly be alive has been abandoned. Saturday morning the A1 was discovered off the Nab lightship, after a prolonged search, in which quite a small fleet of ships participated. Divers at once went down and rapped loudly on the sides, but received no response. They report that she is lying on her port side, and is full of water. Had her hull remained intact life could have been sustained for three days with the air supply carried in her tanks. The strength of the current did not permit the A1 to be raised, and an attempt will be made to-day to bring her to the surface.

CANADA AND THE CHINESE.

China Asks For Free Entry As a Result of Sanction to Immigration of Yellow Labor Into Transvaal.

London, March 21.—(C.A.P.)—The London Press states that the Chinese Government, in returning its sanction to the emigration of Chinese coolies into the Transvaal, demands their free entry into Vancouver. It is pointed out that this might result in a serious disturbance of the relations between Britain and the United States.

Poor Law Immigrants.

London, March 21.—(C.A.P.)—Lord Crewe, chairman of the State Children's Aid Association, in urging the desirability of greater emigration to Canada of poor law children, denounced the Metropolitan Board of Guardians for their proposal for the establishment of poor law receiving homes in Canada. He quotes a letter from John Joseph Kelso, urging the avoidance of any conflict with Canadian public opinion. Lord Crewe believes the work of voluntary agencies is sufficient.

Free News Service.

London, March 21.—(C.A.P.)—Sir Sandford Fleming has written the Postmaster-General of New Zeland, proposing a free news cable service of 500 words daily between Canada and New Zealand for a start, and thinks Australia is likely to participate.

ATTITUDE OF THE DOMINION.

Canada Wants No Joint Commission to Settle Tariff With Germany.

London, March 21.—(C.A.P.)—The Daily Chronicle says "once bit, twice shy" expresses the attitude of Canada towards the Colonial Office proposal for the solving of the tariff difficulties between Canada and Germany by a joint commission. Rightly or wrongly, Canada feels that the English representative in the Alaska case gave away her case, and she is in no mood to risk a smilar result in the case of Germany. As in the Alaska case, a settlement might be politically advantageous to Britain, but Canada this time wants to arrange terms herself.

A Privy Councillor.

London, March 21.—(C.A.P.)—The King has approved of the appointment of Sir Henri Elzear Taschereau, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Canada, to be a member of the Imperial Privy Council.

Daughter to Curzon.

London, March 21.—(C.A.P.)—A daughter was born in London yesterday to Lady Curzon, wife of Lord Curzon of Keddleston, viceroy and Governor-General of India. Mother and child are doing well.

Chinese in Transvool.

London, March 21.—(C.A.P.)—Right Hon. H. Campbell-Bannerman's resolution censuring the Government to be moved to-day runs "That this House disapproves the conduct of the Government in advising the Crown not to disallow the ordinance sanctioning the introduction of Chinese labor into the Transvaal."

AN ABSOLUTE NECESSITY.

So Thinks at Least one Travelling Man.

I would as soon think of starting out without my mileage books and grip as to start out on a trip without a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in my valise, said a travelling man who represents a St. Louis hardware house. Why? Because I have to put up at all kinds of hotels and boarding houses. I have to eat good, bad and indifferent food at all hours of the day and night and I don't believe any man's stomach will stand that sort of thing without protest, anyway I know mine won't. It has have something to break the fall and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the crutch I fall back on.

My friends often "josh" me about it, tell me I'm an easy mark for patent medicine fakers, that advertised medicines are humbugs etc., but I notice that they are nearly always complaining of their aches and pains and poor digestion while I can stand most any old kind of fare and feel good and ready for my work when it needs me and, I believe I owe my good digestion and sound health to the daily, regular use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, year in and year out, and all the "joshing" in the world will never convince me to the contrary.

I used to have heartburn about three times a day and a headache about three or four times a week and after standing for this for four or five years I began to look around for a crutch and found it when my doctor told me the best investment I could make would be a fifty cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and I have invested about fifty cents a month for them ever since and when I stop to think that that is what I spend every day for cigars, I feel like shaking hands with myself for I can keep my stomach and digestion in first class order for fifty cents a month. I don't care for any better life insurance.

My druggist tells me they are the most popular of all stomach medicines and that they have maintained their popularity and success because they do as advertised. They bring results, and results are what count in a patent medicine as much as in selling barbwire.

Young Student Disappears.

Toronto, March 21.—The mysterious disappearance of John W. Pierce, a young college student of Toronto, is puzzling the police. Pierce boarded at 25 Wood street. His acquaintances here and at the School of Practical Science are equally amazed over his unaccountable absence. He is but twenty years old and quite unsophisticated. He has not been seen since Thursday evening.

Michael Davitt Ill.

Oakland, March 21.—Michael Davitt, who arrived here a week ago, is so ill that he was unable to participate in the celebration of St. Patrick's Day in San Francisco. Upon his arrival in New York Mr. Davitt caught a cold, which has developed to a point where pneumonia is feared.

IT IS FAR-REACHING

Basis of Settlement Between France and Great Britain.

RECEIVED IN OTHER CAPITALS

Undoubted in St. Petersburg and Berlin and Believed in London, Though Unofficial, to Be Substantially Correct—How It Will Effect Russia-Japanese War—Where Canada Will Come In.

London, March 21.—General satisfaction prevails here at the announcement that a basis of settlement has been reached regarding the main questions on which Britain and France were at issue. Although no official confirmation has yet been solicited, the information has come from so many usually reliable sources that it is accepted as not only probable, but substantially correct. That it has been so received in foreign capitals is undoubted. Berlin already makes hardly any attempt to hide the chagrin and irritation caused by the news for which it must have been prepared. In St. Petersburg also the understanding is regarded as laying France open to a charge of disloyalty to the dual alliance. Japan, on the other hand, welcomes the intelligence as ensuring non-interference in her present war.

Where Canada Comes In.

The settlement as outlined follows the lines which were long ago hinted at and even anticipated. England gets a free hand in Egypt and the acknowledgment of her supremacy. France becomes paramount in Morocco and her dream of a vast consolidated Northwestern African Empire comes another step nearer realization. Canada receives the great boon of being freed from the complications caused by the French treaty rights in the Newfoundland coast, purchased for her by the Motherland partly by a money compensation and partly by the gift of part of the British territory of Sinder, which secures for France a more convenient access to Lake Chad than she at present possesses. These constitute the only dangerous matters in dispute, and with these taken out of the way, the minor questions affecting Siam, the New Hebrides, the Persian Gulf and various other African disagreements ought to present no difficulty.

Will Not Be Exact.

There will be no inclination here to weigh the gain and loss to the contracting parties in any very exact balance. If France gains positively in territory, Britain gains negatively in the removal of French treaty and other rights which fettered her freedom of action and caused many anxious diplomatic moments. Britain secures a great direct advantage for Canada which will facilitate also the rounding off of the Dominion by the inclusion of Newfoundland. Both countries reap a vast benefit in the consolidation of friendly feeling already so auspiciously initiated and in the creation of joint interests and mutual reciprocation, which must tend in the future to a closer co-operation and support in the foreign policy of the nations. Incidentally, too, it puts an effectual spoke in the German diplomatic wheel by securing the preservation of absolute neutrality in the pending eastern struggle. Any hopes Germany cherished of adding to her Chinese possessions is blasted and Russia must prepare herself to carry the war through on her own resources. Japan's satisfaction that she is to be allowed to fight it out alone is wonderful evidence of her assurance and self-confidence that she can do so to a successful issue.

Not Settled Yet.

London, March 21.—(C.A.P.)—The correspondent of The London Echo in Paris wires that the question of Newfoundland proved the most delicate of all, and he believes it is not yet decided.

Morocco Unchanged.

Madrid, March 21.—The Associated Press learns that the British Government has declined to negotiate with France regarding Morocco until France can complete arrangements concerning Moroccan affairs with Spain. In consequence of this, negotiations to the latter end have been resumed at Paris and Madrid, but no conclusion can be expected for some time. Hence when the pending Anglo-French treaty is published it will be found that the status of Morocco, so long one of Europe's most thorny problems, remains unchanged.

A 20 Per Cent. Reduction.

Pittsburg, March 21.—Reduction of 20 per cent. below the wage scale of 1903-4 is the proposition that will be submitted to the sheet and tin plate lodges of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers. The vote on the scale must be in by April 2.

Irish Land Act Loan.

London, March 21.—The Government issued Saturday the prospectus of the Irish Land Act loan. Stock to the amount of £5,000,000 is issued at 87, to bear 2¾ per cent. interest. The first full half year's dividend is payable in July.

The Kaiser on Gibraltar.

Gibraltar, March 21.—Emperor William, on visiting the rock of Gibraltar yesterday, said: "It quite reached my expectations. It is grand, like everything English. I am not surprised that Gibraltar is impregnable."

Killed By a Tree.

Amherst N.S., March 21.—Robert Woodwood 72, a lumberman, was killed by a falling tree, which dropped unexpectedly and before he could get out of the way it crashed down upon him. He leaves a widow.

TWO YEAR OLD CHILD DECEASED.

Was Taken to Hospital From Norwood for an Operation.

The death of a two-year-old child of Mr. Laing's, Norwood, occurred at Nicholls Hospital this morning. The child was brought to the hospital on Friday for an operation, which was performed, but from the effects of which the child was too weak to recover.

The body was sent to Norwood on the noon train to-day, for interment. Mr. George Laing, on Murray and Aylmer street is a brother of the child's father.

A FORMER MINSTER IN PETERBOROUGH.

Rev. O. C. Elliott, Once Pastor of Park Street Church Preached Yesterday.

Rev. O. C. Elliott, of Belleville, a former pastor of the Park street Baptist church, preached at Murray street yesterday morning and was welcomed back to Peterborough by a large congregation.

Rev. Mr. Elliott spoke very eloquently on behalf of Home Missions. He introduced his theme by dwelling at some length on the necessities of our Lord when on earth, giving by way of illustration His wants when He wished for a room in which to observe the passover, and sending His disciples for an ass on which to make His triumpal entry into Jerusalem. "It is about the entry of our Lord Jesus Christ in the towns and cities of our provinces specially, that I wish to speak to-day," said the preacher, who followed by pointing out how work must be done at home if it is to be kept up abroad. The missionaries in the Canadian North-west, in China and in India, could not be supported unless the church at home was kept up. He showed clearly how imperative was the work of erecting churches in the smaller towns of the province and dwelt at considerable length on the work which had been done in the past in this direction. Churches had been erected only a few years ago which now not only supported themselves but gave their best towards promoting missionary work in the far distant land. This alone, the speaker said, showed the immense value in beginning at home and then spreading abroad.

In conclusion, an appeal was made for more funds in order that the work might be the more successfully carried on.

"IRISH NIGHT" A GREAT SUCCESS.

A Pleasing Gathering in the Y. M. C. A on Saturday Night.

There was a large attendance of men in the Y.M.C.A. on Saturday night when the programme partook of an Irish character. Mr. Robt. E. Harding presided in a most capable and happy manner, so helpful to the success of the evening's enjoyment.

Mr. Anderson's readings proved that he was no amateur. In his makeup and excellent delivery he made a great hit.

The readings of Messrs. J. C. Brown and W. D. Campbell were well rendered. Mr. Brenneinger caught the crowd in his patriotic selection, in the chorus of which all joined. He was encored, of course. Messrs. Jas. Browne, Jos. Gerrard and R. Dormer were also well received in their songs. Col. Miller and Mr. E. D. Kerr gave witty and instructive addresses on the Irishmen in war and politics. The National Anthem concluded the programme.

All contributors and others interested are invited to attend this meeting.

AN OLD RESIDENT DIED SUDDENLY.

Sad Demise of Mr. Robt. Davidson Aged 84 Years.

The very sudden death occurred this morning, shortly after six o'clock, of Mr. Robert Davidson, of Ashburnham. The deceased was born in County Down, Ireland, in the year 1819, being aged 84 years at the time of his death. He came to Canada in 1849, settling first in Peterborough. After spending a few years in the United States Mr. Davidson returned to Peterborough, and married here in 1852. His wife predeceased him about eighteen months ago. The early part of his life was spent in this town, but later on he bought a farm in Smith township, and resided there until five years ago, when he returned to Peterough.

He leaves a family of five — two sons, John and Robert, of Smith; and three daughters, Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Breakley, and Miss Davidson, all of town.

The funeral will take place on Wednesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock from the family residence, Brown street, Ashburnham, to the Little Lake cemetery.

CAPTAIN WINSLOW'S SAD BEREAVEMENT.

His Wife Died Yesterday After an Extended Illness.

Word was received in town to-day of the death of Mrs. Winslow, wife of Captain Winslow, of Millbrook, which occurred at her home yesterday. The deceased has been ill since last summer, but her death was not expected by her friends.

The late Mrs. Winslow was a daughter of Dr. Farwell, of Whitby, the Registrar of Ontario County, and was a sister of Mr. C. F. Farwell, ex-M.P.P. of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., where she frequently visited. One son, eight years old, with her bereaved husband, survive her.

Captain and Mrs. Winslow are very well known in town, and the many friends of the bereaved husband will deeply sympathize with him in the loss he has sustained.

BUSINESS MAN'S SUDDEN DEATH.

Mr. Edward Brown Died Yesterday from Hemmorage of the Lungs.

A very sudden death occurred yesterday morning, when Mr. Edward Brown, one of Peterborough's best know business men passed away; the cause of his death being Hemmorage of the Lungs. Mr. Brown had been ailing for some days, but his condition was not considered serious until the hemmorage occurred, from which his death resulted.

The late Mr. Brown, who was in his 49th year, had been a resident of Peterborough for about 25 years, during 16 of which he conducted a prosperous grocery business on George street. He was a very popular man among his business associates, and his genial disposition made him a welcome addition to any social gathering. He was an enthusiastic hunter, and it was one of his most pleasant diversions from the cares of business to take his annual hunting trip to the north.

The deceased was married to Miss Thornton, of Providence, R.I., who survives her husband. His mother, 3 brothers and 2 sisters are also left, the former living in Port Hope with her son, J. N., the other brothers are W. A., of Collingwood, and G. H. of Chemong Park. The sisters are—Mrs. Hill, and Mrs. Milne, of Toronto.

The funeral, which will be under Masonic auspices, will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, from his late residence, 376 Stewart street, to St. John's church and interment at Little Lake Cemetery.

MR. GEO. POWELL'S FATHER DECEASED.

Had Lived a Useful Life and Attained the age of 84 Years.

The Cobourg Sentinal-Star tells of the death of Mr. O. W. Powell, father of Mr. Geo. Powell, of Peterborough, who was in that town on Saturday attending his father's funeral. The late Mr. Powell was noted for his devotion to the church, and for over 60 years had been a member of the Methodist church, and for a great many years was a class leader. He was one of the stewarts in the Cobourg Methodist church, where he will be greatly missed. Rev. Dr. Reynar, Professor in Victoria University, was at the funeral, the deceased having been in his life-time a warm friend of the reverend doctor. The Sentinel-Star says:—"Thursday afternoon one of the oldest residents of Cobourg, Orin W. Powell, died at his residence, D'Arcy street. The deceased for years kept a meat market, even before the present market was built, he had a stall in the old wooden building that stood where Victoria Hall now stands. A few years ago he retired from business. Two years ago he and his wife celebrated their diamond wedding. He has been a consistent member of the Methodist church. Although of good old age, 84 years last Friday, he was able to be down town until a few weeks ago. He leaves a grown up family of five daughters and three sons, and his widow, who we regret to state is also in failing health."

The funeral took place on Saturday afternoon, from the Methodist church to the Union Cemetery.

PETERBOROUGH GETS ANOTHER INDUSTRY

That of Manufacturing Cement Work For Building.

Messrs Wm. Taylor and Company Erecting a Factory Will be in Operation in April.

Another industry is to be added to the list of those already established in Peterborough and there is abundant reason to believe that the venture will prove successful. The new concern is that of Wm. Taylor and Company, and the business in which they are about to engage is the manufacture of cement work for building purposes, and tile. Among the different products will be those of cement blocks, for foundations, which are rapidly coming into general use, and the great advantages of which are being readily recognized. Ornamental building material for window and door sills, and all kinds of trimmings, equal in appearance and durability to cut stone, will also be turned out. This class of material is coming into general use for building, particularly in the United States, and the variety of uses to which it may be put is practically unlimited. Perhaps the most unique use that has yet been made of cement, and in which its success has been demonstrated, is that of cement piles. Dams are made in England of piles manufactured from cement, and the dam thus constructed is said to be almost indestructible. Some very large buildings in the United States have been built of hollow cement blocks, among them being the Law Exchange Building in Jacksonville, Florida. Some of the most beautiful residences in Pittsburg, Pa., are also constructed of cement. Those who visited the Dominion Industrial Fair in Toronto last year, noticed doubtless the large Dairy Building, and its handsome appearance was the subject of considerable comment. The material used in the construction of this building was cement made into hollow blocks, and its appearance was greatly admired by the many thousands who visited the Fair. In reference to the future for this class of material, the Toronto Star, reporting a meeting of the Engineering Club, said: "The discussion was over the general use of concrete in building at the present time and it seems the concensus of opinion that stone masonry was a thing of the past, and that cement concrete will not only be used in foundations in future, but in the walls and all superstructures."

The new industry here will be located on the southern end of the Hilliard Farm, on Victoria street, and will be in operation during the next month. Stone for use in the manufacture of the product will be procured from the immediate vicinity, in which there is abundance to run the factory for some time. A railway siding into the premises will afford ample shipping facilities.

THE CHURCHES.

GEORGE STREET METHODIST.

The pastor, Rev. J. P. Wilson occupied the pulpit at both services yesterday, and preached to large congregations. The musical service by the choir was much enjoyed. In the the morning the anthem was "Gentle, Holy Saviour," and at the offertory Mr. G. W. Mulligan sang the verses of "They Crucified Him," the choir joining in the chorus. The evening anthem was "Saviour, who died for Me," and the offertory selection, "Abide with me," the alto taking the obligato passages.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH.

Good congregations gathered in St. Luke's church yesterday. In the evening Rev. J. L. Holah, acting-rector, preached from the text, "What is man?" Ps. 84, 5. He compared progressive development to evolution, and said that creation was a development while evolution was a thing contrary to the voice of revelation and Scripture. The idea that man descended from a cell to a fish, from a fish to a reptile, from a reptile to a mammal, and from the latter to a man, will not, according to the Duke of Argyle, be successfully proven. He says "No laboratory has ever produced a living cell."

Man is made in the image of God. This likeness is physical, and we are composed of body, soul and spirit. Man is a tripoint nature, while an animal is only bi-point. Man has been given the additional gift of the spirit.

ALL SAINTS' CHURCH.

Those who attended All Saints yesterday were treated to two excellent sermons by the newly appointed Rector, Rev. Wm. Major. The preacher took as his morning text II Peter 3, 18. Mr. Greenslade sang at this service "Moment by Moment." The reverend gentleman took as his evening text, the 17th chapter of St. Luke 32nd verse, "Remember Lot's Wife." The choir rendered the anthem "Sun of My Soul," very effectively, the solo parts being ably taken by Miss M. Rush and Mr. A. Brundrette respectively.

Mr. CORNELUIS HALPIN PASSED AWAY SUNDAY

The Lamented Death of well Known Resident—Funeral Tomorrow

The news of the death of Mr. Cornelius Halpin, which occurred at his home, corner of Lake and George streets, shortly after noon on Sunday, will come as a shock to his many friends in town. The deceased was about 35 years of age, and was stricken with pneumonia on Tuesday last and gradually became worse until yesterday morning, when death claimed him as a victim. The late Mr. Halpin was unmarried and leaves a number of relatives, among whom are Michael, Thomas, John and Patrick, brothers; and Mrs. W. J. Devlin and Miss Halpin, sisters.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock from his late residence to the Roman Catholic Cemetery.

A PROMISING LIFE PREMATURELY ENDED.

Death of Miss Martha Lucinda Regan Occurred Saturday.

The death occurred on Saturday at the Nicholls Hospital of Miss Martha Lucinda Regan, youngest daughter of the late W. J. Regan. The announcement of this life prematurely cut off will cause genuine sorrow among the wide friendship which the deceased enjoyed. The aged mother, to whom the deceased was a thoughtful and loving daughter is the especial object of sympathy in her sad bereavement.

The late Miss Regan was a faithmember of St. John's church in which her many sterling qualities made her a general favourite.

The funeral will leave the family residence, 388 Murray street, on Wednesday at 2 o'clock, to Little Lake Cemetery.

BLEW OUT THE GAS AND FOUND UNCONSCIOUS.

(Toronto News.)

Mr Peter Butler, a young man from Hastings, Ont., came into the city yesterday, and registered at the Walker House. Last night, upon retiring to bed about midnight, he blew out the gas. His unfortunate mistake was not discovered until until shortly after 8 o'clock this morning, when one of the attendants of the hotel forced open the door. The transom had fortunately been left open, and this unquestionably saved young Butler's life. Dr. Riordan was quickly summoned, and succeeded within a short time in reviving the young man, who is still rather sick as the result of his mistake.

To a News reporter Mr. Butler stated that he had never been accustomed to the use of gas, but was familiar with electric lighting.

A GOOD THING FOR PETERBOROUGH.

The Council May Limit Distance which Buildings May Be Built from the Street.

The Municipal Committee of the Legislature granted Toronto power to regulate the location of laundries, butcher stores, etc, but extended the right to all towns and cities, and increased the power so that a street line on residential streets may be maintained. The clause adopted by the committee was advanced by Mr. A. G. McKay and was as follows:—

Councils of cities and towns, by a two-thirds' vote of all the members thereof, are hereby authorized and empowered to pass and enforce such bylaws as they may deem expedient:

(A) To regulate and limit the distance which buildings on residential streets shall be built from the line of the street in front thereof; such distance may be varied upon different streets or in different parts of the same street.

(B) To prevent, regulate, and control the location, erection, and use of buildings for laundries, butcher shops, stores, and manufactories.

The location, erection, construction or use of any buildings in contravention to any such by-law may, in addition to any other remedy provided by law, be restrained by action at the instance of the municipality passing such by-law.

Provided this section shall not apply to any buildings now erected and used for any of the purposes aforesaid, so long as they continue to be used as at present.

NEW SPRING STYLES AT MISS DELANEY'S.

Beautiful Millinery — Handsome Showing of Fashions—Latest Whims.

"The most stylish millinery in town," was the complimentary expression of a fashionable lady yesterday, after an inspection of Miss Delaney's new styles. It would be an almost impossible task to picture in better words the wealth of beauty and exclusiveness which are shown in spring's smartest modes, at this store. To appreciate the exclusive styles in models of pattern hats, 'my lady' must see for herself. The daintily trimmed ready-to-wear hats, which will be the principal favourites for Easter, are distinctive in style and very attractive. No matter how high you place your fashion ideals, nor how exacting your ideas, Miss Delaney's swell selections will meet them in a gratifying manner. The New York patterns are right up to the New York styles, but are one half less in price. The display is worthy of Peterborough's growing importance, as well as being a feast for winter-tired eyes and all who appreciate what clever brains can conceive in designing artistic headgear. The reputation which Miss Miss Delaney enjoys for first-class work is being worthily sustained by new skilled trimmers from the city.

Miss Delaney's formal spring opening days will be on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, March 23rd, 24th, 25th. At these special receptions the ladies are cordially invited to be present, as they will more forcibly illustrate the grandeur of Miss Delany's preparations for this spring's business.

This week we will have our Spring Opening of one of the most comprehensive and exclusive stocks of stylish, up-to-date Blouses, Dress Skirts, Underskirts, Wrappers, Spring Coats, Rain Coats, Shirt Waist Suits, Children's Dresses, etc.

When you see the beautiful things that are made up during the season, you will sometimes wonder how they could improve upon them.

Still they always discover new modes, new combinations and prettier effects, and this season they have certainly succeeded to a very high extent.

Our Dress Skirts are very pretty, dressy and up-to-date. Our Waists win compliments from every one, they are simply irresistible, they are trimmed so artistically, and they are so dainty and feminine, that they just give the right touch of beauty to complete the costume.

We will have an illuminated display on Thursday evening and extend a most cordial invitation to all.

SHAMROCK BASE-BALL TEAMS NEW OFFICERS.

Elected at a Meeting Held in T. A. S. urs Last Night.

There was a meeting of the Shamrock baseball team in the T.A.S. rooms Friday night. The following officers were elected: Hon. Pres., Mr. Jas. Mahar; president, Mr. P. Simons, jr.; vice-president, Mr. W. Meagher; secretary-treasurer, Geo. Lynch; manager, Wm. Grady; executive committee, secretary, manager, captain and F. Derocher. It was unanimously decided to play under T.A.S. colours this year. The Shamrocks were runners up in the intermediate league last year, winning 11 out of 15 games played. The T.A.S. will apply for admission to the city league.

LACROSSE.

The Belleville Intelligencer writing on Lacrosse, says:

"The idea of a lacrosse team for this summer is being quietly discussed in the city and it appears possible that we may have one. The formation of a Trent Valley League is being mooted, and that might not be a bad place for Belleville's team to locate. It's a pity that the young men of our city do not take more interest in Canada's national game. There is plenty of good material in town for a team of which we could be proud, if the boys would only stick together and practice—there's the difficulty. We had a good team last summer, and the boys got that tired feeling so bad that you couldn't get them off the shady side of the street, the result being that they went down before a Peterborough team, which had no license to beat them. This year things should be run differently. A hustling manager is needed. Who'll take a little trouble in the interest of sport and for the honour of the town?"

• • • •

The Shamrock lacrosse club organized Wednesday night and elected the following officers: Patrons and patronesses, Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Connors, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Tooley; president, F. McCarthy; secretary-treasurer, H. Henry; manager, B. Doris; executive committee, president, secretary-treasurer, manager and C. Knapp. All intending to join this club will please leave their names with the secretary at once.

PUCKERINGS.

The Charlotte street Young Men's Guild accepts the challenge of the George street team to a game of hockey to be played at any time convenient.

• • • •

The members of the senior, intermediate and junior hockey teams will please return the complete suits supplied them this season. By leaving at the Examiner office or the rink with Mr. White during the next few days it will enable the Executive to wind up the season.

• • • •

The Tomahawks of the 5th Ward played the Grove School of Lakefield in a game of hockey at the rink Saturday morning. The game resulted in a tie 5—5. At half time the score was 2—2. At full time the Tomahawks wanted to play 10 minutes longer, but Lakefield refused. Mr. Ellis, of the Y.M.C.A., was a splendid referee. The team lined up as follows:

Tomahawks—Goal, H. Faint; point, W. Chrowe, cover point, G. Butcher; forwards, W. Butcher, G. Quartermaine, R. Thornton, N. Geale.

• • • •

There will be a winding-up meeting of the Executive of the Hockey Club Tuesday night at the Examiner office.

CURLING.

In the Innis Medal series the following skips are requested to play to-night:—

Giroux vs. C. Rutherford.

Neill vs. Morrow.

Edwards vs. Brown.

FOOTBALL.

The Quakers will hold a meeting in the Crown Hotel on Thursday night, at 8 o'clock. All employees of the company interested in the game are requested to attend.

• • • •

Mr. F. C. Vanstone, secretary of the Bowmanville Football Club, has written to the secretary of the Midland Football League stating that the club would like to enter the League and be grouped with Orono, Tyrone and Pontypool.

SPRINTING

A. J. Burns and Dave Belland will run a road race on April 18th, the course to be from the Oriental Hotel two and a half miles out the Lakefield road, and return, finishing at the Oak Hall korner. The reason this course has been chosen in preference to that over which the previous race was run, is that it will not necessitate crossing the railway tracks so frequently.

BASEBALL.

President O'Neil will shortly call the annual meeting of the Midland Baseball League. The league this year will be composed of six clubs. Peterborough and Lindsay will be taken in, and along with Cobourg, Port Hope, Bowmanville and Oshawa, will make a strong league. The meeting will be held at Port Hope.

A LIFE ON THE OCEAN WAVE.

A life on the ocean wave,
A home on the rolling deep,
Where the scattered waters rave,
And the winds their revels keep!
Like an eagle caged I pine
On this dull, unchanging shore;
O, give me the flashing brine,
The spray and the tempest's roar!

Once more on the deck I stand,
Of my own swift sailing craft;
Set sail! Farewell to the land;
The gale follows fair and abaft.
We shoot through the sparkling foam
Like an ocean bird set free—
Like the ocean bird, our home
We'll find far out on the sea.

The land is no longer in view,
The clouds have begun to frown;
But with a stout vessel and crew,
We'll say, Let the storm come down!
And the song of our hearts shall be,
While the winds and the waters rave,
A home on the rolling sea!
A life on the ocean wave!

VESSEL FOR CAPT. BERNIER.

Valiant Canadian Navigator Will Have Partial Chance of His Life.

Captain Bernier, who is desirous of discovering the North Pole for Canada, is to realize part of the great ambition of his life. He is to be given charge by the Government of a vessel in order to navigate her through Bering Sea and Straits into Beaufort Sea, and thence to the mouth of the Mackenzie River. The vessel in question is the Gauss (steam barquentine), built three years ago for the German expedition to the Antarctic, at a cost of $137,500. The Canadian Government are paying for her $75,000. The Gauss is now in Bremenhaven, and Captain Bernier will probably leave for Europe the week after next with a picked Canadian crew to bring her to Canada. The Gauss is 151 feet long, and of 35 feet beam, with a total displacement in salt water of 1,412 tons. She was constructed especially for Polar exploration, and her timbers are of oak and yellow pine. The Gauss will not go immediately to the Arctic region. As early as possible, say about the end of May or June, she will take relief stores and coal for the Government steamer Neptune, at present wintering in Hudson's Bay. The two vessels will meet at Lady Jobs Harbor, on the northwest coast of Labrador, in July next. After transferring her cargo to the Neptune the Gauss will be engaged in survey work on the coast of Labrador until about October. She will then start on her long journey to the mouth of the Mackenzie River. Proceeding due south, the Gauss will weather Cape Horn, and then steam north until she reaches Bering Sea. The drift of the eastward current and her own steam will carry her swiftly through the straits into Beaufort Sea. On arriving off the mouth of the Mackenzie, Captain Bernier will report to the commander of the Mounted Police post. Flying the British flag, she will cruise in northern waters and assert British sovereignty. Illegal trading on the part of American sealers will be suppressed, and customs duties collected for goods brought into Canadian territory.

Sydney Lee.

The Marquise de Fontenoy says that Sydney Lee, the well known author and lecturer who was recently in Canada, matriculated at the University of Oxford as Solomon Lazarus, the latter being the patronymic of his father. His intellectual brilliancy caused the famous Master of Balliol, Dr. Jowett, to take a particular interest in him, and, foreseeing a great future for the young Hebrew undergraduate, he quietly recommended him to change his name, pointing out to him in the most delicate manner possible that, owing to racial prejudice, it would be difficult for him ever to acquire under the name of Solomon Lazarus the literary fame which was otherwise in store for him. Young Lazarus took the advice of the Master of Balliol and forthwith changed his name to Sydney Lee.

Avoiding a Dispute

Niece (showing the wedding presents to Uncle George)—I wanted you to see them all, dear Uncle George, so that you won't send a duplicate. Duplicate wedding presents are so very annoying, you know.

Uncle George—H'm! What's this?

Niece—That's papa's check for £500. Isn't it lovely?

Uncle George—Very. I intended to send the same thing, but rather than annoy you with a duplicate present I'll send you £100.—London Tit-Bits.

THE WOMEN VOTE.

Results of Their First Use of the Ballot in Australia—Many Funny Incidents —Distinctions Made.

The recent elections in Australia were of special interest because the newly enfranchised women of the Commonwealth exercised the right of suffrage for the first time.

A careful analysis is to be made of the entire vote to determine just how many, of the nearly 700,000 women registered, went to the polls, and for whom they voted. Until this sifting takes place, the public can only judge of results generally.

It is said that the women's vote, so far as Melbourne was concerned, was cast largely for labor nominees. It is equally probable that the women of Sydney cast their votes largely against labor candidates.

Here in Melbourne, says The Argus, the women voters were divided by the politicians into "women" and "ladies." The "women" are said to have gone to the polls almost to a woman, while the "ladies" are accused of having shown less enthusiasm and less interest; and as a corollary there were fewer "lady" voters than there should have been.

The "lady" electors waited, so anti-labor committees say, for vehicles to carry them to the polls, and wherever these failed to put in an appearance, there was a corresponding falling off in the expected anti-labor vote. On the other hand, these same committeemen aver labor "women" supporters went to the polls on foot, and voted in big bunches in every electorate. But a very much more plausible explanation of the heavy labor vote is that the whole strength of the Victoria civil service and that of the many sympathizers was exerted against the Victorian Government in order to pay off an old grudge.

In Sydney women electors were told by spellbinders and the newspapers that the tariff was responsible for their increased grocery, meat, dress, hat, and shoe bills, and that they should bend every effort to break the power of the Ministerialist party. They tried hard to do so, as the big majorities of the free trade nominees indicate.

There were four women candidates, three Senatorial and one for the House of Representatives. Miss Vida Goldstein, who ran for the Senate in this State, polled some 50,000 votes out of about 900,000.

Many women declared when Miss Goldstein announced her candidacy that they would not vote for her, because they were opposed to women running for Parliament; but it now appears that many of these exercised the feminine prerogative of changing their minds. The women nominees in New South Wales did not do even so well as Miss Goldstein. Miss Nelle A. Martel polled about 15,000 votes out of a total of about 900,000, and so did Mrs. Anna Moore-Bentley. Miss Selina Anderson, who ran for the House of Representatives in the Dalley district, which is made up of several suburbs of Sydney, polled 3,000 odd votes out of about 17,000 cast.

Under the Federal Election Law any nominee who fails to poll one-fifth as many votes as the leading nominee forfeits his or her required pre-election deposit of £25 to the Federal treasury. So the women assuredly did not profit pecuniarily by their sounding of the temper of Australia electors toward possible women M.P.'s.

Of course there were many funny incidents when the women went to the polls. Hundreds of mothers here and in Sydney brought their offspring to the polls, including, in many cases, offspring in arms. Policemen were asked by some of these mothers to hold their infants while they themselves discharged their duty as citizens.

Women marched up to returning officers in some booths and enquired: "I want to vote for Mr. Double Dash; how will I mark my paper to do that?" It is recorded of one woman that after she had marked her ballot she took it to the returning officer and holding it up before his astonished eyes asked:

"There, is that right, please?"

Though the daily papers had carefully explained by every means known to printing how ballots should be marked, hundreds of women either forgot the instructions of fathers, husbands, brothers and other male relations and those of the press, or else tried to be independent upon this, their first day of power, and did the things which they should not have done, or left undone the things which they should have done.

But the testimony of the returning officers is that no more mistakes were made by women than by men, and that the women exhibited a sense of their responsibility and a knowledge of what they were about unlooked for and admirable.

One woman of more than ninety years in this State, and one of about the same age in New South Wales were among the voters. It is said that at some polling places here and in Sydney, the women voters outnumbered the men voters by as much as two to one, but this is only conjectural. But there is no doubt that the women electors showed a most commendable restraint this important matter.

"My word!" a husband is reported as having said to a friend at a polling place, "my wife hustled me through breakfast in a brace of shakes and went off to vote at such a rate you could not see her heels for dust."

The polling places were so arranged that women voted upon one side of the room and men on the other. The Federal Election Law does not forbid persons from congregating about polling places, so it was a common sight to see party workers buttonholing voters right at the threshold.

THE ESTIMATES.

House Took Them Up Friday—Mr. Copp Makes Explanation.

Ottawa, March 19.—The House made a further stride in business yesterday by beginning the adoption of the estimates, members thus showing their intention to prosecute work as rapidly as convenient. Mr. Copp of Digby, made a personal explanation of his having received $500 from the Town of Digby in connection with the new wharf. He said it was for his expenses in connection with the matter, in his efforts to interest private capital, and that the Government had never been asked nor had he ever intended to ask them for a grant for the work.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier announced that the resolution ratifying the amended Grand Trunk Pacific agreement would be moved on Monday.

The House went into supply and passed $240,250 under Civil Government.

By enriching the blood and creating new nerve cells, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food keeps the health at high water mark and fills the body with the vigour and vitality that overcomes and defies disease.

Hubbard's Death a Surety.

Quebec, March 19.—A courier brings a few details of the Hubbard expedition. It appears that after making a cache of their whole stock of provisions the party pushed forward in the expectation that they would find sufficient game for subsistence. They, however, had very poor success, and they were compelled to retrace their steps, weakened and exhausted for want of food. When within a few hours journey of their cache, Hubbard's strength failed him altogether, and his companions left to try and procure food. Though only gone a few hours their unfortunate companion died in their absence.

Colonies and Ireland.

London, March 19.—(C. A. P.)—John Redmond, M.P., Irish Nationalist leader, addressing an Irish demonstration at Newcastle, said that Irishmen only wanted to make the experiment of governing themselves. Despite what was said about the colonies they were a cause of great cost to the Empire and should not be weighed in the balance against Ireland.

An Imperial One.

London, March 19.—(C. A. P.)—Right Hon. H. H. Asquith, M. P., addressing a Liberal meeting at Salisbury, declared that the Chinese labor question was an Imperial one, in which Canada, Australia and New Zealand for their enormous sacrifices ought to have a voice. Such a proposal to send Chinese to India would not be entertained for a moment.

There is Pneumonia on Every Hand.

Three Deaths in one Family Recently Arises From Neglected or Uncontrollable Colds.

Pneumonia is second only to consumption in the number of deaths which it causes and like consumption always has its beginning with a cold.

At this season you can scarcely glance over a paper without seeing the record of several deaths from this dread disease.

Cold in the head, fever and chills, a cough which gradually becomes dry, and more painful in the chest, rapid, difficult breathing, feelings of exhaustion and depression—these are symptoms of pneumonia.

You can prevent and cure pneumonia by the use of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, the greatest of all treatments for the throat and lungs.

The only safe way is to regard every cold as serious. Think of the dreadful possibilities which accompany every cold. Remember that pneumonia and consumption are the frequent outcome, and cure the cold before it gets beyond your control. By frequent doses of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine you can quickly break up the cold and guard against dangerous developments. No treatment was ever so successful for this purpose.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine 25 cents a bottle, family size (three times as much) 60 cents, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every bottle. 1

BY MARY J. HOLMES.

It was arranged that Mark should ride to the cars with Uncle Ephraim when he went for Katy, and as this gave him a good two hours of leisure, he spoke of Dr. Grant, asking Helen if she did not suppose he would call round. Helen thought it possible, and then remembering how many things were to be done that morning, she excused herself from the parlor, and repairing to the platform out by the back door, where it was shady and cool, she tied on a broad check apron, and rolling her sleeves above her elbows, was just bringing the churn-dasher to bear vigorously upon the thick cream she was turning into butter, when, having finished his cigar, Mark went out into the yard, and following the winding path came suddenly upon her. Helen's first impulse was to stop, but with a strong nerving of herself she kept on while Mark, coming as near as he dared, said to her: "Why do you do that? Is there no one else?"

"No," Helen answered; "that is, we keep no servant, and my young arms are stronger than the others."

"And mine are stronger still," Mark laughingly rejoined, as he put Helen aside and plied the dasher himself, in spite of her protestations that he would ruin his clothes.

"Tie that apron round me, then," he said, with the utmost nonchalance, and Helen obeyed, tying her check apron around the young man's neck, who felt her hands as they touched his hair, and knew they were brushing queer fancies into his brain—fancies which made him wonder what his mother would think of Helen, or what she would say if she knew just how he was occupied that morning, absolutely churning cream until it turned to butter, for Mark persisted until the task was done, standing by while Helen gathered up the golden lumps, and admiring her plump, round arms quite as much as he had her neck.

She would be a belle like her sister, though of a different stamp, he thought, as he again bent down his head while she removed the apron and disclosed more than one big spot upon his broadcloth. Mark assured her that it did not matter; his coat was nearly worn out, and any way he never should regret that he had churned once in his life, or forget it either; and then he asked if Helen would be in New York the coming winter, talking of the pleasure it would be to meet her there, until Helen began to feel what she never before had felt, a desire to visit Katy in her own home.

"Remember if you come that I am your debtor for numerous hospitalities," he said, when he at last bade her good-bye and sprang into the covered buggy, which Uncle Ephraim had brought out in honor of Katy's arrival.

Old Whitey was hitched at a safe distance from all possible harm. Uncle Ephraim had returned from the store near by, laden with the six pounds of crush sugar and the two pounds of real old Java he had been commissioned to purchase with a view to Katy's taste, and now upon the platform at West Silverton he stood, with Mark Ray, waiting for the arrival of the train just appearing in view across the level plain.

"It's fifteen months since she went away," he said, and Mark saw that the old man's form trembled with the excitement of meeting her again, while his eyes scanned eagerly every window and door of the cars now slowly stopping before him. "There, there!" and he laid his hand nervously on Mark's shoulder, as a white, jaunty feather appeared in view, but that was not Katy, and the dim eyes ran again along the whole line of the cars, from which so many were alighting.

But Katy did not come, and with a long breath of wonder and disappointment the deacon said: "Can it be she is asleep? Young man, you are spryer than I. Go through the cars and find her."

Mark knew there was plenty of time, and so he made the tour of the cars, but found, alas, no Katy.

"She's not there," was the report carried to the poor old man, who tremblingly repeated the words: "Not there, not come!" while over his aged face there broke a look of touching sadness, which Mark never forgot, remembering it always just as he remembered the big tear drops which from his seat by the window he saw the old man wipe away with his coat-sleeve, as whispering softly to Whitey of his disappointment he unhitched the horse and drove away alone.

"May be she's writ. I'll go and see," he said, and driving to their regular office he found a letter directed by Wilford Cameron, but written by Katy; but he could not read it then, and thrusting it into his pocket he went slowly back to the home where the tempting dinner was prepared and the family waiting so eagerly for him. Even before he reached them they knew of the disappointment, for from the garret window Helen had watched the road by which he would come, and when the buggy appeared in sight she saw he was alone.

There was a mistake; Katy had missed the train, she said to her mother and aunts, who hoped she might be right. But Katy had not missed the train, as was indicated by the letter which Uncle Ephraim without a word put into Helen's hand, leaning on old Whitey's neck while she read aloud the attempt at an explanation which Katy had hurriedly written, a stain on the paper where a tear had fallen, attesting her distress at the bitter disappointment.

"Wilford did not know of the other letter," she said, "and had made arrangements for her to go back with him to New York, inasmuch as the house was already opened and the servants there wanting a head; besides that, Wilford had been absent so long that he could not possibly stop at Silverton himself, and as he would not think of leaving without her, even for a few days, there was no alternative but for her to go with him on the boat directly to New York. I am sorry, oh, so sorry, but indeed I am not to blame," she added in conclusion, and this was the nearest approach there was to an admission that anybody was to blame for this disappointment which cut so cruelly, making Uncle Ephraim cry, as out in the barn he hung away the mended harness and covered the new buggy, which had been bought for naught.

"I might have had the overcoat, for Katy will never come home again, never. God grant that it's the Cameron pride, not hers that kept her from us," the old man said, as on the hay he knelt down and prayed that Katy had not learned to despise the home where she was so beloved.

"Katy will never come to us again," seemed the prevailing opinion at Silverton, where more than Uncle Ephraim felt a chilling doubt at times as to whether she really wished to come or not. If she did, it seemed easy of accomplishment to those who knew not how perfect and complete were the fetters thrown around her, and how unbending the will which governed hers. Could they have seen the look in Katy's face when she first understood that she was not going to Silverton, their hearts would have bled for the thwarted creature who fled up the stairs to her own room, where Esther found her twenty minutes later, cold and fainting upon the bed, her face as white as ashes, and her hands clenched so tightly that the nails left marks upon the palms.

"It was not strange that the poor child should faint—indeed, it was only natural that nature should give way after so many weeks of gaiety, and she very far from being strong," Mrs. Cameron said to Wilford, who was beginning to repent of his decision, and who but for that remark perhaps might have revoked it.

Indeed, he made an attempt to do so when, as consciousness came back, Katy lay so pale and still before him; but Katy did not understand him, or guess that he wished her to meet him more than half the way, and so the verdict was unchanged, and in a kind of bewilderment, Katy wrote the hurried letter, feeling less actual pain than did its readers, for the disappointment had stunned her for a time, and all she could remember of the passage home on that same night when Mark Ray sat with Helen in the sitting room at Silverton, was that there was a fearful storm of rain mingled with lightning flashes and thunder peals, which terrified the other ladies, but brought to her no other sensation save that it would not be so very hard to perish in the dark waters dashing so madly about the vessel's side.

CHAPTER XXI.

New York, December 16, 18—.
To Miss Helen Lennox, Silverton, Mass.:

Your sister is very ill. Come as soon as possible.

W. Cameron.

This was the purport of a telegram received at the farm-house toward the close of a chill December day, and Helen's heart almost stopped its beating as she read it aloud, and then looked in the white, scared faces of those around her. Katy was very ill—dying, perhaps—or Wilford had never telegraphed. What could it be? What was the matter? Had it been somewhat later, they would have known; but now all was conjecture, and in a half-distracted state, Helen made her hasty preparations for the journey of the morrow, and then sent for Morris, hoping he might offer some advice or suggestion, for her to carry to that sick room in New York.

"Perhaps you will go with me," Helen said. "You know Katy's constitution. You might save her life."

But Morris shook his head. If he was needed they might send and he would come, but not without; and so next day he carried Helen to the cars, saying to her as they were waiting for the train, "I hope for the best, but it may be Katy will die. If you think so, tell her, oh, tell her, of the better world, and ask if she is prepared? I cannot lose her in Heaven."

And this was all the message Morris sent, though his heart and prayers went after the rapid train which bore Helen safely onward, until Hartford was reached, where there was a long detention, so that the dark wintry night had closed over the city ere Helen reached it, timid, anxious, and wondering what she should do if Wilford was not there to meet her. "He will be, of course," she kept repeating to herself, looking around in dismay, as passenger after passenger left, seeking in stages and street cars a swifter passage to their homes.

"I shall soon be all alone," she said, feeling some relief as the car in which she was seated began at last to move, and she knew she was being taken whither the others had gone, wherever that might be.

"Is Miss Helen Lennox here?" sounded cheerily in her ears as she stopped before the depot, and Helen uttered a cry of joy, for she recognized the voice of Mark Ray, who was soon grasping her hand, and trying to reassure her, as he saw how she shrank from the noise and clamor of New York, heard now for the first time. "Our carriage is here," he said, and in a moment she found herself in a close-covered vehicle, with Mark sitting opposite, tucking the warm blanket around her, asking if she were cold, and paying those numberless little attentions so gratifying to one always accustomed to act and think for herself.

Helen could not see Mark's face distinctly; but full of fear for Katy, she fancied there was a sad tone in his voice, as if he were keeping back something he dreaded to tell her; and then, as it suddenly occurred to her that Wilford should have met her, not Mark, her great fear found utterance in words, and leaning forward so that her face almost touched Mark's she said, "Tell me Mr. Ray, is Katy dead?"

"Not dead, oh no, nor very dangerous, my mother hopes; but she kept asking for you, and so my—that is, Mr. Cameron sent the telegram."

There was an ejaculatory prayer of thankfulness, and then Helen continued, "Is it long since she was taken sick?"

"Her little daughter will be a week old to-morrow," Mark replied; while Helen, with an exclamation of surprise she could not repress, sank back into the corner, faint and giddy with the excitement of this fact, which invested little Katy with a new dignity, and drew her so much nearer to the sister who could scarcely wait for the carriage to stop, so anxious was she to be where Katy was, to kiss her dear face once more, and whisper the words of love she knew she must have longed to hear.

WHO CANNOT BE CURED.

So uniformly successful has Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription proven in all forms of Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb, and Leucorrhea, that, after over a third of a century's experience in curing the worst cases of these distressing and debilitating ailments, Dr. Pierce now feels fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in cash for any case of these diseases which he cannot cure.

IT STANDS ALONE.—The "Favorite Prescription" stands alone; as the one and only remedy for these distressingly common forms of weakness, possessed of such positively specific curative properties as to warrant its makers in proposing, and binding themselves to forfeit, as we, the undersigned proprietors of that wonderful remedy hereby do, to pay the sum of $500 in legal money of the United States in any case of the above diseases in which after a fair and reasonable trial of our treatment, we fail to cure. No other medicine for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments is backed by such a remarkable guarantee; no other medicine for woman's ills is possessed of the unparalleled curative properties that would warrant its manufacturers in making such an offer; no other remedy has such a record of cures on which to base such a remarkable offer.

Therefore, insist on having Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and turn your back on any unscrupulous dealer who would insult your intelligence by attempting to foist upon you some inferior substitute, under the plea that "it is just as good." Insist on having the article which has a record of a third of a century of cures and which is backed by those willing to forfeit $500 if they cannot cure you.

In cases attended by a leucorrheal drain a solution of Dr. Pierce's Lotion Tablets should be used conjointly with the use of the "Favorite Prescription." They are sold by all druggists, or sent post paid to any address, on receipt of 25 cents in stamps. Send 50 cents in stamps for Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. JESSE ARRIES.

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

In your report of the preliminary examination your young reporter puts in my mouth words that I never uttered. He reports:—"Mr. Dumble remarked that in his own mind he was certain Arries had robbed Mrs. Baker."

I was not trying the case, only hearing evidence on one side. Mr. McWilliams urged that there was not evidence to put prisoner on his trial. I ruled that there was; that a strong case had been made and so I sent him up for trial.

To express on one-sided evidence that prisoner was guilty, was beyond my function and would be very unfair to the prisoner. I write this note in justice to the accused.

A PICTURESQUE INDUSTRY.

Gold Washing on the Saskatchewan River by One Who Knows.

The Drolet concessions, referred to in recent press despatches, involve one of the most picturesque industries in Canada, says Kodak in The Toronto News. In the beginning of the gold days on the Saskatchewan, odd spots of the sand beach sparkled like corn-meal tipped with frost. The Indian saw it as he paddled in his canoe, but it was all a bit of little spectacle to him like the rainbow, "nothing in it." The white settlers called it "flour gold," silted down from the Far North when the Yukon camps were a dream. He saw a mining proposition at once, and he set up his altar to the god of gold on a sand-bar. He made it himself with an axe, a hammer, a few nails, a sieve and a piece of blanket. When it was established, the idol looked like a half-brother to a magnified coffee-mill and a sawhorse. It was called a "grizzley."

Besides his new commercial idol, the gold-worshipper stood with a tin pail on the end of a pole. He scooped up the watery gravel, and dumped it slump by slump into the hopper. The stones ran into a heap and the fine sand sifted through on the blanket. In one scoop might be one grain of gold. Splash—garr!—up with the gravel and down with the stones, went the pail, perhaps the only sound in miles of solitude, and the patient miner the only moving figure. The stones heaped into a cairn at his feet, and the floury sand clogged up on the blanket. Here and there in the blanket sift at sundown, when the miner's shack-smoke began to curl out of the poplars, a microscope might have detected a grain of gold. And when the "grizzley" hermit got it separated out by a mercuric process learned from a book, he had perhaps two dollars' worth of flour gold—if he had kept that splash—garr! steadily going to the swing of his elbows.

This was the poor man's privilege on the upper reaches of the Saskatchewan till the Drolet concession came into vogue. Then sixty miles of the river above and below Edmonton were leased by the Government to Drolet as a monopoly. The picturesque "grizzley" with its unkempt worshipper and his pole-pail shoved off down the river.

Long before the "grizzley" had begun to develop into the dredge at least three stages of evolution were gone through before the present gigantic grizzley on a barge was put into the gold-washing business. The modern gold dredge—three of which played on the Saskatchewan at Edmonton in 1901—is simply a manifold big grizzley in evolution. Instead of the miner's pole-pan scoop are twenty-three iron buckets on an endless chain. In place of the wire sieve is a huge revolving perforated cylinder, as big as a locomotive boiler. For the miner's arms a huge steam engine.

The dredge is stationed on a sandbar and moored by cables to the shore. The chain of buckets climbs round on its endless splash scooping up the sandbar, and as each bucket passes the perforated cylinder it dumps its load of watery gravel. The stones pass on out at the rear. The sand sifts through on to a series of slanted tables till it finally lodges in a blanket. There it is separated by a secret process—the sand from the flour gold. And if a $1,200 nugget come up, it probably won't happen again all summer; but the crew, as they "grab-pile" in the houseboat alongside, and bunk in the cabins on the dredge, talk about that nugget as though it were a Kohinoor diamond.

These gold-dredges are clumsily picturesque. But to the traveler on the lower Saskatchewan the old-timer's "grizzley," run by a lonesome half-breed miles away from any living biped except the birds and his shadows, are the monumental picture of a strenuous and now somewhat pathetic past. The dredge makes more noise; but the grizzley's splash—garr! is one of the lonesomest sounds in the Lone Land.

FAMOUS INVENTOR DEAD.

Straight Pull Rifle James P. Lee's Great Triumph.

James P. Lee, whose death took place at New Haven, Conn., recently was spending the winter there, and it was not generally known in Galt that he was seriously ill. The distinguished inventor only returned to Galt five years ago, after a long residence in the United States and Europe. His name will be inseparably connected with the improvements in small arms, his inventions being the basis of most of the recently-adopted weapons.

He was born in Hawick, Scotland, and came to Galt with his father, George Lee, when a boy of five years. Apprenticed to his father, he became an expert watchmaker, but, being an ardent sportsman, he early became interested in firearms. When at Janesville, Wis., in 1854, he first began his study of guns, bringing out an idea he did not perfect for many years later, when it appeared in the Lee straight pull rifle, which was first used in active service during the Spanish-American war.

The first magazine gun which Mr. Lee invented was purchased for the American navy, where it has been in use ever since. In the seventies Mr. Lee went into the manufacture of sides carbines and sporting rifles in Milwaukee, and later had his inventions handled by the Remington Arms Company.

In the early eighties he went to England and laid his rifle before the British army authorities, who took it up and furnished the whole army with Lee-Metfords. The Government afterwards adopted a new bore for the rifle barrel, changing the name of the weapon to the Lee-Enfield.

Mr. Lee was 73 years of age, and had been a sufferer from an accident which befell him when a youth. By the accidental discharge of a gun he was shot in the heel, and he carried many of the grains for over 50 years, until the discovery of the X-ray machine.

Pleasant Memories of Canada.

"Traveling in Canada," writes Mr. Joseph Hatton in The Newcastle, England, Chronicle, "you" notice with what fondness the colonists link their settlements with the Mother Country. Here in a letter from a Mr. Trumper you have mention of London, in the county of Middlesex, and a village on the River Thames. I know that River Thames. It is only a little stream. I saw it frozen, and with toboggans dashing down upon it from a great height. It recalled to me the Thames backwater at home when I saw it later in the summer. On my way, by a freight train from Montreal to Quebec, a benevolent guard pulled his train up to get me some supper—I am not sure whether it was London, or Newcastle, or Bristol, but it had a high sounding name. Ere this it may have become a town or city, for it was admirably situated, with good transit service by rail and water. At that time, some five and twenty years ago, it consisted, so far as I could see, of an inn, a sawpit, and a little graveyard. The guard of the train, who had discovered myself and a friend lonely and tired and having eaten our little store of provisions obtained at Montreal, delighted our hearts with a right royal hospitality; got us a brace of birds, a loaf of bread, a bottle of whiskey, and some fruit—though he had to stop his train and knock up the roadside inn to do it. And when we asked the cost of it, which we did as delicately as a proper appreciation of our treatment would permit, did he give us the bill? Not he! He smiled pleasantly, offered us a cigar case, and said he was only too pleased to have the company of two Englishmen on his freight train, and, moreover, that he had discovered by the names on our baggage that one of us was the namesake of a great English ballad composer some of whose relatives lived on his line and were his friends. And then one of us had to explain that not to our knowledge were we related, but that we knew the fine old melodist well, that we had tried to knock up a relationship but had failed, that at the same time our admiration for him was of the most exalted character, and so on, and his name was J. L. Hatton, who wrote 'Good-bye Sweetheart,' 'To Anthea,' and scores of other famous compositions. At Quebec the Canadian guard helped us to carry our bags, found us a comfortable hotel, and left upon our memories impressions of Canada that were not diminished by the club hospitality and the intense British patriotism we encountered everywhere. And what a wonderful country, what vast, unoccupied, picturesque, open spaces, what rivers, what forests, what possibilities of prosperity and power!"

HERR BEBEL'S TALK.

Deductions the German Socialist Leader Draws From the Events in the War With the Hereros.

Berlin, March 21.—In the Reichstag Saturday Herr Bebel (the Socialist leader), said the German campaign against the Hereros had taken on a character prejudicial to Germany's interests and honor, since all Hereros were killed and no prisoners were taken. He referred to a letter from a veterinary surgeon, Dr. Baumgart, in a Leipsic newspaper, asserting that no quarter was given and that every black was shot down. "Dr. Baumgart boasting that he had massacred wounded men like a cannibal."

"The reception can show," Herr Bebel said, "how far even our educated people are becoming brutalized. The description sent from Southwest Africa must have a demoralizing and brutalizing effect on the German people.

"The reports of the Rhenish Missionary Society show that the Hereros spare the whites, who prove to be non-Germans, like the English, Boers and Danes. It appears, therefore, that some of our countrymen have so maltreated the Hereros that they have generated a fanatical hatred against Germans in general.

"Samuel Maharero, chief of the Hereros, continues the missionary report, has given orders that no harm be done to non-Germans, missionaries, women and children, but that German men be shot down mercilessly.

"The missionaries further report that the Hereros begged pardon of white women wounded by stray shots in fights, saying they did not wish to hurt defenceless women."

Steamers in Ice.

St. John's, Nfld., March 21.—The steamers Home, Liberty and Pre Patria are frozen in an ice floe in Placentia Bay. The first named vessel is a local mail boat, and is short of coal and supplies. A severe blizzard raged last night, and it is feared the ships may be crushed.

JAPANESE FORCES STILL MOVING AHEAD

Russian Official Admits They Occupy Anju and Ping-Yang.

HAS PORT ARTHUR FALLEN?

A Startling Press Report so Alleges — Another Report Says Russians were Defeated with Loss of 600 Men in a Sharp Land Battle — Fourteen Shots Heard off Yinkow — A Bold Jap Move in Prospect.

St. Petersburg, March 22.—The following despatch from Mukden, March 20, was received yesterday:

"General Zhilinski reports as follows:

"The troops are in good spirits and there is no sickness.

"According to reports received from the frontier guards on the Eastern Chinese Railway, everything is in order there. At Uiyini station Captain Uksemoff, with 70 cavalrymen, has driven off a band of 100 Chunchuses (Chinese bandits).

"The occupations of the towns of Anju and Pingyang by the enemy's infantry and artillery is confirmed. An increased movement of the troops and transports on the road between Pingyang and Anju is noticeable.

"Thirteen of the enemy's transports recently unloaded at Chinampho.

"According to reports there have been no preparations for landing on the coast of Caoljao or opposite Kinchow.

"All reports appearing in foreign newspapers of the landing of Japanese troops at different points on the coast are inventions."

Official advices report the concentration of armed Mongolians disguised as pilgrims at Vanburen, south of Lake Baikal, and a few miles from the Russian frontier.

Russians Are Sick.

A telegram has been received from Medical Officer Trepoff, at Chita, Eastern Siberia, saying:

"There are many cases of sickness here."

This news causes some uneasiness as reports from other places are uniformly to the effect that the health of the troops is good.

PORT ARTHUR HAS FALLEN.

Following After a Combined Land and Sea Attack Saturday and Sunday.

London, March 22.—A number of rumours are printed in the newspapers this morning, but they must be taken with great reserve.

The Daily Telegraph's Tokio correspondent cables a newspaper report of the Japanese occupation of Port Arthur after a combined land and sea attack Saturday and Sunday.

It is asserted that a division of Japanese landed on the Liaotung Peninsula Saturday and engaged the Russians near Port Arthur, while the fleet bombarded from Saturday evening until Sunday morning.

Russians Lost 600.

The same correspondent reports a sharp encounter at Chyongsong, on the Yalu River, about thirty miles northeast of Wiju, in which the Russians lost 600 killed and wounded.

The Daily Chronicle's Shanghai correspondent hears from Newchwang that the Japanese crossed Tatung Pass, forty miles from Haicheng, and collision occurred with the Russians.

Reports from Seoul and Tokio are to the effect that Marquis Ito has arranged to lend $2,500,000 to Corea on easy terms.

Wants Extension of Time.

According to The Standard's Tienstin correspondent, China is appealing to the powers for an extension of a year in the period for the payment of the indemnity growing out of the Boxer troubles.

The correspondent at Tienstin of The Daily Mail reports that Kataoka, a Japanese merchant, but a Russian spy, has been assassinated by being buried alive, but that the Japanese authorities disavow any knowledge of the assassins.

The Morning Post's Hamburg correspondent says that Russia has purchased the Hamburg steamer Hafis, which is now at Vladivostock, for $250,000, and that the vessel's name has been changed to Alexeitrapani.

Firing Off Yinkow.

Yinkow, March 22.—Firing was heard off the coast, apparently about six miles to the southward, this morning. There was fourteen shots between 7 and 7.30. The morning was hazy, and it was impossible to distinguish objects at sea. A credible report has reached here that two cruisers and five gunboats were off Kinchow yesterday.

Chained Ships to Block Channel.

London, March 22.—Japan is about to make a sensational attempt to bottle up Port Arthur once and for all.

Fifteen big steamships are being prepared at Sasebo for this new effort. They are being loaded with stone, and are to be linked together with chains and wire cables. They are to steam toward Port Arthur in a line, and it is immaterial whether they are sunk by Russian guns or are blown up by their crews.

In either event they will thoroughly block the entrance to the harbor, according to the belief of the naval officers who are engineering the plan.

Northern Squadron's Attack.

Constadt, March 22.—The Vestnik, the leading service organ here surmises that the Russian Valdivostock squadron has gone to attack Mororan (in Volcano Bay) and Otarunal (in Ishikari Bay), both on the Japanese Island of Yesso, where an excellent quality of coal is supplied to the Japanese warships.

Russians Driven Out.

St. Petersburg, March 22.—Gen. Zhilinski's official confirmation of the reports that the Russian outposts abandoned Anju upon the approach of Japanese in force, causes no surprise here, as such action is in perfect accord with the Russian plan of campaign.

Chinese Squadron.

Che Foo, March 22.—The Chinese Peayang squadron, consisting of the cruisers Haichi, Hiying, Hitien and Haishew, under command of Admiral Tsah have arrived here.

France Wants Her Sons.

Montreal, Que., March 22.—The War Department of France has notified a number of former residents of France, now residing in this country, to report to their respective districts for military duty. One of those who received such orders is a man named Hucheney, an employe of Dupois Freres, dry goods merchants. Some of those called express their intention of disregarding the order, preferring to remain in Canada.

The Clematis.

It is said that the decay and death of the clematis is sometimes due to the sun on the lower portion of the stems and that the plant is healthier when these parts are shaded by other plants.

REGULATIONS FOR FISHING.

Close Season For Black Bass and Maskinonge Extended.

Toronto, March 22.—As a result of a conference between S. T. Bastedo, Deputy Minister of Fisheries, and the Dominion Government, a number of new regulations governing fishing in Ontario and border waters will be formulated. A new regulation will immediately be put in force preventing any speckled trout caught in Ontario being taken outside the Province. The sale of speckled trout will also be prohibited. The number of black bass that may be taken by one person has been reduced from twelve to eight, and the size increased from 10 inches to 12 inches. Whitefish and lake trout of less than 2½ pounds cannot be taken. Yellow perch of 9 inches may be taken in the Great Lakes, and 7 inches elsewhere.

The legal length of maskinonge has been made 30 inches, and nothing can be taken under this. No yellow pickerel under 15 inches, no blue pickerel under 10 inches, and no sturgeon under 36 inches.

The closed season for black bass and maskinonge will be from Jan. 1 to June 30. The close season for pickerel will be from Jan. 1 to May 13. Fishing in Lake Erie from Nov. 15 to March 15 will be stopped, providing the State of Ohio adopts a similar regulation.

Mr. Dyment, M.P., Renominated.

Wobbwood, March 22.—A. E. Dyment, M.P., was nominated on Saturday as Liberal candidate for the new riding of East Algoma, one of the largest political conventions ever held in Algoma, some of the delegates having driven nearly 100 miles to attend.

Died Aged 106.

Stratford, March 22.—Ronald McNeil, the oldest man in Stratford, and a resident of the city for about sixty years, is dead at the age of 106. He was born in Barrie, Scotland, and a grandfather of the same name had attained to a similar age.

C. B. Barton's Suicide.

Lindsay, March 19.—C. H. Barton, the Grand Trunk station agent at Haliburton, ended his life at that village by drinking blue vitriol. Owing to the continuous blockade and the dreadful state of the roads particulars are only now available. It appears Barton, who had commenced his duties only a short time ago, was seized with a feeling of loneliness, being away from his family and among strangers. His melancholy increased until driven to the rash act of ending his life.

Killed at Preston.

Preston, March 22.—Wm. Doyle of Preston, died in the Galt Hospital Sunday from the shock of a gunshot wound. The weapon had just been loaded to kill a cat, by Thomas Costigan, Doyle's son-in-law, and when Costigan was closing the breech one of the shells exploded, and Doyle received the whole charge, wads and all, in the leg. He was 64 years old.

1,200 For the West.

Montreal, March 22.—Twelve hundred young Englishmen boarded three special C.P.R. trains yesterday on their way to the Northwest. They had come out by the Tunisian; they were young and ruddy, and strong, and it was the opinion of the C. P. R. officials that they constituted the finest lot of young men seen for years bent on a similar mission.

A tornado which swept over Missouri destroyed 50 buildings and injured a number of people.

Miss Nellie Holmes, treasurer of the Young Woman's Temperance Association of Buffalo, N.Y., strongly advises all suffering women to rely, as she did, upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Your medicine is indeed an ideal woman's medicine, and by far the best I know to restore lost health and strength. I suffered misery for several years, being troubled with menorrhagia. My back ached, I had bearing-down pains and frequent headaches. I would often wake from restful sleep, and in such pain that I suffered for hours before I could go to sleep again. I dreaded the long nights as much as the weary days. I consulted two different physicians, hoping to get relief, but, finding that their medicine did not seem to cure me, I tried your Vegetable Compound on the recommendation of a friend from the East who was visiting me.

"I am glad that I followed her advice, for every ache and pain is gone, and not only this, but my general health is much improved. I have a fine appetite and have gained in flesh. My earnest advice to suffering women is to put aside all other medicines and to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—MISS NELLIE HOLMES, 540 No. Division St., Buffalo, N.Y.—$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

TUESDAY, MARCH 22, 1904.

RED LETTER DAY IN ENNISMORE.

St. Patrick's Day was Fittingly Celebrated.

St. Martin's T. A. S. Elected New Officers — The Entertainment Following was a Complete Success.

St. Patrick's Day was observed in Ennismore in true Irish fashion. The Holy Sacrifice of the Mass was offered by the pastor at nine o'clock, at which upwards of two hundred received Holy Communion, the large majority being members of St. Martin's T.A.S., a society which is steadily gaining a solid and sure footing in the parish, and accomplishing a good beyond the fondest expectation of its most sanguine supporters. After mass was celebrated the election of officers for the ensuing year took place, which resulted as follows:

President—Peter F. Flood.

Vice-President—Jas. Mahoney.

Treasurer—John O'Reilly.

Secretary—P. J. Scollard.

Committee — Paul Costello, Dan. Crough, Stephen O'Reilly, William Sullivan, Eugene Murphy, David Quinlan, Michael Crough, sr.

The different offices were keenly contested, as a position on the committee is looked upon as the highest mark of honour in the power of the parish to bestow. The present committee is composed of some of the most intelligent and industrious men of the parish, men who are ever ready to co-operate with their pastor in everything pertaining to the good of the parish. Immediately before the election the renewal of the pledge against intoxicating liquors for another year was gone through, and the very many new members who came to the front to sign their names as advocates of total abstinence is a strong proof of the growing popularity of the society. The old members turned out en masse, and had the pleasure of seeing many new names added to the already long list.

At eight o'clock in the afternoon a matinee was put on in the township hall for the school children and any old people who would not care to be out at night. The hall was well-filled and the matinee highly appreciated by all present.

In the evening again a concert was given and once more the hall proved quite inadequate to afford even standing room to the large number who turned out, not only from Ennismore, but from Peterborough and the other neighbouring parishes. The following programme speaks for itself:

1—Introduction, St. Patrick's Day, by the orchestra.
2—Chorus, "The Young May Morn," by the junior class.
3—Song, "Oh, who would not be Irish?" by Wm. Bell.
4—Song, "The Shamrock, Thistle and Rose," by Misses G. Moloney, Mary A. Crough and Celia Twomey.
5—Recitation, "A Glass of Cold Water" by Carrie White.
6—Flag drill and chorus by pupils of S. S. No. 4.
7—Recitation, "Mice at Play," by Mary O'Donoghue.
8—Song, "I want to be a Soldier," by Michael Fitzpatrick.
9—Dialogue, "Bridget's Investment," by pupils of S. S. No. 2.
10—Reading, "Two pictures," by Margaret Sullivan.
11—Banjo solo, "That's the way to spell chicken," by J. K. Galvin.
12—Song, "Bay of Dublin," by Celia Twomey.
13—Song, "Limpy Jim," by Carrie White.
14—Song, "Farewell but whenever," by Annie Simons.
15—Dialogue, by pupils S. S. No. 1.
16—Lecture, "Ireland's Heroes and Ireland's Songs," by Rev. C. S. Bretherton.

PART II.

1—Selection by orchestra.
2—"The Japanese Fan," by Misses Crough, Moloney, Young, Carew, Florence and Carew Evelyne.
3—Song, "Two Marionettes," by K. Gannon.
4—Song, "I'm an Elligant Irish Gintleman," by Frank Moloney.
6—Song, "Go where Glory waits thee," by Lizzie Scollard.
7—Quartette, "Down where the Cotton Blossoms Grow," by J. K. Galvin and Frank Scollard, and Misses Scollard.
8—Song, "Bedella," by Jos. Guiry.
9—Song, "Kitty of Coleraine," by Mary Ann Crough.
10—Recitation, "The Boers have got my Laddy," by Carrie White.
11—Song, "A Handful of Earth," by Wm. Bell.
12—Song and dance, by Stella Cadigan, "The Prettiest Little Song of All."
13—Song, "Come where the Lilies Bloom," by the Misses Scollard and Frank Scollard.
14—"Kathleen Mavourneen," by T. Guiry.
15—Song, "Tit for Tat," by Gertie Moloney.
17—Good night chorus by junior choir.
18—God Save the King, by both choirs.

The entertainment proved to be a success in every sense of the word. The children deserve special mention for the clever manner in which they acquitted themselves in their various drills, dialogues, recitations and songs, reflecting great credit on their respective teachers for the very efficient training which they received, which was evidenced in each and every number in which they appeared. As organist the burden of the work naturally fell on the shoulders of Miss Loretta Guiry, and, as in former years, she was quite equal to the occasion, and to her also belongs much of the praise which was so freely bestowed on the children for their clever singing and acting. In this work she was ably assisted by Mr. Stephen McDonald, Miss Lizzie Scollard, Miss Margaret Sullivan, and Mrs. John Flood, all of whom took an active and lively interest in the work of preparation. Probably the most interesting pieces on the programme and certainly the most difficult of execution was the flag drill and chorus by the pupils of School Section No. 4, and the Japanese Fan, being a song and drill by the members of the junior choir. Masters Frank Moloney and Michael Fitzpatrick were loudly applauded and obliged to respond to encores, while Miss Carrie White ably upheld her reputation, as a clever entertainer. In the comic farce, "Bridget's Investment, all took their respective parts very well, but Miss Fanny Scollard, as Bridget, gave ample proof that she possesses in no ordinary degree, the pleasing characteristics of a clever young actress. Wm. Bell, as usual, held the audience spellbound, while he sang in his own inimitable style, Joe Murphy's famous song, "The Handful of Earth" and "The Queen that Loved the Irish." J. K. Galvin has always something new and catchy and his banjo selection, "That's the Way to spell Chicken," was well received and called forth a hearty encore. "The Bay of Dublin" an Irish song, composed and set to music by Lady Dufferin, was well rendered by Celia Twomey, who possesses a voice of extraordinary sweetness and compass. Miss Gertie Moloney, Kittie Gannon and Mary Ann Crough are clever young ladies, whose modesty and general deportment lend a charm to their sweet singing. Miss Mary O'Donoghue, teacher of No. 2 school, and Miss Margaret Sullivan, teacher of No. 1, contributed two highly appreciated numbers, the former by imitating four very mischievous youngsters at work and play and the latter by a very appropriate temperance reading entitled "This Picture and That." Moore's Melodies are truly the songs of Ireland, as her history is largely bound up in them. During the evening full justice was done to the following melodies, which so far surpass in harmony and melody the songs of modern times: "Go Where Glory Waits Thee," by Miss Lizzie Scollard; "Farewell, But Whenever you Welcome Hour," by Miss Annie Simons; "The Minstrel Boy," by Tim Crough; "Kate Kearney," by Fanny Scollard; "The Young May Moon," by the junior choir; "Kitty of Coleraine," by Mary Ann Crough; "The Harp that Once Through Tara's Halls," by Rev. C. S. Bretherton; J. Guiry sang in good form "Bedella," and in response to a hearty encore gave "Just Kiss Yourself Good-bye." Miss Teresa Guiry's excellent voice had ample scope in Miss Crawford's "Kathleen Mavourneen." Stella Cadigan's song and dance, "The Prettiest Little Song of All," was another revelation of latent talent. The musical portion of the programme was brought to a close by a very pretty and realistic tableau, representing the battle-field with wounded soldiers lying around the camp fire and attended by Red Cross nurses while a quartette from the senior choir sang "Tenting on the old Camp Ground." The intellectual portion of the evening's entertainment came in the form of a lecture on Ireland by Rev. C.S. Bretherton, parish priest of Emily, and it is needless to say that it was highly appreciated. Father Bretherton, although an Englishman by birth, has a warm spot in his heart for the Irish people, and his knowledge of Irish history and his love of Irish song and admiration for Irish wit and humor, were clearly illustrated by this very thoughtful and entertaining lecture. After briefly sketching the noble work of some of Ireland's heroes by flood and field, he dwelt at considerable length on Ireland's statesmen and patriots, notably O'Connell and Emmet. Tom Moore and Davis came in for many warm words of high commendation, and by way of explanation of the depth of feeling these men gave to song of Ireland, Father Bretherton sang in clear, dulcet tones, "Moore's Harp. This led to a description of the Irish harp, its origin and use in emblazoning the Irish flag. The most amusing, if not the most interesting portion of the lecture was when the reverend speaker dwelt on the wit and humor, which flows, clear, sparkling and spontaneous from the average Irish mind. He concluded a lengthy lecture, replete with useful information by relating several interesting anecdotes, illustrative of the ready wit and humor of the Irish people in every walk of life. The evening's entertainment, probably the best ever held in the township, was brought to a close by both choirs singing "God Save the King." During the evening the chairman, Rev. M. F. Fitzpatrick, read the result of the election of officers for the T.A.S. and also remarked that before another St. Patrick's Day would come around he hoped to see a new hall erected, capable of accommodating the ever increasing numbers which attended their annual celebration. The parish orchestra, under the direction of Jno. P. Flood, with the addition of Ed O'Donoghue as third violinist, supplied the music, while Miss Loretta Guiry and Mrs. Flood acted as accompanists for the evening.

SURGEONS RESORT TO THE KNIFE

When a Simple Home Remedy Cures.

Why do physicians always advise an operation for the cure of hemorrhoids, or piles? Are they unconsciously influenced by the dicta of operating surgeons, who stoutly uphold their art and maintain that all other treatments are merely palliative, and that the knife affords the only means of cure?

There could be no greater fallacy, as the worst possible cases of piles are permanently cured by the use of Pyramid Pile Cure, which is in suppository form, is applied directly to the source of the complaint, and removes the cause, which an operation does not.

"I have been a sufferer from piles for over forty years, and after trying everything I could hear or read of, without benefit or relief, I came to the conclusion to give Pyramid Pile Cure a trial, and I can truly say it has given me entire satisfaction; it is a wonderful remedy. The bleeding has entirely ceased, the protruding has stopped, there is no longer any itching, and I feel no swelling of the parts; in fact I feel like a new man.

"I had to wear a truss for several years, to keep the bowel up, but I have now discarded it, after using six boxes of Pyramid Pile Cure. I think after forty years of suffering, the six boxes was a small amount to make such an agreeable change, as I was unable to do any work that required stooping in the last eight years. I recommend Pyramid Pile Cure to everyone with whom I come in contact, as I consider it beyond Price." Geo. W. Ivey, Confederate Soldiers' Home, Richmond, Va.

We vouch for the truth and accuracy of the above testimonial, and urge all sufferers to purchase a fifty cent package of this famous remedy at the nearest drug store, and give it a trial to-night. Accept no substitute and remember there is no remedy "just as good."

The Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., publish a little book on the causes and cure of piles, and will sen it free to any address.

Serious Prairie Fires.

Hemingford, March 21.—Prairie fires that have swept the ranch country have burned one strip six by twelve miles, another more than 20 miles long and very wide, while a third fire is still burning north of the Niobrara River, and seems to have been more extensive. Ranch sheds, barns, groves on timber claims, and property along the railroad have been destroyed. Several narrow escapes from death are reported from the ranches.

A GUARANTEED CURE FOR PILES.

Itching, Blind, Bleeding and Protruding Piles. No cure, no pay. All druggists are authorized by the manufacturers of Pazo Ointment to refund the money where it fails to cure any case of piles, no matter of how long standing, ordinary cases in six days; the worst in fourteen days. One application gives ease and rest. Relieves itching instantly. This is a new discovery and it is the only pile remedy sold on a positive guarantee, no cure no pay. Price 50c.

If your druggist hasn't it in stock send 50 cents (Canadian stamps accepted) to the Paris Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo., manufacturers of Laxative Bromo Quinine, the celebrated cold cure.

DEBATE WAS SHARP

British Liberal Leader's Motion of Censure Discussed.

MAJ. SEELEY'S RESIGNATION

Government Supporter Resigns Because of Ministry's Attitude on the Chinese Question in South Africa—Another Big Reduction From Normal Figure of the Government's Majority.

London, March 22.—In the House of Commons yesterday afternoon the Liberal leader, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, moved his vote of censure, presented March 16, to the effect that "this House disapproves the conduct of His Majesty's Government in advising the Crown not to disallow the ordinance for the introduction of Chinese labor in the Transvaal."

Sir Henry said nothing the Government had done since the close of the South African war had so sorely tried the people of this country as its sanction of the introduction of Chinese labor into South Africa. It was impossible to conceive a greater departure from the principles which Great Britain had hitherto made her way in the world than the importation of aliens as the bondsmen of mining speculators.

Nothing to Justify It.

The Liberal leader thought nothing but averting a positive catastrophe could justify the Chinese labor ordinance. At the time of the war the Government declared it was waged in the interests of white labor, but the British workman was now being snuffed out by the Chinaman. It was the biggest scheme for human dumping since the "middle passage" was abolished.

Sir Henry put stress on the provision to the effect that any one harboring a deserting Chinaman would be treated as a receiver of stolen goods. If this did not constitute slavery, he said, the difference was indistinguishable.

Repelled the Allegation.

Colonial Secretary Lyttelton, replying, indignantly repelled the allegation that the Government was favoring slavery. The Government, he asserted, had been guided by the overwhelming sentiment in the Transvaal in favor of Chinese labor and the economic necessity therefore. The Ministry had adopted the only alternative, to bridge the transition period until the blacks had increased sufficiently to fill the demand for unskilled labor. The Government was well aware that the policy would be unpopular.

Defending Chinamen aghinst the charge of immorality, Mr. Lyttelton read a letter from the Bishop of British Columbia, saying that the Chinamen were in no way a debauched community, but lived quietly and soberly. There was no evidence that they imported new or despicable vices.

The prosperity of British Columbia and California, Mr. Lyttelton asserted, was based on gold mines won by Asiatic labor.

Major John Edward Seeley, who hitherto has been a consistent supporter of the Government, said he believed the importation of Chinese labor would render the Transvaal impossible as a white man's country. He announced, therefore, he had tendered his resignation because he did not think it fair that he should vote against the Government without giving his constituents an opportunity of turning him out if they did not approve of his action.

The conclusion of Major Seeley's speech was lost amid a tremendous outburst of disapproval from the Ministerial side.

Premier Balfour, who followed Major Seeley, was unable to secure a hearing, the Irish members protesting against the treatment of the the major.

Would Retard Prosperity.

Mr. Balfour said that if the leader of the Opposition came into power he would do exactly as the Government was doing, and would not indulge in vague inappropriate speeches about slavery. Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's motion was to destroy or to indefinitely retard the prosperity of the Transvaal.

Herbert H. Asquith, in closing the debate, denied that any clear or overwhelming opinion in the Transvaal demanded Chinese labor. He agreed that the economic position of the Transvaal was serious, but he said that if healing forces were allowed to operate and fair wages and good conditions were secured to white and black laborers alike, the serious features would be removed.

Redmond Objected.

William Redmond said that Mr. Balfour should have insisted upon a respectful hearing for Major Seeley, and when the Premier said he had appealed for such a hearing Mr. Redmond withdrew his opposition.

Mr. Balfour, in opposing the resolution, said it was a question whether the Transvaal should be allowed to go through a grave crisis rather than admit Chinese labor. Liberal Governments, he said, had in the past legalized the importation of such labor for British colonies, and the Opposition was now reaping the benefits of the evils of which their own party had produced.

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's motion was rejected, 209 to 242. Urgent whips of all parties had secured a big attendance, and many of the Irish members had hurried from Dublin. In the division, thirteen Unionist members, including Winston Churchill, abstained from voting. Sixty-five Nationalist members voted against the Government, the majority for which was rather larger than any in the several recent critical divisions. The vote was received with cheers.

In the Lords.

Chinese labor in the Transvaal was also debated during the entire session of the House of Lords last evening, on a motion of Lord Coleridge (Liberal) that "this House disapp[rov]e of the importation of Chinese [lab]orers in the Transvaal, under the recent ordinance, until that coun[cil] has been granted a full representative Government."

Lord Coleridge's motion was rejected by a vote of 97 to 25.

THE SEALING CLAIMS.

Russian Commissioners Have Changed Front—Canadian Representative Instructed Not to Give Way.

Ottawa, March 21.—(Globe Special.)—Inquiries here established the fact that the Russian Commissioners who met in London the English and Canadian representatives, in order to assess the damages due to Canada for the seizure of Canadian sealers, have shifted their ground, and now ask for the establishment of new regulations to govern sealing in the sea waters. The Government here have instructed their representative, Mr. Little, that the object of the new conference is to assess the damages, and that only. Hence, if the Russian representatives persist in their present attitude, Canada's representative must withdraw.

Russia's conduct in this matter is inexplicable to the authorities, but some people profess to see in it the fine Italian hand of the United States. Some years ago the Russians seized a number of American and Canadian sealing vessels. Both the United States and Canada protested that the seizures were illegal. It was arranged that if the seizures were found to be illegal, Russia should pay compensation. The United States claims were first considered, and Canada agreed that it would accept the verdict in that case. The illegality was proven, and the United States vessels got their compensation.

Now the only question is to decide what damages are to be paid to Canadian vessels, yet at the very last moment Russia comes in with a proposition that is altogether foreign to the object for which the conference has been called. The United States has been endeavoring for a long time to change the existing regulations governing sealing, and may be responsible for the change of front on Russia's part.

HUMAN BAROMETERS.

A Rheumatic Mystery.

Here are some marvels of medicine!

A dose of Aconite will climax at three o'clock in the morning.

Aloes will operate at five o'clock a. m., and sulphur at eleven o'clock.

No matter what time, in the preceding day, you have taken these medicines, they will climax at the fixed hours here stated and reveal certain symptoms always.

How do you account for this?

How account for a Rheumatic person's ability to predict a coming storm 24 hours ahead by the peculiar ache in his bones?

Rheumatism is simply Uric Acid in the blood. Can Uric Acid have its time limit, like other chemicals, but reflecting backward like a barometer?

Uric Acid is due to a lack of Alkaline material in the blood. This acid absorbs the debris, or waste matter, of the system.

It carries this waste matter into the blood, when there are not enough Alkaline elements, like salt or soda, to neutralize the Uric Acid, and to free the debris before it reaches the kidneys.

As the blood circulates through the system, it then deposits small particles of this waste matter in the joints and muscles.

These particles are like granulated sugar, or sand, and they grind between the joints and muscles at every movement.

This grinding causes intense pain and inflammation frequently. If the disease be not checked the inflammation will cause the Uric Acid particles to be coated with a fleshy cushion, which in time grows to the joints as well. Then "bony joints" and crooked limbs ensue.

The only way to cure Rheumatism is to convert the Acid condition of the blood into an Alkaline. Then to dissolve, and carry away the deposits in joints and muscles.

Then, to get the digestive organs into a normal condition, so they will secrete, without further help, less Acid and more Alkalines. Upon this condition depends cure, and the permanence of cure. But, it is useless to kill Rheumatism if we also kill the stomach in doing so.

Few drugs powerful enough to dissolve Uric Acid deposits are safe enough to take into the stomach. This is why so-called "quick cures" are dangerous.

Rheumatism is slowly acquired, and so, a cure cannot be expected in a few weeks' treatment, and never by external applications. The first essential in a Rheumatic cure is safety, the second, effectiveness; the third, permanence.

In a medical experience of thirty years I have known but one remedy which combined these three qualities. It took nearly ten years of my life to discover and perfect that remedy.

The chief ingredient I found in Germany, and to this I added, subtracted from and combined, until now I have a prescription on which I daily stake fortune and repute.

After 2,000 test cases I found that Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure" succeeded in 39 out of each 40 cases. Then I decided it was safe to supply it on a month's trial, at my risk, to Rheumatic sufferers everywhere.

If it fails, the treatment and six bottles of Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure cost you not a farthing, and I bear the whole cost myself without question.

If it succeeds, the cost to you is but $5.50. This is no mere sample proposition, but a practical guarantee of success or no pay. Write me to-day—before you forget it—for my free Treatise on Rheumatism.

Address Dr. Shoop, Box 47, Racine, Wis. Simple cases often yield to one bottle of Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure, (Druggists, $1). But all druggists do not supply it on a month's trial. You must write me for that.

50 BUILDINGS WRECKED.

Trees Blown Down and Horses Killed in Storm in Missouri.

Kansas City, Mo., March 22.—A despatch from Higginsville, Mo., says 50 buildings were partially wrecked, one man was mortally wounded and several others were hurt; the town is in darkness and the streets are strewn with debris as the result of a tornado and hailstorm, which swept the town last night. The hail on the streets was a foot deep within five minutes after the storm began, and some of the stones were as large as hens' eggs. Trees were blown down and horses killed on the streets.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP VICTORY.

Kingston Carries Bylaw to Purchase Light, Heat and Power Co.

Kingston, March 22.—The city rejoiced last night over the victory for municipal ownership in the vote on the bylaw to raise $182,000 for taking over the Kingston Light, Heat and Power Company's plant at the arbitrated price of $170,373, the balance being the costs in the arbitration and court proceedings. Victory was generally looked for, but no one imagined it would be so sweeping. The total vote cast was 1,434, of which 1,397 were in favor of the bylaw, and 37 against.

Fernie, B.C., March 22.—A collision occurred on the Great Northern three miles below Swinton, and about ten miles west of here, between the northbound express and a work train on its way to Elko for coal and supplies. One man, named John A. Lee was instantly killed and ten others were more or less injured.

STARVING IN THE MIDST OF PLENTY

Terrible Experience of Mrs. M. Sears, of Lochaber, N. S. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets to the Rescue.

Mrs. M. Sears, of Lochaber, N.S., relates an experience that should make all sufferers from indigestion stop and think. It shows what the future may have in store for those who neglect the first slight aches and discomforts that tell of a disordered stomach.

"I was a great sufferer from Dyspepsia," says Mrs. Sears. "I had terrible pains in the pit of my stomach and lost about thirty pounds in weight. You can imagine my case was very acute. I was almost starved. I tried various medicines and on several occasions tried to get relief through the use of a stomach pump. At last I went to Newfoundland on a trip for my health.

"But it was all no use. I could not get relief and had almost given up hope of ever being cured when an advertisement led me to try Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. I got one box and must say I never had such relief in my life. I continued using them and gradually regained my lost weight and strength."

You can quickly cure your indigestion and escape the terrors of Dyspepsia by using Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. They mean comfort now and security for the future.

Cannot Do Without It.

Once Dr. Chase's Ointment becomes known, it is indispensible in the home because of the scores of ways in which it can be used. While this ointment is best known as a positive cure for eczema, salt rheum, itching piles, and the most torturing diseases of the skin, it is also unapproached as a treatment for chafed, irritated skin, pimples, blackheads, poisoned skin, scalds, burns and sores of every description.

The Crutch

(soliloquizing)

"I HAVE STOOD BY THE OLD MAN FOR FIFTEEN LONG YEARS, AND NOW HE HAS TURNED ME DOWN FOR A BOX OF Bu-Ju. I FEEL ALL BROKEN UP OVER IT."

The doctor told him he had rheumatism as the result of kidney trouble—too much uric acid in the blood. The kidneys had failed to perform their proper functions, and a long, continuous, painful case of rheumatism is the result. He was obliged to use a crutch off and on for 15 years until he read an advertisement of

and provided himself with that never failing remedy for all kidney disorders, and in a short time was enabled to cast the crutch into the woodbox, to take part in the building of its own funeral pyre.

Many people are suffering from kidney trouble who are not aware of it. They are sick, and unfit for work, business or pleasure. There may be one or many of the symptoms arising from disordered kidneys and they are treating for symptoms instead of fighting the disease, which is kidney trouble.

BAKERS MAKE THEIR REQUEST.

Want Bread By-Law Amended to Allow Manufacture of 1½ and 3 Pound Loaves.

THE TRANSPORTATION COMMISSION

A Committee Will Represent the Council—Isolation Hospital is Meeting with Opposition — Special Meeting of the Town Council.

The question of changing the standard size of bread for local bakers, was brought up at the special meeting of the Council last night, when a deputation of bakers, representing the Peterborough Bakers' Association, waited on the Council and renewed their application to amend the by-law permitting the manufacture of bread of 1 1-2 and 3 pound loaves, without attaching a label to each loaf. The bakers stated that they were determined to make the smaller loaves in any case, and the only difference was that if the standard were changed, as they suggested, the bakers could make the loaves which experience had shown were the size most desired by the consumer, without going to the extra expense of labelling each loaf, which they though unnecessary. The four bakers who were present were apparently in perfect harmony on this point, and they stated that the Association was a unit in wishing the the change.

They pointed out that by reason of the sharp increase recently made in the price of flour, even should they continue to make the four pound loaves, they would have to charge 13 cents each for them, which would practically make it the same price per pound as they purpose charging for the smaller loaves, so that the question of cost does not enter into it to any appreciable extent.

While no promises were made by the Council, the Mayor told the deputation that their views would receive the serious consideration of the Council.

The Fire, Water and Light Committee brought in a report recommending that a large number of additional lights be placed in the town. The report, which was adopted, designates at what points the lights will be placed.

A petition will be sent to the Lieutenant-Governor asking that property which the Y.W.C.A. may acquire, may be exempted from all taxation.

An important point discussed was that relating to the approaching session of the Transportation Commission in Peterborough, and a committee was appointed to represent the Town Council before the Commission.

The Mayor informed the Council that he had been advised that a clause in the Peterborough Bill with reference to raising money to erect a contagious diseases hospital, was being opposed in the Legislature, and the Council must decide whether they would defend it or allow it to be struck out of the Bill. He stated that he understood the opposition was from the authorities in St. Joseph's Hospital. The matter was referred to the Legal Committee.

A special meeting of the Town Council was held last night at which the mayor presided and the following Aldermen were present: Messrs. Edgcumbe, Johnston, Morrison, Mason, Hicks, Scott, Adams, Clinkscale Batten and Best.

The following communications were rad and dealt with as indicated.

From the Salvation Army Band, asking a grant from the Council of one hundred dollars—Received.

From E. Vinette, complaining that a number of pickets were broken off said complainant's fence by the snow plough on March 15th last, and asking that the damage be paid for.—Board of Works.

From the Best Stove Co., offering quotations for enamel street signs —Board of Works.

From T. E. Hunt and others owning property on Westcott street, complaining of the dangerous condition of the G.T.R. crossing, owing to the fact that there is no street lamp in the vicinity.—Received.

From Ozias de Laplante, stating that unless the council took some action before April 1st in givng redress to his client, Mr. P. McNamara for damages caused him by the closing of Bethune street, between Perry and Lake streets, a writ would be issued in the affair.—Legal Committee and Town Trust Commissioners.

From W. G. Morrow, secretary-treasurer of the Board of Education, enclosing the following letter from the chairman of the Board, containing information desired by the Council:

The Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough:

Gentlemen,—The Board of Education in asking you to submit for the approval of the ratepayers a by-law to provide funds for the erection of a Collegiate Institute building, deem it proper that you should be put in possession of information following:

1. Our first High School, or it was then called Grammar School, was opened in 1826. It was housed in a log structure erected on the present Central School grounds. This building became untenable in 1854, and for the next six years school was held in an unused church. In 1860 and for several years thereafter, the High School occupied a portion of the present Central School building, then known as the Union school. As the population and attendance increased, more accommodation was needed, and for this, provision was made by enlarging one of the public school buildings and leasing it for High School pirposes at an annual rental of $1,100.00. Herein the Collegiate Institute classes are at present located, and so accustomed have we become to this arrangement that we are apt to overlook the important fact that for half a century at best our High School has had no quarter of its own. This, of itself, would seem a sufficient reason for asking the rate-payers of our progressive town to supply such a long felt want as an up-to-date Collegiate Institute building.

2. The attendance at our public Schools has also increased so that, in 1896 it was found necessary to rent the Menzies property on George street, at an annual rental of $400 and taxes, amounting in all to about $550 per year. This building, though the best available, is not at all suited for school purposes. It has four class r ms, providing for about 160 pupils, th gh, according to the regulation requirements, the number should not exceed 125. Not only is the accommodation very limited, but the arrangement of walls, doors, windows, etc., is such that teaching is carried on under many inconveniences. The lease of this property will soon expi and we are advised that no rene al thereof will be granted even if desired by the board. Two classes are compelled to occupy the basement. These rooms, owing to situation, ventilating and lighting, are fitted only for waiting rooms, cloakrooms, and play-rooms, and should not be utilized for class purposes. It will, therefore, be seen that the building now occupied by the Collegiate Institute is required for the immediate necessities of the public school, and that were it now vacated, at least six rooms, almost the entire premises,

INTERVIEWS REGARDING PROPOSED INSTITUTE.

Some Leading Business Men Express Their Views.

Mr. A. W. Cressman said that in his opinion a new Collegiate Institute building was a necessity, and more so than a new public school. "But," he added, "it must be built for the future and not to fill the present needs of the town." Mr. Cressman spoke disparagingly of the present building and thought that in this respect the town was decidedly behind the times. Regarding the price that should be paid for a site and satisfactory building he had not gone into the matter, trusting the members of the school board, all men of ability, to guide himself among other citizens. From what he knew of the matter $50,000 was very reasonable, if a centrally located site was obtained.

Mr. B. Shortly, when seen, said — A new Collegiate Institute is certainly a necessity. There is no doubt on that score. To be in keeping with a town such as this is, a town which is steadily growing, showing visible signs of further growth, and one which we claim is the best in Canada, a first-class Institute is wanted. The old Collegiate building would do for a Public School. If they are going to do it, they should bear the future in mind and build accordingly. I do not think there is any doubt about its carrying. There are a certain class of men who are not progressive enough to vote for it, but I think it is almost universally quoted as being a necessity.

Mr. H. P. Kennedy when asked, said that he was perfectly satisfied that the town badly needed a new Institute building, and one which will last for the future. We have never had, he said, an Institute in town, and have been using the Public School buildings. Regarding expense he thought the figure named, ($50,000) was very reasonable, and the building would be one erected for the needs of the future.

Mr. J. H. Burnham. — "No expenditure that looks to the proper education of either old or young, can be considered too large at at all within the means of the municipality. Unfortunately, however, since the abandonment of Greek and Latin for what is called nature study, the province has entered upon an era of fads. Writing, too, used to indicate character, but the present vertical style if anything indicates that the writer has very little character, to say the least of it. I have had the opportunity of hearing many good judges, including teachers, declare that the young of Ontario have no idea from what they are taught in our public schools, and in our high schools also of what is meant by the moral law. It is a sacrifice of the ideal to the real and that means moral and mental degeneration sooner or later."

Dr. Burnham was of the opinion that $50,000 was not out of the way for a building which would satisfactorily accommodate Collegiate Institute scholars, that is providing for the steady growth of the towns. He saw the need of a new Institute before that of a Public School, and as a representative trustee thought the recommendation of the Board in the matter a good and necessary one.

Mr. D. Hughes-Charles when interviewed said that he had not gone into the matter at all, but thought $50,000 very reasonable if a Collegiate Institute is needed.

Mr. Peter Campbell — I am certainly in favour of a new Collegiate Institute; it is very badly needed. If the site and buildings are suitable I don't think $50,000 any too much. The schools must be kept up, and I think if the proposed Institute is built, the old building will fill the needs satisfactorily of a public school. A point which must not be lost sight of is that regarding the situation of the building. It must above all things be centrally located. I am also very much in favour of having the new armouries and the Institute on the same ground, as not only will it supply a good play ground for the scholars but will give birth to patriotism.

INTERESTING EVENING AT EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Mr. J. Jefferies Gave an Address on Tennyson's Poem "The Holy Grail"

One of a Series of Most Instructive Meetings George Street Epworth League Shows Enterprise.

The George street Epworth League have during the past winter provided a number of very interesting literary meetings, and that of last evening proved no exception.

The subject for the evening was the poem, "The Holy Grail," from Tennyson's "Idylls of the King," taken up by Mr. J. Jeffries, B.A., of the Collegiate Institute staff, in his well known, masterly and lucid style, and the large number present went away with a new interest for Tennyson, and a clearer understanding of the story and purpose of "The Idylls of the King."

Mr. Jeffries' introductory remarks dealt with the historical foundation for the poem, and the various legends concerning the real King Arthur and his Round Table was given, and the allegorical significance of the poems explained. The legend of "The Holy Grail" and the "The Nun's Vision," was then considered together with vows of the different knights and the guest of Sir Percival. The spiritual meaning of this guest and the significance of the various experiences through which the knight passed, were ably explained.

Mr. Jeffries closed his lecture with a comparison of the old and modern ideas of the highest spiritual life, quoting from the poems Tennyson's idea of the modern ideal life.

At the close Rev. Mr. Wilson in a few remarks moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Jeffries for his most enjoyable adn instructive paper, stating at the same time that the treatment of the poem given by Mr. Jeffries was the best exposition he had ever heard given. This motion was seconded by Mr. T. W. Robinson, and heartily supported by all present.

LADIES COMMITTEE TO GIVE "AT HOME."

For Benefit of the T. A. S. Hockey Club on Easter Monday.

The Ladies' Committee of the T.A.S., met last night in the Hall, and discussed matters relating to the Hockey Club. Just after the season closed, the Ladies' Committee expressed their desire to help the club in some way in view of the fact that the season had not been as successful financially, as was expected, and the proposition took definite form last night when it was decided to hold an "At Home" under the auspices of the Ladies' Committee in the T.A.S. Hall on Easter Monday, the proceeds to be devoted to the T.A.S. Hockey Club.

The ladies have a faculty of making everything they undertake successful, and there is abundant reason to believe that the "At Home" will be a continuation of the successes previously achieved by them The object is a very worthy one and no doubt the efforts of the ladies will be appreciated by the many supporters of the champions of the Trent Valley League.

BASKET-BALL.

A Toronto paper stated recently that the West End Y.M.C.A. Basketball team and the Hamilton Boys team would play for the junior basketball championship, of Canada. The statement can hardly be a correct one in view of the fact that the Brownie Basketball team of Peterborough, now holds the junior championship, having won that honour last winter when they defeated the West End team on their own floor by 10 to 8. To play for the championship it will be necessary to play with the Brownie team, which will accept challenges from teams, the games to be played after a week or ten days' notice.

FORTY-MINUTE SESSION.

Private Members' Day in the House of Commons—Cost of the Trent Valley Canal to Date.

Ottawa, March 22.—Forty minutes suffices for the House to transact its business yesterday. At this stage of the session, under the rules of the House, the business of private members has precedence on certain days of the week, one of which is Monday. As it is only on such days that members have the opportunity of bringing before the attention of the House any grievance they may desire to discuss without limitation, this right is jealously guarded by the private members, who as a rule resent any attempt on the part of the Government to restrict their rights in this respect by taking up any portion of the day with Government business. The volume of private business on the order paper yesterday was, however, very small, and was still further reduced by the request of Mr. Lancaster that the motions for the second reading of his bills to amend the railway act, the criminal code and the act respecting certificates to masters and mates of ships respectively be allowed to stand over, on the ground that they had not been printed in French. This left only a few questions on the paper, and after they had been disposed of the House adjourned.

Trent Valley Canal.

Concerning the Trent Valley Canal, Minister Emmerson stated in reply to Mr. Lennox that the first appropriation for the work was made in 1879-80, though some portions of the work had been undertaken previous to confederation. The work was actually commenced in 1880. About $2,600,000 has been spent on the work since 1896. The total expenditure to date is $3,825,000. The estimated expenditure required to complete the work via Trenton is $6,660,000; via Port Hope, $6,850,000.

Nothing Since 1903.

Mr. Morin was informed that the Government has paid nothing since July 1, 1903, on the million dollars rated for the Quebec bridge. There was paid by the Government during the past year as mail subsidies and steamship subventions for ocean and mail service between Montreal and Great Britain $110,650.

Replying to Mr. Clarke, the Minister of Militia, stated that the differences between the Government and the Municipal authorities of Valleyfield had been adjusted. The Dominion will pay $1,481 out of consolidated fund and Valleyfield will pay $2,040 for transportation.

Protest Against Aliens.

Mr. Clarke was informed that protests have been received by the Dominion Institute of Amalgamated Engineers, protesting against the employment of aliens in the service being made in connection with the proposed national transcontinental railway.

To-day the Government will take up the Militia Bill, and if it exhausts this order the estimates will then be considered.

Jabel Robinson asked if the Government proposed to introduce a bill regarding Sabbath observance. The Premier replied that the Government had been approached on the matter, but the question was a difficult one, involving the jurisdiction of the Provinces, and had been referred to the law officers of the Crown. The Government will do nothing until the law officers make their report.

Financed Two Years Ahead.

Montreal, March 22.—Private advices here state that Wm. Mackenzie, president of the Canadian Northern, has been fully successful in disposing of the company's bonds in London, and that the C. N. R. will build a great extent of railway during the present year. It is said, in fact, that construction is now financed two years ahead.

Preparatory to Funeral.

London, March 22.—The body of the Duke of Cambridge, who died Thursday, was removed yesterday from Gloucester House, in Park Lane, to Westminster Abbey, preparatory to the funeral service today.

Tortured with Pain.

Too Weak to Work.

ULCERS, BOILS AND PIMPLES ALL OVER HER BODY

Such was the condition of Mrs. Samuel Deitz, Zurich, Ont.

She happily found relief from her terrible suffering by using

Burdock Blood Bitters.

A remedy without a rival for the cure of all diseases and troubles arising from bad blood. A record extending over a quarter of a century and thousands of testimonials will prove this. Mrs. Deitz writes: "Too weak to work, tortured with the pain of ulcers, boils and pimples all over my body, especially on my face. I had almost made up my mind to give up trying to have them cured. I was ashamed to have any person come to see me, my face was in such a terrible state. I tried everything I could think of but got worse and worse. I was then led to try Burdock Blood Bitters and was surprised at the wonderful change the first bottle made. Altogether I took seven bottles and am now completely cured and am in perfect health again. I feel that B.B.B. saved my life."

May 17, 1903.

I received full benefit from your splendid pill. I refused any other kind of iron pill but yours, and recommend them to everyone. One box of your pills built up my system so that I felt like a different person, as I suffer from weak blood so much since fever. I recommend your pills very much because they are so easy on the stomach and build the blood so quickly. I shall recommend them to all I know suffering.

Later—June 22, 1903.

I certainly think the world of your wonderful little Tablets, and recommend them to so many. I cannot do without them. I use them as a system builder. My work is hard, teaching music, and am a hard worker. My nerves give out, I immediately use your Tablet, and I feel all right at once. RHEA SPEARIN, St. Mary's, Ont.

SLIPPING AWAY.

They are slipping away, the sweet, swift years,
Like a leaf on the current cast;
With never a break in their rapid flow,
We watch them, as one by one they go
Into the beautiful past.

As silent and swift as a weaver's thread,
Or an arrow's flying gleam;
As soft as the lingerers breezes hid,
That lift the willow's long golden lid
And ripple the glassy stream.

As light as the breath of the thistledown,
As fond as a lover's dream;
As pure as the flush in the sea-shell's throat,
As sweet as the wood bird's wooing note,
So tender and sweet they seem.

One after another we see them pass
Down the dimly-lighted stair;
We hear the sound of their steady tread
In the steps of the centuries long dead,
As beautiful and as fair.

There's only a few years left to love,
Shall we waste them in idle strife?
Shall we trample under our ruthless feet
These beautiful blossoms, rare and sweet,
By the dusty way of life?

There's only a few swift years—ah, let
No envious taunts be heard;
Make life's fair pattern of rare design
And fill up the measure with love's sweet wine,
But never an angry word.

The Grand Canyon.

Once, crossing a little tributary of the Colorado, I found that every drop splashed on my clothes hardened to a lump of mud and that where the water was but a foot deep my horse was nearly washed away by its force.

That fact, Roger Pocock says in an article in Pearson's, told me the secret of the Grand canyon. Like the Nile, the Colorado flows through a desert, but the river of Egypt meanders softly and muddily over low plains, spreading when it is full into harmless lakes, whereas this headlong sluice of running sand, launched at the naked rocks, has the cutting powers of a huge steel saw. The country has risen perhaps an inch a year, but the torrent, instead of spreading out over the land, has sawed through the lifting rocks. The country has risen to a height of 8,000 feet, while still the Colorado flows at the ancient level, only 2,000 feet above the sea. That is the reason of this profound abyss for 600 miles through the very foundations of the world. In all, 36,000,000 cubic miles of solid rock have been ground in this vast mall and buried into the gulf of California.

Window Blinds.

There is no necessity of washing cotton or linen window blinds, as there is a much simpler way of cleaning them. The blind should be spread flat on a table and then rubbed well all over with bread crumbs. This will make it look quite clean and fresh.

The New Senator.

Mr. William Mitchell of Drummondville, who replaces the late Senator Cochrane in the Second Chamber, was formerly general manager and director of the Drummondville County Railway, and is connected with several important enterprises. He was born in 1851, and was the son of Thomas Mitchell, who emigrated from the North of Ireland to Canada in 1841. After leaving school Mr. Mitchell went into railway work in the State of Maine, and in the Eastern Townships. He was the prime mover in the construction of the Drummondville County Railway, and became the head of a large lumber concern. He retained his position as general manager of the company until the purchase of the line by the Government in 1898. He has been Mayor of Drummondville several times, is chairman of the School Board and a Justice of the Peace. He married in 1876 Dora Goddard, daughter of Mr. Geo H. Goddard, of Danville, Que.

GLADSTONE TO CLEWS.

Great Britain Never Intended to Recognize the Southern Confederacy.

That Great Britain never intended to recognize the Southern Confederacy is brought out by The New York Tribune in a letter which was written many years ago by William Ewart Gladstone to Henry Clews of New York, which Mr. Clews has now made public. It was written on May 30, 1889, in recognition of the receipt of a copy of Mr. Clews' book of memoirs, and runs in part as follows:

"I think it would be less than ingenuous if I did not, after reading what relates to the Cabinet of Lord Palmerston, make some reference to it.

"Allow me to assure you that, so far as the Cabinet is concerned, you have been entirely misled in regard to matters of fact. As a member of it, and now nearly its sole surviving member, I can state it never at any time dealt with the subject of recognizing the Southern States in your great Civil War, excepting when it learned the proposition of the Emperor Napoleon III., and declined to entertain that proposition without qualification, hesitation, delay or dissent.

"In the debate which took place on Mr. Roebuck's proposal for the negotiation Lord Russell took no part, and could take none, as he was a member of the House of Lords. I spoke for the Cabinet.

"You will, I am sure, be glad to learn that there is no foundation for a charge which, had it been true, might have aided in keeping alive angry sentiments happily gone by."

Animals and Rain.

It seems strange that no animal, unless it be the squirrel, seems to build itself a shelter with the express object of keeping off the rain, which they all so much dislike. Monkeys are miserable in wet and could easily build shelters if they had the sense to do so. "As the creatures hop disconsolately along in the rain," writes Mr. Kipling in his 'Beast and Man in India,' "or crouch on branches, with dripping backs set against the tree trunk as shelter from a driving storm, they have the air of being very sorry for themselves." But even the orang outang, which builds a small platform in the trees on which to sleep at night, never seems to think of a roof, though the Dyaks say that when it is very wet it covers itself with the leaves of the pandanus, a large fern.

A Reverend Marquis.

Lord Normanby, who ranks first among the parson-peers, and is the only clerical marquis, bore for seven-and-twenty years the style of Earl of Mulgrave, and was ordained under that courtesy designation. He has been a Lancashire vicar, a Riviera chaplain, a successful schoolmaster, and a canon of Windsor, and has lately, when nearing his jubilee birthday, taken to himself a marchioness. Tall and handsome, and gifted with a singular courtesy and charm of manner, Lord Normandy is a man of many friends (as was evinced on the occasion of his recent marriage), and he is the happy owner of a castle in Yorkshire which is not a show house, and yet is, within and without, one of the most charming of English homes.

Kidney Disease Results From Colds

Exposure of the Back to Drafts not an Infrequent Cause of This Dreadfully Painful Ailment

The kidneys are very susceptible to cold, so much so that a current of cold air on the back is sufficient to cause congestion of these organs.

It is also a very common thing for heavy colds to settle on the kidneys and give to the most complicated diseases.

While teamsters, railroad men and others whose work subjects them to more than ordinary exposure are especially liable to be overtaken by kidney disease, it is also frequent among indoor workers.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are so wonderfully prompt in their action on the kidneys that they are especially valuable in cases of kidney disease which arise from colds.

Backache, highly coloured urine, pain or smarting when passing water, headache, cramps in the legs, constipation alternating with looseness of the bowels, fickle appetite, vomiting and general feelings of discomfort are among the most common symptoms.

The record of cures effected by means of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills has not been equalled in the history of medicine. In the majority of the homes of Canada these pills are always at hand as an indispensable family medicine.

BLOOD POISON

On account of its terrible effects, blood disease is called the king of all diseases. It may be either hereditary or contracted; so while it may not be a crime to have the disease, it is a crime to permit it to remain in the system. It may manifest itself in the form of Scrofula, Eczema, rheumatic pains, stiff or swollen joints, itchiness of the skin, eruptions or blotches, ulcers in the mouth or on the tongue, sore throat, falling out of hair, disordered stomach, and a general depression of the system. If you have any of these symptoms don't neglect yourself. You have no time to lose. Beware of "old fogy" treatment—beware of mineral poisons—beware of Quacks and Fakirs. OUR NEW METHOD TREATMENT is guaranteed to cure this disease, never to return. Bank Bonds will protect you. Our treatment is not injurious in any way, but reaches the very root of the disease and eliminates all poison from the system. The symptoms of disease gradually disappear. The blood becomes pure and enriched, the whole system is cleansed and purified, and the patient feels prepared anew for the duties and the pleasures of life. Purified by Suffering

BY MARY J. HOLMES,

Awe-struck, bewildered and half terrified, Helen looked up at the huge brown structure, which Mark designated as "the place." It was so lofty, so grand, so like the Camerons, and so unlike the farm-house far away, that Helen trembled as she followed Mark into the rooms flooded with light, and seeming to her like fairy land. They were so different from anything she had imagined, so much handsomer than even Katy's descriptions had implied, that for the moment the sight took her breath away, and she sank passively into the chair Mark brought for her, himself taking her muff and tippet, and noting, as he did so, that they were not mink, nor yet Russian sable, but well-worn, well-kept fitch, such as Juno would laugh at and criticise. But Helen's dress was a matter of small moment to Mark, and he thought more of the look in her dark eyes than of all the furs in Broadway, as she said to him, "You are very kind, Mr. Ray. I cannot thank you enough." This remark had been wrung from Helen by the feeling of homesickness which swept over her, as she thought how really alone she should be there, in her sister's house, on this first night of her arrival, if it were not for Mark, thus virtually taking the place of the brother-in-law, who should have been there to greet her.

"He was with Mrs. Cameron," the servant said, and taking out a card Mark wrote down a few words, and handing it to the servant who had been looking curiously at Helen, he continued standing until a step was heard on the stairs and Wilford came quietly in.

It was not a very loving meeting, but Helen was civil and Wilford was polite, offering her his hand and asking some questions about her journey.

"I was intending to meet you myself," he said, "but Mrs. Cameron does not like me to leave her, and Mark kindly offered to take the trouble off my hands."

He was looking pale and anxious, while there was on his face the light of a new joy, as if the little life begun so short a time ago had brought an added good to him, softening his haughty manner and making him even endurable to the prejudiced sister watching him so closely.

"Does Phillips know you are here?" he asked, answering his own query by ringing the bell and bidding Esther, who appeared, tell Phillips that Miss Lennox had arrived, and wished for supper, explaining to Helen that since Katy's illness they had dined at three, as that accommodated them the best.

This done and Helen's baggage ordered to her room, he seemed to think he had discharged his duty as host, and as Mark had left he began to grow fidgety, for a tete-a-tete with Helen was not what he desired. He had said to her all that he could think to say, for it never once occurred to him to inquire after the deacon's family. He asked for Dr. Grant, but his solicitude went no further, and the inmates of the farmhouse might have been dead and buried for aught he knew to the contrary. The omission was not made purposely, but because he really did not feel enough of interest in people so widely different from himself even to ask for them, much less to suspect how Helen's blood boiled as she detected the omission and imputed it to intended slight, feeling glad when he excused himself, saying he must go back to Katy, but would send his mother down to see her. His mother. Then she was there, the one whom Helen dreaded most of all, whom she had invested with every possible terror, hoping now that she would not be in haste to come down. She might have spared herself anxiety to meet a person who, could she have had her way, would not been there at all.

From the first moment of consciousness after the long hours of suffering Katy had asked for Helen.

"Send for Helen; I am so tired, and she could always rest me," was her reply, when asked by Wilford what he could do for her. "Send for Helen; I want her so much," she had said to Mrs. Cameron, when she came, repeating the wish until a consultation was held between the mother and son, touching the propriety of sending for Helen. "She would be of no use whatever, and might excite our Katy. Quiet is highly important just now," Mrs. Cameron had said, thus veiling under pretended concern for Katy her aversion to the girl whose independence in declining her dress-maker had never been forgiven, and whom she had set down in her mind as rude and ignorant.

"If her coming would do Katy harm she ought not to come," Wilford thought, while Katy in her darkened room moaned on—

"Send for sister Helen, please send for sister Helen"

At last, on the fourth day, Mrs. Banker, Mark Ray's mother, came to the house, and in consideration of the strong liking she had evinced for Katy ever since her arrival in New York, and the great respect felt for her by Mrs. Cameron, she was admitted to the chamber and heard the plaintive pleadings, "Send for sister Helen," until her motherly heart was touched, and as she sat with her son at dinner she spoke of the young girl-mother moaning so for Helen.

Whether it was Mark's great pity for Katy, or whether he was prompted by some more selfish motive, we do not profess to say, but that he was greatly excited was very evident from his manner as he exclaimed:

"Why not send for Helen, then? She is a splendid girl, and they idolize each other. Talk of her injuring Katy, that's all a humbug. She is just fitted for a nurse. Almost the sight of her would cure one of nervousness, she is so calm and quiet."

This was what Mark said, and the next morning Mrs. Banker's carriage stood at the door of No. — Madison Square, while Mrs. Banker herself was talking to Wilford in the library, and urging that Helen be sent for at once.

"It may save her life. She is more feverish to-day than yesterday, and this constant asking for her sister will wear her out so fast," she added, and that last argument prevailed.

Helen was sent for, and now sat waiting in the parlor for the coming of Mrs. Cameron. Wilford did not mean Katy to hear him as he whispered to his mother that Helen was below, but she did, and her blue eyes flashed brightly as she started from her pillow, exclaiming:

"I am so glad, so glad! Kiss me, Wilford, because I am so glad. Does she know? Have you told her? Wasn't she surprised, and will she come up quick?"

They could not quiet her at once, and only the assurance that unless she were more composed, Helen should not see her that night, had any effect upon her; but when they told her that, she lay back upon her pillow submissively, and Wilford saw the great tears dropping from her hot cheeks, while the pallid lips kept softly whispering "Helen." Then the sister love took another channel, and she said:

"She has not been to supper, and Phillips is always cross at extras. Will somebody see to it. Send Esther to me, please. Esther knows and is good-natured."

"Mother will do all that is necessary. She is going down," Wilford said; but Katy had quite as much fear of leaving Helen to "mother" as to Phillips, and insisted upon Esther until the latter came, receiving numerous injunctions as to the jam, the sweetmeats, the peaches, and the cold ham Helen must have each one being remembered as her favorite.

Wholly unselfish, Katy thought nothing of herself or the effort it cost her to care for Helen; but when it was over and Esther was gone, she seemed so utterly exhausted that Mrs. Cameron did not leave her, but staid at her bedside, until the extreme paleness was gone, and her eyes were more natural. Meanwhile the supper, which as Katy feared had made Phillips cross, had been arranged by Esther, who conducted Helen to the dining room, herself standing by and waiting upon her because the one whose duty it was had gone out for the evening, and Phillips had declined the "honor," as she styled it.

There was a homesick feeling tugging at Helen's heart when she tried to eat, and only the certainty that Katy was not far away kept her tears back. To her the very grandeur of the house made it desolate, and she was so glad it was Katy who lived there and not herself as she went up the soft carpeted stairway, which gave back no sound, and through the marble hall to the parlor, where, by the table on which her cloaks and furs were lying, a lady stood, as dignified and unconscious as if she had not been inspecting the self-same fur which Mark Ray had observed, but not, like him, thinking it did not matter, for it did matter very materially with her, and a smile of contempt had curled her lip as she turned over the tippet which Phillips would not have worn.

"I wonder how long she means to stay, and if Wilford will have to take her out," she was thinking, just as Helen appeared in the door and advanced into the room.

By herself, it was easy to slight Helen Lennox, but in her presence Mrs. Cameron found it very hard to appear as cold and distant as she had meant to do, for there was something about Helen which commanded her respect, and she went forward to meet her, offering her her hand and saying cordially:

"Miss Lennox, I presume—my daughter Katy's sister?"

Helen had not expected this, and the warm flush which came to her cheeks made her very handsome, as she returned Mrs. Cameron's greeting, and then asked more particularly for Katy than she had yet done. For a while they talked together, Mrs. Cameron noting carefully every item of Helen's attire, as well as the purity of her language and her perfect repose of manner after the first stiffness had passed away.

"Naturally a lady as well as Katy, there must be good blood somewhere, probably on the Lennox side," was Mrs. Cameron's private opinion, while Helen, after a few moments, began to feel far more at ease with Mrs. Cameron than she had done in the dining room with Esther waiting on her, and the cross Phillips stalking once through the room for no ostensible purpose except to get a sight of her.

Helen wondered at herself, and Mrs Cameron wondered too, trying to decide whether it were ignorance, conceit, obtuseness, or what, which made her so self-possessed when she was expected to appear so different.

"Strong-minded," was her final decision, as she said at last, "We promised Katy she should see you tonight. Will you go now?"

Then the color left Helen's face and lips and her limbs shook perceptibly, for the knowing she was soon to meet her sister unnerved her; but by the time the door of Katy's room was reached she was herself again, and there was no need for Mrs. Cameron to whisper, "Pray do not excite her."

Katy heard her coming, and it required all Wilford's and the nurse's efforts to keep her quiet.

"Helen, Helen, darling, darling sister!" she cried, as she wound her arms around Helen's neck, and laid her golden head on Helen's bosom, sobbing in a low, mournful way which told Helen more how she had been longed for than did the weak voice which whispered, "I've wanted you so much, oh Helen; you don't know how much I've missed you all the years I've been away. You will not leave me now," and Katy clung closer to the dear sister who gently unclasped the clinging arms and put back upon the pillow the quivering face, which she kissed so tenderly, whispering in her own old half soothing, half commanding way, "Be quiet now, Katy. It's best that you should. No, I will not leave you."

Next to Dr. Grant, Helen had more influence over Katy than any living being, and it was very apparent now, for, as if her presence had a power to soothe, Katy grew very quiet, and utterly wearied out, slept for a few moments with Helen's hand fast locked in hers. When she woke the tired look was gone, and turning to her sister she said, "Have you seen my baby?" while the young mother love which broke so beautifully over her pale face, made it the face of an angel.

"It seems so funny that it is Katy's baby," Helen said, taking the puny little thing, which with its wrinkled face and red, clinched fists was not very attractive to her, save as she looked at it with Katy's eyes.

She did not even kiss it, but her tears dropped upon its head as she thought how short the time since up in the old garret at home she had dressed rag dolls for the Katy who was now a mother. And still in a measure she was the same, hugging Helen fondly when she said good-night, and welcoming her so joyfully in the morning when she came again, telling her how just the sight of her sitting there by baby's crib did her so much good.

"I shall get well so fast," she said; and she was right, for Helen was worth far more to her than all the physician's powders, and Wilford was glad that Helen came, even if she did sometimes shock him with her independent ways, upsetting all his plans and theories with regard to Katy, and meeting him on other grounds with an opposition as puzzling as it was new to him.

BY

Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mr. Benjamin Brooks, a well-known farmer of West Cape, P.E.I., tells of how his son was cured of Kidney Disease, and how he was cured of Backache.

The First Sign of Kidney Trouble.

He says: "Our little boy was troubled with kidney disease. We had tried many kinds of kidney pills but they only helped for a time. We got Doan's Kidney Pills and one box effected a perfect cure. About six weeks after this I caught a very bad cold that settled in my kidneys. My back was so sore I could hardly walk. I went to the drug store and got a box, took them according to directions and the result was that my back was completely cured. I believe they are the best kidney pill on the market to-day."

There is not a kidney trouble from Backache to Bright's Disease that Doan's Kidney Pills will not relieve or cure. The price is 50 cts. per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25 and may be procured at all dealers or from

"I've Lost Ten Pounds"

A man says. "Look at this." And he over-laps his coat to show how loose it is. There are some people who can lose fat to advantage, but the loss of flesh is one of the accepted evidences of failing health. As flesh-making processes begin in the stomach, so naturally when there is loss of flesh we look first to the stomach for the cause. And the cause is generally found to be disease of the stomach and digestive and nutritive tracts, resulting in loss of nutrition and consequent physical weakness.

Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery restores the lost flesh by curing diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition and enabling the perfect digestion and assimilation of food from which flesh and strength are made.

"My wife was for five years troubled with indigestion of stomach and bowels, bloating and severe pain at times during the entire five years," writes Mr. J. Milton Unger, of McConnellsburg Pa. "Her heart was affected, and she took a purgative every few days but only received temporary relief. She got very poor in flesh and I bought me bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery from our druggist and after taking it she said she felt like a new woman. Has no more trouble with stomach and bowels, and has no pain nor bloating. Has gained fifteen pounds in weight."

would be at once utilized. It is, therefore, necessary to build at once either a Collegiate Institute or Public School building.

3. Furthermore it is imperative that we secure additional accommodation if our schools are to be made more efficient and more popular, by giving special attention to the practical aspects of education, by providing for instruction in Domestic Science and Art and Manual Training—branches which are now successfully introduced in schools throughout the Province, in many places of less importance than Peterborough.

4. There are at present, for the Collegiate Institute, no play ground separate from those of the public schools, and those used are quite inadequate for proper physical training and drill and for the satisfactory conduct of games and school sports. There is no suitable room or hall in which the pupils can be assembled for lectures or addresses. Such a room is urgently required.

5. For several years the High School Inspectors have regularly reported the building now used as very unsatisfactory for Collegiate Institute purposes. In 1902 the Inspector says: "In the matter of school accommodation, Peterborough is inferior to most of the other large centres in the province, and it is much to be regretted that its Collegiate Institute is not now housed in a building with suitable surroundings with so important a centre.

6. In the distribution of the High School grant the Department takes account of the character of the accommodations and equipment and it is, therefore, to the ratepayers' interest to have a building perfect in its appointments. The High School Inspector's grading of our present accommodations has invariably been as follows:

I. being good; II. being fair; III. being poor. "Water Closets, II; water supply II; school grounds, III; school building, III; class rooms, II; halls, I; waiting rooms III; cap rooms I; desks, II; blackboards, I; lighting II; heating I; ventilation, I;" and in the report for 1903, the Inspector states that he would be justified in lowering the grade of some of the above items.

7. Taking all into consideration, (a) the amount paid in rent and taxes for the Menzies property, (b) the increased High School grant, consequent upon the improved accommodation and equipment and for the Manual Training and Domestic Science classes, (c) the additional amount of fees paid by the increased number of pupils which will be attracted by the greater efficiency of our institute, (d) the improved value of property owing to greater educational advantages which the Town will have to offer, and (e) the low rate at which money can be borrowed, we are convinced that we are imposing no serious burden upon the taxpayer in asking for $50,000.00 for the erection of a Collegiate Institute building which will be adequate for our educational requirements, and creditable to a town of such industrial and commercial importance.

8. In conclusion, the Board of Education believes that it is in the interests of education that this work should be done, and having given years of thought and consideration to the matter, are now prepared to take the responsibility of advising that a Collegiate Institute be erected at a cost not to exceed $50,000.00.

Respectfully submitted on behalf of the Board of Education.

J. J. HARTLEY,
Chairman.

The communication was received.

From Mr. J. H. Burnham, asking what action the Council intended to take regarding the petition of a number of property owners on Brock street.—Board of Works and Legal Committee.

From W. G. Morrow, enclosing a copy of the report of the Committee of the Whole Board of Education adopted at their last meeting, relating to the reduction of members.—Legislation Committee.

DEPUTATION OF BAKERS.

A deputation of bakers, consisting of Messrs. Bates, Lush, Williams and Stock, waited on the council with reference to the request sent in some time ago, asking the Council to change the standard size of bread from 2 and 4 pound loaves to 11-2 and 3 pounds.

Mr. Lush, who addressed the Council on behalf of the Association, reviewed the experience of the Toronto Bakers, who petitioned the Legislature to allow them to make their bread into 11-2 and 3 pound loaves. The result was that they shipped their loaves of bread to towns and cities outside of Toronto, of the same size as those sold in Toronto. This had a bad effect on the local bakers, who found it difficult to compete with the imported bread, and the bakers in Peterborough ask that the standard size of bread be made similar to that in Toronto. Ald. Morrison asked if the result of the change would not be to raise the price of bread to the consumers. In reply to this question Mr. Lush said that it would not necessarily mean this, as the bakers would charge 13 cents for the four pound loaves, which at present are sold for 12 cts.

Ald. Mason pointed out that there was practically no competition now from the bread imported from Toronto.

Mr. Lush said that there was no business upon which so many restrictions were placed as that of the baking business.

Ald. Mason said that he had inquired as to public opinion with respect to which size was the most desired, and he had found that comparatively few persons were in favour of the smaller loaf.

Replying to this, Mr. Lush said that in the week in which he had been manufacturing the smaller loaf he had found no objection to it whatever. He stated that whether the council passed the by-law or not he would continue to make bread of the same weight, the only difference being that if the by-law were passed the bread would not require to be labelled.

Mr. Stock, who also spoke along the same lines, and said that he thought the Council might just as well pass the by-law, as the bakers were determined to make the 11-2 and 3 pound loaves in future in any case, and the only difference is that the loaves would have to be labelled, which would necessitate an extra expense in making the bread, which the consumers would have to pay in any case. He thought the bread by-law in Ottawa was a very good one. It provided that the standard size should be 2 and 4 pounds and all other sizes are known as "fancy bread," and need not be labelled.

Mr. Williams, secretary of the association, followed along the same lines as covered by the former speakers. Mr. Bates also addressed the Council and said that many persons in Peterborough were under the impression that the local bread was dearer than that brought in from Toronto, whereas in reality it was cheaper. He also wished the council to make the change.

His Worship promised that the matter would be considered and if Council could be assured that the request of the Bakers was in the public interest it would be granted.

Ald. Batten presented the following report, which was adopted:—

Your Property Committee beg leave to report that on March 18th inst., the market tolls and charges for the year, commencing April 1st, 1904, were sold by auction to Thomas J. Lee for $1000, and that the papers in connection with the purchase have been signed by Mr. Lee and his sureties.

All of which is respectfully sumbitted.

Ald. Best suggested that the regulations in the Market Bylaw whereby the hucksters were prohibited from going on to the market before 11 o'clock, be abolished, and believed that in the interests of the public the hucksters should be permitted to go on the market at any hour.

Ald. Edgcumbe reported on behalf of the Fire, Water and Light Comtee as follows:

Your Fire, Water and Light Committee beg leave to report and recommend as follows:

1. That Jas. English's resignation be accepted to take effect on the first of June next, and that he be paid to that date and relieved from duty as soon after the 15th of April next as he shall have handed over to his successor all material and apparatus now under his control, in proper shape to the satisfaction of the chairman of the committee and the Chief of the Fire Brigade, and that Samuel Wainwright be appointed as his successor to give his whole time to the service of the town as may be required, at a salary of $520 per annum, payable monthly, subject to such regulations and conditions as the council may require, the engagement to take effect on first of April next.

THE TRANSPORTATION COMMISSION.

His Worship informed the Council that he had been advised by the chairman of the Transportation Commission, that that body would hold a meeting in Peterborough on Thursday, March 24th, and he had placed the council chamber at the disposal of the Commission.

Ald. Morrison thought the council should be represented before the Commission, and should do all in its power to impress the great fact that the canal would be the most advantageous route to ship the western grain to the markets of the world. He regretted the fact that the council had not been able to equip itself with information with reference to the relative cost of shipping grain by the canal route and the rail route. He thought some step should be taken to get information on this point and present it to the Commission.

The Mayor replying stated that he had conferred with the manufacturers with a view of carrying out the plan as suggested by Ald. Morrison, but that the early sitting of the Commission had partially disarranged these plans. The general feeling was, he said, that the better time to visit Peterborough was at a later date but it appeared to be impossible to have the Commission here at a late date, and it had been thought advisable to have the Commission come at the date suggested.

Ald. Morrison moved, seconded by Ald. Adams, that a committee composed of the Mayor and Ald. Best, Adams and Morrison, be appointed to watch the proceedings of the Transportation Commission in the interests of the town, with power to take any steps in connection therewith that they may deem to be in the interests of the town.—Carried.

Ald. Edgcumbe presented a petition from the Y.W.C.A. asking that the council apply to the Legislature for power to exempt the property of the Y.W.C.A. from taxation. The petition was ordered to be signed and sealed by the Mayor and Clerk.

The Mayor called the attention of the council to the fact that in connection with the Peterborough Bill now before the Legislature opposition was being made to the portion of the Bill referring to the raising money for the purpose of erecting a contagious-disease hospital, and he suggested that in view of this opposition the Bill might not pass the Legislature.

Ald. Adams moved that the matter be referred to the Legal Committee with power to act.

Ald. Scott moved, seconded by Ald. Batten that the Board of Works be empowered to have the watering carts properly painted and repaired for the summer season.

The council then adjourned.

JAPANESE GUNS SHELLED THE FORT

The Rain of Iron Missles Poured into Port Arthur.

FIVE SOLDIERS WERE KILLED

Russian Viceroy Reports Another Bombardment of Port Arthur — The Japanese Torpedo Boats Compelled to Withdraw — Russian Ships Left the Roadstead to Meet Japaneses But were not Attacked.

St. Petersburg, March 23.—The Emperor has received the following telegram from Viceroy Alexieff:

"Lieut.-Gen. Stoessel reports that at midnight on March 21 Japanese torpedo boats were discovered by our searchlights. Our guard ships and fort batteries opened fire upon them, the firing lasting for twenty minutes. At 4 o'clock in the morning the attack was renewed.

"At 6.30 o'clock in the morning four of the enemy's ships appeared from the south, followed by the whole squadron of eleven ships and eight torpedo boats. Our squadron left the roadstead to meet the enemy.

"At 9 o'clock the enemy's battleships opened fire on Liaotishin, after which they took up a position behind the rocky eminence of Liaotishin and bombarded Port Arthur."

Alexieff to the Emperor.

A later despatch from Viceroy Alexieff to the Emperor, says:

"According to a supplementary report from Lieut.-Gen. Stoessel, the enemy's fleet consisted of six battleships and twelve cruisers. About 9 o'clock in the morning the fleet divided, the battleships and torpedo boats taking up a position between Iaotishin and Golubinaia Bay (Pigeon Bay), while the cruisers formed up in two sections to the south and southeat of Port Arthur.

"At 9.20 o'clock the battleship Retvizan opened fire over the crest of Liaotishin against the enemy's battleships, which replied by firing on the town. Meanwhile our fleet formed up in line in the outer roadstead.

"About 1 o'clock in the morning the cannonade slackened and the Japanese fleet, reuniting, drew off slowly to the southeast, and at 12.30 disappeared.

"During the bombardment five soldiers were killed and nine were wounded. One soldier on the shore was killed."

Another telegram from Viceroy Alexieff to the Emperor gives Vice-Admiral Makaroff's report as follows:

"At midnight of March 21 two of the enemy's torpedo boats approached the outer roadstead, but were discovered by the searchlights of the batteries and fired upon by the forts and by the gunboats Bobr and Otvajny. They were obliged to retire.

"A second attack was made at 4 o'clock in the morning by three torpedo boats, which also were repulsed.

"At daybreak three detachments of the enemy's fleet, consisting of six battleships, six armored cruisers, six second and third class cruisers and eight torpedo boats approached from all sides. At 7 o'clock our squadron commenced to leave the inner harbor, the cruisers leading, with the Askold flying my flag, at their head, and the battleships following.

"The enemy's battleships approached Liaotishin and fired 100 shells from their twelve-inch guns at Port Arthur and 108 shells at the environs of the town.

"At 10 o'clock a Japanese battleship was struck by a shell and retired.

"We lost no men during the bombardment, which ceased at 11 o'clock when the enemy's ships, reassembled, and after passing along the outer roadstead, drew off without attacking our fleet.

Blocked Entrance to Port Arthur.

London, March 23.—A correspondent of The Times, at Tokio, under yesterday's date, cables that it is rumored that the Japanese have succeeded in blocking the entrance to Port Arthur.

According to The Standard's St. Petersburg correspondent, the Russian Government has just privately informed the powers that, since the outbreak of war, exactly 100,000 troops have been forwarded to the Far East by the Siberian Railway. The Board of Trade warns the masters of British ships that they must not resist being stopped or searched by warships of either of the belligerents for contraband.

The Daily Telegraph's Seoul correspondent, under date of March 22, reports the rising of a mob of Coreans against Japanese soldiers at Samung, north of Gensan. The Japanese dispersed the mob, killing five men and wounding twenty.

The Daily Chronicle publishes unconfirmed rumors from Che Foo and Newchwang of bombardments of Port Arthur, on March 13 and 17, a number of Europeans and many Chinese being killed in the first, and two guns being dismantled, and fifty soldiers killed in the latter.

Two Forces Closing.

St. Petersburg, March 23.—The following despatch has been received from Viceroy Alexieff, dated Mukden, March 22:

"General Mistchenkow reports that on March 17 our scouts approached Anju and observed on the left bank of the Chengcheng River, opposite Anju, entrenchments made by the enemy. Up to that date the enemy had not appeared at Longpyen (15 miles northeast of Anju).

"It is supposed that there is one Japanese division at Anju, and that the remainder of the First Army Corps is at Pingyang.

"In consequence of the report that two squadrons of the enemy had arrived at Pakchon (15 miles northwest of Anju), two hundred of our cavalry were despatched for the purpose of preventing the enemy from crossing the Pakchon River. Our cavalry found three Japanese squadrons on the left bank of the river, but they withdrew towards Anju, on the arrival of our detachment, without fighting.

The Japanese squadrons number 19 each.

"On the night of March 19 two despatch riders encountered a Japanese patrol between Kazan (about 50 miles north by west of Pingyang and Chenchu, about 12 miles of Kazan). The patrol opened fire, but our despatch riders escaped unhurt.

"According to a report three thousand of the enemy's cavalry occupied Yongpyon, March 19, and material for pontoon bridges has been placed in readiness north and south of Anju."

Ameer Poisoned.

St. Petersburg, March 23.—A despatch received from Ashbabad, the capital of the Russian Trans-Caspian territory, says a rumor is current there that the Ameer of Afghanistan has been poisoned.

THREAT TO RESIGN

The Auditor-General May Ask For Superannuation.

WANTS AUDIT ACT AMENDED

Insists That They Be Passed—Trouble Over the Cornwall Canal Lighting Act —Criticism of Mr. Collingwood Schreiber—The Militia Bill Discussed—Sir Frederick Borden Explains its Features.

Ottawa, March 23.—The Auditor-General has threatened to ask for his superannuation unless certain amendments to the audit act are carried out this session. This threat is contained in the preface to two enormous blue books emanating from the guardian of the public treasury, which were laid on the table of the House to-day. It is curious that it should come upon the culmination of a lengthy correspondence between the audit office and various personages in regard to the lease of hydraulic privileges on the Cornwall Canal to Mr. M. P. Davis, and a contract made with him for the supplying of lights for the illumination and of electric energy for the operation of the canal. Mr. McDougall claims that the correspondence in question demonstrates the importance of amendments for which he has been asking for some years. But it also shows that he indulged in language of a heated character, for which he afterwards felt sorry. For example, he says, "Excuse may be made for some of my remarks in connection with this correspondence. They would have been different if written in cooler blood."

The Davis Contracts.

The first contract with Mr. H. P. Davis was made by the late Government, when Hon. John Haggart was Minister of Railways. It gave Mr. Davis the exclusive right to develop power for 21 years, fixed the rate at which he was to supply electric energy for the operation of gates, sluices, etc., at $63 per horse-power, and required him to furnish lights to be erected along the bank of the canal, at such points and in such numbers as the chief engineer might deem necessary, at 30 cents per light. In 1900 another contract was made, requiring that the minimum of lights furnished should be 250 and the minimum of power supplied 400 horse-power, and extending the life of the contract for several years. The electric light was first turned on in October, 1901, and during the following winter 217 lights were placed. When Mr. Davis sent in his bill he charged for the minimum of 250 lights. He also charged for the full maximum horse-power of 400, although the Government had not installed the machinery to utilize that quantity, on the ground that this was permitted by the contract. The Auditor-General protested against charging for any more than the number of lights worked per night. He also took exception to the charge for electric energy.

The New Arrangement.

When the contractor made his demand for the payment of energy for 400 horse-pwer, although the canal had not the machinery in place to receive it, the Government objected and threatened to use their powers of expropriation. The contractor then agreed to modifications, and the new arrangement was entered into. It is claimed that not a cent was paid under the contract of 1900, but under the existing agreement payment will be made for 250 lights in summer and 150 in winter. The lights used in winter are strung all over the canal banks, and, in view of this fact, the claim is set up that the cost of furnishing illumination is practically as great as in the season of navigation. As to the supply of energy for working the locks, the Government will have their machinery installed by the 1st of August, and it has been found that the power required will fall only a few horse-power short of the quantity originally estimated by Mr. Schreiber.

The Auditor caustically comments upon the action of the Deputy Minister of Railways, and points out that the contracts of 1896 and 1900 were made upon the eve of Dominion elections.

Militia Act Amendment.

The chief feature of yesterday's debate upon Sir Frederick Borden's bill consolidating and revising the militia act was the strenuous objections offered by Mr. E. F. Clarke, Col. Sam Hughes, Lieut.-Col. Tisdale and other members of the Opposition to the removal of the restriction which has hitherto prevented the appointment of a Canadian officer to the position of Major-General commanding the Canadian militia. Sir Frederick insisted that the time had come when a statutory provision, which cast a reflection upon the capacity of Canadian officers who had distinguished themselves in quelling rebellion in the Dominion, and who upon the veldt of South Africa had served with distinction equal to, if not greater than, their Imperial brother officers, should be wiped off the Canadian statue books. The question of capacity or fitness of Imperial officers was not, he said, at all involved in the change, but simply the removal of an injustice and the application of the same principle of self-government to the Militia Department that had been successfully worked out in connection with other departments of the service.

Militia in Riot Cases.

A vigorous debate was also carried on upon the section providing the machinery by which the military forces may be summoned to the aid of the civil power in case of riot. Mr. E. F. Clarke led the Opposition in a demand that a check be provided against the too hasty power, and protested against the authority being exercised by Justices of the Peace, who are not responsible to the people. The Minister of Justices suggested that the objection might in a measure be overcome by limiting the power of Justices of the Peace to cases where the municipal authorities fail to perform their duty. Sir Frederick explained that his idea of the method of increasing the pay of the militia differed somewhat from the general interpretation placed upon his remarks by the press. The scheme, as mapped out in his mind, allowed the proficient man to receive 70 cents a day for the first camp, increasing to 80 cents the second year, and $1 at the close of the third year's camp.

Charged With Forgery.

St. Thomas, March 23.—The police are looking after Fred Stoddard, who since last November has been employed at Still's Handle Factory, holding a warrant issued by County Magistrate Hunt for his arrest, charging him with forgery.

Patti Home Again.

London, March 23.—Madame Patti arrived at Craig-y-nos Castle yesterday from her American tour and was given an ovation by the villagers.

JAPANESE GUNS SHELLED THE FORT

FIVE SOLDIERS WERE KILLED

Russian Viceroy Reports Another Bombardment of Port Arthur — The Japanese Torpedo Boats Compelled to Withdraw — Russian Ships Left the Roadstead to Meet Japaneses But were not Attacked.

St. Petersburg, March 23.—The Emperor has received the following telegram from Viceroy Alexieff:

"Lieut.-Gen. Stoessel reports that at midnight on March 21 Japanese torpedo boats were discovered by our searchlights. Our guard ships and fort batteries opened fire upon them, the firing lasting for twenty minutes. At 4 o'clock in the morning the attack was renewed.

"At 6.30 o'clock in the morning four of the enemy's ships appeared from the south, followed by the whole squadron of eleven ships and eight torpedo boats. Our squadron left the roadstead to meet the enemy.

"At 9 o'clock the enemy's battleships opened fire on Liaotishin, after which they took up a position behind the rocky eminence of Liaotishin and bombarded Port Arthur."

Alexieff to the Emperor.

A later despatch from Viceroy Alexieff to the Emperor, says:

"According to a supplementary report from Lieut.-Gen. Stoessel, the enemy's fleet consisted of six battleships and twelve cruisers. About 9 o'clock in the morning the fleet divided, the battleships and torpedo boats taking up a position between Iaotishin and Golubinaia Bay (Pigeon Bay), while the cruisers formed up in two sections to the south and southeat of Port Arthur.

"At 9.20 o'clock the battleship Retvizan opened fire over the crest of Liaotishin against the enemy's battleships, which replied by firing on the town. Meanwhile our fleet formed up in line in the outer roadstead.

"About 1 o'clock in the morning the cannonade slackened and the Japanese fleet, reuniting, drew off slowly to the southeast, and at 12.30 disappeared.

"During the bombardment five soldiers were killed and nine were wounded. One soldier on the shore was killed."

Another telegram from Viceroy Alexieff to the Emperor gives Vice-Admiral Makaroff's report as follows:

"At midnight of March 21 two of the enemy's torpedo boats approached the outer roadstead, but were discovered by the searchlights of the batteries and fired upon by the forts and by the gunboats Bobr and Otvajny. They were obliged to retire.

"A second attack was made at 4 o'clock in the morning by three torpedo boats, which also were repulsed.

"At daybreak three detachments of the enemy's fleet, consisting of six battleships, six armored cruisers, six second and third class cruisers and eight torpedo boats approached from all sides. At 7 o'clock our squadron commenced to leave the inner harbor, the cruisers leading, with the Askold flying my flag, at their head, and the battleships following.

"The enemy's battleships approached Liaotishin and fired 100 shells from their twelve-inch guns at Port Arthur and 108 shells at the environs of the town.

"At 10 o'clock a Japanese battleship was struck by a shell and retired.

"We lost no men during the bombardment, which ceased at 11 o'clock when the enemy's ships, reassembled, and after passing along the outer roadstead, drew off without attacking our fleet.

Blocked Entrance to Port Arthur.

London, March 23.—A correspondent of The Times, at Tokio, under yesterday's date, cables that it is rumored that the Japanese have succeeded in blocking the entrance to Port Arthur.

According to The Standard's St. Petersburg correspondent, the Russian Government has just privately informed the powers that since the outbreak of war, exactly 100,000 troops have been forwarded to the Far East by the Siberian Railway. The Board of Trade warns the masters of British ships that they must not resist being stopped or searched by warships of either of the belligerents for contraband.

The Daily Telegraph's Seoul correspondent, under date of March 22, reports the rising of a mob of Coreans against Japanese soldiers at Samung, north of Gensan. The Japanese dispersed the mob, killing five men and wounding twenty.

The Daily Chronicle publishes unconfirmed rumors from Che Foo and Newchwang of bombardments of Port Arthur, on March 13 and 17, a number of Europeans and many Chinese being killed in the first, and two guns being dismantled, and fifty soldiers killed in the latter.

Two Forces Closing.

St. Petersburg, March 23.—The following despatch has been received from Viceroy Alexieff, dated Mukden, March 22:

"General Mistchenkow reports that on March 17 our scouts approached Anju and observed on the left bank of the Chengcheng River, opposite Anju, entrenchments made by the enemy. Up to that date the enemy had not appeared at Longpyen (15 miles northeast of Anju).

"It is supposed that there is one Japanese division at Anju, and that the remainder of the First Army Corps is at Pingyang.

"In consequence of the report that two squadrons of the enemy had arrived at Pakchon (15 miles northwest of Anju), two hundred of our cavalry were despatched for the purpose of preventing the enemy from crossing the Pakchon River. Our cavalry found three Japanese squadrons on the left bank of the river, but they withdrew towards Anju, on the arrival of our detachment, without fighting.

The Japanese squadrons number 19 each.

"On the night of March 19 two despatch riders encountered a Japanese patrol between Kazan (about 50 miles north by west of Pingyang and Chenchu, about 12 miles of Kazan). The patrol opened fire, but our despatch riders escaped unhurt.

"According to a report three thousand of the enemy's cavalry occupied Yongpyon, March 19, and material for pontoon bridges has been placed in readiness north and south of Anju."

Ameer Poisoned.

St. Petersburg, March 23.—A despatch received from Ashbabad, the capital of the Russian Trans-Caspian territory, says a rumor is current there that the Ameer of Afghanistan has been poisoned.

THREAT TO RESIGN

The Auditor-General May Ask For Superannuation.

WANTS AUDIT ACT AMENDED

Insists That They Be Passed—Trouble Over the Cornwall Canal Lighting Act —Criticism of Mr. Collingwood Schreiber—The Militia Bill Discussed—Sir Frederick Borden Explains Its Features.

Ottawa, March 23.—The Auditor-General has threatened to ask for his superannuation unless certain amendments to the audit act are carried out this session. This threat is contained in the preface to two enormous blue books emanating from the guardian of the public treasury, which were laid on the table of the House to-day. It is curious that it should come upon the culmination of a lengthy correspondence between the audit office and various personages in regard to the lease of hydraulic privileges on the Cornwall Canal to Mr. M. P. Davis, and a contract made with him for the supplying of lights for the illumination and of electric energy for the operation of the canal. Mr. McDougall claims that the correspondence in question demonstrates the importance of amendments for which he has been asking for some years. But it also shows that he indulged in language of a heated character, for which he afterwards felt sorry. For example, he says, "Excuse may be made for some of my remarks in connection with this correspondence. They would have been different if written in cooler blood."

The Davis Contracts.

The first contract with Mr. H. P. Davis was made by the late Government, when Hon. John Haggart was Minister of Railways. It gave Mr. Davis the exclusive right to develop power for 21 years, fixed the rate at which he was to supply electric energy for the operation of gates, sluices, etc., at $63 per horse-power, and required him to furnish lights to be erected along the banks of the canal, at such points and in such numbers as the chief engineer might deem necessary, at 30 cents per light. In 1900 another contract was made, requiring that the minimum of lights furnished should be 250 and the minimum of power supplied 400 horse-power, and extending the life of the contract for several years. The electric light was first turned on in October, 1901, and during the following winter 217 lights were placed. When Mr. Davis sent in his bill he charged for the minimum of 250 lights. He also charged for the full maximum horse-power of 400, although the Government had not installed the machinery to utilize that quantity, on the ground that this was permitted by the contract. The Auditor-General protested against charging for any more than the number of lights worked per night. He also took exception to the charge for electric energy.

The New Arrangement.

When the contractor made his demand for the payment of energy for 400 horse-pwer, although the canal had not the machinery in place to receive it, the Government objected and threatened to use their powers of expropriation. The contractor then agreed to modifications, and the new arrangement was entered into. It is claimed that not a cent was paid under the contract of 1900, but under the existing agreement payment will be made for 250 lights in summer and 150 in winter. The lights used in winter are strung all over the canal banks, and, in view of this fact, the claim is set up that the cost of furnishing illumination is practically as great as in the season of navigation. As to the supply of energy for working the locks, the Government will have their machinery installed by the 1st of August, and it has been found that the power required will fall only a few horse-power short of the quantity originally estimated by Mr. Schreiber.

The Auditor caustically comments upon the action of the Deputy Minister of Railways, and points out that the contracts of 1896 and 1900 were made upon the eve of Dominion elections.

Militia Act Amendment.

The chief feature of yesterday's debate upon Sir Frederick Borden's bill consolidating and revising the militia act was the strenuous objections offered by Mr. E. F. Clarke, Col. Sam Hughes, Lieut.-Col. Tisdale and other members of the Opposition to the removal of the restriction which has hitherto prevented the appointment of a Canadian officer to the position of Major-General commanding the Canadian militia. Sir Frederick insisted that the time had come when a statutory provision, which cast a reflection upon the capacity of Canadian officers who had distinguished themselves in quelling rebellion in the Dominion, and who upon the veldt of South Africa had served with distinction equal to, if not greater than, their Imperial brother officers, should be wiped off the Canadian statue books. The question of capacity or fitness of Imperial officers was not, he said, at all involved in the change, but simply the removal of an injustice and the application of the same principle of self-government to the Militia Department that had been successfully worked out in connection with other departments of the service.

Militia in Riot Cases.

A vigorous debate was also carried on upon the section providing the machinery by which the military forces may be summoned to the aid of the civil power in case of riot. Mr. E. F. Clarke led the Opposition in a demand that a check be provided against the too hasty power, and protested against the authority being exercised by Justices of the Peace, who are not responsible to the people. The Minister of Justices suggested that the objection might in a measure be overcome by limiting the power of Justices of the Peace to cases where the municipal authorities fail to perform their duty. Sir Frederick explained that his idea of the method of increasing the pay of the militia differed somewhat from the general interpretation placed upon his remarks by the press. The scheme, as mapped out in his mind, allowed the proficient man to receive 70 cents a day for the first camp, increasing to 80 cents the second year, and $1 at the close of the third year's camp.

St. Thomas, March 23.—The police are looking after Fred Stoddard, who since last November has been employed at Still's Handle Factory, holding a warrant issued by County Magistrate Hunt for his arrest, charging him with forgery.

THE TRENT WATERWAY.

In reply to Mr. Houghton Lennox, M.P., for South Simcoe, Hon. Jas. Sutherland, Minister of Public Works, told Parliament something interesting about the Trent Valley Canal. The total amount expended upon the canal by the Dominion to date has been $3,825,837. It is estimated, Mr. Sutherland says, that a similar sum will complete the great national work. The approximate figures given are as follows:—To complete the canal by way of Trenton, will cost $6,960,000; and by the Port Hope route the cost is estimated at $6,850,000. This is a difference in cash in favour of the Port Hope route of $110,000. This is an infinitessimally small amount compared with the value of the respective routes for navigation and shipping purposes. The Trenton route, we all know, is a land-locked route, opening directly into the sheltered Bay of Quinte. By the Port Hope route barges would, during a voyage of about thirty-five miles between Port Hope and Murray Bay, be exposed to the sweep of the south-west gales, which would prevail especially during the months when the movement of grain would make navigation the most active. The Port Hope route might be shorter to Lake water, but it is doubtful if there would be much difference in distance from the mouth of the Otonabee via Port Hope and the lake to the Bay of Quinte opposite Trenton, and from the same point via the Trent River to Trenton, and the terminus of the canal at Trenton makes all the difference imaginable for the reason stated. The difference in cost, as given by Hon. Mr. Sutherland, between the Port Hope and the Trenton routes, is only $110,000, a mere trifle, less than half the customs revenue of the Port of Peterborough for one year. In comparison with the advantage of the Trenton terminus, the cost sinks into insignificance. We have waited so long for the canal that when we get it we want it right, which would not be if the storm-swept lake route is substituted for the land-locked and safe Trenton route.

CARLESS HUNTERS.

The bill introduced into the Ontario Legislature by Mr. Taylor, of North Middlesex, to compel hunters to wear red caps and coats, or coats with red bands was aimed to prevent the deplorable "accidental" shootings of men instead of game, but the House seemed to think that the remedy was inadequate and the bill was withdrawn. It does not seem possible that legislation of any kind can reach the real source of the trouble—which is lack of common sense in the first place, lack of judgment and indifference as to responsibility for consequences on the part of many hunters. There is no way of deciding beforehand as to whom may be permitted at large in the hunting woods with a rifle, any more than it is possible beforehand to decide as to whom may be intrusted with a boat or canoe. The fool who rocks the boat is the cause of as many, if not more, deaths, than the careless hunter, who mistakes a man for a deer. There are some things that cannot be remedied by law. We cannot by statute impart common sense and create good judgment, where they do not exist, but we may stimulate carefulness by precept in advance and by example after the event. Nearly all so-called accidents by boating, shooting, etc, etc., are the results of carelessness, and perhaps persons guilty of this may be dealt with by way of warning or punishment.

LeCanada, a Montreal journal, points out a peculiarity which shows the anxiety of the Conservatives when in Opposition, to find fault, whether or not there is fault to find. The Conservative Opposition of Ontario point to the policy of the Liberal Government of Quebec in the management of the forest resources as something infinitely superior to the policy of the Liberal Government of Ontario, and the Conservative Opposition of Quebec enjoins the Liberal Government of Quebec to adopt the timber policy of Ontario. We shall never know which is the better, if we listen to the respective oppositions declaring the superiority of the systems that suit their political purpose.

NEW TERRITORY WILL BE OPENED.

Peace River District will be Surveyed for Settlers.

Ottawa, March 21. — The Peace River District, of which so much has been heard lately, and which holds out comfort and opulence to the industrious settler, is about to be further explored by the Dominion Government. Preparatory to opening lands for colonozation in the western portion of Athabasca, a survey party is being sent out to run lines in that part of the territory between the sixth initial meridian and the British Columbia border. This strip of country consists largely of good wheat growing farming land of the very best quality, and will afford the means of sustenance to thousands of settlers. The surveyors in charge of the party, which consists of about ten, will be A. Saint Cyr, of Ottawa; R. W. Self, of Toronto; and J. A. Wallace, of Calgary. Mr. A. G. Stacey, of the Topographical Survey, will go as an assistant.

HAVELOCK.

Havelock, March 22.

Mr. Joseph O'Brien, of our village was joyfully surprised by receiving a Pheniskehi game cock from the native soil on the morning of the 17th of March. This bird was sent to him by a very dear friend of his as a St. Patrick's gift. The colour of the bird is: body, light green, while the wings and tail are darker, making it the most handsome bird that has been seen in these parts for some time, and Mr. O'Brien has had many callers to view it.

A very pleasant evening was spent at Mr. and Mrs. F. Haig's in honour of Mr. Louis Slatter, who left for Belleville Monday, 21st inst., where he has taken a position with the Geo. Ritchie Company. Mr. Slatter has been in the employment of Messrs. Craig & Barrett, and while here he has made many friends who wish him much success for his new found position.

Mr. John and Wellington Hart were called suddenly to Pontypool on Tuesday by the death of there uncle, Mr. Geo. Knapp.

At the Police Court on Tuesday, Mr. Wm Mathison's case against Jas. Wyles for using offensive language while under the influence of liquor, was settled. And the liquor case of Mr. Mahoney, who was supposed to have sold liquor at Cordova Mines, was adjourned for one month.

As Easter will be here a week from Friday, notices have been put in the hen houses to the effect that if they don lay before that time they will loose there heads.

We expect to hear of a number of matrimonial announcements around Easter, and it is altogether likely that a number of our fair daughters will be led to the altar in the near future.

A farewell banquet was given in the Bank Chambers to Mr. Slater, by a number of his well-wishers last Saturday evening, but on account of an unforseen event the principal character, Mr. Slater, could not attend, so the boys celebrated the event with an empty chair, and wished the absent one all kinds of good luck.

The young men of the town think this weather very discouraging as they think the snow should be all away by this time, and the games commenced in the park.

Mr. Thos. Dwyer, of Belmont, passed away at the age of sixty years last Friday. He was buried at Maple Grove Cemetery on Sunday.

WEAVING TRADE REVOLUTIONIZED.

A Rotary Loom to turn out Five Times the Quantity

How Will This Affect Operators in the Weaving Trade? 150 Yards Per Day, the Product of One Loom.

Following close on the introduction of the turbine steam engine, which has done away with the waste of power involved in the reciprocating motion, there is an announcement of a rotary loom that is said to turn out five times as much cloth as the looms now in use. The driving of the shuttle back and forth between the alternately lifted threads of the warp has been the principle of all weaving as far back as the art can be traced. The rotary loom introduces a new principle, the idea of which was derived from the knitting machines now in general use. While the ordinary loom turns out from 25 to 30 yards a day, it is claimed that the rotary loom can turn out 150 yards. With the new loom there is no stopping to fill the shuttle. It occupies less floor space, is comparatively noiseless, simpler in construction, and more easily operated. The attempt to require each weaver to operate two of the old looms led to a strike in the New England mills, but it is claimed that one operator can attend to five of the new circular looms. The patent for this invention was issued in June last, and one machine has already been built and put in operation in Providence, R.I. Another claim for the new invention is the greater variety of patterns and weaves it can produce, and the many ways in which it can blend different grades of yarn.

It may not be satisfactory for the cotton interests to contemplate a revolution in their industry. But if the claims for the new loom are reasonably sustained it will effect a complete transformation. Better work, more varied in pattern, at many times the speed, and requiring far less skilled attendance, are achievements that would change the aspect of this industry. John Stuart Mill doubted whether labour-saving machinery had ever shortened the daily toil of a human being; and it would be over-sanguine to anticipate any such result from the perfecting of a new process of weaving. But all such changes must ultimately bring more or better cloth within the reach of the average citizen. The object of all economic changes and all economic legislation is to increase the personal results and rewards of effort. As a promise of a manifold increase in the productive power of labour in woollen and cotton mills the new device will be regarded with deep interest.

INDIAN RIVER.

The skating rink is closed for the season.

Truly the ladies of the vicinity are aware of the fact that 1904 is leap for another wedding was celebrated last week. (Who next?

Miss Janet Breckenridge, who has been visiting in the Canadian Northwest, returned home last week, after an absence of about three months.

Mr. Willie Breckenridge is expected home before Easter.

Several cars of live stock were shipped from here last week by local buyers for the North-west.

Mr. Michael English was the guest of Miss Emma O'Leary last week.

Mr. Martin Ledgate has been hired for the summer by Mr. Wood.

It is said that Mr. P. Burke, the contractor for the building of the O'Leary canal, will commence operations soon.

AN ABSOLUTE NECESSITY.

So Thinks at Least one Travelling Man.

I would as soon think of starting out without my mileage books and grip as to start out on a trip without a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in my valise, said a travelling man who represents a St. Louis hardware house. Why? Because I have to put up at all kinds of hotels and boarding houses. I have to eat good, bad and indifferent food at all hours of the day and night and I don't believe any man's stomach will stand that sort of thing without protest, anyway I know mine won't. It has have something to break the fall and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the crutch I fall back on.

My friends often "josh" me about it, tell me I'm an easy mark for patent medicine fakers, that advertised medicines are humbugs etc., but I notice that they are nearly always complaining of their aches and pains and poor digestion while I can stand most any old kind of fare and feel good and ready for my work when it needs me and I believe I owe my good digestion and sound health to the daily, regular use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, year in and year out, and all the "joshing" in the world will never convince me to the contrary.

I used to have heartburn about three times a day and a headache about three or four times a week and after standing for this for four or five years I began to look around for a crutch and found it when my doctor told me the best investment I could make would be a fifty cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and I have invested about fifty cents a month for them ever since and when I stop to think that that is what I spend every day for cigars, I feel like shaking hands with myself for I can keep my stomach and digestion in first class order for fifty cents a month. I don't care for any better life insurance.

My druggist tells me they are the most popular of all stomach medicines and that they have maintained their popularity and success because they do as advertised. They bring results, and results are what count in a patent medicine as much as in selling barbwire.

HOW A BEAUTIFUL WOMAN ESCAPED SPRING CATARRH BY USE OF PE-RU-NA.

Nothing Robs One of Strength Like Spring Catarrh -- Spring Fever is Spring Catarrh.

MISS HELEN WHITMAN.

Miss Helen Whitman, 308½ Grand avenue, Milwaukee, Wis., writes:

"There is nothing like Peruna for that tired feeling, which gives you no ambition for work or play. After a prolonged illness, about a year ago I felt unable to regain my health, but four bottles of Peruna made a wonderful change and restored me to perfect health. As long as you keep your blood in good condition you are all right, and Peruna seems to fill the veins with pure, healthful blood. I thoroughly endorse it." MISS HELEN WHITMAN.

Have you got nerves? Well, you ought to have nerves. But they ought to be strong nerves, good nerves. Does your hand tremble? You are living too fast. Does your heart flutter at times? You had better call a halt. Americans live too fast. They crowd too much into a single day. They have too little leisure. The hospitals and insane asylums are filling up. The quiet, pastoral scenes of yore are becoming rare. It's time that we quit this sort of business.

How to Get Strong Nerves.

First, repair the injury already done to your nerves. The way to do this is to do exactly as did Mattie B. Curtis, Secretary of Legion of Loyal Women, Hotel Salem, Boston, Mass. She said in a recent letter: "I suffered for over a year with general weakness and debility manifested in severe headache and backache. I took four bottles of Peruna, and for two months have been entirely free from these maladies."

Nervous Prostration.

Thousands of cases might be quoted in which Peruna has been used to rescue people from the perdition of deranged nerves, and put them on the good, solid foundation of health. The County Auditor of Erie county, New York, Hon. John W. Neff, in a recent letter written at Buffalo, New York, stated: "I was persuaded by a friend to try a bottle of your great nerve tonic, Peruna, and the results were so gratifying that I am more than pleased to recommend it."

A Spring Tonic.

Almost everybody needs a tonic in the spring. Something to brace the nerves, invigorate the brain and cleanse the blood. That Peruna will do this is beyond all question. Everyone who has tried it has had the same experience as Mrs. D. W. Timberlake, of Lynchburg, Va., who, in a recent letter, made use of the following words: "I always take a dose of Peruna after business hours, as it is a great thing for the nerves. There is no better spring tonic, and I have used about all of them."

Catarrh in Spring.

The spring is the best time to treat catarrh. Nature renews herself every spring. The system is rejuvenated by spring weather. This renders medicines more effective. A short course of Peruna, assisted by the balmy air of spring, will cure old, stubborn cases of catarrh that have resisted treatment for years. Everybody should have a copy of Dr. Hartman's latest book on catarrh. Address The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Mrs. Lulu Larmer, Stoughton, Wis., says:

Mrs. Lulu Larmer.

"For two years I suffered with nervous trouble and stomach disorders until it seemed that there was nothing to me but a bundle of nerves. I was very irritable, could not sleep, rest for compose myself, and was certainly unfit to take care of a household. I took nerve tonics and pills without benefit. When I began taking Peruna I grew steadily better, my nerves grew stronger, my rest was no longer fitful, and to-day I consider myself in perfect health and strength. My recovery was slow but sure, but I persevered and was rewarded by perfect health."—Mrs. Lulu Larmer.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

HIGH TRIBUTE TO A FAITHFUL LIFE.

Late Sister St. John was Greatly Respected in Lindsay.

The Lindsay Post refers feelingly to the death of Sister St. John, daughter of Mrs. John Lynch of Peterborough, whose sad demise was noticed in these columns some days ago. The Post says:—

"It is our sad duty to chronicle the death of Sister St. John of the Community of St. Joseph, Lindsay. After an illness of less than a week her death took place at Lindsay at five o'clock on the morning of Tuesday, March 15th, 1904. On Wednesday, 16th, her remains were brought to St. Mary's church, where a solemn requiem was chanted for the repose of her soul. The pastor, Ven. Archdeacon Casey, was the celebrant, and was assisted by Rev. J. O'Brien as sub-deacon, and Rev. F. J. Sullivan as Deacon. Ven. Archdeacon Casey said a few words of eulogy of the good work done by the deceased Sister in the schools of Lindsay, and expressed his own sympathy and that of the congregation with the Sisters of St. Joseph in their bereavement.

After the mass the remains were conveyed to the Mother House, Peterborough, where His Lordship the Bishop celebrated the solemn Requiem on Thursday morning. The funeral procession then formed and all that was mortal of Sister St. John was quietly laid in the Sisters' plot in the cemetery. A deputation from the trustees of the Separate school, Lindsay, comprising Messrs. J. R. O'Neil, Jas. Gillogly, Andrew O'Loughlin, and J. Rogers, principal of the Boys' School, went to Peterborough to witness the last rites and give expression of the high esteem in which the Separate School Board held Sister St. John. She leaves to mourn her loss, besides the Sisters of the Community, her mother, Mrs. J. Lynch, Peterborough; two sisters, Mrs. W. E. Baker, Lindsay; Miss Maggie Lynch, Montreal; four brothers, Messrs. J. J. Lynch, Jas. Lynch and Geo. Lynch, Peterborough, and Edward Lynch, Chicago.

Sister M. St. John, whose name was Miss Annie Lynch before taking the religious habit, was born in Peterborough, Feb. 11, 1865. Her father, the late John Lynch, was one of the early settlers and highly esteemed by the citizens of Peterborough. After finishing her education in Peterborough, Miss Lynch went to the Normal School, Ottawa, where she passed her examinations with distinction. For a while she taught in the Separate School, Peterborough. When the Sisters of St. Joseph were established in the Diocese of Peterborough, and the Mother House temporarily placed in Lindsay, Miss Lynch was one of the first to join the Community, August, 1893. On Aug. 15th, 1896, she made her solemn religious profession. Her whole life as a religieuse was spent in Lindsay. Soon after entering the Community she was given a class in the Convent School, and during the last eight years she has had charge of the Fourth class. The many pupils who have each year passed the Entrance examinations bear witness to the excellence of her methods and efficiency of her teaching. Her discipline was thorough and she soon gained the affection of her pupils. The sorrow they felt at the news of her death testifies to their enduring love for Sister St. John. The public knew her only in the schoolroom and in the good effect of her training of the children.

It was, however, in her religious life within the Community that her virtues were really known. Her cheerfulness and her ready humour delighted her sisters and banished all sadness. Her charity had only the good word to say. Her sincere piety, her humility, and ready obedience to the rule, made her a model of the religious life. The practice of these virtues prepared her for the call which came to her so early in life, so when death was approaching she resigned herself to the will of God.

Fortified by the sacraments of Holy Mother Church, she calmly breathed her last and commended her pure soul into the hands of God. Requiescat in pace.

WHICH BOOK SHALL I SEND AND TO WHOM SHALL I SEND IT?

That is all I ask—just a postal card. Just the spending of a penny to aid a sick friend. He or she is your friend—and a stranger to me. Yet if you merely tell me his name, I will gladly do this.

I will arrange with a druggist near him so he may take six bottles of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. I will let him test it a month to prove what it can do. If it succeeds the cost is $5.50. If it fails I will pay the druggist myself.

Could I meet you—for even ten minutes; I would forever convince you that I have what these sick ones need. More than that, I have that without which most of them can never get well. I would overwhelm you with evidence—irresistibly convincing. You would go away telling all your sick friends about it.

But I can meet only a few, so I have put what I know into six books. And I take this means to ask you who need those books.

Could you meet me I believe you would willingly take my word. But you cannot—so I take yours. I trust to your honesty. Make the test at my risk, and I will pay, or you can pay, just as you decide.

Can you conceive of a sick one who will neglect an offer like that? I can afford the offer because failures are few. They occur only when there are causes—like cancer—which medicine cannot cure.

I have furnished my Restorative to hundreds of thousands in this way, and 39 out of each 40 have cheerfully paid—because they got well. I pay just as willingly when one says I have failed. I don't want the money of the hopeless.

My Restorative forms the only way to strengthen the inside nerves. It is my discovery—the result of a lifetime's work. Instead of doctoring the weak organs, I doctor the cause of their weakness. I bring the nerve power which alone makes the vital organs act. There is no other way to make any weak vital organ do its duty long. Won't you write a postal that some sick friend may learn about a remedy like that?

Mild cases, not chronic, are often cured with one or two bottles. At druggists

CAMBRIDGE'S FUNERAL.

Solemn Military Display—Royalty, Nobility and Famous Soldiers Present.

London, March 23.—The Duke of Cambridge was buried yesterday after a funeral such as has been accorded to no English soldier since the death of the Duke of Wellington. King Edward, Queen Alexandra and nearly all the members of the royal family, representatives of foreign monarchs, a majority of the nobility, the diplomatic corps and representative British subjects of all walks in life, attended the impressive national service at Westminster Abbey. Thereafter the body was taken to Kensal Green Cemetery and buried. Thousands of troops marched through and lined the streets.

Among the principal mourners were Admiral and Colonel Fitzgeorge, the late Duke's sons. Beside the coffin stood five field marshals, Wolseley, Haines, Roberts, Norman and Wood, who, with a score of other famous British generals, acted as pallbearers.

Observed in Toronto.

Toronto, March 23.—The 9th Field Battery paraded in Queen's Park at noon yesterday and fired a salute of 85 guns, one for each year of the Duke's age. The ceremony occupied an hour and a quarter.

Combes Will Not Resign.

Paris, March 23.—Prime Minister Combes yesterday denied the reports that he will immediately retire from the Premiership, and proposes to pursue to the end the work he has undertaken, in connecting with the suppression of the teaching orders, which will probably be passed in a fortnight, when the Premier's main work will be accomplished.

I used to be continually tired; now I am strong and well—Milner's Compound Iron Pills did it. For sale by all druggists.

THE IRISH PEOPLE AND SAINT PATRICK.

Eloquent Lecture Delivered Under the Auspices of St. Vincent de Paul Society of St. Mary's, Lindsay, on St. Patrick's Night, by Rev. Father John O'Brien, of St. Peter's Cathedral, Peterborough.

(Lindsay Post.)

Below we print a synopsis of the excellent address delivered in St. Mary's church on St. Patrick's night by Rev. Father John O'Brien, of Peterborough, in aid of the St. Vincent de Paul society, the charitable association connected with that congregation.

Ireland is supposed to have been populated as early as 300 years after the flood, first by a noble Venetian family and later by a tribe from Spain. It is held by some writers that the early Irish were a barbarous people, but a study of Irish history proves that they had reached a point in the social scale that made them at least the equals of any other race. Some would have us believe they were illiterate, but again it is established beyond the possibility of refutation that they had a system of writing that sufficed for the records of the nation and for the business purposes of that day. It is true the Irish people of early times lived under the shadow of a false religion; it is true they paid superstitious veneration to fire, the sun, the woods, the elements and other things, but there is no truth in the extravagant hypothesis that they were addicted to the offering of human sacrifices. The early Irish had their literature, some of which is extant, and from time to time in the course of excavations there have been unearthed boats, weapons, ornament, etc., which go to prove that they were well versed in the arts of the times. We know also that every available spot of land was cultivated by the inhabitants—even spots that to-day are abandoned. No, the early Irish were not addicted to the savage customs of other tribes—they had their sacred and other writings, their music and their arts and sciences. The of which many remain, and the ruins of others which are scattered over the land, testify to their architectural skill. These were the only stone structures then known outside of Greece and Rome. The concensus of historical proof and sound reasoning is in favour of the belief that St. Patrick came, not to a savage people, but rather to a nation that had arrived at some considerable knowledge—whose educational and other attainments were greater than most. The king and his chief men were able to dispute with the apostle, and he and their Druid priests met in intellectual strife, which establishes the fact that they were an enlightened and reasoning race.

After referring at some length to the birth, history and long preparatory studies of St. Patrick for his apostolic work, among the Irish—the story of which must be familiar to all our readers—the reverend speaker gave a graphic word picture of the great assemblage at historic Tara, when the Druid priests were confounded by St. Patrick's convincing eloquence and thousands of the chiefs and their followers accepted the gospel of Christ. It was on Easter Sunday that Ireland received the holy faith. The conferences at Tara was one of the most impressive that ever took place. Kings and nobles were there in all magnificence, attended by their warriors, the Druid priests came from all parts of the island to perform and defend their mysterious rites, and famous minstrels, seated on thrones fit for kings, sang of their patrons' victories and glorious achievements.

THERE CAME ST. PATRICK

clad in full pontifical vestments, and carrying cross and crozier, to tell the story of man's redemption and to illustrate the mystery of the Blessed Trinity with the sprig of shamrock plucked from the sod at his feet. So eloquently, so irresistibly did he convey the message, that the chief priests, the king's own brother and thousands of the assembled warriors, became converts on the spot. The conversion of Ireland is unique in the history of the world in that it was the work of one apostle and almost instantaneous, and that it was attended by no bloodshed or any act of cruelty. The Druid priests resigned their old practices at the foot of the cross and became as brothers under the banner of Christ. He—the speaker—need not dwell on the many churches built by St. Patrick, the parishes he established, the bishoprics he instituted, or the number of holy nunneries and monasteries he founded all over the land. He traversed the island from east to west, from north to south, everywhere encouraging and adopting means for the uplifting of the nation. There can be no greater proof of the success of St. Patrick than an apostle than is supplied in the zeal of those who took up his work after him. Schools and great colleges arose everywhere in the shadow of the churches and cathedral, and Ireland speedily became in Western Europe. Students came from all parts of the world to the colleges and monasteries in thousands, and tens of thousands, and all tongues became as one in the language of the Catholic church. It is on record that in after years King Alfred, the founder of the great college of Oxford, spent some time at one of the famous Irish colleges, and then it was that he conceived the idea of a similar centre of learning for his own people. The students who flocked to Ireland to pursue their studies in due time returned to their own lands and so carried the learning and prize of Ireland to all parts, as in later years her priests were to be found everywhere carrying the gospel transmitted to them by St. Patrick; and so it was that Ireland became known as "The home of Scholars and of Saints." St. Patrick died about the year 465, and it was about this time that the barbarians of the north made their devastating descent on Europe. All the wealth of the world was then centred in Rome, and the time was come when that proud and relentless nation was to receive punishment for the bloody persecution of the devout Christians. The fierce barbarians came down in countless hordes, and their onward course was as irresistible as that of an avalanche.

PROUD ROME WENT DOWN

before them and almost every vestige of civilization was swept away. The hordes of Attila swept onward and all Europe trembled under their tread, helpless to stay their conquering march. But Pope Leo the Great met the savage leader, cross in hand, and Attila listened to the voice of the vicar of Christ on earth and stayed his further march.

When the voice of the barbarian was heard echoing in the classic halls and temples of Greece and Rome, the Catholic church entered upon a new mission. After taking the barbarian invaders into her keeping the question was "Where was the church to secure the great number of missionaries needed to evangelize the heathen tribes and teach them the arts of peace." Then did the Vicar of Christ turn to Ireland for aid to renew civilization on the face of the earth. The call was answered, and Irish priests went everywhere over Europe, teaching the gospel St. Patrick had taught them. In closing this chapter the speaker referred briefly to the grand work done in America by Catholic missionaries.

Every Irishman is a missionary if he live up to the faith of his sires. Ireland has always been true to the Catholic faith—they have borne with no faltering, thus upholding St. Paul's words, "There is nothing that can separate the Irish people from the doctrines of Jesus Christ. If there be ever one apostate Irishman, he should blush for himself for abandoning the glorious faith of his forefathers—for which they suffered, bled and died. There are many lessons to be learned from the history of the Irish people. Our greatest glory should be to be recognized as children—but worthy children—of St. Patrick. Glory not in your descent or in the deeds of your forefathers unless you are doing your full share, and are willing to part with your very life's blood rather than abandon your faith. You should always be true to the teachings and religion of St. Patrick.

Sudden drops of temperature are impossible in the home heated by hot water. Stove fires die out, hot air furnaces heat unevenly, and the hot air switches to other parts of the house leaving the remaining rooms cold and drafty. But with the heating system of the in connection with Oxford Radiators an even, steady circulation of hot water is kept up throughout the house. Each radiator is diffusing the same temperature of heat in sufficient quantities for the size of the room.

The illustration below shows that the distance from the fire to the first surface is less than in any heater made, and the water has a shorter distance to travel, thus a more equal temperature is maintained in the water of the several sections.

Write for our booklets, they are of interest to everyone with a home to heat.

MR. ROGERS STATES PERTINENT FACTS.

With Reference to the Advantage of the Trent Waterway.

Grain Shipped by the Trent Would Cost 8-10c. Per Bushel Which Would Effect a Great Saving.

Mr. R. B Rogers, Superintending of the Trent Valley Canal, writes a letter to the Belleville Intelligencer, in which he gave some interesting facts relating to the Trent Waterway. Mr. Rogers' letter follows:

"A copy of Mr. Flint's letter of enquiry regarding some facts mentioned in my lecture on the Trent Waterway has just been sent to me. I shall gladly give the information asked for to the best of my knowledge. The estimated cost of transhipping at Midland is from 1-4 to 1-2 cent per bushel. The depth of water in the waterway when completed will be 8 feet 4 inches. The present barges on the Erie Canal are about one-third the capacity of those intended for use on the Trent. The distance from Georgian Bay to Trenton will be about 200 miles, of which only about one-tenth of this distance will be actual canal. The Erie Canal is about 352 miles long from Buffalo to Albany, about all of which distance is actual canal, and 150 miles of river navigation from Albany to New York. In comparing the length of time required to go from Midland to Montreal, and from Buffalo to New York, many different points have to be taken into consideration — but a single steam barge from Midland to Montreal would take 69 hours, and from Buffalo to New York, on the Erie Canal, about double this time. Regarding freight rates by rail or by water, of course the rate on the Trent Canal can only be arrived at by comparison with the rates on other barge canals, for instance on the Erie Canal. The distance from Midland to tide water at Montreal is 445 miles. From Buffalo to tide water at New York is 503 miles. Freight is delivered now at Midland from the western ports at 1 cent per bushel, and at Buffalo at from 1.42 to 2 cents per bushel. By the new Erie Canal Major Symonds, who is perhaps the most expert barge engineer in the United States, calculates that wheat can be taken from Buffalo to New York at 8-10 of one cent per bushel. Now if they can do that on the new Erie we can do it on the Trent Canal, being, as I have mentioned above, a waterway, not a canal. This 8-10 of a cent added to the 1 cent rate to Midland, and 1-2 cent for transhipping charges, will make a rate of 2.3 cents from the western ports to Montreal. The rates from western ports to Montreal via Depot Harbour are 5 cents, via Midland 5 to 6 cents. Rates from western ports to New York via Buffalo by water and rail, 6 3-4 to 7 cents; by water about 5 1-2 cents.

Regarding the difference in distance from Port Arthur to Liverpool, that via the Trent Canal is 757 miles shorter than via the Erie canal, which on the return trip amounts to 1,514 miles, not 1,425 as mentioned by Mr. Flint. Regarding the purchase of water power, that depends from what point you get your power. There are both private and Government owners of power.

Hoping the above will be satisfactory,

Yours truly,
R. B. ROGERS,
Peterborough, March 18, 1904.

OBITUARY.

Death of Mrs. Robert McColl Aged 82 Years.

The death took place on Tuesday evening, March 22nd, at the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. R. J. Edmison, Chemong Road, of Mrs. Delilia Letitia McColl, relict of the late Robert McColl, at the ripe age of 82 years, after an illness of about a year's duration.

The deceased lady was born in Ireland, and came to this country with her parents, when but two years of age. They settled in the Township of Hope, Durham County, where Mrs. McColl spent her childhood days.

After the death of her husband about 18 years ago, the late Mrs. McColl resided in town with her daughter, the late Mrs. (Dr.) Yelland, whose death took place about twelve years ago. Since that time she has lived with her son-in-law on the Chemong Road.

The deceased lady was a sister of Rev. Dr. Gardiner, Methodist minister, of Belleville, and Mr. Wm. Gardiner, of the State of Michigan.

Besides these she leaves to mourn her loss, five sons and two daughters. The sons are Messrs. Robert McColl, of Chicago; Charles, of Vancouver, B.C.; Isaiah, of Prince Albert, N.W. T.; Rev. Geo. McColl, of Odessa, Ont., and Edward, of town. Mrs. R. J. Edmison, of Smith, and Mrs. Geo. May, of Vancouver, B.C., are daughters of the deceased.

The late Mrs. McColl was a consistent Methodist in religion, and was an estimable and kind-hearted lady, her amiable disposition and many noble qualities winning for her a host of friends in the district.

The funeral will take place from the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. R. J. Edmison, Chemong Road, at 2.30 o'clock Thursday afternoon to Little Lake Cemetery.

Mr. W. P. Douglas, Peterborough, and Mr. John Halyburton, St. Catharines, are still going on with the meetings all this week, except Saturday, God willing, in the Gospel Hall, corner of Brock and George streets, at 7.45. Come yourself and bring a friend. All are welcome. "Christ died for the ungodly," Rom. v, 6; "God that justifieth the ungodly," Rom. iv, 5.

CONSTABLE A. MOORE'S CORDOVA EXPERIENCE.

Seizes a Cutter Load of Liquor in a House in that Township.

County Police Magistrate Edmason held County Court in Havelock yesterday, and fined a man named Wilde, the sum of $2.00 for being intoxicated.

James Maloney, of Cordova, was also arraigned, charged with selling liquor without a license. Some half dozen witnesses were examined, and the case was adjourned until next Monday in Peterborough. While the accused was on trial, County Constable Archie Moore, instituted a search of the house of the accused, and succeeded in securing five or six cases of whiskey, ale and other liquors, a large number of flasks, besides fifteen or sixteen empty liquor cases. Invoices were also found which it is alleged disclosed the fact that the accused has been purchasing liquor from a Toronto firm for the past six months at a cost of $100 a month.

The case promises to be a decidedly interesting one.

CEREAL POWER HOUSE NEARING COMPLETION.

Test will be Made of Electrical Equipment in a Few Days.

Mr. O'Toole, contractor for the Cereal dam and power house, is putting the finishing touches on this important undertaking, and in a day or two will wind up the contract.

Work was begun on this structure on August 4th, 1902, and the success which Mr. O'Toole has achieved in its construction has been remarkable to say the least. The progress of the work had not been retarded to any extent, very few obstacles presenting themselves to cause a cessation of operations.

The dam has been constructed without a hitch and is conceded to be one of the finest structures of its kind on the continent.

The finishing touches are now being made to the power house. The equipment has all been installed and a test will be made in a day or two.

This undertaking has cost in the neighbourhood of a quarter of a million dollars and Mr. O'Toole is to be congratulated on the success he has achieved in this important undertaking, and the citizens generally will regret to learn that the completion of this contract means the loss of Mr. O'Toole as a resident of the town. He has proved a worthy citizen, but will leave behind him in the contract just completed, a monument to his ability as a successful contractor.

MOUNT ST. JOSEPH

The Addition to this Edifice Nearing Completion.

The handsome addition to Mount St. Joseph, is nearing completion and promises to be an imposing structure and a credit to the Community of St. Joseph and Diocese of Peterborough. Those who have been entrusted with the erection of this building have made first-class progress and when the interior is completed the good Sisters will have an institution modern in all its details and adequate to meet the pressing needs of the Order.

LATEST SPORT

PUCKERINGS.

There is a crispness in the repartee that is being wafted over the snowdrifts in Eastern counties that is refreshing. Here is a sample:

"The Belleville Intelligencer thinks the Hastings County Court may in time decided that Belleville has a right to play for the O.H.A. Intermediate championship. Just when that time will come is not very clear, but it will likely be 'In the Good Old Summer Time,' when the hay is growing in the middle of the streets of Belleville." — Kingston Whig.

"We're a little shy on hayseed this year. Will the Whig man kindly comb some out of his auburn whiskers, and send it up?"—Belleville Intelligencer.

CARPETBALL.

The series of carpet ball games being played between the Sons of England and K.O.T.M. teams is creating considerable interest, and that played last night in the K.O.T.M. hall was one of the most exciting in the series. The present standing of the teams is: S.O.E., 160; K.O.T.M., 153, the score by games being:—

26	32
160	153

At the conclusion of the series the two skips in the S.O.E. teams will play any two teams in town.

WRESTLING.

The wrestling craze which has been booming in Toronto this winter was brought to a close last week by a tournament in the West End Y. M.C.A., in which over twenty sturdy young athletes competed. Peterborough not to be outdone in any line of sports has kept its end up, our local men having beaten the best men Toronto can send out, and have in McDonough and Gauthier two of the best men in Ontario. These men meet on Thursday for to decide which is the best man and as both have been training carefully all winter, a fine, scientific contest is sure to result.

Geo. Campbell, who has been matched to box 12 rounds with Billy Smith, of Toronto, Thursday night, will be known to many as the only coloured professional bicycle rider Canada has ever had, he and Harley Davdson being team mates last summer at the International Meet held at Ottawa. He is fast and clever at any game he enters, especially so at boxing, as the holding of the Maritime Provinces championship medal by him will show. The bout between he and Smith will certainly be fast, they having boxed 15 rounds to a draw in Montreal last fall.

CURLING.

The Kendry Cup this year goes to Mr. J. H. Connal's rink, who won it on Monday night.

The secretary of the club states that they will be glad to welcome any of the Peterborough friends on that occasion. The Lacrosse Club in Havelock is a live organization and has originated the idea of forming a Trent Valley Lacrosse League, which seems to be meeting with general approval of the clubs in the Trent Valley District. Doubtless a number of the Peterborough friends of the Havelock boys will participate in their at home on Easter Monday.

SPRING OPENING

This week we will have our Spring Opening of one of the most comprehensive and exclusive stocks of stylish, up-to-date Blouses, Dress Skirts, Underskirts, Wrappers, Spring Coats, Rain Coats, Shirt Waist Suits, Children's Dresses, etc.

When you see the beautiful things that are made up during the season, you will sometimes wonder how they could improve upon them.

Still they always discover new modes, new combinations and prettier effects, and this season they have certainly succeeded to a very high extent.

Our Dress Skirts are very pretty, dressy and up-to-date. Our Waists win compliments from every one, they are simply irresistible, they are trimmed so artistically, and they are so dainty and feminine, that they just give the right touch of beauty to complete the costume.

We will have an illuminated display on Thursday evening and extend a most cordial invitation to all.

THE BEEHIVE.

THE DECREES OF DAME FASHION.

As Displayed by the First Millinery and Spring Goods Opening.

Richard Hall and Son's Large Store Takes on Spring Garb—Some of the New Styles.

A typical day for a spring millinery opening was that chosen by Richard Hall & Son for their opening display of spring and summer goods. After the long and severe winter just experienced it is a distinct relief to think of spring again, and to those so inclined a visit to the rejuvenated store mentioned above, the result is delightfully refreshing.

The beautiful windows but reflect the beauty of the store interior, and it is doubtful if a more handsome or appropriate window display has ever been seen in Peterborough. A background of grecian architecture with pillars and pedestals, makes the effect beautiful and unique. A most effective display of the newest things in the way of ladies' wearing apparel is made, and the window is the centre of attraction to pedestrians, who are loud in their praises of the work of the artist, Mr. A. J. Mitchell, whose work is a credit both to himself and the establishment.

The store's millinery department has since last fall been completely reorganized, and the effect of the new arrangement is one which is decidedly pleasing. Large glass cases line the sides of the show room, and in them some of the most beautiful creations of the millinery art imaginable are displayed. If the members of the fair sex do not look more handsome this spring than ever before, it will not be the fault of the clever artists who design and model the pretty headwear shown by Richard Hall & Son. Some new and decidedly pleasing effects are seen this season. A visit to the show room gives the information that broad hats will be in vogue for 1904, and flowers will be used very extensively for trimming. In colours, the Blues, Castors and Browns will be popular for Spring, while in the lighter summer creations the bright colors, Red Green, pale Blue, and Pink, will be largely worn. The Black and White combinations will again be popular.

To accurately describe some of the very handsome hats seen, would be an impossible task, but even the most meagre description is sufficient to give a hint of the beautiful specimens. A particularly stunning hat was a large black picture hat, of lace, with roses forming the crown, and lace drapery falling off around the face and to the back.

Another correct hat was one in the Napoleon shape of pale blue, trimmed with braid and corn flowers, and blue velvet. A pretty pink chiffon creation with silk braid, silk rose buds and foliage. Rosettes of pink satin to match are displayed under the brim, and the combination is indeed a pleasing one.

In sympathy with the special millinery display the other departments of the store are taking on a spring-like appearance. In the large space devoted to the tailor-made suits many new styles were shown. The coats this season will all be of the short Eton shape, with loose front, and the majority with military cape effects. The prevailing colours will be navy and green shades, while coloured tweed effects will also be popular. Canadian tweeds of a good quality will be largely worn. The skirts are principally of the 9 and 11 gored style and are trimmed with strappings, silk braid, and buttons, and all have the habit back. White silk waists in the New York style are seen, trimmed with faggoting, medallions, cluny lace, tucking, etc.

The large housefurnishing department is replete with a particularly large stock of carpets, rugs, curtains and draperies, the latter being given special prominence. The Lamberkins, which have been out of vogue for some years, are coming into favour again, and some very pretty effects are seen.

Coming to the first floor, the dress goods of course claim special attention. In this particular line, the firm states that their importations are more than double those of any preceding year, and have been brought from London, Paris and Berlin. For suits, the light tweeds will hold sway, and in these an especially good showing is made. These goods are in the popular shades of Grey, Fawn, Green, with bright flashes of colour. In plain cloths, the voiles, emilenes, etc., will be seen, many of these will be made up over coloured linings. The trimmings will be of great variety, including oriental ornaments, sequins and pearls, and are in bright colours. In blacks the sail cloths and broad cloths will hold sway. Muslins are no longer popular for wash suits, fancy linons, zephyrs, and mattings taking their place. These are made in the usual colourings, while in the plain white damask, and vestings will be largely worn. Belts will be worn again, the feature being that they will all be the crush shape, both in leather and silk.

Altogether the spring styles for 1904 are very sensible and pleasing, and the new goods shown by the above firm are fully up to the decree of fashion.

MR. ALEXANDER POPE DIED IN NEBRASKA.

He was a Brother of Mr. Wm. Pope, of this Town.

A letter has been received by Mr. William Pope, of town, conveying the sad news of the death of his brother, Alexander Pope, aged 62 years, which sad event took place at Orleans, Neb., on the 16th March, inst.

The late Alexander Pope, was the eldest son of the late John Pope, of Bridgenorth. In 1865 he was united in marriage to Ellen, daughter of the late Maurice Gorman, who with their thirteen children, ten sons and three daughters, survive him. He followed farming in Ennismore, and in 1881 moved with his large family to Nebraska, where he and some of his sons pursued farming. Two reside in SanFrancisco, Cal., one a merchant and the other a civil engineer, and one in Chicago, a dentist.

He leaves to mourn his loss, besides his wife and children, one sister and five brothers. THE ONTARIO HOUSE

ALGOMA CENTRAL RAILWAY

The Connection of Messrs. Conmee and Bowman With the Enterprise—Mr. Conmee Explains the Whole Circumstances of the Case—Is Not Personally Interested in "Soo" Reorganization.

Toronto, March 22.—The Legislature put the Toronto Consumers' Gas Company bill through committee of the whole House without amending yesterday, refusing, on a vote of 22 to 29, to insert an additional clause which Mr. J. J. Foy, who introduced it, characterized as 'only one little step in the direction which the city had previously asked should be taken in regard to the renewal fund.

Algoma Central Contractors.

Mr. Hanna moved for a return showing what lands and securities are covered by the lien of Messrs. James Conmee, M.P.P., and Charles M. Bowman, M.P.P., against the Algoma Central Railway for $400,000. He did this, he said, because the Government had undertaken to guarantee a loan for $2,000,000 by the company, and the Government must, as a business proposition, know what were the assets and liabilities of the company. On Sept. 22, 1903, Messrs. Conmee and Bowman filed a mechanics' lien for $400,000 against the company. On Oct. 10, 1903, the two hon. gentlemen began an action to enforce the mechanics' lien, and on Oct. 12 obtained judgment for $400,000. That meant that the two hon. gentlemen were creditors of the Algoma Central Railway, and the assets had not since been distributed. It was, therefore, inconsistent for them to say, as the Premier in reply to a question the other day had said, that they were amply secured otherwise.

Mr. Conmee Explains.

Mr. Conmee, in reply, said it was a simple matter of business, and he was surprised that Mr. Hanna had not come to him or to Mr. Bowman if he needed information. It was a fact that the contract had been entered into by Mr. Bowman and himself, and that a judgment had been got for $400,000, but it was not a fact that there was $400,000 due to them. Another judgment for nearly the same amount had been obtained by Foley Bros., the subcontractors. Only the difference between the two judgments was due to Mr. Bowman and himself. Foley Bros. had under the lien act got a judgment for the amount of their own debt.

Mr. Whitney—I suppose it amounts to this, that the company owes $400,000?

Mr Conmee—Yes, and 95 per cent goes to Foley Bros., who did the work.

Mr. Hanna—They are sub-contractors through you have a lien on the lands, but you are the only people whom the Algoma Central Company recognize.

Mr. Conmee, continuing, said Foley Bros. had a perfect right to put a lien on a road they were building; the action, however, in his opinion, should have been brought jointly. Mr. Hanna had omitted to mention that the original contractor was D. R. MacDonald, formerly a member of the Opposition, who turned the work over to Foley Bros. for a consideration.

Not Interested in Legislation.

"Having the first lien on the road," said Mr. Conmee, "the claim being a small one, so far as we are concerned, we have no interest whatever in the legislation that is proposed here. What better possible position could we be in? More than that, the $400,000 is in the treasury at Ottawa and will be paid over when the construction is completed. Before the discussion on the Government's proposals are through, my hon. friend will admit that the contractors would obtain their money quicker if the guarantee scheme had not been suggested. It does not matter a straw to us whether it goes through; we are perfectly secured."

Mr. Whitney admitted that from Mr. Conmee's statement it was Foley Bros. who were really the interested parties, and perhaps they were in a position to put a money value on the land securities.

Mr. Conmee replied that Foley Bros. had offered $1,500,000 for the road, and therefore they must consider their claim of less than $400,000 is amply secured. The claim of himself for less than $10,000 was surely secured by an enterprise in which over $7,000,000 had been spent.

Mr. Whitney declared that Messrs. Conmee and Bowman were primarily responsible for the $2,000,000 guarantee.

Hon. Mr. Gibson—There is not the slightest foundation for that statement.

The Premier—I want to say that the hon. gentlemen who have been referred to have brought no more pressure to bear upon the Government, or made any more solicitations, or have been concerned in this matter any more than the leader of the Opposition has. That is the exact truth of the case.

Dr. Nesbitt's Motion.

Before the orders of the day were reached Dr. Willoughby drew attention to an inaccuracy in a Globe editorial referring to the incident of Friday. There had been conference between the Liberal Whip and himself; the conference was, as stated in The Globe on Saturday, between himself and the Premier. In this connection it is interesting to note that Dr. Nesbitt's motion respecting the Lake Temagami islands has been removed from the order paper. This is the result of the adoption of Mr. St. John's motion to adjourn the House, and it cannot be reinstated except by consent of the House.

A number of private bills passed the committee stage, and the order paper was fairly well cleared of questions.

Bulldogs for the Navy.

Lord Charles Beresford believes that the men of the Navy would be pleased if on each warship there was a dog as the pet of the ship, and he thinks that the typical dog for the purpose is the bull-dog. It will be interesting to many to know that Lord Charles more years ago, he says, than he cares to remember, bred bulldogs himself. When it was learned that Lord Charles was enthusiastic about having a bulldog on a warship, and that the dog must be one of the best, the matter was mentioned by a friend to Mr. W. Jefferies, vice-president of the London Bulldog Society, who has been called here and in American "The Napoleon of Bulldogdom," and who bred the famous Rodney Stone, which broke all bulldog records, and which Mr. Croker of New York, "The Boss of Tammany Hall," purchased for a thousand guineas. Mr. Jefferies at once said he would be pleased if Lord Charles would accept from him one of his best puppies—Iron Stone, a grandson of Rodney Stone. Just as the old year was closing Lord Charles learned of this offer. He accepted it "with delight," and, being a man of action, two days ago found him at the Roseneath kennels, for he went to get the dog himself. The scene at the kennels was most interesting. First he found that the kennelman was an old soldier and there was a hearty handshake, good wishes and a handsome present. Then "Let them come, good dogs," and Lord Charles had a lot of fine bulldogs clambering at him, the admiral being quite regardless of the damage to his clothes. "He is a splendid fellow," he said. "I never saw such width or strength. No, I won't have him sent. I'll take him with me now, and he goes straight to H.M.S. Caesar. He will be adored by the crew and by the nine thousand men of the squadron. I hope we shall see one on every warship ere long. We shall all love to have such a pet." And so Lord Charles went off with his acquisition, grateful and delighted, and Iron Stone has been added to the strength of H.M.S. Caesar.—Lloyds Weekly Newspaper.

A Welsh Baby Prophet.

An extraordinary incident, alleged to have occurred about the middle of December last, has caused an immense sensation in Bethesda. On a Friday while a woman was washing her three-months-old child, so the story goes, she was thunderstruck to hear the baby say, "Blwyddyn o nadwy fydd y flwyddyn nesaf, mam," which, roughly translated, means "Next year will be a terrible year, mother!" In her astonishment and terror the mother laid the child down and ran to a neighbor's house and told a woman there of the occurrence. The woman at once ran to the house and, picking the child up, soothed and caressed it awhile, and then, half playfully, half in earnest, she said to the child, "Did you tell your mother that next year would be a terrible year?" To her unbounded astonishment the child replied "Yes," and fell back dead. The child was buried on the following Saturday afternoon in the presence of large crowds, who discussed the story and are spreading it far and wide.—Liverpool Post.

The Joy of Living

Life to the normal, healthy, Canadian boy or girl should be a continual joy. If it is not, then there is something wrong. There is lack of proper development, consequently the blood is thin, the nerves unstrung, the muscles soft and flabby, vitality low and the capacity for enjoying life at a very low ebb. Moreover, there is constant danger of attack from Consumption, Bronchitis Pneumonia, LaGrippe and all kinds of Lung Trouble. If your boy or girl is in this condition, do not treat the matter lightly, lose no time in putting matters right. In FERROL (The Iron-Oil Food) you will find the remedy required: Cod Liver Oil to build up the tissue, Iron to purify and enrich the blood, and Phosphorus to tone the nerve and brain. Ferrol will quickly and infallibly restore a normal, healthy and vigorous condition.

Sunlight Soap is recommended, by those who have investigated the different kind of soaps, as being the best and purest on the market. Those who have gone still farther and tried the different methods state that the Sunlight way of washing is greatly superior to ordinary methods because it requires much less work and makes the clothes whiter and cleaner. Because Sunlight Soap is quite pure and free from adulteration it will not injure delicate fabrics or the user's hands.

WITHOUT YOU.

Once 'twas my saddest thought,
Ere I began to doubt you,
That something I must learn,
Perhaps, to do without you.
For Death parts dearest friends,
From him there's no escaping,
And partings worse than death
Our fears are ever shaping.

Now with new dreams of hope,
No thought of you is blended:
Day deepens evermore
Though morning dreams are ended,
And now the saddest thought
That hunts my heart about you
Is this, that I have learned
At last to do without you.

—Emily Bronte.

The Eye on the Chinese Junk.

Few people know why Chinese junks have an eye painted on the port side of the bow. A Cantonese legend explains the origin of that singular custom in a way that is suggestive of Anglo-Saxon humor.

A great Chinese mandarin who lived centuries before the Christian era, finding himself in need of a navy, sent for the royal boat builder and ordered him to build a certain number of ships. So the builder drew up plans and presented them to the mandarin. But the plans evidently did not suit his majesty, for he flew into a violent rage and ordered the boat builder from his presence.

"Then how shall I build them, your celestial highness?" he pleaded.

Thereupon the mandarin drew off one of his slippers and threw it at the boat builder, who fled from the room. At the door he turned for a moment just in time to catch the mandarin winking at his prime minister.

The boat builder picked up the royal slipper and used it as a model and then painted one eye on its bow to represent the royal master's wink.

GOOD NEWS FOR THE OLD PEOPLE

A new Source of Strength and Vigor for Those who Feel Their Vitality Waning and Suffer From the Ills Consequent on Old Age.

The story of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is a story of great cheer for the old people.

It is a source of great strength and support at that time in life when vitality begins to decline, and the weaknesses of age begin to make themselves felt.

Young blood is warm blood—it is rich, pure and life-sustaining; and it is by actually forming new blood that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food proves of such wonderful benefit to the aged.

As the years go by the blood gets thin, watery and impure, and fails to keep vitality at high water mark. Circulation gets bad and the nervous system suffers. Besides the pains and aches, besides the weakness and dizziness, there are feelings of numbness which tell of the approach of paralysis and locomotor ataxia.

Judging from the experience of the thousands of old people who have tested this great food cure, it seems to be exactly suited to overcome these conditions, consequent on old age.

Unlike ordinary medicines, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is entirely restorative in action, while others seek to tear down the tissue. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cures by forming new, firm flesh and tissue, and building up the system. It thus permanently overcomes disease and affords lasting benefit.

Mr. William Lee, retired carpenter, 710 George street, Peterborough, Ont., states:—

"For some months I was not in good health. My system seemed to be run down. I was troubled a good deal with indigestion, and suffered from headaches and liver disorders. I have used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and am pleased to say that I found both of these preparations exceedingly beneficial. In fact I can confidently say that they have done me a lasting good and I cannot praise them too highly."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 3

BY MARY J. HOLMES.

To Mrs. Cameron Helen was a study, she seemed to care so little for what others might think of her evincing no hesitation, no timidity, when told the second day after her arrival that Mrs Banker was in the parlor, and had asked to see Miss Lennox. Mrs. Cameron did not suspect how under that calm, unmoved exterior, Helen was hiding a heart which beat painfully, as she went down to meet the mother of Mark Ray, going first to her own room to make some little change in her toilet, and wishing that her dress was more like the dress of those around her-like Mrs. Cameron's, or even Esther's and the fashionable nurse's. One glance she gave to the brown silk, Wilford's gift, but her good sense told her that the plain merino she wore was more suitable to the sick room where she spent her time, and so with a fresh collar and cuffs, and another brush of her hair, she went to Mrs. Banker, forgetting herself in her pleasure at finding in the stranger a lady so wholly congenial and familiar, whose mild, dark eyes rested so kindly on her, and whose pleasant voice had something motherly in its tone, putting her at her ease, and making her appear at her very best.

Mrs. Banker was pleased with Helen, and she felt a kind of pity for the young girl thrown so suddenly among strangers, without even her sister to assist her.

"Have you been out at all?" she asked and upon Helen's replying that she had not, she answered, "That is not right. Accustomed to the fresh country air, you will suffer from too close confinement. Suppose you ride with me. My carriage is at the door, and I have a few hours' leisure. Tell your sister I insist," she continued, as Helen hesitated between inclination and what she fancied was her duty.

To see New York with Mrs. Banker was a treat indeed, and Helen's heart bounded high as she ran up to Katy's room with the request.

"Yes, go by all means," Katy said. "It is so kind in Mrs. Banker, and so like her, too. I meant that Wilford should have driven with you to-day, and spoke to him about it, but Mrs. Banker will do better. Tell her I thank her so much for her thoughtfulness," and with a kiss Katy sent Helen away, while Mrs Cameron, after twisting her rings nervously for a moment, said to Katy:

"Perhaps your sister would do well to wear your furs. Hers are small, and common fitch."

"Yes, certainly. Take them to her," Katy answered, knowing intuitively the feeling which had prompted this suggestion from her mother-in-law, who hastened to Helen's room with the rich sable she was to wear in place of the old fitch.

Helen appreciated the difference at once between her furs and Katy's, and felt a pang of mortification as she saw how old and poor and dowdy hers were beside the others. But they were her own—the best she could afford. She would not begin by borrowing, and so she went down to Mrs Banker clad in the despised furs, which Mrs. Cameron would on no account have had beside her on Broadway in an open carriage. Mrs. Banker noticed them, too, but the eager, happy face, which grew each moment brighter as they drove down the street, more than made amends; and in watching that and pointing out the places which they passed, Mrs Banker forgot the furs and the coarse straw hat whose strings of black had undeniably been dyed. Never in her life had Helen enjoyed a ride as she did that pleasant winter day, when her kind friend took her wherever she wished to go, showing her Broadway in its glory from Union Square to Wall Street, where they encountered Mark in the bustling crowd. He saw them, and beckoned to them, while Helen's face grew red, as lifting his hat to her he came up to the carriage, and at his mother's suggestion took a seat just opposite, asking where they had been, and jocosely laughing at his mother's taste in selecting such localities as the Five Points, the Tombs and Barnum's Museum, when there were so many finer places to be seen.

Helen felt the hot blood pricking the roots of her hair for the Five Points, the Tombs and Barnum's Museum had been her choice as the points of which she had heard the most. So when Mark continued:

"You shall ride with me, Miss Lennox, and I will show you something worth your seeing," she frankly answered:

"Your mother is not in fault, Mr. Ray. She asked me where I wished to go, and I mentioned these places, so please attribute it wholly to my country breeding, and not to your mother's lack of taste."

There was something in the frank speech which won Mrs. Banker's heart, while she felt an increased respect for the young girl, who, she saw, was keenly sensitive, even with all her strength of character.

"You were right to commence as you have," she said, "for now you have a still greater treat in store, and Mark shall drive you to the Park some day. I know you will like that."

Helen could like anything with that friendly voice to reassure her, and leaning back she was thinking how pleasant it was to be in New York, how different from what she had expected, when a bow from Mark made her look up in time to see that they were meeting a carriage in which sat Wilford, with two gaily dressed ladies, both of whom gave her a supercilious stare as they passed by, while the younger of the two half turned her head, as if for a more prolonged gaze.

"Mrs. Grandon and Juno Cameron," Mrs. Banker said, making some further remark to her son, while Helen felt that the brightness of the day had changed, for she could not be unconscious of the look with which she had been regarded by these two fashionable ladies, and again her furs came up before her, bringing a feeling of which she was ashamed, especially as she had fancied herself above all weakness of the kind.

That night at the dinner, from which Mrs. Cameron was absent, Wilford was unusually gracious, asking "if she had enjoyed her ride, and if she did not find Mrs. Banker a very pleasant acquaintance."

Wilford felt a little uncomfortable at having suffered a stranger to do for Katy's sister what should have been done by himself. Katy had asked him to drive with Helen, but he had found it very convenient to forget it, and take a seat instead with Juno and Mrs. Grandon, the latter of whom complimented "Miss Lennox's fine intellectual face," after they had passed, and complimented it the more as she saw how it vexed Juno, who could see nothing "in those bold eyes and that masculine forehead," just because their vis-a-vis chanced to be Mark Ray. Juno was not pleased with Helen's first appearance in the street, but nevertheless she called upon her next day, with Sybil Grandon and her sister Bell. To this she was urged by Sybil, who, having a somewhat larger experience of human nature, foresaw that Helen would be popular just because Mrs. Banker had taken her up, and who, besides, had conceived a capricious fancy to patronize Miss Lennox. But in this she was foiled, for Helen was not to be patronized, and she received her visitors with that calm, assured manner so much a part of herself.

"Diamond cut diamond," Bell thought, as she saw how frigidly polite both Juno and Helen were, each recognizing in the other something antagonistic, which could not harmonize.

Had Juno never cared for Dr. Grant, or suspected Helen of standing between herself and him, and had Mark Ray never stopped at Silverton, or been seen on Broadway with her, she might have judged her differently, for there was something attractive in Helen's face and appearance as she sat talking to her guests, with as much quiet dignity as if she had never mended Uncle Ephraim's socks or made a pound of butter among the huckleberry hills. Bell was delighted, detecting at once traces of the rare mind which Helen Lennox possessed, and wondering to find it so.

"I hope we shall see each other often," she said, at parting. "I do not go out a great deal myself—that is not so much as Juno—but I shall be always glad to welcome you to my den. You may find something there to interest you."

This was Bell's leave-taking, while Sybil's was, if possible, more friendly, for she took a perverse kind of pleasure in annoying Juno, who wondered "what she or Bell could see in that awkward country girl, who she knew had on one of Katy's cast-off collars, and whose wardrobe was the most ordinary she ever saw; fitch furs, think of that!" and Juno gave a little pull at the fastenings of her rich ermine collar, showing so well over her velvet basquine.

"Fitch furs or not, they rode with Mark Ray on Broadway," Bell retorted, with a wicked look in her eye, which roused Juno to a still higher pitch of anger, so that by the time the carriage stopped at No. — the young lady was in a most unamiable frame of mind as regarded both Helen Lennox and the offending Mark.

That evening there was at Mrs. Reynolds's a little company of thirty or more, and as Mark was present, Juno seized the opportunity of ascertaining, if possible, his real opinion of Helen Lennox, joking him first about his having taken her to ride so soon, and insinuating that he must have a penchant for every new and pretty face.

"Then you think her pretty? You have called on her?" Mark replied, his manner evincing so much pleasure that Juno bit her lip to keep down her wrath, and flashing upon him her scornful eyes, replied: "Yes, Sybil and Bell insisted that I should. Of myself I would never have done it, for I have now more acquaintances than I can attend to, and do not care to increase the list. Besides that, I do not imagine that Miss Lennox can in any way add to my happiness, brought up as she has been among the woods and hills, you know."

"Only for a moment, though. You should have staid, like Will, to appreciate it fully. I wish you could hear him describe the feather beds on which he slept—that is, describe them before he decided to take Katy; for after that he was chary of his remarks, and the feathers by some marvelous process were changed into hair, for what he knew or cared."

Mark hesitated a moment, and said, quietly:

"I have staid there all night, and have tested that feather bed, but found nothing disparaging to Helen, who was as much a lady in the farmhouse as here in the city."

There was a look of withering scorn on Juno's face as she replied: "Pray, how long since you took to visiting Silverton so frequently—becoming so familiar as to spend the night?"

There was no mistaking the jealousy which betrayed itself in every tone of Juno's voice as she stood before Mark, a fit picture of the enraged goddess whose name she bore. Soon recollecting herself, however, she changed her mode of attack, and said, laughingly:

"Seriously, though, this Miss Lennox seems a very nice girl, and is admirably fitted, I think, for the position she is to fill—that of a country physician's wife," and in the black eyes there was a wicked sparkle as Juno saw that her meaning was readily understood, Mark looking quickly at her, and asking if she referred to Dr. Grant.

"Certainly; I imagine that was settled as long ago as we met him in Paris. Once I thought it might have been our Katy, but was mistaken. I think the doctor and Miss Lennox well adapted to each other."

There was for a moment a dull, heavy pain at Mark's heart, caused by that little item of information which made him so uncomfortable. On the whole he did not doubt it, for everything he could recall of Morris had a tendency to strengthen the belief. Nothing could be more probable, thrown together as they had been, without other congenial society, and nothing could be more suitable.

"They are well matched," Mark thought, as he walked listlessly through Mrs. Reynolds's parlors, seeing only one face, and that the face of Helen Lennox, with the lily in her hair, just as it looked when she tied the apron about his neck and laughed at his appearance.

Helen was not the ideal which in his boyhood Mark had cherished of the one who was to be his wife, for that was of a woman more like Juno, with whom he had always been on the best of terms, giving her some reason for believing herself the favored one; but ideals change as years go on, and Helen Lennox had more attractions for him now than the most dashing belle of his acquaintance.

"I do not believe I am in love with her," he said to himself when, after his return from Mrs. Reynolds's he sat for a long time before the fire in his dressing room, cogitating upon what he had heard, and wondering why it should affect him so much. "Of course I am not," he continued, feeling the necessity of reiterating the assertion by way of making himself believe it. "She is not at all what I used to imagine the future Mrs. Mark Ray to be. Half my friends would say she had no style, no beauty, and perhaps she has not. Certainly she does not look just like the ladies at Mrs. Reynolds's to-night, but give her some advantages and she would surpass them all."

And then Mark Ray went off into a reverie, in which he saw Helen Lennox his wife, and with the aids by which he would surround her, rapidly developing into as splendid a woman as little Katy Cameron, who did not need to be developed, but took all hearts at once by that natural, witching grace so much a part of herself. It was a very pleasant picture which Mark painted upon the mental canvas; but there came a great blur blotting out its brightness as he remembered Dr Grant.

"But it shall not interfere with my being just as kind to her as before. She will need some attendant here, and Wilford will be glad to shove her off his hands. He is so infernal proud," Mark said, and taking a fresh cigar, he finished his reverie with the magnanimous resolve that were Helen a hundred times engaged she should be his especial care during her sojourn in New York.

My heart palpitated, I had faint and dizzy spells and felt weak and nervous all the time. My husband got me a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills but I told him it was no use, that I had given up hope of ever being cured. When the life of Mrs. Ruff was hanging in the balance she used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and was restored to health. Her experience made her the firm friend of the medicine that cured her.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has no equal in its cures of womanly disease. It establishes regularity, dries the drains that weaken women, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"Five years ago when my life was hanging in the balance, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was brought to my home," writes Mrs. Caroline Ruff, Director of German Orphan's Home residing at 119 Rowena Street, Detroit, Mich. "I took it, and it won me back to health. Ever since that time, I have been its firm friend. We frequently have mothers come to our Home who are suffering with uterine troubles, inflammation, tumors and ulcerations. Our great remedy for a female trouble is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and we have found nothing so far which would so quickly cure the disease, relieve inflammation and stop pains. THE T. A. S. LINDSAY HOCKEY CLUB DISPUTE.

The Lindsay team has the following to say in reference to the item in a recent issue of the Examiner regarding the T.A.S. grievance against the Lockey team of that town:—

"In connection with the above, the Post is in a position to say—after reading the correspondence that led up to the game—that the Lindsay management has not earned the severe criticism contained in the above. We find the T.A.S. management also acknowledged their financial needs and agreed to play in Lindsay for their expenses, $15, and $10 added, the understanding being that they would give Lindsay a return game in Peterborough and a like sum. When going away the Peterborough boys said nothing about the return game, and the $10 was withheld pending the carrying out of the bargain. That seems a business-like act, because if there is no return match the T.A.S. would be $10 ahead on the deal. The statement that no member of the Lindsay Club called on Mr. DeVine at the Simpson House is not borne out by the facts—half-a-dozen people — and no doubt Mr. DeVine himself — can prove that Manager Cass Cameron spent over an hour with him on Wednesday afternoon."

The Examiner interviewed Mr. D. J. DeVine, secretary of the T. A. S. hockey club, who stated that the Lindsay Post's statement was an erroneous one. Mr. R. J. Menzies, secretary of the Lindsay team, wrote to Mr. DeVine a communication in reference to a game, a portion of which read, "Was in Peterborough last week, and was promised a game at Lindsay, we to pay $25. Now, can you put us on a game here for Monday next?" The T.A.S. went up on the above conditions, but after the game no one turned up to pay the money, notwithstanding the fact that the captain of the T.A.S. hunted the town for the officials of the Lindsay club, and as a result Mr. DeVine was obliged to pay the club's expenses out of his own pocket. No member of the Lindsay club called on Mr. DeVine, except Mr. Cass Cameron, manager, who simply called as a spokesman for the secretary of the Scugog septette, whom, he said, was too busy to drop in. A day or two ago Mr. Fred McFadden, president of the T.A.S. club, received $15 from the Lindsay club, but nothing was said regarding the balance. There was nothing mentioned, Mr. DeVine states, regarding $15 expenses and $10 on condition that Lindsay would be given a game here and a like sum. Lindsay agreed to pay the sum of $25, but he states that they did not live up to their agreement.

THE FISHERMEN'S NEW REGULATIONS.

A Number of Charges Made in the Fishing Law.

Only Eight Black Bass in One Day for Each Man — A Summary of the Changes as they Affect Local Anglers.

SOME OF THE CHANGES EFFECTED

No Black Bass under twelve inches may be taken.

Eight Black Bass the limit of a day's fishing per man.

Close season extended January 1st to June 30th, therefore Black Bass cannot lawfully be taken before Dominion Day.

The sale of Black Bass or Lunge by Indians or white men is prohibited.

The order in council permitting anglers to take fish out of the Province has been cancelled.

Some raadical changes in the regulations governing the taking of fish were agreed to at the recent conference between Commissioner S. T. Bastedo and Hon. Raymond Prefontaine, Col. Gourdeau and Prof. Prince, of the Ottawa Fisheries Department.

Mr. Bastedo returned to Toronto on Monday morning, and to the News expressed himself as quite satisfied with the results of the consultation.

Orders-in-Council will be issued to provide that in future no black bass under twelve inches in length can be taken and the number to be taken in one day by a fisherman can not exceed eight. Formerly the minimum length was ten inches and the maximum number twelve.

A change is also made in the close season. In the past the season extended from April 15th to June 15th, but it was found that tons of fish were slaughtered through the ice, either by spearing or by other means, so the close season will now extend from January 1st to June 30th. Fishermen will note that it will be illegal to take black bass until July 1st.

A winter close season is also provided for the protection of maskinonge and yellow pickerel or dore.

A new regulation prohibits absolutely the sale of bass, maskinonge and brook trout, either by whites or Indians, and the Order-in-Council permitting anglers to take fish but of the Province will be cancelled.

An important change is meditated in regard to the Lake Erie fisheries. In the past it has been the custom to take herring all the year round, a practice which has had a bad effect on the fishing. It is now proposed that no fishing be allowed in these waters from November 15th to March 15th. This meets the approval of the majority of the fishermen of Ontario, provided a similar law is enacted by the American States of New York, Pennsylvania Ohio and Michigan. Judging by the expression of opinion at the recent Detroit conference, Mr. Bastedo is convinced that similar regulations will be made by the Americans interested.

Another regulation of interest to lake fishermen is that increasing the minimum size of lake trout and whitefish which may be taken. Heretofore the minimum has been two pounds, but at the Detroit Conference experts stated that if it was desired to propagate the species it would be advisable not to take any fish of that kind which had not reached a weight of two and a half pounds. Mr. Bastedo placed these arguments before the representatives of the Dominion Department, and it was agreed that in future two and a half pound should be the minimum for Canadian waters. No sturgeon under thirty-six inches can be taken, and hereafter all jacklights, or flares, will be prohibited. The penalty for infraction of the new regulations will be a minimum of $10 instead of $1 as in the past, and Dominion authorty will be conferred on all Provincial fishery overseers.

There is no change in the close season for brook trout, but no angler can take in one day more than twenty trout, eight black bass, four maskinonge, twelve yellow pickerel or four lake trout.

Mr. Bastedo has received a letter from L. F. Fullerton, executive agent of the State of Minnesota, expressing his interest in the movement to preserve the fish in the international waters, and assuring him of this entire concurrence in the resolutions adopted at the Detroit Conference.

A SPRING MESSAGE.

To all who are Weak, Easily Tired and out of Sorts.

Spring should be the most joyous season of the year. It is the harbinger of sunshine, and birds and flowers; it breathes of freedom and out-of-door life. But unfortunately there are thousands who cannot enter into the spirit of the season. Close confinement during the long winter months has left them weak, dispirited and oppressed; the appetite is fickle; the blood is sluggish with impurities; the eyes lack the lustre of health; weariness and lassitude have taken the place of vigorous energy. What is needed at this season by such people is a health-renewing, blood-making tonic—something that will send new, rich, red blood coursing through the veins, bring brightness to the eye, a healthy appetite, and a clear skin free from pimples and eruptions.

In all the world there is nothing can do this so effectively and so thoroughly as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Every dose creates new blood, strengthens the nerves, and up-builds the whole body. Here is a bit of strong proof, given by Mr. John Burke, of Elmsdale, P. E. I., who says:—"I was left an almost hopeless wreck by an attack of pneumonia, my nerves were almost paralyzed and though under the care of an excellent doctor I found I was not regaining my health. My wife urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I have reason to be thankful I took her advice, for under this treatment my system has been built up and I am again well and strong.

If you are at all unwell give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial, and see how speedily they will restore you to health and strength; but you must get the genuine, with the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" on the wrapper around each box. Sold by medicine dealers or sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Once Dr. Chase's Ointment becomes known, it is indispensible in the home because of the scores of ways in which it can be used. While this ointment is best known as a positive cure for eczema, salt rheum, itching piles, and the most torturing diseases of the skin, it is also unapproached as a treatment for chafed, irritated skin, pimples, blackheads, poisoned skin, scalds, burns and sores of every description.

JAPANESE DESTROY RUSSIAN WARSHIP.

Result of Furious Engagement Outside Port Arthur Harbor.

BUT JAPS ALSO SUFFERED.

Believed that Japanese Intend to Descend upon Newchwang—Coreans in Takchen and Anju in a State of Terror—The Vladivostock Squadron—Chinese Coolies Throwing up Earthworks.

Tokio, March 24.—A special despatch from Moji says the Japanese fleet attacked Port Arthur, March 18, bombarded the city and its defences and fought a furious engagement with the Russian fleet outside the harbor, destroying one Russian battleship. Seven Japanese casualties are reported. There is no information concerning the Japanese fleet's condition.

One Jap Killed.

Seoul, March 24.—A brush between the opposing forces has occurred at the outposts north of Anju. One Japanese was killed.

Japs Provision Chinese Cruisers.

Paris, March 24.—A despatch from Shanghai to The Temps says:

"The four Chinese cruisers which have just left here bound northward, were provisioned from Japanese sources.

"The Coreans in Takchen and Anju are in a state of terror and are fleeing to the mountains.

Work Cut Out For Him.

Paris, March 24.—The Echo de Paris correspondent at St. Petersburg says it is rumored in naval circles there that Captain Reitzenstein's Vladivostock squadron has been ordered to overtake at a certain point in the Pacific the battleship and two cruisers bought from Chile by Japan, and to return with them to Vladivostock.

Squadron Still There.

St. Petersburg, March 24.—According to private advices from Vladivostock the Russian squadron is still there.

Chinese Throwing Up Earthworks.

St. Petersburg, March 24.—The correspondent of The Novi-Krai of Port Arthur, writes that he saw crowds of Chinese coolies throwing up earthworks on the frowning, impregnable heights at Kinchou (north of Port Dalny).

Germany Comes In.

London, March 24.—The Daily Mail's Che Foo correspondent comments on a report that U. S. Consul Fowler, at Che Foo, has received word of native anti-tax riots at Chongangchow, where the Germans were massacred in 1898, as giving Germany a pretext to safeguard her interests in the Province of Shantung.

To Descend on Newchwang.

The Times this morning publishes an opinion of a correspondent that Japan will land her main army at Newchwang, which will seize Haicheng, 15 miles eastward of the railroad, and as additional base, and that without seriously attacking either Port Arthur or Vladivostock, the war will be fought out on the plains of Central Manchuria.

The Veil Not Lifted.

In the meantime the veil has not lifted, and not a word has yet issued, either officially from Japan or unofficially from any other source, concerning the last bombardment of Port Arthur. The rumored naval battle of March 18 is also totally unconfirmed.

THE LEADERS AGREE

That Cigarette Resolution Did Not Strike at Root of Evil.

THE DUTY OF THE PROVINCES

Sir Wilfrid Says Parents Should Give Their Energies to Enforcing Provincial Laws in Respect to Cigarettes—Mr. Maclean's Railway Bill—Mr. McCarthy Pricks Another Bennett Scandal.

Ottawa, March 24.—The House discussed the cigarette evil and the payment of solicitors' fees in connection with the Midland dock yesterday. Mr. Maclaren's resolution, that it is expedient to prohibit the manufacture, importation and sale of cigarettes, was supported by several strong speeches and opposed by Mr. Lavergne, Mr. Osler, Mr. R. L. Borden and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and the discussion being unfinished when the House rose for dinner, it goes to the foot of the order paper. The Premier and the Opposition leader took much the same ground, that the resolution did not strike at the root of the evil, which was the liberty children enjoyed of using cigarettes. Sir Wilfrid pointed out that legislation which would greatly reduce the evil was already on the statute books of several Provinces, and gently suggested that parents give their energies to enforcing it.

McCarthy to Bennett.

On the Midland dock question Mr. Leighton McCarthy, in a speech of great energy and strength, replied to the insinuation by Mr. W. H. Bennett on March 15 that he had received $600 on a deal. He explained the circumstances, and showed that his firm received $400 for work covering two and a half years in completing a title in an ordinary business transaction. He challenged Mr. Bennett to show that there had been any wrong-doing. A few days ago Mr. Copp of Digby, emphatically repudiated a charge made concerning him on the same day by Mr. Bennett.

A large number of petitions were presented by members on both sides of the House, praying for legislation to secure the better observance of the Lord's Day.

Mr. Maclean's Railway Bill.

Mr. W. F. Maclean introduced a bill to amend the railway act, 1903, and it was read a first time.

In his amendment Mr. Maclean seeks to place independent telephone companies in a position to enter railway stations without paying damages involved for a violation of contract rights. These are the words in which he does this:

"And such compensation shall be limited to the direct and the immediate local damages actually suffered by reason of such construction and operation and maintained by the railway company at such station and premises and not from any cause, matter or business extending beyond the same."

Mr. Maclean also embodied as amendments to the Railway Act three other important modifications of the measure passed at the last session of Parliament. He proposes to bring the express companies of Canada under the jurisdiction of the Railway Commission, to insert a clause granting a uniform rate of two cents a mile and to deprive the chairman of the Railway Commission of the power now vested on him of deciding independent of the other two Commissioners all cases involving points of law.

Steamboat Inspection Act.

Leighton McCarthy introduced a bill to amend the steamboat inspection act. The object of the amendment is to increase the standard of engines, so that American engineers on American tug boats which come over here will have to qualify before filling positions, to the exclusion of duly certified Canadian engineers.

The amendment will apply to engineers employed on dredges.

Mr. Lancaster's bill to amend the railway act, 1903, was given its second reading, and the House adjourned at 9.50 p.m.

For Easter Holidays.

Ottawa, March 24.—Parliament will adjourn on Wednesday, 30th March, until Tuesday, April 5th, for the Easter holidays.

CHINA DENOUNCES TREATY.

Notifies U.S. That Present Immigration Convention Must Die Dec. 27.

Washington, March 24.—The State Department has received formal notice from the Chinese Government denouncing the Chinese exclusion treaty, and the present convention will expire Dec. 27.

Such has been done by China in spite of United States assurances that any succeeding convention will be considerably more exacting and exclusive.

Under its terms, six months before the expiration of a period of 10 years from Dec. 27, 1894, if either power be dissatisfied with the treaty it is required to denounce it.

Crushed By a Beam.

Norwich, March 24.—While moving a barn on Monday four men were crushed by a falling beam. Joseph McVickers received injuries in the head that will likely prove fatal. William Hill was injured in the back and hip, but is getting along as well as can be expected. John Hill and Steven Collins were both injured slightly, or at least not seriously.

Editor Gets 3 Months.

Montreal, March 24. — Edouard Charlieri, publisher of the defunct French Sunday paper, Des Debats, was sentenced to three months in prison yesterday, after conviction of having libelled Rev. Father Adam. Charlieri was also required to give good security for his good conduct for twelve months.

N.W.T. Corps.

Regina, March 23.—The Territorial Department of Agriculture issued their final bulletin on crop of 1903 yesterday. The total yield of wheat was 16,111,569 bushels or only 600,000 bushels less than was estimated in last bulletin issued on Sept. 1, 1903, notwithstanding the unfavorable weather conditions, which afterwards prevailed. On the other hand oats went better than estimated by 800,000 bushels, and barley, by 600,000 bushels.

THE LIFT LOCK OPENING.

Peterborough is naturally proud of that great engineering triumph, the Lift Lock, and has used it to great advantage in making known the town and its industrial and commercial capabilities. We should continue to make use of it, and the formal opening of the Lift Lock, set down for May 12th, should be turned to good account by the citizens of Peterborough. The Board of Trade the Council and prominent citizens should see that it is not entirely a stiff and formal government function, but should see that the Town of Peterborough is very prominently and even obtrusively identifed with the ceremony and the great work that creates the occasion. No citizen of Peterborough who has not come into contact with outsiders in cities and towns knows the degree of latent interest in the Lift Lock felt by ordinary as well as prominent persons; many who do not know or realize that there is such a waterway as the Trent Canal, have heard with interest of the Lift Lock. Therefore by exploiting it we shall create a wider knowledge of the canal, of its capabilities as an element in transportation and its importance as a great link in a national highway from the granary of the mighty West to the seaboard. An incidental and necessary feature of the ceremony of opening the Lift Lock is the prominence that Peterborough will receive, but it devolves upon the citizens to see that this prominence is magnified to the largest possible extent.

Why not, then, make the 12th of May a gala day in Peterborough? Why would it not be a good idea to extensively advertise the event, and arrange railway excursions from several points? Why would it not be a wise thing for the town to organize a special committee, clothed with authority to issue invitations in the name of the town to prominent men in the chief commercial centres, Montreal, Toronto, etc., and the invitation list might be extended to representatives from United States' cities, convenient to the border? Is there any effort why Peterborough should not make special effort to fill the town to overflowing on that day? Why not hang the latch string out, and make everybody welcome? Why not have the Mayor declare the 12th of May a holiday, and the whole town hold high festival? By getting everybody here on that day, and especially a good many somebodies, we shall very effectively advertise the town, advertise the lift-lock, and advertise the canal. Of course it is not meant that the programme interrogatively suggested above should be slavishly followed, but it is highly important that the central idea, the idea of turning the opening of the lift lock to the advantage of Peterborough and the canal in the most effective manner possible, should not be lost sight of. It is not any too early to begin preparations, or at least to discuss the subject. We are sure Mayor Roger and President Hughes-Charles, of the Board of Trade, will do, what Peterborough expects of every man, their duty.

NOVA SCOTIA'S PROGRESS.

In no part of our broad Dominion has the prosperity, which has been concurrent with the administration of the Laurier Government, been more strikingly demonstrated than in Nova Scotia. From 1878 to 1896 Nova Scotia was labouring under a chronic crisis in her affairs. Every branch of provincial activity, commerce, industries, agriculture and fisheries, was in a state of chronic debility. The population of the province was almost stationary, and the Conservative regime was attended by ruinous conditions. That was yesterday; to-day all is changed under the policy of the Laurier Government; so much so that instead of universal stagnation there is universal activity as exemplified by the fact that at present in Halifax, Amherst and New Glasgow, Westville, Sidney Mines and elsewhere in the province there are not sufficient houses to shelter the inhabitants. The industrial activity that has developed since the Liberals came into power has checked the exodus and attracted thousands of workmen, and the province as a whole is basking in the sunshine of prosperity and Le Canada, of Montreal, says it would not be surprising, in view of the conditions of affairs in Nova Scotia, if at the approaching elections they would vote en bloc for Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The election of the Government candidate in Guysboro by the very large majority of nearly 400, the largest ever given for any candidate in the constituency, is a very large straw indicating which way the wind blows.

Approximately forty dollars were made which will pay half of the debt incurred by the improvements in the hall. It now behooves the older members of the Society and the citizens in general, who will receive benefits by the improvements, to contribute their mite ($1.00) and thank their stars that they are permitted to do their share with so little trouble.

The Township Council on Monday repealed the bylaw, re the commuting of statute labour at 50c. per day. Death has been busy in our midst this past week, no fewer than three most respected women of our community, Mrs. Henry Reid, Mrs. Jas. Gourley and Mrs. Tim Welsh, were away. WARSAW.

Mr. W. J. Rutherford, and family, who have held their sale of stock, etc., and intend going to Manitoba soon, gave a farewell party to a large number of their friends on Friday evening of last week. The following address was read:—

"We, the young people of Dummer ask you to accept this set of dishes as a small token of our respect to you. We all join in wishing you many prosperous years in your new home."

Mr. Rutherford, on behalf of the family replied, thanking them very much for their kindness and hoping that in some future time they should all meet again.

THE CLOSE SEASON FAR TOO SHORT.

Reason for New Regulations Regarding Bass.

Necessary, Says Mr. Bastedo, if Government Work of Restocking is not to be Undone—Fishing on Spawning Beds.

Asked why it had been found necessary to extend the close season for bass and increase the size limit, Mr. S. T. Bastedo, Commissioner of Fisheries, said to the Globe:—

"The object of increasing the minimum size of bass that may be caught from ten to twelve inches, is that the province is engaged in the work of restocking the lakes. In the majority of those lakes and waters fishing cannot be prohibited, and something had to be done if we were to derive proper advantage from the restocking to enable the fish to increase to a greater extent naturally. A fish of twelve inches would have three or four years longer to reproduce than the fish of ten inches.

The same may be said with regard to the extension of the close season. Bass, maskinonge and pickeral are spring-spawning fish, and a bass should therefore no more be taken in January or February than between the 15th of April and the 15th of June, the present close season. The close season has been extended at the other end to June 30th, because it has been found that in many places bass did not leave the spawning beds until after the 15th, and it is well known that at such times the fish will take any kind of bait, and much destruction results. We have also found that in numerous cases people have found places where bass were hibernating and catch them by the hundreds during the winter.

"These regulations will go into force immediately by Order-in-Council," said Mr. Bastedo. "There are of course, some localities in which it would not do much harm to allow the present regulations to continue, but we could not very well lay down special laws for particular districts."

Mr. Bastedo also said that the prohibition of fishing on Lake Erie after Nov. 15th, would do away with the gill nets.

READ IT THROUGH.

Twould Spoil This Story to Tell it in the Headlines.

To use an eighteenth century phrase, this is an "o'er true tale." Having happened in a small Virginian town in the winter of 1902 it is a story very much of the present. Up to a short time ago Mrs. John E. Harmon, of Melfa Station, Va., had no personal knowledge of the rare curative properties of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. "Last January," she says, "my baby took a dreadful cold and at one time I feared that she would have pneumonia, but one of my neighbours told me how this remedy had cured her little boy and I began giving it to my baby at once, and it soon cured her. I heartily thank the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for placing so great a cure within my reach. I cannot recommend it too highly or say too much in its favour. I hope all who read this will try and be convinced as I was." For sale by all druggists.

Rush Into the West.

Ottawa, March 23.—One of the largest movements of settlers that ever went north is that going from the Western States to Canada, leaving the last week in March and the first week in April. Hundreds are now on the way from Oklahama, Indian Territory, Kansas and Missouri to join excursions starting from Kansas City.

Menard Will Be Tried.

L'Orignal, March 23.—Joseph Menard of The Brook, who in a fit of insanity a few weeks ago murdered his wife and slashed himself, is recovering, although his life was at first despaired of. Menard will likely stand his trial on a charge of murder at the fall assizes.

Without this power of resistance a person is an easy prey to every ill that comes along. By enriching the blood and creating new nerve cells, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food keeps the health at high water mark and fills the body with the vigour and vitality that overcomes and defies disease.

EVIDENCE IN THE CRAIG CASE.

Inquest Continued Yesterday at Lakefield by Coroner Gray.

Dr. Ellis' Report Not Made and Inquest Adjourned The Evidence Submitted.

At Lakefield yesterday afternoon he adjourned into the cause of ath of Mr. Jas. Craig, took place ore Dr. Gray, coroner, in the g House. Mr. R. E. Wood conted the case for the Crown, exining a number of witnesses. The quest was not concluded, the reort of Dr. Ellis, Provincial analyist, of having been received. Dr. Ellis made an analysis of the stomach of the deceased, and upon his evidence a great deal depends. A summary of the evidence taken is as follows:

The first witness was Dr. Fraser, who deposed that he had examined the body and submitted a written report thereon. The deceased was not suffering from any disease. The stomach had been sent to Prof. Ellis, Toronto, who had not yet reported thereon. He could not say what caused stupor. In strychnine poisoning the mind is usually bright and clear until the last. The analysis should disclose the nature of the poison, if any were taken.

Jas. Long deposed as foll made some further search for strychnine after the last adjournment, and found a small strychnine bottle, the one I got from Mr. Tanner. I gave it to Mr. Cochrane. I found it in the meat house. That is where we prepared the pills for the rats. I got ten cents worth and made eight pills. I went to the barn and deceased went to the kitchen. I have him the bottle when I went to the barn. I never saw the bottle until I found it on the rafters the others day. I don't know how much strichnine was left after making the pills. There had been no trouble between the deceased and anyone in the hotel that I know of.

Mrs. McQuaw, sworn: I went to bed about eight o'clock, and saw deceased was lying on the sofa. He said he was taking a rest. I heard nothing more about it until six a.m. the next morning. I was not in the pantry in the morning and did not see the lunch. I did not see the cup of water or bread in the kitchen. I know nothing of the poisoning of the rats. I have been at the hotel about two months, coming up from Peterborough. Deceased went to Port Hope for his health. He had a very sore leg and thought that he needed a rest. I am no relation of his, but I have known him since he was a boy. He wrote to me to take his place for a month. He returned about one month ago and I remained on since then. Since his return things were quiet about the hotel. There were no disturbances or quarrels that I am aware of. The last I saw of him he was on the sofa in the hall up stairs, between 7.30 and 8 o'clock. Everything was quiet at that time. I never heard him say that anyone had tried to poison him. I never heard him say that everyone was bucking up against him. He had no trouble on his mind that I know of. There were no family quarrels. I know of no trouble between he and his wife.

Clara Coones, sworn—I live at the Craig House. I have been hired there a month I have been doing general work. I saw Jas. Craig alive last sleeping on the sofa in the hall about nine o'clock on the night of his death. I learned of his death next morning. I got up about six o'clock. I did not see the remains of his lunch. I was not talking to him the night of his death. When I went down town he was sitting by the fire and when I returned he was sleeping. I know nothing of his having strychnine for rats. There had been no difficulty that day or any other day that I know of between him and any one else.

John Cooper, sworn—Jas. Long told me in the post office at nine o'clock on the morning of the inquest that he had found the bottle of poison. He came and told me of his own accord. I know of nothing to throw light upon the affair. There was no quarreling whenever I was in the hotel. I saw the deceased on the night before his death about nine o'clock. I have heard of rumours of quarrels, but know of none.

J. C. Lillicrap, sworn—I was passing the post office on the morning of the inquest. I heard Mr. Long mention poison. Mr. Long said he had found the poison and put it back where he got it. He said it was in a bottle, and showed me about the size of it. This was on the morning before the inquest. I know of nothing to throw light upon the mystery.

Chas Shannon, sworn—I have not had occasion to be about the Craig House since last spring. I know nothing of the affairs there of late. I have often dropped in for a few minutes. Everything was peace and quietness, as far as I know. I saw nothing disorderly.

Jas. Long, sworn—I made a mistake in saying that I found the poison after the inquest. I found it in the morning. I had no conversation with Mr. Lillicrap and Mr. Cooper about the poison on the morning of the inquest. I found the poison in the morning and put it back where I found it. It took me quite a while to fine it. I did not say when I was here last that I had found it. I made a mistake when I said that I had not seen the bottle after giving it to Mr. Craig. I never saw the bottle until I found it that morning. I had no talk with Jas. Craig regarding the bottle, nor with anyone else as to what my evidence would be. I may have told Mr. Cooper on the morning of the inquest that I had found the bottle. I was not the first to tell of it. I told it first to Mrs. McQuaw, and she told it afterwards. I told her first that I had found the poison in the afternoon I had forgotten what I told her in the morning. I swore that I had not seen the bottle since I gave it to Mr. Craig in the barn. I am all right in the upper story. I went home twice on the day before this death. At night deceased and I had a glass of beer at my expense. I went to look for the strychnine because I heard that he had it. I there was some in the house.

John Craig, sworn—I had a key of the house and Boyea had another. I had the key in my possession the night of the deceased's death. He could get a glass of ale without getting either key. I drew some beer in a pump in a pail. Long drew a pail of beer to take home, and Long and deceased had a glass of beer about eight o'clock. Boyea went home about nine, and I was in charge of the bar afterwards. Deceased did not have glass of ale before going to bed. He could not have said the bad ale to the doctor without my hearing it. He had no means of getting the ale. I saw deceased about 11 o'clock the night of his death.

The inquest was adjourned for two weeks.

Well Again.

The many friends of John Blount will be pleased to learn that he has entirely recovered from his attack of rheumatism. Chamberlain's Pain Balm cured him after the best doctors in the town, (Monon, Ind.) had failed to give relief. The prompt relief from pain which this liniment affords is alone worth many times its cost. Sold by all druggists.

For Uniform Divorce Legislation.

Not For the Free List

Washington, March 24.—By a party vote, the House Committee on Ways and Means yesterday voted down motions to favorably report bills placing salt, coal, hides, wood pulp, agricultural implements and other articles on the free list.

Three Suffocated By Gas.

New York, March 24.—Three persons were killed by illuminating gas in a tenement on East Eleventh street early yesterday, and many occupants of neighboring flats were overcome. Whether it was accident or design is not certain.

Hunters are shooting the ducks on the Canadian side of the Detroit River, despite the closed season.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY
Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. Grove's signature is on each box. 25 cents.

DON'T RISK A PENNY. GET WELL FIRST.

For 30 years I've been a physician! I have treated nearly two million cases!

Surely you'll admit that such experience must have taught me some certainties.

And,—all that I know of disease and cure,—all that I have proven to be worth knowing—is condensed into my six books for the sick.

Write for a free copy to-day.

They tell of my great discovery that practically all diseases can be permanently cured through the Sympathetic Nerves.

Not the nerves we feel with, see with, hear with, but the inside nerves.

It is these that unconsciously operate the vital Organs,—the Heart, Liver, Kidneys, Brain, etc.

When the inside nerves get run down, that Organ which is weakest in the body loses its power to get properly.

It then throws its work upon the other Organs.

These Organs in turn become affected through over work, and so, scarcely any case is found without complications.

I proved it useless to doctor the Individual Organs themselves while the Nerve-power to fully operate them was lacking.

Sedatives temporarily deadened the pain, but increased the distress afterwards.

Tonics revived the drooping powers, only to insure relapse so soon as the stimulus was withdrawn.

Of what use to hourly move ahead the hands of a watch if its mainspring be seriously weakened?

There is but one sensible thing to do, viz,—stiffen up the mainspring.

That is what my, now famous, prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—does.

It provides through the inside nerves the power to make the weakest organ do its duty.

It enables weak organs to cast off their clogging waste matter, and to repair their worn tissue.

It runs the human mill at full capacity till that mill produces enough new material to keep itself running without further help.

So sure am I of this Restorative that I authorize certain druggists everywhere to supply it on a month's trial, to practically all who write me for that privilege.

To supply it at my expense if it fails to benefit—at your expense if it cures.

The cost is but $5.50 for six bottles, including my professional help, during treatment.

Could anything better prove my faith in this system than this voluntary test?

Could anything furnish you better ground for confidence?

You should get my book, which tells you how to cure diseases permanently.

Just specify which of the six you need.

Book 1 on Dyspepsia, Book 4 for Women
Book 2 on the Heart, Book 5 for Men (sealed)
Book 3 on the Kidneys, Book 6 on Rheumatism

Address Dr. Shoop, Box 47, Racine, Wis.

P.S., Simple cases often yield to one bottle of Restorative. All druggists carry it. But all druggists do not supply on a month's trial. You must write to me for that.

A Hustling Cherry Tree.

A cherry tree may be seen in bud on Mr. Wm. Cowie's yard, on Simcoe street, although its roots are surrounded with six inches of ice and snow. This tree has evidently lost its bearings in keeping pace with the seasons, and no surprise would be manifested if the growth would retire to its winter sleep in autumn.

REV. C. J. JAMES ON "THE IDEAL LIFE."

He Preached a Helpful Sermon in St. John's Church Last Night.

Rev. C. J. James, Rector of the Church of the Redeemer, Toronto, gave the sixth in the course of special Lenten sermons in St. John's Church, last night, his subject being "The Call to the Ideal Life." Mr. James is a pleasing and powerful speaker, and the congregation was deeply interested in his presentation of the subject. He took in the base of his remarks the subject of the transfiguration, speaking of the glory which was then revealed in the Lord, and which shone forth through His countenance. After bringing out strikingly, the different passages, the speaker went on to speak of the Divine illumination which might be revealed by every Christian, and be manifested in different ways in daily life. The faces of those who had grown old in the Christian service after lives of association with God still shone with a radiance. The transfigured life was within the possibilities of all, and as in the case of our Lord, it had its root in humble service and self-sacrifice.

The way of the Cross is the way of light. The speaker here brought strikingly the beauty of heroic suffering manifested in Christ. We were not called to live ordinary aimless lives, but to live lives of beauty and glory, which are within the reach of all. The avenue to these was by close communion and companionship with God.

Mr. James also referred to the Lord's Day, as being a mount of transfiguration to which men should go after the busy week, to behold something of the Divine Glory, review something of the Divine power, and with spiritual refreshing and grace come down equipped to live in the world. Such days thus used gradually helped men towards the life of Divine beauty and glory.

THE DAM IS ALL RIGHT.

The Auburn Dam is not Giving Trouble

This afternoon a report was current on the streets that the Auburn dam had been partially destroyed. Inquiry at the Auburn Woollen Company's mill showed the reports to have no foundation whatever.

During the season planks had been placed in position in place of the regular stop-logs. The planks became embedded in the ice, and in order to force them out, the stop-logs were placed in position, and as a natural result the sluice way opened. Some of the planks found their way to the river, and this fact no doubt gave rise to the above rumour.

GRAND TRUNK CAR WAS WRECKED.

Accident Near the Protestant Home.

Double Header Went Along an Open Switch No Lives Lost.

Shortly after three o'clock this afternoon a Grand Trunk engine was slightly damaged and a box car completely wrecked. The accident occurred on the line north of Brock street, and was caused by an open switch. It appears that a single car was standing on Fitzgerald's siding. In the early part of the afternoon John Londry, the signalman at the Brock street crossing received instructions from Station Agent Sandy to dig out the car in question, it being so firmly frozen in that the efforts of the shunter had failed to dislodge it in the morning. Londry was in the act of finishing this work when he heard a double header freight approaching from the south. Leaving his pickaxe he went for his flag to keep the crossing clear. Unfortunately he forgot that the switch was still open so that when the train came along it went dashing down the siding.

TRIUMPH OF ENGLISH CONTROLTO.

Miss Muriel Foster, a Talented Artist To be Here in April 14 th.

The musical treat of the season, which is being awaited with much pleasure, will be the appearance here of Miss Muriel Foster, the great English contralto, and Emil Renaud the celebrated French pianist.

The Birmingham Post, speaking of Miss Foster's singing at the recent Musical Festival of that city, says: "Miss Muriel Foster sang in such a manner as to cause one to forget the artist, or to merge the performer into the very personification of the messenger from Heaven. I have heard many fine performances, but I have rarely been so lifted out of myself as I was this morning. From the flight through space to the judgment seat, to the farewell, when the Angel lays the soul on its bed of sorrow, for the night of trial, Miss Foster sustained her part with the same lofty conception, beauty of expression, and complete self abnegation and devotion to the ideal character delineated by poet and musician."

The appearance here of these great artists, under the auspices of George street choir, will take place on April 14th.

EASTER OPENING AT F. A. CLARKE.

A Handsome Window Display of Spring Hats.

One of the most interesting store windows to men is that of Mr. F. A. Clarke's hat and fur store. Mr. Clarke has shown decided artistic taste in his arrangement of the window display. Mr. Clarke has been fortunate in securing the sale of some of the best makes of hats, among them being Daws, Yeomans and Knox, all of which have national reputations.

The new shapes shown are the very latest and to young men who are looking for something nobby in the way of headwear an inspection of Clarke's window will be a pleasure.

PETERBOROUGH NURSES FAVOUR ASSOCIATION.

At a Meeting Held Yesterday the Proposal was Endorsed.

A meeting of the graduate nurses of Peterborough was held in the Y.W.C.A. parlours at 2.30 p.m. Wednesday.

The attendance was most gratifying, seven different Training Schools being represented. Miss Coleman, Lady Superintendent of the Nicholls Hospital, presided, and after the object of the meeting had been explained, gave a short address upon the need of "State Regulation," for nurses. This was followed by a free discussion of this question, as well as the more immediate one, the formation of an Ontario Nurses Association, and Miss Thompson gave a most interesting account of organization for protection of nurses as well as of the public in the City of Cleveland.

Miss Bolster then told what steps had already been taken in Canada in this direction and in view of what had taken place in the past, expressed belief that the formation of a Provincial Association would be a great aid in securing the aim sought.

Miss Coleman urged upon those present the advantage to be derived from attending the Toronto meeting.

Miss Wilmot and Miss Maloney were appointed delegates from the Nicholls Hospital Alumnae, and Miss Miss Staunton also expected to be present to help represent Peterborough.

PETERBOROUGH'S GIFT WAS APPRECIATED.

CANADA'S NATIONAL WATERWAY.

Royal Transportation Commission Meeting Here to Review Evidence.

NATURE'S MOST DIRECT TRANSPORTATION ROUTE.

Conclusive Evidence That The Trent Waterway Would Be to "The General Advantage of Canada"—The Commission Holds a Sitting.

To-day the Royal Transportation Commission is holding a session in Peterborough, for the purpose of obtaining evidence on the Trent Waterway. A great many delegates are in town from places along the proposed root of the canal, and the meeting will be of the utmost importance to Peterborough and the Midland District generally.

MAYOR ROGER'S ADDRESS

His Worship Mayor Roger in opening the meeting this afternoon stated that it was a great pleasure to all the municipalities represented to welcome the Commission to enquire into the great question of Transportation. He then read the following address:—

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen:

As mayor of the Town of Peterborough it is my privilege to extend a warm welcome on behalf of the Corporation and citizens of Peterborough to your honourable body.

We have been informed that your main object in visiting Peterborough at this time is to procure information with regard to the best and most economical trade routes for the transportation of western produce to the seaboard, and particularly to consider the advantages of what we call the Trent Valley Waterway between Georgian Bay and Lake Ontario. The word canal is a misnomer when applied to the great stretches of open water, consisting of lakes and navigable rivers which form a chain extending from Midland on the North to Trenton on Lake Ontario. The term "Trent Valley Waterway," has therefore been adopted by the different associations formed for the purpose of promoting this work as a more suitable designation than the word, "canal."

Work on the Trent route has been performed by the Government of Canada for many years, extending back as far as the memory of the present generation, for the purpose of carrying out the scheme, which we are now more strongly convinced than ever, will solve many questions of transportation you are now considering in the simplest and least expensive manner.

About 160 miles of this waterway has already been completed by the construction of 25 locks and short sections of canal at a cost of $4,900,000.

There remain but 30 miles to be completed at an estimated cost of $5,000,000

The work which has been done to date is of no avail unless the remaining sections on the Northern and southern extremeties of the route are completed so as to open for through traffic this great inland waterway.

The annual interest on the capital already expended amounts to the large sum of $120,000, which is a yearly loss to the people of Canada until the work is completed.

Permit me to offer a few general observations as to the value of this route leaving it to the witnesses who follow to supply details.

The history of all the nations who are chief to Liverpool via Midland and Montreal than it is via New York.

The figures for 1903 quoted by Mr. K. W. Blackwell in his address as President of the Canadian Society of Civil Engineers, which are no doubt before you, show as follows:

The lake and rail route for grain from Chicago to Montreal via Canada Atlantic Railway was 21 cents per ton mile.

The inland water rate for grain from Chicago to New York via the Erie Canal was .15 cents per ton mile.

The inland water rate for grain from Chicago to Montreal was .23 cents per ton mile.

These significant figures are surely as good an argument for the speedy completion of the Trent Waterway as could be advanced, for the Erie Canal in its present condition offers no such facilities for cheap transportation as will the Trent, for the reasons advanced above.

It is estimated by the Canal Improvement Study Committee, (see canal improvement text book page 102) that the enlargement of the Erie Canal as is now proposed will reduce the cost transportation through that canal to one-third the present figures. The Trent Valley Waterway by reason of its superior advantages should be able to improve on this and thus remove, for the present at least, all fear of successful competition from the Erie route.

Great quantities of both Canadian and American grain are now moving eastward via Midland, Depot Harbour and other Georgian Bay ports. It is claimed that over 28,000,000 bushels last year were shipped to Midland and Depot Harbor alone.

The completion of the Trent waterway would throw into competition with the Grand Trunk and the Canada Atlantic Railway a line of communication which would vastly increase the possibilities of this the true geographical line of transportation; and if history should repeat itself there would be an immediate reduction in the through rates between the West and the seaboard.

Of the effect of the Trent route upon local rates, I will only say that it would save hundreds of thousands of dollars to the merchants and manufacturers of the district, and prove of incalculable benefit to the great stretches of fertile land which surround it.

Even if it should lie idle and unused it would pay for itself in a very few years.

The railways now charge the very highest rates which commerce can endure and live. There is no other check upon the schedules which they put into force from year to year. The presence of the canal would change all this and the limit would then be fixed by the cost of transport over the water route and every shipper would have immediate and lasting relief.

From Trenton to Midland along the entire route, are splendid water powers; there is no section of the Dominion of Canada, not even including the power radius of Niagara Falls, which offers such a field for industrial development.

From the height of land to Lake Ontario there is a fall of six hundred feet and from the same point to Georgian Bay there is a fall of about 200 feet. The supply of water is ample and the possible development of power immense. The completion of the waterway will, therefore, offer to the large industrial corporations which are now seeking locations in Canada, cheap power and low freights—a combination which should prove irresistible.

We are in hearty sympathy with all schemes which are recommended for the improvement of our national waterways. We do not ask that the Trent route should be fostered at the expense of others. We believe that there will be grain enough to keep them all employed in a few years hence, but we believe also that there is no public work for the welfare of Canada which is so urgently needed at the present time as the Trent Valley waterway.

Mr. Bertram in reply thanked the Mayor for the address presented. He was greatly pleased to be back in his home town again, and to renew his pleasant associations with Peterborough. He was here, however, not to act as a partizan of any one town. The duties of the Commission were to ascertain the facts with reference to the Trent Waterway as a portion of the great transportation problem.

He referred to the fact that the West was now being rapidly populated and the problem was how to market the products of that great country. Canada for a long time was asleep, but she had awakened at last, and was now going ahead by leaps and bounds. The commission's duty was that of an advisor, and their powers were not executive. They were here to-day to obtain evidence on the great waterway through the Trent Valley, and this was but a small part of their duties. Mr. Bertram then quoted from the instructions to the Commission on the duties of the members, by which it was seen that the scope was a very large one, the principal item of which was to ascertain the most economic way of shipping the western grain to the seaboard.

The Trent Canal had a long history and why it had not been completed he did not know, nor did the other members of the Commission. He assured those present that the Commission would act with strict impartiality in advising on the evidence presented. He asked that those having evidence to present to condense it as much as possible.

Mr. R. R. Hall then read the report of the Committee on the Trent Canal published 13 years ago.

Mr. D. Gilmour, president of the Trent Water Conservation Association, was one of the principal speakers. Mr. Gilmour had thoroughly informed himself on the subject, and his evidence was very concise and convincing. A synopsis of Mr. Gilmour's address, in which he gave 20 reasons why the Trent Waterway should be completed, follows:

1. Waterways are a key to transportation—Trent Canal shortest, cheapest and safest waterway on American continent. We invite practical business discussion.

2. Educate the public to advantages of short, direct route and the capturing of the American and Canadian grain and heavy traffic trade adjacent to the Great Lakes.

3. Increased business will fully occupy the canals.

4. Unlimited European markets and population at command of shorter and cheaper route, also unlimited raw material to freight.

5. One hundred million voted by New York state to improve the Erie canal means three million dollars a year interest and the arguments for improving the Erie canal apply more forcibly to the very much cheaper and shorter route of Trent Canal now almost completed.

6. Trent canal route is some 1,454 miles shorter to Liverpool and European markets and return than the Erie canal and over 500 miles shorter than our present St. Lawrence canals that actually captured a good part of the American trade for the year 1903.

7. The most economical barges carefully figured out for the cheapest carrying capacity of Erie canal have a carrying of about 33,333 bushels each barge.

8. Trent canal barge capacity, each barge 15,000 bushels and we can increase or double the canal if wanted.

9. About four million dollars now invested by both Canadian Governments in Trent canal means $120,000 a year loss till the canal is completed.

10. About 4 1-2 to 5 million dollars will complete the Trent canal.

11. The whole American and Canadian grain trade adjacent to Great Lakes would be at the command of the Trent Canal when completed on account of its shortness and cheap carrying capacity to large European markets and could be absolutely contracted for when canal is completed in spite of anything that can be done by any other route.

12. A ship canal is out of the question on account of the great expense of the large ocean or lake steamers and slow speed they would have to travel on inland waters and canals and the absolute necessity of deepening harbours on lake for ocean or large lake going vessels. This is the practical decision arrived at by New York state in voting one hundred million dollars to enlarge Erie canal and they are only sound business arguments that cannot be disputed.

13. Ample water reservoirs are at the command of Trent canal as can be shown by engineers' reports and practical business men's operations.

14. Safety of Trent canal is assured as it is all inland waters from Midland on the Georgian Bay to Montreal or Quebec and no objections to open lake same as Erie canal had in discussing advantages that might be had in their using Lake Ontario.

15. Barges with independent propelling power can easily be used for local trade going and coming and the whole length of canal and St. Lawrence route stopping at any and all towns and villages, afterwards joining through towing fleets.

16. Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, president of Canadian Pacific Railway, in his speech before the Canadian Club, Toronto, January 20th, 1904, on freight traffic from the west to the Atlantic, said, "Waterways are the key of our transportation. Wheat or flour or anything else in the matter of coarse products can be carried by water at one-quarter the cost from Fort William to Midland or to North Bay that it cost to carry the same traffic nearly 500 miles over the railway. Now what sane man," said Sir Thomas, "will assert that enormous difference in cost against rail transportation we should neglect our waterways.

This same argument applies with much more force from Midland to Montreal, the balance of the only shortest and direct waterway by Trent Canal and every practical business man and the best railway men must, and do, admit it. These are sufficient facts and beyond dispute.

17. Would the Government sell the Trent canal, positively knowing these practical facts? If not, why not complete it at once, take the trade and save money to all? Two years properly handled in a business way will complete it and see it started in operation to earn money and be a permanent and everlasting public benefit.

18. Mr. K. W. Blackwell, president of Canadian Society of Civil Engineers, in his annual address, January 27th, 1904, quoted figures to show difference in rates between all rail, lake and rail, inland water, and ocean rates. These, in point of question stood, ocean rates first, inland water second, and lake and rail third, while all rail route for equal distances was upwards of twice as expensive as inland water rates.

19. Everyone insist on it being completed at once, either by the Government, or private enterprise and so get absolute results almost at once.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier lately in Montreal admitted the export of the Dominion for 1903 was about 211 million dollars and United Stated one billion, three hundred and fifty million, practically six times more than Canada's export trade and the American business men are anxious to ship by the cheaper route, Canadian or American, to the large European population.

Trusting you will find some of these main points of use in discussing the matter before committee.

FREIGHT RATES, TRENT WATER ROUTE.

Mr. Gilmour, in a supplementary address, dealt with the question of freight rates, upon which he is fully informed. Mr. Gilmour said:

"I have been accustomed to looking after freight rates all my life time, and I have carefully gone into the rates of freight, comparing the different water routes, lakes and Erie Canal, the lakes and Welland Canal, and the Trent Natural Water Route. I find that the lowest possible freights, all of which are confirmed by actual transactions, by extra large positive operations, to be one cent per bushel from Fort William to Midland, at which rate a fair living can be made—and remember, based on actual results, to be proved by the records of books on large scale.

"Midland to Montreal, based on the actual traffic on the Erie Canal, from Buffalo to New York, as per authentic table attached, on which New York State voted 101 million dollars, .80 of a cent per bushel. Therefore putting canal route against canal route, Erie versus from Midland to Montreal, (the latter of which is nearly all a natural open waterway) at 1 cent per bushel, we have the actual precedent for the lowest freight rate that can be made. As per the enclosed maps a distance of 55 miles is shown in favour of the Trent Valley Water Route, Midland to Montreal, as against Buffalo to New York, making a through freight rate of two cents per bushel, Port Arthur to Montreal.

"Actual contracts were let for early spring delivery at a through rate, Port Arthur to Montreal, 6 3-4 cents, which would leave a margin of profit of 4 3-4 cents carrying at 3 cents per bushel by Trent Water Route. What more actually practical business facts are required to show that the Trent Water Route must absolutely control all the grain and heavy traffic between the Great Lakes, in both the States and Canada, and when we look back at absolute facts of the past 15 to 20 years and more, as far as the States is concerned, this enormous traffic has been going on continually and always been at our command as it is to-day, if we only expend 5 million dollars and complete Trent Water Route and be prepared for the present and future Canadian traffic to come when the population comes on to till the land. What better preference do we want in the British and European markets than a business preference that we can control and command, and Britain and Europe will get the cheap bread and raw manufactured materials they are so clamouring for. This one fact alone will do more to carry out Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain's Empire policy than anything else we can suggest and we have it in our control, and it can be put in operation in two years if taken hold of at once in a business way.

"The local business and the large water powers and steady manufacturing business during the long winter months and the employment of labour and increase of population during the full year, although of such enormous importance are comparatively small, compared with the international importance of the great cheap, short distance only water highway which absolutely must control the grain and heavy merchandise of both continents."

The Commission is still in session as we go to press.

REFUSE TO HASTEN

Opposition Object to Motion to Expedite Work of the Session.

RE THE CHAIR OF FORESTRY

Drastic Amendments to Loan Corporations Act to Clip Wings of Questionable Building Society Schemes—How Girls Shall Wear Their Hair When Employed in Factories—Taxation Bill.

Toronto, March 23.—"This would bring us measurably near the end of the session," remarked Premier Ross when moving in the Legislature yesterday that Government business be given precedence hereafter. At the request of the leader of the Opposition, however, who stated that there were several matters the members were desirous of discussing, the motion was held over until Thursday. The fact that the Opposition spent the whole of the evening session in debating three really non-contentious clauses of the Municipal Taxation Bill does not make the outlook for an adjournment at Easter hopeful.

Several important Government bills were given a second reading. The Attorney-General explained his proposed drastic amendments to the Loan Corporations Act, especially those concerning the operation of questionable building society schemes.

Hon. Mr. Dryden's bill to amend the factories act led to a sharp discussion as to the wisdom of regulating the manner in which women operatives shall dress their hair.

In reply to Mr. Whitney the Minister of Education made a statement respecting the suggested establishment of a forestry chair at the University of Toronto, with a summer school in connection therewith at the Ontario Agricultural College.

The following bills were read a third time: Respecting the town of Newmarket. Mr. Richardson; to confer certain powers on the trustees of the estate of the late John Bacon. Mr. Foy; to confirm by-law No. 1,137 of Belleville, Mr. Morrison.

The bill to further extend the powers of the Consumers' Gas Company was read a third time on motion of Mr. Lucas, and the House was proceeding to the next order when Mr. Foy, who had not noticed this, protested that he had another amendment. It was thereupon agreed to allow the bill to stand.

COLONIZATION IN QUEBEC.

Legislature Just Opened Will Make It Feature of Session

Quebec, March 23.—The Provincial Legislature opened yesterday afternoon with the usual ceremonies. The speech from the throne congratulated the members on the continued great prosperity of the province, "and on the remarkable progress effected on the development of its resources during the past few years."

The negotiations with the Dominion Government as to fisheries are hopeful.

The importance of colonization work, "which seems to be the chief factor in our prosperity, and whose success will assuredly decide the policy of this province in the confederation" will be reported upon by the special committee appointed.

The importance of the readjustment of provincial subsidies, as provided last session, is being seriously considered by the Federal Government.

Among the bills to come is a measure concerning the revision of statutes passed since 1888, and another respecting accidents incident to labor.

There is again a surplus to announce.

Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured Mrs. Fletcher, of Petrolia.

She was so bad she could not get down to do her Housework—Quick Relief and Complete Cure.

Petrolea, March 23rd, (Special). —Few people in this vicinity are better known or more generally respected than Mrs. A. Fletcher of the Fletcher House, one of Petrolea's leading hotels, and her complete cure of a long standing case of rheumatism has caused a wide spread interest. Mrs. Fletcher says:—

"I had been troubled for a year with the worst kind of rheumatism. I was so bad that I could not get down to do my housework. The joints of my fingers were so swollen as to almost make two fingers, and the pain was awful. I had tried several remedies but none could help me.

"I heard of Dodd's Kidney Pills and I got one box and they gave me relief. I used five boxes and am now cured."

Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure Rheumatism. They put the kidneys in shape to take the uric acid out of the blood and the rheumatism goes with it.

VERDICT OF MANSLAUGHTER.

Crime Committed July 1 Last and Now to Be Punished.

Valleyfield, Que., March 23.—Yesterday afternoon a verdict of manslaughter was entered against the prisoner in the McCaig murder case. The trial has occupied the greater part of seven days and created great interest in the surrounding district. Over forty witnesses were examined, one coming all the way from Winnipeg.

On the first of July last at Huntingdon, Kilgour, the victim of the murder, was met by his companion, Toussaint Ouimei, and another man named Laberge. All three were indulging freely in liquor, when they met McCaig, and he and Kilgour stopped. Kilgour took off his coat and started to fight McCaig, striking him a heavy blow over the left eye, upon which McCaig drew a revolver and fired, the shot hitting Kilgour's watch and glancing off. He staggered back and McCaig fired, again, causing the fatal wound.

He was carried to the side of the road and left in the care of Miss Lillie Caldwell, a trained nurse, who had witnessed the shooting from the house where she was visiting. McCaig immediately made his escape, but was found at Trout River in a room in the Dolan Hotel, which is situated on the boundary between Canada and the United States. He was brought by force from the American to the Canadian side, where the warrant was served on him. They took him back to Huntingdon, thence to Valleyfield, to await his trial on a charge of murder.

NOT SUFFICIENT PROVOCATION.

Coroner's Jury Brings in Verdict on Death of John Mein.

Port Arthur, March 23.—The coroner's inquest into the death of John Mein was closed yesterday. After hearing all the evidence the jury brought in a verdict that death was caused by a shot from a revolver in the hands of Charles Donati, and in the opinion of the jury there was not sufficient provocation to warrant the use of firearms.

Mrs. Donati and her sister gave evidence, and according to their testimony the men were only acting in their usual manner in the store and at no time were they afraid of them. They did not try to molest the women when they went into the shop. Neither of them thought there was justification for the shooting.

A. M. McCutcheon and S. Campbell also gave evidence that Mein was shot while on the street.

With Bullet in Skull.

Vancouver, B.C., March 23.—John Spittal, a famous hunter and trapper, was found dead in his shack near Terra Nova Cannery, on the Fraser River, with a bullet hole in his skull and other indications of foul play. The door of the shack was secured on the outside with a padlock. Spittal's two guns are missing, and there was a coat in the room that did not belong to the dead man. Spittal had been missing for the past five weeks. No one had, in view of the cabin being locked, thought until yesterday of searching it for the lost man.

BALFOUR'S SHRINKING MAJORITY.

"We've Twisted Your Pigtails Now," Shouted Irish Member.

London, March 23.—The majority again fell very low last night in the House of Commons, a motion from the Irish benches censuring the Government's action with regard to Irish waterways being defeated by a majority of only sixteen.

The figures were greeted with prolonged Irish cheers, and a voice: "You shall drink to the dregs," while John Gordon Swift MacNeil, the member for South Donegal, amid laughter, shouted: "We've twisted your pigtails now."

Again a Majority of 96.

London, March 23.—(C.A.P.)—In a snap division in the House of Commons on the Irish drainage scheme, the Government only got sixteen of a majority, due to their supporters being out lunching. The result was received with prolonged Irish cheering, one member crying: "You shall drink it to the dregs." After frantic efforts the passing of the supplementary naval estimates was secured by a Government majority of ninety-six.

London, March 23.—(C.A.P.)—Lord Stanley, Postmaster-General, announced in the House of Commons yesterday that the Postoffice Department was negotiating for the purchase of the National Telephone Company. The Crutch

(soliloquizing)

"I HAVE STOOD BY THE OLD MAN FOR FIFTEEN LONG YEARS, AND NOW HE HAS TURNED ME DOWN FOR A BOX OF Bu-Ju. I FEEL ALL BROKEN UP OVER IT."

The doctor told him he had rheumatism as the result of kidney trouble—too much uric acid in the blood. The kidneys had failed to perform their proper functions, and a long, continuous, painful case of rheumatism is the result. He was obliged to use a crutch off and on for 15 years until he read an advertisement of

and provided himself with that never failing remedy for all kidney disorders, and in a short time was enabled to cast the crutch into the woodbox, to take part in the building of its own funeral pyre.

Many people are suffering from kidney trouble who are not aware of it. They are sick, and unfit for work, business or pleasure. There may be one or many of the symptoms arising from disordered kidneys and they are treating for symptoms instead of fighting the disease, which is kidney trouble.

Purified by Suffering

BY MARY J. HOLMES,

CHAPTER XXII.

It was three days before Christmas, and Katy was talking confidentially to Mrs. Banker, whom she had asked to see the next time she called.

"I want so much to surprise her," she said, speaking in a whisper, "and you have been so kind to us both that I thought it might not trouble you very much if I asked you to make the selection for me, and see to the engraving. Wilford gave me fifty dollars, all I needed, as I had fifty more of my own, and now that I have a baby, I am sure I shall never again care to go out."

"Yes," Mrs. Banker said, thoughtfully, as she rolled up the bills, "you wish me to get as heavy bracelets as I can find—for the hundred dollars."

"Yes," Katy replied, "I think that will please her, don't you?"

Mrs. Banker did not reply at once, for she felt certain that the hundred dollars could be spent in a manner more satisfactory to Helen. Still she hardly liked to interfere, until Katy, observing her hesitancy asked again if she did not think Helen would be pleased

"Yes, pleased with anything you choose to give her, but—excuse me, dear Mrs. Cameron, if I speak as openly as if I were the mother of you both. Bracelets are suitable for you who have everything else, but is there not something your sister needs more? Now, allowing me to suggest, I should say, buy her some furs, and let the bracelets go. In Silverton her furs were well enough, but here, as the sister of Mrs. Wilford Cameron, she is deserving of better."

Katy understood Mrs. Banker at once, her cheeks reddening as there flashed upon her the reason why Wilford had never yet been in the street with Helen, notwithstanding that she had more than once requested it.

"You are right," she said. "It was thoughtless in me not to think of this myself. Helen shall have the furs and whatever else is necessary. I am so glad you reminded me of it. You are as kind as my own mother," and Katy kissed her friend fondly as she bade her good-bye, charging her a dozen times not to let Helen know the surprise in store for her.

There was little need of this caution, for Mrs. Banker understood human nature too well to divulge a matter which might wound one as sensitive as Helen. Between the latter and herself there was a strong bond of friendship, and to the kind patronage of this lady Helen owed most of the attentions she had as yet received from her sister's friends, while Mark Ray did much toward lifting her to the place she held in spite of the common country dress, which Juno unsparingly criticised, and which, in fact, kept Wilford from taking her out as his wife so often asked him to do. And Helen, too, keenly felt the difference between herself and those with whom she came in contact, crying over it more than once, but never dreaming of the surprise in store for her, when on Christmas morning she went as usual to Katy's room, finding her alone, her face all aglow with excitement, and her bed a perfect show-case of dry goods, which she bade Helen examine and say how she liked them.

Wilford was no niggard with his money, and when Katy had asked for more it had been given unsparingly, even though he knew the purpose to which it was to be applied.

"Oh, Katy, Katy, why did you do it?" Helen cried, her tears falling like rain through the fingers she clasped over her eyes

"You are not angry?" Katy said, in some dismay, as Helen continued to sob without looking at the handsome furs, the stylish hat, the pretty cloak, and rich patterns of blue and black silk, which Mrs. Banker had selected.

"No, oh no!" Helen replied. "I know it was all meant well; but there is something in me which rebels against taking this from Wilford, and placing myself under so great obligation to him."

"It was a pleasure for him to do it," Katy said, trying to reassure her sister, until she grew calm enough to examine and admire the Christmas gifts upon which no expense had been spared. Much as we may ignore dress, and sinful as is an inordinate love for it, there is yet about it an influence for good, when the heart of the wearer is right, holding it subservient to all higher, holier affections. At least Helen Lennox found it so, when clad in her new garments, she drove with Mrs. Banker or returned Sybil Grandon's call, feeling that there was about her nothing for which Katy need to blush, or even Wilford, who was not afraid to be seen with her now, and Helen, while knowing the reason of the change, did not feel like quarreling with him for it, but accepted with a good-natured grace all that made her life in New York so happy. With Bell Cameron she was on the best of terms; while Sybil Grandon, always going with the tide, professed for her an admiration, which, whether fancied or real, did much toward making her popular; and when, as the mistress of her brother's house, she issued cards of invitation for a large party, she took especial pains to insist upon Helen's attending, even if Katy were not able. But from this Helen shrank. She could not meet so many strangers alone, she said, and so the matter was dropped, until Mrs. Banker offered to chaperone her, when Helen began to waver, changing her mind at last and promising to go.

Never since the days of her first party had Katy been so wild with excitement as she was in helping to dress Helen, who scarcely knew herself when, before the mirror, with the blaze of the chandelier falling upon her, she saw the picture of a young girl arrayed in rich pink silk, with an overskirt of lace, and the light pretty cloak, just thrown upon her uncovered neck, where Katy's pearls were shining.

"What would they say at home if they could only see you?" Katy exclaimed, throwing back the handsome cloak so as to show more of the well-shaped neck, gleaming so white beneath it.

"Aunt Betsy would say I had forgotten half my dress," Helen replied, blushing as she glanced at the arms, which never since childhood had been thus exposed to view, except at such times as her household duties had required it.

Even this exception would not apply to the low neck, at which Helen had long demurred, yielding finally to Katy's entreaties, but often wondering what Mark Ray would think, and if he would not be shocked. Mark Ray had been strangely blended with all Helen's thoughts as she submitted herself to Esther's practiced hands, and when the hair-dresser, summoned to her aid, asked what flowers she would wear, it was a thought of him which led her to select a single water lily, which looked as natural as if its bed had really been the bosom of Fairy Pond.

"Nothing else? Surely mademoiselle will have these few green leaves?" Celine had said, but Helen would have nothing save the lily, which was twined tastefully amid the heavy braids of the brown hair, whose length and luxuriance had thrown the hair-dresser into ecstasies of delight, and made Esther lament that in these days of false tresses no one would give Miss Lennox credit for what was wholly her own.

"You will be the belle of the evening," Katy said, as she kissed her sister good-night and then ran back to her baby, while Wilford, yielding to her importunities that he should not remain with her, followed Mrs. Banker's carriage in his own private conveyance, and was soon set down at Sybil Grandon's door.

Meanwhile, at the elder Cameron's there had been a discussion touching the propriety of their taking Helen under their protection, instead of leaving her for Mrs. Banker to chaperone, Bell insisting that it ought to be done, while the father swore roundly at Juno, who would not "be bothered with that country girl."

"You would rather leave her wholly to Mark Ray and his mother, I suppose," Bell said, adding, as she saw the flush on Juno's face: "You know you are dying of jealousy, and nothing annoys you so much as to hear people talk of Mark's attentions to Miss Lennox."

"Do they talk?" Mrs. Cameron asked quickly, while in her gray eyes there gleamed a light far more dangerous and threatening to Helen than Juno's open scorn.

Mrs. Cameron had long intended Mark Ray for her daughter, and accustomed to have everything bend to her wishes, she had come to consider the matter as certain, even though he had never proposed in words. He had done everything else, she thought, attending Juno constantly and frequenting their house so much that it was a standing joke for his friends to seek him there when he was not at home or at his office. Latterly, however, there had been a change, and the ambitious mother could not deny that since Helen's arrival in New York Mark had visited them less frequently and staid a shorter time, while she had more than once heard of him at her son's in company with Helen. Very rapidly a train of thought passed through her mind; but it did not manifest itself upon her face, which was composed and quiet as she decided with Juno that Helen should not trouble them. With the utmost care Juno arrayed herself for the party, thinking with a great deal of complacency how impossible it was for Helen Lennox to compete with her in point of dress.

"She is such a prude, I dare say she will go in that blue silk, with the long sleeves and high neck, looking like a Dutch doll," she said to Bell, as she shook back the folds of her rich crimson, and turned her head to see the effect of her wide braids of hair.

"I am not certain that a high dress is worse than bones," Bell retorted, playfully touching Juno's neck, which though white and gracefully formed, was shockingly guiltless of flesh.

There was an angry reply, and then, wrapping her cloak about her, Juno went out to their carriage, and was ere long one of the gay crowd thronging Sybil Grandon's parlors. Helen had not yet arrived, and Juno was hoping she would not come, when there was a stir at the door and Mrs. Banker appeared, and with her Helen Lennox, but so transformed that Juno hardly knew her, looking twice ere sure that the beautiful young lady, so wholly self-possessed, was the country girl she affected to despise.

"Who is she?" was asked by many, who at once acknowledged her claims to their attention, and as soon as practicable sought her acquaintance, so that Helen suddenly found herself the centre of a little court of which she was the queen and Mark her sworn knight.

Presuming upon his mother's chaperonage, he claimed the right of attending her, and Juno's glory waned as effectually as it had done when Katy was the leading star to which New York paid homage.

Juno had been annoyed then, but now fierce jealousy took possession of her heart as she watched the girl whom all seemed to admire, even Wilford feeling a thrill of pride that the possession of so attractive a sister-in-law reflected credit upon himself.

He was not ashamed of her now, nor did he retain a single thought of the farm-house or Uncle Ephraim as he made his way to her side, standing protectingly at her left, just as Mark was standing at her right, and at last asking her to dance.

But Mark did not heartily respond. He, too, had solicited Helen as a partner when the dancing first commenced, and her quiet refusal had disappointed him a little, for Mark was fond of dancing, and though as a general thing he disapproved of waltzes and polkas when he was the looker-on, he felt that there would be something vastly agreeable and exhilarating in clasping Helen in his arm and whirling her about the room just as Juno was being whirled by a young cadet, a friend of Lieutenant Bob's. But when he reflected that not his arm alone would encircle her waist, or his breath touch her neck, he was glad she did not dance, and professing a weariness he did not feel, he declined to join the dancers on the floor, but kept with Helen, enjoying what she enjoyed, and putting her so perfectly at her ease that no one would ever have dreamed of the curdy cheeses she had made, or the pounds of butter she had churned. But Mark thought of it as he secretly admired the neck and arms, seen once before, on that memorable day when he assisted Helen in the labors of the dairy. If nothing else had done so, the lily in her hair would have brought that morning to his mind, and once as they walked up and down the hall he spoke of the ornament she had chosen, and how well it became her.

"Pond lilies are my pets," he said, "and I have kept one of those I gathered when at Silverton. Do you remember them?" and his eyes rested upon Helen with a look which made her blush as she answered yes; but she did not tell him of the little box at home, made of cones and acorns, where was hidden a withered water lily, which she could not throw away even after its beauty and fragrance had departed.

Had she told him this, it might have put to flight the doubts troubling Mark so much, and making him wonder if Dr. Grant had really a claim upon the girl stealing his heart so fast.

"I mean to sound her," he thought, and as Lieutenant Bob passed by, making some jocose remark about his offending all the fair ones by the course he was taking, Mark said to Helen, who suggested returning to the parlor:

"As you like, though it cannot matter, a person known to be engaged is above Bab Reynold's jokes."

Quick as thought the blood stained Helen's face and neck, for Mark had made a most egregious blunder, giving her the impression that he was the engaged one referred to, not herself, and for a moment she forgot the gay scene around her in the sharpness of the pang with which she recognized all that Mark Ray was to her.

MRS. WALTER MANTHORNE, BROOKLYN, N.S.

She says: "I suffered for three years with terrible headaches and rushing of blood to my head. I lost my appetite and became very thin and weak. I tried many different remedies and consulted doctors, but all in vain until I started to use Burdock Blood Bitters. I had not taken more than two bottles when I began to feel better, my appetite improved wonderfully and I increased rapidly in weight. I took altogether four bottles and am now as well as can be, for which I owe my thanks to Burdock Blood Bitters. I can recommend it to all those suffering as I did."

AT HALF MAST.

Sometimes we are greeted in the morning by flags at half-mast for some prominent official who yesterday was apparently in perfect health. When we inquire the ailment by which he was stricken it is not uncommon to be told "acute indigestion" or "stomach trouble."

It is time people learned that indigestion or any form of "stomach trouble" is not a thing to trifle with. The result may not be fatal, but there can be no condition of diseased stomach which does not carry with it physical loss and weakness.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures indigestion and other forms of disease affecting the stomach and its allied organs of digestion and nutrition. It enables the perfect digestion and assimilation of food.

"Thanks to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery," writes Mr. Charles H. German, of Lehighton, Pa. "It is the only medicine that has done me any good. I tried everything I could think of to cure indigestion, and found I was only throwing away money. Then I heard of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and tried a bottle of it, and to my joy found it was doing me good. I used six bottles of it, and am now cured. It is the best medicine on earth."

This grand remedy does its work in a thorough manner; it gives the health that is all health; the strength that is solid, substantial and lasting; not flabby fat, not false stimulus, but genuine, complete, renewed vitality and life force.

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

LATEST SPORT

T. A. S. LACROSSE CLUB HAVE ORGANIZED.

Will Likely Enter the Trent Valley League.

No Entangling Alliances with Outsiders to Encourage "Home Talent."

An enthusiastic meeting of St. Peter's, T.A.S. lacrosse club was held in the lecture room of that organization last evening, and the large number of players and supporters present emphasized the fact that lacrosse will boom in T.A.S. circles this summer.

Several important matters were considered during the evening and the remarks of the different speakers breathed a determination on the part of one and all to have a club that would bring honour to the T.A.S. All strongly expressed themselves in favour of encouraging home talent, especially the junior element, and under no circumstance would the practice of encouraging "tourists" or outside players in order to have a winning team, be resorted to. It was felt that the interests of the players as a whole would be better served and the cause advanced, more successfully by taking this stand.

Then again, the fact was emphasized, and very strongly too, that all members of the team must be practical total abstainers. This rule will be enforced to the letter by the management.

Another very important matter was discussed by the meeting and that was the question of encouraging a league in the district, such as the proposed Trent Valley league. It seemed to be the concensus of opinion that the formation of such a league in the district would be an excellent move, and while no definite action was taken it seemed to be the opinion of all present that the T.A.S. team would advance their own interests better by not becoming identified with the C.L.A. No fault was found with that body however. Last season was the first in which the T.A.S. club was connected with the C.L.A. and the management have nothing but words of praise for the manner in which their requests were considered by that body.

The object of sport in connection with the T.A.S. was not for the purpose solely of achieving victories, but rather to encourage athletics among the young men. It was to work in conjunction with the great object of total abstinence — giving them sound minds and sound bodies. It was felt that in order to advance in the C.L.A. the rules governing amateur sport are seriously violated at times by some clubs who believe in "winning at any price." This has a tendency it was felt to demoralize sport, and the T.A.S. this season will therefore encourage "home brews" and build up their young athletes.

Mr. William Crowley occupied the chair and in a neat speech laid before those present the objects of the meeting and the necessity for careful consideration of the different questions to be dealt with.

The Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. T. J. Begley, presented his report of the season's work, which was adopted.

Rev. Dr. O'Brien was present and addressed the meeting. He briefly reviewed the history of athletics in connection with the Society. He pointed out that the primary reason for the organization of the T.A.S. Clubs, was the promotion of the cause of temperance. The T.A.S. did not pretend to be simply a sporting organization or athletic club, but used these and many other legitimate means to further a noble cause and obtain a praiseworthy object. In pursuing this course they had spent a great deal of money on necessary supplies from which they have had no material return, they improved the Murray street grounds at great expense and had erected a grand stand for the accommodation of their friends and patrons. For the same reason winter sport has been nurtured by the Society.

As things developed propositions have been made the Society to enter different leagues, in nearly every case these requests have been acceeded to with varying success. However, this was accidental, and at first was not intended, in fact it proved a temptation to sometimes tolerate undesirable players on the lacrosse team. Still beginners may easily make mistakes, but if they profit by experience these mistakes will turn to good. Dr. O'Brien then recalled the conditions for membership in the different organizations in connection with the Society and announced that these would be scrupulously adhered to in future. He hoped that a lacrosse team would be formed and could not see any reason for feelings of hostility. He had been speaking to many of the town's leading men and they had encouraged the policy of the T.A.S. For himself he would not understand why the Society's clubs should sometimes be in disfavour, especially when their history, and the reasons for their existence are considered.

When the lacrosse team was organized there was no town team — hadn't been for years. The majority of our present players were never recognized as such until going on the society's team. In regard to hockey a stranger state of affairs existed. Some of the men on the present champion T.A.S. team had been given credit but a few winters ago of being the chief actors in bringing hockey championships to town, yet when the T.A.S. team was organized they found these men free to enroll, having been overlooked by the Peterborough hockey team. The Society had not formed a football club simply because one exists already and apparently needs the co-operation of the T. A. S. men on it.

Hence the T.A.S. men have not ruptured the established order of things. Nor have they in any way interfered with clubs already in existence, but have been quite content with men who, if they had not been playing with the T. A. S. would not be playing at all. The success which has crowned these efforts should be a cause for praise rather than blame.

He hoped the feelings which unfortunately sometimes manifested themselves would ultimately change, because it is certainly discouraging to find our own townspeople supporting an outside team playing against the T.A.S.

The next question of the formation of the club came up for consideration, and all of last year's players who were present expressed themselves strongly in favour of organizing for the coming season.

The following officers were then nominated:—

Hon. President—Dr. O'Brien.

President—M. Hickey, F. McFadden, W. Crowley.

1st Vice-President — John Hayes, J. P. Shevlin, Jas. Hickey, Jas. Dorris, T. McCabe.

2nd Vice-President — John McCabe, O. O'Neil, R. J. Begley, D. Holland.

Manager — Jas. Hickey, J. McCabe, Wm. Grady.

Executive — W. Donovan, Jos. Mahar, W. Grady, M. Hickey, J. O'Brien, O. O'Neil, J. McCabe.

Grounds Committee — A. J. Sharpe, T. Corkery, R. J. Begley, Geo. Ahern, John O'Brien, J. Hayes, J. P. Shevlin, C. Theobald, A. Dorris, Jas. Hickey, Jos. Mahar.

The election of officers will take place next Monday evening, when further nominations will also be received for the different offices.

Another very important matter considered was the holding of several field days or athletic tournaments in connection with the T.A.S., which would have a tendency to encourage the different branches of athletics and develop the young men of the society.

BASKET-BALL.

Mr. Ernie Best, manager of the Peterborough Y. M. C. A. basketball team has arranged for a trip for the team to be taken in a couple of weeks. During the past month the members of the team have been putting in some good hard practice and should be in good condition to give the best team a good argument. They will probably play a game here next week with one of the best Toronto teams and during the following week will take a trip, playing in Hamilton, and in Toronto, playing with the Western and Central Y.M.C.A. teams. The team will be: Forwards, N. Miller, E. Fitzpatrick; centre, Hodgson; backs, W. Campbell, W. Richardson.

WRESTLING.

Billy Smith, the Toronto wrestler, who is to box to-night at the athletic event in the opera house, arrived in town on Tuesday night and is in the pink of condition for his bout with Campbell. The latter arrived in town this morning from St. John, N. B., and is confident of being able do give Smith an interesting time. Considerable speculation is being indulged in on the outcome of the Gauthier-McDonough wrestling bout. Both men have a large following and the event will be an interesting one.

PUCKERINGS.

ABERDEENS 5; FORWARDS 0.

A very interesting game of hockey was played in the Brock street rink last night between the Aberdeens and Forwards, the former winning by the score of 5 to 0. Owing to considerable water covering the ice the play was not as fast as the boys are capable of doing. Charlie Ray and Albert Harrison were the stars of the Aberdeens, while Roy Thornton and Victor Carton showed up the best for the forwards. The teams lined up as follows: Aberdeens.—Goal, H. Hickey; point, A. Harrison; cover point, E. Fox; forwards, C. Ray, L. Bordale, S. Wade, H. Harrison.

Forwards.—Goal, C. Stevens; point, R. Thornton; cover point, E. Ayers; forwards, E. Harrison, H. Bellegham, G. Lang, V. Carton. Mr. W. McCormack, of Barrie's Bodellas made a satisfactory referee.

The Charges Against Jesse Arries Enlarged for until Tuesday.

When P. C. Adams opened the door leading to the police court at 10.25 this morning an immense crowd thronged its way upstairs, and shouldered and crowded in order to get a prominent position in which to see the young man, Jesse Arries, and hear the evidence in the cases against him. But the throng was disappointed. Police Magistrate Dumble was in Lindsay on business, and His Worship Mayor Roger, who was on the bench, enlarged the cases until Tuesday morning, March 29th.

EASTERTIDE AT HOOPER'S

Those who want to see something unique in the way of candy boxes should call at T. Hooper's and see his display for Easter. One, the most curious is a large black rooster in full fighting trim looking fierce enough to make things interesting were he only alive. Then there are white roosters, small stuffed chickens and ducks, with their soft downy forms looking as natural as possible which, when pressed by loving hands omit a noise something like the familiar sound real chickens make when they see good eating ahead. Another pretty novelty is the little silk chicken which is just the right size to be used with a box of G.B.'s for your Easter gift to your best girl. These pretty novelties are made by the deft fingered Japanese and show the same taste and ingenuity that is evident in all thir work.

All sizes of candy eggs and pretty baskets filled with sweets are on the list of good things with which to make the children joyous at Easter. They are not expensive and are pretty and tasty.

A new shipment of those favourite G.B.'s has been received for the Easter Trade. We can fill you a nice fresh box and make it look particularly pretty for an Easter gift if you call on us. T. H. Hooper. Two stores, Corner of George and Brock streets, and 327 George street. 2d

Japanese Sink Seven Ships Before Port Arthur.

Vice-Admiral Togo's Report of the Bombardment of Port Arthur on the 22nd of March—Russia Professes to be Greatly Alarmed Lest China's Neutrality Should be Violated by the Japs.

London, March 25.—The Daily Telegraph publishes a despatch from its Tokio correspondent, under yesterday's date, which says:

"On the night of March 22 the Japanese fleet renewed the attempt to bottle up Port Arthur. Sixteen warships escorted seven merchant steamers to the mouth of the harbor, and under cover of the bombardment, the steamers run in and were sunk in desired positions. Three hundred Japanese officers and bluejackets volunteered for this duty. An official report is expected this evening."

Vice-Admiral Togo's Report.

Tokio, March 25.—Vice-Admiral Togo's report of the fifth attack on Port Arthur, which was made on March 22, reached Tokio last night, and is as follows:

"The combined fleet acted according to the plan arranged. Two flotillas of destroyers were outside Port Arthur, as instructed, from the night of the 21st until the morning of the 22nd. Although during this time our destroyers were under the fire of the enemy, they sustained no damage. The main fleet arrived off Port Arthur at 8 o'clock on the morning of the 22nd. I despatched a part of the fleet in the direction of Pigeon Bay, and ordered the battleships Puji and Yashima to make an indirect bombardment against the inner side of the port. During the bombardment the enemy's ships gradually came out of the harbor, and at the time when the indirect bombardment stopped, which was about 2 o'clock, the number of Russian ships was five battleships, four cruisers and several destroyers. We believed the enemy was trying by making a movement of their fleet, to draw us near the forts. The enemy's ships shelled us indirectly, and many of their shells fell near the battleship Fuji, but our ships sustained no damage. About 3 o'clock our vessels withdrew off the port."

To Drop Dynamite.

New York, March 25.—Commissioned, he says, by the Japanese Government to experiment with war balloons and airships, and if possible to develop his plans of dropping dynamite on warships, Santos Dumont, the Brazilian aeronaut, is on the Kronprinz Wilhelm of the North German Lloyd Line, speeding eastward upon his secret mission for the Mikado, says The American. Prior to leaving this city on Monday, Santos Dumont confided his purpose to friends, and said he intended to proceed directly to Japan. He will take one of his airships stored in Paris.

Chinese Neutrality.

St. Petersburg, March 25.—Although slow to believe that Japan deliberately contemplates a violation of her pledge to restrict neutral Chinese territory, the reports received at the Ministry of War are so specific that they compel consideration. The presence of disguised Japanese soldiers acting as spies along the Shanhaikwan road has been established, and Russian agents report there is every indication of an intended landing on the west coast of the Gulf of Liaotung.

Japs Engaging Chinese.

London, March 25.—The Daily Mail's Shanhaikwan correspondent says that the Japanese are secretly engaging Chinese to act as irregular corps.

Orders to Wirenius.

St. Petersburg, March 25.—Orders have been cabled to Admiral Wirenius to keep his squadron at Piraeus, Greece, until further instructed.

Harbin Fortified.

According to information received here, strong fortifications have been erected for the defence of Harbin and Liaoyang.

Russia's New War Minister.

Paris, March 25.—A despatch to The Temps from St. Petersburg says Gen. Sakharoff, chief of the general staff, who has been acting minister of war, has been appointed minister of war, to succeed Gen. Kuropatkin.

The Trent Valley Canal.

Peterboro, March 25.—The Boards of Trades and Municipalities of Peterboro, Orillia, Midland, Port Hope, Trenton, Lindsay, Belleville and Campbellford had representatives present at the meeting here of the Transportation Commission yesterday. In addition were many independent promoters of the Trent Valley Canal venture, business men, manufactures from different towns, ship owners, mill owners and others, who control the industrial life of Central Ontario. A ton of data was submitted. The speeches of the various delegates were confined necessarily to the briefest outline of the subject. Little contentious matter developed. Delegates as a whole seemed to think the securing of a verdict that the canal was a commercial possibility to be constructed as rapidly as money could accomplish it was the first object.

Dr. Parkin Talks.

New York, March 25.—Yesterday Dr. Parkin said there were ninety-six scholarships to be distributed in America and Canada. The preliminary examinations would be held on April 13 simultaneously in all the States and provinces.

Toronto, March 25.—Toronto University will present nine candidates for the Rhodes scholarships of 1904. Their names are: E. H. Oliver, B. A., E. R. Paterson, B. A., and H. G. Wallace, B. A. (graduates); G. P. Bryce, T. B. McQuesten and E. W. Wallace (fourth year); J. F. Boland, R. C. Reade and B. A. Upsholl (third year).

THE LIGHT OF ASIA

Its Distinguished Author, Sir Edwin Arnold, is Dead.

HIS WIFE A JAPANESE LADY

Poet of the Orient and Famous Leader Writer The Recipient of Many British and Foreign Decoratiess—Noted Sanscrit Scholar—Works Dealing With His Study of the Ancient Language.

London, March 25.—Sir Edwin Arnold, K.C.I.E., C.S.I., poet, orientalist and journalist, died here yesterday morning in his 72nd year. Although suffering of late years from partial paralysis, his condition did not become critical until last week, when he gradually lost strength. He had a serious relapse early yesterday morning, from which he did not rally, and passed peacefully away at 10.30 o'clock.

Sir Edwin Arnold was born at Gravesend on June 10, 1832, and was the second son of Robert Coles Arnold, J.P., of Whartons, Framfield, Sussex. Educated first at King's school, Rochester, and King's College, London, he passed to University College, Oxford, where he graduated with honors in 1854. In the previous year he won the Newdigate prize for the best English poem on "The Feast of Belshazzar," thus following in the footsteps of another and greater poet of the Victorian age—Alfred, Lord Tennyson. Upon his graduation he became master of King Edward's school, Birmingham, but in 1856 proceeded to India as principal of the Government Deccan College at Poona, Bombay, where he remained till 1861. It was this appointment which turned his attention to oriental literature and philosophy, and particularly to the life and teaching of the great Indian prophet, Buddha. The results of these studies bore fruit in his translations from the Sanscrit and in his Indian poems—particularly "The Light of Asia"—an epic of the Buddha, which has enjoyed a large measure of popular favor, and of which over one hundred editions have appeared.

In 1861 Arnold returned to England and became a member of the staff of The London Daily Telegraph, with which he remained associated for upwards of thirty years, his editorial contributions alone totalling 8,000 columns. It was his orientally flowery and picturesque style of writing that provoked so much mild fun and apt parody at the hands of his contemporary brethren and became widely known as "Telegraphese." But his articles met the public taste and were quite a feature of the great daily whose pride it was to boast of "the largest circulation in the City of London," till younger and more lively sheets pushed it from its throne.

It was in 1879 he issued "The Light of Asia," perhaps his best, certainly his most widely-read book. Among the rewards it brought him was one from the King of Siam, one of the heads of the Buddhist faith, who appointed Sir Edwin an officer of the Order of the White Elephant and grand commander of the Crown of Siam. Other of his works dealing with his Sanscrit studies are "The Indian Song of Songs," "Sadi in the Garden," "The Song Celestial" and "The Light of the World."

In later life he visited Japan and became an enthusiastic admirer of the land of the Chrysanthemum, and his earnest advocacy no doubt tended to create the sympathetic attitude adopted by the British people towards the Britons of the East. In due course he was made a member of the Order of the Rising Sun of Japan, and further cemented the bond by marrying, in 1897, en troisieme noces, Miss Tama Kurokawa of Sendia, Japan. Sir Edwin was married first in 1851 to Katharine Elizabeth, daughter of the Rev. Theo. Biddulph. She died in 1861 and his second wife, Fannie, daughter of the Rev. W. H. Channing of Boston, Mass., died in 1889. Sir Edwin was a many-sided man, even in his recreations, describing himself as sportsman, yachtsman, traveler and cyclist. The late Queen Victoria, on the occasion of her proclamation as Empress of India, named him a companion of the Order of the Star of India, and in 1888 created him a Knight Commander of the Indian Empire.

Sir Edwin continued his literary labors until almost the day of his death, his last article being one connected with the Russo-Japanese war. Carrying his oriental ideas with him to the last, his body will be cremated in accordance with his own wishes.

TRIPPED ON A STONE.

Cheese Maker Dougald McGregor Lose Life By Gun Discharge.

Brantford, March 25.—A shooting accident took place about three miles north of here yesterday afternoon, in which Dougald McGregor, a cheese maker, lost his life. McGregor had just come out of the cheese factory with a loaded shot-gun, when he tripped on a stone. In some way the charge exploded, and the unfortunate fellow received the contents in the breast. A farmer passing on the road, noticing McGregor in a stooping posture, investigated the matter. McGregor had only time to say faintly "I've shot myself," when he fell back unconscious. Medical aid was summoned, but when the injured man was being conveyed to the Brantford Hospital he expired. It is likely an inquest will be held.

Nervous Women

The relation of the nerves and generative organs in women is so close that nine-tenths of the Nervous Prostration, Nervous Debility, the Blues, Sleeplessness and Nervous Irritability arises from some derangement of the organism which makes her a woman. Fits of Depression or Restlessness and Irritability. Spirits easily affected, so that one minute she laughs, the next minute weeps. Pain in the ovaries and between the shoulders. Loss of voice, nervous dyspepsia. A tendency to cry at the least provocation. All this points to Nervous Prostration. Although you may not know it, in nine cases out of ten this is caused by some uterine disorder, and the nerves centering in and about the organs which make you a woman influence your entire system. Nothing will relieve this distressing condition and prevent months of prostration and suffering so surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Will not the volumes of letters from women made strong by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound convince all women of its virtues? Surely you cannot wish to remain sick and weak and discouraged, exhausted each day, when you can as easily be cured as the two women whose genuine letters follow, and thousands of others.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Words cannot tell what I suffered before taking your medicine. I am 28 years old and the mother of four children, the last two being only 16 months apart. I was all run down, had fainting spells, palpitation of the heart, and was so bad with womb trouble that I could not be on my feet but a short time before I would have to lie down. Also was troubled with leucorrhœa. I was nervous and could not sleep, and at times wished I could die.

"A friend insisted on my giving your medicine a fair trial, which I did. I began to feel better before the first bottle was half gone, and after using five bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and three packages of Sanative Wash, I was a different woman. I owe my good health to-day to you, and I will never suffer again while you make such good medicine. I will always speak a good word for your remedies. My little girl was troubled with her kidneys, and one bottle of your Vegetable Compound has entirely cured her."—MRS. KITTIE B. PETERSON, Jenison, Mich.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I want to thank you for the good your medicine has done me. When I wrote you last July I was so weak and nervous that I could not endure the sight of work. I was in a terrible condition, so nervous that it took all my strength of will to keep from convulsions. The doctors did me no good. My heart troubled me, would have spells of skipping beats and would flutter, I had such a feeling of dread and fear about me all the time I was afraid to go anywhere.

"I commenced taking your remedies as you advised me, and in one week I felt better than I had in a whole year before, and the gain was steady. Day by day the bad symptoms disappeared. My appetite returned and I was able to go to bed at night and sleep like a child. In all I took nine bottles of your Vegetable Compound and seven of your Blood Purifier, and would say to all suffering women, do not stop at a few bottles, but keep on. In three months I was able to return home, and have since done the housework for a family of six. It does not seem possible that I am the same person that suffered so a year ago."—MRS. T. J. FAUGHT, Leslie, Michigan.

WEDDING BELLS.

Miss Ellen Stewart Married to Mr. Jas. Northey.

A quiet but pretty wedding took place on March 16th, at seven o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, Lakeview Farm, Young's Point, when Miss Ellen Stewart, daughter of Mr. Jas. Northey, became the bride of Mr. W. N. Miler, eldest son of Mr. Wm. Miler, of Dummer. The ceremony was performed by Rev. T. W. Laggatt in the presence of the intimate friends of the contracting parties.

The bride entered the room on the arm of her father, amid the strains of the wedding march, rendered by Mrs. J. R. Northey. Miss Lillie, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid. The ring was carried in a basket of flowers by her little sister Stella. The groom was ably supported by Mr. W. A. Rosborough. The bride looked charming, gowned in cream silk voile over taffeta and wore the usual bridal veil, and carried a sheath bouquet of white carnations. The bridesmaid wore cream silk and carried pink carnations. The ring bearer looked pretty in pink silk. The house was tastefully decorated for the pleasing event, the bridal party standing under an arch of evergreens, decorated with ribbons. After the nuptial knot was securely fastened and the happy couple were tendered the congratulations and best wishes of their many friends, the guests sat down to a very tempting dinner. The tables were beautifully decorated and the spacious dining room was taxed to its utmost capacity. Dinner being over the party indulged in games and songs. The bride received many costly and useful presents. The groom's present to the bride was a handsome gold watch chain. The bridesmaid received a gold brooch and the flower girl, a bracelet. The happy couple left for their home 'mid showers of rice, and followed by the best wishes of their many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Miler will take up their residence in Dummer.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT TO MR. P. ROACHE.

Was Kicked by Horse and Bone Dislocated—Mr. Lancaster's Death.

Keene, March 23rd. — While Mr. Pat Roache was fixing up his horses this evening after his day's work, one of the animals kicked him on the leg a few inches above the ankle. The blow was of such force that the ankle joint was completely dislocated, the outer bone fractured and the inner bone splintered. The limb was dressed by Dr. McWilliams, assisted by Dr. Shaw, and so painful was the wound that it was necessary to administer chloroform. Had it not been for the heavy boot worn by Mr. Rutherford the accident might have been even worse.

Mr. William Lancaster of the 1st concession of Otonabee died on Wednesday. The deceased was unmarried and has always lived with his brothers John and Thomas of Hastings, and one sister, Mrs. W. Harris of Otonabee.

Mrs. Noble Graham, of Peterborough, with her little daughter, is spending a few days with her grandfather, Mr. John Kindred.

A FATAL ACCIDENT.

Railway Construction Foreman, Richard Kelly, Killed Instantly By Dynamite.

Keewatin, Ont., March 24.—A fatal accident occurred at Foley Bros. and Lawson's railway construction camp, about three miles west of Keewatin, resulting in the death of an old man, and injuries to two others. While the foreman, Richard Kelly, was drilling out a miss hole, he accidentally struck the cap or exploder, causing the dynamite to explode, literally blowing him into atoms. A fragment of rock also struck a teamster named Philip Mercier, who was about 30 feet distant from Kelly, injuring him slightly about the head. A laborer named A. Turner was also struck by a small piece of rock falling on his great toe.

Reserve Force.

The healthy body has a certain amount of strength reserved in case of emergency, attacks by disease or unusual physical exhaustion. Without this power of resistance a person is an easy prey to every ill that comes along. By enriching the blood and creating new nerve cells, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food keeps the health at high water mark and fills the body with the vigour and vitality that overcomes and defies disease.

Out of Work, Kills Himself.

Jail Governor Swears That He Made a Full Confession.

Montreal, March 24.—It looks as if the fate of Bellanger, the alleged murderer of Antoine Seguin at St. Eustache, is sealed. Detective McCaskill swore that the prisoner had confessed to the crime, and yesterday the Crown sprung a real sensation in the court. Governor Mileau of the St. Scholastique jail swore that the prisoner had confessed to him the whole story of the murder. Bellanger told him he had gone to Montreal, bought a gun from Mr. Lafleur, Notre Dame street, and shot his brother-in-law in the face. "We were alone," he added, "when I fired, and he must have been dead before he fell to the ground. I then went to the house and had a sleep. In the evening I went to a neighbor's house to pass the evening with my family, but I returned home, took the body and brought it to the barn. Mr. Mileau added that the murderer told him he had hid the gun in the mow and had since his arrest asked one of his brothers to remove the weapon.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT.

Gilbert Mackenzie Injured Immediately After Buying a Revolver.

London, March 24.—Gilbert M. Mackenzie, a commercial man from Toronto, was shot yesterday morning in this city. It is supposed that the affair was accidental. Mackenzie went into Brock's gun store and purchased a 22-calibre revolver. He had it loaded, and, placing it in the left breast pocket of his overcoat, turned and walked away. The clerks in the store immediately heard a muffled explosion and heard the man gasp. The revolver, which was not fitted with double action, had exploded in his pocket, he said. The ambulance was called and he was removed to Victoria Hospital, where it was found that the wound was not dangerous. The bullet had gone into the left breast and had taken a downward course, glancing off one of the ribs. Bert Mackenzie, a son of the injured man, who resides in Toronto, was notified.

EXTENDING THE ACT

Board of Education Act Applicable to All Cities and Towns.

TO AMALGAMATE THE BOARDS

Railway Taxes Increased—Province to Get $250,000 Per Annum Extra From Them—Legislature Discussed Municipal Taxation Bill in Committee—Assessment of Coal, Lumber and Wood Dealers.

Toronto, March 25.—The Minister of Education introduced in the Legislature yesterday a bill to provide for the amalgamation of high school, public school, technical school and library boards into a Board of Education, as in Toronto, in any city or town, on a majority vote of the Municipal Council, at a meeting called specially for the purpose of discussing the question. Since the establishment of the Board of Education in Toronto petitions have been received by the Government from a number of municipalities, asking that the act be extended.

The Premier did not introduce his supplementary revenue bill, but it is understood that it will provide for a new tax on railways to the extent of $50 per mile, which will bring $250,000 per annum extra into the Provincial Treasury.

Premier's Conservative Follower.

An amusing incident arose just as the House was adjourning. Mr. Hugh Clarke, the Conservative member for Centre Bruce, rising in his place, said:

"As a follower of the Premier on this question, I would like to know when he proposes to introduce his temperance bill?"

"I shall be delighted," came the answer from the Premier promptly, "to inform my followers at the earliest possible moment."

At the suggestion of Mr. Whitney the motion of Premier Ross, providing that Government measures be given precedence on and after Friday, was amended, making it effective on and after Wednesday. In regard to the Easter holidays, the Premier suggested that the House rise on Thursday at 6 o'clock and resume on Tuesday. Mr. Crawford proposed an adjournment until Wednesday. It will be decided later.

Petitions and Bills.

Among the petitions was one by Mr. Hoyle, signed by 350 ratepayers of Mara and Rama Townships, County of Ontario, praying that no change be made in the original survey of the Toronto & James Bay Railway in those townships.

The following bills were read a third time: Respecting the Separate Schools of Sturgeon Falls; enabling and directing the Royal College of Dental Surgeons to admit John Gorman as a student in the fourth year.

Hon. Mr. Harcourt, in committee on the bill to amend the university act by enabling it to strike from the rolls any graduate guilty of crime, added a clause to provide that Trinity graduates may vote at the next election for the Chancellor and members of the Senate. This election takes place before October next, and federation will not be completed until that time, hence the necessity of the amendment. Another clause corrected an entry in a registry office affecting the university lands.

Hon. Mr. Gibson introduced a bill to amend the Division Courts act by providing that a mortgage may be taken in execution of a judgment; that with regard to the jurisdiction of the court the amount due shall not be deemed as ascertained by the signature of the defendant when it is necessary to refer to other evidence or documents; and in other particulars.

Taxation Proposals.

Almost the whole of the afternoon was spent in a consideration of the Taxation Bill. When the clause referring to the rate of interest to be charged on arrears of taxes, which is fixed at 10 per cent. was reached, Mr. Whitney, Mr. St. John and others thought it should be 6 per cent.; but the Attorney-General backed up by members on both sides, insisted on 10 per cent., and after a protracted debate the clause was left over.

A clause was added that assessments made under the old law will still be binding when the new act comes in force Jan. 1, 1905. The clause is necessary in cities like Toronto, where it will not be possible under the new regulations to prepare this year the assessment for 1905. In cities like Toronto the act will not come into force until 1906.

Business Tax a Snag.

During the evening session the committee went to the end of the bill without encountering any trouble, and then turned back to some clauses on which there is much difference of opinion. The business assessment was the first snag.

Mr. Rickard moved an amendment that coal, wood and timber be put on a 25 per cent. basis. This would be a little more than these merchants are paying now.

Mr. Hoyle said the committee was unanimous on this, for the reason that the premises occupied by coal merchants are comparatively inexpensive.

T. H. Preston said several of the Special Committee thought the tax should be on 100 per cent. basis.

The Attorney-General said lumber should not be classed with coal and wood. There might be ground for complaint so far as coal and wood dealers are concerned.

Mr. Whitney said he had not heard any dissatisfaction with the bill. He did not know that it was perfect by any means, but if they began to make changes, there was no telling where they would stop.

Col. Matheson declared the business tax was a makeshift, and he read some letters showing the hardships that would have to be borne by some classes of business under the act.

Will You Write a Postal

So a Sick One May Get Well?

Send no money—simply a postal card, giving the name of some one who needs help. Tell me the book to send.

Then I will do this: I will arrange with a druggist near him so that he may take six bottles of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. He may take it a month at my risk. If it succeed the cost is $5.50. If it fail, the druggist will bill the cost to me.

That month's test will show you what the remedy can do. It is the easiest way to induce all who need help to accept it.

I make this offer to multiply my cures, and I am willing to trust that cured ones to be fair with me.

In the past 12 years I have furnished my Restorative to hundreds of thousands of sick ones on just those terms, and 39 out of 40 have paid gladly because they got well. I pay just as willingly when one says I have failed.

The remedy is my discovery, the result of a lifetime's work. I have perfected it by watching results in thousands of the most difficult cases that physicians ever meet. I know what it is.

My success comes from strengthening weak inside nerves, and my Restorative is the only remedy that does that. When an organ is weak I bring back the nerve power which alone operates every vital organ. It is like giving an engine more steam. I give the weak organ power to do its duty, and there is no other way to make a wea korgan well.

Can you conceive of a sick one who will neglect such a treatment, when I take the entire risk?

Address Dr. Shoop, Box 47, Racine, Wis.

At the Doctor's Risk.

Mr. McKay would not vote to change the clause until he was convinced that the 50 per cent. basis would be a hardship on the coal dealers of Toronto. It might be advisable to make it apply to cities over 50,000.

If there was to be an exception in the case of coal dealers in Toronto, why not for printers and publishers? asked Mr. Preston. As there appeared to be considerable difference of opinion on the question the clause was left for further consideration.

On motion of Hon. Mr. Stratton, a select committee, composed of Messrs. Henry Carscallen, John Smith, Graham, Kribs, Caldwell, Barr and Dickenson, was appointed to consider the bill relating to stationery engineers.

Grand Trunk Wants Bonus.

Toronto, March 25.—The Ontario Government is considering an application from the Grand Trunk Pacific for a subsidy for its branch line to run from some point on Thunder Bay, probably Port Arthur or Fort William, to a point on the main line. This branch would give the company an outlet to Lake Superior. The Premier said last night that he had nothing to say with regard to the application. Messrs. C. M. Hays and William Wainwright had a conference with the Premier on Wednesday.

AN ABSOLUTE NECESSITY.

So Thinks at Least one Travelling Man.

I would as soon think of starting out without my mileage books and grip to start out on a trip without box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets my valise, said a travelling man who represents a St. Louis hardware house. Why? Because I have to put up at all kinds of hotels and boarding houses. I have to eat good, bad and indifferent food at all hours of the day and night and I don't believe any man's stomach will stand that sort of thing without protest, anyway I know mine won't. It has to have something to break the fall and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the crutch I fall back on.

My friends often "josh" me about it, tell me I'm an easy mark for patent medicine fakers, that advertised medicines are humbugs etc., but I notice that they are nearly always complaining of their aches and pains and poor digestion while I can stand most any old kind of fare and feel good and ready for my work when it needs me and I believe I owe my good digestion and sound health to the daily, regular use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, year in and year out, and all the "joshing" in the world will never convince me to the contrary.

I used to have heartburn about three times a day and a headache about three or four times a week and after standing for this for four or five years I began to look around for a crutch and found it when my doctor told me the best investment I could make would be a fifty cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and I have invested about fifty cents a month for them ever since and when I stop to think that that is what I spend every day for cigars, I feel like shaking hands with myself for I can keep my stomach and digestion in first class order for fifty cents a month. I don't care for any better life insurance.

My druggist tells me they are the most popular of all stomach medicines and that they have maintained their popularity and success because they do as advertised. They bring results, and results are what count in a patent medicine as much as in selling barbwire.

Rules to Be Revised.

Ottawa, March 25.—As a result of the conference of the Dominion Marine Association representatives and the Department of Marine and Fisheries, the Canadian navigation rules will be revised and the changes adopted by an Order-in-Council. Both Hon. Mr. Prefontaine and Col. Gourdeau, Deputy Minister, expressed anxiety to have the rules uniform on both sides of the Great Lakes.

Devonshire President.

London, March 25.—The Duke of Devonshire was unanimously re-elected president at the meeting of the Liberal Union Club, and a resolution that "in the opinion of this meeting the club should maintain its position of neutrality as a club, on the fiscal question until after the next general election" was rejected by a vote of 72 to 40.

AN EXCELLENT ESSAY GIVEN ON IRELAND.

The Fortnightly Meeting of St. Peter's T. A. S. Ladies' Reading Circle.

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Literary Association of St. Peter's T.A.S., was held last evening, and was very largely attended. An excellent and very instructive paper on "Ireland," was read by Miss Devlin. The subject chosen, although exceedingly broad, and embracing various topics in the history of Ireland, was well treated, and the different subjects received as much attention as time would permit in such a lengthy essay. The writer went back to the earliest days, and sketched the career of Ireland, showing the high standing attained by her among the other nations, even in her pagan days. The historical account of Ireland, as taken up in the paper of the evening, brought out very prominently the story of her intellect, learning, art, chivalry, and also referred to men of note who had done so much in time of need for their country. On the whole, the early history of Ireland was summed up in very good style, and Miss Devlin was congratulated on the success of her work at the conclusion of her reading.

Miss Carey presided at the meeting and introduced a short musical programme, consisting of an instrumental selection, violin and piano, by Misses Alma and Albina Picard; a vocal solo, by little Genevieve Dunn, her accompaniment being ably played by Miss May Dunn. Both numbers were very highly appreciated and called forth the applause of the audience.

The next literary evening will take place on Thursday, April 14th, when a paper on "Father Marquette," a missionary of early days, will be read by Miss H. M. Cahill.

STRATTON'S SPRING WALL-PAPER OPENING.

The Center of Great Admiration Last Night.

A. H. Stratton & Co's magnificent display of wall paper last night was a source of very great attraction and without doubt it was certainly deserving of such. The arrangement of the paper was quite unique, and the different shades were harmonized with very apparent artistic skill, and Mr. Wes. Henders, the designer, is deserving of great praise. Both windows were glazed upon by several hundreds of pairs of eyes during the evening, and the latest wall-paper designs were greatly admired.

Both doors had been taken off for the occasion, and the paper was stretched from the windows to a spot on the floor, this showing it off to very great advantage. The marked impression made on the people last night was very apparent to-day when it was learned that the wall-paper department had been drowded with purchasers all day long.

PIANO COMPANY'S NEW EXPANSION.

Martin and Stanley Piano Company to Expand Their Business.

ADDITION TO THE FIRM.

Messrs. Orme, of Ottawa, to Take Large Interest – Will Also Establish a Factory in that City.

An important business change, affecting one of Peterborough's most progressive manufacturing establishments, has been announced, by Mr. Owain Martin, President of the Martin & Stanley Piano Company, of town. In an interview with Mr. Martin this morning, which, he stated, was the only interview given by him on the subject, the Examiner learned that the Messrs. Orme of Ottawa, the largest musical dealers east of Toronto, have taken a large interest in the business of the local firm. The new firm will be known as "The Martin - Orme Co., of Ottawa." This however does not necessarily mean that the local factory will be closed, for Mr. Martin states that such is not the present intention at any rate. The business of the company will be very materially increased by the addition of the Messrs. Orme, and a factory will be opened in Ottawa, in the Wellington Ward Market Building, which has been secured from the city of Ottawa on most reasonable terms. The business which the introduction of the Messrs. Orme will give to the company, could not be handled at the factory here, which at present is working at its fullest capacity to fill orders.

The intention of the new company is to branch out into the manufacture of other musical instruments and merchandise, and, although Mr. Martin was not prepared to state definitely, as circumstances would largely determine that, it is probable that the local factory will be kept in operation for some time — perhaps permanently.

The firm is highly pleased with the conditions here, as far as the manufacturing end of the business is concerned, and only the fact that the necessities of trade demand it, would influence them in establishing their Ottawa factory. A number of the piano makers at present employed here will be taken to Ottawa as soon as the new factory there is in shape to receive them, but it is probable that their places will be filled by workers in the other lines of manufacture which the Company will embark in.

The firm of Martin & Stanley has been highly successful since its establishment here. Mr. Martin, as President, has brought his practical piano knowledge to bear on the product, the result being that the trade has largely increased until at present the company has more orders than it can fill at the factory here. Mr. Frank Stanley's business ability and his knowledge of the piano trade has also assisted very materially in this.

Every loyal citizen of Peterborough will rejoice in the success which has attended the work of the local firm, and in the large increase to its capital, and consequently, opportunities which the introduction of the Messrs. Orme will bring, their success will be even more marked.

Mr. Frank Stanley, the Vice-President of the firm, is retiring immediately from active interest in the company, and will go to Toronto, where he will engage in the general piano business. Mr. Stanley has been identified with the Canadian piano trade for some years, and in the larger opportunities which his residence in Toronto will give will doubtless be highly successful in what has always been his particular line, that of selling pianos. He will take with him the best wishes of the business fraternity of Peterough among the members of which he has been popular during his business career here, while the new firm, that of Martin & Orme will inherit the confidence of the business public inspired by the orterprise of Messrs. Martin and Stanley. It will be gratifying to all Peterborough citizens to learn that the business will be continued here, particularly in view of the fact that a contrary statement was made in a local paper some time ago.

POLICE MAKE RAID ON CHARLOTTE STREET.

Arrest of Five Inmates of an Alleged Bawdy House.

This morning Chief Roszel, P. C. Adams and High County Constable Cochrane, on behalf of the Children's Aid Society, visited 203 Charlotte street and arrested the inmates, four in number, on the charge of keeping a house of ill repute. They also arrested an inmate, Mrs. Smith, who was in bed when the officers arrived. The others placed in custody were Mr. Edward Herrin, or "Tidy," as he is commonly called, and his wife, Mrs. Albert Field and John Harraw.

Two little babies—a girl and boy, aged 4 and 16 months, respectively, were taken in charge by Mr. Cochrane. The little girl is a cripple, and both children were in a lamentable condition, Mr. Cochrane being obliged to secure coverings for them from the Shelter, where the children have been placed.

The quintette appeared before Police Magistrate Dumble shortly before noon, and all pleaded not guilty. The case will come up on Monday morning.

PRESENTATION OF SOME CONVINCING EVIDENCE

As to the Great National Benefit of Trent Waterway.

IMPORTANT STATEMENT BY CEREAL TREASURER.

Completion of the Waterway Would Make Peterborough a Great Milling Centre—Delegates From Other Towns Present Their Views.

The Council Chamber was crowded yesterday afternoon, when the first meeting of the Transportation Commission Session was held. A goodly portion of the afternoon was taken up by Mr. D. Gilmour, President of the Trent Water Conservation Association, who presented a strong advocacy for the speedy completion of the waterway. Mr. Gilmour's address was one which gave ample evidence of the fact that he had spent considerable time and work in preparing his arguments, and he presented them with an assurance born of conviction. The main points in Mr. Gilmour's address were published yesterday.

One of the most valuable of the contributions to the evidence was the address of Mr. Robert Stuart, of the American Cereal Company, and the information obtained from him in answer to questions by the Commission. Mr. Stuart made a most important announcement in his address which is given below, to the effect that while the Company of which he is Treasurer, had already spent a large sum of money here in the erection of an oatmeal-mill, they were prepared to spend still further amounts for the erection of flour mills in case the Trent Waterway was completed. Mr. Stuart stated further that in his opinion his company could manufacture flour in Peterborough and place it on the English market at a lower rate than either the English or United States millers could do it. This was an important statement particularly from Peterborough's standpoint. Mr. Richards, the Traffic Manager of the Cereal Company, quoted figures to show the Commission that grain could be shipped from Midland to Montreal by the Trent Waterway for 2 1-2 cents per bushel, as against 6 3-4 cents the present rate. Mr. Bertram, the chairman of the Commission complimented Mr. Richards on the accuracy of his calculations, and remarked that he had presented a strong case.

Deputations from Lindsay, Campbellford and Belleville then presented their arguments, which were largely of a local character, and did not deal with the larger question of through grain shipment to any great extent.

Mr. D. Hughes-Charles, President of the Board of Trade, also spoke, his address appearing below. Mr. J. H. McClellan, addressed the Commission, dealing with the question of freight rates, particularly as it affects coal, upon which he showed that Peterborough would reap a great benefit.

"Speaking commercially concerning the early completion of the Trent Valley Canal, would state that I believe it will do for Ontario what the Erie Canal has done for the State of New York, greatly benefiting the railways and the country at the same time. We feel more particularly from the grain milling point of view, being more familiar with that than anything else. Our company has already spent $500,000.00 in the erection of an oatmeal milling plant in this city, and about $200,000.00 in the erection of a new dam and power house, and are ready to spend as much more in the erection of flour mills, as soon as we can see our way to deliver the product in British and other foreign sea-ports at a rate of freight costing not more than about two cents per hundred over the rate on wheat. Minneapolis, as you are aware, has for many years been the great flour milling centre of the United States Northwest, but the raising of hard spring wheat is being rapidly diverted to the Canadian North-west. Recognizing this fact, the Washburn-Crosby Flour Milling Company, of Minneapolis, is at present erecting a large flour mill in Buffalo, enabling them to mill Canadian North-western wheat for export. This insures them low water rates to Buffalo and low rail or canal rates to the seaboard.

"About five years ago, a milling company in Liverpool, built a large mill at Birkenhead, across the river from Liverpool. The said mill has been very profitable, and they are, I understand, at present doubling the capacity, and they are also considering the erection of mills at other sea ports in Great Britain. Those located in British sea ports have the advantage of low rates on grain, against which the manufacturers on this side are obliged to compete. With the Trent Valley Canal open I am satisfied, after careful enquiry, that we can move wheat from Midland to Peterborough, the cargo here to be transferred from wheat to flour, and the flour delivered to steamers in Montreal, at a cost which will enable this competition to be met. I feel that it will be generally admitted that it is clearly in the interest of this country that the grain should be milled here. Our company, having their own offices in London, Liverpool, Glasgow and Rotterdam, can sell on as favourable terms as the representatives of local mills.

"With the present rapid progress of the Canadian North-west, I feel certain that the Canadian waterways cannot be improved rapidly enough to take care of the products of the country named, and in addition feel that Montreal is the natural outlet for the entire upper lake district. From information at hand I am satisfied grain can be moved from Midland to Montreal at from two cents to two and a half cents per bushel, with decreasing rate as westbound tonnage developes. What we want, and what the country needs, is the rapid opening of all the waterways available.

"Goods for the wants of the farmers in the North-west should be largely manufactured in Ontario, and to this end cheap transportation is necessary. This would also help the Canadian North-west on goods imported via Montreal."

Mr. Stuart, in answer to Mr. Reford, stated that if the canal were completed the mills at Peterborough would be able to compete successfully with flour mills in England. He further stated that the rate of freight from Georgian Bay to Montreal would be, according to his estimate, two and one-half cents per bushel. He considered that flour could be manufactured in Peterborough cheaper than it could be in Montreal.

Mr. L. Richards, Traffic Manager of the American Cereal Company, presented the figures upon which the figures quoted by Mr. Stuart were based. The figures were based on steel barges of 20,000 bushels capacity, and two tow barges of 25,000 bushels on two and one-half trips per month, and the freight rate from Midland to Montreal would be two cents per bushel, including all charges except transfer.

Mr. John Carnegie was the next speaker, who presented to the members of the Commission copies of a pamphlet prepared by him, and he said that he would be glad to answer any questions on the statements contained therein that the members cared to ask after they had been pursued. Mr. Carnegie's examination was therefore adjourned.

Captain Vanalstine submitted figures showing the length of time required to make a trip from Midland to Trenton, showing that 66 hours would be required for lockages, 104 1-2 hours for the trip, including the lockages.

Capt. Vanalstine will submit further evidence at a later meeting.

Mr. Thos. Stewart of Lindsay, was the next speaker, who remarked that he would not go into the larger question. He contended however that the Trent Waterway should be completed in the interests of Canada. He quoted a statement made by Mr. W. Flavelle, of the Flavelle Milling Company, to the effect that it would be greatly to the interest of his firm were the canal completed, because of the two-fold cause that wheat shipped in and flour shipped out could be accomplished at a much lower cost.

A statement from Mr. Sylvester was presented, also a similar one from Mr. Kennedy, of the firm of Kennedy & Davis, also Mr. Alex. Horn, manager of Horn Bros. Woollen Company, who stated that if the canal were completed they could secure North-west wool, which at the present time was impossible. Mr. Baker, of the Rathbun Co., also made a statement.

Mr. Flavelle made an addition to the written statement to the effect that if the figures quoted by Mr. Richards, which Mr. Bertram eulogized, were very nearly correct — were authoritative—the figquoted by him as to the saving which his firm would make, would be largely augmented.

Mr. Sylvester, following, spoke along the same lines, and in answer to a question by Mr. Bertram, stated that he did not contemplate shipping his product to the North-west by the canal.

Mr. Robert Kennedy of Lindsay, stated that he had been engaged in the timber business for some years in that town, and dealt with the local trade conditions. He said that his business would be very materially benefited by the canal. One instance of the saving would be in the shipment of staves to Lindsay, upon which the rate would be cut down two-thirds by the canal. In the shipment of wood and lime also the saving would be great. Lindsay is a good town, and he believed that considerable of its success was due to the excellent shipping facilities the town enjoyed. But they were not as extensive as he would like. He believed that he could save 50 cents a ton on coal on 10,000 tons shipped into that town. Answering a further question, he said that there was a great quantity of hardwood tributary to the canal, which if the waterway were completed, would be available.

Mr. H. A. Ryder, following, said that he had frequent inquiries from England for extensive orders which could not be accepted, because of the fact that the freight rates were prohibitive.

Mr F. C. Taylor, ex-Mayor of Lindsay, followed, briefly registering his approval of the scheme to complete the canal.

Mayor Sootheran, of Lindsay, also spoke briefly and asked the privilege of submitting further evidence.

Mr. Jas. Graham, of Victoria, followed, speaking as a farmer, corroborating what had been expressed previously. He stated that 12,000 tons of coal were used annually in the county, which cost $1 to $1.25 a ton more than the cost would be if the canal were completed. Coal at present costs $7.50 per ton.

CAMPBELLFORD'S DELEGATION

Mr. Charles Smith, president of the Campbellford Board of Trade, was the next speaker, and said that he fully acquiesced in the views already expressed by the speakers preceding him. He was strongly opposed to changing the route of the canal. He thought the route should follow the river. There were a number of large manufactories in his town, which if the route were changed, would be greatly injured.

Mr. Smith presented a resolution adopted by the Board of Trade, urging the completion of the Canal. A similar resolution from the Town Council was presented. He submitted a schedule of the amount of tonnage handled by the different factories in the town. He stated that while by the Canal wheat could be shipped from Midland to Montreal for 2 1-2 cents per bushel, at the present time the rate by rail under a local rate is 19 cents per hundred pounds. If the Canal were completed, Campbellford would be able to secure a large number of manufacturers by reason of the excellent water power available there. He stated that the total business of Campbellford was 36,200 tons per annum. He believed the municipality would give a bonus to secure the completion of the canal.

BELLEVILLE'S CASE.

Mayor Ghowen, of Belleville, followed, stating that at a meeting of the citizens the project was endorsed. The principal object they had in advocating the canal was that it would secure cheaper freight rates. Water power could also be utilized in their city, which would be distant 12 miles from the Canal. The freight rates at present in force from Montreal to Belleville was 17 to 19 cents boat rates, and 21 to 26 cents rail rates. If the Canal were completed he thought the rates would be lowered to about 10 cents per hundred.

Mr. Thos. Ritchie, representing the Belleville Board of Trade, followed, who also advocated the completion of the Canal. He was surprised at the importance of the local aspect of the case, but thought the national feature greatly overshadowed the local. He believed the unanimous opinion of the country was that the canal should be completed speedily. Mr. Ritchie stated in answer to Mr. Bertram's question, that he thought the politicians could answer why the canal had not been completed earlier. There was no business reason why it had not been completed, and he believed that the great reason was that the people at large had not agitated for it was because of the fact that they had not thoroughly understood the subject.

Mr. Dennistoun explained that the trouble in the past had been the matter had been taken up in too parochial a way. Two associations had been formed, the objects of the newer, that composed of manufacturers from along the route of the Canal, being to educate the public opinion, and he believed that when the work of this association had been done, the people would be more thoroughly conversant with the subject.

Mr. D. Hughes-Charles followed, stating:—

"As representing the Board of Trade, I have been asked to state what effect the opening of the Trent Valley Waterway to navigation from Trenton to Midland, would have on Peterborough. I would say, 'much, every way,' but as a great deal of evidence has to be digested by the Commission I think it better to be brief, and will therefore confine my remarks to two points — 'Freight charges and Fuel.'

"First, then, with regard to freight charges. The Commission may not be aware of the fact, that our town is growing in importance as a manufacturing town. This is owing, first, to natural advantages in the way of cheap power, and second, to good transportation facilities, having both the C.P.R. and the G.T.R. systems.

"Last year the output of our factories was valued at $7,500,000, and the total tonnage in and out on the railways was over 290,000 tons. It stands to reason therefore, that anything which will lower freight charges will be of great benefit to our manufactories and having water transportation in addition to railway facilities will have this effect.

"Our manufacturers at present are not on a level with, say, Hamilton manufacturers, with regard to freight charges, and one example will suffice to show this. Hamilton is distant from Montreal 408 miles, Peterborough 258 miles, yet Hamilton winter rates to Montreal are only 10 per cent larger than Peterborough winter rates, while the summer rates make the matter worse, as against Peterborough, for they are only 5 per cent. higher than Peterborough summer rates. In other words Hamilton manufacturers have only to pay 5 to 10 per cent. higher rates on a haul almost 50 per cent. longer. This is a discrimination, which can only be overcome by the opening of navigation on the Trent Valley Waterway.

"Second, Fuel. We have a population of over 14,000, and the private consumption of hard and soft coal per year, as nearly as I can make out, is 20,000 tons, while our factories use about 12,000 tons, total 32,000 tons.

"I am informed on good authority that coal is sold for fifty cents less in Ottawa than in Peterborough, and the reason is that they have the Rideau Canal. Therefore if we had our Trent Canal, open our citizens would save about $32,000 per year, and in addition to this there is any quantity of good fire wood around our lakes which can be brought down in sufficient quantities to reduce the price until the canal is open to navigation."

Mr. Hughes-Charles, in closing quoted the resolution adopted at the annual meeting of the Board of the Board of Trade.

Speaking with reference to the question as to why the canal had not been completed, he said that there was a lamentable lack of knowledge in the western part of the province and country on the subject.

Mr. J. H. McClellan followed, quoting facts with reference to his business, that of coal and fuel. He had found that coal at Oswego or Fairhaven was quoted at 15c per ton cheaper than at Suspension Bridge, and he believed that anthracite coal could be bought at least 50c per ton cheaper by shipping by the canal than by rail from Suspension Bridge. The saving on Baltimore coal would be perhaps 30 to 40c. The people of Peterborough were alive to the benefit of the canal as far as local conditions were concerned, but the question of shipping the North-west grain to the seaboard had awakened the people to the great benefit of the canal as a national enterprise. He believed that if the Government would hand over the canal to a private company to complete and operate the capital could be raised. If the canal was thought to be a necessity 70 years ago, as it was by the Imperial authorities, it was all the more necessary now.

Mr. R. R. Hall, in answer to a question by Mr. Bertram, as to the amount of rental the Government received from the dams, gave the prices paid for the different dams.

At this point the session was adjourned until 10.30 o'clock this morning.

Last night the members of the Commission and a number of the delegates in attendance on the session, listened to an address on the Trent Canal delivered by Mr. R. B. Rogers in the Y.M.C.A. Hall. The address was illustrated by a large number of views, and was thoroughly enjoyed by the large number of gentlemen present. Mr. Rogers showed a thorough knowledge of the subject of which he spoke, and imparted a great deal of very valuable and interesting information.

THE MORNING MEETING.

The Commission resumed its session at 10.30 this morning in the Council Chamber, after having taken a trip to the lift lock, where the members were shown that great piece of engineering by Mr. R. B. Rogers, Subsequently the works of the American Cereal Company were visited on the invitation of Mr. Robert Stuart, the Commissioners expressing themselves as being highly pleased at what they saw there.

Mr. H. J. Wickham, of Toronto, was the first witness called upon to give evidence this morning. Mr. Wickham stated that he had been on the old Trent Valley Commission some years ago with Judge Weller. Mr. Wickham read an extract from the evidence given before that Commission by Mr. Boyd of Bobcaygeon, who stated that the Trent Canal could successfully compete with other routes, and further, that the smaller canal boats were more economical than those suitable for a ship canal. He looked upon the Trent Canal, not not as a rival, but an ally, in that it would secure a greater share of the American grain trade, and benefit Montreal. Mr. Boyd also contended that the canal would benefit the railways. Mr. Wickham calculated that a ship of 200,000 bushels could make 30 round trips to Midland from Port Arthur, as against 19 to Port Colbonne; and by the former 6 million bushels could be carried, while to the latter only 3,800,000 bushels could be carried — a great advantage in favour of the Midland route. Mr Wickham also quoted Mr. W. A. Geddes, who stated that it was the question of back freight upon which the question turned, but he pointed out the fact that at present freight was being shipped by barge to Coteau Landing, from where it was transhipped by rail and taken to Depot Landing, from where it was transhipped to rail and taken to Depot Harbour, and from there again shipped by water to its destination. He also contended that the local traffic conditions largely affected through freight, because in a large measure the latter was dependent on the former. He requested the Commissioners to investigate the question of ocean freights, and the nature of contracts entered into by shippers. The C.P.R. had found it necessary to secure ocean steamship lines, and he believed it would only

Did you ever inquire at a store for certain articles and get for a reply "We have something just as good"? WHITNEY'S PROMISE

Opposition Leader Will Support Mr. Pettypiece's Bill.

DOCKING BILL WITHDRAWN

Measure Aimed at Traffic in Marriages in Border Cities of Ontario—Discussions in the Legislature on Widely Varying Subjects—Questions Asked and Answered—Returns Ordered.

Toronto, March 24.—It was understood that the debate on Mr Pettypiece's bill to further tax railways would have been continued in the Legislature yesterday, but the Premier requested that it stand until Monday. Mr. Whitney intimated that the Opposition were prepared to support the second reading of the bill in order that some good points it contained might be placed on the statute books. Mr. Pettypiece replied that it was his intention to press the bill when the Premier, who announced that he had something to say regarding it, was prepared to go on. It is probable that Mr. Ross will to-day introduce his promised supplementary revenue bill, which levies further Provincial and municipal taxes on the railway companies. Discussion on widely-varying subjects was the order of the day. Dr. Routledge's bill to prohibit the docking of horses was withdrawn after strong objections to the measure had been expressed. What has become known as the Gretna Green measure of Dr. Reaume was referred to the Legal Committee. A number of other bills, public and private, were advanced a stage, and the evening session was spent in Committee of the Whole on the municipal taxation measure.

Hon. Mr. Davis Explains.

In reply to Mr. Smyth (Algoma), Hon. Mr. Davis said the Government, by Order-in-Council, granted 100 feet of land fronting on Algoma and Cameron streets, Port Arthur, to the Roman Catholic Episcopal Corporation of the Diocese of Peterboro for hospital purposes. The Roman Catholic authorities desired to exchange this for 91 feet alongside of their hospital, which had been sold to James Conmee on Sept. 30, 1902. Mr Conmee surrendered his patent and a new patent was issued to the church authorities for the part next to their hospital, formerly patented to Mr. Conmee, and a patent was issued to Mr. Conmee for the 100 feet on the corner of Algoma and Cameron streets, which had been allowed to the church for hospital purposes. The church grant was free. Mr. Conmee paid $600.

In reply to Mr. Whitney, the Minister of Education said the fees received from candidates writing on departmental examinations amounted to $14,441, and the total cost to the Department $30,002.86, making a deficiency of $15,561,60. The services of the examiners, with incidental expenses, cost $19,014.

Live Stock at St. Louis.

Mr. Dryden told Mr. Whitney that it was not the intention of the Government to appropriate any sum towards defraying the expenses of Ontario exhibitors of live stock at St. Louis, as the Dominion Government did so.

To Mr. Whitney the Attorney-General said H. J. E. Sissons, appointed master of titles for the Rainy River district, was a lawyer, and he assumed that he is practicing at present, as the land titles act does not prevent a master of land titles from practicing as a barrister.

Mr. Whitney also desired to know the exact nature of the securities held by Messrs. Conmee and Bowman in the Soo enterprises, and was informed that the Government had no definite information on the subject beyond the explanation already given.

Mr. Hanna had an enquiry addressed to Mr. Conmee if he and Mr. Bowman began an action to enforce a mechanics' lien for upwards of $400,000 against the bonds of the Algoma Central, and for a judgment for that amount, etc. Both members had not seen the question and were not ready to give an answer.

Hon. Mr. Stratton informed Mr. Gamey that the Government had no contract with Saturday Night for descriptive articles on provincial institutions, but three illustrated articles were paid for at $150 each.

Assets of Loan Companies.

In answer to a question by Mr. Gamey, Hon. Mr. Gibson said: The Department of Insurance examines the assets held by the various companies obtaining licenses each year. No statute requires or contemplates the examination of the assets of loan companies. So far as is known to the registrar, no loan company is carrying as assets large blocks of stock of any life insurance company.

Third Readings.

The following bills were read a third time: To amend the act respecting religious institutions (Gibson); respecting the Presbyterian Church at Newmarket (Davis); to consolidate the floating debt of the Town of Wallaceburg (Pardo); to consolidate a portion of the debt of the Township of Romney (Pardo); to confirm by-law No. 699 of the Township of Cornwall (McCart); respecting the Kingston Street Railway (Pense); respecting the construction of local improvements within the Town of North Toronto (St. John).

Settlers' Privileges.

Mr. Mahaffy moved: That in the opinion of this House, settlers in the northern and northwesterly portions of the Province should be allowed in addition to their present privileges, and without the use of dogs, to take, hunt and kill deer for the immediate use of themselves, or their families, for food only, and not for the purposes of sale or traffic, during the months of September and October in each year. That no fee should be charged to settlers for permits.

The Attorney-General said every step that was taken should be in the direction of increased restrictions, looking to the protection of game. If the motion were passed, it would result in the wholesale slaughter of deer.

Mr. Reed supported the resolution, which was withdrawn, after some discussion.

Two Returns Ordered.

Mr. Whitney moved for a return giving the nature and description of the securities held by Messrs. Conmee and Bowman, members of the House, referred to by the Attorney-General in his answer to a question, as appears by the votes and proceedings of the House, dated March 16, 1904. He was also granted an order for a return of any investigation made by the late J. K. Stewart, on an investigation made by him into alleged license frauds in Rainy River South, in 1901.

Taxation of Railways.

When the order, "resuming the adjourned debate on the motion for the second reading of the bill to amend the assessment act. Mr. Pettypiece," was reached, the Premier asked that it be allowed to stand until Monday, when probably they could discuss it. He wished to make some remarks on the bill and had expected to be able to do so that day, but would now prefer if consideration of the measure were postponed.

Mr. Whitney said that when this bill for the further taxation of railways was previously up in the House his attitude had been governed by a belief that the same procedure adopted in previous years by the Government and mover in regard to the measure was to be repeated. He wished to say now that he believed there was some good points in the bill. "I and other members on this side of the House," added Mr. Whitney, "are prepared to assist the hon. gentleman to pass this bill through a second reading in order that its good features may be placed on the statute books if he chooses to press the matter."

Mr. Pettypiece expressed pleasure at the Opposition leader's change of tone. It was a matter of disappointment to himself when the Premier informed him privately an hour ago that he was not prepared to go on with the debate. "I may tell the leader of the Opposition," said Mr. Pettypiece, "and also the leader of the House, and any other members who are interested in the question, that it is my intention, so far from retracting anything, that the bill shall at the earliest possible moment be pressed for a second reading, and also through the various other stages." Mr. Pettypiece then asked the Premier if the bill would come up on Monday.

"If possible," replied Mr. Ross, at which Mr. Whitney laughed. "If it is at all possible, if there are no unforeseen circumstances, barring acts of Providence," added the Premier, jocularly. The matter then dropped.

Tail-Docking Bill.

Dr. Routledge's bill to prohibit the docking of horses was moved to its second reading. It was emasculated by the committee by leaving it to Township Councils to pass a by-law. Later Dr. Routledge asked leave to withdraw the bill.

Unsanitary Barber Shops.

Mr. Joynt moved the second reading of his bill to amend the Public Health Act, improving the regulations governing barber shops, but Hon. Mr. Stratton showed that a regulation adopted by the Provincial Board of Health fully covered the case. Mr. Joynt withdrew his bill.

In moving the second reading of his Marriage Act amendment, Dr. Reaume outlined the necessity of a measure to compel the publication of intended marriages of persons residing outside the province in two insertions of a paper in which the marriage is to be performed.

Hon. Mr. Stratton suggested sending the bill to the Legal Commitcee, which was done.

Coroners' Inquests.

Dr. Reaume moved the second reading of a bill declaring that in case of a death arising from accident the expenses of a coroner's inquest shall be borne by the municipality in which the accident takes place. The bill went to the Legal Committee.

At the evening session several private bills were advanced a stage, and the House again went into Committee of the Whole on the municipal taxation measure, a number of routine clauses being put through.

Mr. A. E. Dunlop (North Renfrew) will ask the Minister whether Mr. R. E. Truax, M.P.P., for South Bruce, is a creditor of the allied companies of Sault Ste. Marie.

No Agreement re. Morocco.

London, March 24.—Foreign Secretary Lansdowne, in a letter replying to an inquiry from merchants, says that no agreement has yet been concluded with France concerning Morocco, and that none was ever contemplated by which Morocco would be ceded to France.

Digestive System is Deranged

At this Season of the Year—High Living and Little Exercise Bring on Dyspepsia and other Troubles.

Disorders of the digestive system are not uncommon at this season of the year.

In cold weather there is a danger of overeating, and a tendency towards the excessive use of highly seasoned food and stimulants.

The result is much suffering from indigestion, liver and kidney derangements, and constipation.

If people could only understand how promptly and effectively such disorders are overcome by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, this great family medicine would be even more popular than it is to-day.

Unlike any other medicine, these pills have direct and combined action on kidneys, liver and bowels, and for this reason reach and cure the most complicated ailments.

Dyspepsia and biliousness, liver complaint and kidney disease, stomach troubles and constipation, backache and headache disappear in wonderfully short time when Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are used.

By assisting the kidneys in eliminating the poisonous waste matter by helping the liver to filter the bile from the blood, by regulating the bowels, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills prevent and cure the most painful and fatal diseases known to man.

Mrs. Thomas Covert, Highland Grove, Peterborough County, Ont., writes:—"I was a sufferer for years with stomach troubles and terrible headaches and spent a good many dollars in medicine without receiving any benefit. Hearing Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills highly recommended I determined to give them a trial and did so with most satisfactory results as I was very greatly benefitted and do not hesitate to recommend this treatment as the best obtainable for such ailments."

Purified by Suffering

BY MARY J. HOLMES,

"It was kind in him to warn me I wish it had been sooner," she thought, and then with a bitter feeling of shame she wondered how much he had guessed of her real feelings, and who the betrothed one was. "Not Juno Cameron," she hoped, as after a few moments Mrs Cameron came up, and adroitly detaching Mark from her side, took his place, while he sauntered to a group of ladies, and was ere long dancing merrily with Juno.

"They are a well-matched pair," Mrs. Cameron said, assuming a very confidential manner towards Helen, who assented to the remark, while the lady continued. "There is but one thing wrong with Mark Ray. He is a most unscrupulous flirt, pleased with every new face, and this of course annoys Juno."

"Are they engaged?" came involuntarily from Helen's lips, while Mrs Cameron's foot beat the carpet with a very becoming hesitancy, as she replied: "That was settled in our family a long time ago. Wilford and Mark have always been like brothers."

Mrs. Cameron could not quite bring herself to a deliberate falsehood, which, if detected, would reflect upon her character as a lady, but she could mislead Helen, and she continued "It is not like us to bruit our affairs abroad, and were my daughters ten times engaged the world would be none the wiser. I doubt if even Katy suspects what I have admitted, but knowing how fascinating Mark can be, and that just at present he seems to be pleased with you, I have acted as I should wish a friend to act toward my own child. I have warned you in time. Were it not that you were one of our family, I might not have interfered, and I trust you will not repeat even to Katy what I have said."

Helen nodded assent, while in her heart was a wild tumult of feelings - flattered pride, disappointment, indignation and mortification, all struggling for the mastery—mortification to feel that she who had quietly ignored such a passion as love when connected with herself, had, nevertheless, been pleased with the attentions of one who was only amusing himself with her, as a child amuses itself with some new toy soon to be thrown aside—indignation at him for vexing Juno at her expense—disappointment that he should care for such as Juno, and flattered pride that Mrs. Cameron should include her in "our family." Helen had as few weak points as most young ladies, but she was not free from them all, and the fact that Mrs. Cameron had taken her into a confidence which even Katy did not share, was soothing to her ruffled spirits, particularly as after that confidence, Mrs. Cameron was excessively gracious to her, introducing her to many whom she did not know before, and paying her numberless little attentions, which made Juno stare, while the clear-seeing Bell arched her eyebrows and wondered for what Helen was to be made a cat's paw by her clever mother. Whatever it was it did not appear, save as it showed itself in Helen's slightly changed demeanor when Mark again sought her society, and tried to bring back to her face the look he had left there. But something had come between them, and the young man racked his brain to find the cause of this sudden indifference to one who had been pleased with him only a short hour before.

"It's that confounded waltzing which disgusted her," he said, "and no wonder, for if ever a man looks like an idiot, it is when he is kicking up his heels to the sound of a fiddle, and whirling some woman whose skirts sweep everything within a circle of a rod, and whose face wears that die-away expression I have so often noticed. I've half a mind to swear I'll never dance again."

But Mark was too fond of dancing to quit it at once, and finding Helen still indifferent, he yielded to circumstances, and the last she saw of him, as at a comparative early hour she left the gay scene, he was dancing again with Juno. It was a heavy blow to Helen, for she had become greatly interested in Mark Ray, whose attentions had made her stay in New York so pleasant. But these were over now—at least the excitement they brought was over, and Helen as she sat in her dressing-room at home, and thought of the future as well as the past, felt stealing over her a sense of desolation and loneliness such as she had experienced but once before, and that on the night when leaning from her window at the farm-house where Mark Ray was stopping, she had shuddered and shrank from living all her days among the rugged hills of Silverton. New York had opened an entirely new world to her, showing her much that was vain and frivolous, with much too that was desirable and good, and if there had crept into her heart the thought that life with such people as Mrs Banker and those who frequented her house would be preferable to a life in Silverton, where only Morris understood her, it was but the natural result of daily intercourse with one who had studied to please and interest as Mark Ray had done. But Helen had too much good sense and strength of will long to indulge in what she would have called "love-sick regrets" in others, and she began to devise the best course for her to adopt hereafter, concluding finally to treat him much as she had done lest he should suspect how deeply she had been wounded. Now that she knew of his engagement, it would be an easy matter so to demean herself as neither to annoy Juno nor vex him. Thoroughly now she understood why Juno Cameron had seemed to dislike her so much.

"It is natural," she said, "and yet I honestly believe I like her better for knowing what I do. There must be some good beneath that proud exterior, or Mark Ray would never seek her."

Still, look at it from any point she chose, it seemed a strange, unsuitable match, and Helen's heart ached sadly as she finally retired to rest, thinking what might have been had Juno Cameron found some other lover more like herself than Mark could ever be.

CHAPTER XXIII.

Wilford had wished for a son, and in the first moment of disappointment he had almost been conscious of a resentful feeling toward Katy, who had given him only a daughter. A boy, a Cameron heir, was something of which to be proud; but a little girl, scarcely larger than the last doll with which Katy had played, was a different thing, and it required all Wilford's philosophy and common sense to keep him from showing his chagrin to the girlish creature, whose love had fastened with an idolatrous grasp upon her child, clinging to it with a devotion which made Helen tremble as she thought what if God should take it from her.

"He won't, oh he won't," Katy said, when once she suggested the possibility, and in the eyes usually so soft and gentle there was a fierce gleam, as Katy hugged her baby closer to her and said:

"God does not willfully torment us. He will not take my baby, when my whole life would die with it. I had almost forgotten to pray, there was so much else to do, until baby came, but now I never go to sleep at night or waken in the morning, that there does not come a prayer of thanks for baby given to me. I could hardly love God if he took her away."

There was a chill feeling at Helen's heart as she listened to her sister and then glanced at the baby so passionately loved. In time it would be pretty, for it had Katy's perfect features, and the hair just beginning to grow, was a soft, golden brown, but it was too small now, too puny to be handsome, while in its eyes there was a scared, hunted kind of look which chafed Wilford more than aught else could have done, for this was the look which had crept into Katy's eyes at Newport when she found she was not going home.

Many discussions had been held at the elder Cameron's concerning its name. Mrs. Cameron deciding finally that it should bear her own, Margaret Augusta, while Juno advocated that of Rose Marie, inasmuch as their new clergyman would Frenchify the pronunciation so perfectly, rolling the r, and placing so much accent on the last syllable. At this the father Cameron swore as "cussed nonsense." "Better call it Jemima, a grand sight than saddle it with such a silly name as Rose Marie, with a roll on the r," and with another oath the disgusted old man departed, while Bell suggested that Katy might wish to have a voice in naming her own child.

This was a possibility that had formed no part of Mrs Cameron's thoughts, or Juno's. Of course Katy would acquiesce in whatever Wilford said was best, and he always thought as they did. Consequently there would be no trouble whatever. It was time the child had a name—time it wore the elegant christening robe, Mrs. Cameron's gift, which cost more money than would have fed a hungry family for weeks. The matter must be decided and with a view of deciding it, a family dinner party was held at No. —, Fifth Avenue, the day succeeding Sybil Granion's party.

Very pure and beautiful Katy looked as she took her old place in the chair they called hers at father Cameron's, because it was the one she always preferred to any other—a large, motherly easy chair, which took in nearly the whole of her petite figure, and against whose soft cushioned back she leaned her curly head with a pretty air of importance, as, after dinner was over, she came back to the parlor with the other ladies and waited for the gentlemen to join them, when they were to talk up baby's name.

Katy knew exactly what it would be called, but as Wilford had never asked her, she was keeping it a secret, not doubting that the others would be quite as much delighted as herself with the novel name. Not long before her illness she had read an English story, which had in it a Genevra, and she had at once seized upon it as the most delightful cognomen a person could possess. "Genevra Cameron!" She had repeated it to herself many a time as she sat with her baby in her lap. She had written it on sundry slips of paper, which had afterwards found their way into the grate, and once she had scratched with her diamond ring upon the window pane in her dressing room where it now stood in legible characters: "Genevra Cameron!" There should be no middle name to take from the sweetness of the first—only Genevra—that was sufficient; and the little lady tapped her foot impatiently upon the carpet, wishing Wilford and his father would hurry and come in.

Not for an instant had it entered her mind that she, as a mother, would not be permitted to call her baby what she chose; so when she heard Mrs. Cameron speaking to Helen of Margaret Augusta, she smiled complacently, tossing her curls of golden brown, and thinking to herself: "Maggie Cameron—pretty enough, but not like Genevra. Indeed I shall not have any Margarets now, next time perhaps I may."

The gentlemen came at last, and father Cameron drew his chair close to Katy's side, laying his hand on her little warm one, and giving it a squeeze as the bright face glanced lovingly into his. Father Cameron had grown a milder, gentler man since Katy came. He now went much oftener into society, and did not so frequently shock his wife with expressions and opinions which she held as heterodox. Katy had a softening influence over him, and he loved her as well perhaps, as he had ever loved his own children.

"Better," Juno said, and now she touched Bell's arm, to have her see "how father was petting Katy."

But Bell did not care, while Wilford was pleased, and himself drew nearer the chair, standing just behind it, so that Katy could not see him, as he smoothed her curly head, and said, half indifferently: Now for the all-important name. What shall we call our daughter?"

"Let your mother speak first," Katy said, and thus appealed to, Mrs. Cameron came up to Wilford and expressed her preference for Margaret, as being a good name, an aristocratic name, and her own.

"Yes, but not half so pretty and striking as Rose Marie," Juno chimed in.

"Rose Mary! Thunder!" father Cameron exclaimed. "Call her a marygold, or a sunflower, just as much. Don't go to being fools by giving a child a heathenish name. Give us your opinion, Katy."

"I have known from the first," Katy replied, "and I am sure you will agree with me. 'Tis a beautiful name of a sweet young girl, and there was a great secret about her, too—Genevra, baby will be called," and Katy looked straight into the fire, wholly unconscious of the effect that name had produced upon Wilford and his mother.

Wilford's face was white as marble, and his eyes turned quickly to his mother, who, in her first shock, started so violently as to throw down from the stand a costly vase, which was broken into many pieces. This occasioned a little diversion, and by the time the flowers and fragments were picked up, Wilford's face was not quite so livid, but he dared not trust his voice yet, and listened while his sisters gave their opinion of the name, Bell deciding for it at once, and Juno hesitating until she had heard from a higher power than Katy.

Sleeplessness

Is akin to insanity. Many a woman realizes this as she lies awake hour by hour, peopling the darkness with phantoms, starting at the creaking of the bed or the rustle of the bedclothes.

Such symptoms in general point to disease of the delicate womanly organs, and a constant drain of the vital and nervous forces. This condition cannot be overcome by sleeping powders. The diseased condition must be cured before the consequences of disease are removed.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures the womanly diseases which cause nervousness and sleeplessness. It is the best of tonics and invigorants, nourishing the nerves, encouraging the appetite and inducing refreshing sleep.

$500 Reward for Women Who Cannot be Cured.

Proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb, which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

"My wife was sick for over eight years," writes Albert H. Fulte, Esq., of Altamont Grundy Co, Tenn. "She had uterine disease and was treated by two physicians and got no relief. At last I read about Dr. Pierce's medicines and we decided to try his 'Favorite Prescription.' I sent to the drug store and got one bottle and the first dose gave ease and sleep. She had not slept any for three nights. Being sure that it would cure her I sent for five more bottles and when she had taken the sixth bottle she was sound and well."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be used with "Favorite Prescription" whenever a laxative is required.

NOW IS THE TIME.

Take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil now. Not next week or next month, but now. You need it to put fat on your bones and strength in your body to stand the cold and trying weather of the next few months.

Nine-tenths of the population would be benefited by taking Scott's Emulsion regularly three times a day for a month or more every fall to fortify and strengthen the system against the cold and constant changes that occur through the winter. The benefit is particularly marked with young, delicate children. No food that they can take begins to compare with Scott's Emulsion.

Pure cod liver oil is scarce but if you get Scott's Emulsion you'll be sure to get only the purest and best oil.

PRESENTATION OF SOME CONVINCING EVIDENCE.

be a short time until the G.T.R. would be obliged to do the same. He thought the Government should protect the consumer in the West on the question of through freight rates.

PORT HOPE'S CONTENTION.

Mr. J. F. Clarke was the first speaker from Port Hope, and he presented the case of that town very lucidly. He quoted the following definition of Port Hope's position:—

Port Hope believes that the best possible grain route between the Georgian Bay and Lake Ontario is that of the proposed Trent Canal.

2. That it should be completed as soon as possible because of the immense and ever increasing shipments of grain from the Northwest and of the important trade of the large and fertile district through which it will pass; also for the very good reason that about $3,825,837 have already been expended on the interior sections which would be almost useless unless a suitable outlet is provided.

3. That the canal should not have less than eight feet draught, in order to compete successfully with other means of transportation and not less than ten feet from Port Hope to the growing city of Peterborough.

4. That the westward traffic from this rich section of Central Ontario, which will undoubtedly prove very large, and the return cargoes from Toronto and other western points (especially coal from the American side) will assume such large proportions that the expenditure to complete the Canal from Rice Lake to Lake Ontario will be fully justified. When it is taken into consideration that 200,000,000 bushels of grain were shipped from the west in 1896, what may we reasonably expect in the future with the constant and increasing flow of immigration and the opening up of so many new tracts of territory.

5. That as no survey and estimate of cost for an eight or ten foot canal has yet been made of either proposed route from Rice Lake to Lake Ontario, we think the Dominion Government should proceed at once to make a thorough investigation, and decide the question of the southern outlet on its merits.

6. That to construct the canal via Port Hope is the cheaper, quicker, safer and more direct route from Georgian Bay to the sea-board, besides having the advantage of a first-class harbour on Lake Ontario with sufficient depth of water to admit the largest vessels on the lake.

7. That an ample outlet for the products of our great Northwest should be provided within Canada itself, so that our country would be, as far as possible, independent of the United States.

The question whether Port Hope or Trenton should be the outlet for the Canal has passed from local to general interest, and we would invite attention to some special points bearing on the subject. According to the report of superintendent Boyd to the New York Legislature, made in January of this year, the way shipments of freight over the Erie canal are greater than the through freight, both east and west. What is true of the Erie would also be true of our canal, and probably in a greater degree; and we would present the following reasons to show that Port Hope is better situated as an outlet than Trenton for trade with Toronto, Hamilton, St. Catharines and other points west:

The distance from Toronto to Peterborough is eighty-nine miles less by the Port Hope route than by Trenton and consequently quicker by about one day. The canal this way will not only cost less to build but also less to operate.

The natural products of the six million acres of land tributary to the canal such as barley, oats, hay, potatoes and many other articles, should find their way to Toronto and other western cities and towns, and Port Hope is the proper outlet for these. It is estimated that the quantity of hay alone will exceed 200,000 tons.

Valuable hardwood, lumber, cordwood, peat, iron, building stone, lime cement, mica, etc., in this district should find a market in Toronto and other western points, and Port Hope, with its magnificent harbour, is the natural outlet.

Large industries have already been established along the route, such as the cereal works, the beet sugar factory, now in course of erection, the Lakefield cement works, the Midland smelter flour mills and numerous other factories, to say nothing of the manufactories the canal will bring into existence. The growth of the following important towns, viz: Hastings, Peterborough, Lakefield, Lindsay, Orillia, Barrie, Midland, Collingwood, Meaford and others and the development of the business along the canal route, with its one thousand miles of coastline, no one can estimate.

If the products of the Midland section find their way to Toronto, Hamilton and St. Catharines, these cities in return will send general merchandise, farm implements and such goods as this section requires. Whereas, if the outlet were at Trenton, the utility of the canal would be greatly diminished, and the west would lose a large portion of this rich and growing trade, which naturally should be theirs.

As Port Hope is only thirty-nine miles from Oak Orchard, on the American shore, from which coal would be shipped, barges on the canal would have no trouble securing return cargoes of coal to supply the requirements of this district, which would amount to no less than one hundred and fifty thousand tons per annum, and affect a saving to the consumers of not less than seventy-five thousand dollars per year.

If Port Hope were selected as the outlet a double purpose would be served. The through freight or grain from the Northwest can be transhiped here for Montreal, or go through in the same barges via the Murray canal, and at the same time the westward traffic would be fully and better provided for, to the decided advantage of Toronto and Hamilton specially, and the country generally.

Mr. Clark advocated a greater depth of canal, and was pleased to know that the Government had decided upon an eight-foot canal, and he believed that Port Hope was the first to advocate a ten-foot canal from Port Hope to Peterborough. He was gratified to learn that the town in which the Commission was sitting had branched out into a manufacturing city, and he believed the city of Peterborough would still continue to grow. He urged for a complete survey of the proposed route from Rice Lake to Port Hope, and Trenton, and the matter decided on its merits. He contended that a complete survey by the Trenton route had not been made for a canal of the depth now suggested. He believed that the surveys already made had not done justice to the Port Hope route, and he contended that the latter was the most advantageous, no railway crossings being necessary, while by the Trenton route, five crossings would have to be made. He believed that the question was a national one and should be thoroughly gone into, and stated that by Port Hope, Toronto would be 89 miles nearer Peterborough than by Trenton, and Montreal no further away. Port Hope was much better situated to handle the coal trade.

Mr. Harold Barrett was the next speaker from Port Hope, who said that the manufacturers of the town and the citizens, generally, were heartily in accord with all that had been said with reference to the necessity of the canal, but they felt sure that Port Hope was the only feasible outlet to the canal. The best, cheapest and most advantageous route was what the people wanted, and he believed that the local traffic should be seriously considered. The actual distance by the canal would be 13 1-2 miles, all the cuttings through earth, as far as was learned. All this cutting would be through natural valleys. The cost of maintenance would be much less by Port Hope than by Trenton. He contended that the loss to the water power owners on the Trent River will be the same no matter by which route.

Speaking of the 26 miles of open lake from Port Hope to Presque Isle was just as safe as by the open stretch from Kingston to the St. Lawrence River, and any wind which would detain a barge at Port Hope would also detain it at Kingston. He quoted evidence of lake captains to show that the north shore from Port Hope east was comparatively safe. Further Mr. Barrett, believed that the boats used to navigate the canal would have to be built substantially enough to navigate the lake in any event. The local trade, which he considered an important one, was worthy of serious attention.

Mr. Bertram objected to the contention of Mr. Barrett, that there would be a large trade in hardwood along the Trent Waterway, and remarked that many of the speakers were so enthusiastic over the canal that they looked at it through magnifying glasses. He concluded by urging that a complete survey of the various routes proposed be made.

Colonel Ward, M.P., closed the case for Port Hope. He also stated that he desired a new and complete survey of both routes, because he believed that sufficient information had not been obtainable when the former surveys were made. Referring to Mr. McLeod's report on the route, he stated that it had been made without sufficient investigation having been made. He emphasized the point made by Mr. Barrett that there would be no more water required to operate the canal by the Port Hope route than that required by the actual lockages. Col. Ward fully reiterated all that had been previously said with respect to the necessity of the canal. He contended that any barges which could navigate Lake Simcoe could equally safely navigate Lake Ontario from Port Hope to Presque Isle. Answering a question from Mr. Bertram as to whether the citizens of Port Hope would be willing to give the right of way to the Government should the canal go by way of Port Hope, he said that he was not prepared to say that it would.

Mayor Quinlan added a few words inviting the commission to meet in Port Hope. He further stated that he had been authorized to offer the Government the Port Hope harbour, which had cost them $450,000.

Mr. F. Outram addressed a few words to the Commission on the question of the open lake stretch, in which he stated that the gaps at the mouth of the river were equally rough to the open stretch.

TRENTON'S PROPOSALS.

Mr. W. S. Jaques, president of the Trenton Board of Trade, addressed the Commissioners, quoting a resolution adopted by the Board in which the great benefit of the canal were enumerated.

Mr. G. W. Ostrom was the next speaker from Trenton, who supported all the evidence on the general scheme of the canal. He remarked that the contentions of the Port Hope delegation was largely a refutation of the reports made by engineers on the advantage of the Trenton route. Mr. Ostrom stated that the Hon. Mr. Blair had remarked to him that he was of the opinion that the canal should be completed at an early date, and he added that Mr. Blair's opinion appeared to be that the Port Hope route was not a feasible one.

Mr. P. J. O'Rourke, who followed, stated that the Port Hope delegation was not in love with any engineer's report except that made in 1833, at a time when the west was not known. The Port Hope people were not satisfied with the reports of Messrs. Rogers and McLeod, and now wanted a new survey made. The harbour at Trenton was in excellent condition and needed but little expense to make it full 14 foot depth. In speaking of the statement of the Port Hope gentleman that the route to that town was through soil, he believed that this would be one of the worst features, on account of the evaporation and absorbtion. He characterized the contentions of the Port Hope delegates that there was no danger of the passage on the lake from Port Hope east, as being absurd. He complimented the members of the Commission on the manner in which they had conducted the inquiry, and believed that the greater question would now be settled for all time to come. He hoped that they would recommend the speedy completion of the canal.

SOME GOOD SPORT AT OPERA HOUSE.

The Athletic Entertainment Proved a Source of Interest Last Night.

The "smoker" held last night in Bradburn's Opera House, under the auspices of the Peterborough Athletic Club, was a success as regards the interest in the events on the programme was concerned, although the attendance was not as large as the programme meritted. The "bill-of-fare" as advertised did not fully materialize, though it was through no fault of the management. The main bout, that of the wrestling contest, between Jack McDonough and George Gauthier, for the heavyweight championship of the town, did not take place. In the delay, caused by some misunderstanding as to the agreement, under which the men were to wrestle, Mr. McDonough left the house. When the difficulty was adjusted Gauthier entered the ring, and Mr. Carter, the President of the Club, called for McDonough, but as Jack had left the hall, he allowed 20 minutes for him to make an appearance. In the meantime a challenge from Eugene Hurtubise was read from the ring side, to wrestle the winner of the bout for any amount of money up to $250, the contest to be public or private, at any time and place agreeable to the contestants.

In the discussion which followed Gauthier offered to wrestle Hurtubise providing he, Hurtubise, could make 195 lbs. It was apparently accepted and a contest between these two will likely take place in the near future.

At the end of the time allowed McDonough had not made his appearance and the event was declared off.

The boxing bout between "Mysterious Billy Smith, of Toronto, and George Campbell, coloured, of St. John N.B., was full of excitement, neither man having much advantage over the other, though, if any, Smith had it in the majority of the rounds. The decision given was a draw.

Messrs. Cole, Smith, Ayers and Ed. Crowe enlivened the intervals between the athletic events, with comic songs and imitations on the mouth organ.

Mr. Carter acted as referee.

London, March 26.—The correspondent of The Times at Tokio, says:—A report from the local officials of Wiju to the Corean Government shows that Russian troops began to cross the Yalu River into Corea on Feb. 2nd, and from that date until Feb 15 the numbers crossing aggregated 4,500. Three thousand remained at Wiju, and later moved to Chosan, and 500 proceeded towards Anju. Thus it appears that Russia commenced acts of war four days before the rupture of diplomatic relations.

LABOUR COUNCIL AGAINST CHANGE.

In the Standard Size of Loaves of Bread.

The Trades and Labour Council at the last meeting discussed the question of the proposed change in the standard size of bread, and declared against it. The members expressed themselves as being in favor of leaving the standard as it is at present, 2 and 4 pounds. The claim that the workingman would be greatly benefitted by it, even if it is raised to 13 cents per loaf. They point out also that in Belleville bread is not as high as it is here, even with the recent increase in the price of flour. They state that flour has now been reduced in price and they do not think there is any occasion for bread to go up to 13 cents as the bakers say they will raise it to if their request is not granted. The Trades and Labor Council expresses its opinion that the Council should leave the standard as it is.

SPRING MILLINERY AT ROBT. FAIR.

The Old Reliable Store Makes a Very Creditable Display.

The old reliable store, The Golden Lion, with a record of 20 years in the merteantile field, enters this spring season with brighter prospects than ever before. Just now the store is resplendent in its spring garb, and the decorations, the work of Mr. Edwin Clark, assisted by Mr. Lewis Johnston, are very beautiful. One, on entering the store, is at once impressed with the large plate glass show cases recently installed on the first floor. The feminine visitor is at once interested in the large range of exclusive styles in ladies tailor made suits, the low prices of which are remarkable. One in particular was noticed, and when the young lady in charge mentioned the price, $11.50, it was indeed a surprise, as one would naturally expect to pay $15 or $16 for such a well-made and beautiful garment. A splendid array of tweeds, suitable for suitings, gown and reception dresses, were also seen on the first floor. Miss Little, who has charge of the ready to wear suit department, states that the business in this branch is highly satisfactory. The dress-making department, under the direction of Miss Neill, who is considered one of the best in that line of work in Canada, has been doing an immense business this season. To such an extent has the business increased that her staff has been nearly doubled. This has been largely effected by turning out work not only perfectly satisfactory, but promptly on the time promised. It is in the millinery department, however, where the great interest is centered. Miss Armstrong, the head milliner, has been in New York, as usual, and has selected the very latest ready to wear hats. She also states that business is excellent, and she has a staff of fourteen assistants. The hats this season are bordering on the military style, and are trimmed with braid, chiffon and fancy straws. The new gun metal shade will be very popular this season, although all colors will be worn, no one shade predominating. Miss Armstrong showed a large number of ready to wear hats in some of the most pleasing styles imaginable.

The carpet department of the old reliable store, under the charge of Mr. G. R. Browning, was also seen to be quite busy, and a large assortment was in evidence.

THE MARKETS.

The market this morning illustrated the old saying that the early bird catches the worm. Butter and eggs were about the only produce that was offered for sale and the quantity of each was limited. Thus by half past eleven scarcely anything was left. Butter sold at 22 and 32c, eggs from 17 to 20c., and chickens 90c to $1 per pair.

THE INDIANS WANT WILD RICE CROP.

Chief's Son Visits Port Hope to Solicit Assistance from Charles Gilchrist.

An interesting visitor was in Port Hope last week in the person of the son of the chief of the Mississauga Indians of Rice Lake. He is a handsome, gentlemanly and well educated Indian, and his mission to Port Hope was to interview Mr. Charles Gilchrist to solicit his assistance in regard to a matter in which the Indians feel that they have been unfairly treated.

The chief's son is a direct descendant of the head chief of the Mississauga tribe, who, in 1818 surrendered to the crown in the name of his people nearly 2,000,000 acres of land. For this the government was to pay two cents per acre, and the treaty also stipulated that the islands of Rice Lake and the wild rice were to be reserved as the sole property of the Indians.

It is the rice crop which chiefly brought the chief's son to Port Hope. The Indians have deputed him to do what he can to persuade the Government to reserve the wild rice exclusively for the Indians as was agreed. He hopes to obtain material assistance in his mission from Mr. Gilchrist. He will try also to induce the government to allow the interest on the money obtained from the sale of the Rice Lake islands to be devoted to the Indians.—Times.

The Indian referred to in the above article is Mr. Johnston Paudash, well known in Peterborough. Mr. Paudash states to the Examiner that the Mississaugas are at present receiving the interest on the price paid for the 2,000,000 acres of land.

GOVERNMENT ERECTING A WHARF AT HIAWATHA.

Which Will Cost $1 500 When Completed—The Other News.

Hiawatha, March 24th.—The Government is erecting a wharf here which, when completed, will have cost $1,500. The work was begun a week ago last Monday and it is expected will be completed in about two weeks' time. The wharf is a large one and is being constructed of lumber and stone.

Notwithstanding the bad weather and the almost unwalkable condition of the roads, Mr. Wellington Cow has carried the mail well and regularly and the people of Hiawatha should be satisfied at having such an efficient carrier.

Mrs. Andrew Anderson, it will be learned with pleasure, has left the hospital and is rapidly recovering from her operation.

Mr. Newton Loft and Miss Agnes Howard spent a very pleasant evening at the Shippagua House.

The ice on Rice Lake is 3 feet 4 inches thick and as yet there is no opening.

Mr. Solomon Loft, who has been spending the past month with Deseronto friends, has returned to Hiawatha.

EASTERTIDE AT HOOPER'S

Those who want to see something unique in the way of candy boxes should call at T. Hooper's and see his display for Easter. One, the most curious is a large black rooster in full fighting trim looking fierce enough to make things interesting were he only alive. Then there are white roosters, small stuffed chickens and ducks, with their soft downy forms looking as natural as possible which, when pressed by loving hands omit a noise something like the familiar sound real chickens make when they see good eating ahead. Another pretty novelty is the little silk chicken which is just the right size to be used with a box of G.B.'s for your Easter gift to your best girl. These pretty novelties are made by the de't fingered Japanese and show the same taste and ingenuity that is evident in all their work.

All sizes of candy eggs and pretty baskets filled with sweets are on the list of good things with which to make the children joyous at Easter. They are not expensive and are pretty and tasty.

A new shipment of those favourite G.B.'s has been received for the Easter Trade. We can fill you a nice fresh box and make it look particularly pretty for an Easter gift if you call on us. T. H. Hooper. Two stores, Corner of George and Brock streets, and 337 George street. 2d

GOOD FINANCING.

The estimates at Ottawa were brought down promptly, the Premier having shut off a great deal of the windy declamation that generally accompanies the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the Throne. There was no reason to hold back the financial statement of the Dominion; it is so creditable that Mr. Fielding would be less than human, if he did not take pride in presenting a financial situation so eminently satisfactory.

The net debt was reduced last year by over ten millions, and the prospect is that the reduction this year will be larger. To begin with, the estimates call for over five and a half millions less than was asked last year, and the revenues will become greater. The margin to the good and available for the liquidation of debt, will, therefore, be substantial. The country is exceedingly prosperous, and it is in times of prosperity that the money can be used for reduction of debt, though it is sometimes wiser to employ surplus revenue for the promotion of national and necessary enterprises, whose undertaking would not be justified under conditions of short revenues.

The average rate of interest on the gross debt for the year was $3.02, compared with $3.09 in the previous year, and the net rate of interest paid has fallen from $2.57 to $2.47. Railway subsidies paid amounted to $1,463,222. Iron and steel bounties amounted to $1,408,252, and $130,469 was paid in connection with the South African contingents and Halifax garrison. The receipts on account of consolidated fund amounted to $66,037,068, and the expenditure on the same account to $51,691,902. The surplus of receipts over expenditure was therefore $14,345,166.

SCARCITY OF FODDER UP IN HALIBURTON.

Cattle Dying on all Sides, and the Situation is Critical.

A resident of Haliburton, who arrived in town yesterday afternoon, tells a harrowing tale of the sufferings endured by the people of that district on account of the severe weather and scarcity of fodder. The cattle on many farms had been reduced to mere skeletons, and were lying prostrate in the yards. Many of them had died, and the farmers are in desperate straits, looking forward for a hurried opening up of spring.

RESCUED FROM CERTAIN DEATH.

Wonderful Cure by Dodd's Kidney Pills in Newfoundland.

Little Willie French Swelled From Head to Foot with Dropsy and Given up by Doctors—Is Strong and Healthy Again.

Soilly Cove, Nfld., March 25. — (Special.) — Trinity Bay district is ringing with the wonderful cure of the little son of William French of this place. He had Dropsy so badly that all hope was abandoned and for thirty days and nights his parents watched by his side expecting that almost every day would be his last. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured him. The father tells the story as follows:

"My little boy, Willie, six years of age, was taken sick the last week of January of 1903. His legs began to swell and we sent for the doctor, who said that he had kidney disease of the worst kind, with a heavy chill. He gave him some medicine, but the little fellow continued to get worse, till he was swelled from his head to his toes and he burst open. Such a case the eye of man never saw.

"Myself and wife were up thirty night; we never left his side, expecting every hour would be his last. The doctor said the only remedy was to tap him but he did not do it because the kidneys were too far gone to remedy.

"So with the poor boy given up to die I started using Dodd's Kidney Pills, and to my great surprise, after taking five boxes my boy is as strong and hearty as ever he was.

"I am able to say before the whole world, that Dodd's Kidney Pills, through the help of God and nothing else, was the means of saving the life of my boy."

Another Fight in Africa.

Berlin, March 26.—A cablegram was received yesterday from Col. Luetwein, the Governor of German Southwest Africa, announcing that a fight occurred at Omakko Mountain, March 16, which resulted in the Hereros being repulsed, with the loss of 10 men killed. The German loss was two men killed and two wounded.

Insurgent General Executed.

Washington, March 26.—United States Minister Powell cables from San Domingo city that President Morales has captured and caused to be promptly executed General Nicholas Artias, the insurgent leader, who was convicted of killing Machinist Johnson in the steam launch of the U. S. SS. Yankee, a few weeks ago.

A RADIUM EXISTS IN HALIBURTON COUNTY.

An Important Discovery in Cardiff Township.

A Toronto gentleman, Mr. S. Dillon-Mills, M. Ex., states that he has recently ascertained the existence of a radioative force in a mineral which he discovered in the Fall in Cardiff township.

The exact nature of this discovery has not as yet been determined, but it is probably Biomatrandite, a hydrous titanoniobrate of uranium.

The discovery is a very important one, it is believed, and the result of an investigation into its value and nature will be awaited with interest.

NO FEMALE SINGERS IN CATHOLIC CHOIRS.

By the Pope's Orders They will be Barred from Hamilton Catholic Churches.

Hamilton, March 24.—The letter of Pope Pius to do away with female singers in choirs of Catholic churches will go into effect here after the Easter services, the recent Lenten circular of His Lordship Bishop Dowling giving notice of the change. In view of this order, the preparations for the musical services at the celebrations are not on the elaborate scale of former years. No official notice has been received here yet regarding the report that the Pope has ordered changes in the street garb of the clergy.

In his recent letter on church music it is understood His Holiness the Pope advocated the entire use of the Gregorian Chant in the church services and the doing away of female singers in the choirs and the training of young male voices in the soprano parts.

No reference has been made as yet to this important change in the diocese of Peterborough.

MUST BE GILT-EDGED

Character of Soo Securities Defined by Premier.

OR BILL MAY NOT BE PRESSED

Liquor License Bill Will Soon Be Introduced By the Government—Will Contain Nearly All the Suggestions of Those Who Have Given Most Careful Attention to Liquor License Laws.

Toronto, March 26.—"The securities which we will hold must be gilt-edged," said the Premier yesterday in the Legislature, referring to the guarantee of interest on $2,000,000 which the Government proposed to make in aid of the "Soo" industries. "There must be no incumbrance or any difficulty about any part or phrase of the bargain," he continued. "It must be as safe a transaction as a loan to the Bank of England. We propose to take no risks, and will not ask the House to take any. The ground is clear in some respects, but not in others. I hope to be able to satisfy the House that it is clear entirely before asking it to proceed with the bill."

The Liquor License Bill.

It is understood that a liquor license bill will be introduced by the Government next week, or, if not then, immediately after the Easter vacation. It is believed that the bill will contain nearly all the suggestions of those who have given the most careful attention to the administration of the liquor license laws.

Questions and Returns

Mr. Hoyle was informed by the Premier that it is not the intention of the Government to introduce this session legislation granting financial aid to the development of the peat fuel industry.

Mr. Powell was informed by the Attorney-General that the fines imposed by the Police Magistrate of Ottawa under the criminal code and paid over to the Provincial Treasurer were $1,119 in 1901, $956 in 1902 and $912 in 1903.

Mr. Traux informed Mr. Dunlop that the "Soo" companies are not in any way indebted to him.

Mr. Kidd obtained an order for a return showing the names of all persons convicted for violation of the liquor license act in Carleton during 1901, 1902 and 1903.

Mr. Jessop obtained an order for a return, giving all payments made by the Queen Victoria Niagara Falls Park Commissioners for 1903.

Mr. Matheson obtained an order for a return of the correspondence in connection with a mining claim in the Township of Hutton.

The following bills were read a third time: Respecting the Muskoka Lakes Navigation & Hotel Co.; to further extend the powers of the Consumers' Gas Co.; to incorporate the Village of Chatsworth; respecting the Windsor, Essex & Lake Shore Rapid Railway Co.; respecting the London, Aylmer & North Shore Electric Railway Co., respecting the Town of Perth electric system.

Dr. Nesbitt's bill to abolish cumulative voting for Boards of Education in cities was referred to the Legal Committee, and a number of bills were advanced a stage.

DAN GROSVENOR SAYS:

"Pe-ru-na is an Excellent Spring Catarrh Remedy—I am as Well as E[illegible]."

HON. DAN. A. GROSVENOR, OF THE FAMOUS OHIO FAMILY.

Hon. Dan. A. Grosvenor, Deputy Auditor for the War Department, in a letter written from Washington, D. C., says:

"Allow me to express my gratitude to you for the benefit derived from one bottle of Peruna. One week has brought wonderful changes and I am now as well as ever. Besides being one of the very best spring tonics it is an excellent catarrh remedy."—

DAN. A. GROSVENOR.

In a recent letter he says:

"I consider Peruna really more meritorious than I did when I wrote you last. I receive numerous letters from acquaintances all over the country asking me if my certificate is genuine. I invariably answer, yes."—Dan. A. Grosvenor.

A County Commissioner's Letter.

Hon. John Williams, County Commissioner, of 517 West Second street, Duluth, Minn., says the following in regard to Peruna:

"As a remedy for catarrh I can cheerfully recommend Peruna. I know what it is to suffer from that terrible disease and I feel that it is my duty to speak a good word for the tonic that brought me immediate relief. Peruna cured me of a bad case of catarrh and I know it will cure any other sufferer from that disease."—John Williams.

A Congressman's Letter.

Hon. H. W. Ogden, Congressman from Louisiana, in a letter written at Washington, D. C., says the following of Peruna, the national catarrh remedy:

"I can conscientiously recommend your Peruna as a fine tonic and all around good medicine to those who are in need of a catarrh remedy. It has been commended to me by people who have used it, as a remedy particularly effective in the cure of catarrh. For those who need a good catarrh medicine I know of nothing better."

W. E. Griffith, Concan, Texas, writes: "I suffered with chronic catarrh for many years. I took Peruna and it completely cured me. I think Peruna is the best medicine in the world for catarrh. My general health is much improved by its use, as I am much stronger than I have been for years."—W. E. Griffith.

A Congressman's Letter.

Congressman H. Bowen, Ruskin, Tazewell county, Va., writes:

"I can cheerfully recommend your valuable remedy. Peruna, to any one who is suffering with catarrh, and who is in need of a permanent and effective cure."—H. Bowen.

Mr. Fred. D. Scott, Larue, Ohio, Right Guard of Hiram Foot Ball Team, writes: "As a specific for lung trouble I place Peruna at the head. I have used it myself for colds and catarrh of the bowels and it is a splendid remedy. It restores vitality, increases bodily strength and makes a sick person well in a short time. I give Peruna my hearty indorsement." Fred. D. Scott.

Gen. Ira C. Abbott, 906 M street, N. W., Washington, D. C., writes:

"I am fully convinced that your remedy is an excellent tonic. Many of my friends have used it with the most beneficial results for coughs, colds and catarrhal trouble."—Ira C. Abbott.

Mrs. Elmer Fleming, orator of Reservoir Council No. 168, Northwestern Legion of Honor, of Minneapolis, Minn., writes from 2535 Polk street, NE.:

Mrs. Elmer Fleming, Minneapolis, Minn.

"I have been troubled all my life with catarrh in my head. I took Peruna for about three months, and now think I am permanently cured. I believe that for catarrh in all its forms Peruna is the medicine of the age. It cures when all other remedies fail. I can heartily recommend Peruna as a catarrh remedy."—Mrs. Elmer Fleming.

Treat Catarrh in Spring.

The spring is the time to treat catarrh. Cold, wet winter weather often retards a cure of catarrh. If a course of Peruna is taken during the early spring months the cure will be prompt and permanent. There can be no failures if Peruna is taken intelligently during the favorable weather of spring.

As a systemic catarrh remedy Peruna eradicates catarrh from the system wherever it may be located. It cures catarrh of the stomach or bowels with the same certainty as catarrh of the head.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

SEA PORTS OF CANADA.

Lord Strathcona Corrects Misstatement and Says They Are Always Open.

London, March 26.—(C.A.P.)—Lord Strathcona writes to The Times combating Sir C. B. McLaren's statement that the Canadian ports are closed in winter, and quotes the admiralty reports as describing Halifax and St. John as always accessible and among the finest and safest harbors in the world.

Sick of the Government.

The Right Hon. John Morley, speaking at St. Alban's, said the country was sick of a Government which had wrecked or water-logged not one question alone, but all. Only one Government act promised to be a success—the negotiations between France and England. The next general election would turn on free trade, and the great labor party would come to the front.

Embryonic Home Rule.

The House of Commons discussed yesterday an embryonic measure of home rule, giving a second reading to a bill applying to Wales the system of private bill legislation enjoyed by Scotland. Right Hon. W. H. Long, M.P. (president of the Local Government Board), speaking for the Government, sympathized with the Welsh demand, but considered it unwise to pass the bill until the success of the Scottish experiment was assured. A select committee will enquire into the Scotch system. The Welsh members were not pressing that portion of the bill setting up a new form of administrative machinery based on the county councils.

AN UNNATURAL MOTHER.

Some Owen Sound Children Make a Gruesome Find.

Owen Sound, March 26.—This town has a sensation in the murder of a newly born babe, whose body was found at noon yesterday by children playing in the street. Apparently it had lain in a snow bank on Peel street for six or seven weeks. It was wrapped in a course covering of rag carpet. The body was taken to the morgue, where it was found that a cord, like a shoe string, was wound around the babe's neck, and pulled tight enough to strangle it. This, the police consider, is sufficient evidence that the child was murdered by its unnatural mother.

Associate Coroner Dow held an inquest yesterday afternoon. After viewing the remains, he ordered an adjournment till Tuesday, to receive the post-mortem testimony. The Attorney-General has been notified, and it is expected that a special officer will be sent here to look into the case.

The body is that of a healthy, well-formed infant. The coroner thinks it was alive when left in the snow bank.

HE ASKS NO QUESTIONS NOW.

Toronto Man Long a Victim of Dyspepsia Learns to Enjoy his Meals—Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Did It.

"I was afraid to eat many things that would have suited my taste. Now I can eat whatever is set before me—I ask no questions."

Some people read the first part of the foregoing statement and say "Tut, tut, me." But Mr. R. A. Barton, of 23 Kendall Avenue, Toronto, makes the following conclusion. He has used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

"I had indigestion in its worst form," Mr. Barton goes on to say. "I consulted several doctors but they did me no good, and I began to think my case was hopeless. As a last resort I tried Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. I am thankful to say they had the desired effect."

This means that if you would eat what you like, when you like, you must use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. They provide the stomach with those gastric juices, the scarcity of which is the cause of indigestion and Dyspepsia.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are condensed comfort. Take one or two after eating and have the pleasure of enjoying your meals.

Rhodes Papers Held Up.

New York, March 24.—The customs officials here have held up the examination papers set at Oxford, for the United States and Canadian candidates for the Cecil Rhodes scholarships. It is presumed this has been done under the provisions of the tariff act, and that the authorities hold the papers should have been printed in the United States.

Brother Turns Cannibal.

Brockville, March 24.—Wm. Cranston and Thos. Sinclair, half brothers, who came here recently from Prescott to work in a foundry, got into an altercation in their room Tuesday night and Sinclair was brutally beaten and is now in the hospital. Part of his lower lip was bitten off and one finger nearly severed. Cranston is in jail.

Knew Dr. Chase in 1867

One of Dr. Chase's oldest patients in Canada is Mr. G. W. Parish, of Sturgeon Bay, Simcoe County, Ont., whom he cured of kidney disease in 1867 by means of his now celebrated Kidney-Liver Pills. Mr. Parish writes that he does not think there is any medicine half so good, and he always keeps Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in the house as a family medicine.

THE G. T. PACIFIC

Agreement to Have Precedence After the Easter Recess.

THE MILITIA RESOLUTIONS

Provide For Increase of Pay to Permanent Force—The General Officer Commanding—Opposition Oppose Taking Power to Appoint a Canadian Officer—Deporting of Jews From Dakota—In Supply.

Ottawa, March 26.—The House yesterday discussed Sir Frederick Borden's resolutions providing for the increase of pay to the permanent force, the militia and the headquarters staff. The question of opening the position of General Officer Commanding the militia to a Canadian was again debated, the opposition of Mr. R. L. Borden and members on the left of the Speaker to the proposal eliciting another vigorous declaration by the Minister that the discrimination against Canadians should disappear from the statute book.

The Premier announced that the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway agreement will be the first business taken up after the Easter recess, and will have precedence on and after April 5 over other business until disposed of.

A report from the Immigration Agent at Winnipeg exploded the story published in the press and seized upon by the Opposition as a ground of attack upon the Interior Department, that fifty Jews from Canada had been deported by the Dakota authorities as "undesirable" persons. It transpires that the half hundred were in reality only six in number, belonging to one family; they were allowed to remain in Fargo a year before being deported, and had previously lived for four years in Winnipeg.

Provincial Subsidies.

In the House Mr. Borden called the attention of the Government to a clause in the speech from the throne, delivered at the opening of the Quebec Legislature, in which it was stated that there was every reason to believe that the important subject of the readjustment of the provincial subsidies is being seriously considered by the Government of Canada. Mr. Borden said he gathered from the Prime Minister's remarks that the subject had not come under the consideration of the Government thus far, and he concluded that the person who drafted this speech for the Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec must have been under a misapprehension.

"The Premiers of all the provinces," replied Sir Wilfrid Laurier, "have approached the Government on two or three occasions, but especially last fall with the object of obtaining a readjustment of the subsidies as defined by the Act of Confederation. This subject has not yet been taken up by the Government, but I stated personally to one or two of the Premiers, and amongst them to Mr. Parent, that in my judgment it would be made at an early date the subject of serious consideration on the part of the Government. Nothing more, however, has been done."

Public Works Votes.

In Committee of Supply the remaining public works items chargeable to income affecting the Maritime Provinces were passed, and the Ontario votes taken up. Mr. Henderson, Mr. Blair and Mr. Borden criticized the plans for the Alexandria public building, to cost $10,000, and figured out that the site was costing $80 a foot frontage, or $1.27 per square foot, while the site of the London Armory only cost 85 cents per square foot.

Hon. James Sutherland replied that the Government had acted in good faith, and had made the best bargain they could. The London building was not in nearly so important a part of the corporation relatively as that of Alexandria.

In reply to Mr. Clancy, who said an $8,000 building seemed large for a little place like Bridgeburg, Mr. Sutherland said the customs revenue collected was $285,000, and a large staff of officers were needed to watch the troublesome people who came through on their way to Toronto.

"I suppose you have quarters for the police to watch the prize-fights carried on there under the patronage of the Ontario Government," observed Mr. W. H. Bennett.

A number of items were voted, and the House adjourned at 11 o'clock.

READ IT THROUGH.

Twould Spoil This Story to Tell it in the Headlines.

To use an eighteenth century phrase, this is an "o'er true tale." Having happened in a small Virginian town in the winter of 1902 it is a story very much of the present. Up to a short time ago Mrs. John E. Harmon, of Melfa Station, Va., had no personal knowledge of the rare curative properties of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. "Last January," she says, "my baby took a dreadful cold and at one time I feared that she would have pneumonia, but one of my neighbours told me how this remedy had cured her little boy and I began giving it to my baby at once, and it soon cured her. I heartily thank the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for placing so great a cure within my reach. I cannot recommend it too highly or say too much in its favour. I hope all who read this will try and be convinced as I was." For sale by all druggists.

Cut This Out and Know How to Get Well.

That is all. Send no money. Simply Sign above. Tell me the book you need. I will arrange with a druggist near you for six bottles of

Dr. Shoop's Restorative

Take it a month at my risk. If it succeeds the cost to you is $5.50 If it fails the druggist will bill the cost to me. And I leave the decision to you

DON'T WAIT UNTIL YOU ARE WORSE

Taken in time the suffering of this little one would have been prevented. Her mother writes me:

"Two years ago my little girl was sick continuously for six months. We tried many doctors and they failed, yet it took only two bottles of your remedy to cure her, and she has remained cured. You can tell others of this cure if you so desire. Mrs. C. H. Avery, Rockdale, N. Y."

'Tis a pity she did not first write me before the case was dangerous.

The wife of Omer Andrus of Bayou Chicot, La., had been sick for 20 years. For 8 years could do practically no work. He writes:

"When she first started taking the Restorative she barely weighed 90 pounds; now she weighs 135, and is easily able to do all her housework."

Twenty "dark" years might have been "bright" ones.

J. G. Billingsley of Thomasville, Ga., for three years had been crippled with disease. Now he is well. He writes:

"I spent $260.00 for other medicines, and the $3.00 I have spent with you have done me more good than all the rest."

Both money and suffering might have been saved.

And these are only three from over 65,000 similar cases. These letters—dozens of them—come every day to me.

How much serious illness the Restorative has prevented, I have no means of knowing, for the slightly ill and the indisposed simply get a bottle or two of their druggist, are cured, and I never hear from them.

But of 600,000 sick ones—seriously sick mind you—who asked for my guarantee, 39 out of each 40 have paid. Paid because they got well.

If I can succeed in cases like these—fail but one time in 40, in diseases deep-seated and chronic—isn't it certain I can always cure the slightly ill?

WHY THE RESTORATIVE SUCCEEDS

You may oil and rub, adjust and repair a weak engine. It will never be stronger nor do its work better, without steam. More power—more steam is necessary.

And so with the vital organs. Doctor them as you will. That's mere repairing. Permanent cures never come save through treating the nerves that operate those organs.

And that my Restorative does.

After almost a lifetime of labour—of study at bedsides and research in hospitals—I made this discovery. I found a way to treat, not the organs themselves, but the nerves—the inside nerves—that operate these organs and give them power and strength and health. That discovery has shown me the way to cure.

It makes my offer possible.

I know the remedy. I never can forget the study, all the research, the trials and tests that perfected it. I have watched its action year after year in cases difficult, discouraging. Time after time I have seen it bring back health to those poor ones whom hope had almost deserted. I know what it will do.

My only problem is to convince you.

And so I make my offer. And the bare fact that I make such an offer ought of itself to convince you that I know how to cure. Please read it again. It means exactly what I say. No catch—no misleading phrases in it Simply this—you take the medicine and I will take the risk.

And you—not I—decide if you are to pay.

ALL YOU NEED TO DO

Simply sign the above—that is all. Ask for the book you need. The offer I make is broad—is liberal. The way is easy—is simple. The Restorative is certain.

But do not misunderstand me.

This is not free treatment, with nothing to pay. Such an offer would be misleading—would belittle the physician who made it. But I believe in a sick one's honesty—his gratitude. That when he is cured, he will pay the cost of the treatment—and gladly.

I make this offer so that those who doubt may learn at my risk.

Tell of it, please, to a friend who is sick. Or send me his name. That's but a trifle to ask—a minute's time—a postal. He is your friend. You can help him. My way may be his only way to get well.

I, as a stranger, offer to do all this. Won't you, his friend, his neighbour, simply write?

He will learn from my book a way to get well. Perhaps, as I say, the only way to get well for him. His case may be serious—hopeless almost. Other physicians—other specialists may have failed. The matter is urgent, then

Write me a postal or sign above today.

James Riley Killed.

Cornwall, March 25.—The citizens of Cornwall were shocked yesterday morning by the announcement that James Riley, the well-known ex-captain of the Cornwall Lacrosse Club, had been accidentally killed in the Stormont mill. Death was instantaneous, the body being much cut about the head and shoulders. He was 35 years of age.

A BOY'S EXPERIENCE WITH MAPLE SYRUP.

The Best Laid Plans of Men and Mice Gang aft Aglee.

This afternoon on King street a farmer was delivering maple syrup to several customers, and while filling an order in a house near the station several boys gathered around his sleigh for the purpose of testing his supply. One of the party opened the can, and in order to get in range of his mouth was obliged to tilt it up in a rather dangerous position. At this juncture the horses, frightened by a locomotive, gave a start, and the boy and syrup mixed it up in a manner decidedly unpleasant for the youth. He was literally besmeared with saccharine matter, and it would be difficult for a saccharometer to ascertain how much of the syrup had been mixed up in the boys hair and garments.

But this was not all. The irate farmer appeared on the scene as if by magic, and his pedal extremities imparted to the youth a momentum, which was not relaxed until he landed out of range.

THE SPRING THAW.

The Snow Rapidly Disappearing During the Past few Days

The spring-like weather we have experienced during the past few days has had a marked effect on the snow and ice that accumulated on our thoroughfares during the past winter, and if old Sol would continue to turn on its rays to the top notch, it would not be many days until the street scrapers would have their innings.

Last evening's copious rainfall did grand work in washing the refuse from the surface of the ice and giving the sun a grand opportunity to "shine" when next it makes its appearance.

The creek through the town this morning showed the effect of last night's rain, and was a raging torrent. The water is at present running over the ice bed which has formed during the winter in the creek, and as a result the stream is somewhat more threatening than it otherwise would be had it a clear opening to its natural bed.

The ice is beginning to break up, however, and this morning immense blocks found their way down stream, and were hurled with great force against the abutments of the several bridges.

The change in the weather will have a tendency to diminish the flow, and Street Inspector Evans does not anticipate any trouble from this quarter.

The Grand Trunk authorities are placing plank in an upright position near the Bethune street bridge, in order to break the force of the ice flow. A citizen stated this morning that if the creek should rise any higher the water would certainly go over the bridges.

THE SPRING FLOOD IN A CHURCH CELLAR.

Basement of St. Paul's Mission so Badly Flooded that no Service will be Held There To morrow.

As will be seen in another column of this issue, there will be no service or Sabbath school held in St. Paul's Mission Church to-morrow. The cause for this is the fact that the cellar of the Mission is under water to some depth. Until yesterday the cellar was comparatively free from water, but the thaw of the afternoon and the rain of last night invaded the basement of the church to such an extent that this morning it was seen that it would be impossible to hold any service.

HORSE WAS DROWNED IN DITCH OF WATER.

Unfortunate Loss of an Otanbee Farmer and Some Narrow Escapes.

While William Hatherly, a farmer living in the township of Otonabee, was driving to town this morning he had the misfortune to have one of his horses drowned. The accident was an unfortunate and extraordinary affair. The party, for there were three or four in the sleigh to which a team of horses was hitched, had not got far out from his home, and was crossing a field when both animals plunged shoulder deep through the snow's crust. Last fall a big ditch had been dug in this spot and the struggles of the terrorized horses only got them more deeply buried. At last the snow gave way and sleigh and horses fell into the ditch which contained several feet of water. One animal was drowned as a result, and the occupants narrowly escaped a similar death. As it was all were considerably wetted and severly chilled. The accident occurred some six or seven miles out of town.

A COLD BATH.

A Youngster Fell in the Creek Yesterday at Noon.

"Boys will be boys," the old adage says, and they will indulge in boyish pranks until the end of time. But these proclivities are sometimes carried to extremes. Yesterday at noon several boys were loitering around the creek near the corner of Murray and Aylmer streets encouraging an ice flow, and forcing the blocks of ice from their positions. One of the youngsters lost his footing, and was immersed in the cold water, his left leg being wedged in between two blocks of ice. The situation was extremely critical for the youth, who yelled like an Objibway brave. A gentleman passing by went to his rescue, and the youth was extricated. He limped to his home, his spirit of bravado dampened, as well as his clothing, to a marked degree.

THE TRENT WATERWAY A BUSINESS PROPOSITION.

THE QUESTION OF WATER POWERS.

Hundreds of Thousands of Horse Power Would be Developed Along the Route—Closing Meeting of the Session —Mr. Bertram's Views.

The concluding meeting of the Peterborough Session of the Royal Transportation Commission was held yesterday afternoon, when a large portion of the meeting was devoted to hearing the evidence submitted by delegates from Orillia and Barrie. The conditions in these two towns were almost identical, as far as benefit to be derived from the canal are concerned. The principal evidence offered by these delegates was that with the canal completed the towns represented by them would be able to secure better freight rates than is possible at present with only one line of railway. This, they believe, would result in the augmentation of their manufacturing establishments. The arguments used by these delegates were for the most part local, and apply equally well to any town along the route of the canal, Every town represented apparently wished the Commission to hold a sitting in it, and an invitation was extended from each.

A very valuable contribution to the mass of evidence was the information elicited by questioning Mr. R. B. Rogers, Superintending Engineer of the Trent Canal. Mr. Rogers' evidence was largely of a technical character. The questions answered by him were based on statements made in the lecture of the preceding evening. Mr. Rogers showed that he possessed a thorough knowledge of the waters comprising the Trent System, and he imparted some valuable information on the subject of conservation of the waters. He stated that were the waters forming the source of supply of the Trent Waterway properly conserved, there would be abundant water to operate the canal.

One incident brought out in the evidence by Mr. R. B. Hall yesterday, was attached considerable importance to by Mr. Bertram, who said that if the information was correct, it would appear that the Government had already decided upon the completion of the canal. This was the fact that the Dominion Government had made application to the Ontario Government to give the former control of the dams, locks and slides owned by the latter, on the Trent System. Mr. Bertram remarked that if this were the case, it was unnecessary for the Commission to sit here, and consider the Trent Canal, as it would appear that its completion had already been decided upon. Mr. Hall pointed out that the transfer asked for had not yet been actually made, and there might be a hitch.

Mr. Bertram, in closing the session, expressed pleasure at being at his old home again, and while personal feelings could not influence him in his recommendations to the Government, as the question had to be decided upon a business basis, and his business reputation was at stake, still he would be glad to do the very best he could for Peterborough, and the Trent Waterway.

A number of prominent local gentlemen after the Session expressed themselves as being highly pleased with the results of the meeting, and felt that a strong case had been made out.

When the Commission meets at Midland, which it will do some time in the future, Peterborough will submit further evidence relating to through business.

Ald. Matthews was the first speaker, Friday afternoon, and on behalf of the town of Trenton, invited the Commissioners to visit that town. He further stated in reference to the water powers at or near Trenton, that Mr. John Kennedy, of Montreal, had stated that there were available between Trenton and Frankford 60,000 horse power even at the lowest water.

ORILLIA'S STATEMENT

Mr. J. P. Secord, of Orillia, was the next speaker, who stated that the Orillia delegation appeared before the commission with satisfaction and anxiety, satisfaction because of the fact that the men who composed the Commission were recognized as men of business ability, and anxiety because of the great results to be obtained from the completion of the canal. Mr. Secord pointed out the great saving in distance which would be effected by the canal. Speaking of the local benefits which Orillia would obtain, he said that the town had a population of 6,600, and the business of the town was very large, a great portion of the exports being lumber, which went principally to England, South America and Africa, in the shipment of which the Trent Canal would greatly facilitate. Mr. Secord made some comparisons with regard to the Erie Canal, as compared with the Trent Canal. Speaking with reference to the reasons why the canal had not been completed long ago, in view of the present unanimity with respect to its completion, he believed that the reason advanced that it was on account of the C. P. R. construction, was not sufficient, and he thought one of the reasons was that those who first started the canal were incompetent and did not fully recognize the imtance of the project. He concluded by stating that he was here, not to pray as a favour that the canal be finished, but as a Canadian asking his just rights.

Ex-Mayor Sanderson spoke for the Town of Orillia, and invited the Commissioners to sit at that town. He believed that some things could be shown the members with which they were not familiar. Mr. Sanderson stated that in his opinion the town had greatly outgrown the present transportation facilities. He almost thought that the present condition was a call from a Higher Power on the Government to supply better facilities. He touched upon the difficulty of procuring coal, which he thought would be remedied by the completion of the canal. He believed a saving would be effected of 60 to 65 cents per ton. The G.T.R. had last year lowered the freight rate from 7 to 5 cents per hundred pounds, which he believed was done in view of the proposed completion of the canal. As to the outlet from Lake Simcoe to the Georgian Bay, he thought it made little difference whether it was by the Severn River or otherwise, so long as it was completed.

Mr. C. H. Hale of the Orillia Packet, spoke on the local aspects of the case, and quoted figures to show that in the neighbourhood of Orillia there was an assessment of $8,000,000, and 16 municipalities would be benefitted by the canal.

BARRIE'S SPEAKERS.

Mr. D. Ross spoke representing the Barrie town council, and said that that all that the Orillia delegates had said with respect to the advantages which the town would gain, referred equally to Barrie. Speaking of the route from Lake Simcoe to the Georgian Bay he thought the course should be from Barrie on the Kempenfeldt Bay, by the Vesper Creek and Nottawasaga River, to Georgian Bay, the distance being 20 miles. Speaking on the general question Mr. Ross said the Barrie people were supporting the Trent Canal strongly, as they would also support any canal which would touch that town.

Mr. J. R. Lamb, chairman of the Barrie Board of Trade, also spoke on behalf of that town. He also corroborated the statements made by the Orillia delegation.

MANUFACTURERS' INTERESTS.

Mr. J. M. Kilbourn speaking said that he would endeavour to convince the Commission that the completion of the canal would be of general advantage. He believed that the question of routes was one which would depend upon expert reports of engineers, but he thought the generally accepted route was that by way of Trenton. He had ascertained that the amount of power available from Rice Lake to Trenton was 57,000 h.p., based on a minimum flow of 100,000 cubic feet per minute. This was a theoretical estimate; the actual amount would probably be 80 per cent. of this, which at $5 per horse power, would amount to nearly $250,000, per year, which would be lost if the canal went by Port Hope. Not only this but the power would be practically valueless were the canal taken by Port Hope. He thought it was unfortunate that a multiplicity of proposed routes had been mooted as it might give an excuse for a delay in the completion of the canal. Speaking of the effects on his industry, that of the cement factory at Lakefield, he said that his company used over 25,000 tons of coal, upon which they paid at present $1.25 per ton freight from Suspension Bridge, whereas by the canal he thought the coal could be purchased for 75c per ton less. The output of the works is 200,000 barrels per year, upon the shipment of which a great saving would be effected by the canal. He expressed his opinion that if the canal were completed, and even if it did not carry a pound of freight, it would pay for itself in the regulation of freight rates, which its completion would effect.

Mr. J. A. Culverwell was next called upon, but stated that he would prefer to wait until the other gentlemen had spoken before giving his evidence, and upon being told by Mr. Bertram that he would have to give it when called upon, or not at all, he stated that he was not ready to go on, and would give his evidence in writing, which Mr. Bertram said the Commission would send for if it were required.

PRACTICAL EVIDENCE.

Captain Vanalstine was the next witness and was questioned by Mr. R. M. Dennistoun on his experience as a practical seaman. He said that he thought that four 25,000 ton barges could be easily handled on the Trent Canal. He said that he believed that a fleet of 4 tow and one steam barge could be constructed for $39,000. He believed these barges could make two round trips per month Midland to Montreal, and he believed that the freight rates would be 1 1-4 cents per bushel, divided in the ratio of 3-4 of a cent from Midland to Kingston and 1-2 cent east from Kingston to Montreal. These figures included all charges, including terminal charges. The captain spoke further regarding the state of weather on Lake Ontario, and stated that he would consider it very unsafe to travel from Port Hope to Presque Isle with a tow and barges, whereas at the Gap he considered it comparatively safe, as there would be only occasionally a wind which would damage them, and this distance would only be about 5 or 6 miles.

Statements from Hastings and Deseronto Boards of Trade, and Peterborough County, were then handed in in writing.

Mr. J. C. Shook, representing the lumbering interest, was next heard, and stated that his firm shipped twelve million feet of lumber per year, a large portion of it going to Ogdensburg for shipment to United States ports and to European markets. He was not particularly interested in the question of rates, as his product was largely shipped f. o. b. cars at the mills. Mr. Shook believed that the great benefit would come from the canal as a national enterprise, for the through traffic, and the local benefit was but incidental.

Mr. Bertram called Mr. Shook's attention to the fact that there was a big demand in Europe for lumber from Georgian Bay mills for the shipment of which there was no outlet, and asked if Mr. Shook could state how the canal could effect this shipment.

MR. R. B. ROGERS.

Mr. R. B. Rogers, Superintending Engineer of the Trent Canal, was the next speaker, and presented his evidence, and the facts gleaned from him were of a most instructive and valuable character. As to the inlet for the canal from the Georgian Bay, he stated that a number of surveys had been made and the mouth of the canal had been placed at Severn River, and the route which he thought the most desirable was from Port Severn to Orillia by way of the Severn River. The lay of the land made it favourable for three more lift locks; one at Talbot, being 50 feet, and one at High Falls one 46 feet, Severn river, also 50 feet. Comparatively little dredging would be necessary on the Severn, the distance from Port Severn to Orillia being 37 miles.

In answer to the question by the chairman as to whether there would be sufficient natural flow of water Mr. Rogers that there would be ample flow provided a few dams were constructed. The flow of water now varies greatly in the different seasons. Speaking on the question of power, the Government had no water powers on the route from Severn to Lakefield. Below this Nos. 3 and 5 dams were rented and 2 others were available for rent. There are a number of powers along the Trent River from Rice Lake to Trenton which could be developed, and from which the Government could secure revenue. Speaking of the surveys from Rice Lake to Port Hope, he said that one of these was made by himself, and he considered it a very complete one. He considered that the leakage and evaporation by the Port Hope route would be very considerable. Mr. Outram, of Port Hope, in answer to this, stated that his experience along this line led him to believe that the seapage would be very small.

THE PEAT INDUSTRY

Mr. Rogers gave some information referring to the peat industry and stated that there was one factory which was at present working satisfactorily and could sell all they could make.

Mr. Rogers stated that when the contracts now being worked on were completed, the canal would be completed from Lake Simcoe to Healey's Falls, a distance of 170 miles.

Mr. D. W. Dumble, in speaking with reference to the prices paid the farmers for land upon which there were rapids, said that it was at the usual price for land, $30 or $40 per acre, and no price paid for the power rights.

Mr. R. B. Hall spoke on the question of the conservation of the water and explained that 32 of the dams on the upper lakes were owned by the Ontario Government, a few others being owned by private owners, for lumber purposes. At present the two Governments are negotiating for the transfer of all the dams owned by the Provincial body to the Dominion and the intention is to have all the dams transferred to the latter. If all the dams now in existence were properly maintained and the waters conserved, the average minimum flow would be at least 150,000 cubic feet per minute. He urged the Commission to recommend the Government to immediately take over the dams referred to, construct new ones and following this complete the canal at once.

Mr. Bertram expressed his opinion that if it were correct that the Dominion Government had decided to take over the dams, it practically meant that the canal had been decided upon definitely.

Mr. W. S. Jacques, of Belleville, asked the Commission if they would allow Mr. Stock and Mr. Thomas to give evidence in writing in view of the fact that they had met with serious accidents and were unable to be present.

Mayor Roger stated to the Commission that there had been one item of evidence which they regretted that it had been impossible to submit in this session. This was a trip over the route, and he sincerely hoped that in some future time the Commission might find it possible to accept the invitation to take the trip when physical conditions made impossible now. He thanked the members for giving Peterborough the honor of sitting here and regretted that the evidence submitted had not been of as strong a character as would have been liked, due to lack of time in preparation.

Mr. Bertram, in reply, stated that his personal information with reference to such was quite extensive, and his colleague, Mr. Reford, stated that he would be pleased indeed to accept the invitation. The chairman, in closing the meeting, said that he had been very proud of the temperate manner in which the evidence had been submitted. He assured those present that the Commission would deal with the matter from a purely business proposition, and the political aspect would not enter into the question at all. He promised to give the evidence submitted the most careful attention, and assured them that he would be glad to give the claims of such a large and influential section as that represented his every consideration.

The session was then declared closed by Mr. Bertram.

The Gospel meeting on Sunday at 4.15 p.m. will be taken charge of by the Association girls, and will no doubt prove to be a very interesting meeting. DR. BINGHAM, M.H.O. MAKES SUGGESTIONS.

Shows, in a Letter, the Necessity of Careful Sanitation.

Dr. Bingham, Medical Health Officer, has asked the Examiner to publish the following:

"On the opening of the spring season it is specially necessary to guard the dwelling house and premises against all insanitary conditions. As soon as the weather will permit, all windows and doors should be opened once a day and every room in the house filled with air and sunlight. All garbage should be burned before it has time to decompose. Each individual should guard closely the purity of his water supply. If from a well, he should see that no pollution reaches it from any source whatever. The well being a deep opening, all surrounding soil higher than the bottom of the well, tends to be drained towards it, and hence for a considerable area around a well no source of pollution should be allowed, but instead, a grass sod. These, with other precautions which will suggest themselves to intelligent housekeepers, will, if carefully observed, be highly conducive to the good health of the family.

I. BINGHAM,
Med. Health Officer.

The test of a heating system is the warmth of the halls in the early morning. A hot water system will keep a comfortable, even temperature all over the house day and night. Getting-up time finds perfect comfort all over the house. The is the highest development of hot water heating. Other makers come as near as they can or dare to the Oxford idea. That is the standard they try to reach. If you prefer the Oxford idea, insist that you get it in the original not the imitation. This illustration shows the utility of the grate construction. MINISTERS' LAW PRACTICE.

Question Brought Up By Mr. Borden in the House—Grand Trunk Pacific Deposit Explained By Minister.

Ottawa, March 25.—Particulars of the two deposits made by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company were supplied by the Minister of Finance in the House yesterday. The deposit under the amended agreement was made on March 9 last. It is in the form of a deposit receipt issued by the Bank of Montreal, certifying that there has been deposited in the bank by or on behalf of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company the sum of $5,000,000, which sum the bank agrees to account for without interest to the Minister of Finance and Receiver-General, six calendar months' notice to be given of withdrawal.

A previous deposit was made for the same purpose on Dec. 17, 1903, in London by the Grand Trunk Railway Company. It consisted of a certificate for one million pounds, four per cent. guaranteed stock of the Grand Trunk Railway Company, with an endorsement that the stock had been allotted subject to the condition that unless such allotment was sanctioned and approved by a general meeting of the company, the allottment was to be null and void. The certificate was not approved and accepted by anybody on behalf of the Government.

The certificate for one million pounds Grand Trunk guaranteed stock is still on deposit. It has not been released, but will be now that a cash deposit has been substituted for it. The deposit under the agreement was to bear interest at the rate of 1 per cent. But as the company's arrangement with the bank is for a deposit without interest, no interest will be paid by the Government.

Little of General Interest.

There was little of general interest in the proceedings of the House of Commons yesterday. The volume of business offered by private members was not sufficient to occupy the whole day, and the Government took advantage of the opportunity to go into supply and pass a number of items. Incidental to the discussion of the estimates of the Justice Department, the leader of the Opposition suggested the advisability of adopting the English system, to require the Minister of Justice and Solicitor-General to relinquish their private practice, the emoluments of the office being made sufficient to compensate for the loss.

Sold Inventors Models.

The Minister of Agriculture stated that between twenty-five and thirty thousand models deposited by inventors in the patent office department were sold en bloc by public tender for $800, of which sum $199 was paid for advertising. T. G. Bingham of Ottawa, was the lucky tenderer.

The Minister of Militia stated in reply to Mr. Clark that the City of Montreal has paid nothing to the militia authorities in connection with the calling out and maintenance of the militia during the recent disturbance. The amount demanded was $18,850. The city was sued and judgment rendered, but an appeal has been entered.

Not to Exceed Ten Miles.

The danger from unprotected level crossings was emphasized by Ed. Lancaster of Lincoln in pressing the second reading of his bill to amend the Railway Act. His amendment provides that the speed of trains on level crossings, or cities, towns and incorporated villages shall not exceed ten miles an hour, unless watchmen are employed. The bill will eventually go before the Railway Committee.

Mr. Lancaster then moved the second reading of his bill to amend the criminal code of 1892. The purpose of this measure is to prevent minors electing as to how they shall be tried before consulting with their guardians. Mr. Lancaster mentioned several instances where boys and girls had received severe sentences on trivial charges because without advice they elected to be tried by the magistrate.

Mr. Fitzpatrick said he did not see any need of the measure. The debate was adjourned.

Is Late: For 26 Days.

Teeswater, March 25.—The severity of this winter has given railway men experiences that they will be likely not to forget for many years. If "tie-ups" can be considered any honor, then surely the Teeswater branch of the C.P.R. can easily claim first prize. After a complete isolation of twenty-six days, the snow-plow with one engine followed by two other engines and a gang of shovelers, steamed into this village at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Needless to say, everybody was thankful and a large number of the citizens gave the train men a hearty welcome at the depot.

The Grays Found Guilty.

Toronto, March 25.—"Guilty" was the verdict brought in by the jury in the first of the election trials for fraudulently manipulating ballots, and as a result F. A. Gray and his father, Col. John A. Gray, both respectable citizens in the community, now await sentence. The jury was out for only half an hour. The defendants receive sentence on April 2. The extreme penalty under the Municipal Act is six months' imprisonment, and under the criminal code three years.

FRETFUL CHILDREN.

If children are cross, or fretful, or sleepless, in ninety-nine times out of a hundred the reason can be traced to some little trouble of the stomach or bowels. Remove the cause and the little one will be bright, good-natured, and will sleep soundly and naturally. There is just one always absolutely safe medicine for little ones—Baby's Own Tablets. In homes where this medicine is used there are no sickly, cross, crying children. The Tablets will cure all the minor ills of little ones, and will do it safely and speedily—there is no doubt about this. Give the Tablets a single trial and you will be as enthusiastic about them as other mothers are. As for instance, Mrs. David Duffield, Ponsonby, Ont., says "Baby's Own Tablets saved my baby's life. They are a wonderful medicine for children and I gladly recommend them to other mothers."

Your children will take this medicine as readily as candy, and it is guaranteed free from harmful drugs. Sold by all druggists or mailed at 25 cents a box by writing The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brock Pl., Ont.

To Make Good His Charges.

Brantford, March 25.—The Police Commissioners resumed business yesterday afternoon in the case against P. C. Allan, who is charged with making malicious statements concerning the police management in the Irene Cole murder. Allan said: "I am guilty of the offence, but I can bring witnesses to prove my statements, but would like counsel at the same time." After considerable discussion, it was decided that Allan be given a chance to make charges of perjury against Chief Vaughan and Sergt. Wallace before the board to-day, and that he be allowed counsel. Allan has been suspended indefinitely.

Cannot Do Without It.

Once Dr. Chase's Ointment becomes known, it is indispensible in the home because of the scores of ways in which it can be used. While this ointment is best known as a positive cure for eczema, salt rheum, itching piles, and the most torturing diseases of the skin, it is also unapproached as a treatment for chafed, irritated skin, pimples, blackheads, poisoned skin, scalds, burns and sores of every description.

Definitely Settled.

London, March 24.—(C.A.P.)—The French draft of the proposed convention between Britain and France was received by M. Paul Cambon, the Republic's Ambassador in London, on Saturday, and he at once submitted it to Lord Lansdowne. The Newfoundland question is definitely settled on the terms previously cabled.

Well Again.

The many friends of John Blount will be pleased to learn that he has entirely recovered from his attack of rheumatism. Chamberlain's Pain Balm cured him after the best doctors in the town, (Monon, Ind.) had failed to give relief. The prompt relief from pain which this liniment affords is alone worth many times its cost. Sold by all druggists.

Fatally Injured.

Buffalo, March 25.—William Hyde, 42 years old, who lived at Hamilton, Ont., died at the Emergency Hospital early yesterday morning from injuries received in being run over by a Lake Shore passenger train four months ago.

WHAT HAPPENS AFTER FIVE HOURS.

Dr. Rouchard, the eminent French physician, has furnished facts which show that if food is retained in the stomach more than five hours it becomes fermentative and putrefactive,—not digestive,—and that this is the starting-point of disease.

This food mass becomes putrid.

Generates gas.

The stomach dilates.

There is a seeming lump-weight, burning, or belching.

Blood, fibre, tissue, and cells begin to absorb poison from the stomach and alimentary canal instead of nutriment, and right here is the producing cause of Constipation, Diabetes, Bright's Disease, Uterine and Ovarian troubles, Rheumatism, Gout, Nervous and Mental Distress, Bronchitis, Heart Affection, Pulmonary Consumption, Jaundice, Liver and Skin Diseases.

Inability of the stomach to properly handle food is mainly caused by overeating, drinking too much liquid, gases generated from slow digestion, preventing the mixing of food with gastric juice to properly prepare it for use in the body.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt worked for years in perfecting Anti-Pill, so that it would guarantee regular stomach action, and its astonishing cures are proof of its mission being fulfilled; of its being the greatest System Treatment in the world. 50 cents of druggists, or mailed to any address by Wilson-File Co., Niagara Falls, Ont. Digestive System is Deranged

At this Season of the Year—High Living and Little Exercise Bring on Dyspepsia and other Troubles.

Disorders of the digestive system are not uncommon at this season of the year.

In cold weather there is a danger of overeating, and a tendency towards the excessive use of highly seasoned food and stimulants.

The result is much suffering from indigestion, liver and kidney derangements, and constipation.

If people could only understand how promptly and effectively such disorders are overcome by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, this great family medicine would be even more popular than it is to-day.

Unlike any other medicine, these pills have direct and combined action on kidneys, liver and bowels, and for this reason reach and cure the most complicated ailments.

Dyspepsia and biliousness, liver complaint and kidney disease, stomach troubles and constipation, backache and headache disappear in wonderfully short time when Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are used.

By assisting the kidneys in eliminating the poisonous waste matter by helping the liver to filter the bile from the blood, by regulating the bowels, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills prevent and cure the most painful and fatal diseases known to man.

Mrs. Thomas Covert, Highland Grove, Peterborough County, Ont., writes:—"I was a sufferer for years with stomach troubles and terrible headaches and spent a good many dollars in medicine without receiving any benefit. Hearing Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills highly recommended I determined to give them a trial and did so with most satisfactory results as I was very greatly benefitted and do not hesitate to recommend this treatment as the best obtainable for such ailments."

The Crutch

(soliloquizing)

"I HAVE STOOD BY THE OLD MAN FOR FIFTEEN LONG YEARS, AND NOW HE HAS TURNED ME DOWN FOR A BOX OF Bu-Ju. I FEEL ALL BROKEN UP OVER IT."

The doctor told him he had rheumatism as the result of kidney trouble—too much uric acid in the blood. The kidneys had failed to perform their proper functions, and a long, continuous, painful case of rheumatism is the result. He was obliged to use a crutch off and on for 15 years until he read an advertisement of

and provided himself with that never failing remedy for all kidney disorders, and in a short time was enabled to cast the crutch into the woodbox, to take part in the building of its own funeral pyre.

Many people are suffering from kidney trouble who are not aware of it. They are sick, and unfit for work, business or pleasure. There may be one or many of the symptoms arising from disordered kidneys and they are treating for symptoms instead of fighting the disease, which is kidney trouble.

London, Sept. 7, 1903.

Purified by Suffering

BY MARY J. HOLMES.

"What put that fanciful name into your head?" Mrs. Cameron asked.

Katy explained and with the removal of the fear, which for a few moments had chilled his blood, Wilford grew calm again, while into his heart there crept the thought that by giving that name to his child, some slight atonement might be made to her above whose head the English daisies had blossomed and faded many a year. But not so with his mother—the child should not be called Genevra if she could prevent it, and she opposed it with all her powers, offering at last, as a great concession on her part, to let it bear the name of either of Katy's family—Hannah and Betsy excepted of course. Lucy Lennox, Helen Lennox, Katy Lennox, anything but not Genevra. As usual, Wilford, when he learned her mind, joined with her, notwithstanding his secret preference, and the discussion became quite warm, especially as Katy evinced a willfulness for which Helen had never given her credit. Hitherto she had been as yielding as wax, but on this point she was firm, gathering strength from the fact that Wilford did not oppose her as he usually did. She could not, perhaps, have resisted him, but his manner was not very decided, and so she quietly persisted, "Genevra or nothing," until the others gave up the contest, hoping she would feel differently after a few days' reflection, but Katy knew she shouldn't, and Helen could not overcome the exultation with which she saw her little sister put the Camerons to rout and remain master of the field.

"After all, it does not matter," Mrs. Cameron said to her daughters, when, after Mrs. Wilford had gone, she sat talking of Katy's queer fancy and her obstinacy in adhering to it. "It does not matter, and on the whole I'd as soon the christening would be postponed until the child is more presentable than now. It will be prettier by and by, and the dress will become it better. We can afford to wait."

This heartless view of the case was readily adopted by Juno, while Bell professed to be terribly shocked at hearing them talk thus of a baptism, as if it were a mere show and nothing more, wondering if the Saviour thought of dress and personal appearance when the Hebrew mothers brought their children to him. But little did Mrs. Cameron or Juno care for the baptism except a display, and as both would be much prouder of a fine-looking child, they were well content to wait until such time as Katy should incline more favorably to their Margaret or Rose Marie. To Helen it seemed probable that after a private interview with Wilford Katy would change her mind, and she felt a wickedly agreeable degree of disappointment when, on the day following the dinner party, she found her sister even more resolved upon having her own way. Like the Camerons, she did not feel the necessity of haste—time enough by and by, when she would not have so much opposition to encounter, she said, and as Wilford did not care, it was finally arranged that they would wait awhile ere they gave a cognomen to the little nameless child, only known as Baby Cameron.

CHAPTER XXIV.

As soon as it was understood that Mrs. Wilford Cameron was able to go out, there were scores of pressing invitations from the gay world which had missed her so much, but Katy declined them all on the plea that baby needed her care. She was happier at home, and as a mother, it was her place to stay there. At first Wilford listened quietly, but when he found it was her fixed determination to abjure society entirely, he interfered in his cool, decisive way, which always carried its point.

"It was foolish to take that stand," he said. "Other mothers went and why should not she? She had already staid in too much. She was injuring herself, and "—what was immensely worse to Wilford—she was losing her good looks."

As proof of this he led her to the glass, showing her the pale, thin face and unnatural large eyes, so distasteful to him. Wilford Cameron was very proud of his handsome house—found to know that everything there was in keeping with his position and wealth, but when Katy was immured in the nursery, the bright picture was obscured, for it needed her presence to make it perfect, and he began to grow dissatisfied with his surroundings, while abroad he missed her quite as much, finding the opera, the party, or the reception, insipid where she was not, and feeling fully conscious that Wilford Cameron without a wife, and that wife Katy, was not a man of half the consequence he had thought himself to be. Even Sybil Grandon did not think it worth her while to court his attention if Katy were not present, for unless someone saw and felt her triumph it ceased directly to be one. On the whole Wilford was not well pleased with society as he found it this winter, and knowing where the trouble lay, he resolved that Katy should no longer remain at home, growing pale and faded and losing her good looks. Wilford would not have confessed it, and perhaps was not himself aware of the fact, that Katy's beauty was quite as dear to him as Katy herself. If she lost it her value was decreased accordingly, and so as a prudent husband it behooved him to see that what was so very precious was not unnecessarily thrown away. It did not take long for Katy to understand that her days of quiet were at an end—that neither crib nor cradle could avail her any longer. Mrs. Kirby, selected from a host of applicants, was wholly competent for Baby Cameron, and Katy must throw aside the mother which sat so prettily upon her and become again the belle. It was a sad trail, but Katy knew that submission was the only alternative, and so when Mrs. Banker's invitation came, she accepted it at once, but there was a sad look upon her face as she kissed her baby for the twentieth time ere going to her dressing maid.

Never until this night had Helen realized how beautiful Katy was when in full evening dress and her exclamations of delight brought a soft flush to Katy's cheek, while she felt a thrill of the olden vanity as she saw herself once more arrayed in all her costly apparel. Helen did not wonder at Wilford's desire to have Katy with him, and very proudly she watched her young sister as Esther twined the flowers in her hair and then brought out the ermine cloak she was to wear as a protection against the cold.

Wilford was standing by her, making a few suggestions and expressing his approbation in a way which reminded Helen of that night before the marriage, when Katy's dress had been condemned, and of that sadder, bitterer time, when she had poured her tears like rain into that trunk returned. All she had thought of Wilford then was now more than confirmed, but he was kind to her and very proud of Katy, so she forced back her feelings of disquiet, which, however, were roused again when she saw the dark look on his face, as Katy, at the very last, ran to the nursery to kiss baby goodbye, succeeding this time in waking it, as was proven by the cry which made Wilford scowl angrily and brought to his lips a word of rebuke for Katy's childishness.

The party was not so large as that at Sybil Grandon's, but it was more select, and Helen enjoyed it better, meeting people who really appreciated the peculiarities of her mind, and who would have made her forget all else around her if she had not been a guest at Mark Ray's house. It was the first time she had met him away from home since the night at Mrs. Grandon's and as if forgetful of her reserve, paid her numberless attentions, which, coming from the master of the house, were the more to be valued.

With a quiet dignity Helen received them all, the thought once creeping into her heart that she was preferred, notwithstanding that engagement. But she soon repudiated this idea as unworthy of her. She could not be wholly happy with one who, to win her hand, had trampled upon the affections of another, even if that other were Juno Cameron.

And so she kept out of his way as much as possible, watching her sister admiringly, as she moved about with an easy, assured grace, or floated like a snowflake through the dance in which Wilford persuaded her to join, looking after her with a proud, all-absorbing feeling, which left no room for Sybil Grandon's coquettish advances.

As if the reappearance of Katy had awakened all that was weak and silly in Sybil's nature, she again put forth her powers of attraction, but met only with defeat. Katy, and even Helen, was preferred before her—both belles of a different type; but both winning golden laurels from those who hardly knew which to admire more—Katy, with her pure delicate beauty and charming simplicity, or Helen, with her attractive face, and sober, quiet manner. But Katy grew tired early. She could not endure what she once did; and when she came to Wilford with a weary look upon her face, and ask him to go home, he did not refuse, though Mark, who was near, protested against their leaving so soon.

"Surely Miss Lennox might remain, the carriage could be sent back for her, and he had hardly seen her at all." But Miss Lennox chose to go; and after her white cloak and hood had passed through the door into the street there was nothing attractive for Mark in his crowded parlors, and he was glad when the last guest had departed, and he was left alone with his mother.

Operas, parties, receptions, dinners, matinees, morning calls, visits, and shopping; how fast one crowded upon the other, leaving scarcely an hour of leisure to the devotee of fashion who attended to them. How astonished Helen was to find what high life in New York implied, and she ceased to wonder that so many young girls grew haggard and old before their time, or that the dowagers grew selfish and hard and scheming. She should die outright, she thought, and she pitied poor little Katy, who, having once returned to the world, seemed destined to remain there, in spite of her entreaties and excuses she made for declining the invitations which poured in so fast.

"Baby was not well—Baby needed her," was the plea with which she met Wilford's arguments, until the mention of his child was sure to bring a scowl upon his face, and it became a question in Helen's mind whether he would not be happier if Baby had never come between him and his ambition.

To hear Katy's charms extolled, and know that he was envied the possession of so rare a gem, feeling all the while sure of her faith, was Wilford's great delight, and it is not strange that, without any very strong fatherly feeling or principle of right in that respect, he should be irritated by the little life so constantly interfering with his pleasure, and so surely undermining Katy's health, for Katy did not improve, as Wilford hoped she might, and with his two hands he could span her slender waist while the beautiful neck and shoulders were no longer worn uncovered, for Katy would not display her bones, whatever the fashion might be. In this dilemma, Wilford sought his mother, and the result of that consultation brought a more satisfied look to his face than it had worn in many a day.

"Strange he had never thought of it when it was what so many people did," he said to himself as he hurried home. "It was the very best thing both for Katy and the child, and would obviate every difficulty."

Next morning as she sometimes did when more than usually fatigued, Katy breakfasted in bed, while Wilford's face, as he sat opposite Helen at the table, had on it a look of quiet determination, such as she had rarely seen there before. In a measure, accustomed to his moods, she felt that something was wrong, and never dreaming that he intended honoring her with his confidence, she was wishing he would finish his coffee, and leave, when, motioning the servant from the room, he said abruptly, and in a tone which roused Helen's antagonistic powers at once, it was so cool and decided, "I believe you have more influence over your sister than I have; at least, she has latterly shown a willfulness in disregarding me, and a willingness to listen to you, which confirms me in this conclusion——"

"Well," and Helen twisted her napkin ring nervously, waiting for him to say more; but her manner disconcerted him, making him a little uncertain as to what might be hidden behind that rigid face, and a little doubtful as to the expression it would put on when he had said all he meant to say.

He did not expect it to wear a look as frightened and as hopeless as Katy's did when he last saw it upon the pillow, for he knew how different the two sisters were, and much as he had affected to despise Helen Lennox, he was afraid of her now. It had never occurred to him before that he was somewhat uncomfortable in her presence — that her searching brown eyes often held him in check; but it came to him now, and this wife's sister had a will almost as firm as his own, and she was sure to take Katy's part. He saw it in her face, even though she had no idea what he meant to say.

He must explain sometime, so he continued, "You must have seen how opposed Katy is to complying with my wishes, setting them at naught, when she knows how much pleasure she would give me by yielding as she used to do."

"I do not know what you mean," Helen replied, "unless it is her aversion to going out," as that, I think, is the only point where her obedience has not been absolute.

We Paid $100,000

For Liquozone—Yet We Give You a 50c. Bottle Free.

This Company, after testing Liquozone for two years in the most difficult germ diseases, paid $100,000 for the American rights. That is by far the highest price ever paid for similar rights on any scientific discovery.

We publish this fact to show you the value of Liquozone. Men of our class don't pay a price like that save for a product of remarkable worth to humanity.

Kills Inside Germs

The reason for that price is this: Liquozone alone can kill germs in the body without killing the tissues, too. Nothing else in the world is so good for the human body; yet Liquozone is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a germ that it cannot kill.

Liquozone destroys at once and forever the cause of any germ disease. And there is no other way to do it. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Medicine is helpless in troubles of this kind.

Not Medicine

Liquozone is not made by compounding drugs. Its virtues are derived solely from gas, made in large part from the best oxygen producers. By a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time, this gas is made part of the liquid product. Liquozone has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research.

The result is a product that does what oxygen does. Oxygen is the very source of all vitality, the most essential element of life. Liquozone is a vitalizing tonic with which no other known product can compare. Its effects are exhilarating and purifying. But germs are vegetables; and Liquozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetable matter.

Liquozone goes wherever the blood goes, destroying every germ in the body. In this way it cures diseases which medicine never cures. It will do more for sick humanity than all the drugs in the world combined.

Germ Diseases

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone kills the germs, wherever they are, and the results are inevitable. By destroying the cause of the trouble, it invariably ends the disease, and forever.

CLEANING HOUSE TIME

is near at hand. The question of what to do with your walls to have them sanitary, neat and attractive, has to be decided.

You will not want to use kalsomine, because after it has been on a short time it rubs off on everything that comes in contact with it; and then when you wish to do it over again comes the nasty muss of washing off the old coat, which costs as much as to put it on in the first place. Wall-paper with its mouldy paste is unsanitary, and stops wall respiration. The Doctor says, "Walls to be healthy must breathe."

is a porous cement and admits of the free passage of air. It is permanent, and sanitarians endorse the use of it. It looks as if a man's back is the center of strength when he is straining to lift or haul a heavy weight. But the center of strength is not the back, but the stomach. There's no strength in the back of a giant if he's starving. All strength is made from food, and food can only be converted into strength when it is perfectly digested and assimilated. When the stomach is diseased, the nutrition of food is lost and physical weakness follows.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It makes men strong and muscular, by enabling the perfect digestion and assimilation of the food eaten.

"I suffered from a very obstinate case of dyspepsia," writes R. H. Secord, Esq., of 13 Eastern Av., Toronto, Ontario. "I tried a number of remedies without success. I was so far gone that I could not bear any solid food on my stomach; felt melancholy and depressed. Could not sleep nor work. A friend recommended 'your Golden Medical Discovery.' I have taken three bottles and it has accomplished a permanent cure."

The Medical Adviser, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay customs and mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

BABY'S ECZEMA

Top of Head Covered with Scales Which Peeled off Taking Hair with Them.

CURED BY CUTICURA

Now Six Years Old with Thick Hair and Clean Scalp. Cure Permanent.

"My baby was about six weeks old when the top of her head became covered with thick scales, which would peel and come off, taking the hair with it. It would soon form again and be as bad as before. I tried several things and then went to the doctor. He said it was Eczema, and prescribed an ointment, which did not do any good. A friend spoke of Cuticura Soap. I tried it and read on the wrapper about Cuticura Ointment as a remedy for Eczema. I bought a box and washed her head in warm water and Cuticura Soap and gently combed the scales off. They did not come back and her hair grew out fine and thick. She is now a year and a half old and has no trace of Eczema."
MRS. C. W. BURGES, Iranistan Ave., Bridgeport, Conn., Feb. 21, 1898.

Mrs. Burges writes Feb. 28, 1903:
"My baby, who had Eczema very badly on her head, as I told you before, after using the Cuticura Remedies was cured. She is now six years old and has thick hair and a clean scalp."

Instant relief and refreshing sleep for skin-tortured babies and rest for tired, worried mothers in warm baths with Cuticura Soap, and gentle anointings with Cuticura Ointment, purest of emollients and greatest of skin cures, to be followed in severe cases by mild doses of Cuticura Resolvent. This is the purest, sweetest, most speedy, permanent and economical treatment for torturing, disfiguring, itching, burning, bleeding, scaly, crusted and pimply skin and scalp humours, with loss of hair, of infants and children, as well as adults, and is sure to succeed when all other remedies and the best physicians fail.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE ATHLETICS.

Lacrosse Club Met Last Night to Talk over Plans.

Officers Elected for the Year Representation to C. L. A. Meeting Appointed.

The annual meeting of the Athletic Lacrosse Club was held in the Y.M.C.A. parlours last evening and though the number present was not as large as was anticipated, the attendance was a most representative one and considerable enthusiasm was manifested in the prospects for a successful team. There were present Messrs. R. M. Glover, F. A. Clarke, G. Mein, H. Morgan, A. Scriver, E. Dillon, J. Corbett, L. McCoy, V. Hamilton, E. M. Best, H. Dunsford, W. Cavanah, and George Robertson.

Mr. Glover took the chair and in the absence of the treasurer, read the latter's report which showed that during the past year $531.55 had been received and $536.45 expended. There was due to the club from the Lindsay club a balance of $33, which when paid would give the local team a substantial balance on hand. The secretary's report was not presented.

There was some discussion as to the advisability of changing the team's name to that of the Peterborough Lacrosse Club. It was however decided to retain the name of "Athletics."

The election of officers resulted as follows:—
Hon.-President—H. R. H. Kenner.
President—J. J. Howden.
Vice-Presidents—Dr. Wightman and E. Wasson.
Secretary—E. M. Best.
Assistant Secretary—R. M. Glover.
Manager—F. A. Clarke.
Committee—H. Rush, G. Robertson, H. Morgan, E. Dillon, W. Cavanah.

Upon motion of Mr. Clarke, seconded by Mr. Dillon, it was decided to leave the matter of entering any particular league until some later meeting.

The delegates appointed to attend the annual meeting of the C.L.A. in Toronto on Good Friday were Messrs. E. M. Best and F. A. Clarke.

Upon motion, Mr. Clark was appointed to represent the club at a meeting of the local sporting organizations to be held shortly to arrange re the procuring of Riverside Park for athletic purposes.

Upon motion it was decided that the clubs support the motion of Mr. Nelson at the C.L.A. convention that junior and intermediate players must be residents of the town in which they play by March 1st.

The Athletics have the material for a strong team again this year, and should they enter the junior C.L.A. series again, which seems more than probable, they should make a creditable showing.

THE Y. M. C. A. CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS.

Getting in Readiness for the Coming Football Season.

A meeting of the Y.M.C.A. Football players was held last evening in the Y.M.C.A. building, for the purpose of organizing for the season. Despite the unpleasant weather, there was a good attendance of players, and the prospects for the team this year are good. Mr. W. D. Campbell was in the chair, and first called upon the Secretary, Mr. W. A. Richardson, to present the statement of last year's work. This he did, showing that the team won six games and tied one, winning the championship and the Stratton Cup. The receipts had been over $50, and the expenditure the same. The election of officers was the proceeded with, resulting as follows:

Hon. President—Hon. J. R. Stratton.
President—W. Campbell.
Vice-President—B. Simpson.
Secretary-Treasurer—J. T. Anderson.

The selection of team captain and team committee was left until the full list of players are signed.

It was decided to try and arrange for the Nicholls Oval for Wednesday and Friday nights for practice.

A meeting will be held again in the near future, at which a representative to the Midland League meeting will be appointed.

LACROSSE.

O'Flynn, of last year's Athletics, according to a Brooklyn despatch, will line up with the Crescents of that city.

* * * *

The Norwood Register is urging the organization of a club in that village.

* * * *

The Lindsay Post is urging the organization of a lacrosse club in that town and says there should be material among our young men for a team fit to go against anything in the Midland district.

* * * *

The Hastings Star has the following to say in reference to the formation of a Trent Valley League:
"To enter the C.L.A. nowadays means that you must have considerable "pull" and plenty of the "long green" to make any impression. We have material in Hastings for a good junior team but we haven't the money, like some of our bigger neighbours, to secure outside help so as to be capable of holding the pace set by the teams that generally make up the junior series of the C. L. A.

"We suggest that the senior teams of Peterborough and Belleville be barred for they are in the "import" business at all times. While the Port Hope seniors have the same failing they are not looking for something easy to go up against. By all means form a Trent Valley League and be sure and have a residence rule."

PUCKERINGS.

The T.A.S. hockey club will end the season on Easter Monday night with an "at home" in the rooms of the society. They will be assisted in their undertaking by the members of the Ladies' Reading Circle, and the affair promises to be an immense success.

One of the fastest games of the whole season was played Thursday evening in the Brock street rink when the Young Lock Works team defeated a team picked from two of the fastest teams in the northern part of the town. They finished up beautifully with a score of 5 to 0 in favour of the Young Lock Works. The line up was: Picked Team, Goal, Dunnett; point, Lafave; cover point, Flannery; forwards, E. Moore, N. Moore, Bert Hayes, Fred Burnell. Young Lock Works, Goal, McFadden; point, Lacheur, cover point, W. Moher; forwards, H. McMillan, H. Barrett, V. Dawson, W. Worbolse, Sid. Brisbin.

OUR POLICE FORCE DOING EXCELLENT WORK.

So Says a Prominent Citizen, who Also Makes a Suggestion.

"There is no question about it," said a well-known citizen this morning, "but that our small police force is worked off its feet in its endeavours to fulfill the duties required of it.

"We have a force of only four men which is evenly divided for day and night duty, and it is an impossibility for that number to patrol the main thoroughfares of our town.

"We have an excellent force in this town and it has been most successful in ferreting out criminals, and keeping order, but it is out of the question to expect them to be at different places in the town at the same time.

"Our town is growing rapidly, and we must increase our police force. Take Belleville, for instance. It has a larger force, but its population is away below ours. The same can be said of St. Catharines and many other centres.

"This question is a live one and must be faced at an early date by our aldermen. Our citizens must not expect too much of our present force. The men, I honestly believe, are over-worked, and all must admit that our town is comparatively free from crime.

"Look at the City of Toronto, where they have a policeman to every thousand of the population. They have hold-ups, burglaries, shootings, etc., with amazing regularity — and right in the heart of the city — and their police force is a model one in every way.

"Our force needs strengthening," said the citizen as he produced a cigar, "and I would like to see the council consider the question."

At the Opera House.

Those who were present at the opera house last evening at the Bioscope entertainment, certainly got their money's worth for the views shown were certainly ahead of anything ever seen in this town before, and every feature advertised by the Word has been received in town of the death in Toronto of Mr. Harry Llewellyn Knowles, second son of Mr. F. B. Knowles, formerly of Peterborough.

This announcement will cause genuine regret in Peterborough where the deceased had a large number of friends, and where his pleasing personality made him a general favourite. The funeral took place to the Mount Pleasant cemetery, Toronto.

St. Petersburg, March 28.—Vice-Admiral Makaroff, commanding the Russian naval forces at Port Arthur, has sent the following telegram, dated yesterday, to the Emperor:

"I beg most humbly to report that at 2 o'clock this morning the enemy made a second attempt to block the entrance to the inner roadstead. For this purpose they despatched four large merchant steamers, convoyed by six torpedo boats, to the entrance.

"The enemy's ships were promptly discovered by the searchlights, and were bombarded by the batteries and by the guardships Bohr and Otvajny. Fearing the enemy's ships might break through, Lieut. Krinizki, commanding the guard torpedo boat Stilni, attacked the enemy and destroyed the bow of the foremost Japanese steamer with a torpedo.

"This steamer turned to the right and was followed by two others, with the result that the three were stranded to the right of the entrance. A fourth steamer went to the right of the enemy's ships, and likewise sank to the side of the Fairway. The Stilni then battled with the enemy's six torpedo boats. Engineer Artificer Swyereff and six seamen were killed and the commander and twelve seamen were wounded.

"At daybreak the enemy's battleship and cruiser squadrons appeared, and I proceeded with the fleet under my charge to meet the enemy.

"The second attempt of the Japanese to block the entrance to Port Arthur has failed, thanks to the energetic defence by sea and land forces, who acted as they did during the first attempt.

"The harbor remains perfectly clear."

Destroyed the Silni.

A further telegram to the Emperor from Vice-Admiral Makaroff says:

"I respectfully report that the enemy having withdrawn, I returned to the harbor with the fleet.

"The torpedo boat destroyed torpedo boat Silni, which stranded on a reef, in consequence of damage caused to her engines by one of the enemy's shells, was moated during the course of the night and entered the harbor, thanks to the energy of her crew. Her commander, Lieut. Krinizki, who was slightly wounded in the arm, did not quit his post."

Particulars of "Bottling Up" Attempt.

St. Petersburg, March 28.—The following despatch has been received from Gen. Smyrnoff:

"Port Arthur, March 27.—Last night after moonrise the Japanese attempted to block the entrance to the harbor.

"Four fire ships were sent toward the port convoyed by a torpedo flotilla. Toward 2.15 the approach of the enemy's ships was perceived by the guardships and batteries, which simultaneously opened upon them heavily.

The fire ships were preceded by torpedo boats, and were followed at a considerable distance by larger ships, which opened on the forts supporting the action of the fire ships and torpedo boats.

"Owing to the heaviness of our artillery fire, and the boldness of our torpedo boats, the fire ships did not reach the entrance of the harbor. Two of them grounded on a reef under Golden Hill, another sank behind the first turn of the channel, struck by a torpedo from our boats, and the fourth sank, its bows touching a Japanese steamer sunk in the previous attempt off Majschnaja Gerodа.

"The entrance to the harbor remains clear.

"A hotchkiss one-inch calibre quick firer was found aboard one of the sunken steamers, from which a fire had been kept up on torpedo boats.

"A boat left each of the sunken ships carrying their crews. One of these is believed to have been picked up.

"Towards 4 a.m. the enemy's torpedo boats retired, and the bombardment ceased.

"Vice-Admiral Makaroff at once proceeded in a steam launch to inspect the enemy's sunken steamers.

"The enemy's torpedo boats reappeared at 5 o'clock this morning. They were sighted south of Port Arthur, and the batteries re-opened on them. Towards 6 o'clock the enemy's squadron appeared on the horizon, and ours steamed out to meet it. At 6.30, the batteries opened fire. Our ships batteries soon ceased, the Japanese drawing off to the southeast, evidently declining an engagement. At 10 o'clock they disappeared below the horizon."

It is stated that one Russian torpedo boat was sunk in the engagement at Port Arthur this morning, but is thought the vessel can be refloated.

Chinese Mixing In.

St. Petersburg, March 28.—It is stated on apparently reliable authority that Admiral Makaroff's report of his reconnaissance of the Elliott Islands, yesterday, contained the startling statement that he captured a junk filled with Chinese regular troops, which was being towed by a Japanese gunboat.

A report from Vladivostock says that a mine has been discovered under the fortress, with wires leading to a Chinese house in the town.

Russians and Japs Clash.

St. Petersburg, March 28.—A telegram from Viceroy Alexieff has been received by the Emperor, dated Mukden, March 26. It gives a report from Mistchenko, as follows:

"At 11 o'clock in the morning of March 23 I sent two Solnias to reconnoitre in order to ascertain the strength of the enemy's forces. The troops crossed the River Chongchongang. One Solnia, when one and one-half versts (about one mile from Pakchieng), sighted a mounted post of the enemy, consisting of thirty men, which, on the approach of our Solnia, was reinforced, being joined by infantry. Our Cossacks requested the support of two half-companies, and opened fire against the post and patrol, at 400 yards range.

"One officer, one soldier and a horse of the enemy were killed. After firing two volleys our patrol retired, on learning that the enemy's infantry was advancing. Scouts found Pakchieng to be occupied by the enemy. There are two companies and about three squadrons of cavalry of the enemy on the right bank of the Pakchieng, with posts two versts from the river.

"There are three thousand Japanese in the town of Anju, and warships and transports are constantly arriving at Chinampo. Troops landed at Chinampo are marching to Pingyang, thence proceeding to Unsan and Kangive.

The report of Gen. Smyrnoff from Port Arthur says: 'Our company of irregulars has defeated and almost completely annihilated a band of Chinese bandits, about fifty strong, near Vitssino. There were no losses on our side."

Russians Leaves Port Arthur.

St. Petersburg, March 28.—For the first time since the war began the Russian squadron Saturday left Port Arthur and the protection of its guns. Upon the safe return of the ships Vice-Admiral Makaroff sent a despatch to the Emperor, in explanation of the reason for the cruise, but its object is not clearly revealed in a statement of the contents of the Vice-Admiral's despatch made public last night. Sufficient has leaked out to show that Vice-Admiral Makaroff, having repaired the warships Retvizan and the cruisers Pallada and Boyarin, considered the squadron sufficiently strong to run the risk of an encounter with the Japanese ships, which were not in sight when he steamed out of Port Arthur Saturday. The published statement announces that the object of Vice-Admiral Makaroff was to examine several neighboring islands. There has been considerable doubt as to where the Japanese fleet maintains its base.

Saw Russian Fleet.

London, March 28.—A Times correspondent, on a despatch boat in the Far East, reports having seen a Russian squadron of five battleships and cruisers, thirty miles southwest of Port Arthur, Saturday morning, steering for Port Arthur, their exposed flank being protected by a line of torpedo boat destroyers. The same correspondent, wiring on Sunday, says he saw the Japanese fleet leaving Port Arthur after the fight of that morning, which he was too late to witness. A close examination of the vessels showed no signs of their having had hard usage.

The correspondent remarks also that the Russian ships are using Japanese coal, the smoke of which can be detected from fifteen to twenty miles distant, while the Japanese are burning Welsh coal, which makes very little smoke.

WEATHER FORECASTS FOR NEXT MONTH.

"Words and Works" Estimates of the Weather Conditions for April.

Rev. Ira L. Hicks, the editor of "Words and Works," in his forecast of the weather for the month of April says:—

The storm period which was central with the full moon at the close of March will extend into the 1st and 2nd of April. Storms of rain, wind, low barometer and high temperature, with, have given place to snow, rising barometer and much colder in all western sections as April comes in. Cold, northerly winds, with frost and freezing northward, will follow about the 1st to the 3rd, progressively from west to east. If frost reaches far into central to southern sections at this time, our readers should not be taken wholly by surprise. Careful and impartial observers must have discovered that the Easter full moon is almost invariably attended and followed by severe and disagreeable squalls and boreal weather. The present case we believe will prove no exception to the rule. Plants and tender vegetation should be protected against the probability of killing frost during the first three or four days in April.

About the 4th to the 6th falls a reactionary storm period, during which time falling barometer, change to warmer, with more rain and storminess will be probable. Hail storms will be most natural at all the April disturbances, and sudden drops of temperature should not surprise any one after all well defined storm movements.

The Vulcan storm period, central on the 10th, will bring a series of pronounced storms. The culmination of these storms will fall about Sunday the 10th to Wednesday the 13th. Look for high rain, hail and thunder, progressively from west to east, on the 11th, 12th and 13th. Rapid rise of barometer and change to quite cool will follow behind the storms, but a reaction to storm conditions will suddenly return, and from the 15th to the 17th it will again become very warm, progressively, the barometer will again fall to low readings and decided storms of rain, hail and thunder will occur along paths of low barometric pressure. The sudden revulsions of Venus from hot to cold will be felt at this time and at each disturbance during the rest of the month. Tornadic disturbances should be apprehended, if very low barometer, high temperature and abnormal humidity prevail at this time.

A regular Vulcan-Venus perturbation will be central on the 21st extending from the 19th to 23rd. The barometer will drop low and the temperature rise very high as this period progresses, resulting in many vicious thunder and hail storms on and touching the 21st, 22nd and 23rd. The normal tendency to April thunder showers will grow into decided and far-reaching rainstorms, with dangerous winds and possible tornadoes during the progress of these disturbances. The inevitable change to much cooler, with frosts general over central and northern sections, will follow up the western flanks of these storms. Late snow squalls need surprise no one, as the high barometer follows low areas at these April periods.

One of the most decided, and perhaps violent storm periods of the month, extends from about the 26th to 29th. This period is nearer the centre of the Venus disturbance, is in a Mercury perturbation, with Moon on the celestial equator, in perigee and full. We warn our readers to watch the barometric conditions and storm developments at this time. Very general and severe storms are more than probable. This is a time when destructive hail storms are almost a certainty in very many sections. Abnormal downpours of rain will also visit central to southern regions. The month will go out with high barometer, cold winds and frosty nights northward.

We have only room to say that the coming month, May, promises the heaviest rains and the most violent storms of the present season. The solstice rains in the central part of June will be generally sufficient for the time, but many western to northern parts will have none to spare. We believe that drouth will be felt in more or less severity.

PROSPEROUS CONDITION OF LOCAL INDUSTRIES.

Correspondent to the Labour Gazette Reports Satisfactory State of Affairs.

Factories all Busy and Labour Finds Ready Employment—Particulars as to Different Trades.

The monthly report of Ald. W. J. Johnston to the Labour Gazette shows that labour conditions in Peterborough are satisfactory. Mr. Johnston's report follows:—

The working classes, with few exceptions, have been fairly well supplied with nearly all kinds of work. For the season of the year the demand for men, and the opportunities for employment are good. Three stores and the two top flats of the Cereal works, which were recently destroyed by fire, are being rapidly reconstructed. The carpentry trade is quite active just now, and builders' labourers fairly active. Railway transportation, which for a time was seriously hampered by snow blockades, is now somewhat relieved, trains are running approximately to schedule time. There has been no change in the rates of wages or the the hours of labour, nor any unrest in the labour market.

CONDITION OF LOCAL INDUSTRIES.

Agriculture.—Wheat went up in price from 85 cents to $1 per bushel, and flour to $5 per barrel.

Manufacturing.—All branches of manufacturing keep busy. The Canadian General Electric Works have received a large contract for two 2,500 horse-power engines, known as the Curtis steam engine, from the Toronto Electric Light Company. Turbine engines have never been used in Canada to any extent until now, and to Peterborough has come the opportunity of making the first large engines of this kind in Canada. The Canadian General Electric Company has Canadian patents for the above named engine, and when all its advantages have been demonstrated a large demand for this kind of engine is anticipated. The Peter Hamilton Manufacturing Company has recently issued a very comprehensive new catalogue. The J. J. Turner Company, sail, tent and awning manufacturers, has an extra busy staff, the company doing a world-wide business. The Peterborough Lock Company will early in the spring build new up-to-date lock manufacturing works.

CONDITIONS OF PARTICULAR TRADES

Building Trades. — Bricklayers and masons have experienced no change from the conditions that prevailed last month. Carpenters were nearly all employed during the month re-building the Cereal works, three stores, and a photographer's studio, which were recently partly destroyed by fire. All the walls of these buildings were of brick, and will not need re-building. Painters are quite busy. Plumbers and steam fitters are fairly busy.

Metal, Engineering and Shipbuilding Trades. — Iron moulders and iron workers' helpers in all shops are busy. Machinists and steam engineers are actively employed. The metal polishers, buffers, platers and brass workers employed by the Canadian General Electric Co and in the Lock Works are very busy. Linemen are very busy. Electrical workers employed in the power houses are busy. Blacksmiths are experiencing a dullness in their line of work at the present time. Boilermakers are fairly well employed. The bicycle workers are not busy but prospects are encouraging. The jewellers report business good this month.

Woodworking and Furnishing Trades. — Woodworkers, upholsterers, pattern makers and coopers report having had a very good month.

Printing and Allied Trades. — The printers, pressmen and bookbinders are kept busy.

Clothing Trades. — Journeymen tailors are kept busy. Boot and shoe workers in nearly all shops find work slack just now.

Food and Tobacco Preparation — Bakers and confectioners are kept busy. Butchers are busily employed. Ice cutters are exceptionally active just now getting the ice-houses filled ready for the summer retail trade. Cigar-makers are steadily employed; there is only one establishment located here.

Leather Trades. — Leather workers are quite busy making harness and collars.

Miscellaneous. — Barbers are doing a good business; there are fifteen shops in Peterborough. The two broom shops are doing a satisfactory business. Delivery employees are busy. Furriers have done an exceptionally good business during the month. Hotel and restaurant employees were fairly busy during the month. Laundry workers are busy.

Transport. — Railway men have have an experience this month such as never before fighting snow and ice. Cab drivers and liveries have been somewhat busier than last last month, when cold weather and snow fairly paralyzed their business. Carters, draymen and expressmen are doing a fairly good trade just now.

STRICT CONFORCEMENT OF LICENSE LAWS.

Circular Issued to all License Inspectors Instructing Them as to Their Duties.

The Provincial Secretary's Department has sent out a circular to all license inspectors throughout the province calling upon them to strictly enforce the liquor license law. The circular says in part:—

"There is a fairly general complaint that inspectors are not doing their duty. When complaints to this effect reach the department, and it is made to appear that any inspector's failure to exercise proper vigilance in the discharge of his official duties, justifies such complaints, the resignation of the inspector affected thereby will be considered necessary.

"It is expected that an inspector will take action in the direction of procuring enforcement of the law, and in dealing with violations of it, without waiting for formal complaint. It should not be necessary for an inspector to be always personally on the spot to be in touch with conditions, but it is easily possible for him, if he possesses the necesary qualifications for this position, to make such arrangements as will place information as to infractions of the law in his possession, wherever he may be."

THEY ACTUALLY DO THE WORK.

Food Eaten is Worthless Unless Digested—Some Stomachs Must Have Help.

Food taken into the stomach, which, from the nature of the food or the condition of the stomach, is not digested, is worse than no food at all. This is a true statement as far as it goes, and a great many dyspeptics go only this far with their reasoning. They argue with themselves that because their stomachs do not do the work given them, they must be given less work; in other words they must be starved. It would be just as sensible for a business man who is unable to do all his own work to cut down his business to his own capacity as it is for a man to starve himself to relieve his stomach. The sensible business man employs help and goes forward with his business. Likewise the sensible dyspeptic will employ help for his stomach and give his body proper nourishment.

Stuart's Dyspeptic Tablets actually do the work assigned to them. They relieve weak and overburdened stomachs of a great portion of digestive action. Their component parts are identical with those of the digestive fluids and secretions of the stomach and they simply take up the grind and carry on the work just the same as a good strong, healthy stomach would do it.

On this account Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are perfectly natural in their action and effects. They do not cause any unnatural or violent disturbance in the stomach or bowels. They themselves digest the food and supply the system with all the nourishment contained in what is eaten and carry out Nature's plans for the sustenance and maintenance of the body.

How much more sensible is this method than that employed by many sufferers from weak stomachs. By this means the body and brain get all the good, nutritious food they need and the man is properly nourished and equipped to carry on his work and perform his duties. He could not possibly be in proper working condition by starving himself or employing some new fangled, insufficient food that does not contain enough nutriment for a year old baby. A strong man doing strong work must be properly fed, and this applies to the brain as well as the body.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, by relieving the stomach of its work, enable it to recuperate and regain its normal health and strength. Nature restores the worn and wasted tissues just as she heals and knits the bones of a broken limb, which is of course not used during the process of repair.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a box, and they are the one article that the druggist does not try to sell something in the place of that is "just as good." Their unqualified merit and success and the universal demand for them has placed them within the reach of every one.

PARALYZED EXPRESS.

U.S. Treasury Department Ruling Enforced at Suspension Bridge.

Niagara Falls, March 28.—A big blockade of express matter from Canada to the States is existing at this port, and express agents are wild over the situation. This condition has been brought about through a ruling of the treasury department that the consignor of a package going forward to a point in the States shall file an affidavit with the collector of customs at the port of entry, describing the package and its contents minutely. This ruling was put into effect at Buffalo and Port Huron last July.

The collector of the port of Suspension Bridge, or Niagara Falls, did not put the ruling into effect here until a few days ago, but the effect has been somewhat paralyzing to the express business. News was received here that the representatives of the United States and American Express Companies are now in Washington asking Senators Depew and Platt to seek to have the ruling set aside. There is no discrimination made regarding the situation.

Joke Starts Small War.

Cape Town, March 28.—The fracas which occurred on board the Doune Castle Saturday between the men of the "Boer and Briton" contingent, who sailed from Africa to take part in the St. Louis Exhibition, was caused by a simple question.

A brawny Britisher jocularly enquired of a big Boer, "How's Kruger?" The Boer, misinterpreting his meaning, struck out, and a free fight followed.

The Boers sang the "Volkslied," while the Britons shouted "God Save the King."

In the melee, two men were slightly stabbed. The ringleaders were placed in irons.

How It Is Effected By the Working of the Tariff Surtax—The Irishmen Are to Control—The Tariff Commission to Examine Witnesses—The Australian Transcontinental Line—Canada in Evidence.

London, March 28.—(C.A.P.)—The Berlin Kolnische Volkszeitung published a striking table showing the effect of the Canadian tariff surtax. The total value of the German exports to Canada for the last three months of 1902 was £176,151. For the corresponding period of 1903 it was only £271,207.

Mr. Chamberlain's Tariff Commission has finished its preliminary work and the examination of witnesses begins immediately after Easter.

Canada Most Temperate.

The Daily Chronicle says the Barr colonys' requests for the exclusion of the liquor traffic affords evidence that there is something in the atmosphere of Canada opposed to alcoholic indulgence. Canada is the most temperate portion of the Empire and her influence extends even into Maine.

Advised to Study Canada.

The Melbourne Age denounces the decision of the Federal Government to spend £20,000 on contractors' surveys of the line of the proposed transcontinental railway.

The London Chronicle, referring to the protest advises the Australian critics to study the history of the Canadian Pacific Railway, now the backbone of modern Canada, and for which Sir John A. Macdonald was turned out of office for supporting so extravagant a scheme.

Irishmen to Control.

The Freeman's Journal, referring to the Parliament of the Irish people, convened for April 21, says in the great coming contest for the control of the British Empire the Irish party will pick the winner. It styles the Unionists treacherous and cruel, while the Liberal League section led by Lord Rosebery and Mr. Asquith are, it says, equally unobserving.

Doesn't Care Twopence.

Lord Milner, speaking at a Johannesburg dinner, said he did not care two-pence for the opinion of home critics so long as he received the confidence of the people on the spot.

Liberals Support Major Seeley.

That the next Government will be a national one on Liberal lines, whose primary object will be to defend free trade, is the thesis supported by this week's Sunday Sun. It continues by pointing out that the Unionist free trade group have decided to support Major Seeley, who will not support the Government. The Liberals are thoroughly in accord with the movement. Major Seeley was nominated for the re-election on Saturday at the Isle of Wight. The proposed Liberal candidate, Mr. Baring, having resigned.

C. P. R. ACCIDENT.

Narrow Escape of 13 Men in a Wrecked Caboose.

Portage la Prairie, March 28.—The C.P.R. express, which was stalled at Rosser since Thursday, started Friday night for the west, but only got as far as a point between Bagot and McGregor, when it ran into a submerged snow-plow and was wrecked.

A fireman was injured, but none of the passengers. Three engines were sent off the track. The caboose at the rear of the snow-plow train was lifted clear off the track and smashed into kindling wood. The second engine of the express and three tenders were thrown completely off the track and two baggage cars derailed.

That there were no lives lost is nothing short of miraculous. There were thirteen men asleep in the caboose of the front train, which was smashed into pieces, and it passes imagination how they escaped injury. As it was, they came out unscathed, except that one man was a little bruised.

Fire at Smith's Falls.

Smith's Falls, March 28.—The Shields block here was badly damaged by fire at 1 o'clock yesterday morning. The fire started on the second floor in rooms occupied by A. Percy as a tailor shop. The ground floor was occupied by O. C. Abbott, druggist, with W. H. Kerfoot, stationery and fancy goods, and the Bank of Ottawa. Although the fire did not burn down into these stores most of the water found its way there and all suffered heavily. The C.P.R. Telegraph Company office was in Kerfoot's, and it also suffered.

THE VERNAL FLOODS.

Bad Break in the Watermain of Toronto Junction—Factories All Closed Up—On the Grand River.

Toronto Junction, March 26.—A serious break in the water main occurred yesterday morning about 2 o'clock, which will necessitate factories closing up for the next two or three days. The break was occasioned by the rapid melting of snow in the bush west of Elizabeth street. The water found its way through the sand, and the road, which had here been filled in to a depth of twenty feet, was carried away bodily. Five lengths of the ten-inch main were carried down in the torrent and are now lying in the ravine on the Kennedy estate, about 170 yards from where the break occurred.

When the break occurred it was not known at the pumping station, which continued to belch through the broken pipe tons of water, carrying away as much of the street as the flood. The broken pipe on the other side of the gully acted as a syphon, and syphoned out all the water that was in the Junction. With the waterworks engine pumping water from the south, the broken hydrant syphoning the water from the Junction on the north and the flood flowing from the west, there is little wonder that at least a hundred feet of roadway 20 to 25 feet deep was washed away.

All Factories Closed Up.

As a result of the break, all the factories in town were obliged to close for the day. The C.P.R. shops and blacksmith shop, also Campbell's Mill, ceased work. Nearly 2,000 men were thrown out of employment temporarily.

Following is a list of the factories and men employed by each:

C.P.R. shops, 500 men.

Gurney Foundry Company, 200 men.

Canada Cycle & Motor Company, 200.

Heintzman & Co., 250

Dodge Manufacturing Company, 200.

Nordheimer Piano Company, 100.

Wilkinson Plow Works, 150.

Queen City Mills, 50.

Gasoline Engine Company, 40.

Comfort Soap Company, 100.

Worsted Braid Company, 25

The C.P.R. also uses a great amount of water for its engines and is greatly inconvenienced by the trouble.

A special meeting of the Board of Works was held in the evening, when it was decided to accept the offer from Toronto city, of connecting the main on Regent street, Toronto, with the main on Willoughby avenue, in the town. This will give the town fire protection.

Grand River Broke.

Brantford, March 26.—The Grand River at this point broke up yesterday afternoon. Though some disastrous floods have occurred at this period in this city in recent years, no great damage is anticipated this spring. The river had risen about four feet, but the ice is proceeding quietly and swiftly on its way. Nothing of a damaging nature will occur unless an ice jam rolls up. Even then the residents along the river bank will not be alarmed. The big dykes which line both sides of the river are said to be ample protection. However, the treacherous water is being watched closely night and day by the civic authorities. At Glenorris, some miles north of here, a bridge was taken away by the rush of water. The water is rising fast.

Promises of Flood.

Berlin, March 26.—The Grand River is rising rapidly, and there promises to be a flood and general break up of the ice inside of 24 hours. The river is spanned by five bridges between here and Galt, but the only one in any imminent danger should a sudden break-up of the ice occur, is the bridge at Blair, which is a 350-foot bridge. There is now over a foot of water over-flowing the ice, which, although over two feet thick, cannot stand the pressure very much longer.

Ottawa, March 28.—The appeal of the Bay of Quinte Railway Company against a decision of the Board of Railway Commissioners was heard Saturday by a sub-committee of the Privy Council, consisting of Messrs. The sub-committee, after hearing argument, reserved judgment.

CURIOUS SURNAMES.

Many Extraordinary and Grotesque Patronymics Borne by Respectable Citizens of the United Kingdom.

However grotesque some of the names chosen by our novelists for their characters may be, says a writer in a London paper, it is safe to say that the most extravagant of them all can be matched in real life.

What writer of fiction, for instance, has ever introduced into his pages such seemingly impossible names as these: Kognose, Pickfat, No-Yes, Cut-Mutton, and Addle-head? And yet all these surnames have been borne, and some are still borne, by respectable Britons; though why they do not change them is, perhaps, one of those things that pass understanding.

There are scores of British surnames which had their origin in terms of contempt and ridicule applied to the original bearers of them. In this way, no doubt, we get such unflattering names as Leatherhead, Sheepshanks, Woodhead, and Scraggs, to say nothing of such cognomens as Silly, Silliman, Trash and Hussey.

Some years ago there was at least one family of Gallows, a name which suggests, at least, an ancestor who reached a "bad eminence" in life. The name Pennyfather, which is now so respectable, originally meant a miserly fellow, and was used as an expression of contempt; Lennie was nothing more at one time than a corruption of the French word for a donkey; and Goff was a person of great stupidity.

Many of these undesirable surnames referred to some physical peculiarity of the ancestors who were known by them. Thus we get Longshanks and Crookshanks, Longnesse and Hunchback, Greathead and Legless, Ugly and Rubblejaw, all names which have been handed down from generation to generation. But even such dubious cognomens are preferable to Rotten and Rottenherying, Scrapeskin and Stabback, Badman and Blackmonster, which, if no longer in existence, were once, familiar surnames in England.

Not very pleasant, perhaps, but less objectionable than the foregoing, are names derived from physical ailments, such as Headache and Toothache, Cramp and Colic, Akinhead and Akinside, as well as Fever and Ague; while Gumboil is not exactly a name to appeal to fastidious tastes. Even some surnames derived from parts of the body like Shin and Shanks, Legge and Kneebone, are not such as one would willingly elect to be known by, although even these may be preferable to Marrow, Blood, and Kidney.

It must not be imagined, however, that all names which appear to be uncomplimentary were ever meant to be so. Take the following, for instance, Waddle, Wormewood, Allchin, Cuckold, and Smallback. These surnames are derived directly from the following places: Wahull, Ormond, Alchorne, Cokswold, and Smallbach; while even such remarkable surnames as Spittlehouse, Killingback, and Alshop have a similar innocent origin.

Some very honorable names imported into Great Britain from foreign sources have been sadly changed for the worse since their arrival. Thus De-Ville, once a name of distinction, has generated into Devil, De-Ath into Death Scardeville into Scaredevil, Tuberville into Troublefield; Taille-Bois, the family name of a very great baron, a companion of the Conqueror, into Tallboys; De Hoghstape into Huckstapp; De la Chambre into Dealchamber; and Ickenbaum into Higginbottom.

Some amazing names have been given to foundlings and perpetuated by their posterity. One infant found, near Shepherd's Bush was named Thomas Shepherd's Bush, another, who was discovered tied up in a napkin by the side of a brook, became Martin Napkin-Brooker, and an infant picked up at Newark, who later on won some fame as Dr. Thomas Magaus, was christened Tom Among Us.

Singing of Telegraph Wires.

Dr. A. S. Thompson, Alvinston, writes: A short time ago I noticed a reference to the singing of telegraph wires, and surmises as to its cause. About nine years ago I made a series of observations in Toronto on the subject and noted the following facts. First, the sound was independent of wind; second, the humming of wires running east and west invariably presaged a fall of temperature, often ten or more hours in advance of the thermometer; third, the humming of wires running north and south advised a rise in temperature, almost always several hours in advance of the thermometer; fourth, wires running north and south and wires running east and west never hummed together, not even when the same wires running along an east and west street turned down a north and south side; only that portion of them hummed that indicated a rise or fall in temperature, as explained above. If one part hummed the other part was silent. The deduction I came to was that the humming was due to elec-

THE CANADIAN SEA.

Mr. W. F. Maclean on Hudson's Bay—Believes It to Be the Front Door of Canada, and It Must Be Secure.

Before the Canadian Club recently Mr. W. F. Maclean, M.P., renewed his agitation for the changing of the name of Hudson's Bay to the Canadian Sea. In the course of his remarks he said:

Probably the greatest basin in the world was that of the Mississippi River for the extent and variety of its products—cotton, corn, wheat, animals of all kinds, coal, iron and all other minerals. Then there was the basin of the St. Lawrence, dominated for its greater part at least by Canada. But there was another, he believed, greater than either of these. Hudson's Bay, which drained Ungava, a large part of Ontario and Quebec, Manitoba, the Territory of Keewatin, Saskatchewan, Athabasca and Alberta, all regions of great wheat fields and all absolutely under Canadian control. There was every reason why they should keep it and keep the entrance to it. Hudson's Bay was the front door and the central door of Canada, and they would put a knocker on it so that those who came would have to wipe their feet on a Canadian door mat if they wanted to receive a warm welcome.

Hudson's Bay fisheries were, he had been informed, the richest in the world. The surrounding country was one fitted for adventure and for exploration that would provide enough to occupy Canadians for a hundred years. It was rich in minerals, and was, as he had said, the central gateway to Canada. Not only would it open up the vast districts he had mentioned, but it would, he believed, tap the upper portion of the vast Mississippi Basin. It was necessary to send expeditions to open up that territory. The shore of Hudson's Bay was only 400 miles from Toronto and only 200 miles from some of the stations on the C.P.R.

Perhaps it would not be necessary in the first place to build a railway line the whole way, as the Ottawa River might be used for a time for transportation purposes. Only a short portage was needed to carry them into the basin of the Mackenzie River, and from there to the Peace River. Then, Hudson's Bay provided the nearest route to Europe. If Canadians wished to profit by their country they must open up this waste region—they must be up and doing. The United States had a Monroe Doctrine, and here we must have a Canadian Monroe doctrine, and live up to it.

Hudson's Bay would, he declared, become the finest summer resort in America. Toronto people who now went to the States would have their summer cottage there.

Hudson's Bay had been stated to offer the best seal breeding ground in the world, and the Government should take up that question. It offered the shortest route to Europe, and it opened up great possibilities for the eastern trade. Canadians should take an example from the Japanese and what they had done during the last quarter of a century. The time would come when they would have to face this question of Canadian supremacy, for if Uncle Sam once got his foot in he would soon have his whole body. There must be a defensive and commercial union with the Motherland and this did not mean an abandonment of a protectionist policy. It was possible for each part of the Empire to develop its own resources and to so connect itself commercially with the Empire as to stand one with the other and build up the whole. The mother country must respect Canada's view and not interfere with her aspirations. Canada must control Hudson's Bay absolutely—it was the front and central door, and a knocker must be put on it. Canada must be made so strong that it will remain a nation while the nations last, and they must all take their share in maintaining the Canadian Monroe Doctrine and developing Hudson's Bay.

Our Japanese Agent.

Mr. Alexander MacLean of Ottawa, who has just been appointed Commercial Agent for Canada to Japan, was in his earlier days a prominent newspaper man. He established The Mitchell Reformer in 1861, published The Cornwall Freeholder from 1865 to 1872, was Ottawa correspondent of The Globe from 1872 to 1874, was proprietor and publisher of The Ottawa Times, 1874-1875, and was managing director of The Montreal Herald, 1894-1895. With Mr. J. C. Roger he obtained in 1874 the contract for the Parliamentary and departmental printing at Ottawa, and held it until the Printing Bureau was established in 1888. In the meantime he had turned his attention to manufacturing, and in 1885 established the Canadian Granite Company, and three years later the Ottawa Granolithic Paving Company, of both of which he was president. He took considerable interest in municipal matters, and was an alderman for several terms. In politics he is a Liberal, and was for a term president of the Ottawa Reform Association. He has also been president of the St Andrew's Society, of the Ottawa Art School and of the Central Canada Exhibition Association.

Lord Dundonald's Invention.

During the recent visit to the coast by Lord Dundonald, commander of the military forces in Canada, he exhibited to Chief Engineer Grant, of the Quadra, a little pocket-warming device of his own invention, which he said he had found very useful in campaigns where the weather was severe. It is a miniature stove, burning carbon as fuel, and is comforting and beneficial when one is afflicted with various slight bodily pains. Mr. Grant expressed a desire to become possessed of one, and Lord Dundonal gave a promise he would forward one from Ottawa. It arrived yesterday, and it is highly prized by Mr. Grant.—Victoria Colonist.

CONFERENCE ON STREET RAILWAY

Was held on Saturday Afternoon in Mr. Stuart's Office.

Nothing Definite to Announce,—Was the Word Given out at the Conclusion.

"Nothing ready for publication yet in regard to the Street Railway question," was the information elicited from Mr. Robert Stuart, of the Cereal Company on Saturday afternoon, just prior to that gentleman's departure for Chicago. During Saturday afternoon a conference was held in Mr. Stuart's office, which lasted nearly all the afternoon and at which there were present:—Mr. Stuart and his Solicitor, Mr. Dennistoun and Messrs. J. C. Shook and T. E. Bradburn, representing the old Peterborough Radial Railway Company. Asked as to the result of the conference, Mr. Stuart replied in the terms quoted above.

There is little reason to believe, however, but that the railway will be gone on with as per the Company's agreement with the town, and in view of the near approach of spring, it is probable that work will be commenced as soon as the snow clears off the streets sufficiently to enable the work to be economically carried on. September 1st is the date upon which the railway must be in operation, according to the terms of the franchise, the date having been extended from July 1st to that mentioned.

MONTREAL SHOPS FOR PETERBORO'.

The Canadian General Electric Company Moves Shops from Eastern City.

Will Mean the Addition of 150 or 200 Men to the Present Staff —All Manufacturing Operations to be Carried on in Peterborough.

Peterborough is to have another large addition to its industrial establishments, and the latest augmentation is nothing else than the removal of the shops of the Canadian General Electric Company from Montreal to this town. For some time the company has operated shops of an extensive character in the eastern metropolis, and it has now been decided to close these and remove the machinery and employees to Peterborough, where it is believed that the work can be turned out with greater economy. The goods manufactured in the Montreal shops are similar to those made here, but the smaller machines only are made there, the works not being equipped to handle the larger contracts.

The operation of the works here has proven so satisfactory that the company has now decided to bring their entire operations to this plant, which, with the recent addition of a large building will be sufficiently spacious to accommodate the new machinery, the first shipment of which has arrived, and is now being assembled in the different departments.

Mr. Patterson, the General Superintendent, stated to-day that he expected the removal of these shops would increase the local staff by 150 to 200 employees. The majority of these will be skilled mechanics, whose advent to the town will mean considerable to the town's business. To all intents and purposes, this is equal to the establishment of a new industry in the town, and the action of the Canadian General Electric Company in thus bringing their entire manufacturing plant to Peterborough, is a high tribute to the superior advantages possessed by this town, and the result upon similar establishments looking for a location should be favourable to the town.

No special building will be devoted to newly arriving machinery, as it will be distributed throughout the various departments, where it can be most effectively used.

SOME EVIDENCE EXTRAORDINARY.

Wholesale Contradictions in Havelock Assault Case.

Apparently jealousy over something which was not disclosed, went a long way in creating a quarrel between —. Kingan and Stephen Clarke, both of Havelock, which was poured into the cars of the County Police Magistrate at the Court House this morning. The case was rather an extraordinary one in that the witnesses on both sides flatly contradicted each other. Kingan, it transpired, has lived with a Mr. and Mrs. King all winter doing the daily chores around the farm yard. On Monday last Clarke visited the house, sober, according to Mr. King and intoxicated according to Mrs. King and Kingan, the defendant. In conversation with Clarke, Mrs. King asked him the price of pigs, and received the answer "five dollars." Kingan contradicted him saying that they were only $4.75. This annoyed the complainant, Clarke to such an extent, that he called King a liar, whereupon the latter struck him in the face, drawing blood. Clarke and King both swore that Kingan called Clarke a liar; Kingan said he did not use such language. Clarke also brought up a story about Kingan threatening to kill him if he crossed his path, and added spice to the story by bringing a witness who swore that Kingan asked him how much arsenic it would take to kill "something."

Mr. Edmison found Kingan guilty of common assault but not of threatening to kill complainant. Kingan was fined $5 without costs.

DEPUTATION FROM OWN SOUND HERE.

Were Guests of the Canadian General Electric Company.

The town of Owen Sound has questions with reference to electric lighting which the citizens are trying to solve, and as a means of assisting them, a deputation was sent on a trip, Peterborough being one of the places visited. The Advertiser says; "The members of the Owen Sound deputation who were on the electric light inspection trip last week, were very well entertained by by the companies whose establishments they visited. At Toronto they first called on the Canadian General Electric Company and were taken in hand by a representative of the company, Mr. McFunney, and showed them through the works, and accompanied them on the trip to Peterborough, which town they visited after Toronto."

SETTLERS' EFFECTS REFUSED FOR A WEEK.

PALM SUNDAY IN ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

Services Held Yesterday in Commemoration of the Day.

Large congregations were present at St. John's Church yesterday, when the services were characterized by solemnity and joyfulness in keeping with the commemoration of Palm Sunday. Hymns in keeping with the day were sung, and Mrs. Pierce, at the morning service during the offertory, sang, "Calvery." Mr. H. W. Morphet also sang "The Palms." Two Oriental palms adorned the altar and the sermons, which were preached by the Rector, were in keeping with the occasion. The first Palm Sunday was called to memory, and the sermons based upon the events of that day.

At the Sunday School in the afternoon, following the review of the quarter's lesson, Rev. T. Barnacott, of Aylmer West, a former Superintendent, addressed the school. Mr. Barnacott was here in the 70's when the Sunday School was held in a log building at the rear of the present church. He received a very warm reception yesterday and his remarks were applauded. He complimented the school on the excellent progress it had made since the older days

A FRENCHMAN'S GUN EXPLODED.

Resulting in His Left Hand Being Badly Lacurated.

Through the accidental explosion of a cartridge in the breach of the barrell of a shot gun which he was carrying, Robert Angot, a Frenchman, who boards at the Montreal House, and who came here from Anjon, France, some time ago to buy furs, had his left hand somewhat badly lacerated. The accident occurred Saturday afternoon, when Angot was some two miles down the river and was wading through some water trailing the gun behind him, the trigger catching on a twig discharged the gun, and also splitting open the barrel, into which some snow had gotten. The man was immediately conveyed to St. Joseph's Hospital, where his wound was dressed by Dr. Coughlin. The hand is not so badly hurt that amputation will be necessary and it is expected Angot will be perfectly recovered in the course of a week or two.

FORTY SIX NIGHTS OF ENTERTAINMENT.

Mr. Jas. Stubbs Starts out on a Trip To-day

Mr. James Stubbs has just returned from a trip taken for the purpose of arranging a tour in which he will give his illustrated entertainment. The trip just completed was highly satisfactory, and as a result 46 nights have been booked. Mr. Stubbs starts out to-day, and will go west along the line of the C.P.R. between here and Toronto, giving an entertainment within five miles of that city on Wednesday night. He will come back along the G.T.R. giving evenings at Port Hope, Cobourg and nearly all the towns along the front, and will go down through the towns in the Ottawa Valley, including Pembroke, Renfrew and Ottawa City, where he will be for seven succeeding nights.

Mr. Stubbs' entertainment, which consists of 150 stereopticon views and $400 worth of moving pictures of the very latest subjects, is very popular with churches, under the auspices of which they are invariably given. Mr. Stubbs has in his possession a number of very complimentary letters in reference to the nature of his entertainment given by him, among them being one from Rev. John E. Hawkins, of Norwood; and another from Mr. J. H. Jopling, of Bridgenorth; at both of which places the entertainment was recently given. The highest recommendation Mr. Stubbs could possibly have is the fact that in a great many cases return dates are being arranged. He stated that invariably he found no difficulty in arranging to give his entertainment, and cited one instance of particularly quick booking. He was in Pembroke, and within 90 minutes of his arrival in that town had taken dinner, arranged for a date, and was on the train again going out.

PETERBOROUGH CANOES FOR THE FAR NORTH.

Large Shipments Being Made to the Hudson Bay Posts.

The importance of the canoe industry in Peterborough is perhaps not always fully appreciated by the citizens of the town, and it may be a surprise to many to learn that this spring the Peterborough Canoe Company will fill orders for about 150 canoes for the Hudson Bay Company. One shipment of half that number has already been made, and 75 more will be shipped in a short time. These canoes are sent to about a dozen different points at which the Hudson Bay Company have posts, including Edmonton, Winnipeg, Fort William and a number of points in the far north. The sizes vary from 16 to 20 foot, and are painted in the regular Hudson Bay Company colour, drab and white, with "H. B. Co." on the bow in large letters.

A canoe is a very necessary part of a Hudson Bay man's equipment, and it must be gratifying to all interested in the town's industries to know that a local firm has been able to secure such a large volume of trade by the excellence of its product.

HANDSOME DISPLAY OF SPRING HEADWEAR.

Cressman's Millinery Opening a Brilliant Affair.

Some Handsome Creations of the Milliners Art Features of the Spring Opening A Steady Growth.

This is pre-eminently a season of millinery openings. These come as regularly, and with as great significance as the vernal equinox, which ushers in a time of the year most welcome, since it marks the entrance from a gloomy and tiresome winter, into "gentle spring." It would be as impossible to measure the interest that centres about the millinery openings and all that accompanies them as it would to throw the tape line of comprehension about the significance of the season, but it may be truthfully said that A. W. Cressman has secured a focus on both to a very great extent. When the progressiveness, the growth of his business is considered, the fact that his selling space has been doubled within the last two years, and that each has seen an increased number of departments, it would be impossible to obtain more convincing evidences that everything is as it should be in "The store that never disappoints."

The appearance of the large store is suggestive of solid progress. Mr. Bowes has, by artistic decorative designs, secured an effect, which, from the large show windows, to the most remote department, delights the eye of the observer. The windows have been very prettily arranged with attractive spring goods, and the ensemble is further enhanced by the introduction of a pleasing floral arrangement. The millinery department, in which the greatest interest is concentrated at the present time, occupies an entire flat. The parlors are much visited, and many encomiums are expressed in regard to their appearance. Beautiful hats, dainty trimmings, brilliant illumination, produce an effect as regards the large display cases, which is indeed exquisite. The properties of this department are most complete, and Miss Paisley, the milliner, may be regarded as the autocrat of a very charming situation.

The ladies' ready-to-wear department is equally attractive. While it contains a stock which is probably the largest and heaviest between Toronto and Montreal, so, too, is exclusiveness a decided feature, there being those celebrated Northway garments and "Royal" wash suits and waists, all most prominent in popularity, and not available elsewhere in town. In connection with this the dress goods department, situated in the rear of the general dry goods store, should be mentioned. It has perfect light, by means of prisms, and every other accommodation is excellent. The stock is entirely new and completely realizes the importance of the season. The dressmaking department, which has recently been added, has proven a complete success from the first. These rooms are large and thoroughly equipped.

A most prominent branch is that devoted to gents' clothing and furnishings. This, too, has been made to suggest the advent of spring, and everything is indicative of genuine merit. This can well be understood, since the department is the home of such well known goods as 20th Century Clothing, Keiser New York neckwear, Cluett Peabody's shirts, and many other lines which have attained a permanent place in popularity.

FIRST IN MILLINERY.

In our few, and in the view of capable critics, the display of spring millinery is the handsomest collection of headwear ever brought into the display in town. "Exclusiveness" seems to stand out prominently in every hat. We are told that absolutely nothing is copied, that every hat is either a French pattern or designed in their own work rooms, which, by the way, has this season three experienced trimmers, besides many preparers to take charge of the growing trade in this department. Miss Oliver, who has charge of the designing, comes to Peterborough from one of the prominent wholesale millinery house in Toronto, where she has been designing for their openings for the past three years, and her work is easily seen in the varied assortment of

SHAPES AND PATTERNS.

Of the display itself, the very extent and variety makes it impossible to give anything like a comprehensive description. It requires to be seen to be appreciated. The department has been re-modelled and re-furnished, and is certainly a bright and cheery department for the ladies to visit. Miss Paisley who comes to Peterborough with wide city experience, has charge and evidently thoroughly understands the millinery needs and how to supply them. The Cressman store, appreciating the popular love of music, has fourteen canaries in the millinery rooms, which enlivened the opening days with their sweet music.

THE FUTURE.

While this business has had a remarkable growth in the five years since its inception, we are informed that matters are developing which will still further increase its growth. Other departments will in the near future be added which will utilize the entire floor space of both stores with their four storeys.

The buying end of the business is being remodelled, a strong syndicate of prominent dry goods concerns having pooled their buying arrangements. These stores have a combined output of over $580,000 per annum, and Mr. Cressman informs us that he purposes leaving for the Old Country markets in June, visiting England, Ireland, Scotland, Paris and Berlin, making a trip of about two months.

FIFTH WARD THE SCENE OF BIG FLOOD.

Creek Rose Five Feet in a Few Hours and Threatened Damage.

Live Stock Rescued from the Raging Waters Residences in Danger.

Some of the residents in the Fifth Ward were given a fright Saturday afternoon. The creek which runs through the central portion of that part of the town, and for the diversion of the course of which there has been an agitation for some time, became dammed up in a culvert which crosses Lake street, and the swiftly flowing water rose rapidly bringing a source of considerable damage to the property of a number of residents bordering on the waterway. In the course of a few hours the creek rose five feet, and a number of cellars were flooded. Mr. Sawyer's residence on Robinson street was in the greatest danger, and the back portion of the house was immersed. Mr. Alex. Patterson, nearly lost five sheep, which had got into the icy torrents, and he was also obliged to take his horses out of his stable, so high had the water become.

The residents of that vicinity state that the water has not been as high for thirteen years as it was on Saturday and they are unanimous in the hope that it will be an equal period before they experience a similar flood again. Ald. Adams was on the scene of the rampage early, and worked herculanously to avert the danger which threatened some of the near-by properties. A clearance was eventually effected and the creek is now running harmlessly, although higher than its normal flow.

THE CHURCHES.

ALL SAINTS' CHURCH.

Rev. W. Major, rector, preached two eloquent and appropriate sermons yesterday to overflowing congregations, who fully appreciated the preacher's efforts. The rev. gentlemen took as his morning text the 18th chapter of St. John, part of the 35th verse, "What hast thou done?" and after defining the application of the words spoken explained to his hears how they might profitably apply the question to themselves by a comparison of affirmative and negative replies to the same.

The evening text was taken from the 32nd chapter of Exodus, part of the 24th verse, "Then I cast it into the fire and there came out this calf." Messrs. Brundrette and Greenslade sang a duet, "Forever with the Lord," during the offertory.

SALVATION ARMY.

A most forceful and logical address was given to a large audience in the Salvation Army barracks last night, by Staff-Capt. MacNamara, on the words of Pilate, "What I have written I have written." The rendering of the selection by the band, of "How Beautiful upon the Mountains," was excellent, and much credit is due to the band for the way it was handled.

An advance copy of the Reach Official American Base Ball Guide for 1904, has reached the Examiner. This publication is now in its 22nd year, and the latest edition is the most complete baseball guide published.

As the official Guide of the American League, the Reach Guide contains in completed form everything of interest—both official and unofficial — concerning the doings, the records and the averages of that organization. Nothing has been left unrecorded, and everything has been so exhaustively narrated as to warrant the satisfaction of the magnates, managers, players and patrons of the new major league.

But, while the Reach Guide is distinctly an official Guide for the American League, it has not discarded any of the features which have made it hitherto a valuable general guide. It still covers the entire baseball field, doing ample justice to the National League and the various minor leagues, all of whose official records and averages are given in full.

LACROSSE.

The election of the officers of the T.A.S. Lacrosse Club, will take place this evening at 8.15 sharp in the rooms of the Society. Those who are nominated for the different offices and intend running are expected to be present.

In the deciding bout both men were on the mat 16 minutes, when on account of the lateness of the hour it was decided to declare the match a draw, and both men quit wrestling.

PEDESTRIANS VOICES CITIZEN'S COMPLAINT.

Urges the Council to Pass an Effective Snow By-Law.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir.—Can anything be done to arouse our council to the necessity of an effective snow bylaw? The disgraceful condition of many of our sidewalks, is due primarily to a council careless in regard to this branch of public service. We had hoped the "new blood" in it this year would have improved matters, but it is the same old story over again. The slouchy citizen is left undisturbed in his possession of side walk slush and this class includes doctors, ministers, councillors and corner lot proprietors, honourable men in all other respects, but they will never see their duty to public ethics except via the Police Court.

The present bylaw is comparatively useless as it applies only to the small section known as the fire district, and the police cannot enforce outside of that. The street Commissioner is not to blame as his hands are tied by limited expenditure. What we need is an effective bylaw that will authorize the street Commissioner to remove snow or slush after a reasonable time and charge the expense to the owner or tenant of the premises. Such bylaws are in force in other cities and the condition of many of our sidewalks this winter and spring, is a reflection on the ability of our council to attend to necessary details of public welfare. We don't want them to be so absorbed in "fathering" some great scheme that they can't see ordinary details.

Now, we men can wade and plunge through almost anything but how does it affect our wives and daughters, who must tramp miles to do the necessary shopping, etc., besides the hundreds of young women in our manufactories and business places. A moment's thought would show any councillor that this question is not a "chestnut" or mere handy topic for the chronic grumbler, but one that concerns the public welfare and also the public health.

The council should pass such a bylaw now for by next December some of them will be so scared of losing a few votes that an effective measure will not be brought forward. We certainly need something to touch the slouchy citizen's pocket book as appeals to a sense that does not exist are useless. Most of our smaller householders keep their walks in good condition, but are discouraged in their efforts by the so-called "well-to-do" citizen who is too lazy to shovel or too penurious to hire it done.

THE CELEBRATION OF PALM SUNDAY.

An Appropriate Sermon in St. Luke's Church Yesterday.

Yesterday morning at St. Luke's church, Rev. J. L. Holah, L. S. T., preached a sermon appropriate to the day, Palm Sunday, taking for his text:—St. Matt. 27; 24,25,—"I am innocent of the blood of this just Person. See ye to it; then answered all the people and said: His blood be upon us, and on our children."

Palm Sunday, what scenes it brings before us; like no other day in the Christian year, the people shouting for joy because the Great Miracle Worker had come and would declare Himself their King. All the while the chief authorities were plotting how they might take Him by subtlety and put Him to death.

Fickleness of popular opinion. Those to-day who were crying "Hosannas" were in five days hence, crying, "Crucify Him!" Fickleness of opinion, how often manifested; even in the immediate attendance; time not far distant when one would betray Him, when one would deny Him, when all would forsake Him and flee. And we ask what were the thoughts of Jesus Christ that day as He came near the city. "He wept," saying, "If thou hadst known in this, thy day, the things that belong to thy peace, but now they are hid from thine eyes."

"I am innocent of the blood of this just Person." The critical point, the details of the tragedy, the testing of Pilate, when he took water and washed his hands, saying, "I am innocent."

We see his inner mind revealed by his action to avert the inevitable, to persuade the Jews in their set determination, to wring from the victim some confession which would release himself from responsibility, and if possible some declaration as a crowning effort to save Him.

Pilate struggled in his mind between justice and respect for Christ, and fear of the Jews and Cesser at Rome, "If thou let that man go thou art not Cesser's friend." Arousing their compassion, he scourged Him and brought Him forth, bleeding and lacerated, with the scarlet robe and crown of thorns, "Behold your King," "Ecce Homo."

"Crucify Him," "His blood be upon us and out children," and they chose Barabbas, the old nature fulfilling the prophet's words, "Your hands are full of blood."

Oh! This indecision of character among men and women in all phases of life—in social life, in business life, in political life, in religious life, washing their hands, saying, "I have nothing to do with it;" ever trying to escape responsibility, thus making themselves partakers in other men's sins.

At the evening service Mr. Jos. Legg sang, "The Palms," with much acceptance.

THE MUSKRAT'S HOME.

A Wonderful Representation of Busy Animal's Energy and Foresight—Greatest Enemies Are Human.

It is closely bordering on meanness to molest a muskrat's house in winter. The irregular heaps of frozen roots and aquatic vegetation represent so much busy energy in the moonlight nights of summer and such careful preparation for the coming season of imprisoning ice! There are some who cut and pick and dig into these comfortable habitations, and set traps in the water to catch and drown the little colonists who come to repair the threatening damage. Some even creep silently to the sunny side, where the white frost shows the thawing warmth of life within, to drive a long spear through the softened wall into the little ice-lined home. Then there is the splashing of the startled inmates into the water, and perhaps the struggling of an impaled victim, who betrays his calamity and is dug out to his death. If legislation is ever justified or if official authority is ever warranted in obtruding beyond the electric lights and granolithic pavements, it is in dealing with the assassins of muskrats in their homes, says The Toronto Globe. But the muskrats do not mind an occasional visit from their friends, even when the thermometer draws near to zero; for their friends are always careful to close the door with dampened lumps of frozen vegetation and cover all with a thick coating of snow, that the wall may solidly congeal again and prevent the freezing of the open water that covers the floor. If the chinks are left open the floor of water will freeze, and when the muskrat comes along his muddy conduit with his lunch in his mouth, and ready to rise above the surface in his house, he bumps his nose against the ice and is forced to pursue a suffocating search for a house with the trap-door unobstructed. They are communistic in regard to houses, and a strenuous life under the ice, when many of the more complacent animals are sleeping away the winter, is sufficient to breed a helpful, neighborly spirit.

A muskrat can do almost anything under water except eat. When the ice is thin and clear he is often seen swimming comfortably under it, carrying a mouthful of green, succulent vegetation that trails gracefully on either side. Some say that when exhausted he breathes out a large bubble of air, waits for it to absorb oxygen from the water, and breathes it in again, going on his way refreshed. But he is generally in a hurry to get to the nearest house and enjoy the meal he has earned. As the ice thickens, his freedom in the shallow water becomes more restricted, and he seeks relief by burrowing and tunneling in the mud or sand. When the ice about his house freezes to the bottom he is not in the least inconvenienced, for a labyrinth of tunnels enables him to visit all his neighbors and reach the weedy pastures where his food is growing. In this connection he has gained a wide reputation as a weather prophet, and scarcely a fall passes without some serious faced messenger of evil announcing that the muskrats are building in ten feet of water. At such a depth it is safe to conclude that nature has assisted with a convenient mound, tree-trunk, or other foundation.

The muskrat makes provision for the coming winter without being either sordid or offensively industrious. He builds houses, but it is in a leisurely way, as if the work were its own reward. And when one is finished he does not stay to assert his proprietorship, but goes elsewhere and builds again. He does not store up food, thus showing a wise appreciation of the necessity of trusting some things to Providence. When winter visitors are digging through the masses of frozen vegetation many clam shells are turned out, showing where he rested at his work to enjoy a dainty luxury. They bring back, in fancy the warm moonlit nights, when he worked and feasted by turns on his half-finished house, or swam steadily across the open, marshy lagoons, with widening trails of glittering ripples quivering away into the impenetrable shadows all about him. Now the interior of his house is a low, ice-lined dome, with a floor of open water leading down into ramified burrows. In a house recently visited in Ashbridge's Bay the water was crowded with living mud-minnows, and the stains on the icy walls gave a suspicious proof that the occupants had indulged in a fish diet. The muskrat has an accommodating nature and may degenerate into the civilized life of a sewer-rat. But so long as he adheres to the trying ideal of living his own life and minding his own business he should have at least an absolute immunity from eviction while the ice is on the marsh.

An Old Sal's Retort.

The sensation of the evening at the Canada Club dinner to Mr. Alfred Lyttelton, says The London Tatler, was the reply of Sir John Hopkins to the Emperor. Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, who gave the toast of "The Imperial Forces," wound up with a reference to the Emperor's claim to Waterloo as a German battle, when the Admiral who was to respond for the Navy jumped up—bluff old salt that he is—and in a voice which would have shamed a foghorn, exclaimed: "There may be some doubt as to who was at Waterloo, but there can be none about Trafalgar." For five minutes nothing could be heard through the cheers. Sir John with the snow of seventy winters on his head, looked the perfect type of the British seaman as he stood, and might have come straight from the old Victory and the companions of Nelson. A Crimean hero, there is plenty of fight in him still, and in spite of his age he can wrestle with a bicycle as effectively as any newmade middy.

A Prince of Science.

The intellectual activity of that octogenarian prince of science, Lord Kelvin, shows no signs of abatement. He recently read before the Royal Society of Edinburgh, of which he is president, his solution of the problems raised by a "Free Procession of Waves in Deep Water," in continuation of a communication read by him seventeen years ago. He hopes to return to the subject again, but "at a much shorter interval."

There is nothing like Sunlight Soap for Household Utensils.

When you have to use hard water it is not an easy matter to wash household utensils. To do good washing you should have good soap and soft water (rain water). If you use hard water you must have good soap, and the best soap you can get is Sunlight Soap because it softens the hard water and makes a copious creamy lather. Use Sunlight Soap for all household purposes and the results will surprise you.

"Of all the fish in the sea herring is king."

The herring as breakfast dish or as hors d'oeuvre or as savory is familiar enough. In that capacity every one knows him. But the herring is king! That is another matter altogether and needs some accounting for. By what right, one feels inclined to ask, is that insignificant little fish king of the fishy community? Who crowned him and why? Was it we northern nations, to whom his advent brings such good, or is there further warranty anywhere for his kingship?

Here for the curious are chapter and verse for King Herring's claim. To begin with, he is countenanced by no less a person than Rare Ben Jonson, who in act 1, scene 3, of "Every Man in His Humor" makes the facetious Cob claim ancestry from "Herring, the king of fish." And, to substantiate Ben Jonson's assertion, comes that other sixteenth century writer, Thomas Nash of Lowestoft, who waxes eloquent, not to say perfervid, on the subject of the herring's kingship in a lively and paradoxical work called "Lenten Stuff, or, The Praise of Red Herring," written, it is said, in gratitude for money lent the author by the people of Yarmouth and by way of payment of the same. Here the herring's claim to royal estate is duly set forth in bombastic language suited to the dignity of the theme and, truth to tell, the satirical mood of the writer. Shorn of Nash's rhetorical extravagances, this, briefly, is the story of how the herring came by the crown:

It appears that once upon a time all the fish of the sea had occasion to choose a king to lead them to battle. To do so, says Nash, "beshackled mightily their fishy wits," for their claim was hedged round with limitations. No ravening fish, for instance, must they choose, lest, having destroyed their foe, he should eat them also for change of diet. He must, moreover, be one well known to them all by reason of his wide sea wanderings, one, too, whom they could depose when they listed should he begin to tyrannize. Now, none met these requirements save the herring; hence was he proclaimed king of fishes by the unanimous vote of all the fishy community—all, that is, but the plaice and butt, who, being jealous, made wry mouths at Master Herring instead of shouting "God save the king!" with the rest and who have had, as every one knows, wry mouths for their mocking ever since. In such fashion was the herring raised to the kingly throne, and hence wears he to this day, says Nash, a coronet to mark his kingship; hence, too, goes he forth always with an army and, moreover, in true kingly fashion sends forth heralds to announce his royal progress through various waters. These herring heralds, by the way, when the wily fisherman catches he swings sundry times round the mainmast of his lugger, bidding them bring the boat a last of herrings for every swing. Then, their ransom paid, he flings them back into the water, hostages to fortune.

Nash's eulogies of King Herring in "Lenten Stuff" know no bounds. Not content with proclaiming him king in his natural state, he lauds him extravagantly — cured—giving him such titles as "Puissant Red Herring, Red Herring of Herring Hall, Golden Hesperides Red Herring" and various other panegyrics. All of this is as absurd as Nash meant it to be. Yet in spite of his nonsense there is much truth in his assumption of King Herring's puissance. Never truly was there so autocratic a monarch, for wherever he puts in an appearance he dominates everything and everybody.

It is a twice told tale how in those ancient days a certain Yarmouth fisherman having caught more herrings than he wist what to do withal, hung them in the sooty roof of his shed a-drying and straightway forgot all about them, how he built up his fire, the weather being cold, and, what with his smoking and firing, the herrings, which were white as whalebone when he hung them up, became by degrees as red as lobsters. The good man and his wife did not discover this fact for some days, and when at length they spied the beautiful red fish they fell down on their knees and crossed themselves and cried, "A miracle, a miracle!" And then posthaste to Burgh Castle, three miles away from Cerdic shore over the marshes, went they, where Sigebert, King of the East Angles, lived in retirement in the monastery of good St. Furseus, and presented their treasures to His Majesty, who also worshiped them and granted the fisherman and his wife a license to hawk them up and down the country as "strange monsters." Nor did the matter end there, for Sigebert, we are told, bestowed many privileges on the place where this miracle was worked, and thus from the very first red herrings brought prosperity to Yarmouth.

In olden times herrings were thought food for kings. "A white pickle herring," says Nash, "is meat for a prince." And so one English monarch seemed to think, for Edward I. in 1286 bound Yarmouth by charter to send annually to court twenty-four herring pies or pasties, containing a hundred herrings, and forty lasts of red herring were in 1300 ordered from the same place for the King's use. In the same reign the "puissant" fish served as honeymoon fare for a royal couple too. When Margaret, daughter of Edward I., married the Duke of Brabant 10,652 herrings were provided for the victualing of the ship which conveyed the bride and bridegroom to the continent. So much for the herring's association with royalty; so much for his claim to be royal himself, a claim as strong now as it was when Nash wrote so grandiloquently of it, for never was there a monarch whose rule was more firmly established, whose power increased more steadily.

1903 Disastrous for Novelists.

The past year has been unusually disastrous to English writers of fiction. The death of George Gissing, the novelist, following so quickly upon that of Henry Seton Merriman, removes one of the most successful literary men of the day. Mr. Gissing's reputation with colonial readers was made by his books on London life, which were realistic rather than noted for their literary workmanship. His appreciation of Dickens, however, showed that he could do good work in other lines than fiction.

Human Breath and Bees.

Bees are revived by human breath, even when apparently dead. An old writer on the subject describes how, during a very wet May, he discovered a hive which had been working well previously whose tenants seemed to be dead, but by putting a few of them into his hand and breathing upon them for several minutes he at last observed some motion at the second joint of their horns. By persevering he revived them all, and they became the best hive in his garden. He is, however, careful to remark that those who use pomatum, perfume or hair powder should not make too free with the insects during the process of restoration.

The secret, of course—though at one time the thing was regarded as miraculous—is in the warmth conveyed; but, besides this, there is no doubt that bees are roused by human breath, to which they have such an antipathy that they are much more easily handled if the operater draws his breath gently and takes care not to direct it against them. —London Standard.

Curious Coincidence.

If Quentin Matsys had a picture on the easel Wolsey was ready to purchase it. If there was a curious clock it was secured, for him. His fondness for tapestry amounted to a passion. Trusty agents ransacked the continent to procure choice sets of arras, new and old, for the rising palace. If the owner generally preferred Scriptural subjects, as became a prince of the church, he also collected many hangings wrought with scenes from classic or mediaeval story. Thus, while the walls of one chamber set forth the history of Samuel or David or Esther, those of another glowed with the labors of Hercules, the woes of Priam or the "Romaunte of the Rose." In the rooms where he received visitors the tapestries were changed once a week.—Macmillan's Magazine

Biggest Printing Order.

When a certain syrup was first introduced into England the proprietors had the enormous number of 14,000,000 pamphlets printed. Nearly 6,000,000 of these were circulated through the postoffice to the principal inhabitants of every county in England. Probably in point of numbers as well as bulk this is the largest order for printing ever given for completion at a specified time by any firm of factory.

SCOTLAND'S ANCIENT CROWN.

Dates Back to the Time of Robert the Bruce in 1314.

The most ancient crown in the Empire is now that of Scotland. When Oliver Cromwell laid his iconoclastic hand on England's throne he destroyed her emblem of sovereignty, and the crown which King Edward wears is of comparatively modern date. Not so that of the northern country. In Edinburgh Castle there is guarded the regalia of Scotland, the crown dating back to the time of Robert the Bruce in 1314, a portion of it being indeed anterior to the days of the hero of Bannockburn. The crown is of handsome design, and is of pure gold, enriched with many precious stones, diamonds, pearls, and curious enamellings. The fillet which goes round the head is adorned with twenty-two large precious stones; the circle above has diamonds, sapphires and pearls; and the upper circles has ten crosses floree, each with a great diamond betwixt four great pearls. Four arches adorned with enamelled figures meet and close at the top, surmounted with a mond of gold, the apex of the crown being a large cross patee, containing pearls. The bonnet was of purple velvet, but in 1685 it got a cap of crimson velvet with ermine. The crown is nine inches in diameter, 27 inches circumference, and in height from the under circle to the cross 6½ inches. The mace is surmounted by a great crystal beryl, a stone of vast antiquity, and it and part of the crown are believed to have come down from the early Kings of Scotland—the days of Macduff and Duncan. King Robert the Bruce had alterations made to the crown, and thereafter nothing further was touched until James V. caused the four arches to be added. It is especially identified with the House of Stuart, and was the Jacobite emblem of faith. The sceptre is of hexagon form, two feet long, of silver double overgilt, and is believed to have been made by James V., and to include a portion of a much more ancient rod. The sword was presented by Pope Julius to James IV. in 1507, along with a consecrated hat. It is five feet long, with handle and pommel of silver overgilt and scabbard of crimson velvet.

Eye Strain is Nerve Strain.

Seamstress and Stenographer Sewing Girl and Student Suffer Alike From This Trouble.

The eye is a complicated mechanism, made up of a regular network of the most delicate nerve fibres.

When an unusual amount of work is required of the eye, or when the eye is kept constantly at high tension, nerve force is consumed at a tremendous rate, and unless the system is strong and supported by an abundance of rich, red blood there follows physical collapse.

What hosts of pale and emaciated girls are found in our offices and factories, schools and workshops, and what a large proportion of them are wearing glasses!

Their health and sight cannot possibly be improved, except by a building up of the nervous system, and this can best be accomplished by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Whether you have strained your eyes and undermined your nervous system by needlework, office work or study you will be benefitted by a month's treatment with this great food cure.

As your form rounds out, and your weight increases, as you find new vigour of mind and body, as your eye sight improves, and you vitality returns, you will be for ever grateful that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food ever became known to you.

You cannot afford to delay the use of this great nerve restorative, for every dose is bound to be a benefit to you.

Mrs. Smeaton, 191 Rubidge street, Peterborough, Ont., and whose husband is employed with the Canadian General Electric Co., states:—

"My little son was very much run down in health, had no colour in his face, and was quite nervous. As his appetite was poor, and he seemed tired and listless, we became anxious about him and began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. It was not long before I noticed a marked change in his appearance. His appetite improved, his colour became better, and his health generally was very much better than it had been for a long time. I have much pleasure in adding my testimony to the hosts of others who are praising this medicine."

Purified by Suffering

BY MARY J. HOLMES.

Wilford did not like the words obedience and absolute, that is, he did not like the sound. Their definition suited him, but Helen's enunciation was at fault, and he answered quickly. "I do not require absolute obedience from Katy. I never did, but in this matter to which you refer, I think she might consult my wishes as well as her own. There is no reason for her secluding herself in the nursery as she does. Do you think there is?"

He put the question direct, and Helen answered it.

"I do not believe Katy means to displease you, but she has conceived a strong aversion for festive scenes and besides baby is not healthy you know, and like all young mothers, she may be over-anxious, while I fancy she has not the fullest confidence in the nurse, and this may account for her unwillingness to leave the child with her."

"Kirby was all that was desirable," Wilford replied. "His mother had taken her from a genteel, respectable house in Bond street, and he paid her an enormous price, consequently she must be right;" and then came the story that his mother had decided that neither Katy nor baby would improve so long as they remained together; that for both a separation was desirable; that she had recommended sending the child into the country, where it would be better cared for than it could not be at home with Katy constantly undoing all that Mrs. Kirby had done. Waking it from sleep whenever the fancy took her, and in short treating it much as she probably did her doll when she was a little girl. With the child away there would be nothing to prevent Katy's going out again and getting back her good looks which were somewhat impaired.

"Why, she looks older than you do," thinking thus to conciliate Helen, who quietly replied.

"There is not two years difference between us, and I have always been well, and kept regular hours until I came here."

Wilford's compliment had failed, and more annoyed than before, he asked, not what Helen thought of the arrangement, but if she would influence Katy to act and think rationally upon it; "at least you will not make it worse," he said, and this time there was something deferential and pleading in his manner.

Helen knew the matter was fixed—that neither Katy's tears nor entreaties would avail to revoke the decision, and so, though her whole soul rose in indignation against a man who would deliberately send his nursing baby from his roof because it was in his way, and was robbing his bride's cheek of its girlish bloom, she answered composedly.

"I will do what I can, but I must confess it seems to me an unnatural thing. I had supposed parents less selfish than that."

Wilford did not care what Helen had supposed, and her opposition only made him more resolved. Still he did not say so, and he tried to smile as he quitted the table, and remarked to her:

"I hope to find Katy reconciled when I come home. I think I had better not go up to her again, so tell her I send a good-bye kiss to her by you. I leave her case in your hands."

It was a far more difficult case than either he or Helen imagined, and the latter started back in alarm at the white face that greeted her view as she entered Katy's room, and then with a moan hid itself in the pillow.

"Wilford thought he would not come up, but he sent a kiss by me," Helen said, softly touching the bright, disordered hair, all she could see of her sister.

"It does not matter," Katy gasped. "Kisses cannot help me if they take baby away. Did he tell you?" and she turned now partly towards Helen, who nodded affirmatively, while Katy continued, "Had he taked a knife and cut a cruel gash, it would not have hurt me half so badly, I could bear that, but my baby—oh, Helen, do you think they will take her away?"

She was looking straight at Helen, who shivered as she met an expression so unlike Katy, and so like to that a hunted deer might wear if its offspring were in danger.

"Say, do you think they will," she continued, shedding back with her thin hand the mass of tangled curls which had fallen about her eyes.

"Whom do you mean by they?" Helen asked, coming near to her and sitting down upon the bed.

There was a resentful gleam in the blue eyes, usually so gentle, as Katy answered:

"Whom do I mean? His folks, of course! They have been the instigators of every sorrow I have known since I left Silverton. Oh, Helen! never, never marry anybody who has folks, if you wish to be happy."

Helen could not repress a smile, though she pitied her sister, who continued—

"I don't mean father Cameron, nor Bell, for I believe they love me. Father does, I know, and Bell has helped me so often. But Mrs. Cameron and Juno, oh, Helen, you will never know what they have been to me."

Since Helen came to New York, there had been so much else to talk about that Katy had said comparatively little of the Camerons. Now, however, there was no holding back on Katy's part, and beginning with the first night of her arrival in New York, she told what is already known to the reader, exonerating Wilford in word, but dealing out full justice to his mother and Juno, the former of whom controlled him so completely.

"I tried so hard to love her," Katy said, "and if she had given me ever so little in return, I would have been satisfied; but she never did—that is, when I hungered for it most, missing you at home, and the loving care which sheltered me in childhood. After the world took me into favor she began to caress me, but I was wicked enough to think it all came of selfishness. I know I am hard and bad, for when I was sick, Mrs. Cameron was really very kind, and I began to like her; but if she takes baby away, I shall surely die."

"Where is baby to be sent?" Helen asked, and Katy answered:

"Up the river to a house which Father Cameron owns, and which is kept by a farmer's family. I can't trust Kirby. I do not like her. She keeps baby asleep too long, and acts so cross if I try to wake her, or hint that she looks unnatural. I cannot give baby to her care, with no one to look after her, though Wilford says I must."

Katy had never offered so violent opposition to any plan as she did now to that of sending her child away.

"I can't, I can't," she repeated constantly, and Mrs. Cameron's call, made that afternoon with a view to reconcile the matter, only made it worse, so that Wilford, on his return at night, felt a pang of self-reproach as he saw the drooping figure holding his child upon its lap, and singing its lullaby in a plaintive voice, which told how sore was its heart.

Wilford did not mean to be either a savage or a brute. On the contrary he had made himself believe that he was acting only for the good of both mother and child; but the sight of Katy touched him, and he might have given up the contest had not Helen unfortunately taken up the cudgels in Katy's defence, neglecting to conceal the weapons, and so defeating her purpose. It was at the dinner from which Katy was absent, that she ventured to speak, not asking that the plan be given up, but speaking of it as an unnatural one, which seemed to her not only useless but cruel.

Wilford did not tell her that her opinion was not desired, but his manner implied as much, and Helen felt the angry blood prickling through her veins as she listened to his reply, that it was neither unnatural nor cruel; that many people did it, and his would not be an isolated case.

"Then, if it must be," Helen said, "pray let it go to Silverton, and I will be its nurse. Katy will not object to that."

In a very ironical tone Wilford thanked her for her offer, which he begged leave to decline, intimating a preference for settling his own matters according to his own ideas. Helen knew that further arguments were useless, and wished herself at home, where there were no wills like this, which, ignoring Katy's tears and Katy's pleading face, would not retract one iota, or even stoop to reason with the suffering mother, except to reiterate, "It is only for your good, and every one with common sense will say so."

Next morning Helen was surprised at Katy's proposition to drive round to Fourth Street, and call on Marian.

"I have a strong presentment that she can do me good," Katy said.

"Shall you tell her?" Helen asked in some surprise; and Katy replied, "Perhaps, I may. I'll see."

An hour later, and Katy, up in Marian's room, sat listening intently while Marian spoke of a letter received a few days since from an old friend who had worked with her at Madam ——'s, and to whom she had been strongly attached, keeping up a correspondence with her after her marriage and removal to New London, in Connecticut, and whose little child had borne Marian's name. That child, born two months before Katy's, was dead, and the mother, finding her home so desolate, had written, beseeching Marian to come to her for the remainder of the winter.

There was an eager look in Katy's face, and her eyes danced with the new idea that had suddenly taken possession of her. She could not trust baby with Kirby up the river, but she could trust her in New London with Mrs. Hubbell if Marian was there, and grasping the latter's arm she exclaimed, "Is Mrs. Hubbell poor? Would she do something for money. I mean?"

In a few moments Marian had heard Katy's trouble, and Katy's wish that Mrs. Hubbell should take her child in the place of the little one dead. "Perhaps she would not harbor the thought for a moment, but she missed her own so much, it made me think she might take mine. Write to her, Marian—write to-day—now, before I go," Katy continued, clasping Marian's hand, with an expression which, more than aught else, won Marian Hazelton's consent to a plan which seemed so strange.

"Yes, I will write," she answered; "I will tell Amelia what you desire."

"But, Marian, you too must go, if baby does—I'll trust baby with you. Say Marian, will you go with my darling?"

It was hard to refuse, with those great, wistful, pleading eyes, looking so earnestly into hers; but Marian must have time to consider. She had thought of going to New London to open a shop, and if she did she should board with Mrs. Hubbell, and so be with the child. She would decide when the answer came to the letter.

This was all the encouragement she would give; but it was enough to change the whole nature of Katy's feelings, and her face looked bright and cheerful as she tripped down the stairway, talking to Helen of what seemed to both like a direct interposition of Providence, and what she was sure would please Wilford quite as well as the farm-house up the river.

"Surely he will yield to me in this," she said. Nor was she wrong, for glad of an opportunity to make some concessions, and still in the main have his own way, Wilford raised no objection to the plan as communicated to him by Katy, when, at an earlier hour than usual, he came home to dinner and with the harmony of the household once more restored, felt himself a model husband, as she listened to Katy's plan of sending baby to New London. On the whole, it might be better, even than the farm-house up the river, he thought, for it was farther away, and Katy could not be tiring herself with driving out every few days, and keeping herself constantly uneasy and excited. The distance between New York and New London was the best feature of the whole; and he wondered Katy had not thought of it as an objection. But she had not, and but for the pain when she remembered the coming separation, she would have been very happy that evening, listening with Wilford and Helen to a new opera brought out for the first time in New York.

Very differently from this was Marian's evening passed, and on her face there was a look such as Katy's had never worn, as she asked for guidance to choose the right, to lay all self aside, and if it were her duty, to care for the child she had never seen, but whose birth had stirred the pulsations of her heart and made the old wound bleed and throb with bitter anguish. And as she prayed there crept into her face a look which told that self was sacrificed at last, and Katy Cameron was safe with her.

* * * * *

Mrs. Hubbell was willing — aye, more than that—was glad to take the child, and the generous remuneration offered would make them so comfortable in their little cottage, she wrote to Marian, who hastened to confer by note to Katy, adding in a postcript, "Is it still your wish that I should go? If so, I am at your disposal."

It was Katy's wish, and she replied at once, going next to the nursery to talk with Mrs. Kirby. Dark were the frowns and dire the displeasure of the lady when told that instead of going up the river, as she had hoped, she was free to return to the "genteel and highly respectable home on Bond Street," where Mrs. Cameron had found her.

"Wait till the madam comes and then we'll see," she thought, referring to Mrs. Cameron, and feeling delighted when that very day she heard the lady's voice in the parlor.

But Mrs. Cameron, though a little anxious with regard to both Mrs. Hubbell's and Marian's antecedents, saw that Wilford was in favor of New London, and so voted accordingly, only asking that she might write to New London with regard to Mrs. Hubbell and her fitness to take charge of a child in whose veins Cameron blood was flowing. To this Katy assented, and as the answer returned to Mrs. Cameron's letter was altogether favorable, it was decided that Mrs. Hubbell should come to the city at once for her little charge.

In a week's time she arrived, seeming everything Katy could ask for, and as Mrs. Cameron too, approved her heartily as a modest, well spoken young woman who knew her place, it was arranged that she should return home with her little charge on Saturday, thus giving Katy the benefit of Sunday in which "to get over it and recovery her usual spirits," Mrs. Cameron said. The fact that Marian was going to New London within a week after baby went, reconciled Katy to the plan making her ever cheerful during the last day of baby's stay at home. But as the daylight waned and the night came on, a shadow began to steal across her face, and her step was slower as she went up stairs to the nursery, while only herself that night could disrobe the little creature and hush it into sleep.

"'Tis the last time, you know," she said to Kirby who went out, leaving the young mother and child alone.

Mournfully sad and sweet was the lullaby Katy sang, and Helen, who in the hall was listening to the low, sad moaning—half prayer, half benediction—likened it to a farewell between the living and dead. Half an hour later, when she glanced into the room, lighted only by the moonbeams, baby was sleeping in her crib, whilst Katy knelt beside, her face buried in her hands, and her form quivering with the sobs she tried to smother and she softly prayed that her darling might come back again: that God would help the little child, and forgive the erring mother who had sinned so deeply since the time she used to pray in her home among the hills of Massachusetts. She was very white next morning, and to Helen she seemed to be expanding into something more womanly, more mature, as she disciplined herself to bear the pain welling up so constantly from her heart, and at last overflowing in a flood of tears when Mrs. Hubbell was announced as in the parlor below waiting for her charge.

It was Katy who made her baby ready, trusting her to no one else, and repelling with a kind of fierce decision all offers of assistance made either by Helen, Mrs. Cameron, Bell, or the nurse, who were present, while Katy's hands drew on the little bright, soft socks of wool, tied the hood of satin and lace and fastened the scarlet cloak, her tears falling fast as she met the loving, knowing look the baby was just learning to give her, half smiling, half cooing, as she bent her face down to it.

"Please all of you go out," she said, when baby was ready—"Wilford and all. I would rather be alone."

They granted her request, but Wilford stood beside the open door, listening while the mother bade farewell to her baby.

"Darling," she murmured, "what will poor Katy do when you are gone, or what will comfort her as you have done? Precious baby, my heart is breaking to give you up, but will the Father in Heaven, who knows how much you are to me, keep you from harm, and bring you back again? I'd give the world to keep you, but I cannot do it, for Wilford says that you must go, and Wilford is your father."

At that moment Wilford Cameron would have given half his fortune to have kept his child for Katy's sake, but it was now too late, the carriage was at the door, and Mrs. Hubbell was waiting in the hall for the little procession filing down the stairs. Mrs. Cameron and Bell, Wilford and Katy, who carried the baby herself, her face bent over it and her tears still dropping like rain. But it was Wilford who took the baby to the carriage, going with it to the train and seeing Mrs. Hubbell off; then, on his way back, he drove round to his own house, which even to him seemed lonely, with all the paraphernalia of babyhood removed. Still, now that the worst was over, he rather enjoyed it, for Katy was free from care; there was nothing to hinder her from gratifying his every wish, and with his spirits greatly enlivened as he reflected how satisfactory everything had been managed at the last, he proposed taking both Helen and Katy to the theatre that night. But Katy answered, "No, Wilford, not to-night; it seems too much like baby's funeral. I'll go next week, but not to-night."

So Katy had her way and among the worshipers who next day knelt in Grace Church with the words of prayer upon their lips, there was not one more earnest than she whose only theme was, "My child, my darling child."

She did not get over it by Monday, as Mrs. Cameron had predicted. She did not get over it at all, though she went without a word where Wilford willed that she should go, and was ere long, a belle again, but nothing had power to draw one look from her blue eyes, the look which many observed, and which Helen knew sprang from the mother love, hungering for its child. Only once before had Helen seen a look like this, and that had come to Morris's face on the sad night when she said to him, "It might have been." It had been there ever since, and Helen felt that by the pangs with which that look was born he was a better man, just as Katy was growing better for that hunger in her heart, God was taking his own way to purify them both, and Helen watched intently, wondering what the end would be.

If Must Come.

As inevitable as the changing seasons of the year is the change which comes to every woman. And just as one anticipates the changes of other seasons it is wise to anticipate this change of season and prepare for it. In this way the discomforts and disasters suffered by many women at the period of change can be avoided or overcome.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, a medicine for every season of woman's life, will entirely meet the needs of women at this period of change. It cures the physical ills and relieves the mental anxiety and depression usually associated with this critical period. It tranquilizes the nerves, encourages the appetite and induces refreshing sleep.

$500 REWARD! FOR WOMEN WHO CANNOT BE CURED.

Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States, for any case of Leucorrhea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

J. S. Carlisle, Esq., of Manchester, Coffee Co., Tenn., writes: "I have been using your medicines for the last sixteen or eighteen years in my Poor-house. I am superintendent of the Coffee County Poor-house and Asylum combined. Your 'Favorite Prescription,' 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets' are the best medicines for the diseases for which they are recommended, that I ever used. They saved my wife's life at the time of 'change of life.' I have been recommending your medicine to many afflicted women and have also guaranteed that if it did not cure I would pay back the money spent for it. I have told our druggist that if the people came back and said Doctor Pierce's medicines did not give satisfaction, to give them back their money and charge it to me. I have not once been called upon to refund. I have never found anything to equal the 'Favorite Prescription' for diseases of women."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps for the paper covered book, or 50 stamps for the cloth bound. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Read what Miss L. L. Hanson, Waterside, N.B., says: "I feel it my duty to express the benefit I have received from Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. A year ago last spring I began to have heart failure. At first I would have to stop working and lie down for a while. Then I got so bad I had to give up altogether and go to bed. I had several doctors attend me but they did me no good. I could get no relief until urged by a friend to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. Before I had used three quarters of a box I began to feel the benefit and by the time I had taken three boxes I was completely cured."

Weak lungs, throat troubles or bronchial affections get more positive help and relief from Scott's Emulsion than from any other source.

Cod liver oil itself is very scarce just now; cheap adulterations and mixtures of inferior oils are offered everywhere.

This is why Scott's Emulsion should be insisted upon. It never varies from the high quality and absolute purity that has made it the standard for thirty years.

QUOTATIONS ON THE WALL STREET MARKET.

The Fluctuations of the Leading Stocks

Henry Clews' weekly market letter dated March 26th, says in part:—

Speculative activity having been pent up for months burst out with surprising strength after the merger decision and the Sully failure. Both of these factors had been important elements of uncertainty, and their culmination released forces that had long been waiting for just such an opportunity.

The collapse of the powerful manipulation in cotton, while disastrous to those closely connected, will be beneficial when the aftermath is over; inasmuch as this great staple will be ruled once more by natural and not artificial influences which seriously injured both mill owners and operators in all parts of the world. The South would have inevitably secured good prices for cotton this year without the aid of these dangerous speculative operations, simply because the worlds demands were overtaking supplies, which so far as the American crop was concerned, were strictly moderate. By a policy of exaggeration and excessive speculation prices were carried to a dizzy height, the effect of which will be an unusual increase in acreage and less profitable prices to growers for next crop than they would have received under the ordinary sway of supply and demand. The South would have enjoyed a greater, a more permanent and a more evenly distributed prosperity without the cotton corner of 1903-4, which has produced nothing except a forcible derangement, the effects of which will be worldwide, not to speak of the immense stimulus given to developing other cotton regions as competitors with America.

"TO-DAY'S MARKET

Messrs. McMillan and Maguire received the following concerning this morning's market:

New York, March 28th. — After early strength this morning the stock market became somewhat irregular, and dullness spread over the general list, which was firm, however, and specialties continued strong. The feature of the morning's tradings was A.C.P. of which commission houses were active buyers; Bache and other prominent houses bought the stock which we believe will sell higher. London was an early buyer, leading international stocks, and was reporting as covering some outstanding shorts in Erie and R. G. on which we get bull points. The floor members reported that there were very few stocks offering this morning. It is reported to-day that the Goulds are preparing for a bull campaign in M.O.P. K.T. and Texas and St. Louis S.W. The excellent earnings reported by Atchison caused considerable foreign buying of that stock to-day and we believe it will improve in price.

FLOODS IN ONTARIO

Hundreds of People Were Driven From Their Homes.

LOSS OF ONE LIFE IS REPORTED

Duncan McMartin Drowned on the Way to Help Others at London, Ontario—Thames, Sydenham and Grand Rivers on the Rampage—Factories Shut Down at Woodstock—Bridges Swept Away.

London, March 28.—One life was lost in the flood which submerged West London on Friday night and Saturday, a flood greater than any since 1883, when thirty persons lost their lives and many thousands of dollars of damage was done. The death roll includes:

Duncan McMartin, medical student, was drowned by the upsetting of a canoe, while engaged in the work of assisting families cut off by the high water. His companion, Frederick Adams, had a narrow escape.

The body of McMartin, the medical student, who lost his life at Blackfriars dam, has not been found.

Mr. Wade, the grocer, who was reported to have been swept from his perch and was drowned, has turned up and is safe and well. His escape is little short of miraculous, for the water in front of his store was several feet deep, and a swift current was running. He was saved only by the sturdy efforts of several onlookers.

Another may die from exposure. Thomas Lawless, Front street, suffering from typhoid fever, was removed from his home in an open boat yesterday morning to a place of safety, and conveyed to Victoria Hospital, where he is in a very critical condition.

Water Rose Hourly.

All day Friday the river rose and surged along with a sullen roar. The warm rain sent the water of the entire district from the County of Perth into its bed, and with each hour the gauge at Springbank recorded a rise in the flood. Though the ice had been pretty well cleared out of the south branch on Thursday, Friday at 4.30 the ice which had been jammed in the north branch north of St. Mary's gave way, and came down the river at race-horse speed, scuffling and crashing in the foam at the forks before it found its way into the current westward toward the lake. By 6 o'clock all the low banks along the south branch had been covered with water. These included the old Moore distillery property, the flats in the rear of the London Rolling mills Company, as well as those across the river to the south; Winnet's Island, behind Victoria Hospital, disappeared from view, and the water began to make its way up Front street, and over at West London the flood was but four or five feet from the top of the breakwater in the lower places. Hunt's mills were compelled to close down, and the local electric power house also felt shaky.

Flood Practically Over.

The flood in London West is practically over. The water commenced to go down on Saturday evening and fell rapidly during the night. Sunday morning saw the river fully eight feet below what it was twelve hours previously. The loss through damage to property is roughly estimated in the neighborhood of $25,000.

Communication by the Grand Trunk between here and Detroit is cut off owing to the heavy washouts on the line. Unless several days of warm weather are again followed by rain, there is small danger of further trouble.

Boating in the Streets.

Thamesville, March 28.—The River Thames has control of the town here. The water has risen rapidly since Saturday. Yesterday the entire town was flooded, nearly every place of business having three feet of water on its floors. Boats can navigate most any street in town with ease. At least fifty families have been obliged to tear up and move upstairs. All churches are flooded and closed. Communications, even by railways, are cut off owing to washouts. The G.T.R. bridge here is in danger and is being closely watched. The water is still rising fast.

Factories Closed Down.

Woodstock, March 28. — Friday night's heavy rainfall considerably increased the volume of water which has flooded the low-lying lands about the city, although by Saturday morning the freeze-up had reduced it again. During the day the Hay Company had to close their works, the water having encroached on some of the under-floor shafting, interfering with the operation of the vats. The Canada Furniture factory closed down in the morning, and the Woodstock Wagon Company was compelled to shut off the steam Saturday morning and close operations.

During the night the flood covered a wide area of land in the extreme southwest corner of the city. All the flats west of the Furniture Company's lumber yards were inundated, and the Thames flats to the west were under water. The land purchased by the city, and on which the septic tank and filtering beds have been constructed, is flooded over, and there is no sign of the sewer works to be seen. The water rose over the 11th line bridge, and on Saturday it was impossible for rigs to drive through.

During the night the creek reached the level of the road on Norwich avenue, and rushed over the bridge near the G.T.R. crossing, carrying a portion of it away.

The Thames, extending from Dorchester to Woodstock, is flooded. There is almost an unbroken body of water extending between the two places, and at many points woods, swamps and fields have been inundated. Whole fields have been flooded, and rail fences have been obliterated by the rush of waters. In some sections the tops of the fences only are observable.

Nexon Works Flooded.

Ingersoll, March 28.—The River Thames rose at an alarming rate and exceeded high water mark, covering the flats to the depth of several feet. It has gradually crept up until close to the O.P.R. tracks, Richardson's mill and Kerr's shop being almost surrounded. The Noxon works have been flooded and work there is suspended. There were probably a couple of feet of water near the company's new building on Thames street Saturday morning, in which heavy oil barrels were floating about. To the west the water has flowed over the C.P.R. tracks and J. W. Patterson's coal office is flooded.

The woollen mill is closed down in consequence of several inches of water being in the boiler-room.

The creek that flows just below the Collegiate Institute has brought an immense volume of water from the north and has caused no little damage. One family was forced out Saturday night, the water having commenced to pour into their beds.

Sydenham on Rampage.

Wallaceburg, March 28.—The worst spring freshet that ever visited this section started Friday, and poured down both branches of the Sydenham River at a fearful rate Saturday, and has flooded all the low lands in this vicinity, many people in town having to leave their houses. Several farmers and their families have been taken from their homes in boats, some of them losing nearly all their live stock by drowning. The Pere Marquette was unable to run any trains Saturday on account of wash-outs. During the night the steamer Winona broke from her moorings and ran against the railway bridge, but fortunately she struck it with her stem and no serious damage was done. A loaded train of coal cars has been placed on the bridge to weigh it down. Apparently the worst is now over, as the water is falling.

Oil Wells Suffered.

Petrolea, March 28.—The flood that annually occurs here every spring from Bear Creek was not as bad as in former years, although several oil wells situated on the banks of this creek have suffered. The weather is turning out fine, and the water is following its natural course and no fear is entertained.

Near Top of Dyke.

Brantford, March 28.—On Saturday evening the Grand River at this point had assumed such swollen proportions as to cause the city authorities and many citizens great alarm. The ice at Galt broke up early Saturday afternoon, and from that time the water here rose rapidly. It is estimated that it was more than fifteen feet above the normal level. At one time it was feared the dykes protecting a portion of the westward were not high enough. The water was within six inches of the top. Large quantities of ice passed down.

Kent Under Water.

Chatham, March 28.—The water in the river rose to an alarming height on Saturday, but is now subsiding. The Canada Flour Mills Company was forced to shut down Saturday morning in order to get the belts away before the water reached them.

The King street merchants were busy Saturday clearing their cellars. Many of the cellars on King street, in fact nearly all of them, were filled with a foot and some as much as two feet of water.

Raleigh Plans Flooded.

Trainmen coming into the city from the west state that the Raleigh plains seems to be one sheet of water with houses dotted here and there and people moving round on rafts. The water is above the Grand Trunk rails and is rushing for the River Thames.

G. T. Crow's store at Prairie Siding is flooded out and the people all through this neighborhood are in a great state of excitement.

The ravages of the flood in Harwich have been great, and bridges and culverts have been swept away. The Creek road is impassible and nearly all the bridges are under water. Two bridges on the third concession are gone and one on the River road near Rothwell's.

It is reported that the farmers in the vicinity of Prairie Siding are being forced to leave their residences. Edgar Johnson, who lives on the London road, had to move his stock out, the water having risen so high.

Dresden in Trouble.

Dresden, March 28.—The river at Dresden is higher than ever before in the history of the town. McVean's hub and spoke factory, the flour mill and Laird's mill are all flooded, and the water is up to the sugar stored in the warehouse at the sugar factory. Laird Bros. have lost hundreds of dollars worth of lumber and cedar posts. O. & W. McVean have had large quantities of spokes and green timber swept away, about thirty houses are flooded, and also Wick's, Waddell's, Charles Greece's and Miss A. Whitehead's stores near the bridge.

Trouble at Galt.

Galt, March 28.—The Main street bridge has been rendered impassable by floating ice piling up and jamming the planking. Pedestrians are not allowed to cross the bridge. Several houses have been flooded by the rising Grand. The high water and ice on Saturday carried away the foot bridge on the East River road. At Blair the G.T.R. track for a mile is a mountain of ice. One of the small railway bridges has been torn up. There are numerous washouts on the line, but gangs of workmen have been busy all day repairing the roadbed. The water is rapidly subsiding.

Ready For Danger.

Montreal, March 28.—The river is rising rapidly, the water having reached the 30-foot mark. All the river roads have been closed and a force of men are at the pumping station in case of danger."

LAST DUEL IN ONTARIO.

Death of the Widow of Late Hon. Justice Wilson Revives the Story.

The death in Toronto on February 12 of Mrs. Elizabeth Wilson, widow of the late Hon. Mr. Justice John Wilson, of the Court of Common Pleas, who died June 3, 1869, revives an interesting story in a recent issue of The Perth Courier. Mrs. Wilson was a sister of His Honor Judge Hughes, of St. Thomas, who has just retired from the Bench in his 81th year.

"What is known as the Wilson-Lyon duel was fought on the 13th of June, 1833, known in Canadian history as 'The last duel fought in Ontario.' The quarrel between the two young men, principals in the tragic affair, was the outcome of rivalry for the affections of Miss Hughes, a young lady assistant in Miss Ackland's private school in Perth, and the result was the death of young Lyon by Wilson, both law students in the town at the time. The duel was fought one bright June afternoon in a field on the banks of the Tay, beyond the Scotch line, on the farm now owned by Mr. Archibald McLaren, and the exact spot can yet be pointed out. Miss Hughes was a young English lady, daughter of a Unitarian minister, brought from England by the late Mr. Benjamin Workman, of Montreal. Her brother, Judge Hughes, recently retired, found his way to Perth, also, and in 1834 worked for a year or so in The Courier Office, then managed by the present ex-Sheriff Thompson. The young lady was a most attractive person, and some time after the duel was married to the survivor of the two combatants, Mr. John Wilson, who afterwards became quite an eminent lawyer in Toronto, then a Superior Court judge. He was a native of Scotland, and came with his parents when a child to Dalhousie, where there are still near relatives of the family. The Scotch line was the border line between the old districts of Bathurst and Johnstown, and when Young Wilson was arrested for the death of Lyon he had to be taken to Brockville for trial, and underwent imprisonment of three months in jail there for his offence. It is said by some that at the first shots of the two duelists the pistols were loaded with powder alone, and there is no doubt that when the shots proved harmless both men wished that to end the affair. But one of the seconds, Le Lievre, insisted on a second trial, and this time the weapons were loaded with ball, and when the pistols were discharged young Lyon fell dying, shot through the heart. The headstone, with the inscription to the memory of Robe Lyon, who "fell in mortal combat," was erected at his grave, at the foot of the Radenhurst plot, by his friends, by the efforts of one of them, the late Mr. William Fraser, afterwards County Treasurer. This headstone is one of the historical features of the old Anglican burying-ground in Perth, and there are few people in town and vicinity but have seen and traced out the now dim outlines of the sad epitaph."

Tobacco Growing in Ireland.

Mr. Wm. Redmond, the Irish M. P., in a recent interview said: "Sir Horace Plunkett, who owns a ranch out in the States, and goes there every year, will shortly return, and bring with him, I believe, an expert to advise about tobacco-growing in Ireland. The small experiments which have already been made prove that a certain class grows splendidly in Ireland. It does not yet, of course, compete with the finer products of Virginia, but it has been demonstrated that with care and experience it may be made a very salable article. The small experiments which have been made having proved so successful, planting on a much larger scale over some hundreds of acres will now be tried. Sir H. Wills, the chairman of the Imperial Tobacco Co., regards the matter with benevolent interest, and the Chancellor of the Exchequer has agreed to give an abatement of one shilling per pound off the excise duty on Irish-grown tobacco. This year's extensive experiments will take place in Meath and Wexford, and I may remind you that it was down there, at Youghal, where he lived, that Sir Walter Raleigh grew the first tobacco planted in these islands. All these plantings are illegal under the act of 1831, and I am introducing a bill to render legal that which the authorities now have to wink at."

FIFTY JAPANESE REPORTED KILLED.

Alleged Losses in a Skirmish March 23 in North Core .

A CHALLENGE TO THE POWERS.

Viceroy Alexieff Places Newchwang and Port Under Martial Law—Is China to be Dragged into the War by Russia? —Russian Battleship Czarevitch Damaged by the Shells of the Enemy.

London, March 29.—The Seoul correspondent of The Daily Mail says that in the engagement of March 23, which Japanese infantry hd with Cossacks, between Anju and Chongju, the Japanese were victorious, but lost 50 killed.

Newchwang Under Martial Law.

Newchwang, March 29.—The civil administration late Sunday evening notified all the foreign consuls and residents of Viceroy Alexieff's order placing the city and port of Newchwang under martial law, explaining that it had been ordered to safeguard the commercial interest. The regulations will stop Newchwang's trade.

In some quarters the order is regarded as an apparent challenge to neutral powers, especially to China, on account of the appropriation of her territory, and that it renders the United States gunboat Helena and the British cruiser Espiegle liable to an order to leave port.

London, March 29.—Up to late last night no official communication had reached the foreign office concerning the declaration of martial law at Newchwang, and officials are inclined to the opinion that this indicated the Russian Government had not yet sanctioned Viceroy Alexieff's action. The declaration of martial law is somewhat anxiously discussed by the London morning newspapers, among which the question has arisen as to whether Russia is desirous of dragging China into the conflict.

The Czarevitch Damaged.

London, March 29.—The Daily Telegraph's Yinkow correspondent says the Japanese bombardment badly damaged the forward barbette of the Russian battleship Czarevitch. The correspondent adds: "According to a rumor the Japanese transports, escorted by four cruisers, approached Newchwang Saturday and then departed southward. It is stated Viceroy Alexieff will return to Europe in a few days."

The Morning Post's Newchwang correspondent learns that the Japanese will not land an expedition in the Liao River Valley before April 20, as their transports are still engaged in conveying troops to Corea.

The correspondent at Shanhaikwan of The Daily Mail asserts that the Chinese have received official authorization to turn over to the Japanese the plant of the Shanhaikwan Railway.

The Standard's Tientsin correspondent says that in compliance with Viceroy Alexieff's demand the Tartar General of Fengtien has withdrawn within a distance of 60 miles from Mukden. He adds that the Russians are now left in complete control of the revenue and other departments.

The Wei-Hai-Wei correspondent of The Times says:

"A Chinese junk, which has arrived here, reports having seen on the morning of March 28, eleven seaworthy Russian vessels manoeuvring in the vicinity of a Japanese fleet, which was also manoeuvring. No sound of firing was heard here."

Japs Did Succeed.

London, March 29.—A telegram received from Newchwang yesterday afternoon says that at 3 o'clock Sunday morning the Japanese succeeded in sinking four steamers at the mouth of Port Arthur harbor. A flotilla of destroyers convoyed the merchantmen, which were subsequently sunk, and rescued the volunteer crews. Later the Japanese battleships bombarded the town and its defences.

DEATH IN THE WATERS.

Emil Laney Drowned Near Belleville—Grand Trunk Traffic Stopped—Chatham Desolated By Floods.

Belleville, March 29.—Emil Laney, who was working on the dam at Glen Miller on Saturday, fell and was carried over the dam and drowned. He was 35 years of age and leaves a wife and family.

Grand Trunk Traffic Stopped

Windsor, March 29.—All traffic on the Grand Trunk Railway between here and points east of Chatham has been stopped owing to the floods in the eastern part of Essex and the western part of Kent, particularly the valley of the River Thames. The trouble is at Prairie Siding, which is a little east of Janette's Creek, where it is estimated that about a mile of track has been washed out. All Grand Trunk trains, which, under ordinary circumstances, should use the damaged tracks are running by way of the Sarnia tunnel, while the Wabash trains are using the Michigan Central tracks between this city and Buffalo.

As far as the eye can reach there is scarcely anything to see but an occasional tree rising above the water immediately east of Janette's Creek.

The water is rushing towards the Thames in huge volumes, and is carrying everything moveable before it.

The floods reported a few days ago in the northern part of Essex have for the most part subsided. So far there has been no loss of life, the loss being confined to stock and property.

Chatham Desolated.

Chatham, March 29.—This town and district have been suffering from flood for some days, but the further rising of the Thames about two feet since Sunday night has completed the desolation in the city. Industry is practically at a standstill, the water having taken possession of cellars and boilerhouses. Several churches were vacant Sunday because the furnaces could not be reached, and all schools are closed for the same reason.

Among the industries closed down are Piggot's, Drader's and Scott's lumber and planing mills; Canada flour mills and elevator; T. H. Taylor's flour and woollen mills and elevator; Stringer's elevator; McKeough & Trotter's foundry, and Crow's elevator.

At 2 p.m. yesterday the water was still rising, and much alarm was felt in the city and vicinity. At Wallaceburg and Dresden the condition is much the same, if not worse. Business is being done in boats between business men and their customers. Railway communication is cut off above Wallaceburg since Saturday due to washouts. People on the farms are being rescued from their homes. Considerable loss has been sustained in live and other stock.

Damage at Galt.

Galt, March 29.—Never was the tumult of the Grand feared as it has been feared this spring. Yet it has come and gone, and no one is much the worse. The water mains were broken and one footbridge swept away.

Woodstock Is Easier.

Woodstock, March 29.—All danger of losses through floods is now passed as far as Woodstock is concerned. The high water on the River Thames and Cedar Creek, which forced the Canada Furniture Company, Hay & Co., and the Woodstock Wagon Company to cease operations in their factories last Friday has receded, and conditions are nearly normal. The factories resumed operations yesterday.

Lamorna Is Lost.

Marshfield, Ore., March 29.—The steamer Alliance, which arrived yesterday, reports picking up a boat belonging to Lamorna, a British ship from Greenock, which is supposed to have foundered during a recent storm. The boat was upside down and damaged. Hopes for the safety of Lamorna is steadily waning. The belief is that the Lamorna foundered on March 11 in Berkeley Sound.

Displayed Real Zeal.

London, March 29.—(C. A. P.)—Lord Cecil tells your correspondent that the Imperial Government displayed real zeal in the case of the Chinese ordinance not to transgress the fundamental principles of justice and humanity and attempt to impose the English view without straining it beyond its proper province.

To Be Tried For Murder.

Port Arthur, March 29.—The preliminary examination of Chas. Donati, who is charged with killing John Mein on March 18, was held here yesterday morning before Police Magistrate Dobie, and the prisoner sent up for trial at the next assizes on the charge of murder. The prisoner waived examination.

A Cabinet Secret.

London, March 29.—(C. A. P.)—Is there any ground for believing that Mr. Chamberlain's visit to South Africa will be paid out of national funds? Mr Black, M. P., yesterday asked Premier Balfour if Mr Chamberlain had reported regarding mines and labor, but the Premier refused to divulge Cabinet secrets.

Not Mixing With It.

London, March 29.—(C. A. P.)—Right Hon. Alfred Lyttelton, Colonial Secretary, replying to E. Wason, M.P., (Liberal), said that no Government instructions were given to Lord Northcote (Governor-General of Australia), to advocate preferential tariffs nor would any action be taken in the matter.

SUNLIGHT SOAP REDUCES EXPENSE

Mrs. Haskell, Worthy Vice-Templar, Independent Order Good Templars, of Silver Lake, Mass., tells of her cure by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Four years ago I was nearly dead with inflammation and ulceration. I endured daily untold agony, and life was a burden to me. I had used medicines and washes internally and externally until I made up my mind that there was no relief for me. Calling at the home of a friend, I noticed a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My friend endorsed it highly, and I decided to give it a trial to see if it would help me. It took patience and perseverence for I was in bad condition, and I used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for nearly five months before I was cured, but what a change, from despair to happiness, from misery to the delightful exhilarating feeling health always brings. I would not change back for a thousand dollars, and your Vegetable Compound is a grand medicine.

SLEEPING CRITICS.

The Montreal Gazette, a high tariff journal with moss and mould trimmings, talks thus in its sleep:—

"The judgment of history upon the Fielding tariff will be that it marked a period of standing still at a time when Canadian industrial life should have made marvellous progress."

To this the Hamilton Times thus replies:—"Wake up, Rip Van Winkle! Look around you. Read the papers. Get the cotton out of your ears "Standing still!" Why, man, in 18 years of Tory rule Canada's trade with the world increased only 66 millions, or about 3 2-3 millions a year. In seven years of Liberal rule it increased 228 millions, or about 32 1-7 millions a year. And our internal development is still greater. From all parts of the country comes the news of millions being invested. Foreign capital is coming in, and settlers by the thousand are seeking homes here. Quit your blue-ruin dope and get the office boy to wake you up before you write your editorials.'

What we are most directly concerned in is not the verdict of history, but the verdict of the people affected by the conditions which obtained under Conservative rule—conditions of hard times, dullness in trade, lagging wheels of industry, lack of employment, a deficient revenue, even under the goad of a high tariff, nothing growing but the national debt, and a general condition of stagnation. Coincident, at least, with the incoming of a Liberal Government, with a rational revision of the tariff came good times, revival of trade, abundance of employment, the busy whirr of the many wheels of industry, a buoyant revenue, an overflowing treasury, brisk revival of trade, decrease of the national debt, and marvellous expansion in every depatment of national activity. That's what history will record when it comes to weigh the two regimes in its impartial balance. Don't preach the doctrine of despair, open sleeping eyes and see how they will blink in the brilliant sunshine of prosperity that floods this happy Canada from ocean to ocean. Jeremiah is dead.

A GAINT'S FEET OF CLAY.

Some people in weighing the chances of the Russo-Japanese war are so struck by the disparity in size of the contending nations that they hastily conclude that the certain triumph of the greater over the smaller is but a matter of a short time, says the Hamilton Times. It would be unwise to accept such a conclusion without considering other factors. Japan enjoys the advantage of being near the scene of strife, of being able to concentrate her energies, and move rapidly She is strong in national spirit and her people are intrepid and loyal, to a man breathing enthusiastic patriotism. She has not the fat at powers or resources of Russia, but she has much that compensates for them. Russia is great—and unwieldy. She must depend largely on one railway over a great stretch of exposed country. She has much ready money; but her expenses are correspondingly great. She lacks the oneness of purpose that marks Japan. Her people have been governed by force and the educated classes are not trusted. The name of the Little Father has long been used to line up the knout-broken masses in times of national peril, but who shall say how long it will be potent to conjure with?

Nor is seething discontent the only internal danger Russia has to face. Even if the revolutionary societies should not take advantage of Russia's extremity, the financial question may well cause her statesmen alarm. Japan asked for a loan a few days ago, and it was subscribed for four times over by her own people, thus testifying to the spirit by which the nation is animated. In Russia there is indifference; the masses are cold and only yield obedience. The result is not singular when the effect of the crushing burden of taxation on the Russian people is taken into account. Here is an example:—

A statistical committee in one of the "black-soil" provinces recently made a careful and detailed examination of the annual household budgets of 67 peasant families, selected so as to be fairly representative of the whole agricultural population. They found that the average annual gross revenue of a peasant farmer's family, consisting of eight persons, amounted to $212.20. Of this sum $105.08 was in money and $107.12 in farm produce at its cash value. Of the cash receipts, $18.80, or nearly one-half, went to pay taxes and rent for additional land, leaving $86.28 in cash to pay for farm supplies, food, clothing, etc., for eight persons.

That spells poverty and oppression, which makes convict life in Siberia seem less terrible than it is. Seventeen years ago an eminent Russian lawyer declared that while a clever Finance Minister might, for a long time, make ends meet by devising new methods of taxation, raising excise and customs duties, or even by juggling with figures, there could be no hope for Russian finances while the taxpaying power of the people as a whole was steadily decreasing. Fifteen months ago, M. de Witte, then Minister of Finance, admitted that the population of Russia is weighed down by direct and indirect taxation to the uttermost limit that could be borne. And the Council of State agreed with him. Nor are the State investments profitable. She has sunk vast sums in her railways, and although up to 1899 there was an apparent margin of profit on the working of the national railway system, since that date the loss has gone on increasing, till in 1903 it reached 60,000,000 roubles—a sum which will be this year increased to 69,000,000 and next year to 81,000,000 roubles.

The Japanese people are thrifty, frugal, hopeful and loyal. They are well-fed, high spirited and patriotic, and ready to sacrifice for their country. Vast numbers of the Russian peasantry, are starved, sodden, hopeless. The peasant is often not allowed to eat the produce of his own land, because Government tax agents take the newly harvested grain for taxes, and it is no uncommon thing for peasants to be left to starve, so nearly have taxes risen to the level of the power of production. A recent writer says that between 1871 and 1875 the arrears of taxes in the "black soil" provinces never exceeded 10 per cent of the annual assessment; in 1896 they amounted to 42 per cent.; and in 1900 to 177 per cent. In many provinces the peasants have practically ceased to pay the land redemption taxes, and it is admitted by the Comptroller of State that the burden is entirely beyond the strength of a very large portion of those who have to bear it.

Great in size and population and possibilities as Russia is, she is severely handicapped, and it is the knowledge of that fact that makes the world's statesmen look on the present struggle as less unequal than the rule of square miles and numbers would make it appear to be.

SURGEONS RESORT TO THE KNIFE

When a Simple Home Remedy Cures.

Why do physicians always advise an operation for the cure of hemorrhoids, or piles? Are they unconsciously influenced by the dicta of operating surgeons, who stoutly assert and maintain that all other treatments are merely palliative, and that the knife affords the only means of cure?

There could be no greater fallacy, as the worst possible cases of piles are permanently cured by the use of Pyramid Pile Cure, which is in suppository form, is applied directly to the source of the complaint, and removes the cause, which an operation does not.

"I have been a sufferer from piles for over forty years, and after trying everything I could hear or read of, without benefit or relief, I came to the conclusion to give Pyramid Pile Cure a trial, and I can truly say it has given me entire satisfaction; it is a wonderful remedy. The bleeding has entirely ceased, the protruding has stopped, there is no longer any itching, and I feel no swelling of the parts; in fact I feel like a new man.

"I had to wear a truss for several years, to keep the bowel up, but I have now discarded it, after using six boxes of Pyramid Pile Cure. I think after forty years of suffering, the six boxes was a small amount to make such an agreeable change, as I was unable to do any work that required stooping in the last eight years. I recommend Pyramid Pile Cure to everyone with whom I come in contact, as I consider it beyond Price." Geo. W. Ivey, Confederate Soldiers' Home, Richmond, Va.

We vouch for the truth and accuracy of the above testimonial, and urge all sufferers to purchase a fifty cent package of this famous remedy at the nearest drug store, and give it a trial to-night. Accept no substitute and remember there is no remedy "just as good."

The Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., publish a little book on the causes and cure of piles, and will send it free to any address.

CONSISTENT LIFE OF MR. O. W. POWELL.

Father of One of Peterborough's Prominent Citizen Deceased.

Was a Life Long Member of the Methodist Church His Memory is Fragrant with Good Deed.

(Cobourg Sentinel-Star.)

On Thursday afternoon of last week, March 17th, one of the oldest citizens of this town crossed the bar and entered into rest. The late Orin Wentworth Powell was so well known that his long and active business life in our midst has caused his name to be wound into the history of Cobourg. Longer ago than the life of most of our citizens he was in active business in our town, taking an interest in all that he believed would be a benefit and add to its prosperity, and active in, and generous to the church of his choice. He was a connecting link between the present and the past, and during his long lifetime in our midst noticed many changes as from a hamlet of only a few houses, and nick-named Hardscrabble, he saw Cobourg rise into a beautiful and prosperous town.

The deceased was born in Johnstown, N.Y., March 1820, and when one year old came to this town and has lived here ever since. For some time he attended Victoria College, then Upper Canada College (Methodist). He was married in 1842 to Elvira Massey, daughter of the late Daniel Massey, who survives him. To them 13 children were born, three of whom died young, and (Mary) Mrs. Odium, who died in Japan, and Hart, who died in his 26th year in the North West. There survive him his widow, five daughters, Mrs. Beatty, of Toronto, Mrs. W. L. Payne, of Colborne, Mrs. J. V. Gallinger of Niagara Falls, and Misses Lucy and Clara at home, and three sons, Dr. N. A. Powell and Wm. A. Powell, of Toronto, and Geo. W. Powell, of Peterborough.

Two years ago he and his wife celebrated their diamond wedding, and for over 62 years this happy couple journeyed along life's pathway together in prosperity and adversity, in health and sickness, in sunshine and shade.

We find in the records of the Police Board, which governed the town from 1837 to 1849, that the deceased on the 28th October 1843 rented a stall in the old wooden meat market house that stood on the site of the present town hall, with five others, for the sum of £5. 5s. 6d. each, and until about ten years ago he was continuously in business in this town, the long period of over 52 years. His name appears upon the record as a member of Engine Fire Company on 5th December, 1842 and he was captain of the company for 14 years.

He was a member of the first Board of School Trustees of the town, being appointed November 15th, 1847, by the Board of Police, and was also, we believe a member of that board for a number of years afterwards.

In politics he was a staunch Liberal, never swerving from his principles, and a reader of the Globe and Witness for 60 years. He was a strong advocate of temperance, even from a boy, and was a member and head of the Sons of Temperance for many years.

He was a member of the Town Council for the years 1853-4, 1877-8-9 and 1881-2—seven years was he honoured by his fellow citizens by a seat at their Board.

He was a faithful and consistent member of the Methodist church, for 62 years a class leader, for 20 years superintendent of the Division street Sunday school, and was the oldest member of the official board of the Methodist church. He was, during his life-time, a generous giver to the funds of the church he loved, and a most faithful attendant at the church services, even in the most inclement weather. He was of a cheerful and happy disposition, amiable in his manner and so true and consistent, so obliging and unassuming that he had not an enemy. He was ailing from diabetes for several years, but was active and down town every day until about two weeks before his death, when he had to remain in his room. His death was a triumphant one, a happy and Christian life caused him not to fear the approach of death. He died as he lived—a true man, at peace with God and his fellows.

"The chamber where the good man meets his fate
Is privileged beyond the common walk
Of virtuous life, quite in the verge of heaven."

THE FUNERAL.

On Saturday afternoon the remains were taken from his late home on D'Arcy Street, to the Methodist Church, where a service was conducted by Rev. H. T. Lewis and Rev. Dr. Reynar. The pulpit rail was draped in mourning, and a large number of our citizens gathered to pay their last respects to the remains of the deceased.

The Rev. H. T. Lewis conducted the service; three hymns were sung, and prayer was offered by the pastor, when an address was delivered fitting to the occasion by Rev. Dr. Reynar who said he had a few words to say about the deceased. This is an occasion of great solemnity, but it is not an occasion of great sorrow, as we do not sorrow as those without hope. A life has gone out from us; as with a mother when her son has gone from home, or as a bride goes goes from her home, there are tears, but they are tears of affection and hope. The clouds that hang over us are here gloried by the light of God. The life

Col. Otter Seriously Hurt.

Toronto, March 29.—Col. William Dillon Otter, C.B., A.D.C., D.O.C., commanding officer of Military District No. 2, was very severely injured last night about 6.30 by falling or being thrown from his horse on Beverley street, near his residence. Col. Otter had left his home but a short time with the intention of taking some horseback exercise, and it was impossible to ascertain exactly how the accident happened. The animal he was riding was the well-known Paddy of Paardeberg. The officer was picked up in an unconscious condition by McMaster students. The doctor pronounce the injury to be a very serious concussion of the brain. The patient was still unconscious at 10.30 last night.

If you have any trouble with your stomach why not take these Tablets and get well. For sale by all druggists.

MANY CATTLE PERISH.

Thousands of Head Left to Freeze in N.W.T. Ranges.

Winnipeg, March 29.—West of Winnipeg, on the main line of the C.P.R., on the branch lines, heavy engines are puffing in the snow drifts. Reports received from the Northwest Territories say. "Train service is almost impossible. The Moose Jaw local took twelve hours to come from Regina to Broadview, a distance of ninety miles. Several ranchers say that the loss of cattle will be appalling, as thousands were left running on the ranges when the storm began. No living thing could survive. No person could stand up against it. Several car loads of stock left on the sidings are a total loss. The train, after pulling up to the station, was imbedded in a snow drift as high as the cab."

Snow in the West.

Winnipeg, March 29.—Freight and passenger traffic is congested as a result of the recent storm, and trains and passengers are held up between here and Brandon. Carberry has been feeding 1,500 railway passengers, who are unable to proceed on account of the snow blockade.

90 PERISH MARCH 21 AND 22.

Awful Result of Cyclonic Disaster at Reunion Island.

Hamburg, March 29.—An export house here has received a cablegram from Reunion Island, confirming the announcement of the disaster caused by a cyclone, March 21 and 22. The island was completely devastated. The capital, St. Denis, was destroyed, and many public buildings were damaged or destroyed. Famine exists among the islanders, and provisions and clothing are needed. The crops are destroyed. The damage is estimated at $5,000,000. Ninety persons, including nineteen whites, were killed.

A Workman Burned.

Bowmanville, March 29.—The fire brigade was called out yesterday forenoon by an alarm from the Durham Rubber Company's factory. Philip Alcumbrack, an employe, was working in the cement house, where the rubber in crude form is mixed, when an explosion took place. Gasolene is used in the process, and it is supposed that a spark from friction caused the explosion. The fire was promptly extinguished and no damage was done to the other part of the factory, which is some distance from the cement house. The loss will be considerable, as large quantities of raw material were stored in this building and were destroyed. Loss is covered by insurance. Alcumbrack was badly burned on the face and head.

Britain and the U.S.

London, March 29.—At a meeting of the Anglo-American League at Stafford House yesterday, James Bryce (Liberal), M.P., presiding, a resolution was passed "that it was desirable that the British Government endeavored to enter into a treaty with the United States, with a view of systematic reference to arbitration of differences arising between the two powers, which diplomacy might fail to settle."

The meeting also resolved that the Governments before resorting to reprisals or hostilities should agree to endeavor to settle their differences by reference to The Hague court, or by peaceful means recommended by The Hague peace convention.

Port Arthur Aroused.

Port Arthur, March 29.—There is intense feeling here over the report that there is a possibility that the Legislature will grant the privilege to a private company to develop power on Current River, the stream from which the municipality derives its power for the operation of its railway, light and water systems. So high does feeling run that a petition of over one thousand names has been sent to the Legislature protesting against the granting of the concession and pointing out that it will require the full capacity of river for municipal purposes.

Ask your friends about this great preparation; they can tell you of its great soothing, healing and antiseptic powers. On Trial For Murder.

Ottawa, March 29.—The trial of William Halton, proprietor of the Oxford Cafe, for the murder of John Fitzgerald, late of the Dublin Fusiliers, is in progress at the Assizes before Judge Teetzel. The evidence given is somewhat similar to that presented at the preliminary hearing before the magistrate. Very conflicting medical evidence is being given. The court sat until after 10 o'clock last night, when the jury was accommodated in a neighboring hotel in charge of the sheriff's officers.

W. F. Hepburn Named.

Alymer, March 29.—W. F. Hepburn received the Liberal nomination at the convention here yesterday and will oppose A. B. Ingram, M.P., at the next Dominion elections. J. C. Boyce was a warm second choice, losing the nomination by eight votes. There were twelve in the field.

ALL-NIGHT SESSION

Government Postpones Division on Opposition Motion.

TWO LIBERALS WERE ABSENT

Majority of One Is Not Regarded As Sufficient—Debate on Motion of Dr. Nesbitt Providing For Two Cent Rate on All Roads Subsidized. In Future—Premier Ross' Speech.

Toronto, March 29.—The Friday to Monday recess was again responsible for placing the Ontario Government in an awkward position yesterday. When Dr. Beattie Nesbitt moved in the afternoon his resolution providing for a two-cent passenger rate on all railways that may be in the future subsized, more seats were vacant on the Government side than on the Opposition side of the House. Before the evening session, however, all the Liberal members absent without being paired put in an appearance with the exception of Mr. S. Clarke of West Northumberland, who telegraphed that he had missed his train by three minutes, and Mr. O. Guibord of Russell. The forces of the Opposition had also been increased. At 10 o'clock Mr. John Dickenson proposed an adjournment.

Whitney Insists on Division.

The Premier, in view of the fact that it was usual to adjourn at that hour, said he saw no objection, and suggested that although Wednesday had been set apart as a Government day, the debate might be continued then. They might on the same day, he said, take up Mr. Pettypiece's bill for the further taxation of railways and any motion of pressing importance that members of the House were desirous of discussing. Mr. Whitney insisted on a division. Although the Government had at this time a majority it was two below normal, and rather than carry with a majority of one the amendment which had been moved by Mr. T. H. Preston of Brant, it was decided to continue the debate. At 2.45 a.m. Liberal members were still holding the floor, their speeches revealing considerable research, and it was the expressed intention of the Government to continue the debate all night. It is expected that the absent members will arrive in Toronto on the early morning trains. Premier Ross delivered an effective speech in reply to Dr Nesbitt in the afternoon.

Dr. Nesbitt's Motion.

That in the opinion of this House no subsidy in land or cash, shall be hereafter granted to any railway, steam or electric, except upon the express condition that the passenger rate upon such road shall not exceed, at any time, two cents per mile.

Mr. Preston's Amendment.

That all the words in the motion after the word "house" in the first line thereof be omitted and the following substituted therefor: In settling the terms and conditions of grants to railways in land and cash, while pursuing the policy hitherto adopted of insisting upon specially favorable terms as applicable to settlers and colonists and their effects every effort shall be made to secure a two cents per mile rate while the imposition of such condition would be reasonable and practicable having regard to the earning powers of the railway concerned, the cost of construction and all other circumstances connected with the case.

Refused to Adjourn.

At 10 o'clock Mr. J. Dickenson asked whether there was not some arrangement to adjourn at that hour. Mr. Speaker said he did not know whether there had been such an arrangement. The Premier remarked that it was usual to adjourn at 10 o'clock. Mr. Whitney wanted to know why the Government, on the only day remaining for private members, had allowed this question to occupy so much time. The Premier replied that the debate had been one of the best of the session, but if an adjournment was desired it might be continued on Wednesday, and, although that day had been set aside for Government measures, he would be prepared to allow Mr. Pettypiece's bill and any motions the Opposition might have to be taken up then, too. However, he did not intend to plead for an adjournment.

"We had better vote on this question and settle it, and then go home," replied Mr. Whitney.

The debate then went on.

Mr. Graham spoke for two hours without a note. In style and delivery his speech was one of the best this session.

Mr. Gross spoke till 12.45 a.m., Messrs. Conmee and MacKay following.

Some Questions Answered.

Mr. Whitney called attention to a despatch from Montreal, which stated that it was reported the Premier had promised to subsidize a branch of the Grand Trunk Pacific to Lake Superior if the company would withdraw opposition to the proposition to tax railways.

The Premier—There is not a word of truth in the statement.

The following bills were read a third time: Respecting the Tp. of Mountain, to empower O. B. Van Epp to practice medicine in Pelee. A number of other bills were advanced a stage.

The Premier, in reply to Mr. Whitney, said that the names of the capitalists furnishing the capital for the re-organization of the "Soo" industries were not yet in possession of the Government, but will be given later on.

Mr. Hanna remarked that as the members for North Bruce and Port Arthur were not in their seats he would defer his question regarding their suit against the Algoma Central Railway until they were in their seats.

Hon. Mr. Stratton, in reply to Mr. Gamey, said that the public institutions written up in Toronto Saturday Night, for which $450 were paid, were the Mercer Reformatory, the Asylum for the Insane and the Central Prison. It was not yet the intention of the Government to have further articles descriptive of public institutions.

CHASED BY HUNGRY WOLVES.

Drummers Who Had an Exciting Time Quite Near Winnipeg.

Only fourteen miles from Winnipeg two commercial travelers had an exciting chase by a hungry pack of wolves a week or two ago. The Winnipeg Tribune tells the story:

"A pack of timber wolves was noticed on the road a short distance ahead of them. These animals invariably show their heels when approached, but on this occasion they gave promise of making a determined stand. The travelers, however, drove along apparently unmindful of them, and when within a few feet of them the pack slunk sullenly away amongst the drifts of snow and poplar scrub.

"The occupants of the rig became a little more easy at this juncture, believing that, as is customary, the animals would look for other prey. But in this they were disappointed. One of the occupants of the rig in glancing around happened to notice the outline of one of the gaunt animals as it leaped from one knoll to another. This was followed by the outlines of the others, until the whole pack was discovered to be doggedly ollowing the rig.

"The travelers were without firearms of any kind, and then only did the real danger of their position dawn upon them. Wolves become much more dangerous and daring when they see a prospective prey retreating than when a stand is made. The men, too, did not lose any time in increasing the speed of their horse and it rapidly resolved itself into a race between the travelers and the wolves. The hungry animals sped over the ground at lightning rate, and, becoming more daring, took to the road behind the fleeing rig. Fortunately the men were driving a good piece of horseflesh, and just managed to reach Stony Mountain ahead of the animals. Here they entered at breakneck pace, to the utter astonishment of one or two of the villagers, who happened to be about at that early hour of the morning.

"Of course the wolves gave up the hunt at this point, not daring to follow up the rig into the village. The winter has been particularly hard on there animals, and has been making them look for food other than by the usual channels. They were making their appearance very much closer to settled sections of the country than heretofore."

Agriculture in British Columbia.

One of the most beautiful locations in the interior of British Columbia is Princeton. Advantageously situated at the confluence of the Tulameen and Similkameen Rivers, it is the centre of a large district rich in a variety of minerals. The country around is generally open with rolling hills, covered with luxuriant and most nutritious bunch grasses, well supplied with lakes and streams and containing considerable agricultural land. The hillsides are capable of cultivation to an extent that will ultimately greatly increase the area of arable lands. Spring wheat grows remarkably well on much of the bench lands without irrigation. Properly cultivated and irrigated, wheat, oats, barley and rye do well. Potatoes grow to a prodigious size, average yield from eight to ten tons per acre. In the immediate vicinity of Princeton three pounds of potatoes produced one hundred and ninety pounds. Cabbages weigh from twenty to twenty-five pounds, cauliflowers four to eight pounds. All kinds of vegetables do well, also small fruits. Apples trees planted in 1901 bore fruit in 1903.

Notwithstanding that this district is particularly adapted to dairying outside points make regular shipments of butter to supply our demands. For good dairy butter a local market is afforded, and in view of the constantly increasing demand the price is likely to remain as high as at present. Forty cents a pound for "ranch" butter was the lowest price paid in Princeton during the last four years. Evidently there is an opening for several dairies.

A Montreal Lover.

Ella Wheeler Wilcox, the poetess, has recently been having an adventure with a too-amorous swain. First, she received a telegram with an expression of love, dated at Montreal. Then came another from a nearer point. Then she found a note from "Amedee Cypriot," left at her apartments at the Hotel Everett, New York, during her absence. Finally, there appeared the amorous Amedee in person. It was soon determined, however, that he was not quite sane, and an officer was sent for. To the police judge next morning Amedee said that he didn't know why he had sent the message of love to Mrs. Wilcox. At the request of the poetess, and upon his promise to send no more love-letters and to hie him back to Montreal, he was released.

Canada Doing Well

The Oswego Times has been glancing over Canada's progress, and has come to the conclusion that Canada is not slow, as some uniformed Yankees have been wont to believe. It presents the following table of percentages of increase in the two countries in the period since 1891:

	Canada.	U.S.
Bank deposits	138.3	129.2
Public debt	11.3	73.8

Herrings in the Scotch Style.

The Minister of Marine and Fisheries has definitely decided to try the experiment of curing Canadian herrings according to the Scottish plan, the object being to ascertain whether Canadian herrings packed in the Scotch style will be able to compete with the Norwegian, Dutch and Scotch herrings, which at the present time are in chief demand in the markets of the world, and command prices more than double those which Canadian herrings will bring at present.

Prof. Prince, Commissioner of Fisheries, who recommended the test to the Minister, is sanguine that great benefit will result. The experiments will be placed in the hands of John Cowie, of Lossiemouth, Scotland. He will bring out six skilled herring curers from Scotland—men who are also skilled in coopering. They will be assisted by six Highland women of great experience in cleaning fish. Canso, N. S., has been selected for the test, which will last about three months, commencing the 1st of May. Eight or ten fishermen resident on the Nova Scotia coast have been chosen to assist in the experiments with the idea of learning Scottish methods.

Probably one of the most interesting features of the trial will be the use of the Scottish drift net, which is very little known in Canadian waters. A tug will be employed fitted with the necessary gear, and under Mr. Cowie's direction the various herring grounds within 50 or 100 miles of Canso will be fished and sample catches taken. The method to be adopted will enable the fish to be cured and packed when they are fresh, this being one of the great secrets of the excellence of the Scottish product.

Not a Post to Be Coveted.

Mr. A. G. Doughty of Quebec, having refused the post of Dominion Archivist, on account of the insufficiency of the salary—$1,900—it will be necessary for the Government to find some other literary man, and one who is willing to overlook inadequate remuneration and do the work partly for the love of it. This was the case with Dr Douglas Brymner, the first archivist, who during many years labored conscientiously and well, with many obstacles to encounter in the shape of Parliamentary and public indifference, and a meagre grant of money for expenses. As the ordinary political office-seeker cannot fill the office of archivist, which must go to some one possessing qualifications, there seems to be some hesitation about making it a post to be coveted.

What Tea Does to Rheumatics.

When you next take tea think of this.

Tea contains 175 grains of Uric Acid in every pound.

Meat contains only five to seven grains.

Rheumatism is Uric Acid in the blood.

Uric Acid accumulates from food when the digestive apparatus cannot create enough Alkaline elements (like soda) to neutralize it.

This Acid collects urea, or worn-out waste matter from the system.

That Urea enters the blood when Alkaline action has not previously dissolved it.

By and by the waste matter reaches the joints and muscles, through circulation of the blood.

There it gradually deposits in solid particles, like granulatted sugar.

These solid particles grind between the joints and muscles at every movement.

This grinding causes irritation and pain.

These in turn may develop inflammation and swelling. That inflammation bestirs Nature to help herself.

She proceeds to coat the hard Uric particles over with cushions of pulpy mucous, like the first healing strata of an outer sore.

This pulpy covering grows to the bones, as well as to the particles deposited. There it hardens like plaster or sealing wax. Then we have "bony joints," almost inflexible, and usually fixed in a bended position, from the pain and inflammation.

That is rheumatism at its worst.

It is bad enough before it gets that far.

There is but one sure way of curing Rheumatism. The first step is to neutralize the Uric Acid already in the system. Next, to dissolve, and carry away, the hard deposits that grind between the joints. Then get the digestive apparatus into such healthy condition that it will, unaided, produce less Uric Acid and more Alkalines.

This is what doctors generally have failed to do.

It is what I studied a lifetime to accomplish and achieved only after many failures and thousands of experiments.

At last I found in Germany, a Solvent which was not only effective, but absolutely safe to use.

Few agents powerful enough to be effective in Rheumatism are safe.

My discovery, now called "Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure," acts directly, but internally, upon Uric Acid in the joints and muscles.

It dissolves and carries off, the painful deposits, producing an immediate Alkaline condition of the blood, and neutralizing the Acid in it which would have fed the Rheumatism and extended the disease.

It won't restore bony joints to flexibility and it can't undo, in a week, the damage caused by years of rheumatic condition.

But it will benefit every case, and it will entirely cure most cases of Rheumatism.

So sure am I of this that I will supply Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure, to any sick one who writes me for it, on a month's trial, at my risk.

If it succeeds, the cost to him is only $5.50 for the six bottle treatment.

If it fails, I bear the whole cost myself.

And,—he alone shall be the judge—shall decide who shall pay.

Surely you will not continue to suffer when you can thus get well, at my risk.

I have written an important treatise on Rheumatism, telling of its relief and cure.

It is free to Rheumatic people.

Write me a post card for it to-day. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 947, Racine, Wis.

P.S. Simple cases often yield to one bottle of Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure. (Druggists $1) But all druggists do not supply it on a month's trial. You must write to me for that. C. I. S.

FROM TORONTO TO PETERBOROUGH.

Rumoured Fast Service Train To Be Put on between These Points.

Local Officials Know Nothing of the Proposed Train - Believe Such an Innovation Would Not Be Profitable.

If the report contained in the following paragraph from the Lindsay Post is true, Peterborough will be given a fast train service to Toronto by the Grand Trunk Railway:—

"There is a rumour in circulation that in the near future, the G.T.R. will put on a fast train between Peterborough and Toronto, which will make only two stops, at Lindsay and Blackwater. Even with the tedious stops at the many way stations cut off, doubt is expressed that the distance can be done in decent time, owing to the curves and twists in the line. A fast train to Toronto via Whitby which would take the place of one of the two trains now running to Whitby, would stand a better chance of capturing the passenger traffic when the L. B. and P. Railway is opened to the C. P. R. main line."

Mr. Sandy, the local agent for the Grand Trunk, when questioned this morning as to the truth of this report, stated that it was the first he had heard of it. When asked if he thought it improbable, he replied that he did not know, but thought such a train would not pay.

Owing to the fact that present service between Peterborough and Toronto by the G.T.R. is much slower than by the C.P.R., it is generally believed that the former would be consulting their own interests by putting on a fast train between these two points.

JESSE ARRIES AGAIN COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

On a Charge of Assault and Robbery.

An Evidence of an Incriminating Character Offered Arries' Hand Bleeding on Night in Question.

The preliminary investigation into the charge against Jesse Arries of assaulting and robbing a certain young lady on the evening of Tuesday, March 8th, was heard by Police Magistrate Dumble at the Police Court this morning, and resulted in the prisoner being again committed for trial. The court room at ten o'clock was crowded to the doors, but after the first half hour men began to leave until by the time the whole evidence had been given a bare fifty or sixty remained. The case occupied about an hour and a half and during that time some very incriminating evidence was taken. Perhaps the court was most startled when one of Arries' chums said he had been with prisoner on the night of the assault, about ten o'clock. Arries then asked him if he had heard about the young lady, (mentioning her name) being assaulted and robbed. Witness said he had not, and Arries remarked that he would probably be arrested for it, as he had been in prison before!

During the hearing Arries seemed absolutely unconcerned and not even when called upon to be identified by the young lady he is alleged to have assaulted did he flinch in the slightest degree. He pleaded "not guilty" in a firm clear voice, and only at times appeared to pay attention to the evidence.

The first witness called was the young lady assaulted. After being sworn, witness said that on the evening of Tuesday, March 8th, she had occasion to be on Aylmer street. She was alone and it was about half-past eight when she neared the Edinburgh street crossing. At that crossing she was assaulted by a man whom she had heard approaching from behind. As he came up opposite to her he pinned her arms against her body and threw her on her face, full length on the ground, saying, "Not a word out of you, now!" The man next searched her pockets, but finding nothing, he demanded the young lady's money, saying, "Tell me where your money is!" The man had his hand on the young lady's mouth as she was trying to call for help. She bit his knuckles. When her assailant found her satchel he jerked it off and put it in his pocket.

Mr. Wood asked — Was there a handkerchief in it?

Witness—No. A $1 Canadian bill and nearly one dollar in silver were loose in it.

Witness went on to say that the hands of her assailant were soft and small. They were certainly not those of a working man.

Asked as to what the man wore, witness said his coat, which was dark, did not reach below his knees. His cap fitted tightly on his head. Witness identified the general appearance of the prisoner, Arries, as that of the man who assaulted and robbed her.

John Sanderson, who keeps a shop on the corner of Aylmer and McDonel streets, was next called. Shortly before 9 o'clock on the night of Tuesday, March 8th, a young man came into his shop and bought two cigars, paying for them with a $1 Canadian bill. Witness could not identify prisoner as the man, as he was only in the shop a few minutes.

William Lockhard followed, and said that he was in Sanderson's shop on the night of Tuesday, March 8th. He had gone there about 8.30 o'clock. Shortly before nine o'clock Jesse Arries came in and bought two cigars, giving one to witness. Witness knew Arries, having been to school with him. Witness noticed Arries' hand had been bleeding and asked him what was the matter with it. Arries said he had slipped and knocked it against a tree. At that time Arries was wearing a pair of moccasins.

Eric Kimble, who was next called, deposed that he saw prisoner about 10 o'clock on the night of Tuesday, March 8th, near the Post Office. Two other lads were present. "He asked us," said witness, "if we had heard of Miss —— being knocked down and having her purse taken away from her. I had not. He also said he thought he would be arrested for it. I asked him why. He said 'because I've been away before,' meaning by that that, that he had been in prison."

This concluded the evidence on this charge.

Arries was also committed for trial on a charge of indecently assaulting an elderly lady on the night of Feb. 5th. The assault was committed on Water street.

Crown Attorney R. E. Wood conducted the prosecution, and R. F. McWilliams defended the prisoner.

PRESENTATION TO MRS. WM. HARTLEY.

Was Made the Recipient of a Handsome Gold and Pure Crescent.

Prior to Her Departure from Town—A Member of Friends Surprised Her at Her Home Last Night.

A pleasant gathering was held last night at the residence of Mrs. William Hartley, Water street, when about thirty-five of her friends in the vicinity of her home, waited upon her, and made her a presentation of a beautiful gold and pearl crescent, prior to her departure from Peterborough to join her husband in the United States, where he went some time ago to engage in the manufacture of a warping reel attachment, for which he and Mr. Chowen have patents. Mr. and Mrs. Hartley were very popular with their numerous friends and it was for the purpose of expressing regret at her coming departure that Mrs. Hartley's friends gathered last evening. Their coming was a complete surprise to the hostess, as was also the presentation of the costly piece of jewelry, of which she was made the recipient, Master Percy Baker making the presentation, after the following address had been read by Miss Bertha Parnell.

Peterborough, Mar. 28th.

Dear Mrs. Hartley,—

We, a number of your friends, feel that we cannot let this opportunity pass without expressing, in a slight degree, our appreciation of your hospitality extended to us on several occasions. We can most sincerely assure you that we have very thoroughly enjoyed the evenings spent in your company and that of your husband, and it is with very deep regret we learn of your departure from amongst us, but hope that what is our loss will be your gain. We ask you to accept this small gift, not for its intrinsic value, but as a token of the good wishes of a host of friends in Peterborough. We are indeed sorry to lose you and your family from our company, but hope that the best success will attend you and yours in your new home and that we may yet again be privileged to meet here. Again we wish you all much happiness and prosperity in your new experiences and hope you will keep a warm place in your hearts for old Peterborough friends.

Mrs. Hartley, although taken completely by surprise, replied to the address in a few words, thanking her friends for their kindness, and expressing the regret she felt at leaving a locality in which she had met with so many kind friends. She assured them that the memory of the time spent in Peterborough would always be pleasing to her, and that she appreciated very much the evidence of friendship manifested by the gift.

Refreshments were partaken of, and a highly enjoyable evening spent together. Mrs. Hartley will leave in a short time to join her husband, and will take with her the best wishes of a large circle of friends.

PREPARING FOR RIVER OPENING.

Navigation this Year will be Later than Usual.

Activity Along the River Front Some of the Changes Made During the Winter.

An activity is already being experienced in river navigation circles, and although the season will be later in opening than usual preparations are under way for the opening of navigation, and when it does come it will find boat owners well prepared for it. The ice on the Little Lake is still solid enough to allow teaming across it, but a few days similar to that being experienced to-day will make such a proceeding unsafe.

A steam punt erected during the winter for Mr. A. McDonald has been completed, and has been run out on to the ice to await the breaking up. The craft will be used for towing on the lower waters. The new passenger steamer being built by Mr. Snyder at the same yards is nearing completion, and it is expected that the machinery will arrive in the course of a short time, and the boat will be in commission this spring. Mr. Snyder will go to Toronto this week to arrange for the shipment of the propelling machinery which is being manufactured in that city. The Calcutt steamers have been thoroughly overhauled and renovated during the winter by Mr. Hickey, and will be better equipped than ever. Extensive improvements have been made to the City of Peterborough, and she will commence her trips as soon as the excursion season opens, spick and span, in a new dress of spotless white. Some changes will be made in the personnel of the crews, but these have not been announced yet.

Mr. Jos. Young, engineer of the Government steamer Empire, has left for Lakefield, where he will get his boat in readiness for the season's work.

Captain Scollard of the Majestic, left yesterday for Young's Point, where he will superintend the work of refitting his popular steamer for the coming season.

A scene of activity is that seen at the locks dam. The contractor is rushing the work there and expects early in the summer to have his work completed.

LATE WM. JAMES BURIED TO-DAY.

Funeral of the Deceased Took Place This Afternoon.

The funeral of the late William James took place this afternoon, at 2.30 o'clock, from his late residence, 391 Sherbrooke street, to the Little Lake cemetery, and was conducted by Rev. W. J. Jolliffe, pastor of the Charlotte street church. The pall-bearers were William Martin, Richard Martin, Samuel Hall, Benjamin Cooney, Jas. Bradley and L. Spry.

Conspicuous among the many beautiful floral tributes were those from Mrs. Charles James, his brother, his two nieces, Mrs. A. Webb and Mrs. E. Evans, Mrs. Dr. King and family, Mr. W. G. Howden, Mr. M. Tooley and the Canadian Order of Foresters.

JAMES MOLONEY WAS NOT PRESENT.

Charged with Illicit Liquor Selling but did not put in an Appearonce.

Nevertheless the Cordova man was Fined and Sentenced to Prison Some Startling Evidence.

When there was no response to the call of James Moloney's name at the County Police Court on Monday afternoon, it looked as if he expected to be convicted of the charges against him, and purposely stayed away. He was charged with the illicit sale of liquor in Cordova, between the dates of Feb. 15th and March 14th, and March 15th and March 21st.

Most incriminating evidence was taken and County Police Magistrate Edmison found the accused guilty on both charges. In the first case Moloney was fined $100 and costs, and in the second he was sentenced to four months' imprisonment with hard labour. The accused has been fined for the same offence twice previously.

The first witness called was Wm. Sophie, who on being sworn, gave his residence as Cordova. He knew James Moloney, the defendant, as a grocer of that village. He also had a back shop where he sold liquor. Witness had been in his shop on March 20th, and bought and paid for some whiskey. He had not bought any liquor there between Feb. 15th and March 14th of this year. On the day in question, witness was with William and Robert Cole, and paid for the whiskey at ten cents per glass.

John Wiggins was the next witness, and he said that his home was a mile and a half or two miles outoutside of Cordova. The following examination by Mr. Wood then ensued:—

Mr. Wood—When did you get your whiskey at Moloney's?

Witness—Between Feb. 13th and March 14th.

Q.—Can't you fix one date?

A.—On March 6th.

Q.—Did you buy whiskey or beer?

A.—Whiskey.

Q.—That was on a Sunday; about three weeks ago?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you pay for your treat?

A.—No.

Q.—You had more than one treat?

A.—Yes.

Q.—How many?

A.—About five or six.

Q.—What time was it then?

A.—About ten o'clock at night.

Q.—Ten o'clock Sunday night? Had you been to church?

A.—Yes.

Q.—What church do you attend?

A.—I'm a Presbyterian.

Q.—Who else was there?

A.—Robert Perrin, a fellow by the name of Bell, a couple of the Sophies—I don't remember which.

Q.—That is four; any others?

A.—Geo. Wiggins, J. McLaughlin, and N. Garnot.

Witness went on to say that they stayed drinking in Moloney's for about an hour, all present treating. We drank whiskey and lager, and I saw money passed in payment for the drinks. Witness did not know if his treats had been chalked against him, but he never paid for them, nor was he asked for any money. Witness denied seeing in the place three weeks before that date but admitted being there again on the Sunday following, and on the Saturday night before that. That was a week ago last Saturday night. He met Inspector McLaughlin at the camp and was told by him not to go home as he had just left a subpoena there for him (witness.) On that occasion McLaughlin said that he was not going to do Inspector Crowe's work, and further told him not to go home until after Moloney's trial.

Hugh Cole was the next witness examined and said that he, among others, had been drinking at Moloney's last Monday night. He had also bought drinks there between the middle of February and March, and drank ale. It was taken from a bottle.

Inspector Crowe was next called. Mr. Wood, asked—You are the License Inspector for East Peterborough, which includes the Township of Belmont?

Inspector Crowe—Yes, Sir.

Q—You know the defendant, Jas. Moloney?

A—Yes, Sir.

Q—Has he at at any time had a license under the Liquor License Act?

A—No, Sir.

Q—Nor never had?

A—No, Sir.

THE SECOND CASE

The second charge was that of illicitly selling liquor between the dates of March 15th and 21st.

The first witness called was Wm. Sophie, who repeated his former evidence with regard to buying liquor on March 20th.

Hugh Cole was also called and deposed that he was at Moloney's on March 21st, last Monday, both in the afternoon and evening. He was with two boys named Elliott.

Mr. Wood—I was told you were drunk that day.

A—No, at night.

Q—Where?

A—At Moloney's.

Q—How many more of you were there?

A—I don't know.

Q—Did you pay for it in the evening?

A—Yes, Sir.

NEW OFFICERS OF LACROSSE CLUB.

T. A. S. Elected their Executive Officers Last Night.

A large gathering of lacrosse enthusiasts gathered in the rooms of the T.A.S. last evening for the purpose of electing the officers of the Lacrosse Club for the coming season.

Mr. Will Crowley occupied the chair, and Rev. Dr. O'Brien briefly addressed the meeting, emphasizing the necessity of having the best men available filling the different positions in the gift of the club. He also referred to the question of having the senior and junior teams under one management this season, and asked those present to carefully consider the matter.

The question was discussed at considerable length and it was finally decided to proceed with the election of the officers of the senior team—the junior officers to be elected at a later date.

The different offices were keenly contested, only two going without an election, and the result of the evening's voting was the selection of an excellent staff of officers, who all expressed their determination to work energetically for the club.

The following are the officers for the coming year:—

Hon. President—Rev. Dr. O'Brien.
President—Will Crowley.
1st Vice-President—John Hayes.

LOOKING GLASS' GOOD RECORD.

Made Some Fast Time in the Winter Season Just Closed

The record of the famous horse, "Looking Glass," as given in the Newmarket Journal will be read with interest by Peterborough horsemen, to whom the horse spoken of is well known. The Journal says:—

"Perhaps a short resume of the winter campaign, and the races of the celebrated gelding who has incidentally done much to advertise Uxbridge, would be timely, since his return to his home stable. He first started at Port Perry, and in a go-as-you-please race in a snow storm, was second to Gipsy Girl, with Black Joe third and J. B. F. fourth. At Belleville Looking Glass won a very fast race in straight heats from Sphinx B., Black Joe and Maud Wilkes, pacing the second heat in 2.11-4. He repeated the performance at Ottawa in the 2-11 class, beating Celia, the crack American mare, Flora Hunter, Bivouac, Black Joe and Mamie Abbott, and pacing the three fastest heats of his career up to that time—2.19 1-2, 2.21, 2.22. Practically his first defeat came in the famous matched race with Gipsey Girl, and may be fairly charged to accident. The Girl drew the pole, a big advantage in a two-horse race, and Looking Glass broke a hind shoe just after they got away, and the other before the heat was finished. The mishap was unknown to the driver, who drove the gelding out. His game effort without shoes was costly, and when in the second heat the new shoes also went to pieces, any chance Looking Glass had of winning was lost. The time — 20, 21, 21—was not fast, considering the reputation of the horses and the amount of the stake—$2,000. In the free-for-all at Montreal, after Celia won the first, Looking Glass stepped the next three heats in the fastest time of the meet.

"But it was at Ottawa's second meet in the 2.14 class that the greatest interest was. Looking Glass and Gipsy Girl were entered, and with Celia and Clarina made the fastest four that ever faced a started over ice. That the racing public attributed the loss of the matched race wholly to accident was shown by the liberal way in which Looking Glass was backed — $10 to $6 against the field. The race was the best of the campaign but the result was never in doubt. Gipsy Girl was first away in every heat but couldn't stay the clip. Looking Glass won in straight heats, establishing a world's record for the three fastest heats on ice, 2.21, 2.19 1-2, 2.19, with Celia second in each heat and Girl third. As the driver of Gipsy Girl was reported as saying after the race that he still considered her faster than the gelding, Dr. Forrest issued a challenge in the Ottawa Journal and the Toronto Globe to race his horse again for any amount, but it brought no reply from the owner of Gipsy Girl. The winning of the Bartrum Cup closed a very successful season. Looking Glass was driven in all his races by Geordie Watson, and was fitted by Ed. Dash."

STORY OF SCOTTISH VISIT TO CANADA.

As Told by Rev. John Kerr, Chaplain of the Visiting Curlers.

A Volume of Reminiscenes on a Very Pleasant Sporting Event—The Advance Sheets of a New Book.

Peterborough curlers remember with a great deal of pleasure the visit of the Scotch curlers last year. The visit of the curlers to Canada was outside the ordinary run of international contests, for curling is much more than mere sport. It is recreation, and these Scotsmen were representatives of that ancient game which has gained devotees wherever ice forms. They came here with no spirit of rivalry, but as brother curlers. They did not pretend to be the best that Scotland could produce, nor did they expect to be victorious in all their matches. They were on a holiday.

One of those who was most typical of the true curler was the Rev. John Kerr, the captain, and the minister of Dirleton, one of the bonniest parishes in lowland Scotland. He has just completed a volume descriptive of the tour. It is now in the hands of the printer, and copies will shortly be on sale in Canada. From the advance proofs sent to the Examiner it would seem to be probably the finest work that has ever been devoted to the game. It has cost Mr. Kerr $5,000.

There has been delay in issuing the volume, which I regret, says the author, but when I explain that I was laid aside by ill health about a month, and had to do much of the work in bed, I am sure curlers on the other side will excuse such delay. I may further add, by way of explanation, that the pressure of material sent me was far beyond what I expected, and the volume has thereby grown to about double the size I expected. Even taking such explanation into account, it is not surely unsatisfactory that a volume of 800 pages with about 500 illustrations, should be ready at the interval of only a twelvemonth after our team's return home.

The testimonies of love and loyalty, continues Mr. Kerr, which are recorded unto to form a necklace of sparkling diamonds for our Empire-Queen, Britannia, and I feel certain that the result of our tour will be what was intended by the Royal Club—a closer and more sympathetic fellowship between Canada and Scotland, and a notable advance toward Imperial federation. The description of the charms of the Canadian winter, more especially from a curling point of view and the incidental references to other pleasant features will I am sure, make this book a powerful emigration agent, so that many may be induced to leave the old Country and settle in the land of promise and plenty.

The wonderful gallery of protraits and illustrations which I have brought together in these pages will, I trust, supplement the good work done by the team and unite as "brithers a'" the Knights of the Kowe at home and on the other side of the water; while its story of friendly foregathering and genial good-fellowship will, no doubt, be an inspiration to the generations that come after us to follow the best traditions of the grand old game.

Time would fail to detail the assistance received from curlers across the warter. Among numerous helpers I may name Mr. F. C. Simson, Professor Murray, Mr. Kettle-Jones, Dr. Parke, Colonel Stevenson, Mr. D. Guthrie, Mr. W. D. Aird, Mr. W. J. Beatty, Dr. Thorburn, Colonel Edwards, Mr. J. D. Flavelle, Mr. McFadden, Mr. Milne, Mr. Davies, Mr. Forrest Macnee, Mr. Jas. Thaw, and the late Mr. D. Foulis. But I must say that the greatest of all my helpers in this work was the venerable ex-secretary of the Ontario Association, Mr. J. S. Russell, who furnished me with a large quantity of carefully prepared material specially concerning his province. Second to him I name Mr. J. P. Robertson, of Winnipeg, who deserves to be held in everlasting remembrance for all that he has done for curling in Manitoba.

As regards the publishing of this volume, I deem it right to say that when I was hesitating whether to venture or not because of the expense, Mr. Arthur Sanderson came forward, and by his generous order of a thousand copies "right away," encouraged me to proceed. If the volume as now issued meets the approval of such a cultured patron of the fine arts as Mr. Sanderson, I shall be more than satisfied. Mr. Fidus Achates, Major Scott Davidson, has done me invaluable service, as he did throughout the tour.

It has been my good fortune to make a kinematograph of the busy pursuit of this healthy pleasure in the Dominion and the States, and transfer to permanence its fleeting forms and figures. The picture is worth preservation and at the opening of the twentieth century it is an augury of hope for centuries to come. The motto thereof may well be the words of the old Scots psalm—

> Behold how good a thing it is
> And how becoming well,
> Together such as brethren be,
> In unity to dwell.

My friend, Mr. John L. Low, of golfing fame, when he was going out to America with some 'Varsity players last spring, took a "wick" off our team by saying that he and his men were simply going out for a jolly time of it, apart from match winning or losing, unlike the Scots curlers, who, when they "discovered the quality of their opponents, abandoned the idea of conquest and gave out to the world that they had come on a mission of peace," etc. When I tackled friend "Johnny" with this misrepresentation, he went down on his knees and confessed that he "had made a 'chronological mistake by post-dating the moment when the missionary spirit entered into your broom-fellows.'" Knowing his addiction to story telling, I frankly forgave him.

This volume furnishes facts which show to Mr. Low and others that our mission of goodwill was really our first aim, and our winning of matches a secondary matter, and that our success in both was far beyond our expectations.

Enormous Growth.

Ever since Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills were first introduced to the public the sales have steadily increased, each year being larger than the year previous. This is probably the best evidence of their remarkable efficiency, as a treatment for the derangements of the Kidneys, Liver and bowels. They are invaluable as a family medicine.

OBITUARY.

The Lamented Mrs. James Latimer, of South Monaghan.

The large number of friends and acquaintances of the late Anne Eliza Latimer, of South Monaghan, relict of the late James Latimer, will learn with regret of her death, which took place last week. Death was due to repeated paralytic attacks. The deceased lady, who was 75 years of age at the time of her death, was born in Ireland, came to Canada in her childhood, and spent the days of a long life in the community where her many estimable qualities won for her general respect and esteem. Mrs. Latimer was a faithful member of the Baptist church. Her husband predeceased her about two years ago. She leaves behind her to mourn her loss, three sons and two daughters — Mr. Jas. Latimer, occupying the farm, Mr. R. S. Latimer, C.E., Pasadena, Cal.; Mr. J. H. Latimer, Toronto; Mrs. H. Russell, of Cavan, and Miss Mary Latimer, residing at the homestead.

MAN OF A GREAT DEED

PASSING OF A GREAT ENGLISH PARLIAMENTARY DEBATER.

Sir William Vernon Harcourt's Golden Deed That Remains a Mystery to Those Who Have Studied His Long Career—An Inconsistency That Placed Him Among the Celebrated Law Makers of the World.

After a political career embracing more than forty years, Sir William Vernon Harcourt is about to relinquish his seat in the British House of Commons, and retire into private life. Sir William is nearly 77 years old, an age at which even politicians begin to wear out, and that he is choosing the part of wisdom in planning to devote the remaining years of his life more fully to those intellectual pleasures which have been such a solace and delight to him cannot be disputed. The wonder is that he has clung for so long to his seat. Politics in the past ten years must have been gall and wormwood to him. Ever since Lord Rosebery, instead of Sir William Vernon Harcourt, was made the leader of the Liberal party in 1894, he must have felt that "the world was out of joint." Still he remained in politics, gradually fading into the background and absenting himself more and more from the House, even on those occasions when his party needed so much his great abilities. It had been better for his own fame if he had resigned ten years ago, at the moment when his ancient friend and enemy triumphed over him. Had he done so the Liberals to-day might be calling for him to emulate Cincinnatus, and lead them on to victory. Now, as he prepares to bid farewell to the scene of his many triumphs and his few defeats, he neither arouses regret nor stirs affectionate memories. Thus passes a notable English politician.

His One Great Deed.

It is safe to say of Sir William Vernon Harcourt that rarely has a man of such fine qualities withdrawn from the hurly-burly of public life, leaving behind him so few lasting monuments. To the question, "What has he done for the Empire, or for England?" his eulogists will be puzzled to return an answer. This great jurist, this eminent financier, this ripe scholar, this tremendous controversialist, this eloquent debater, leaves behind him, in the Finance Act, the record of his single great deed. While Chancellor of the Exchequer in 1894, he equalized the death duties on real and personal property. The budget of this year is said to have been the most socialistic ever presented to the British House, and it was prepared by one of the most uncompromising aristocrats who ever spoke in that chamber, by a Minister whose descent from the Plantaganets is direct and unsullied. How ever Sir William came to do this golden deed must remain a mystery to those who study his long career. It is significant that it was by his one inconsistency that he is celebrated among law makers.

Sacrifices for Harcourt.

The son of a Canon of York, the grandson of an Archbishop of York, William George Grenville Venables Vernon Harcourt was born on Oct. 14, 1827. He was educated at Trinity College, Cambridge, whence he graduated with honors in 1851. Three years later he was called to the bar, and for several years traveled the circuit. While a fledging lawyer his political career may be said to have begun. In 1858 it came to a head prematurely, and he was defeated in an election. In 1866 he was made a Queen's Counsel, and was everywhere acknowledged to be one of the most brilliant of legal practioners. Two years after this honor had been conferred on him he contested the riding of Oxford, and was successful. In 1869 Mr. Harcourt was appointed professor of International Law at Cambridge, and in 1873 came to the knighthood with the position of Solicitor-General in Mr. Gladstone's first Administration. In 1880 he was made Home Secretary, but on going back to his constituency for re-election was defeated. Thereupon the patriotic Mr. Plimsoll resigned from his Derby constituency, and handed over his seat to Sir William. A similar disconcerting experience was his in 1895, when he was beaten in the Midland County because of supporting the Veto Bill. Then it was Mr. Wormington, M.P., for Monmouth, who politely stood up, and ever since Sir William Vernon Harcourt has represented Monmouth.

An Unsurpassed Debater.

Year-books tell little more about the veteran politician than is contained in the preceding paragraph. He was twice married, his first wife being a daughter of John Lathrop Motley, the distinguished American Ambassador and historian. This marriage may account for the fact that Sir William is popular with the people of the United States, but it does not explain why he is not popular with the people of England. For one thing, he is not an approachable man. No one would dream of slapping him jovially on the back. His manner forbids familiarity and his biting humor reinforces his high-headed, austere demeanor. For good reason was he dreaded in debate. His only living equal on the floor of the House is said to be Mr. Chamberlain, and if Mr. Chamberlain's attack is as disconcerting, if his defence is equally adroit, his manner is hobnailed compared with Sir William Vernon Harcourt's. In the past generation of Parliamentary debaters his only peers were Disraeli and Gladstone, and it may be doubted if either of them surpassed him. He was not their inferiors in any of the qualities which make a man a power in the House, but because a large number of Englishmen believed in Disraeli, idolized Gladstone, and refused to take Harcourt seriously, he never rose to the pinnacle to which both his illustrious colleagues attained.

Defeated by Rosebery.

Ten years ago the newspapers were full of prophecies that Sir William Vernon Harcourt was to succeed Mr. Gladstone as Premier and Leader of the Liberal party, but Lord Rosebery was called, and Sir William had to be content with the House leadership. Rosebery had been Under-Secretary when he was Secretary of State, and a warm personal friendship had existed between them, but Rosebery abandoned Gladstone and Harcourt clung to his chief, and so a coolness arose. This developed into enmity, and Rosebery's friends said that Sir William was not a loyal lieutenant to his leader. Neither was he free from suspicion of coquetting with Disraeli soon after Gladstone had given him his first Cabinet position, but he learned early the lesson that the Grand Old Man would not tolerate manoeuvring of this sort. Therefore, when the occasion offered he was ready to drown Morley's voice in praise of Gladstone. But even his partisanship has not availed, and so Sir William turns his broad back on friend and foe alike, leaving to lesser men the prizes which he failed to win.

EATING NOT A PAINFUL DUTY

If You Use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets—What They Did for Angus McMillan They'll do the Same for You.

To be able to eat a square meal three times a day and enjoy each and every one of them, is one of the oldest and most reliable signs of good health. But this is the age of tired, worn-out stomachs, and for one man or woman who enjoys their meals there are a dozen who eat because they feel they must perform a painful duty.

To all such Angus McMillan, of Laggan, Glengarry Co., Ontario, sends the following hopeful message:

"I am over eighty years of age. I suffered with Dyspepsia more than twenty years back but never met with anything to cure me till I began taking Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. After using them for two days, all pain and restlessness left me. I am a new man. I have great reason to be thankful for all the good Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets have done me."

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets digest the food. That means that the different parts of the body are provided with the food and heat they need. It means that the body gets new vigour in all parts.

"Liar" a Flattering Term.

At a little gathering of officials the other day the talk turned on the recent diplomatic duel between the Russians and Japanese, and there was quite a difference of opinion as to whether the Muscovite or the little man from the Far East is the most expert diplomatist. "But, my dear man," said one of the disputants, who had a touching faith in the veracity of the Jap, "these Russians are such liars!" "Tut, tut," replied the other, "You should have known their grandfather."

The reply reminds me of the story Sir Horace Rumbold tells about General Ignatieff. The general was a natural born fibber. As Sir Horace puts it, "inaccuracy oozed out of him," and in Constantinople he was known as "the father of lies." On this occasion he quite surpassed himself. "Hang it all, Ignatieff," said his colleague, giving him a dig in the ribs, "I believe you're the most unmitigated liar that ever was born!" "You flatter me, my dear fellow," replied the general, with a laugh; "but, then, you've never met my father."—London Tatler.

One of Queen Elizabeth's Fads.

England's virgin queen certainly had more than a spice of feminine vanity, and it is on record that one of her little fads was to have every hair on her head kept the same length. It was the duty of her barber to see to this, and for this purpose she received a weekly visit from a worthy man whose pole adorned a modest looking shop in Lombard street. The queen's barber was of course much patronized by the nobility and by all who frequented the court, and no doubt he added to his income by selling the precious snippings of Her Majesty's hair, for it was his privilege to keep them, and they were of course much in request by her many admirers.

Captain Bernier will have a Government ship in which to sail the Arctic Sea—but only to patrol the Canadian coast and put down smuggling. The captain will be under a terrible temptation to break away and make a dash for the Pole.—

A DISRAELI EPISODE.

How the Statesman Took His Brandy Neat In the Commons.

I was stationed in London nearly two years during the seventies, when Disraeli was prime minister, and often heard him speak, frequently saw him upon Whitehall, walking home with Lord Russell by his side, once "interviewed" him and witnessed the solemnities of his elevation to an earldom. But the most characteristic and thoroughly Disraelian incident I recall has never been told.

About 1 o'clock in the morning, shortly after the return of the earl from Berlin bearing "peace with honor," I left the press gallery of the house to go to the cable office. Passing a stand in the lobby where a stoop shouldered woman was wont to sell spirits and "soft" drinks, I dropped into line with half a dozen men and waited my turn to be served. I paid no attention to the man directly in front of me except to notice that he was hatless and to comment mentally upon the dangers of such conduct in that cold and drafty place.

"Sixpenny 'orth o' brandy, neat," said the broad shouldered little man directly ahead. The dame courtesied, an unusual attention to a customer, served the spirits, and the purchaser drained the glass at a gulp.

"Put it on the book," said the customer as he replaced the glass upon the counter. Then he turned, facing me, and made his way through the crowd toward the house of lords. The man was unnoticed in the badly lighted corridor, although his name was ringing throughout the civilized world, the Earl of Beaconsfield!

The interesting feature of this episode was not that his lordship took a drink of brandy during a long night's session, but that he had an account with the woman tapkeeper and from sheer force of habit had walked over to the commons end of Westminster palace to get his "brandy neat" at the familiar place.—Julius Chambers in Harper's Weekly.

WORKED BOTH WAYS.

Clever Manner In Which a Paris Concierge Was Outwitted.

Honore Palmer once outwitted a concierge in Paris very neatly.

A lad of sixteen or thereabout at the time, Mr. Palmer was spending the winter in Paris with his mother. One cold night in February he stayed out unusually late, and desiring to get in without awaking any one he rang up the concierge softly. The concierge, with equal softness, came downstairs. He whispered through the keyhole, "Is that you, Mr. Palmer?" and then he said positively:

"I can't let you in, sir."

"Why not?" asked the young man.

"Because the rules are very strict," said the concierge. "No one ever is let in after midnight."

The boy desired ardently to enter. He thought a moment and then he slipped a gold louis under the door.

"I have just slipped a gold louis under the door for you, concierge," he whispered. "Now, let me in; that's a good fellow."

The concierge instantly drew back the bolt. "Come in softly. Make no noise, monsieur," he said shamelessly.

But young Palmer was already regretting the gold louis, his last one. A thought struck him, and he had no sooner entered than he said:

"Oh, by the way, I left a book on the stone balustrade outside. Do you mind getting it for me?"

With great politeness the concierge, in his bare feet, tiptoed out upon the cold stones. While he fumbled the boy pushed to the door and locked it.

"Let me in, monsieur," whispered the concierge, who had nothing on but a nightdress of white linen.

"I can't let you in. We let no one in after midnight, unless"—

But young Palmer had to go no further. The concierge, freezing in the cold, perceived he had been outwitted, and, in his turn, slipped the gold louis under the door. Pocketing it, the boy admitted the man and then went quietly to bed.

FOR ENERGY AND STRENGTH—
ANTI-PILL

Prevalent conditions that go to make people look old and faste. age marks before their time are described in the following letter from a woman who received immediate relief from a sample of ANTI-PILL.

"I would wake in the morning feeling tired. My feet and ankles would swell. I had a horrible dragged sensation. My head ached as though it would burst. My bowels were never regular. I had a disagreeable feeling of overfulness after eating. Food would not digest, and caused great distress. Was nervous. I was treated for dyspepsia and constipation with little or no relief. A sample of Dr. Leonhardt's ANTI-PILL did me so much good I followed up its use, and two boxes has entirely cured me."

ANTI-PILL is sold by druggists, 50 cents, or mailed by addressing WILSON-FYLE CO., Niagara Falls, Ont. Free sample mailed to any address.

Axe of a Primitive Canadian Found.

The heart of David Boyle, superintendent of the Museum of the Department of Education, Toronto, has been warmed by the receipt of the largest stone axe ever found in Canada. Columbus had probably not set foot in America when it fashioned timbers in the hands of an aborigine.

It is an unsymmetrical piece of primary rock of a rough wedge shape. The point has been broken off, probably when it was turned up by the plow on the banks of the Grand River. In its original shape it must have been at least a foot long. Little fashioning was probably necessary to bring it to the required shape, as one side of it was rough just as it must have been found by its Indian manufacturer. A deep groove near the big end shows where the thongs bound the stone to a shaft like the handle of an adze. It is presented to the Museum by John Jefferson of Paris.

Mothers of Well-Known Men.

A venerable woman has just died in Montreal, at the age of 92, whose children are well known. This is Madame Fabre, mother of the late Archbishop Fabre, of Hon. Hector Fabre, now Canadian representative in Paris, and the late Lady Cartier, widow of Sir G. E. Cartier. Madame Fabre, whose maiden name was Perrault, married in 1826 E. R. Fabre, who half a century ago was Mayor of Montreal. He kept a book store on St. Vincent street, and was one of the first Canadian booksellers to import foreign works. He died of cholera in 1854. For half a century since Mme. Fabre has lived in widowhood, surrounded by children and grandchildren, and enjoying good health almost to the last. As was her custom, Mme. Fabre never missed mass on Sundays or feast days, but last Christmas, owing to failing strength, she was obliged to give up this pious practice of three-quarters of a century.

Nervous Disorders and Despondency

Mind and Body Become Diseased and Helpless When the Nervous System Becomes Exhausted.

The future of the sufferer from nervous derangement is not a bright one.

Locomotor ataxia, paralysis and insanity are staring him in the face, for these are the usual results of neglected nervous diseases.

Because there is not usually much pain associated with derangements of nerves people fail to realize their danger.

They forget that sleeplessness, irritability, loss of memory, lack of energy and vitality, spells of weakness and dizziness, tired feelings, discouragement and despondency are symptoms more to be dreaded than great pain, because the mind is well as the body is threatened.

There is no more satisfactory means of forming new blood and creating new nerve force than by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

This great food cure acting through the medium of the blood and nerves instils new vigour and vitality into every part and organ of the body.

It forms new nerve cells and new muscular tissue and while it invigorates the mind it adds new, firm flesh to the body. You can prove this by weighing yourself while using it.

With new vigour comes new hope and confidence, and weakness and disease give place to strength and energy.

Mr. J. Law, 247 Hunter street, Peterborough, and who is employed with the Peter Hamilton Company, states: "For a long time I was troubled with severe splitting headaches, and suffered a great deal with pains in the region of my heart, caused no doubt by indigestion. I procured a box of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and began this treatment. Since using this preparation for some time I can say that I feel quite different, and my health is very much improved. My digestion is good, and the headaches and pains about the heart have not troubled me at all of late. I can sincerely recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as a thorough cure for nervous dyspepsia and its accompanying symptoms."

The Crutch
(soliloquizing)

"I HAVE STOOD BY THE OLD MAN FOR FIFTEEN LONG YEARS, AND NOW HE HAS TURNED ME DOWN FOR A BOX OF Bu-Ju. I FEEL ALL BROKEN UP OVER IT."

The doctor told him he had rheumatism as the result of kidney trouble—too much uric acid in the blood. The kidneys had failed to perform their proper functions, and a long, continuous, painful case of rheumatism is the result. He was obliged to use a crutch off and on for 15 years until he read an advertisement of

and provided himself with that never failing remedy for all kidney disorders, and in a short time was enabled to cast the crutch into the woodbox, to take part in the building of its own funeral pyre.

Many people are suffering from kidney trouble who are not aware of it. They are sick, and unfit for work, business or pleasure. There may be one or many of the symptoms arising from disordered kidneys and they are treating for symptoms instead of fighting the disease, which is kidney trouble.

CHAPTER XXV.

Just through the woods, where Uncle Ephraim was wont to exercise old Whitey, was a narrow strip of land, extending from the highway to the pond, and fertile in nothing except the huckelberry bushes, and the rocky ledges over which a few sheep roamed, seeking for the short grass and stunted herbs, which gave them a meagre sustenance. As a whole it was comparatively valueless, but to Aunt Betsy Barlow it was of great importance, as it was her property—the land on which she paid taxes willingly—the real estate, the deed of which was lying undisturbed in her hair trunk, where it had lain for years. Several dispositions the good old lady had mentally made of this property, sometimes dividing it equally between Helen and Katy, sometimes willing it all to the former, and again, when she thought of Mark Ray, leaving the interest of it to some missionary society in which she was interested.

How then was the poor woman amazed and confounded when suddenly there appeared a claimant to her property; not the whole, but a part, and that part taking in the big sweet apple tree and the very best of the berry bushes, leaving her nothing but rocks and bogs, a pucker cherry tree, a patch of tansy, and one small tree, whose gnarly apples were not fit, she said, to feed the pigs.

Of course she was indignant, and all the more so because the claimant was prepared to prove that the line fence was not where it should be, but ran into his own dominions for the width of two or three rods, a fact he had just discovered by looking over a bundle of deeds, in which his boundaries of his own farm were clearly defined.

In her distress Aunt Betsy's first thoughts were turned to Wilford as the man who could redress her wrongs if any one, and a long letter was written to him in which her grievances were told in detail and his advice solicited. Commencing with "My dear Wilford," closing with "Your respected ant," sealed with a wafer, stamped with her thimble, and directed bottom side up, it nevertheless found its way to No. — Broadway, and into Wilford's hands. But with a frown and a pish of contempt he tossed it into the grate, and vain were all Aunt Betsy's inquiries as to whether there was any letter for her when Uncle Ephraim came home from the office. Letters there were from Helen, and sometimes one from Katy, but none from Wilford, and her days were passed in great perplexity and distress, until another idea took possession of her mind. She would go to New York herself! She had never traveled over half a dozen miles in the cars, it was true, but it was time she had, and now that she had a new bonnet and shawl, she could go to York as well as not!

Wholly useless were the expostulations of the family, for she would not listen to them, nor believe that she would not be welcome at that house on Madison Square, to which Mrs. Lennox had never been invited since Katy was fairly settled in it. Much at first had been said of her coming, and of the room she was to occupy; but all that had ceased, and in the mother's heart there had been a painful doubt as to the reason of the silence, until Helen's letters enlightened her, telling her it was Wilford who had built so high a wall between Katy and her friends.

Far better than she used, did Mrs. Lennox understand her son-in-law, and she shrank in horror from suffering her aunt to go where she would be so serious an annoyance, frankly telling her the reason for her objections, and asking if she wished to mortify the girls.

At this Aunt Betsy took umbrage at once.

"She'd like to know what there was about her to mortify anybody? Wasn't her black silk dress made long and full, and the old ponge fixed into a Balmoral, and hadn't she a bran new cap with purple ribbon, and couldn't she travel in her delaine, and didn't she wear hoops always now, except at cleanin' house times? Didn't she nuss both the girls, especially Catherine, carrying her in her arms one whole night when she had the canker-rash, and everybody thought she'd die? And when she swallered that tin whistle didn't she spat her on the back and swing her in the air till she came to and blew the whistle across the room? Tell her that Catherine would be ashamed! she knew better!"

Then, as a doubt began to cross her own mind as to Wilford's readiness to entertain her at his house, she continued:

"At any rate, the Tubbses, who moved from Silverton last fall, and who are living in such style on the Bowery, wouldn't be ashamed, and I can stop with them at first, till I see how the land lies. They have invited me to come, both Miss Tubbs and 'Tilda, and they are nice folks, who belong to the Orthodox Church. Tom is in town now, and if I see him I shall talk with him about it, even if I never go."

Most devoutly did Mrs. Lennox and Aunt Hannah hope that Tom would return to New York without honoring the farm-house with a call; but unfortunately for them he came that very afternoon, and instead of throwing obstacles in Aunt Betsy's way, urged her warmly to make the proposed visit.

"Mother would be so glad to see an old neighbor," the honest youth said, "for she did not know many folks in the city. 'Till had made some flashy acquaintances, of whom he did not think much, and they kept a few boarders, but nobody had called, and mother was lonesome. He wished Miss Barlow would come; she would have no difficulty in finding them," and on a bit of paper he marked out the route of the Fourth Avenue cars, which passed their door, and which Aunt Betsy would take after arriving at the New Haven depot. "If he knew when she was coming he would meet her," he said, but Aunt Betsy could not tell; she was not quite certain whether she should go at all, she was so violently opposed.

Still she did not give it up entirely, and when, a few days after Tom's return to New York, there came a pressing invitation from the daughter Matilda, or Mattie, as she signed herself, the fever again ran high, and this time with but little hope of its abating.

"We shall be delighted, both mother and me," Mattie wrote. "I will show you all the lions of the city, and when you get 'tired of us you can go up to Mrs. Cameron's. I know exactly where they live, and have seen her at the opera in full dress, looking like a queen."

Over the last part of this letter Aunt Betsy pondered for some time. "That as good an Orthodox as Miss Tubbs should let her girl go to the opera, passed her. She had wondered at Helen's going, but then she was a 'Piscopal, and them 'Piscopals had queer notions about usin' the world and abusin' it." Still, as Helen did not attend the theatre and did attend the opera, there must be a difference between the two places, and into the old lady's heart there slowly crept the thought that possibly she might try the opera too, if 'Tilda Tubbs would go, and promise never to tell the folks at Silverton.

This settled, Aunt Betsy began to devise the best means of getting off with the least opposition. Both Morris and her brother would be absent from town during the next week, and she finally resolved to take that opportunity for starting on her visit to New York, wisely concluding to keep her own counsel until she was quite ready. Accordingly, on the very day Morris and the deacon left Silverton, she announced her intention so quietly and decidedly that further opposition was useless, and Mrs. Lennox did what she could to make her aunt respectable. And Aunt Betsy did look very respectable, in her dark delaine, with her hat and shawl, both Morris's gift, and both in very good taste. As for the black silk and the new cap, they were carefully folded away, one in a box and the other in a satchel she carried on her arm, and in one compartment of which were sundry papers of fennel, caraway, and catnip, intended for Katy's baby and which could be sent to it from New York. There was also a package of dried plums and peaches for Katy herself, and a few cakes of yeast of her own make, better than they had in the city! Thus equipped she one morning took her seat in the Boston and New York train, which carried her swiftly on towards Springfield.

"If anybody can find their way in New York, it is Betsy, Aunt Hannah said to Mrs. Lennox, as the day wore on and their thoughts went after the lone woman, who with satchel, umbrella and cap-box, was felicitating in the luxury of a whole seat, and the near neighborhood of a very nice young man, who listened with well-bred interest while she told of her troubles concerning the sheep-pasture, and how she was going to New York to consult a first-rate lawyer.

Once she thought to tell who the lawyer was, and perhaps enhance her own merits in the eyes of her auditor by announcing herself as aunt to Mrs. Wilford Cameron, of whom she had no doubt he had heard—nay, more, whom he possibly knew, inasmuch as his home was in New York, though he spent much of his time at West Point, where he had been educated. But certain disagreeable remembrances of Aunt Hannah's parting injunction, "not to tell everybody in the cars that she was Katy's aunt," kept her silent on that point, and so Lieutenant Bob Reynolds failed to be enlightened with regard to the relationship existing between the fastidious Wilford Cameron of Madison Square, and the quaint old lady whose very first act on entering the car had amused him vastly. At a glance he saw that she was unused to traveling, and as the car was crowded, he had kindly offered his seat near the door, taking the side one under the window, and so close to her that she gave him her cap-box to hold while she adjusted her other bundles. This done and herself comfortably settled, she was just remarking that she liked being close to the door in case of a fire, when the conductor appeared, extending his hand officially towards her as the first one convenient. For an instant Aunt Betsy scanned him closely, she surely had never seen him before, but as he seemed to claim acquaintance she could not find it in her kind heart to ignore him altogether, and so she grasped the offered hand, which she tried to shake, saying apologetically:

"Pretty well, thank you, but you've got the better of me, as I don't justly recall your name."

Instantly the eyes of the young man under the window met those of the conductor with a look which changed the frown gathering in the face of the latter into a comical smile as he withdrew his hand and shouted: "Ticket, madam, your ticket!"

"For the land's sake, have I got to give that up so quick, when it's at the bottom of my satchel," Aunt Betsy replied, somewhat crest-fallen at her mistake, and fumbling in her pocket for the key, which was finally produced and one by one the paper parcels of fennel, caraway, and catnip, dried plums, peaches and yeast cakes were taken out, until at the very bottom, as she had said, the ticket was found, the conductor waiting patiently, and advising her, by way of avoiding future trouble, to pin the card to her shawl, where it could be seen.

"A right nice man," was Aunt Betsy's mental comment, but for a long time there was a red spot on her cheeks as she felt that she had made herself ridiculous, and hoped the girls would never hear of it.

The young man helped to reassure her, and in telling him her troubles she forgot her chagrin, feeling very sorry that he was going on to Albany, and so down the river to West Point. West Point was associated in Aunt Betsy's mind with that handful of noble men who within the walls of Sumter were then the centre of much interest and at parting with her companion she said to him.

"Young man, you are a soldier, I take it, from your havin' been to school at West Point. Maybe you'll never have to use your learning, but if you do, stick to the old flag. Don't you go against that, and if an old woman's prayers for your safety can do any good, be sure you'll have mine."

She raised her hand reverently, and Lieutenant Bob felt a kind of awe steal over him as if he might one day need that benediction, the first perhaps given in the cause then so terribly agitating all hearts both North and South.

"I'll remember what you say," he answered, and then as a new idea was presented he took out a card, and writing a few lines upon it, bade her hand it to the conductor just as she was getting into the city.

Without her glasses Aunt Betsy could not read and thinking it did not matter now, she thrust the card into her pocket, and bidding her companion good-bye, took her seat in the other train. Lonely and a very little homesick she began to feel, for her new neighbors were not as willing to talk as Bob had been, and she finally relapsed into silence, which resulted in a quiet sleep, from which she awoke just as they were entering the long dark tunnel, which she would have likened to Purgatory, had she believed in such a place.

"I didn't know we ran into cellars," she said faintly, but nobody heeded her, or cared for the anxious, timid looking woman, who grew more and more anxious, until suddenly remembering the card, she drew it from her pocket, and the next time the conductor appeared handed it to him, watching him while he read that "Lieut. Robert Reynolds would consider it as a personal favor if he would see the bearer safely into the Fourth Avenue cars."

Surely there is a Providence which watches over all; and Lieutenant Reynolds's thoughtfulness was not a mere chance, but the answer to the simple trust Aunt Betsy had that God would take her safely to New York. The conductor knew Lieutenant Bob, and attended as faithfully to his wishes as if it had been a born princess instead of Aunt Betsy Barlow whom he led to a street car, ascertaining the number on the Bowery where she wished to stop, and reporting to the conductor, who bowed in acquiescence, after glancing at the woman, and knowing intuitively that she was from the country. Could she have divested herself wholly of the fear that the conductor would forget to put her off at the right place, Aunt Betsy would have enjoyed that ride very much; and as it was, she looked around with interest, thinking New York a mightily cluttered-up place, and wondering if all the folks were in the streets; then, as a lady in flaunting robes took a seat beside her, crowding her into a narrow space, the good old dame thought to show that she did not resent it, by an attempt at sociability, asking if she knew "Miss Peter Tubbs, whose husband kept a store on the Bowery?"

"I have not that honor," was the haughty reply, the lady drawing up her costly shawl and moving a little away from her interlocutor, who continued: "I thought like enough you might have seen 'Tilda, or Mattie as she calls herself now. She is a right nice girl, and Tom is a very forrard boy."

To this there was no reply; and as the lady soon left the car, Aunt Betsy did not make another attempt at conversation, except to ask once how far they were from the Bowery, adding, as she received a civil answer: "You don't know Mr. Peter Tubbs?"

That worthy man was evidently a stranger to the occupants of that car, which stopped at last upon a crossing, the conductor pointing back a few doors to the right, and telling her that was her number.

"I should s'pose he might have driv right up, instead of leaving me here," she said, looking wistfully after the retreating car. "Coats, and trowsers, and jackets! I wonder if there is nothing else to be seen here," she continued, as her eye caught the long line of clothing so conspicuously displayed in that part of the Bowery. "'Taint no great shakes," was the feeling struggling into Aunt Betsy's mind, as with Tom's outline map in hand she peered at the numbers of the doors, finding the right one, and ringing the bell with a force which brought Mattie at once to the rescue.

If Mattie was not glad to see her guest, she seemed to be, which answered every purpose for the tired woman, who followed her into the dark, narrow hall, and up the narrow stairs, through a still darker hall, and into the front parlor, which looked out upon the Bowery.

Mrs. Tubbs was glad to see Aunt Betsy. She did not take kindly to city life, and the sight of a familiar face, which brought the country with it, was very welcome to her. Mattie, on the contrary, liked New York, and there was scarcely a street where she had not been with Tom for a protector; while she was perfectly conversant with all the respectable places of amusement—with their different prices and different grades of patrons. She knew where Wilford Cameron's office was, and also his house, for she had walked by the latter many a time, admiring the elegant curtains, and feasting her eyes upon the glimpses of inside grandeur, which she occasionally obtained as some one came out or went in. Once she had seen Helen and Katy enter their carriage, which the colored coachman drove away, but she had never ventured to accost them. Katy would not have known her if she had, for the family had come to Silverton while she was at Canandaigua, and as, after her return to Silverton, until her marriage, Mattie had been in one of the Lawrence factories, they had never met. With Helen, however, she had a speaking acquaintance; but she had never presumed upon it in New York, though to some of her young friends she had told how she once sat in the same pew with Mrs. Wilford Cameron's sister when she went to the "Episcopal meeting," and the consideration which this fact procured for her ed her dress, bidding her sit down as people were staring at her. Aunt Betsy did not hear, and if she had she would scarcely have cared for those who, following her eyes, saw the beautiful young ladies, behind whom Wilford and Mark were standing, but never dreamed of associating them with the "crazy thing" who sank back at last into her seat, keeping her eyes still upon the box where Helen and Katy sat, their heads uncovered, and their cloaks falling off just enough to show the astonished woman that their necks were uncovered too, while Helen's arms, raised to adjust her glass, were discovered to be in the same condition.

Had No Appetite.

FOOD WOULD NOT DIGEST.

Mrs. I. W. Warner, Riverdale, N.S., is glad there is such a remedy as

Burdock Blood Bitters.

IT CURED HER AND WILL CURE YOU.

She says: "I wish to add my testimony to the many others who have spoken so highly as to the unfailing virtues of Burdock Blood Bitters. I was all run down, had no appetite, lost all ambition, could not sleep much and had terrible headache and backache, and my food did not digest properly. I saw B B B. advertised, so concluded to give it a trial, thinking if it did no good it could do no harm. But after using one bottle I began to feel better, and by the time I had used three bottles I was feeling like a new person. I am so glad there is such a remedy provided for suffering humanity, and cannot praise it enough for I think there is no medicine like it on the market."

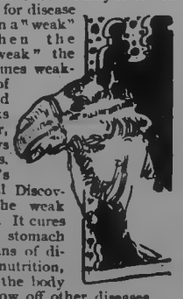
THE CAMEL'S HEAD.

"Where the camel's head goes his body follows," says an Oriental proverb. It's the same way with disease. A small opening will give it an entrance and when disease once has a place in the body a large number of ills may follow it.



The opening for disease is often found in a "weak" stomach. When the stomach is "weak" the body also becomes weakened by lack of nutrition, and disease attacks the heart, liver, lungs, kidneys and other organs.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes the weak stomach strong. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, and so enables the body to resist or throw off other diseases.

Men and women who are sick are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free, and so obtain without charge the opinion of a specialist on their ailments. All correspondence strictly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"For the past two years I have been a very sick woman," writes Mrs. Cheakey, of 108 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. "I tried medicines from doctors and to no avail. At last I decided to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When I started I was all run-down and had a very unpleasant taste in my mouth. Was choked up, and at times it was very hard for me to breathe. I had severe headaches and cutting pains in my knee joint. Was so weak I could not attend to my work nor walk up or down stairs without the assistance of my brother or some friend. I am now taking the fourth bottle, and am happy to say I feel like myself again. I can go up and down stairs and perform my duties as well as any one. Everything seems to be brighter, and I can assure you that life is worth living."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing just as good for dyspepsia or debility.

C. E. ZIMMERMAN, of the staff of the Roanoke World, states:—

"Dr. Agnew's Catarrh Cure is the only remedy that has ever given me any permanent relief, after suffering more than fifteen years from Catarrh."

AMERICAN'S OPINION ON G. T. PACIFIC.

Sees an Era of Prosperity in Store for Canada.

Mr. George K. Munro, of Grand Forks, N. D., formerly of Peterborough, sends to the Examiner a copy of the Minneapolis Journal, in which the new Grand Trunk Pacific Railway is referred to as follows:

"There seems no longer to be any doubt that the Grand Trunk Railway will soon begin building its long-talked of transcontinental railway through Canada. The western or prairie section from Winnipeg west, through a fertile agricultural country, will probably be the first part of the line to be constructed, and a connection between Winnipeg and Lake Superior will likely follow soon. The company is allowed until 1911 to complete the through line.

"The carrying out of so large an enterprise in a country having a comparatively small population, will no doubt contribute powerfully to the maintenance of prosperity in Canada, especially western Canada, for many years to come. The immense sums that will have to be disbursed annually in the construction of the road will have the effect of making money abundant. The construction work of the Canadian Northern and Canadian Pacific, will also add to this prosperity. The opening of these additional trunk lines will greatly increase the possibilities of agricultural development in western Canada. Population is neither dense nor very prosperous in these days at any great distance from a railway. The lands of western Canada are of little use till the railways reach them. Already the homestead and very cheap lands within a reasonable distance of a railway are scarce, compared with what they were. If no more railways were to be built, the rapid influx of settlers would soon come to an end, so far as it is made up of persons desiring to take homesteads.

As the prosperity of western Canada continues, and its population and wealth increase the politicians who now stand in the way and have perhaps succeeded in deferring for years the realization of reciprocity between the two countries, will have ample time in which to reflect on and regret their error.

MR. ELCOME GIVES ADDRESS ON SPARROWS.

At Charlotte Street Epworth League Last Night.

At the Charlotte street Epworth League last evening Mr. E. Elcombe gave one of his very popular and interesting, as well as highly instructive, natural history talks. Mr. Elcombe has on several former occasions favoured the members of the Charlotte street Epworth League with lessons from nature which talks have always been warmly received, and last evening he fully sustained his reputation as one who has a thorough knowledge of his subject. Mr. A. E. Froude occupied the chair, and opened the meeting with the usual song and prayer service. Following was a duet by Miss Lee and Mr. Froude. The chairman then called upon Mr. Elcombe, who spoke on the subject, "The Common Sparrow." He described the different species of sparrow, of which there are seven in our own County of Peterborough. He clearly told of the characteristics and habits of each, pointing out in what way they resembled, and in what way they differed from each other. He concluded his remarks by drawing a practical lesson from two passages of scripture in which the common sparrow is mentioned. Mr. Cunningham and Mr. A. E. Frost moved a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Elcombe for his interesting address.

COURT OF DIVISION HAD LONG SESSION.

Appeals Against Assessments for Improvements.

Were Heard and Dealt With—Considerable Business Transacted.

A meeting of the Court of Revision was held in the town clerk's office last night, and was attended by Ald. McWilliams, chairman, and Aldermen Edgcumbe, Mason, Johnston and Adams.

The following appeals regarding local improvement assessments for sidewalks and sewers were taken up:

John Kelly, for, Mrs. Tangney, that she was assessed for too much frontage on the south side of McDonel street, for the sewer lots 12 and 13, south McDonel, w. George. T. Wilson was present and stated that he had purchased 77 feet adjoining Stewart street. Judgment, 77 feet to be assessed to Thos. J. Wilson and 6 feet to be added to the town's assessment on Stewart street, and Mrs. Tangney's assessment to be reduced by these amounts.

L. Spry asked to have E. Cooney, leaseholder, assessed for 64 feet of lot 11, north Dalhousie west of George, for the sidewalk on Stewart street. Mr. E. B. Edwards appeared for Mr. Cooney. It was decided that Mr. Spry's name must remain as owner, and that the court was not called upon to decide whether the owner or tenant should pay the tax.

James Bradley appealed to have William J. Johnston, assessed on lot 8, south Edinburg, west George, for the sewer on Edinburg street, and 40 feet for sewer on Aylmer street, and H. C. Stabler for 40 feet for sewer on Aylmer street. Mr. Johnston was present; Mr. Stabler had been notified. — Judgment, W. F. Johnston to be assessed for 53 feet on Edinburg street, (including 3 feet for a lane); H. C. Stabler, 40 feet on Aylmer street and 3 feet on Edinburg street for the lane; J. A. Ash, to be assessed 3 feet on Edinburg street for the lane, and Bradley's assessment to be reduced by 80 feet on Aylmer street, and to be assessed on Edinburg street for 3 feet of lane only.

W. VanEvery's appeal to have Archie Anderson assessed for 30 feet of lot 13, north Dalhousie, west George, for proposed sewer on Rubidge street. Mr. Anderson had been notified.—Change made and A. Anderson assessed for 30 feet and W. VanEvery's frontage reduced by that amount.

W. Fair was relieved of assessment on lot 12 south Dalhousie, west George streets, for sewer on Dalhousie street, and the executors of the Chamberlin Estate assessed instead.

James Stubbs was relieved of 5 feet of assessment on lot 7, south Dublin, west George streets, for sidewalk, and the 5 feet added to frontage of the Bradburn Estate.

The assessments for the sidewalks and sewers built as local improvements last year, were then confirmed as they had been amended by the Court.

REPORT FAVOURS TRENTON ROUTE.

Mr. H. A. McLeod Believes that the Proper Route for Trent Waterway.

Harbor Has Advantage of Being on the Inland Waters of the Bay of Quinte.

A despatch from Ottawa says:—Mr. H. A. F. McLeod, C. E., of Ottawa, who was detailed by Mr. Schreiber, Chief Engineer of Railways and Canals, to report on the alternative routes of the Trent Canal, from Rice Lake southerly, declares unmistakably in favour of the Rice Lake to Trenton route, although the difference in cost in favour of the Port Hope route is $144,537. Mr. McLeod points out that the difficulty of navigating Lake Ontario with canal barges in stormy weather is a great objection to the Port Hope route. The material for canal construction is better on the Trenton route, and the deep cut on the Port Hope section is avoided by taking the river route. He says moreover that the diversion of water from its natural course will be a source of great expense to the Government, complaints being made that the water sometimes falls very low in the Trent River. The largest public benefit would be obtained by constructing the canal through or near the Towns of Hastings, Campbellford, Frankford and Trenton, where there are now large mills and factories. A very large amount of water power will be more available at the various dams on the Trent River than on the Port Hope route, and would be a valuable asset to the Government. The harbour at Trenton is much larger and safer than that of Port Hope, and it has the additional advantage of being on the inland waters of the Bay of Quinte. Mr. McLeod met Mr. Beith, M.P., and a number of Port Hope gentlemen on the ground last September, but after hearing their arguments in favour of Port Hope, he still adhered to his preference for the Trenton route.

THE PAPERS TABLED

Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson's Letter to Sir Wilfrid.

BUSY PRIVATE MEMBERS' DAY

Order Paper Cleared Before Nine O'clock in the Evening—Government Answers Several Questions Respecting the G. T. Pacific—Government Has No Survey Parties Out—The Eastern Section.

Ottawa, March 29.—The papers relating to the modification of the Grand Trunk Pacific agreement were tabled yesterday. They consist of a letter by Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson to the Prime Minister, dated London, December 15, stating that too large a burden has been imposed upon the Grand Trunk, and asking for changes that would afford the company a better chance of carrying out their undertaking; a memorandum of the suggested alterations which were submitted to the Government and formed the basis of the modifications, and formal modifications of the deposit, first of $5,000,000 of Grand Trunk securities and afterwards of cash to an equal amount.

Private Members' Day.

Private members had the day to themselves in the House, and the order paper being cleared before 9 o'clock last evening, the Government proposed going into supply. Mr. Borden objected that it was unusual on Monday. Sir Wilfrid Laurier yielded to the Opposition leader's view, although it was pointed out that this had been agreed upon on Friday night. The order paper included several references to the G. T. P., answers to questions eliciting the fact that the Government had no survey parties out, had secured no new reports, nor had they expended anything as yet on the eastern section. A lengthy debate took place on Mr. Monk's yearly motion to take action respecting the Montreal Turnpike Trust. A discussion took place last evening on the irregular mail service in western Ontario during the present winter, in the course of which it developed that the Postoffice Department had made exceptional efforts to prevent interruptions.

Cleared Off 48 Items.

The House entered at once, on opening, on a vigorous clearance of the order paper, and in the first hour disposed of 18 items. The first stroke was the second reading given to all the private Bills on the paper, thirteen in number.

Hon. Mr. Fielding asked for delay in presenting a return asked for by Mr. Henderson, with reference to the amount by which the public debt was reduced last year. There was no question it had been reduced by $6,914,126 on the operations of the financial year. It had also been contended that there was a further reduction of $3,305,150 through a readjustment of the accounts with the Provinces. As that was a matter of bookkeeping, Mr. Fielding desired the advice of the Deputy Minister of Finance before committing himself fully to the contention that that was a reduction.

Cotton Growing in Canada.

Mr. Ross of South Ontario was informed that the cotton plants are not grown for commercial purposes in Canada. Experiments were made at the Experimental Farm in 1890 and 1892, but they were not successful.

Mr. Fielding informed the House that a commissioner had been appointed to investigate the condition of the lumber trade in Manitoba, the Northwest Territories and British Columbia, but no evidence was offered and the commissioner had asked to be released from his commission. If further representations are made the Government is prepared to take further action.

The House adjourned at 8.50.

Catholic Disabilities Bill.

London, March 29.—The Imperial Protestant Federation, representing forty-nine British and colonial Protestant bodies, has circularized members of Parliament other than Roman Catholic members, urging their attendance in the House of Commons when the Roman Catholic Disabilities Removal Bill comes on, and asking that they vote against it. The object of the bill is to remove all disabilities on the statute book affecting the Roman Catholic Church. The Federation declares that the result of the bill would be to throw open the throne of England and the Viceroyalty and Chancellorship of Ireland to a Roman Catholic.

A Decisive Vote.

Paris, March 29.—By the decisive majority of 316 to 269, the Chamber of Deputies last night passed the Government bill for the suppression of all forms of teaching by the religious orders. This completes the work begun by the former Premier, M. Waldeck-Rousseau, in 1901.

GENERAL LYTTELTON.

First Military Member of Great Britain's New Army Council.

The first military member of the new Army Council is General the Hon. Neville Gerald Lyttelton, who is the uncle of the Colonial Secretary. He is no stranger to the War Office and its ways, since for two years he was private secretary to Mr. Childers there. He served with distinction in the Egyptian war, held various home commands, but made his reputation in South Africa, where so many others lost theirs. General Lyttelton was in all the hard fighting at the Tugela, and succeeded to the command of the Second Division of the Natal Army in February, 1900, during the illness of General Clery. He was in command of the troops chasing Dowet in Cape Colony and the Orange River Colony in the early months of 1901, and was then in command in Natal. In June, 1902, when Lord Kitchener returned home, General Lyttelton took over the command of all the troops in South Africa. Like all his family, he is a good cricketer.

Lord Rowton's Estate.

Lord Rowton, Disraeli's private secretary, left an estate valued at £915,000. His will, which was proved in London recently, bears date August 30, 1901, with codicils of March 27, 1902, and November 6, 1903, and the executors are his nephew, Captain Noel Armar Lowry Corry, of 12 Eaton Terrace, and of the Grenadier Guards, who is residuary legatee, and Mr. Henry Manisty, of 1 Howard street, solicitor, to whom he bequeathed £250. His will begins: "As to my papers and manuscripts, I specially request the executors to ask Mr. Arthur E. Scanes, secretary to the Westinghouse Electric Company, of Westinghouse Buildings, Norfolk street, to set them in order, and select and set apart such of them as in his opinion ought to go with the papers of Lord Beaconsfield (which he has arranged for me), and if he will undertake this duty I bequeath to him the sum of £250, and I direct that all such papers and manuscripts as he shall so set apart shall forthwith be delivered to the person entitled to the custody of Lord Beaconsfield's papers."

Subject to a number of personal bequests to relatives and others, and legacies to servants, the testator left his residuary estate to Captain Noel Armar Lowry Corry, the executor, nephew.

Smuggling in Old England.

Smuggling was very generally practiced in England in former times. A London journal says: "Hardly a family upon our coast line has not a smuggling record. Lord Shaftesbury, father of the philanthropist, sat at dinner at Heron Court with the last of the Hooper family, chairman of customs, when, with a great shouting and clatter, a cavalcade of smugglers with wagon loads of smuggled spirits dashed into view. Shaftesbury sprang to the window and called his host. The Chairman of Customs sat down resolutely with his back to the window, nor would he move until the last echo of the train had died away. When, ten minutes later, a troop of mounted excise men pulled up at his door, he was truthfully able to say that he had seen nothing of the lawless ones."

The Broken Bottle.

An almost forgotten story was told recently by Thos McGillicuddy, in his lecture on "Homely People," when the speaker called attention to the fact that there were few, if any, native-born wife-beaters in Canada—that these worthies were invariably imported from the older European countries. He then went on to say:

About fifteen years ago a man was hauled before Police Magistrate Denison, charged with beating his wife. The colonel asked the fellow if he admitted the charge, when the man replied:

"Well, it was this way, yer Worship. I comes home tired, and as 'ungry as a 'awk, and found that supper wasn't ready. We 'ad some 'ot words, the missis and me, and I lost my temper, and I ups and 'its her."

"You acknowledge, then, that you struck her?" queried the magistrate.

"Yes, sir, I 'it 'er first; but I gets the wust of it. Why, she knocked me down with a chair, yer Worship, and then she takes down the motto from the wall, sir, and she smashes it all over my 'ead, and cuts me awfully with the glaws. That's why I'm all plawstered up, yer Worship."

"And what was the motto?" asked the police magistrate.

"It was 'God Bless Our 'Ome,' yer Worship."—Toronto Star.

GALLANT JAPANESE

Hold Their Ground Despite Heavy Fire For Hours.

A BRISK FIGHT AT CHONGJU

Four Russian Officers Were Wounded, Three Seriously—Jap Infantry Arrived Too Late to Participate in the Fight—Admiral Togo's Report of Attempt to Bottle Up Port Arthur.

St. Petersburg, March 30.—The Emperor has received a despatch from General Kuropatkin giving a lengthy report from General Mishtchenko, dated 10 p.m., March 28, which says that an important engagement took place near the town of Chongju, in which the Russians were defeated, retiring in perfect order. The Japanese suffered heavily, but the Russian losses are not stated. Cavalry and infantry on both sides were engaged. The Russians occupied a commanding position. The Japanese fought gallantly, but, owing to their heavy losses, were unable to occupy the position abandoned by the Russians.

Gen. Kuropatkin's Report.

General Kuropatkin's report to the Czar is as follows: I have the honor to respectfully communicate to Your Majesty the report of General Mischtchenko, dated March 28 at 10 p.m., which says: For three consecutive days our small outposts attempted to draw the Japanese cavalry into action, but their patrols, after contact was established, retired beyond Chongju, about 50 miles northwest of Pingyang. Having learned that four squadrons of the enemy were posted five versts beyond Chongju, on March 27, six companies marched toward Kasan and, on March 28 reached Chongju at 10.30 a.m. As soon as our scouts approached the town the enemy opened fire from behind the hill. Two squadrons promptly dismounted and occupied the heights, 600 yards distant. An engagement ensued.

Japs Held Their Ground.

In the town a company of infantry and a squadron of cavalry were lying in ambush. Our men were reinforced by three companies and attacked the Japanese with a cross fire. Nothwithstanding this and our commanding position, the Japanese gallantly held their ground, and it was only after a fierce fight of half an hour's duration that the Japanese ceased fire and sought refuge in the houses. The Japanese hoisted the red cross flag at two points.

Soon afterwards three squadrons of the enemy were seen advancing along the Kasan road at full gallop toward the two, which two of the squadrons succeeded in entering, while the third fell back in disorder under repeated volleys from our troops. A number of men and horses were seen to fall.

Fired on Japs For an Hour.

For an hour afterward our companies continued to fire on the Japanese in the town, preventing them from leaving the streets and houses. An hour and a half after the beginning of the engagement four companies were seen on the Kasan road, hastening to attack. I gave the order to mount, and the entire force with a covering squadron, advanced in perfect order and formed in line behind the hill. The wounded were placed in front and the retirement was carried out with the deliberation of a parade.

The Japanese squadron which was thrown into disorder was evidently unable to occupy the hill which we had just evacuated and their infantry arrived too late.

Three Officers Wounded.

The detachment protecting our rear guard arrived quietly at Kasas, where we halted for two hours in order to give attention to our wounded. At 9 p.m. our forces reached Noosan. It is supposed that the Japanese had heavy losses in men and horses. On our side, unfortunately, three officers were severely wounded—Stepanoff and Androonkein in the chest and Vaselvitch in the stomach. Schilnikoff was less seriously wounded in the arm, but did not leave the field. Three Cossacks were killed and 12 were wounded, including five seriously. General Mishechenko bears witness to the excellent conduct and gallantry of officers and Cossacks, and especially praises the third company of the Argunsk Regiment, commanded by Krasnastanoff.

Still Not Bottled.

Tokio, March 30.—Admiral Baron Yamamoto, Minister of Marine, read Vice-Admiral Togo's account of the sixth Japanese attack on Port Arthur in the Lower House of the Japanese Diet yesterday. The report was received with tremendous applause. Admiral Yamamoto referred feelingly to the heroic death of an officer, who was killed in the engagement, and dwelt on the great difficulty of bottling up Port Arthur effectively. He said that this project was still far from completion. Continuing, the Minister of Marine declared that the revival of martial spirit at Port Arthur since the arrival there of Vice-Admiral Makaroff was apparent, and he expressed the hope that the Russians would emerge boldly from the harbor and attack the Japanese fleet. The House unanimously adopted a resolution encouraging the Government, praising the navy and pledging itself to spare no cost in the prosecution of the war.

Story of Fight March 27.

Admiral Togo says: "About 3.30 a.m. of the 27th of March the bottling up squadron, composed of four ships, escorted by four torpedo boat destroyer flotilla and torpedo boat flotilla, reached outside of Port Arthur and without minding the searchlights of the enemy steered straight toward the entrance of the harbor.

"At about two marine leagues from the entrance of the harbor the bottling-up squadron was discovered by the enemy. Thereupon the shore batteries and guardships showered hot fire upon the squadron, but in spite of a terrific fire the ships made their way into the inner roadstead, one after the other. The steamer Chiyo Maru anchored at a position about half a cable from the Golden Hill, blew up itself and sank. The Fukia Maru passed a little ahead of the Chiyo Maru by its left side, and at the moment when she was lowering anchor was shot by a torpedo from the enemy's destroyers and sunk in that position. Hachi Hiko Maru anchored to the left of the Fukia Maru and blew up itself and sank. Yoneyama Maru, colliding with the stern of one of the enemy's torpedo boat destroyers, passed between the Chiyo Maru and Fukia Maru and anchored in the middle of the roadstead. At this moment the ship was shot by a torpedo from the enemy and consequently, by reason of that torpedo, she was carried toward the left shore and sank sideways. The result of the action being as above described there is some space left between Hach Hiko Maru and Yoneyama Maru. It is a matter of regret that the roadstead could not be completely closed up.

"The casualities were as follows:

"Killed — Commander Hiroserako, one under officer and two sailors.

"Seriously wounded — Sub-Lieut. Shimada.

"Slightly wounded—Lieut. Masaki, Engineer Kurita and six sailors. The remainder were safely taken in by our torpedo boat destroyers flotilla and torpedo boat flotilla.

"Of the torpedo boat flotilla, the Oadaka and the Tsubano, while escorting the 'bottling-up squadron,' and at about one mile from the entrance of Port Arthur engaged in a fight with one destroyer of the enemy, and inflicted serious damage on her. The enemy's ship retreated raising an enormous column of steam as if her boiler was broken."

Commerce Paralyzing.

London, March 30.—A correspondent of The Times at Newchwang, cabling under yesterday's date, says: "The Russians to-day ordered the American flag on the correspondent's mess to be hauled down." The proclamation of martial law completely paralyzes the whole commerce of this port.

London, March 30.—The Associated Press learns that the British Government has no intention of protesting against the Russian action in declaring martial law at Newchwang.

FIRST AID TO THE INJURED.

The Globe speaks of a deplorable instance of an almost fatal display of ignorance as follows:—

"Monday morning accidents are almost proverbial in their frequency, but few are quite so striking as one that happened before 9 o'clock Monday morning in a large manufacturing establishment in Toronto. One of the employees was unfortunate enough to rupture a varicose vein in his leg a short fistance above the ankle. A fellow-workman at once offered to take him to the Emergency Hospital, which was about two blocks away. The two set off walking. No effort seems to have been made by anyone to stop the hemorrhage. The loss of blood went on unchecked, and the unfortunate man just managed, with his comrade's aid, to stagger to the hospital and sank down fainting on the threshold. Had medical aid been delayed three minutes longer he probably would never have returned to consciousness, and, in spite of the promptest action on the part of the surgeons and nurses on duty at the Emergency Hospital, he now lies in a critical condition from the loss of blood. Hardly had the two men disappeared into the hospital than they were followed by a police officer, whose suspicions—not unnaturally—had been aroused by the blood-stains on the pavement—an action which appears to furnish about the only trace of intelligence apparent in the whole story!

Could a better argument than this incident be adduced by those who maintain that our schools, and perhaps especially our night schools, should teach first aid to the injured? If my fellow employee, or any "man in the street" whom the sufferer passed on his way to the hospital, had known enough to make firm pressure on the right spot with an improvised bandage or even with his finger, then all this inconvenience and suffering, and the possible loss of a valuable life, would have been prevented.

OLD COUNTRY WORKINGMEN.

When, a couple of years ago, an American contractor went to England to do work for the Westinghouse Electric Company, his grievance was that he could not get English workingmen who had the life and dash which he required, says Kingston Whig.

It was put on record—as a tribute to this contractor's skill, wisdom and diplomacy—that he organized labour on a new plan, that he inspired it with new ideas, and that he surprised the English labour world with his accomplishments.

Now it is an American capitalist that pays tribute to the energy and vigour of the old land workingmen. This compliment is from Wallace Downey, of New York, and he offered it at Washington and before a committee of Congress.

And what is his evidence? He stated that the Scotch, the Irish, or the English labourers in the shipyards at Glasgow could do 50 per cent. more work with the same tools in the same time than could be done by the American shipyard workers. It had cost him $500,000 in the last five years to find it out. He spent $50,000 in purchasing the best tools, in acquiring knowledge of methods in Glasgow, and he tried for three years to show American workmen that they could accomplish more by doing piecework. They could not see it that way and the shipbuilding interests suffered in consequence."

Americans boast of what they know and of what they can do. They cannot build boats with the old country firms, and the candid acknowledgment to this effect of one who has paid dearly for his experience is a revelation.

SOME ADVICE TO PARENTS.

Some good advice is handed out to parents by the Kingston Whig, which says:—

"Parents are getting serious and impressive lessons in some passing events. The police court records do not usually afford pleasant reading, and to them one need not turn with any sense of pleasure. Occasionally they give the sensitive nature an intense shock.

Who that is associated with moral education and moral reform can read, without depressing effects, the story of erring youth? The waywardness of boys and girls is painful enough at any time, but the revelations of the court during the last week were such as to startle some people. Two girls, in one case, spent the afternoon in the company of two young men, visiting certain drinking resorts and in carousing with certain other evil spirits. The fact that mere girls can press themselves into places where they should not be is, in the first place, an evidence of that depravity of nature which is an alarming characteristic of the times. The fact that it goes on, without the knowledge and intervention of parents is, however, the experience it is hard to understand.

Sometimes parents will sit in court and hear from their children a recital that ought to chill the blood. Sometimes they will undertake to palliate offences, and under circumstances that are very peculiar to say the least of them.

Parents must wake up. Every one who is concerned about the morals of the community must bestir himself. There is a kind of stupor upon the people. Men and women either slumber or are strangely indifferent over a condition of things that, marked by what transpires in the police court, are enough to make them think, very seriously, about the duty they owe to their friends and others."

A SPRING NEED.

Indoor Confinement in Winter Hard on the Health.

Ninety-nine people out of every hundred actually need a tonic during the spring months, and the hundredth person would make no mistake if he too infused a little extra vigour and power into his blood. The reason for this condition is quite apparent. In the desire to make Canadian houses warm during the winter months, ventilation is sacrificed, and the health is impaired. There may be nothing seriously wrong—nothing more than a variable appetite; little pimples or eruptions of the skin; a feeling of weariness and a desire to avoid exertion; perhaps an occasional headache. These may not seem serious; perhaps you may think that the trouble will pass away—but it won't unless you drive it out by putting the blood right with a health-giving tonic. And there is only one blood-renewing, health-giving, nerve-restoring tonic—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Over and over again it has been proved that these pills cure when other medicines fail, and thousands of grateful people testify that they are the best of all spring medicines. Miss D. Brown, Collina, N.B., says: "I have used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for a run down system, and have found them better than any other medicine I have tried. In the early spring my blood was out of condition and I had such dizzy spells that if I turned quickly I would almost fall. I took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for a few weeks and the trouble entirely disappeared. I think these pills an ideal spring medicine."

If you want to be healthy in spring don't dose your system with harsh, griping purgatives, and don't experiment with other so-called tonics. Take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at once and see how quickly they will banish all spring ailments. Sold by medicine dealers everywhere, or sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CANADIAN FOOD PRODUCTS IN ENGLAND.

Shippers Should Brand Their Goods as "Canadian."

The Advertising the Product in Great Britain Would be Profitable—Canadian Butter in Danish Kiels.

The following is the report of Mr. A. W. Grindley, agent of the Department of Agriculture, in Great Britain, regarding Canadian Food Products in Great Britain.

Canadian food products are often sold in Great Britain to the consumer, as being the product of Great Britain, or the product of some other product, the produce of which may command a higher price on the markets. The only thing that can be done is for the Canadian shippers to brand "Canada" or "Canadian" on everything, and advertise freely in the British trade journals. A few Canadian firms have followed this plan, and to-day their brands are in demand and are known as "Canadian produce," but this position has only been gained by spending a lot of money in advertising. Financial returns are what the average shipper looks for, and if he receives more money by having his goods sold as the product of some other country, he very naturally pockets the higher price, and says nothing. It is a "very slow game" getting the British people to change their idea or tastes; to "play the game," one must have lots of time and spend money freely; this the average Canadian exporter cannot afford to do, but Canadian goods are gradually, if slowly, gaining in favour. This gain in favour is chiefly due to the fine quality of the Canadian goods. International competition is so keen to capture the British market that there is no room to try "fake games" and I am sorry to say that the only way to make some Canadian shippers honest is by act of Parliament. Great good has already been done by "The Fruit Marks Act." Our dairy products are landing each season in more perfect condition — this is due to the close inspection kept in Canada over the manufacture of cheese and butter, to the improvement of the cheese factories and creameries, but also largely due to the "Government Cool Curing Rooms" for the cheese, and the improved "cool" and "cold" storage for food products on the various steamship lines running from Canada to the different British ports.

CANADIAN BUTTER PACKED IN DANISH KIELS.

Mr. Grindley also reports as follows concerning the packing of Canadian butter in Danish Kiels.

The butter packed in this style is the best quality of "Canadian Creamery," and is put up in this shape by the shippers who receive their instructions from consignees on this side—most of it comes with no mark except what is on the sacking which covers the cask—if any mark is on the cask, it can easily be erased. There is no doubt that the bulk of the butter packed in this style is sold as "Choicest Danish."

Only a few Canadian firms ship butter in "Kiels" or eggs in the "Foreign" or "Irish" case.

Canada in the majority of cases does not get credit for her food products. One never sees in British retail shops "Canadian Cheese," "Canadian Butter," "Canadian Eggs," "Canadian Bacon" or "Canadian Beef." A few Canadian firms are advertising their goods and in time our goods may be called for, but as yet the average British consumer does not care where his food comes from as long as it suits his taste and the price is reasonable. As a general rule the wholesale firms buy and sell goods for what they are, the funny work is done by the retailer, and the consumers are the only ones who are deceived, and they don't care if the quality is good.

Under the "Merchandise Marks Act," of Great Britain, goods can enter the country with no mark or any mark that will lead persons astray as to where the goods come from—for example if you put Boston on goods, the party concerned would be fined, as there is a Boston in England, but Boston, Mass., or Boston, U.S.A., would be safe. "Nova Scotia" on apples from that Province would be allowed, as "Nova Scotian" apples are classed by themselves. "Eggs come from Canada packed in the "Foreign" or "Irish" case which holds 1,440 eggs. These are sold as "Irish" or "Selected Danish" whichever may bring the highest price. American and Canadian bacon and hams are sent from port of landing to English smoke-houses and appear on the market as "Wiltshire," "Cumberland," "Yorkshire," "Berkshire," or any other favourite brand. Of course if you could prove a case where marks were forged the parties concerned would be heavily fined, but all this funny work is done in cellars or behind the scenes.

THEY ACTUALLY DO THE WORK.

Food Eaten is Worthless Unless Digested Some Stomachs Must Have Help.

Food taken into the stomach, which, from the nature of the food or the condition of the stomach, is not digested, is worse than no food at all. This is a true statement as far as it goes, and a great many dyspeptics go only this far with their reasoning. They argue with themselves that because their stomachs do not do the work given them, they must be given less work; in other words they must be starved. It would be just as sensible for a business man who is unable to do all his own work to cut down his business to his own capacity as it is for a man to starve himself to relieve his stomach. The sensible business man employs help and goes forward with his business. Likewise the sensible dyspeptic will employ help for his stomach and give his body proper nourishment.

Stuart's Dyspeptic Tablets actually do the work assigned to them. They relieve weak and overburdened stomachs of a great portion of digestive action. Their component parts are identical with those of the digestive fluids and secretions of the stomach and they simply take up the grind and carry on the work just the same as a good strong, healthy stomach would do it.

On this account Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are perfectly natural in their action and effects. They do not cause any unnatural or violent disturbance in the stomach or bowels. They themselves digest the food and supply the system with all the nourishment contained in what is eaten and carry out Nature's plans for the sustenance and maintenance of the body.

How much more sensible is this method than that employed by many sufferers from weak stomachs. By this means the body and brain get all the good nutritious food they need and the man is properly nourished and equipped to carry on his work and perform his duties. He could not possibly be in proper working condition by starving himself or employing some new fangled, insufficient food that does not contain enough nutriment for a year old baby. A strong man doing strong work must be properly fed, and this applies to the brain as well as the body.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, by relieving the stomach of its work, enable it to recuperate and regain its normal health and strength. Nature restores the worn and wasted tissues just as she heals and knits the bones of a broken limb, which is of course not used during the process of repair.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a box, and they are the one article that the druggist does not try to sell something in the place of that is "just as good." Their unqualified merit and success and the universal demand for them has placed them within the reach of every one.

MAJORITY OF THREE

Opposition's Efforts to Secure Snap Verdict Defeated.

A FOURTEEN HOURS' SESSION

Hon. Mr. Marcourt Explains Increase in School Inspectors' Salaries—Many Government Bills Advanced in the Legislature, Although Members Were Tired—Debate on the County Councils Bill.

Toronto, March 30.—With a full majority of three, the Ontario Government at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, after a session of over fourteen hours, carried Mr. Preston's amendment to the motion of Dr. Beattie Nesbitt, providing for a two-cent passenger rate on all roads that may be subsidized in the future. Thus was the effort of the Opposition to secure a snap verdict on an "off" day defeated. The debate, which started at 4 o'clock on Monday afternoon, was concluded by Mr. A. G. MacKay, who, supported by weighty authorities, dealt very cleverly with the various phases of the subject for three hours. The other speakers after midnight were Messrs. Gross, Conmee and Thompson. It was about 7.45 when the missing Government members arrived in the Chamber and the Speaker was permitted to put the question. The amendment was carried on a straight party vote of 44 to 41. The pairs were Hon. F. R. Latchford and D. Murphy, J. R. Barber and D. Jamieson. The absentees on the Liberal side were Messrs. Tudhope, Caldwell, Cameron (Fort William) and Lee, on the Conservative side, Messrs. Carscallen (Hamilton), Power, Lackner and Beck. The House adjourned at 8.20 a.m. Two hours later the select committee were hard at work, just as though nothing unusual had happened, but occasionally hon. members of the House were observed snatching "forty winks" amid the noisy altercation of lawyers and contending parties.

The House again went into session shortly after 3 o'clock, and a number of Government bills were advanced a stage. In the midst of a discussion surprisingly animated, in view of the circumstances, on the County Councils bill, the adjournment of the House was moved at 6 o'clock, and needless to say there was no opposition.

The Attorney-General's bill respecting weather insurance was read a third time.

A number of Government bills were put through committee. Some discussion took place on Hon. Mr. Harcourt's measure providing for the increasing of the salaries of Public School Inspectors. The Minister pointed out that $2 per school was added up to 120 schools. He hoped to bring the number down to 100 before long. Mr. Whitney thought it should be reduced to that number at once, but Mr. Harcourt said the difficulties were too great at the present time. The Minister showed how the increased salary would work out in various counties, the Brant inspector will get an additional $100 per annum, Bruce $180, Dufferin $234, Dundas $218, Waterloo $102.

Dr. Lackner expressed the opinion that Waterloo should have two inspectors. One man could not possibly look after 201 schools. Mr. Harcourt agreed that there should be two inspectors, but the matter largely rested with the County Council.

Mr. St. John thought that the men who were underpaid now were those who had less than 100 schools and these under the bill would get a smaller increase than those who had more than 100 schools. He suggested a flat rate of $1,000 for all inspectors and $5 per school. Mr. Harcourt, however, thought the plan in the bill would be more symmetrical and more satisfactory to the inspectors and County Councils. The bill was reported without amendment.

On the second reading of the bill respecting County Councils, which modifies the measure passed last session providing for a return to the old system of constituting County Councils with the exception of Deputy Reeves, Premier Ross intimated that it was the intention that the present County Councils should have another complete term. If the bill passed, the vote in the various municipalities could be taken next January, but it would not take effect until two years from that date. Should the bill be defeated, however, the change provided by the bill of last session would come into force in January next. The point before the House now was, should the change go into effect on a vote of the municipal councils or of the electors?

"Now is the proper time to come to a reasonable conclusion about this meddling with the constitution of County Councils," said Mr. Whitney. He maintained that there could not be found in the boundaries of the Province any class of people to-day in favor of preserving the County Council law but the County Councils.

Premier Ross said the bill of last session was not a Government measure, nor could this be regarded as one in the ordinary sense of the term. He thought it was an improvement on the bill of last year, a majority of the electors seemed to him to be a more equitable expression of opinion than a majority of the Municipal Councils.

Mr. J. Tucker (West Wellington) thought there should be a uniform system all over the Province, and moved the six months' hoist.

Mr. Reid moved the adjournment of the debate, which was carried.

An item supply bill to meet the most pressing needs of Civil Government was passed.

No money is wanted—from you—nor from him. I ask only a postal card, and I ask it as an act of humanity.

I will send him my book. I will arrange with a druggist that he may take six bottles Dr. Shoop's Restorative. He may take it a month at my risk. If it succeed the cost if $5.50. If it fail, I pay the druggist myself. And the sick one's mere word shall decide it.

Could I meet you—for even ten minutes—I would forever convince you that I have what these sick ones need. More than that, they must have it, for most of them can never get well without it.

But I can meet only a few, so I take this means to convince you. I let you take it a month to prove what it can do, and you can pay or I will pay, just as you decide.

I have found the cured ones fair. In the past twelve years I have furnished my Restorative to hundreds of thousands on these terms, and 39 out of 40 have paid—and paid gladly—because they were cured. I will pay just as willingly if you say I have failed.

My Restorative is the result of my lifetime's work in learning how to strengthen the inside nerves.

I don't doctor the organs, but I bring back the nerve power which alone operates every vital organ. I give the weak organ power to do its duty, as you would give a weak engine more steam.

My way never fails, save when a cause—like Cancer—makes a cure impossible. No case is to odifficult, for I have watched the remedy succeed in the most desperate cases that physicians ever meet.

You know some sick one who will be well with my help. Won't you let me furnish the help?

DAY ON ESTIMATES

Public Works Votes for Ontario and Quebec.

OSHAWA POSTOFFICE SITE

Mr. Sutherland Challenges an Investigation—Toronto Pneumatic Mail Service Vote Deferred—Better Quarters For the Supreme Court—New Departmental Building—Ontario Buildings Provided.

Ottawa, March 30.—A day in supply saw the House make fair progress on the Public Works estimates yesterday. Desultory discussions were the vehicle for a couple of important announcements by Hon. Jas. Sutherland, to the effect that he intended recommending the erection of better quarters for the Supreme Court of Canada, and a new departmental building to house the branches now scattered in various parts of Ottawa. The attitude of the Opposition was generally critical, and, in reply to vague remarks by Mr. T. I. Thomson respecting the Oshawa postoffice site purchase, Mr. Sutherland challenged the member to make a charge, but it was not forthcoming. The Ontario items all passed, except the vote for a pneumatic mail service in Toronto, which was deferred in the absence of the Postmaster-General. Afterwards the Quebec public works items were taken up and five of them disposed of. Supply will be the program for to-day after routine business.

A number of private bills were introduced.

Grand Trunk Pacific.

The formal Government motion giving The resolution ratifying the agreement with the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company precedence over all other business save introduction of bills, questions by members, and on Mondays private bills, was adopted, on motion of Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

On the motion to go into supply, Mr. R. L. Borden inquired whether all the correspondence and documents relating to the amendment to the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company had been brought down.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied that the return brought down contained all the demands made by the company and all the concessions made by the Government.

BLOW TO CLASSIC CITY.

Master Mechanic of the Shops at Stratford Will Give 200 Notice to Quit April 1.

Stratford, March 30.—Robert Patterson, master mechanic of the G. T.R. shops, returned to the city yesterday morning, bringing the unwelcome news that as a result of the losses sustained by the company during the severe winter, the extension of the shops will not only be delayed, but there will be a large reduction of the present staff.

"How many men will be laid off?" Mr. Patterson was asked.

"About two hundred," was the answer.

The present staff of workmen numbers about 900, 250 of whom were added during the past year. The reduction will, therefore, bring the staff down to its normal strength, about 650.

G.T.R. Fireman Burned.

Woodstock, March 30.—A distressing accident occurred in the yards of the Grand Trunk Railway here yesterday morning. John McMullen of Sarnia, the fireman on a freight train was engaged in shoveling coal into the firebox of his engine when the engineer, reaching the stopping point in the station yards, suddenly shut off the steam. This action created a strong current of air in the box, which rushed towards the open door, carrying with it an immense flame of fire. The fireman received the full force of the blaze on the head and chest. His clothing ignited and before the flame was gotten under control he was terribly burned about the face, head, shoulders and chest.

G.T.R. Gold Bonds.

London, March 30.—A circular was issued yesterday to the proprietors of the Grand Trunk, inviting applications for £101,000 first mortgage 4 per cent. fifty-year gold bonds of the Grand Trunk Western Railway, the bonds to be redeemable in 1950 and the first coupon payable in full on July 1 next. The Grand Trunk Railway unconditionally guarantees the interest on the bonds.

Bills Disallowed.

Ottawa, March 30.—The Dominion Government has disallowed two more bills passed by the British Columbia Legislature during the session of 1903. One is an act to regulate immigration into British Columbia, and the other to further amend the Coal Mines Regulation Act. Both bills are directed against the employment of Japanese and Chinese.

Canadian Wheat Good.

Ottawa, March 30.—The committee of the National Millers' Association of Great Britain reported very highly of the Canadian wheat, which gave good crops the first year and graded much higher than the English wheat, which had a baking strength of sixty, as compared with the Red Fyfe, Percy and Preston, all of which rated eighty.

$200,000 Fire at Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, March 30.—The machine shops of the Pittsburg Valve Foundry and Constructing Company at 26th street, were destroyed by fire last night. The loss will probably reach $200,000.

St. Thomas Bylaw Fails.

St. Thomas, March 29.—The voting on the bylaw to grant $15,000 to Alma College was defeated by 15 ratepayers of St. Thomas yesterday by a majority of 11. The ballots favor numbered 633, with 6[illegible] against.

A PROMINENT COLLEGE MAN.

One of Indiana's Useful Educators Says: "I Feel Like a New Man."

MR. JOHN W. MENG.

Mr. John W. Meng, 54 Jefferson Ave., Indianapolis, Ind., State Representative of Indianapolis Business College, writes:

"I firmly believe that I owe my fine health to Peruna. Constant travel and change of food and water wrought havoc with my stomach, and for months I suffered with indigestion and catarrh of the stomach. I felt that the only thing to do was to give up my occupation which I felt very reluctant to do. Seeing an ad. of Peruna as a specific for catarrh I decided to give it a trial, and used it faithfully for six weeks, when I found that my troubles had all disappeared and I seemed like a new man. I have a bottle of Peruna in my grip all the time, and occasionally take a few doses which keeps me in excellent health."—John W. Meng.

THE most common phases of summer catarrh are catarrh of the stomach and bowels. Peruna is a specific for summer catarrh.

Hon. Willis Brewer, Representative in Congress from Alabama, writes the following letter to Dr. Hartman:

House of Representatives,
Washington, D. C.

The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O.:

Gentlemen—"I have used one bottle of Peruna for lassitude, and I take pleasure in recommending it to those who need a good remedy. As a tonic it is excellent. In the short time I have used it it has done me a great deal of good."—Willis Brewer.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

For her Services

On Sunday afternoon last Mrs. Chas. Stewart, who has very efficiently filled the position of organist at Grace Methodist Sunday School for some time past, was made the recipient of a book from the teachers and officers of the school in recognition of her services to the school. Regret was expressed that Mrs Stewart's removal from town necessitated the severance of her connection with Grace Sunday School.

On April 12th, under the auspices of St. John's church Guild, the amusing play, "Aunt Jerusha Dow's Family Album," under the direction of Miss Alma F. McCollum, will be given in the school house. About forty persons will take part in the play. Admission 25 cents.

A SAD DEATH FROM DIPHTHERIA

Mrs. Geo. Moncrief Died After Losing Two Children.

A particularly sad death occurred last night at St. Joseph's Hospital. Mrs. Geo. Moncrief, who had previously lost two children from diphtheria, herself contracted the disease and was taken to the Hospital Sunday night. She rapidly became worse, however, until her death occurred. It will be remembered that one child died in the hospital some weeks ago, and another died in the ambulance while being taken to the hospital, and now the mother has fallen a victim to the disease which deprived her of two of her offspring.

Her husband, who resides at 440 Smithbrooke street, with a number of small children are left to mourn her loss.

The funeral took place to-day.

T. A. S. "AT HOME" TO BE A SUCCESS.

These are the Indications as Evidenced at Last Night's Meeting.

The Ladies' Literary Committee of St. Peter's T.A.S. held a meeting last evening at which formal arrangements were made for the "at home" to be held in the rooms on Easter Monday evening. Complete preparations have been made for a most enjoyable evening, and the indications are that it will also be most successful. As the proceeds are to be devoted to the hockey club it is expected that all members and the friends of the club will participate in making the "at home" a grand success.

PETERBOROUGH'S STREET RAILWAY.

Agreement Between Mr. Stuart and Radial Railway Co.

The Engineer Will be in Town Shortly and Operations in Construction Will be Begun at Once.

Mr. R. M. Dennistoun informed the Examiner this morning that the Peterborough Radial Railway Company and Mr. Stuart, of the American Cereal Company, had arrived at a re-agreement regarding the Street Railway. He further said that the engineer would arrive in town shortly, and the construction work will be begun immediately. The rails of the old railway will, as soon as possible, be taken up and re-laid, and it is expected that cars will be running in the early summer months. The former line will be extended to Ashburnham, Jackson's Park, and the river below the locks.

All this will be very gratifying news to Peterborough citizens. The need of a street railway has been badly felt. For a town of its population Peterborough covers an exceptionally large area, and this with the coming of the street car, can be covered by the citizens with no exertion and but little expense. This alone is one of the many benefits which the street railway will bring along with it.

BACHELORS' CLUB ENTERTAINED LADIES.

A Pleasant Gathering Last Night in Long's Palm Parlours.

It was a pleasant company which last night gathered at Long's Palm Parlour, as the guests of the Bachelors' Club, of which Mr. E. Best is president. The guests were a number of the young ladies in town, who had shown numerous kindnesses to the young men constituting the membership of the club, and the affair was arranged in order that the young ladies, who were the guests, might be shown that their kindness was appreciated. In the early part of the evening the party spent a few pleasant hours at the residence of Messrs W. and S. Warne, also members of the club, and an adjournment was made to Long's, where a sumptuous repast was served in splendid style by Mr. Long. A very pleasing programme of toasts was given, in which, in addition to the regular toasts those of "The Guests," "The Ladies," "The Leap Year Girl" and "The Bachelors' Club" were honoured. Among those who delivered clever speeches in connection with these toasts were: Messrs. Hetherington, Best, Moore, Boomer, Cochrane, Warne, Jolliffe and others.

The evening was a most pleasing one, and all present thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

STUDENTS' SOCIAL AT THE Y. M. C. A.

A Pleasant Evening Provided Last Night by College Bible Class.

A most enjoyable evening was spent by the Business College and non-resident Business College students, at the Y.M.C.A. parlours last evening, when a reception was tendered them by the College Bible Class led by Mr. W. B. Stacey. Each guest wore ribbons of either Japan or Russian colours, and the game contests of "Bowling," "Pit" and "A Penny for Your Thoughts," partook of a contest between the two—the Russians winning in the latter by 58 to 45.

A short programme was given, consisting of gramaphone selections, recitation by Mr. J. T. Anderson, song by "Cap" Sproule, accordeon selection by Mr. Sackville, and short speeches by Messrs. Williamson and Stacey.

Refreshments were served; and after a hearty vote of thanks to the Association the gathering closed with a hymn and prayer.

THE INHABITANTS RESCUED IN BOATS.

A Serious Flood Being Experienced in Belleville

Worst in a Number of Years 18 Inches of Water on Parlour Floors—More Trouble Expected.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Belleville, March 30 — About two o'clock this morning the ice took another shove and as a result the water in the Moira River began to rise very rapidly, flowing on to several streets on the west side. Many people were awakened by the water rushing through their houses, and this morning some had 18 inches on the parlour floor. The flood at present is the worst known in many years. Two of the three bridges are impassable. This morning corporation employees had to go around with boats rescuing the inhabitants of flooded houses. A large pack of ice is still back at Corbyville; if that comes down shortly the trouble will be of a grave character.

A SLICK SCHEME NIPPED IN BUD.

Wm. Armstrong Sent out Alluring Advertisements.

Wanted Men to go to St. Louis?—And Incidentally got $5 From Each.

William Armstrong was arrested this afternoon in the post office by Dominion Detective Parkinson, on the charge of obtaining money under false pretences. Armstrong has been advertising extensively in Toronto and other city daily papers for young men to go to St. Louis to attend to special exhibit. He extracted five dollars from a large number of innocents who answered these alluring advertisements, and was in the act of opening a registered letter when arrested. Replies to the advertisements being addressed to box 848, Peterborough, and Armstrong's mail has been an extensive one. He had $25 in his pockets when arrested, and it is believed that he has been raking in a large amount of money. He claims to hail from Pittsburg.

EFFECTIVE ADVERTISING.

Evidences that the Examiner want advt's are productive of results are not wanting, and this fact will be admitted when it is learned that during this week there have been restored to their owners through the medium of Ads. in the Examiner, two silver watches, a purse with money, a waterproof cape, and an umbrella. These results have been attained in addition to a multitudinous number of replies that have been received to notices advertising room to let, etc.

If you have anything you want to dispose of or obtain, the surest way to accomplish your object is by placing an advertisement in the Examiner want columns.

LACROSSE.

The Toronto Star, of which Mr. W. A. Hewitt is sporting editor, has this to say of Mr. F. A. Clark, Peterborough's candidate for the Council of the C.L.A. All that the Star says of Fred's qualifications is true:—"Fred A. Clark, manager of the Peterborough Athletics, is a popular candidate for the C.L.A. Council. Mr. Clark is well versed in lacrosse matters, and should prove a most valuable man in the deliberations of the Council. He is bright and energetic and should be elected."

* * * *

The Lindsay Lacrosse Club will be organized for the season at a meeting to be held this evening.

ONTARIOS STILL UNORGANIZED

Port Hope, March 26.—The second attemp. to organize the Ontario Lacrosse Club for the coming season was without success. Very few people attended the meeting, and none of last year's officials were on hand. Their absence from the meetings is causing a great deal of dissatisfaction among the local enthusiasts, who think it time that some definite arrangements were made. Senior Lacrosse will hardly be played here this season, as the sporting fraternity feel that too much expense would be involved, and some of them are still paying interest on last year's expenses. Should the Ontarios disband a team will be selected from the Town League, and entered in the junior C.L.A. series. This would mean a team of home-brews, just as good a drawing card as a team of ringers in the senior series.

BASEBALL.

A meeting of last year's Shamrock Baseball Club was held last night in the T.A.S. Rooms, when it was decided that this year the club shall be known as the "T.A.S. Baseball Club," and will enter the City League. Messrs. W. Grady and W. Meagher were appointed delegates to the meeting to arrange for the League. Godfrey Coughlin is the secretary-treasurer of the club.

* * * *

A meeting will be held in the National Hotel on Thursday night at eight o'clock to arrange for the formation of a baseball club in connection with the C.G.E..

BASKET-BALL.

The Junior Arrows accept the challenge of the Beavers to a game of basketball. F. McCoy, secretary.

FOOTBALL.

A meeting of the Old Country Wanderers' Football Club will be held in the Crown Hotel to-night at 8 o'clock, and a particularly large attendance is requested as several matters of importance will be transacted. All Englishmen are asked to be present this evening.

HAVELOCK ANXIOUS FOR LACROSSE LEAGUE

May Arrange a Base ball Group Sporting News From the Railway Town.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Havelock, March 28th. — Peterborough and Havelock Lacrosse Teams have organized and are patiently waiting to hear from Belleville and Campbellford, so we can at once make arrangements for the forming of a Trent Valley League. Now is the time to do this business as the season will soon be upon us.

The baseball enthusiasts of the town are anxiously waiting to hear from Campbellford, Marmora and other towns about making arrangements for a schedule of games to be run off this summer.

Football (ler) has not been talked about at all, it is in the third person. It is not likely that a football club will be organized.

McPherson & McGregor

(Successors to the F. R. J. McPherson Co.)

Take this opportunity of thanking the public for the very liberal patronage accorded the late firm. Trade has been so satisfactory that Mr McGregor decided to increase his interest in the business and, as a consequence, the firm will be known hereafter as McPHERSON & McGREGOR.

Our specialties are:—

Sanitary Plumbing
Sanitary Ventilating
Steam and Hot Water Heating
Electrical Wiring and Supplies

We wish to draw the attention of the public to a few of the many complimentary testimonials received by Mr. McGregor for the high quality of the work he has installed in Plumbing and Heating:—

From the Firm of Bennet & Wright, Plumbing, Heating and Electrical Contractors, Toronto.

This is to certify that Duncan McGregor has been in our employment steady for about fifteen years and during that time we have found him to be steady, honest and trustworthy. He has given every satisfaction as a practical mechanic in each of the following branches: Plumbing, steam and gas fitting, also electrical and conduit work, and for some time has had charge of some of our largest contracts with satisfactory results.

From Illsley & Horn, General Contractors, Toronto.

The bearer, Mr. Duncan McGregor, had charge of the electric wiring at the King Edward Hotel Building. The job was a large and complicated one and by the way Mr. McGregor handled the work he proved himself a mechanic of more than ordinary ability. We unhesitatingly recommend him as a first class mechanic to anyone needing his services.

From Mr. J. Ross Robertson, of the Evening Telegram.

Mr. Duncan McGregor, who has been connected with the Bennet & Wright Co. for some years, and who has superintended the work of plumbing and heating for the Bennet & Wright Co., is not only in my opinion, but also that of my architect, a fully competent mechanic. His work, my architect informs me, has been most satisfactory. Any thing that has come under my own supervision has been likewise satisfactory.

An Extract Taken from the June Number of Domestic Engineering

During the recent convention of the Canadian Electrical Association held in the King Edward Hotel, a thorough examination was made of all the electrical work in the hotel, and it was pronounced second to none on the continent. Therefore, great credit is due Mr. Duncan MacGregor, who superintended the entire conduit, electrical and power system for the firm of Bennet & Wright, of this city, who were the contractors for all the different branches of the electrical work in the new hotel.

The first Americans had a hard time keeping warm. Their trials are unnecessarily carried into many homes of to-day. For it is unnecessary to put up with the uneven heating of stoves, the dust and impure air of the hot air furnace, and the many other inconveniences of imperfect heating systems when you can get the and Oxford Radiators which form the perfect system of home heating.

The accompanying illustration shows where the water is introduced into the fire-pot at the rear and is thrown by a diaphragm from the rear towards the front of the fire-chamber and then passes over the surface of the horizontal sections. Thus the coldest water of this system is kept on outside of heater preventing the radiation of heat into the cellar.

Enormous Growth.

Ever since Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills were first introduced to the public the sales have steadily increased, each year being larger than the year previous. This is probably the best evidence of their remarkable efficiency, as a treatment for the derangements of the Kidneys, Liver and bowels. They are invaluable as a family medicine.

MR. SPEAKER BELCOURT

FRENCH-CANADIAN WHO FIRST SAW THE LIGHT IN TORONTO.

Some Curious and Interesting Facts Concerning the Personalities of French Members of the Canadian House of Commons—Some of the Attachments of the Office of Speaker—A Most Likeable Man.

It is a curious fact that the only member of the House of Commons who first saw the light in Toronto is a French-Canadian, writes R. K. in The Toronto News. He is also the Speaker, or will be on March 10, if nothing untoward happens. In 1860, when the peripatetic Parliament of old United Canada was putting in its four-year term in Toronto, a son arrived in the household of a civil servant named Belcourt, who, while a faithful and efficient clerk, held no very important post. The youngster was destined to be the future First Commoner of Canada, and he was to show, on his way to that eminence, an indomitable will, combined with a savoir that some politicians lack.

French Members Understand English.

There is not in the House of Commons a single French-Canadian who does not understand English. Perhaps the last representative who was monolingual was one Lippe, a habitant from Joliette. He had no word of the language of the majority. Time did not hang so heavily upon his hands, however, for he slept sixteen hours a day. Since the passing of Lippe, the French-Canadians have had not a single representative who could not get along fairly well in English. Most of them speak it very well. Few of them have no accent. Lemieux, the debonair, good-humored and capable Montrealer, who sits for Gaspe, has no French tang to his syllables. Neither has Belcourt, who passed a good part of his life amidst English-speaking Canadians. Belcourt in especial probably employs English half-a-dozen times to once when he uses French. In Ottawa, where he has a thriving law practice, the language of business and professional life is English. In their homes the French-Canadians use their mother tongue, but in the day's work the more widely understood medium is employed.

Belcourt's Fine Culture.

Belcourt has a fine knowledge of both literatures, and his speeches in the House since, in 1896, he became one of the members for Ottawa, have evinced his fine culture. But he has seldom been heard from. From the Parliament Buildings to the law office of Belcourt and Ritchie is but a couple of minutes' walk. A man with Belcourt's practice cannot well get away from clients when the telephone hangs handy. Neither, it is to be feared, can he escape from the insistent office-hunter. It is to be doubted whether his elevation to the Speakership will exempt Mr. Belcourt from the importunities of the latter class. Mr. Speaker exercises a vast amount of patronage. Here in Toronto the Provincial Government retains for itself the appointment of messengers, sessional clerks and other employes of the Legislature, but in Ottawa the Speaker has all such patronage in his own hands, and most of the incumbents of the position are very jealous of their privileges.

His High Ambition.

It is said by some that Belcourt's ambition is to secure a seat on the Supreme Court Bench. Sir Elzear Taschereau is an old man, and his retirement cannot be long delayed. Belcourt would make an adequate successor. The fashion of appointing nobody but grandfathers to the highest court in the land seems to have become effete, so that his youthfulness could not be brought up in judgment against the new Speaker.

A Most Likeable Man.

Belcourt is one of the most likeable of men. He numbers, probably, more personal friends among the English-speaking Protestant population of Ottawa than any other man of his blood. He is an admirer of that division of our population, but his first love, as it is fitting, is his own people. When he was a younger man, the feeling between classes in Ottawa was not as cordial as it now is, and Belcourt, though he is a broad-minded man, cannot forget sundry hard things that were said by too enthusiastic Protestants. His temper is placid, but it is not muddily stagnant. Not many years ago he flew into a royal rage because a fat-brained English-Canadian thought to pay him a compliment by remarking that he was "a pretty decent fellow for a Frenchman." Belcourt's mildness vanished, and he made a few animated remarks to that complimentary gentleman.

A Self-Confessed Chump.

It was quite characteristic of the man that, ten minutes later, Belcourt said to an English-speaking friend of his, "Well, I'm a chump myself for getting hot at a fool." But the friend didn't think so. And few men would.

The Art of Growing Young.

To retain the spirit of youth while age weakens the body is a splendid thing. There are those of whom we say "He never grows old." Their hair may be whitened, their faces wrinkled and their shoulders bent, but in heart they are young. "If "their strength is labor and sorrow," their lively interest in the things that concern those of younger generations gives no indication of it. Their tenderest and inmost thoughts may be of the past, but they live in the present.

Kidney Disease May Last for Years

Causing Much Pain and Suffering or it may Suddenly Prove Fatal.

Pains in the small of the back, scalding, burning sensations when passing water, and gradual loss of flesh and weight are the unmistakeable symptoms of kidney disease.

If you would prevent Bright's Disease, rheumatism, stone in the bladder, and other dreadfully painful developments of kidney disease, you must act promptly.

If you choose Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, the treatment will not long be pursued before you will find yourself greatly benefitted.

The grand reputation which this great kidney medicine has made for itself is due to no small extent to the wonderful promptness with which it brings relief and cure to the sufferer from backache.

Backache, lumbago, rheumatism, aching sides and limbs result from poisons in the blood, which are entirely eliminated by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

It seems rather unwise to experiment with untried remedies, when you can rely absolutely on this famous prescription of the great receipt book author.

Mr. James Dullihunt, a most respected resident of Consecon, Ont., states:—"I was a sufferer from Bright's Disease for several years, and at times the torture of mind and body were almost beyond endurance. The pains were in my head, between the shoulders and down the whole spine, concentrating across the kidneys, where I was never entirely free from pain. When I got up in the morning I went about bent over almost double. It gave me great pain to urinate and at times the water was very scanty. Medicines seemed to have little or no effect in my case until I began the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. The first dose relieved me and five boxes have entirely cured me. I have no pain in my kidneys and can do as good a day's work as I ever could."

Mr. J. J. Ward, J. P., of Consecon, certifies that he knows Mr. Dellihunt's statement of his cure to be correct and true and without exaggeration.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmunson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations, the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box of his remedies. 8

BY MARY J. HOLMES.

"Aint they splendid in full dress?" Mattie whispered, while Aunt Betsy replied:

"Call that full dress? I'd sooner say it was no dress at all! They'll catch their death of cold. What would their mother say?"

Then, as the enormity of the act grew upon her, she continued more to herself than to Mattie:

"I mistrusted Catherine, but that Helen should come to this passes me."

Still, as she became more accustomed to it, and glanced at other full-dressed ladies, the first shock passed away, and she could calmly contemplate Katy's dress, wondering what it cost, and then letting her eyes past on to Helen, to whom Mark Ray seemed so lover-like that Aunt Betsy remembered her impressions when he stopped at Silverton, her heart swelling with pride as she thought of both the girls making out so well.

"Who is that young man talking to Helen?" Mattie asked, between the acts, and when told it "was Mr. Ray, Wilford's partner," she drew her breath eagerly, and turned again to watch him, envying the young girl who did not seem as much gratified with the attentions as Mattie fancied she should be were she in Helen's place.

How could she, with Juno Cameron just opposite, watching her jealously, while Madam Cameron fanned herself indignantly, refusing to look upon what she so greatly disapproved.

But Mark continued his attentions until Helen wished herself away, and though a good deal surprised, was not sorry when Wilford abruptly declared the opera a bore, and suggested going home.

They would order an ice, he said, and have a much pleasanter time in their own private parlor.

"Please not go, I like the play to-night," Katy said, but on Wilford's face there was that look which never consulted Katy's wishes, and so the two ladies tied on their cloaks, and just as the curtain rose in the last act, left their box, while Aunt Betsy looked wistfully after them, but did not suspect she was the cause of their exit, and of Wilford's perturbation.

Running his eyes over the house below, they had fallen upon the trio, Aunt Betsy, Mattie, and Tom, the first of whom was at that moment partly standing, while she adjusted her heavy shawl, which the heat of the building had compelled her to unfasten.

There was a start, a rush of blood to the head and face, and then he reflected how impossible it was that she should be there, in New York, and at the opera, too.

The shawl arranged, Aunt Betsy took her seat and turned her face fully towards him, while Wilford seized Katy's glass and leveled it at her. He was not mistaken. It was Aunt Betsy Barlow, and Wilford felt the perspiration oozing out beneath his hair and about his lips, as he remembered the letter he had burned, wishing now that he had answered it, and so, perhaps, have kept her from his door. For she was coming there, nay, possibly had come, since his departure from home, and learning his whereabouts had followed on to the Academy of Music, leaving her baggage where he should stumble over it on entering the hall.

Such was the fearful picture conjured up by Wilford's imagination, as he stood watching poor Aunt Betsy, a dark cloud on his brow and fierce anger at his heart, that she should thus presume to worry and annoy him.

"If she spies us she will be finding her way up here; there's no piece of effrontery of which that class is not capable," he thought, wondering next who the vulgar looking girl and gauche youth were who were with her.

"Country cousins, of whom I have never heard, no doubt," and he ground his teeth together as with his next breath he suggested going home, carrying out his suggestion and hurrying both Helen and Katy to the carriage as if some horrible dragon had been on their track.

There was no baggage in the hall; there had been no woman there, and Wilford's fears for a time subsided, but grew strong again about the time he knew the opera was out, while the sound of wheels coming towards his door was sufficient to make his heart stop beating, and every hair prickle at its roots.

But Aunt Betsy did not come except in Wilford's dreams, which she haunted the entire night, so that the morning found him tired, moody and cross. That day they entertained a select dinner party, and as this was something in which Katy excelled, while Helen's presence, instead of detracting from, would add greatly to the eclat of the affair, Wilford had anticipated it with no small degree of complacency. But now, alas, there was a phantom at his side—a skeleton of horror, wearing Aunt Betsy's guise; and if it had been possible he would have given the dinner up. But it was too late for that; the guests were bidden, the arrangements made, and there was nothing now for him but to abide the consequences.

"She shall at least stay in her room, if I have to lock her in," he thought, as he went down to his office without kissing Katy or bidding her good-bye.

Business that day had no interest for him, and in a listless, absent way he sat watching the passers-by from those who had heard of Mrs. Wilford Cameron, of Madison Square, awoke in her the ambition to know more of that lady, and, if possible, gain an entrance to her dwelling. To this end she favored Aunt Betsy's visit, hoping thus to accomplish her object, for, of course, when Miss Barlow went to Mrs. Cameron's, she was the proper person to go with her and point the way. This was the secret of Mattie's letter to Aunt Betsy, and the warmth with which she welcomed her to that tenement on the Bowery, over a clothing store, and so small that it is not strange Aunt Betsy wondered where they all slept, never dreaming of the many devices known to city housekeepers, who can change a handsome parlor into a kitchen or sleeping room, and vice versa, with little or no trouble. But she found it out at last, lifting her hands in speechless amazement, when, as the hour for retiring came, what she had imagined the parlor bookcase was converted into a comfortable bed, on which her first night in New York was passed in comfort if not in perfect quiet.

The next day had been set apart by Mattie for showing their guest the city, and possibly calling on Mrs. Wilford; but the poor old lady, unused to travel and excitement, was too tired to go out, and staid at home the entire day, watching the crowds of people in the street, and occasionally wishing herself back in the clean, bright kitchen, where the windows looked out upon woods and fields instead of that never-ceasing rush which made her dizzy and faint. On the whole she was as nearly homesick as she well could be, and so when Mattie asked if she would like to go out that evening, she caught eagerly at the idea, as it involved a change, and again the opera came before her mind, in spite of her attempts to thrust it away.

"Did 'Tilda know if Katy went to the opera now? Did she s'pose she would be there to-night? Was it far to the show? What was the price?—and was it a very wicked place?

To all these queries Mattie answered readily. She presumed Katy would be there, as it was a new opera. It was not very far. Distance in the city was nothing, and it was not a wicked place but over the price Mattie faltered. Tickets for Aunt Betsy, herself and Tom, who of course must go with them, would cost more than her father had to give. The theatre was preferable, as that came within their means, and she suggested Wallack's, but from that Aunt Betsy recoiled as from Pandemonium itself.

"Catch her at a theatre—a deacon's sister, looked up to for a sample, and who run once for Vice-President of the Sewing Society in Silverton! It was too terrible to think of." But the opera seemed different. Helen went there; it could not be very wrong, particularly as the tickets were so high, and taking out her purse, Aunt Betsy counted its contents carefully, holding the bills thoughtfully for a moment, while she seemed to be balancing between what she knew was safe and what she feared might be wrong, at least in the eyes of Silverton.

"But Silverton will never know it," the tempter whispered, "and it is worth something to see the girls in full dress."

This last decided it, and Aunt Betsy generously offered "to pay the fiddler, provided 'Tilda would never let it get to Silverton, that Betsy Barlow was seen inside a play-house!" To Mrs. Tubbs it seemed impossible that Aunt Betsy could be in earnest, but when she found she was, she put no impediments in her way; and so, conspicuous among the crowd of transient visitors who that night entered the Academy of Music was Aunt Betsy Barlow, chaperoned by Miss Mattie Tubbs, and protected by Tom, a shrewd, well-grown youth of seventeen, who passed for some years older, and consequently was a sufficient escott for the ladies under his charge. This Mattie pointed out to the excited woman gazing about her in a maze of bewilderment, and half doubting her own identity with the Betsy Barlow who, six weeks before, if charged with such a sin as she was now committing, would have exclaimed "Is thy servant a dog, to do this thing?" Yet here she was, a deacon's sister, a candidate for the Vice-Presidency of the Silverton Sewing Society, a woman who, for sixty-three years and a half, had led a blameless life, frowning upon all worldly amusements and setting herself for a burning light to others—here she was in her black dress, her best shawl pinned across her chest, and her bonnet tied in a square bow which reached nearly to her ears. Here she was, in that huge building where the lights were so blinding, and the crowd so great that she shut her eyes involuntarily, while she tried to realize what she could be doing.

"I'm in for it now, anyhow, and if it is wrong may the good Father forgive me," she said softly to herself, just as the orchestra struck up, thrilling her with its ravishing strains, and making her forget all else in her rapturous delight.

She was very fond of music, and listened eagerly, beating time with both her feet, and making her bonnet go up and down until the play commenced and she saw stage dress and stage effect for the first time in her life. This part she did not like. "they mumbled their words so nobody could understand more than if they spoke a heathenish tongue," she thought, and she was beginning to yawn when a nudge from Mattie and a whisper: "There they come," roused her from her stupor, and looking up she saw both Helen and Katy entering their box, and with them Mark Ray and Wilford Cameron.

Very rapidly Katy's eyes swept the house, running over the sea of heads below, but failing to see the figure which, half rising from its seat, stood gazing upon her, the tears running like rain over the upturned face, and the lips murmuring: "Darling Katy! blessed child! She's thinner than when I see her last, but oh! so beautiful and grand! Precious lambkin! It isn't wicked now for me to be coming here, where I can see her face again."

Could Not Lie On Her Left Side.

WAS TROUBLED WITH PAIN IN HER HEART FOR SIX YEARS.

Expected Her Friends Would Find Her Dead.

Mrs. C. Bondreau, Campbellton, N.B., was completely cured by

MILBURN'S Heart and Nerve Pills.

She tells of her experience in the following letter: "I was troubled with a pain in my heart and weakness for six years. Most of the time I could not lie on my left side. I consulted a doctor but got no relief and was completely discouraged. I did not think I would live long and expected my friends would find me dead. A friend brought me a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and I took them to please her, not thinking they would do me any good. I had not used half the box when I commenced to feel myself getting better and by the time I had taken two boxes I was completely cured and can recommend them to all sufferers from heart trouble."

A Woman's Prayer

It is notable that in the despondency caused by womanly diseases, there seems to many a suffering woman no way of escape from pain except at the price of life itself. It would be sad to record such a story of struggle and suffering except for the fact that in such dire distress many a woman has found a way back to health and happiness by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. The one and only remedy for leucorrhea, female weakness, prolapsus, or falling of the womb, so absolutely specific and sure in curing these common ailments of women, as to warrant its makers in offering to pay, as they hereby do, the sum of $500 reward for a case of the above maladies which they cannot cure.

"Your medicine almost raised me from the dead" writes Mrs. Edwin H. Gardner, of Egypt, Plymouth Co., Mass., Box 14. "My urine was like brick dust, and I had pain all over me, and such a dragging feeling it seemed I could not do my house work. One day I found a little book. I read it and wrote to Dr. Pierce, and in a few days received an answer. I decided to try his medicine, and to-day I am a well woman. I have no backache, no headache, no pain at all. I used always to have headaches previously to the monthly period and such pain that I would roll on the floor in agony. I took three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and three of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and three vials of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, and was completely cured."

Accept no substitute for "Favorite Prescription." There is nothing just as good.

NO REDUCTIONS IN LOCAL STAFFS.

Neither Railway is Reducing Number of Employees at Peterborough.

The rumor that the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific Railways were reducing the number of employees all along the road was the reason for a visit of an Examiner representative to the local stations, with the result that it is learned that the staffs of neither company in Peterborough will be affected.

Station Agent Sandy, of the G.T.R., when seen said that he had received no word to reduce the local staff. They were exceptionally busy in the frieght yards just now and would not be able to make satisfactory progress if any reduction were made. He continued by saying that he had seen no confirmation of the rumors regarding the lessening of the railway staffs.

No more busy place could be found in town than the C.P.R. station at the present time. The staff has as much work as it can handle and the Examiner was informed that it was much more probable that the local staff would be increased than reduced. It was further learned that the summer months were much heavier than the winter ones and the station staff could not stand any reduction.

SUCCESSORS TO RELIABLE FIRM.

Messrs. Tully, Merrell & Meredith Take Over Gough Bros' Business.

PERSONNEL OF THE FIRM.

Business Alliance Which Should Meet with Success—The Store Completely Remodelled A Word About the Stock and Staff.

Residents of the Town of Peterborough, and of the County of the same name, have during the last 18 years become so accustomed to hearing the name of Gough Brothers that it will be with some difficulty that the old firm name will be disassociated from the store in which a successful business has been so long carried on. The retirement of the firm of Gough Brothers from business in Peterborough, and the succession to their business by Messrs. Tully, Merrell & Meredith, is the most important change that has taken place in the Peterborough mercantile field for some time.

The firm of Gough Bros. has long been considered as being the leaders in their particular field, and in the retirement from an active participation in business here the members of the firm do so with the good will of their rapidly expanding list of customers, and the public generally, with whom their straightforward business methods put them in popular favour, and from whom they will receive only best wishes on their entry into a larger field of business enterprise.

For eighteen years Gough Bros. have done business here, and their clientele has been steadily extending, until at the present time it is doubtful if in the whole of Ontario there is a firm operating in a city the size of Peterborough that is as well known as that of Gough Bros. Apart from their business relations the Messrs. Gough have made themselves popular with all classes of the people, and in the surrendering of their interests to the new firm, no small asset of the business is the record of clean business methods that the old firm left behind them.

It is peculiarly fitting that the firm succeeding Gough Bros., should include two of their oldest employees, men to whom in no small measure the success of the business is due, and in thus taking an interest in the new firm they are but reaping the reward which their years of attention to business, and work on behalf of their late employers deserve. Messrs. Tully and Merrell, who have for the last two years been joint managers of the local store, are each thoroughly practical men, and men who have won the respect and confidence of the numerous patrons of the store.

REMODELLING OF THE STORE.

With the advent of the new firm the store interior has been entirely refitted, and now presents a decidedly handsome appearance, the beauty of which is enhanced by the addition of several new plate glass "silent salesmen," and a number of nickel plated store show fixtures have been installed. The shelving has been re-modelled, so as to better adapt itself to new conditions and every part of the equipment and furnishings is decidedly modern. The large windows will permit of a decorative effect appropriately suggestive of the interior excellence of the big store. Some idea of the extent of the latter may be gained from the fact that it is some fifty feet wide and 120 feet long.

For the entire width of the store a new gold sign with the firm name on a black background, bordered with silver moulding, and high-lighted with red, has been placed. This sign which is the work of Mr. Fred Cook, is one of the best specimens of the painter's art in Peterborough. Commodious rooms for the tailoring department have been fitted up in the third story.

The new firm are certainly to be congratulated on the enterprise so apparent in their undertaking, and are entitled to a great deal of success.

THE NEW STOCK

"Cash and one price to everybody" will be the new firm's motto. They intend to start in absolutely new, and claim to have an extensive advantage in being able to purchase their goods on a basis unapproachable by others in the business, and are therefore willing to give the people the benefit of it. If the goods are not satisfactory, or if the customer has any reason for complaint, they will refund the money. While it will be their aim to meet the demand of every class of trade, particular attention will be paid to high-class goods; yes, higher than was ever in the store before. They have become the sole agents for the Piccadilly Brand of ready-to-wear clothing, which is considered to be the best in the market, being tailor-made throughout.

Good clothes are cheap enough for any one. The modern ready-made Piccadilly Brand will make you look like a soldier in the army of success at the price you can afford to pay. You must begin your economy on something. Economize on your cigars, pleasures, even your boarding-house before you economize on your clothes. Not economizing on clothes will enable you not to economize on other things later. Keep up appearances, and appearances will keep you up. Keep down appearances, and appearances will keep you down. Look a failure, and you will be one. Look a success, and the chances are you will be a success.

Their gentlemen's furnishings departments they intend to replenish with more up-to-date goods — high class in the fullest sense of the word. They realize the growing need for such a department in Peterborough, and intend to equip this department with the object of realizing that want to the best possible extent. The tailoring department will occupy the north side of the store, and the ready-to-wear clothing the centre. This will give accommodation and as far as the store itself is concerned it will be a most attractive and up-to-date place.

THE MEMBERS OF THE NEW FIRM.

The only member of the firm, who has not been previously associated with Gough Bros., is Mr. W. H. Meredith, but in the business conducted by him for sixteen years, in Peterough, as a tailor and gents' furnisher, he has become well known to buyers of that line of goods. Mr. Meredith, in his business career here, as a tailor, has been most successful, and the department under his direction which will turn out made-to-order clothing, could not have a better man at its head. His reason for joining the alliance was because of the fact that his shop was too small, and he found he could not there give the furnishing trade the attention that opportunity required. This will be practically a new department in the big store, and it will have much more space devoted to it than ever before.

Mr. William S. Merrell, who enjoyed the confidence of the firm of Gough Bros. for eihteen years, fully merits the success which those eighteen years of faithful service has now brought to him. It was in Jubilee year that Mr. Merrell was first assigned a position with the firm. He had previously enjoyed a practical experience in the clothing and furnishing trade in Brantford, where he served his apprenticeship. He then went west, where he held a responsible position with Garland & Co., at that time one of the largest concerns in the Northwest. Mr. Merrell is an intelligent buyer and an industrious worker, and his knowledge was utilized by the late firm in the selection of the varied lines suitable for their trade. He knew the business "from the ground up," and now that he is in it for himself his friends will give him the glad hand and their substantial encouragement as well.

Mr. James A. Tully, is a young man whose steady habits and business tact has made him many warm friends during his past eighteen years. He first entered the employ of the late firm in March, 1866, when the store was only half its present size, and three-quarters its present depth. The customers took to him on sight, and felt such confidence in their dealings with them that goods were often sold solely on "Jimmy's" recommendation. Mr. Tully gradually rose in the estimation of his employers until he soon occupied a leading position in the store. Mr. Tully has a first-class knowledge of the many varied lines of goods specially required for their trade, and is a shrewd and sagacious buyer. Socially, Mr. Tully has many warm friends who will be pleased to learn of his success.

THE SALES STAFF.

In the matter of an efficient staff of salesmen, the new firm will be particularly fortunately circumstanced. Every member understands thoroughly his business, and knows how to apply his knowledge to an advantage which always gives the customer courteous and appreciative consideration.

The ready-to-wear clothing will be in charge of Mr. J. T. C. Laing, who has had a long association with the preceding firm, and has devoted much careful attention to this department with great success.

Children's clothing will be looked after by Mr. Emmett Doherty, and this is where Emmett shines. For years he has been in close touch with the fathers and mothers of the rising generation of Peterborough, and it has made him a pleasing salesman in this interesting department.

The hat department will be presided over by Mr. Jack Gorham, and it will undoubtedly be very largely patronized. Hats will occupy a larger space than before, as the reorganization of the store permits of a finer show-room for a wider range of high-class hats. The best makers will be represented, and the increased room for display will be much appreciated by the public.

Mr. J. McFadden will be the head salesman in the gentlemen's furnishing department, with which he has had long experience, and has developed the happy faculty of applying in very acceptable manner the knowledge at his command to the requirements of his customers.

With a popular management, an efficient and courteous staff of salespeople, a newly-fitted store, and the best goods, the firm should be successful from its inception, and all Peterborough citizens will look with favour upon the newest acquisition to its business enterprises. Their Easter advertisement, appearing in to-day's issue, should be read by everyone.

PARTICULARS OF CHONGJU FIGHT.

Japanese had one Officer and Four Men Killed.

RUSSIANS SAY FORTY JAPS KILLED.

Also That the Islanders had 100 Wounded—Port Arthur is Practically Blocked, Although Merchant Ships say They saw Russian Fleet of Nine Warships Cruising Twelve Miles out to Sea.

London, March 31.—The Japanese Legation here has received the following official report from Tokio of the fighting between Japanese and Russian forces at Chongju, Corea, Monday: "On March 28 a portion of our cavalry occupied Chongju, defeating the enemy. The enemy, who numbered about 600 men, retreated in the direction of Wiju. Our casualities were Lieut. Keno and four others killed; Capt. Kurokawa and 12 others wounded of the cavalry forces. There were no casualities among our infantry. Two dead bodies were left by the enemy on the field, but it is reported that some seven or eight were killed inside the town. These were promptly carried off by the enemy on horseback or by ambulance. The Russians were seen conveying in an ambulance two dead men, apparently officers, and blood-stained bandages were scattered around. The enemy must have sustained losses at least equal to our own."

The Russian Version.

St. Petersburg, March 31.—A later official despatch from Gen. Mishtchenko reports that on the authority of the inhabitants of Chongju, Corea, the Japanese lost 40 men killed, 100 men wounded and a number of horses during the fighting there Monday. The Japanese employed 500 Corean bearers to carry their wounded to Anju. Gen. Mishtchenko adds that Capt. Stopoff, who was among the Russians wounded, succumbed Tuesday.

Port Arthur Blocked.

Washington, March 31.—Information has been received here from Tokio under date of March 30, to this effect:

"The Japanese have been successful in the attempt partially to close the channel of Port Arthur. Four Japanese merchant vessels, escorted by two destroyers and six first-class torpedo boats, arrived at 3 a.m. March 27. The Japanese merchant vessels successfully entered the channel inside the lighthouse. Two were destroyed, sunk by Russian destroyers; two of them by their own explosives. Loss in killed, two officers and two men; loss in wounded, one officer and eight men. No casualities Japanese torpedo vessels. Very small gap in channel."

Should the cablegram from Tokio prove to be correct it is believed here that it will be difficult for the Russian ships to pass the channel.

Japanese Occupy Haiju.

Seoul, March 31.—The Japanese advance occupied Haiju, a seaport south of Anju, March 27.

RICCOCHET SHOTS.

Newchwang, March 31.—Five merchant ships which arrived on Sunday last, but were not admitted into the harbor until yesterday report that they saw a Russian fleet of nine warships cruising off Port Arthur at a distance of twelve miles out to sea.

Chee Foo, March 31.—The captain, an oiler, and one passenger of the Japanese coasting steamer Hanyei arrived at Tengchow yesterday morning and reported that the Hanyei had been fired on and sunk by the Russian fleet near the Miaotao Islands on the morning of March 27.

St. Petersburg, March 31.—The Harbin correspondent of the Russky Viedemosti explodes the recent report that three Japanese officers were hanged for attempting to blow up the Sungari bridge on the Trans-Siberian Railroad.

Vladivostock, March 31.—One of the mines in Possiet Bay has been exploded by a whale. The mutilated carcase subsequently was washed ashore.

St. Petersburg, March 31.—A correspondent of The Russky Vydomosti writes from Port Dalny that the Russian cruiser Boyarin sank two hours after striking the mine there, and that six of her crew were lost.

Question of Confederation Up in Newfoundland Legislature.

St. John's, Nfld., March 31.—In the Legislature last night, Premier Bond said that no correspondence had passed between the Government of Newfoundland and that of Canada respecting Confederation. However, the Imperial Government, having forwarded a copy of a resolution adopted by the Congress of Chambers of Commerce of the British Empire at Montreal in August last, favoring Confederation, the Newfoundland Government had replied that it could not concur that the present time was opportune for the opening of negotiations toward a union with Canada. There was no desire on the part of the people of Newfoundland for the inclusion of the colony as a constituent part of the Dominion. On the contrary, the reply said, there was an evident desire that the colony should maintain its autonomy and continue to retain its honorable and independent position as a part of the British Empire.

THE BOARDS OF EDUCATION.

Hon. Mr. Harcourt, Minister of Education, has introduced a bill, which will doubtless become law, making important changes in the constitution of Boards of Education. It contains many admirable features, the most important of which, perhaps, is the provision greatly reducing the number of members of Boards of Education. The Bill, if it becomes law, will give the town of Peterborough a Board of eight members, a sufficient number, if the right choice is made. As a rule, the larger the number of members of an administration, the greater the expenditure, for each member will probably take some action to justify his election, and such action almost invariably costs money.

A summary of the chief features of the Bill "respecting Boards of Education in Certain Town and Cities," will be of interest. The Act provides that the councils of cities and towns not included in high school districts may declare it expedient to amalgamate Public and High School Boards, Technical School Boards, and Public Library Boards, into a Board of Education to be elected.

The Board of Education in cities of over 15,000 and less than 100,000, shall consist of 12 members elected, and two appointed by Separate School Board. In cities of less than 15,000 the Board shall consist of nine members, and one appointed by the Separate School Board. In towns, and that of course includes Peterborough, seven members shall be elected, and one appointed by the Separate School Board. The Board of Education in Peterborough under the new legislation, will therefore consist of eight members.

The members shall be elected by general vote taken at the same time as that for municipal Councillors or Aldermen, electors to vote by ballot, and every voter may vote for (in Peterborough) seven candidates, or fewer if he chooses; but he shall not give more than one vote to any one candidate.

At the first election under the act the full membership of the Board shall be elected and one half in case of even numbers, and one more than half in case of odd numbers of a Board, (as in Peterborough) receiving the highest number of votes, shall hold office for two years, the other half retiring at the end of one year, and sufficient members shall be elected to take the place of retiring members, who shall, however, be eligible as candidates.

In the case of two members receiving the same number of vote, the one to retire at the end of the first year, in case no agreement is reached, shall be decided by lot.

In case of a vacancy occurring in the membership of the Board, the remaining members shall at their first meeting after a vacancy occurs, elect some qualified person to fill such vacancy for the unexpired term of the retired member.

The Separate School member shall be appointed at the first meeting of that Board and shall hold office for two years. No member of a Separate School shall be eligible for election as member of the Board of Education.

The first meeting of the Board of Education shall be held at 8 o'clock in the evening of the first Thursday after the first Monday in January, and shall elect a chairman, and in case of a tie vote at such election the member having the highest assessment in the last revised roll shall give the deciding vote, as he may do in case of a deadlock on other questions. The chairman of the Board may vote with the other members on all questions.

NATURE AND THE SCHOOLS.

There was a time when all knowledge considered worthy of the schools, was contained in books, and came down from the distant past. Habits of thought based on this idea have had an immense influence on our methods of teaching, and are responsible for the belief that such is the only means of education.

Literature and history can never be ignored, so long as our minds are influenced by the great minds and the great events of all ages and all countries. But we are beginning to see that learning is not limited to books, and that education comes through the study of the common and the practical as well as through the remote and the theoretical. An important result of this modern way of thinking is seen in the interest now shown in nature as a means of education. Nature has always been childhood's first and best teacher. The child gains from the real world around him a training that can be got in no other way. He learns not merely to know but to do and to feel; his hands and his heart are trained as well as his head. The wisdom of nature's method is shown by the fact that in her kindergarten dunces are extremely rare. In schools, where one-sided book-learning prevails they are extremely common.

Nature Study aims to encourage the childish spirit of enquiry and of activity by appealing to things rather than to books. It calls for seeing and thinking rather than mastering what others have seen and thought. Nature Study is the effort of the schools to continue Nature's method as a basis and a preparation for later studies in literature and science.

In infancy and early childhood Nature's best assistant and interpreter is a kind mother. For the growing child the teacher must take the place of the parent, and should combine the same sympathy with a lively interest in Nature and a wide knowledge of Nature's works and methods.

For the people of this young country Nature is more than a teacher. The great majority of our children now at school will be engaged in a few years in winning a living from the soil or from closely related industries. Some of these will succeed, some will fail. Some will find in Nature a friend and a helper; others will see in the same Nature only a hard and cruel taskmaster. Some will grow up to hate the farm; others will find in country life happiness and satisfaction. Those who would live at peace with Nature must learn her ways.

Very much depends on the schools. Farmers' Institutes, Womens' Institutes, Agricultural Colleges and journals are doing splendid work; but these must deal with grown men and women. If the schools educate the boys and girls away from farm life, it will be a losing struggle to attempt to win them back in later years. Nature Study in our rural schools must connect the school with the farm and the home, and so make education a preparation for the real life of the great majority. Such a training will give the freedom that comes from the mastering of our surroundings and the few who are able to go on to the higher learning of college and university will find no better basis for a truly liberal education.

ENFORCING THE LAW.

The Cordova case indicates the activity prevailing in connection with the enforcement of the Liquor License Act, and the dangerous conditions under which unlicensed dealers and offenders against the Act, operate. Uncle Sam is quite welcome to the new citizen from Cordova, whom the attention of the license law officials have driven to the shelter of his domain. The sentence pronounced — four months at hard labour—and the fine imposed—$100 and costs—by the County Police Magistrate upon the Cordova man convicted of unlicensed dealing in liquor, seem to be fully warranted by the circumstances of the offence, and quite in keeping with the settled policy of the Provincial License Department, that the provisions of the License Law shall be rigidly enforced, and that to this end license officials are to consider negligence in this regard, where established, as the price of their positions.

Miss L. Blezard, of London, was the guest of Mrs. A. S. Harrison on Tuesday.

Mr. W. A. Housco, of the Hastings Road, lost a valuable horse yesterday morning. His son, Harold, was bringing a load of logs to the mill, when the animal burst a blood vessel and before a veterinary could be secured he died.

Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Girven left on Friday morning for Coldwater, where Mr. Girven has purchased the general mercantile business carried on by Mr. Geo. HAVELOCK.

(From our own Correspondent.)

A very sad event was caused by the death of Mrs. Charles Brewster, who passed away on Friday afternoon, the 25th inst. Mrs. Brewster had been ailing from a severe cold caught last winter. The deceased leaves one child beside her husband. Her loss will be greatly mourned by many friends.

Owing to the mild weather we have noticed the disastrous floods which have overtaken a number of towns and villages. Owing to the lowness of the country around here we are led to believe that the water which has come from the melting snow has been absorbed by the land, as on account of the very little rain we had last fall we notice that the frost has not got down over four inches at the farthest. What might have proved to be a very disastrous thing for many of the residents has been averted by the earth absorbing an unusual large amount of water.

Mr. George Mathieson has returned from Belleville, where he has been pursuing his studies at the Belleville College, but on account of sore eyes he has had to come home. We hope it will not be long before he will be able to resume his studies.

We are sorry to hear that Miss Dies is leaving for Toronto in the near future for an indefinite peroid.

Miss Anderson, Mr. Thos. Flynn and daughter, are the guests of Mr. adn Mrs. Thos. Butters, of town.

Quite an excitement was caused a few nights ago by the burning of a box car which was standing near the west end of the town on the C.P.R. tracks. The cause of the fire is unknown, but it is supposed that it was caused by a spark from an engine.

The closing social event of the season will be the lacrosse club ball, which will be held in the town hall on Good Friday evening. It is altogether likely that this will prove to be the star event of the season.

A very pleasant evening was spent at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Haig at a social gathering by a number of their friends on Friday, the 25th.

Mr. George Conley, while out shooting on Tuesday morning had a narrow escape while shooting at a rabbit. It seems that the breach of the gun was not in place and with the discharge a piece of the brass shell flew back, hitting him in the nose and about half an inch from the eye. Three stitches were required to close the wound.

READ IT THROUGH.

Twould Spoil This Story to Tell it in the Headlines.

To use an eighteenth century phrase, this is an "o'er true tale." Having happened in a small Virginian town in the winter of 1902 it is a story very much of the present. Up to a short time ago Mrs. John E. Harmon, of Melfa Station, Va., had no personal knowledge of the rare curative properties of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. "Last January," she says, "my baby took a dreadful cold and at one time I feared that she would have pneumonia, but one of my neighbours told me how this remedy had cured her little boy and I began giving it to my baby at once, and it soon cured her. I heartily thank the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for placing so great a cure within my reach. I cannot recommend it too highly or say too much in its favour. I hope all who read this will try and be convinced as I was." For sale by all druggists.

It may be explained that the grant voted by the Legislature last year to hospitals was $110,000. This was divided among the hospitals of the province pro rata on the basis of the number of days' attendance of patients. Last year the total collective stay of patients at the Nicholls Hospital was 8,588, and at St. Joseph's Hospital the collective stay of patients last year was 11,086. On these figures for last year will be based the government grant to each hospital in 1904.

Well Again.

The many friends of John Blount will be pleased to learn that he has entirely recovered from his attack of rheumatism. Chamberlain's Pain Balm cured him after the best doctors in the town, (Monon, Ind.) had failed to give relief. The prompt relief from pain which this liniment affords is alone worth many times its cost. Sold by all druggists.

Reach Warrant For Lyon.

Montreal, Que., March 30.—The case of Blackley, charged with having libelled Lieut.-Col. J. Cooke, Crown Prosecutor, was again called yesterday, but Laurence Lyon, who delivered the letter to the Attorney-General of Quebec was still absent. Before leaving the bench Judge Wurtell said: "I order that a bench warrant be issued for the detention of C. M. Lyon, advocate, so that if he arrives in Montreal he may be brought before this court as a witness."

Murder at Owen Sound.

Owen Sound, March 30.—The inquest on the body of the unknown child found on Peel street on Friday was resumed last night before Associate Coroner Dow. After hearing the evidence the jury found that the child had came to its death by strangulation, caused by a party or parties unknown. The police are investigating the crime, but have absolutely no clue to work upon.

Killed By Gas.

Toronto, March 30.—James Blackhall engaged a room at the Commercial Hotel Monday night, and yesterday morning the smell of escaping gas came strongly from his room. The door was forced and Blackhall was found dead. Coroner Crawford has issued a warrant for an inquest at 3 p. m. to-day. The deceased's body has been claimed by a relative in the city.

Will You Help a Sick Friend?

Get My Book for Him Now.

Send me no money.

Only tell me which book to send.

You certainly know of someone who is sick—some sufferer who will be grateful for the help my book offers.

And that book tells of a way to help. Tells of a way so certain that I, as a physician, offer that help on trial. The book tells how, for thirty years in hospitals and at bedsides I searched for a way to cure deep-seated and difficult diseases. It tells how I perfected my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. How by scientific experiment I traced out the causes that bring on chronic diseases.

I found invariably that where there was a weakness the inside nerves were weak. Where there was a lack of vitality that the vital nerves lacked power. Where weak organs were found, I always found weak nerves. Not the nerves commonly thought of, but the vital organs' nerves, the inside—the invisible nerves.

This was a revelation. Then my real success began.

Then I combined ingredients that would strengthen, that would vitalize these nerves. That prescription I called a restorative. It is known the world over now as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. After that I did not fail to cure one case in each hundred. In the extremely difficult cases my failures for five years were one in each forty treated. I found cancer incurable. Cancer is for surgery, not medicine.

Then how to get this prescription to sick ones everywhere was my thought. I must announce it in the public press. But, thought I, will they realize the truth of my discovery—the real power of Dr. Shoop's Restorative? Then a way came to me—like an inspiration. "I will offer it to the sick on trial. Then they will know I am sincere."

I wrote a reliable druggist in each city and village in America. They agreed to co-operate with me

Now by any sick one can be taken on trial. For a full month I will let you use it entirely at my risk.

Send me no money. Just write me for the book you need. When I send it I will tell you of a druggist near by who will permit the month's trial. Use the Restorative a month—then decide. If you say to the druggist, "It did not help me," that will relieve you of any expense whatever. He will bill the cost.

This is my way of clearing your mind of all doubts as to what Dr. Shoop's Restorative can do. No matter how prejudiced, you cannot dispute this absolute security I offer. You cannot resist an offer like this of you are at all sick.

If you have a weakness, write me. If you can't do things like you used to do them, tell me about it.

Write in confidence. As a physician I will tell you a way to help. Get my book now—to-day.

DISASTROUS FIRE NEAR CORDOVA.

"The Evergreens," Property of Mr. Porter Preston, J. P. Destroyed by Fire.

The Building and Contents Valued at $2,500 a Total Loss. Had Been the Family Residence for over 60 Years.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Cordova, March 28th.—"The Evergreens," the fine brick residence of Porter Preston, J.P., in Belmont Township, near the Village of Cordova, was destroyed by fire last Sunday afternoon, and house and contents valued at nearly $2,500 are almost a total loss only a small quantity of the household effects being saved.

When first discovered the fire had gained a good hold in the upper story of the building and despite the heroic efforts of the family and their nearest neighbours, could not be checked, but quickly enveloped the whole structure and in a remarkably short time reduced to ruins what had been one of the finest residences in the Township.

The house was a roomy and substantial one of red brick, and had been the home of the Preston family for over sixty years, and with it was destroyed not only the furnishings but a valuable library and the family records, and many heirlooms dating back over 300 years.

WILL PROPOSE THE AMENDMENT

At Annual Meeting of the Ontario Association Football League.

The annual meeting of the Ontario Association Football League with which the Midland Football League is associated, will be held at the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, on Monday, April 4th, at 10.30 a.m. In addition to the usual business several amendments and additions will be up for consideration.

The following rules will be submitted to govern Ontario senior cup competitions:

CALEDONIA CUP.

1. The cup shall be called "The Caledonia Cup of the Ontario Association Football League."

2. The competition for the cup shall be semi-annual, and shall be open to the clubs chosen by the various associations affiliated with the league to represent them respectively. The matches shall be played at the close of the spring and fall seasons respectively, and shall be arranged and conducted as the Match Committee may direct.

3. An association desirous of entering a team for the cup must give notice of such through its secretary to the secretary-treasurer of the league, on a form provided for that purpose, not later than June 15th and Oct. 15 of of each year, respectively, and must further submit a full list of the names of the clubs of the series under the jurisdiction of that association, accompanied by the names and addresses of their respective secretaries. Within three days after the deciding of the championship of any association it shall be the duty of the secretary of that association to forward to the secretary treasurer of the league the name of the club such an association purposes to enter for the cup along with a list of the bona fide signatures of the players of such club who were properly registered prior to the last match in which such club participated.

4 Affiliated associations shall be allowed full management and control of everything appertaining to all matches in which their respective clubs are alone concerned, provided that they observe the rules and laws of the game as adopted by the league.

5. If during the progress of a match a player, in the opinion of the referee, becomes disabled, a spare man may be substituted for him, provided such accident occurred before half time; but if a player becomes disabled after half time a player of the opposing team must be dropped to maintain equal numbers.

6. In home and home matches or matches on neutral ground the majority of goals shall decide the winners. In scheduled matches a victory shall count two points for the winning team, and a draw one point each, and the club securing the greatest number of points shall be declared the winners of the series.

7 The referee shall be a man mutually agreed upon by the competing clubs, or in case of disagreement, a man appointed by the president of the league, who must receive notice of such inability to agree from the home club, at least days before the match. The referee shall be allowed $5 for expenses if the distance does not exceed 50 miles, and 10 cents per mile over and above that distance and such expenses shall be equally borne by the competing clubs.

8. Protests and appeals on ground appointments and facts, known before the match begins, must be formally intimated to the captain of the opposing club in the presence of the referee, by the captain of the club protesting before the match begins; other protests and appeals must be similarly intimated before the club protesting leaves the field of play. All protests and appeals must be lodged with the secretary-treasurer of the league by the secretary of the club protesting within three pdays thereafter. Each protest or appeal must be accompanied by a deposit of $10 and if said protest or appeal be sustained the deposit shall be returned, otherwise not.

9. The president and the secretary-treasurer of the league shall be to all intents and purposes the legal holders of all cups in trust for the league. Each cup and case shall be returned to the secretary-treasurer of the league one week prior to the date of the final, or deciding match, of that season and before handing the cups and cases to the several winners of the respective finals, he shall in each instance obtain a satisfactory bond for the safe return of the same in like good order and condition.

10. In home and home matches the home team shall guarantee in writing on a form provided for that purpose, the expenses of the visiting team up to four cents per mile, one way for twelve men, and hotel expenses exceeding one-half day, and the home team shall pay all expenses incident to procuring and preparing grounds, etc., and shall consall receipts. In all matches on neutral grounds the league shall control the gate and shall pay all expenses of each club, and all expenses connected with the game, provided the receipts admit of the same, and in case of a net surplus, the two clubs and the league shall share it equally; but in case of a net defecit, it shall be equally borne by the two clubs.

11. The Executive Committee of the league shall have the power to alter or to add to the above rules as they from time to time shall deem expedient.

LIFTING THE BURDEN

With a Gentle Hand—ANTI-PILL.

Woman's life is a battle with nerves that sap strength and energy. Shattered nerves aggravate and promote chronic troubles. There is no time in a woman's life Anti-Pill fails to do good.

When the sleep is restless, food causes distress, headache or dizziness, pains in the side or back, indigestion, palpitation, appetite poor, constipated, all tired out, depressed—just one trial of Dr. Leonhardt's ANTI-PILL will "lighten the burden" that is dragging you down. It begins its work in the stomach from which the blood is fed and the nerves controlled.

ANTI-PILL embraces a new principle. Its effects are different from anything else, and there is no mistaking its wonderful influence. Dr. Leonhardt has prepared the formula entirely free from the injurious ingredients common to present day Pills, etc. It is the ideal system treatment. Price, 50 cents per box of dealers, or by addressing WILSON-FYLE CO., Niagara Falls, Ontario, who will also mail free sample to any address.

While Eating His Dinner To-Day Was Apparently Well this Morning.

George Gibson expired very suddenly at the Curran House at noon to-day, while taking his dinner, he began to choke over his meat. Dr. Coughlin was immediately called, but he found the man dying, and all was over in a few minutes. About 20 minutes elapsed from the time he first began to choke until he died. The deceased was visiting his nephew Mr. Wesley W. Huycke, of 507 Rubidge street, but meeting old friends at the Curran House, took his dinner there. He was aged 79 years today and this morning was apparently in the best of health and spirits. He lives in Seymour Township, is married man and leaves a large, but grown up, family. The body will be taken home for burial.

CORRECTION.

Unfounded Report of the Death of a South Monaghan Lady.

In Tuesday's Examiner appeared a regrettably incorrect paragraph, referring to Mrs. James Latimer, of South Monaghan. The paragraph in question was founded on a report of her death, which was considered to be probable from the fact that she was known to be seriously ill, and as the information came from a source thought to be reliable.

WM. ARMSTRONG ALIAS BRADLEY.

Alleged Sharper Travelled Under Two Names

WHILE IN PETERBOROUGH.

He Worked at the C. G. E. as Baker and at Other Times as Armstrong —His Interesting Movements.

While in the act of hurriedly leaving the post office, about half past three o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, William E. Armstrong, was suddenly and unexpectedly arrested by Detective Parkinson of the Dominion Police, Ottawa, and is now in gaol awaiting trial on the charge of obtaining money under false pretences.

Armstrong has been advertising in Ottawa and Toronto papers for young men and women to go to St. Louis, to take care of exhibits. The following is one of those which was inserted in the Toronto Mail and Empire:—

WANTED—100 YOUNG MEN AND WOMAN—neat appearance; fair education; to remain in charge exhibits, World's Fair, St. Louis; seven months; salary $35 monthly and board; fare advanced; five dollars deposit required as guarantee of good faith; half returned by remaining; send money, express order or registered letter; if more applicants than vacancies money returned. WM. ARMSTRONG, Box 848, Peterborough, Ontario.

Armstrong came to Peterborough some two weeks ago and rented Box No. 848 on March 19th. From that date on letters, addressed to him, arrived in numbers, and these he called for every two or perhaps three days. Never did he regularly daily extract the letters from his box. After a few days, so heavy became his mail, and so numerous the enquiries as to whether it was a bona-fide deal that suspicions were aroused which led in Detective Parkinson being told off to investigate the circumstances surrounding the affair. The detective arrived in town on Sunday and watched for his man. On Monday Armstrong came into the post office, gathered up his mail and left. The detective immediately followed him and shadowed him to the Cavanagh House, which he entered. Detective Parkinson came to the conclusion that he was boarding there and did not follow, but waited in vain for him in the post office on Tuesday. Although letters had arrived in increased quantities that day Armstrong did not turn up, and it was not until Wednesday noon that he returned. In his excitement Armstrong did not notice, among his letters, a card marked "Registered Letter," and this latter was not called for until about 3.30 o'clock in the afternoon. He had barely signed for the letter, when he was arrested. He was immediately taken to the police station and locked up. Here 35 letters addressed to him, and $35, were found on his person. These were taken in charge by the police authorities. When arrested he gave his name as W. E. Armstrong, and said he came from Pittsburg. The only other statement he made was that he had never slept over in Peterborough for a single night. And so it seems. For a search of the local hotel registers fails to show his name, and not even at the Cavanagh House can they say that he stayed over night there.

Armstrong is a short, poorly-built young man, of rather dark complexion, some five feet six or seven inches in height, perhaps 26 years of age, and clean-shaven. He was dressed in a neat suit of navy blue, but out of doors wears an overcoat besides. He is a good writer, and ends his words with neat flourishes. His general appearance denotes that of a mechanic more than anything else. On the whole one would judge that he is a Canadian who has lived some years in the United States. It is said that he remarked to a post office employee that he came to Peterborough from Montreal.

The prisoner appeared before Police Magistrate Dumble at a late hour yesterday afternoon and, in the police court was formally charged with obtaining money under false pretences. He elected to be tried summarily by the Magistrate and pleaded not guilty. As the Crown was not quite ready the prisoner was remanded for eight days, after which period he will again be arraigned. The prisoner was seen in his cell by an Examiner reporter, but absolutely refused to say anything. The police have had him photographed.

Since the above was written more information bearing a nearer relation to the case has been gleaned. Detective Parkinson and Chief Roszel found his trunk in the Cavanagh House shortly before six o'clock, and in it were numerous letters addressed to F. H. Bradley. This seemed to indicate that the prisoner was travelling under an assumed name. The prisoner, it was then discovered, registered as F. H. Bradley, Brockville, at the Cavanagh House on Friday, March 18th. He used to go daily to work at the Canadian General Electric Works, where he was employed as a machinist. In the evenings he returned with his working clothes smeared with oil and his face and hands begrimed. In the hotel he was very reserved, scarcely speaking to anyone, and spending most of his time reading in his own room.

Last fall Mr. T. Cavanagh hired him at Montreal, together with about sixty others, to work in W. & A. McArthur's lumber camps at Beaverstone. He then gave his name as Frank Bradley, and said he was a fisherman from Gaspe. At that time he also asked Mr. Cavanagh what kind of a place Peterborough was and could a machinist get employment. He was assurred by Mr. Cavanagh that he would find employment any time in Peterborough, and when he did come here two weeks ago it was to the proprietor of the Cavanagh House that he went to first.

In the evening, after his days work as a machinist was over, Bradley would clean himself up and be transformed into Wm. Armstrong, and would then answer the letters of the applicants for St. Louis. The Examiner was given the names of two local young men, who in answer to the advertisement asked if they might have a personal interview. In reply to their request they received a reply to visit a certain house on Gilmour street at a fixed time. There they were met by Armstrong who explained that he could make no exceptions, and that the deposit of $5 was imperative. It is said that on one occasion, at the hotel, Armstrong told another man that he was soon going to Lindsay as there were letters and money waiting for him there.

EASTER TRAFFIC IS EXCEPTIONALLY HEAVY.

More People Travelling this Year than Has Been the Custom Formerly.

Easter passenger traffic on the different railways is unusually heavy this year. On the C.P.R. local this morning there was not sufficient seat accommodation for the numerous passengers, who were, to use a railway man's expression, "packed in like sardines." On the Grand Trunk the number travelling is so large that extra coaches have to be provided for every train. The Belleville express this morning was crowded as was also the morning express to Toronto, while from both these cities the numbers coming to Peterborough is large.

The railway authorities, while they say it is a little early to judge accurately, believe that the traffic this Easter will eclipse that of last year, which was a record-breaker.

The cheap rates which are good for return until Tuesday, give visitors a good opportunity of spending a good visit with friends, which, evidently a good many are taking advantage of.

Three hundred New Copyright Books published lately at $1.25 each for sale while they last at 62c each, at SAILSBURY CO.

LOCK YOUR GUNS UP TO-MORROW.

Boys Should not be Allowed to Shoot the Feathery Tribe.

The average boy will look upon Good Friday as a day upon which he may shoulder a shot-gun or rifle, and take a tramp into the woods in search of game (?), the quest usually resulting satisfactorily from the boy's standpoint, if not from that of the feathered songster, the species in which the greatest slaughter is usually made. This practice is one to which a stop should be put, and the parents of the boys can to a large extent prevent this ruthless killing off of birds, which are at this time of the year mating, and the destruction of which so early in the season is rapidly depleting the forests of the feathery tribe. If the parents would lock the guns up to-morrow they would be doing what is manifestly a great good to the denizens of the woods, the presence of which does so much to brighten life, and the absence of which is deeply to be regretted.

PETERBOROUGH LOSES A POPULAR YOUNG MAN.

Mr. Gordon Lee who was Prominent in Sporting Circles goes to Toronto.

Mr. Gordon Lee, who is well known in Peterborough, left last night for Toronto, where he will in future make his home. Mr. Lee's removal from town will be deeply regretted by his many friends, among whom he was a popular favourite. In sporting circles his loss will be felt particularly. He is an enthusiastic footballer, and last year played on the champion Y.M.C.A. team, helping very materially in winning the cup. The team had been counting on his services again this season, and the news of his removal will be learned with genuine regret. He also played Rugby and in a majority of the games last year played back on the Peterborough Intermediate O.R.F.U. team. In addition to these qualifications he is a hockeyist of no mean ability, and during the last season played rover on the Trent Valley team. The preceding year he was captain of the Colts team, and it was generally thought that if he had remained here he would be fast enough for the senior team next year.

Mr. Lee was an employee of the Canadian General Electric Company here.

VERY ENJOYABLE SOCIETY EVENT.

Miss Pearl Law Married Last Night to Mr. Robert Routley.

Last night the residence of Mr Walton Routley, George street north, was the scene of a very pleasing event, Miss Pearl Law, daughter of Mr. David Law, of Peterborough, becoming the wife of Mr. Robt. Routley, also of Peterborough, but formerly of Brooklin, Ont. The ceremony, which was performed by Rev. J. P. Wilson, B.A., was witnessed by a large number of friends of the bride and groom. The bride was very prettily and becomingly attired, and was assisted by Miss Lizzie Smith, as bridesmaid, while Mr. Wm. Routley, brother of the groom, performed the duties of groomsman. Little Stanley Braund made a splendid page. After the wedding, a dainty dejeuner was served at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. J. T. Braund, Smith and George streets, where nearly sixty guests sat down to a very sumptuous repast, served in splendid style, and where a delightful evening was spent.

Among the guests present were the father and mother of the groom, of Brooklin; the father and mother of the bride; Staff Capt. McNamara and the Jones Sisters, who rendered a number of very pleasing vocal and instrumental selections.

The presents, which consisted of many useful and ornamental articles of silver and chinaware, were beautiful to behold, and speaks well for the high esteem in which the guests hold the happy couple. Among the gifts was a beautiful dining-room table and jardinier, accompanied by a fitting address presented by the firm of J. J. Turner & Sons and employees, where the bride has been an employee for some years past.

After a very pleasant evening had been spent the company broke up about midnight, after wishing the bride and groom many happy years of wedded life. Mr. and Mrs. Routley will reside in town.

PLEASING EVENT ON SHEBROOKE STREET.

Miss Ethel J. Henry Married to Mr. D. W. Byers Last Night.

A very pleasing event occurred at the residence of Mr. T. Henry, 413 Sherbrooke street, Peterborough, last night, when his eldest daughter, Edith J., was united in marriage to Mr. David Wesley Byers, also of Peterborough. The ceremony was performed at seven o'clock by Rev. J. N. Clarry, of Millbrook. Only the immediate relatives of the bride and groom were present.

The bride was assisted by Miss Mabel Kirkpatrick, of Millbrook, while the groom was supported by his brother, Mr. T. H. Byers, of Peterborough. The bride wore a beautiful dress of white muslin, with trimmings of lace and insertion, and white duchess satin ribbon. She carried a bouquet of white carnations.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the guests partook of a dainty supper, which was served in the dining room. A pleasant evening was afterwards spent with games and music. The bride received many handsome and useful presents, showing the high esteem in which she is held by her many friends.

The groom's present to the bride was a gold watch and chain, to the bridesmaid an opal ring, and to the groomsman a garnet ring.

Mr. and Mrs. Byers will visit friends in the vicinity of Port Hope for a week. On returning they will reside in town.

THE FIRST GOOD FRIDAY.

And they crucified Him and parted His garments, casting lots . . And sitting down, they watched Him there and set up over His head His accusation: "This is Jesus the King of the Jews." There were two thieves crucified with Him, one on the right and one on the left. . . Jesus, when He had cried with a loud voice, yielded up the Ghost, and behold the veil of the temple was rent in twain from the top to the bottom; and the earth did quake and the rocks rent, and the graves were opened and many bodies of the saints which slept arose and came out of their graves after His resurrection, and went into the holy city and appeared unto many.

McPherson & McGregor

(Successors to the F. R. J. McPherson Co.)

Take this opportunity of thanking the public for the very liberal patronage accorded the late firm. Trade has been so satisfactory that Mr McGregor decided to increase his interest in the business and, as a consequence, the firm will be known hereafter as McPHERSON & McGREGOR.

Our specialties are:—

Sanitary Plumbing
Sanitary Ventilating
Steam and Hot Water Heating
Electrical Wiring and Supplies

We wish to draw the attention of the public to a few of the many complimentary testimonials received by Mr. McGregor for the high quality of the work he has installed in Plumbing and Heating:—

From the Firm of Bennet & Wright, Plumbing, Heating and Electrical Contractors, Toronto.

This is to certify that Duncan McGregor has been in our employment steady for about fifteen years and during that time we have found him to be steady, honest and trustworthy. He has given every satisfaction as a practical mechanic in each of the following branches: Plumbing, steam and gas fitting, also electrical and conduit work, and for some time has had charge of some of our largest contracts with satisfactory results.

From Illsley & Horn, General Contractors, Toronto.

The bearer, Mr. Duncan McGregor, had charge of the electric wiring at the King Edward Hotel Building. The job was a large and complicated one and by the way Mr. McGregor handled the work he proved himself a mechanic of more than ordinary ability. We unhesitatingly recommend him as a first class mechanic to anyone needing his services.

From Mr. J. Ross Robertson, of the Evening Telegram.

Mr. Duncan McGregor, who has been connected with the Bennet & Wright Co. for some years, and who has superintended the work of plumbing and heating for the Bennet & Wright Co., is not only in my opinion, but also that of my architect, a fully competent mechanic. His work, my architect informs me, has been most satisfactory. Any thing that has come under my own supervision has been likewise satisfactory.

An Extract Taken from the June Number of Domestic Engineering.

During the recent convention of the Canadian Electrical Association held in the King Edward Hotel, a thorough examination was made of all the electrical work in the hotel, and it was pronounced second to none on the continent. Therefore, great credit is due Mr. Duncan MacGregor, who superintended the entire conduit, electrical and power system for the firm of Bennet & Wright, of this city, who were the contractors for all the different branches of the electrical work in the new hotel.

Marine Men at Ottawa.

Ottawa, March 30.—The annual meeting of the Dominion Marine Association was held here yesterday morning, a large attendance being present. The annual report, which was adopted, urged the importance of harmony with the United States on lights and signals in inland waters. There was a discussion on the importance of enlarging the Welland Canal, and the qualifications of masters, mates and engineers. In the afternoon a deputation of the association conferred with the Marine Department in the matters brought forward.

"Cut the Painter."

London, March 30.—The Natal Mercury of Durban, discussing the possibility of a change in the Government of Great Britain, says that if Lord Milner is recalled, the cry of "cut the painter" might be raised, followed by action. The Mercury adds: "Who could condemn us if we followed the example of the American colonies when Lord North's policy compelled them to take decisive action? Secession in such a case is not treason."

Martin For New Brunswick.

Fredericton, N. B., March 30.—The faculty of the University of New Brunswick, acting as a committee of selection for the Rhodes' trust, have chosen Chester B. Martin, B. A., of St. John, as the Rhodes scholar from the Province of New Brunswick for the present year. This is the first selection yet made in Canada or the United States.

Wants Death Investigated.

Windsor, March 30.—Patrolman William Giles of the Windsor police force yesterday wrote to the Attorney-General of Ontario, asking him to investigate the mysterious death of Giles' brother-in-law, "Leezy" Longlois, whose death was reported a few days ago from Gore Bay, Manitoulin Island. Giles says "Leezy" did not die a natural death.

Col. Otter Is Conscious.

Toronto, March 30.—"Colonel Otter is conscious and is progressing favorably" was the bulletin posted on the door of the residence last night. Drs. Nattress and Peters held a consultation yesterday and reported that he was slightly improved.

Enormous Growth.

Ever since Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills were first introduced to the public the sales have steadily increased, each year being larger than the year previous. This is probably the best evidence of their remarkable efficiency, as a treatment for the derangements of the Kidneys, Liver and bowels. They are invaluable as a family medicine.

Hillis Gets 8 Years.

Hamilton, March 30.—Eight years in Kingston Penitentiary was the dose William Hillis, the notorious Guelph criminal, who broke out of the jail here last January, and who was recaptured at Flint, Mich., got yesterday afternoon from Chief Justice Meredith. The prisoner was charged with three offences, burglary, bringing stolen revolvers into Canada, and five years for jail breaking, the terms to run concurrently. In passing sentence, the judge told Hillis that he believed him to be a permanent enemy to society and that he could have sent him down for thirty-three years. Herbert Yates, Hillis' pal, got only five years.

Gordon Brown Sunk.

Port Stanley, March 30.—The tug Gordon Brown was released from the lake and brought into the harbor on Saturday last. It took twenty-five men to pull her against the current. She is more seriously damaged by the freshet than was at first supposed. Her rudder is gone, and the hull was injured, which caused her to leak so that four pumps would not keep her afloat. She now lies sunk in ten feet of water at the fish house. The scow has not been seen since it went out with the ice.

HE COULD NOT WALK STRAIGHT

Sciatica Cured Once and for All by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Terrible Plight of Valentine Fisher Before He Used the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy—No Return of the Trouble in Six Years.

Collingwood, Ont., March 30. — (Special.) — That the wonderful cures credited to Dodd's Kidney Pills are of a permanent nature is evidenced by Mr. Valentine Fisher, who is well known in this town and throughout the surrounding country. Mr. Fisher says:—

"I was troubled with Kidney Disease for 13 years which developed into Sciatica and located in my side. My back was so affected that I could not walk straight. I had to use hypodermic injections of morphine to ease the pain. Dodd's Kidney Pills brought me relief almost at once and ultimately cured me completly. That the cure was permanent was proved by the fact that in six years I had no return of the trouble."

Dodd's Kidney Pills cure by removing the cause. Uric acid in the blood causes rheumatism, sciatica, and kindred diseases. If the Kidneys are right they will take all the uric acid out of the blood. Dodd's Kidney Pills make the Kidneys right.

BALFOUR AND BANNERMAN.

Premier Sees No Reason For Resigning With House Majority.

London, March 30.—The usual motion providing for the adjournment of the House of Commons over the Easter holidays yesterday gave the Liberal leader, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, an opportunity to make a spirited attack on the Government.

He caustically criticized in detail the whole policy of the Ministry, which, he declared, except in the matter of Chinese labor, was marked by "indecision, confusion and vacillation, a tortuous course, and a misty atmosphere."

Sir Henry added that he did not think it was in accordance with the spirit of the constitution that Premier Balfour should retain power when the country had shown at every opportunity afforded it that he no longer enjoyed its favor.

Mr. Balfour, replying, said he was unable to see why the Government should resign, while it retained the confidence of the House. He pointed out that the Government majority even now was larger than the majority with which Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman assumed office in order to carry home rule. Sir Henry could settle the question of the Government's resignation or not by a vote of censure.

The House adjourned until April 12. Mr Balfour says that the budget probably will be introduced on April 19.

Balfour For Retaliation.

London, March 30.—(C.A.P.)—Premier Balfour, replying to Mr. Campbell-Bannerman's attack, that the Government gave lip service to the pamphlet, but its whole homage to the mysterious document recommending a preference and the taxation of food, said he stood by the policy of retaliation, which was progressive free trade as opposed to stationary or petrified free trade. He assured the Opposition nothing would be done during the life of the present Parliament with regard to the fiscal question.

Regret His Decision.

London, March 30.—(C.A.P.)—The Bristol Conservatives have passed a resolution expressing deep regret at the decision of Sir Michael Hicks-Beach not to seek re-election at the next general election.

The Children's Medicine.

A Cure for Cough's Colds, Cramp Bronchitis and Whooping Cough, Which Children Delight to Take.

It is impossible to be too careful in selecting the children's medicine.

Many cough mixtures contain powerful drugs and opiates which should never be allowed to enter a child's stomach.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine was especially prepared for the children by one of the most skillful and conscientious doctors that has ever practiced medicine.

Experience taught Dr. Chase that some of the simple products of the vegetable kingdom possessed most extraordinary curative properties, and he succeeded in so combining these in Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, as to make a medicine that is at once pleasant to the taste and wonderfully effective.

Croup, bronchitis, whooping cough, asthma, severe chest colds and painful coughs yield to this great medicine when extraordinary treatments have no effect.

You can learn of the splendid results of this treatment in nearly every home.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and author, are on every bottle.

The Crutch

(soliloquizing)

"I HAVE STOOD BY THE OLD MAN FOR FIFTEEN LONG YEARS, AND NOW HE HAS TURNED ME DOWN FOR A BOX OF Bu-Ju. I FEEL ALL BROKEN UP OVER IT."

The doctor told him he had rheumatism as the result of kidney trouble—too much uric acid in the blood. The kidneys had failed to perform their proper functions, and a long, continuous, painful case of rheumatism is the result. He was obliged to use a crutch off and on for 15 years until he read an advertisement of

and provided himself with that never failing remedy for all kidney disorders, and in a short time was enabled to cast the crutch into the woodbox, to take part in the building of its own funeral pyre.

Many people are suffering from kidney trouble who are not aware of it. They are sick, and unfit for work, business or pleasure. There may be one or many of the symptoms arising from disordered kidneys and they are treating for symptoms instead of fighting the disease, which is kidney trouble.

London, Sept. 7, 1903.

Claflin Chemical Co., Windsor, Ont.

Gentlemen:—I can't say too much about Bu-Ju, for what they have done for me. I can highly recommend them to anyone suffering from kidney trouble of any kind. I remain yours,

Bu-Ju, THE KIDNEY PILL, cures all forms of kidney disorders. Does it promptly and effectively. For sale by druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of price; 50c per box.

CHAPTER XXVI.

Aunt Betsy did not rest well after her return from the opera. Novelty and excitement always kept her awake, and her mind was not wholly at ease with regard to what she had done. Not that she really felt she had committed a sin, except so far as the example might be bad, but she feared the result, should it ever reach the Orthodox church at Silverton.

"There's no telling what Deacon Bannister would do—send a subpoena after me, for what I know," she thought, as she laid her tired head upon her pillow and went off into a weary state, half way between sleep and wakefulness, in which operas, play-actors, Katy in full dress, Helen and Mark Ray, choruses, music by the orchestra, to which she had been guilty of beating her foot, Deacon Bannister, and the whole offended brotherhood, with constable and subpoenas, were pretty equally blended together.

But with the daylight her fears subsided, and at the breakfast table she was hardly less enthusiastic over the opera than Mattie herself, averring; however, that "once would do her, and she had no wish to go again."

The sight of Katy had awakened all the olden intense love she had felt for her darling, and she could not wait much longer without seeing her.

"Hannah and Lucy, and amongst 'em, advised me not to come," she said to Mrs. Tubbs, "and they hinted that I might not be wanted up there: but now I'm here I shall go, if I don't stay more than an hour."

"Of course I should," Mattie answered, herself anxious to stand beneath Wilford Cameron's roof, and see Mrs. Wilford at home. "She don't look as proud as Helen, and you are her aunt, her blood kin; why shouldn't you go there if you like?"

"I shall—I am going," Aunt Betsy replied, feeling that to take Mattie with her was not quite the thing, and not exactly knowing how to manage, for the girl must of course pilot the way. "I'll risk it and trust to Providence," was her final decision, and so after an early lunch she started out with Mattie as her escort, suggesting that they visit Wilford's office first, and get that affair off her mind.

At this point Aunt Betsy began to look upon herself as a most hardened wretch, wondering at the depths of iniquity to which she had fallen. The opera was the least of her offences, for was she not harboring pride and contriving how to be rid of 'Tilda Tubbs, as clever a girl as ever lived, hoping that if she found Wilford he would see her home, and so save 'Tilda the trouble? Playhouses, pride, vanity, subterfuges and deceit—it was a long catalogue she would have to confess to Deacon Bannister, if confess she did, and with a groan the conscience-smitten woman followed her conductor along the streets, and at last into the stage which took them to Wilford's office.

Broadway was literally jammed that day, and the aid of two policemen was required to extricate the bewildered countrywoman from the mass of vehicles and horses' heads, which took all her sense away. Trembling like a leaf when Mattie explained that the "two nice men" who had dragged her to the walk were police officers, and thinking again of the subpoena, the frightened woman who had escaped such peril, followed up the two flights of stairs and into Wilford's office, where she sank breathless into a chair, while Mark, not in the least surprised, greeted her cordially, and very soon succeeded in getting her quiet, bowing so graciously to Mattie when introduced that the poor girl dreamed of him for many a night and by day built castles of what might have been had she been rich, instead of only 'Tilda Tubbs, whose home was on the Bowery. Why need Aunt Betsy in her introduction have mentioned that fact? Mattie thought, her cheeks burning scarlet; or why need she afterwards speak of her as 'Tilda, who was kind enough to come with her to the office where she hoped to find Wilford? Poor Mattie, she knew some things very well, but she had never yet conceived the immeasurable distance between herself and Mark Ray, who cared but little whether her home were on the Bowery or on Murray Hill, after the first sight which told him what she was.

"Mr. Cameron has just left the office and will not return to-day," he said to Aunt Betsy, asking if he could assist her in any way, and assuring her of his willingness to do so.

Aunt Betsy could talk with him better than with Wilford, and was about to give him the story of the sheep pasture, in detail, when, motioning to a side door, he said: "Walk in here, please. You will not be liable to so many interruptions."

"Come, 'Tilda, it's no privacy," Aunt Betsy said, but 'Tilda felt intuitively that she was not wanted, and rather haughtily declined, amusing herself by the window, while Aunt Betsy in the private office told her troubles to Mark Ray, and received in return the advice to let the claimant go to law if he chose, he probably would make nothing by it; even if he did, she would not sustain a heavy loss, according to her own statement of the value of the land.

"If I could keep the sweet apple tree, I wouldn't care," Aunt Betsy said, "for the rest ain't worth a lawsuit; though it's my property, and I have thought of willing it to Helen, if she ever marries."

Here was a temptation which Mark Ray could not resist. Ever since Mrs. General Reynolds's party Helen's manner had puzzled him; but her shyness only made him more in love than ever, while the rumor of her engagement with Dr. Morris tormented him continually. Sometimes he believed it, and sometimes he did not, wishing always that he knew for certain. Here than was a chance for confirming his fears or for putting them at rest, and blessing 'Tilda Tubbs for declining to enter his back office, he said in reply to Aunt Betsy's "If she ever marries"—"And of course she will. She is engaged, I believe?"

"Engaged! Who to? When? Strange she never writ, nor Katy neither," Aunt Betsy exclaimed while Mark, raised to an ecstatic state, replied: "I refer to Dr. Grant. Haven't they been engaged for a long time past?"

"Why—no—indeed," was the response, and Mark could have hugged the good old lady, who continued in a confidential tone: "I used to think they'd make a good match; but I've gin that up, and I sometimes mistrust 'twas Katy Morris wanted. Anyhow, he's mighty changed since she was married, and he never speaks her name. I never heard anybody say so, and maybe it's all a fancy, so you won't mention it."

"Certainly not," Mark replied, drawing nearer to her, and continuing in a low tone: "Isn't it possible that after all Helen is engaged to her cousin, and you do not know it?"

"No," and Aunt Betsy grew very positive. "I am sure she ain't, for only t'other day I said to Morris that I wouldn't wonder if Helen and another chap had a hankerin', for one another; and he said he wished it might be so for you—no, that other chap, I mean—would make a splendid husband," and Aunt Betsy turned very red at the blunder, which made Mark Ray feel as if he walked on air, with no obstacle whatever in his way.

Still he could not be satisfied without probing her a little deeper, and so he said: "And that other chap? Does he live in Silverton?"

Aunt Betsy's look was a sufficient answer; for the old lady knew he was quizzing her, just as she felt that in some way she had removed a stumbling-block, and in the first flush of his joy and gratitude he could do most anything. So when she spoke of going up to Katy's he set himself industriously at work to prevent it for that day at least. "They were to have a large dinner party," he said, "and both Mrs. Cameron and Miss Lennox would be wholly occupied. Would it not be better to wait until to-morrow? Did she contemplate a long stay in New York?"

"No, she might go back to-morrow—certainly the day after," Aunt Betsy replied, her voice trembling at this fresh impediment thrown in the way of her seeing Katy.

The quaver in her voice touched Mark's sympathy. "She was old and simple-hearted. She was Helen's aunt," and this more than aught else, helped him to a decision. "She must be homesick in the Bowery, he would take her to his mother's and keep her until the morrow, and perhaps until she left for home; telling Helen, of course, and then suffering her to act accordingly."

This he proposed to his client; assuring her of his mother's entire willingness to receive her, and urging so many reasons why she should go there, instead of "up to Katy's," where they were in such confusion, that Aunt Betsy was at last persuaded, and was soon riding up town in a Twenty-third Street stage, with Mark Ray her vis-a-vis, and Mattie at her right. Why Mattie was there Mark could not conjecture; and perhaps she did not know herself, unless it were that, disappointed in her call on Mrs. Cameron, she vaguely hoped for some redress by calling on Mrs. Banker. How then was she chagrined, when, as the stage left them at a handsome brown stone front, near Fifth Avenue Hotel, Mark said to her, as if she were not of course expected to go in: "Please tell your mother that Miss Barlow is stopping with Mrs. Banker to-day. Has she baggage at your house? If so, we will send round for it at once. Your number, please?"

His manner was so offhand and yet so polite that Mattie could neither resist him, nor be angry, though there was a pang of disappointment at her heart as she gave the required number, and then shook Aunt Betsy's hand, whispering in a choked voice:

"You'll come to us again before you go home?"

With a good-bye to Mark, whose bow atoned for a great deal, Mattie walked slowly away, leaving Mark greatly relieved. Aunt Betsy was as much as he cared to have on his hands at once, and as he led her up the steps, he began to wonder more and more what his mother would say to his bringing that stranger into her house, unbidden and unsought.

"I'll tell her the truth," was his rapid decision, and assuming a manner which warned the servant who answered his ring neither to be curious nor impertinent, he conducted his charge into the parlor, and bringing her a chair before the grate, went in quest of his mother, who he found was out.

"Kindle a fire then in the front guests'-chamber," he said, "and see that it is made comfortable as soon as possible."

The servant bowed in acquiescence, wondering who had come, and feeling not a little surprised at the description given by John of the woman he had let in to the house, and who now in the parlor was looking around her in astonishment and delight, condemning herself for the feeling of homesickness with which she remembered the Bowery, and contrasting her "cluttered quarters" there with the elegance around her. "Was Katy's house as fine as this?" she asked herself, feeling intuitively that such as she might be out of place in it, just as she began to fear she was out of her place here, bemoaning the fact that she had forgotten her cap-box, with its contents, and so could not remove her bonnet, as she had nothing with which to cover her gray head.

"What shall I do?" she was asking herself, when Mark appeared, explaining that his mother was absent, but would be at home in a short time.

"Your room will soon be ready," he continued, "and meantime you might lay aside your wrappings here if you find them too warm."

There was something about Mark Ray which inspired confidence, and in her extremity Aunt Betsy gasped: "I can't take off my bonnet till I get my caps, down to Mr. Tubbses. Oh, what a trouble I be."

Not exactly comprehending the nature of her difficulty, Mark suggested that she go without a cap until he could send for them; but Aunt Betsy's assertion that "she was grayer than a rat," enlightened him with regard to her dilemma, and full permission was given her "to sit in her bonnet" until such time as a messenger could go to the Bowery and back. In this condition she was better in her own room, and as it was in readiness, Mark conducted her to it, the stern gravity of his face putting down the laugh which sprang to the waiting maid's eyes at the old lady's ejaculations of surprise that anything could be so fine as the house where she so unexpectedly found herself a guest.

"She is unaccustomed to the city, but a particular friend of mine; so see that you treat her with respect," was all the explanation vouchsafed to the curious girl.

But that was enough. A friend of Mr. Ray's must be somebody, even if she sat with two bonnets on instead of one, and appeared ten times more rustic than Aunt Betsy, who breathed freer when she found herself alone up stairs, and knew her baggage would soon be there.

In some little trepidation Mark paced up and down the parlor waiting for his mother, who came ere long, expressing her surprise to find him there, and asking if anything had happened that he seemed so agitated.

"Yes, I'm in a deuced scrape," he answered, coming up to her with the saucy, winning smile she could never resist, and continuing: "To begin at the foundation, you know how much I am in love with Helen Lennox?"

"No, I don't," was the reply, as Mrs. Banker removed her fur with the most provoking coolness. "How should I know when you have never told me?"

"Haven't you eyes? Can't you see? Don't you like her yourself?"

"Yes, very much."

"And are you willing she shou d be your daughter?"

Mark had his arm around his mother's neck, and bending his face to hers, kissed her playfully as he asked her the last question.

She happily found relief from her terrible suffering by using

Burdock Blood Bitters.

A remedy without a rival for the cure of all diseases and troubles arising from bad blood. A record extending over a quarter of a century and thousands of testimonials will prove this. Mrs. Deitz writes: "Too weak to work, tortured with the pain of ulcers, boils and pimples all over my body, especially on my face. I had almost made up my mind to give up trying to have them cured. I was ashamed to have any person come to see me, my face was in such a terrible state. I tried everything I could think of but got worse and worse. I was then led to try Burdock Blood Bitters and was surprised at the wonderful change the first bottle made. Altogether I took seven bottles and am now completely cured and am in perfect health again. I feel that B.B.B. saved my life."

Doctor after doctor treated me but only gave me relief—not a cure. Hot Springs helped me, but did not cure me. The symptoms always returned. Mercury and Potash drove the poison into my system instead of driving it out. I bless the day your New Method Treatment was recommended to me. PARTICULARS OF LABRADOR TRAGEDY.

Late Mr. Hubbard Had Relatives who at Present Live Here.

The Brooklyn Standard Union Furnishes Further Information—Calamity Not the Result of Carelessness—Mr. Hubbard was Thoroughly Equipped and Familiar with His Duties.

Further particulars, supplementing the article previously published in the Examiner, referring to the unfortunate expedition in which the late Mr. Hubbard participated, taken from the Brooklyn Standard Union, will be read with interest by Examiner readers, in view of the fact that Mr. Hubbard visited in Peterborough, and has at the present time relatives living here:—

"Unspeakably sad, yet heroic, are the details of Hubbard's death in that great lone land, Labrador. So vast is this forbidden tract, inhospitable at all times of the year, and intolerable at some, so remote from civilization and all its activities, that the tidings of that lonely tragedy of some six months ago, comes like a weird tale of the past or a story out of the last generation. Only those who have paid a little attention to this great northern land; who realize that Hubbard's projected journey through an unpeopled country, in which only the hardiest animals find sparse support, where vegetation fights for its life, and the landscape is little but stunted forests, barren rocks and swamps, as far as from New York to Chicago, can have adequate idea of the task to which he and his loyal comrade addressed themselves. Labrador, for a thousand miles along its coast a narrow escarpment, in the ledges and crannies of which a few fishermen eke out a difficult summer existence, is in its interior almost as impracticable as any section of the whole globe—or the adventurous Canadian and his elder cousin of England, who own the country, who have exploited it long ago. It is easy enough, moreover, for us, in comfortable homes, to say, 'Poor fellow; he should have known better,' close the book, and go on with our daily round of routine or frivolity, and dismiss the matter from meory.

But incidents like these are not disposed off in this way. It is not fair for us here to say that Hubbard went poorly equipped and outfitted into the wilderness, and that he paid a just penalty for his own carelessness; it takes but a moment to see that a choice was presented between ample supplies and excessive transportation; so that it is altogether reasonable that Hubbard intelligently took the chance of marching light and living off the country, rather than attempting burdens which would make pack horses of his men and break down his party in its first stages. That his judgment was wrong is true, but that is the chance that every explorer takes. Had the season been different, the game plentiful, Hubbard would have won, and added a brilliant chapter to an already honourable and distinguished field record. That he faced the alternative intelligently, even as he met the latter end calmly, there is no reason to doubt. He was too good a sportsman, too intelligent an explorer, to blunder, and it is but fair to acquit him of any suspicion in that direction. Explorers over and over again take more and greater chances than were presented to Hubbard, and when they win everything is forgiven. Nothing succeeds like success, and when the task is accomplished all its dangers and privations are forgotten.

But this is only a narrow and personal view of the tragedy. It is already certain that in the larger sense and in the long reckoning, Hubbard has gained more and has accomplished more than if he had made his journey and returned with his records and his material. The last days of his life tell the story, as it can only be told in life and in fact, of the true American spirit, the real nobility of the soul, which, baffled in its quest, disappointed in its ambition, beaten by inexorable fate, looks it calmly in the face and, with unflinching loyalty to friends and faith in ideals, enters the future, never lowering its flag. Nothing in the history of men is finer and tenderer than the story of the parting of Hubbard and Wallace; of the desperate efforts of the latter for succor, while Hubbard, unable to move, solitary and alone, faced his fate and met his doom. "Peace has her victories no less than war," and this is one of them, and the time will never come when the explorer, perishing day by day at his farthest, thousands of miles from home and friends, yet with spirit unperturbed and with faith undimmed, will be forgotten. Those who died at Cape Sabine share the honours with those who live, and in the same way Hubbard's death and the manner of it, the glory of it, will be a possession not only to those who knew and loved him, but to young and daring men the world over for all time to come.

But even this does not tell the whole because in that common humanity which makes the whole world kin there is something in this incident which belongs to every right-minded and clear-headed man — an inspiration to duty, a determination to fight better the battle of life no matter where its scene may be cast, and to discharge to the full every responsibility which fate presents. To those who have heard the high call to enter the wild and waste places of the earth to bring home to those of us of shorter range and narrower lives knowledge of the globe, the fate of Hubbard will be both an example and an inspiration. It is not necessary, fortunately, for many to follow his lead, but some adventurous souls have been in all ages, and will be until the earth on which we dwell is wholly known. Columbus might have rusted in monasteries and in universities; Balboa need never have looked on the Pacific; Livingstone might have preached at home, but the spirit was in these men and those like them, not of conquest, of glory, in the cheap and popular sense, but the high ambition to meet the challenge of nature, to break the seal guarding her secrets, and to open wide the door to the clear daylight of human knowledge.

Forty years ago Theodore Winthrop, soon to realize on his first battlefield the truth, wrote:—"Whoever has lived knows that timely death is the great prize of life; who can regret when a worthy soul wins it? But this untimely perishing of a brother-man, alone and helpless in the dark and cold, was pure waste and ruin"—which is now and eternally true, and fits Hubbard as though it had been written expressly for him.

LAST OF SPECIAL LENTEN SERVICES.

Rev. J. L. Holah, L S. T., Preached Sermon on the "Cross," at St. John's.

A large congregation gathered at St. John's church last night, when the last of the special Lenten services were held, Rev. J. L. Holah, L.S.T., acting-Rector of St. Luke's, being the preacher. He took for his subject the text found in Gal. 6, 14, "But God forbid that I should glory, save in the death of our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom the world is crucified unto me and I unto the world."

The speaker said that the cross was the centre of our religious life, just as the Cross on St. Paul's, London, was the centre of Great Britain. The sermon was an especially timely one, and the large congregation present was deeply interested in the speaker's words.

LATE OPENING OF RICE LAKE.

Fully 35 Inches of Ice on the Lake at the Present Time.

Two years ago the ice in Rice Lake broke up on April 17th, but this year it will not likely go out before the 1st of May. The ice is fully 35 inches thick at present. Thirty years ago, on May 3rd, the ice was strong enough to allow conveyances to cross.—Hastings Star.

GOLF.

The Examiner acknowledges a resolution passed by the Ladies' Golf Club thanking this paper for publishing information relating to the Club during the year. The Examiner assures the members of the Club that it gladly gives reports of the doings of the Club.

BASEBALL.

The Port Hope Guide, in discussing the baseball situation says:—"Baseball in the Midland League promises to be much faster than last year. Peterborough will be represented by that fast Excelsior team, and it is reported that Lindsay has a nine that can hold their own with the most of them. It is up to Port Hope to get down to business and strengthen their team. Last year there was always some trouble in securing a nine for a game and the full team was never out to practice. This of course makes it very difficult to win games and the locals by ending second in the League did remarkably well under the circumstances. Manager Orton expects to have between 15 and 20 players to pick from this year and those who turn out to practice will receive the places. This will increase the interest and no doubt make better ball players."

FOOTBALL.

BOWMANVILLE'S GOOD RECORD.

The Bowmanville Statesman has the following: "A public meeting of the Football Association will be held in the office of Drs. Brimacombe and Devitt, on Tuesday, April 5th, at 7.30 sharp. As there is some talk of entering a team in the Midland League this year all interested in football are cordially invited. Our team has a record that few teams can boast of, losing only two games since organization in 1899."

Diphtheria not Direct Cause.

In the report of Mrs. Geo. Monerieff's death, the Examiner stated that it was due to diphtheria. This, it is learned, is hardly correct, for, while there were symptoms of that disease it did not cause her death. Only one child has died from the disease, the second one who was taken ill with it fully recovered while in the hospital.

RUSSIAN FLEET STILL "AT SEA."

Russians in a Bad Condition in Corea.

RUSS ADMIRAL PRAISES JAPS

Admiral Togo to Make Another Attack on Port Arthur — Russians Playing Waiting Game — Marquis Ito Returns from Corea to Japan.

St. Petersburg, April 2.—A semi-official despatch from Port Arthur, bearing date of yesterday, says:

"Our entire squadron left this harbor, March 28, making for the Miactas Islands. At 11 o'clock the cruiser Novik sighted a steamer towing a Chinese junk. She would not stop until a torpedo boat fired two shots. It was the Japanese steamer Hanien Maru, on board which were found ten Japanese and eleven Chinamen, various papers, telegrams and maps and two Whitehead torpedoes. The crew was taken on board our ships, after which the vessel was taken in tow and subsequently sunk."

Again at Port Arthur.

London, April 2.—A despatch to The Central News from Tokio says Vice-Admiral Togo made another attack on Port Arthur during the night of March 30-31. The despatch adds that it is understood the attack was for the purpose of taking soundings and ascertaining the effects of the last attempt to bottle up the Russian fleet. No details of the attack are obtainable.

The correspondent of the Associated Press at St. Petersburg says the Russian Government has received no news to confirm the statement.

Report Not Confirmed.

St. Petersburg, April 2.—The Associated Press is officially informed that up to the present time the Government has received no news to confirm the statement sent by a news agency from Tokio that the Japanese made another attack on Port Arthur during the night of March 30-31.

Report Jap Success on Land.

Tokio, April 2.—Information has been received here from a private source that the Japanese troops, after dislodging the Russians at Chengju (about 50 miles northwest of Pingyang), on March 28, rested for one day and then advanced to Yongchun (about 15 miles west of Chengju). After a brief engagement, they drove the enemy farther north, the Russians retreating towards Ensan, a town, 80 miles northeast of Yongchun.

Situation in Port Arthur.

St. Petersburg, April 2.—Viceroy Alexieff is at Port Arthur on a tour of inspection. He arrived there Thursday and his stay will be brief, returning immediately to headquarters. With Admiral Makaroff and General Stoessel he visited the battleships Petropavlovsk, Retvizan and Czarevitch, the protected cruiser Pallada, and other ships in the harbor, and later conferred gold swords of honor, with St. George's ribbons inscribed "For gallantry" upon the captains of the cruisers Bayan, Novik and Askold.

According to information received here it is believed the Japanese are preparing to repeat their attempts on Port Arthur. There is a growing conviction in naval and military circles that Vice-Admiral Togo's desperate effort to bottle up or cripple the Port Arthur squadron are for the purpose of definitely immobilizing it while the Japanese effects a landing at Newchwang or some other point.

Vice-Admiral Makaroff's capture of a Japanese steamer near an island between the extremity of the Liaotung Peninsula and the Shantung Peninsula, proves that he is watching the entrance to the Gulf of Pechili. It is not believed the Japanese will attempt to debark on the shores of the Liaotung Gulf while Makaroff's fleet is uncrippled.

Charges Japs With Cowardice.

The Novi Krai, of Port Arthur, dated March 8, has just arrived here. It contains a telegram from Captain Reitzenstein (commanding the Russian squadron at Vladivostock), referring to the Japanese attack on Vladivostock, from which it appears that his squadron was not only in port when the enemy was sighted, but that it got up steam, went out and engaged the Japanese, who turned tail. Captain Reitzenstein, according to his telegram to the commander-in-chief, pursuing the Japanese till 5 p. m., when he returned to Vladivostock. He gives the composition of the Japanese squadron as follows: The battleship Fuji, the armored cruisers Idsumo Yakumo and Iwate and the Togaimi.

Russ Admiral Praises Japs.

Admiral Skrydloff, commander of the Black Sea fleet, who commanded the Pacific squadron for four years, in an interview just published, paid a high tribute to the seamanship, nerve and pluck of the Japanese.

He considers Port Arthur to be impregnable, of which he believes the Japanese are convinced, and declares that Admiral Makaroff's fleet later on will play an important role. But for the present, and for some months, the scene of action will be on land. While the Admiral does not say so, it is apparent that Makaroff is considering the arrival of the Baltic fleet in the autumn. While he says Black Sea fleet is only preparing for the customary manoeuvres, Admiral Skrydloff adds: "But we are ready for anything."

Russia May Pass Suez Canal.

Russia has received satisfactory assurances from the Government of Egypt regarding the passage of private ships through the Suez Canal.

The Russ thinks the prospects of the maintenance of Chinese neutrality are more reassuring, as the Chinese warships are not going to Newchwang, and no more Chinese troops are being concentrated near the zone of operations.

Russians Count on Delay.

Paris, April 2.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Echo De Paris says the wife of one of General Kuropatkin's orderly officers has received a telegram from her husband saying that the general staff does not believe that there will be any great battle before September. The writer adds that Russian troops in Manchuria, including Port Arthur and Vladivostock, now number 215,000, and the total may be 300,000 by the end of April and 500,000 by September; when, if the Japanese have not crossed the Yalu, General Kuropatkin will advance and drive them out of Corea.

The only fear in high quarters, according to the writer, is the inability of China to restrian her troops or to prevent troops landing in a Chinese port in the event of Japanese successes, however ephemeral. Gen. Kuropatkin has telegraphed Gen. Mistchanof to avoid any engagements in which the security of the Russian side should be uncertain.

Wounded Russians Return Home.

Odessa, April 2.—The police here have again warned the inhabitants against the dissemination of lies calculated to arouse race hatred. Offenders will be liable to three months' imprisonment and $250 fine. The warning begins: "All the Emperor's subjects to whatever faith or race they belong, enjoy equal rights and protection under the laws of Russia. Only enemies of Russia will stir up strife."

The Russian steamer Malaya, from far eastern ports, with the survivors of the crews of the Korietz and Variag on board, arrived here yesterday and received an enthusiastic reception. The commandant of the port boarded the steamer and pinned crosses of St. George on the breasts of the rescued men.

Russians in Poor Shape in Corea.

Seoul, April 2.—Brigadier-General Allen, United States military observer, with the Japanese army, has returned here from Pingyang. He says the roads in Northern Corea are in very bad condition, and that the Russians have lost excellent opportunities to take advantage of the natural obstacles offered by the country to oppose the Japanese advance. Gen. Allen believes that the Russians intend to make a stand at the Yalu.

It has been learned here that the Russian cavalry is in much distress and is retiring toward Wiju. They are cutting down telegraphs poles to use as fuel and their horses are dying for lack of proper food.

War Correspondents' Free to Act.

Tokio, April 2.—The first party of foreign correspondents left Tokio for the front yesterday. It consisted of 16 newspaper men, mostly British and Americans. From here the party goes to Mojt, Japan, leaving there April 6 on a Japanese transport for their destination, which is kept secret.

Ito Returns to Japan.

The Marquis Ito returned here yesterday from his special mission to the Emperor of Corea. He was received at the railroad station by the Ministers and was granted an audience by the Emperor. While it is denied that political significance is attached to the mission, it doubtless cements the cordiality between the Corean and Japanese courts, and will inspire the Corean Emperor with confidence in the intentions of Japan.

RIVERS RAMPAGING

Thousands Homeless in Two Ohio Towns.

LONDON'S RIVER STILL RISING

Port Hope in Danger From Its Small River—Large Bridge Swept Away By Flood Near Montreal—A Train Narrowly Escapes Destruction—A Sanitorium's Flight Cause Suffering.

Lima, O., April 2.—Ottawa River has flooded a large portion of this town. Two thousand people either are homeless or confined to the second storeys or roofs of their homes to escape the raging waters. Fully 500 houses are submerged, and they have been washed from their foundations.

In many cases where people lived in one-storey houses they were taken from the roof by rescuers just before the buildings collapsed and were swept away. Many narrow escapes from drowning were experienced. Several of the largest manufacturing plants in the city are under water. The Labelle Sanitarium is filled with patients, many of whom are dangerously ill, and have been huddled into rooms on the second floor. All public places and homes adjacent to the flooded district are already crowded with homeless.

Power Canal Runs Riot.

Piqua, Ohio, April 2.—The hydraulic canal which supplies this city with water has overflowed its banks as the result of a terrific rainfall, and the two hundred residences in the western and southern portion of the city were surrounded by water yesterday. A number of manufacturing plants have been compelled to close down as a result of the flood.

Danger Feared in Port Hope.

Port Hope, March 2.—The Ganaraska River overflowed its banks last night. The bridge on the main street has been considerably weakened by the raging waters and extra temporary supports are being put under it. Pedestrians are prohibited from walking on the north side of the bridge. Watchmen were placed along the banks last night to give warning if the situation becomes any worse.

Bridge Washed Away.

Montreal, April 2.—This morning an ice shove occurred at Chambly, on the Richelieu River, which completely carried away the Central Vermont Railway bridge. A train passed over a few minutes before and about the same time five of the seven spans of the new steel highway bridge in the same locality were likewise carried down the river, lodging against the dam of the Montreal Light, Heat & Power Co.

The Thames Still Rising.

London, April 2.—The Thames is still rising and now measures 12 feet higher than normal.

—Banks will be closed on Monday.

You'll Feel The Heat More Than Ever, This Summer.

This last winter was the most severe in 25 years. The cold was so continuous that one's system became accustomed to it. Then to have the thermometer jump from 25 below to 60 or 70 above zero, is enough to upset anybody—unless they are prepared for it.

ABBEY'S EFFERVESCENT SALT puts the whole system in the best possible condition to resist the enervating effects of spring weather.

It cures biliousness—keeps the stomach clean and healthy—stirs up the liver—regulates the kidneys—makes the blood pure and rich—drives away "that tired feeling"—gives vim to the whole system.

ABBEY'S SALT is the simplest—and the most effective of spring tonics. It is made of fruit juices—contains all the laxative properties of ripe fruits—and is pleasant to take.

At all druggists. 25c. and 60c. a bottle.

BRITANNIA RULES THE WAVES.

When the International Mercantile Marine Company was organized a couple of years ago by Mr. Pierpont Morgan, whose name was then a name to conjure with throughout the length and breadth of the United States, it was proclaimed that British supremacy in trans-Atlantic shipping had come to its end. But it turns out that trans-Atlantic shipping has been brought more completely than ever under British ownership and control, as the result of that combination. The newspaper talk to the contrary throughout the United States was all mere assumption. British interests owned a majority of stock from the outset; and British holdings have been much enlarged since then at small cost, stock standing very low in the market. Says a Springfield Republican:

"One of the companies going into the combination — The International Navigation — was American in law, and another, the Atlantic Transport Line, was American in fact or ownership, but they are now English in ownership or control, and an Englishman supplants an American at the head of the concern. English interests are also heavily represented in the syndicate holding the $50,000,000 of bonds of the company. The profits growing out of the organization were also largely for the English stockholders, while the losses, as in the case of the Atlantic transport line, chiefly accrue against Americans."

Such are the results of that great shipping combine achievement of an American.—St. Thomas Journal.

EASY MONEY.

At the recent meeting of the Canadian Forestry Association in Toronto, Mr. Joly de Lotbiniere, of Quebec, told how for seventy years his family had been deriving a large cash income from a bushland estate. This was accomplished by taking care that ripe trees only were selected for cutting and that no damage was done to the young and growing trees. Cultivated in this manner the annual product had steadily grown in value, and yet the timber on the estate was almost as great in quantity as it was when the process of cutting was first commenced.—April Canadian Magazine.

SETTLERS POURING IN.

Heavy Arrivals at Halifax Lately.

A Better Class of Passengers Coming and Very few go to the United States now.

Halifax, March 28th. — Immigration to Canada has been very large during the month, especially the latter half. Already this month over 3,000 persons have landed here, and the arrival of the Dominion today with over 600, and the Sarmatian to-morrow with 300, and the Bavarian and Southwark at the end of the week, will largely increase the number. Five thousand six hundred were slated to arrive at St. John and Halifax last week. The C. P. R. steamers Lake Champlain and Montezuma at St. John have 2,300 between them. One feature of travel has been the noticeable increase in the number of second class passengers, and the corresponding decrease in the number of steerage passengers, signifying that a better class of people are coming to Canada this season. Another feature is that a large percentage of the immigrants remain in Canada.

Of the 1,280 passengers brought out by the Tunisian on her last trip only 89 were destined for the United States, the remainder being bound for Ontario and the Northwest, and of the passengers by the Laurentian last week, over 100 were bound for Winnipeg.

READ IT THROUGH.

Twould Spoil This Story to Tell it in the Headlines.

To use an eighteenth century phrase, this is an "o'er true tale." Having happened in a small Virginian town in the winter of 1902 it is a story very much of the present. Up to a short time ago Mrs. John E. Harmon, of Melfa Station, Va., had no personal knowledge of the rare curative properties of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. "Last January," she says, "my baby took a dreadful cold and at one time I feared that she would have pneumonia, but one of my neighbours told me how this remedy had cured her little boy and I began giving it to my baby at once, and it soon cured her. I heartily thank the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for placing so great a cure within my reach. I cannot recommend it too highly or say too much in its favour. I hope all who read this will try and be convinced as I was." For sale by all druggists.

LAND AWAITING SETTLERS' PLOUGH

In Manitoba and the Territories The e are 171,000, 000 Acres fit for Settlement.

Winnipeg, March 26.—As to the land fit for settlement in Manitoba, Assiniboia, Saskatchewan and Alberta, the following figures have been taken from official sources and may be taken as a rough estimate of the areas in question.

Manitoba has a total area, exclusive of water, of 41,000,000 acres, of which it is estimated two-thirds, or 27,000,000 acres, are fit for cultivation. Assiniboia has a total area of 57,600,000 acres, of which probably seven-eighths, or 50,000,000 acres are fit for settlement. Saskatchewan has a total area of 70,000,000 acres of which about three-quarters are fit for cultivation, giving 52,-000,000. Alberta has a total area of 63,400,000 acres, two-thirds of which are said to be fit for settlers, or 42,000,000.

From these figures it will be seen that there are about 171,000,000 acres of land ready for settlers in Manitoba and the three provisional territories referred to. What proportion of the wide stretch of country to the north is suitable for settlers is not yet known, but it is believed that a vast area will be settled before many years.

Combes Has 80 Majority.

Paris, March 31.—In the Chamber of Deputies yesterday the campaign of the opposition against M. Pelletan, Minister of Marine, failed to shake the position of the Government which obtained a majority of eighty on a test vote.

MRS. PERKS DIED IN PORT HOPE.

Grandmother of Mr. Geo. Perks, Formerly of Local Bank of Commerce Staff.

The Port Hope Guide has the following on the death of Mrs. Perks, grandmother of Mr. George Perks, of Toronto, formerly of Peterborough:—

"Mrs. Isabella Perks, who died on March 24th, at her residence, Walton street Port Hope, was a daughter of the late William Myles, and Elizabeth Coults, of Kittens, Scotland, and came to this country with her parents when quite young. She was married to the late George Perks, M.D., who settled in Port Hope, and was so well and favourably known to many of the old residents of our town. One son, Wm. C. Perks, M. D., died in 1896, and six children, two sons and four daughters, survive to mourn her loss. Mrs. Perks was a member of the First Presbyterian church, and when health and strength permitted, took a very active part in the church work, and her labours in connection with the erection of the Y.M.C.A. and in the church will long be remembered by those associated with her in Christian work."

A LOCAL MINISTER LECTURES AT HASTINGS.

On the Subject "Men Wanted" and Creates a Favorable Impression.

The Hastings Star, in reporting a meeting of the Literary Society, held in that town, says:—

"The Rev. J. P. Wilson, of Peterborough, spoke on the subject, 'Men Wanted.' Although the lecturer was called at the eleventh hour, only having about half a day's notice, he did ample justice to the subject. The speaker held the attention of the audience from start to finish, and in the splendid philosophical address that he delivered, he demonstrated that the kind of men that were needed were men of integrity and character. History was extensively reviewed with the effect that men who were seemingly great and clever, were in reality, shams, while, on the other hand, men whose lives were apparently failures, were great successes. The scarcity of absolutely honest men in history was referred to. Diogenes had rushed out into the streets of Athens, and although there were thousands of men around him, he could not find an honest man. One of the greatest things that could be said about Queen Victoria, was that she was a woman in the highest sense of the word. The moral and ethical standard that was set up by the speaker was of the highest possible efficiency and could be obtained by all provided we were honest with ourselves. Genius, art, knowledge and learning, were not to be deplored, but Lord Byron had all these, and yet his life was a miserable failure. The speaker's manner was irresistible and every point he made was firmly impressed on the audience. He concluded with strong scriptural references."

THE LICENSE LAW AT CORDOVA MINES.

Provincial Officer Mr. McLaughlin has Been Relieved of his Duties.

As a sequel to the prosecution and conviction of one Moloney, at Cordova, for dealing in intoxicating liquors without a license, a conviction that indicated that there was failure on the part of the official appointed to enforce the law, Mr. Thomas McLaughlin has been removed from the office of Provincial officer.

Two years ago Mr. McLaughlin was appointed Provincial Officer under the provisions of the License Act, for its enforcement at Cordova Mines and vicinity, in the eastern part of East Peterborough. On Thursday last an order-in-council was passed approving of his removal from his position. The policy of the Department in regard to the enforcement of the License Law, must be respected, especially by officials, who must be prepared to accept the consequences of failure to discharge their duties efficiently.

OVERCOAT THIEVES IN LINDSAY.

Steal Clothing in Y. M. C. A. and were Caught at Belleville.

(Lindsay Post.)

Last Saturday night two men applied to Night Constable Reeves for lodging, stating that they had been employed on the railway and did not reach town in time to get into a hotel. Constable Reeves sent them to the Y.M.C.A. where some of the local railway men put up, and they were taken in and made comfortable. Next morning (Sunday) they left while the Bible class meeting was being held, and when Mr. T. G. Louden, one of those present, went to don his coat it could not be found. Suspicion was entertained of the two strangers, and Chief Nevison was informed of the occurrence and furnished with a description of the parties, but a diligent march of the town failed to locate them. Monday morning the Chief placed himself in connection with the police of Peterborough, Belleville, Port Perry, Orillia and other towns, and awaited results.

Tuesday night two men applied to the Belleville policeman for shelter, and after taking a good look at them he concluded that they answered very closely the description forwarded from Lindsay. The coat worn by one of them also looked like the garment wanted by a Lindsay owner, and the policeman at once fixed the men with the theft. Taken unawares they acknowledged their guilt and were locked up. Next morning Chief Nevison was informed of the arrest and he left for the Bastown armed with the necessary warrant, returning last night with two prisoners. This morning the accused were arraigned before Magistrate Jackson and pleaded guilty, but were remanded till Tuesday for sentence in order that their history may be traced in the interval. They gave their names as Sidney Bellrose, aged 28, from New Hampshire, and John McDonald, aged 24, from Manchester, England. Chief Nevison deserves credit for his prompt action which led to the capture of the thieves.

REV. W. W. MacCUAIG'S CHURCH REMEMBERED.

Was Given an Endowment of $5.000, the First Endowed Presbyterian Church in Canada.

The late Mrs. J. F. Turnbull, of Quebec, who recently died, leaving an estate valued at half a million, all of which was bequeathed to Charitable Institutions, left $5,000 to St. Andrew's Church, Levis, Que., the church of which Rev. W. W. MacCuaig, who is well known to many in Peterborough, is pastor.

This is the first Presbyterian church in Canada to be endowed.

With the exception of $5,000 given to Wycliff College, Toronto, the entire fortune was left to institutions in her native city.

THROW OFF THAT BURDEN OFF PAIN.

Your Dyspepsia and Despondency Will Vanish Together if you use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Edward Rousseau's Experience.

"I feel like a new man, better than I have felt for years." So speaks Edward Rousseau, of Bruce Mines, Ont. The reason! He had Dyspepsia; he used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and he feels all the light-heartedness of one who has thrown off an imminense weight of pain and despondency. Here is the rest of Mr. Rousseau's statement:

"For upwards of ten years I have been a severe sufferer from Dyspepsia. I doctored almost continually and used almost everything I could hear of. But it was all no use till I began to use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. I have taken two boxes and words cannot express the good they have done me."

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are the greatest natural stomach tonic of the age. They tone up the stomach by allowing it to rest while they do the work of digesting. The rested stomach is soon ready to do its regular work itself and the result is a natural and complete cure.

"POOR DIGESTION, LANGUID AND TIRED."

[An Interesting Letter Concerning Pe-ru-na.]

Miss Della Janveau, Globe Hotel, Ottawa, Ont., is from one of the oldest and best known French Canadian families in Canada. In a recent letter to The Peruna Medicine Co., of Columbus, Ohio, she says:

"Last spring my blood seemed clogged up, my digestion poor, my head ached and I felt languid and tired all the time. My physician prescribed for me, but a friend advised me to try Peruna. I tried it and am pleased to state that I found it a wonderful cleanser and purifier of the system. In three weeks I was like a new woman, my appetite had increased, I felt buoyant, light and happy and without an ache or pain. Peruna is a reliable family medicine."

Adia Brittain, of Sekitan, O., writes:

"After using your wonderful Peruna three months I have had great relief. I had continual heaviness in my stomach, was bilious, and had fainting spells, but they all have left me since using Peruna."—Adia Brittain.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

FIGHT ON IN THIBET

Col. Younghusband Defeats Natives With Great Slaughter.

HALF KILLED OR WOUNDED

They Were Armed With Ancient Matchlock and Resistance Was Impossible—British Force Endured Great Suffering From Terrible Cold —Maxims Were Frozen Up.

Tuna, British India, April 2.—The first clash occurred on the morning of Thursday between the force of Col. Younghusband and the Thibetans, whose camp at Guru was captured.

At 8 o'clock a flying column started to reconnoitre the Thibetan camp at Guru, whereupon a general from Lhassa came to interview Col. Younghusband. The general asked the colonel to retire with his mission to Yatung for the purpose of carrying on negotiations, threatening an attack if the mission proceeded.

Col. Younghusband replied that negotiations had been proceeding fruitlessly for fifteen years, and that retirement was now impossible. The Thibetan general withdrew and Col. Younghusband ordered his troops to endeavor to disperse the Thibetans, blocking the road without firing upon them.

Details show that while the forces were face to face on the opposite sides of a wall, which the Thibetans had built across the highway to oppose the advance the Indian troops deployed their flanks and enclosed 1,500 Thibetans in a circle like herding sheep. The members of the mission, the press correspondents and the general staff rode up to inspect the capture and were laughing and talking. They were unaware of the impending tragedy, being evidently heedless of the sullen demeanor of the Thibetans. The latter presently began to hustle some Sikhs who replied with the butt end of their rifles. Then the Thibetans fired a pistol, wounding a Sikh and this was the signal for all the Thibetans to draw their swords and rush at their captors, who opened fire on the surging mob. The officers emptied their revolvers.

The Thibetans were unable to climb the wall, which they themselves had built. Finally about half of them were able to break away to the rear, where they came under the fire of the artillery. Of the entire Thibetan force only about half escaped death or wounds.

The Thibetans lost heavily, owing to the inferiority of their weapons, which were matchlock rifles, but they displayed the greatest courage, many of them coming on after they had been wounded several times. The scene after the action was like a shambles. The dead were heaped on top of each other, and a long trail of dead and wounded extended to the rear.

Among the Thibetans killed were the Lhassa general, the military commandant of Phari and Lata, and the representative of the Tashi Lama monastery, to whose influence and violent hostility the existing difficulties were largely due.

The Daily Mail correspondent was seriously wounded.

While up to this time the British advance had practically been unopposed, the expedition suffered great hardship from the great cold, and it was sometimes found impossible to use the Maxim guns and rifles, owing to the congealing of the oil.

Will you help a Sick Friend?

Get My Book for Him Now.

Which Shall I Send?

Book 1 on Dyspepsia.
Book 2 on the Heart.
Book 3 on the Kidneys.
Book 4 for Women.
Book 5 for Men (sealed.)
Book 6 on Rheumatism.

Send me no money.

Only tell me which book to send.

You certainly know of someone who is sick—some sufferer who will be grateful for the help my book offers.

And that book tells of a way to help. Tells of a way so certain that I, as a physician, offer that help on trial. The book tells how for 30 years in hospitals and at bedsides I searched for a way to cure deep-seated and difficult diseases. It tells how I perfected my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. How by scientific experiment I traced out the causes that bring on chronic diseases.

I found invariably that where there was a weakness the inside nerves were weak. Where there was a lack of vitality, the vital nerves lacked power. Where weak organs were found I always found weak nerves. Not the nerves commonly thought of, but the vital organs' nerves. The inside—the invisible nerves.

This was a revelation. Then my real success began. Then I combined ingredients that would strengthen, that would vitalize these nerves.

That prescription I called a restorative. It is known the world over now as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. After that I did not fail to cure one case in each hundred. In the extremely difficult cases my failures for five years were one in each forty treated. I found cancer incurable. Cancer is for surgery, not medicine.

Then how to get this prescription to sick ones everywhere was my thought. I must announce it in the public press. But, thought I, will they realize the real truth of my discovery, the real power of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Then a way came to me—like an inspiration. "I will offer it to the sick on trial. Then they will know I am sincere—that my prescription is unusual."

I wrote a reliable druggist in each city and village in America. They agreed to co-operate with me. Now by any sick one Dr. Shoop's Restorative can be taken at my risk. For a full month I will let you use it entirely at my risk.

Send me no money. Just write me for the book you need. When I send it I will tell you of a druggist near by who will permit the month's trial. Use the Restorative a month. Then decide. If you say to the druggist, "It did not help me," that will relieve you of any expense whatever. He will bill the cost to me. This is my way of clearing your mind of all doubt as to what Dr. Shoop's Restorative can do.

No matter how prejudiced, you cannot dispute this absolute security I offer. You cannot resist an offer like this if you are at all sick. If you have a weakness, write me. If you can't do things like you used to do them, tell me about it. Write in confidence. As a physician I will tell you a way to help.

Get my book now—to-day. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 47, Racine, Wis.

Mild cases not chronic, are often cured with one or two bottles. At druggists.

HOLD UP BY TRAIN ROBBERS.

California Express Messenger Shot Defending His Trust.

Sacramento, Cal., April 2.—Three masked men held up the Oregon express, southbound, on the Southern Pacific Railroad at Copley, near Keswick, killed W. J. O'Neil, the express messenger, and carried off the contents of the express box.

The train stopped at a small station for water when the men jumped on board, cut the train in two and took the engine and express car down the track. O'Neil refused to open the car, whereupon they deliberately shot him.

The bandits then robbed the car. They tried to force Messenger O'Neil's helper to open the safe, but he showed that he could not do so. The robbers then compelled the train crew of seven to place six sticks of dynamite on top of the safe. The explosion wrecked the entire car.

They then compelled the engineer to take them on five miles to Keswick, where they alighted and disappeared. An armed posse is in pursuit.

Shame Caused Suicide.

Lyons, France, April 2.—M. Weyer, a judge of the Court of Appeal at Lyons, committed suicide at 3 o'clock yesterday morning by shooting himself through the left eye. The tragedy has brought to light a remarkable scandal, in which M. Weyer was the central figure. He was a confirmed gambler, and was a member of one of the best clubs in Montpellier. Last January he was observed on several occasions while acting in a friendly way as croupier to convert some of the money on the table to his own use. A watch was set on the judge, with the result that he was detected in the act of taking money from the table and putting it into his own pocket.

Success of Canadian Actress.

London, April 2.—Miss Margaret Anglin sailed from Southampton in the St. Paul to-day, under engagement to Mr. Charles Frohman, to appear as joint star with Mr. Henry Miller in "Camille," at the Hudson Theatre, New York.

Little Jack's Legs Crushed.

Toronto, March 31.—Little "Jack" Hall and his mother and uncle were running to catch a Belt Line car last night, just above Earl street. The lad was in the lead and, unable to stop himself, he ran against the moving car. The speed at which he was going caused him to slip as he struck the car, and he fell beneath the rear wheels. The result was that both of his legs were caught above the knees and crushed almost to a pulp.

Lady Minto Breaks Her Leg.

Ottawa, March 31.—Lady Minto and party were skating at Rideau Rink yesterday morning on rather poor ice. About 1 o'clock, in turning the end of the rink, Lady Minto tripped and fell, suffering a compound fracture of the right leg just above the ankle. She suffered great pain. Drs. Chabot and R. A. Powell attended her. She was taken to Rideau Hall in a private ambulance.

Drowned in a Well.

St. Thomas, March 31.—The wife of Samuel Smith of Talbotville was drowned in a well yesterday morning. Her husband had gone to work and her mother found the body. She was of a melancholy nature, and an aunt met death in a similar way some time ago.

Four Children Cremated.

Riverdale, Mich., March 31.—Four children were burned to death near a mill six miles north of here. They were the children of Wesley Switzer, who was working in the mills. The mother left them shut in the house while she went on an errand to a neighbor.

Are you feeding your pigs on the food that develops brain and muscle and your children on the food that simply produces fat and heat?

No farmer wants to increase the brain and muscle elements in his cattle. Yet through ignorance of the laws of Nature he feeds them on the outer coatings of wheat (which contain the brain and muscle-producing elements) only grinding the starchy kernel of the grain (which practically contains only the fat and heat-producing elements of wheat) into white flour to make bread for human beings.

To be physically and mentally fit you require every element in the whole of the wheat. The only food you can get it in is

SHREDDED WHOLE WHEAT BISCUIT AND TRISCUIT

The Natural Foods

—the only naturally organized food in the world. The shredding process makes it light and porous, thus presenting the greatest surface to the action of the digestive fluids, which makes it easy of digestion.

As whole wheat contains in exact proportions every element required by the human body, it follows that it must necessarily nourish every element of the body.

Triscuit the electrically baked whole wheat wafer, which contains no yeast, fats or chemicals, takes the place of ill-nourishing bread or crackers and makes ideal toast.

Make Triscuit your daily bread.

Biscuit and Triscuit should be heated before eating.

SOLE AGENTS, MONTREAL.

McPherson & McGregor

(Successors to the F. R. J. McPherson Co.)

Take this opportunity of thanking the public for the very liberal patronage accorded the late firm. Trade has been so satisfactory that Mr McGrego decided to increase his interest in the business and, as a consequence, the firm will be known hereafter as McPHERSON & McGREGOR.

Our specialties are:—

Sanitary Plumbing
Sanitary Ventilating
Steam and Hot Water Heating
Electrical Wiring and Supplies

We wish to draw the attention of the public to a few of the many complimentary testimonials received by Mr. McGregor for the high quality of the work he has installed in Plumbing and Heating:—

From the Firm of Bennet & Wright, Plumbing, Heating and Electrical Contractors, Toronto.

This is to certify that Duncan McGregor has been in our employment steady for about fifteen years and during that time we have found him to be steady, honest and trustworthy. He has given every satisfaction as a practical mechanic in each of the following branches: Plumbing, steam and gas fitting, also electrical and conduit work, and for some time has had charge of some of our largest contracts with satisfactory results.

From Illsley & Horn, General Contractors, Toronto.

The bearer, Mr. Duncan McGregor, had charge of the electric wiring at the King Edward Hotel Building. The job was a large and complicated one and by the way Mr. McGregor handled the work he proved himself a mechanic of more than ordinary ability. We unhesitatingly recommend him as a first class mechanic to anyone needing his services.

From Mr. J. Ross Robertson, of the Evening Telegram.

Mr. Duncan McGregor, who has been connected with the Bennet & Wright Co. for some years, and who has superintended the work of plumbing and heating for the Bennet & Wright Co., is not only in my opinion, but also that of my architect, a fully competent mechanic. His work, my architect informs me, has been most satisfactory. Any thing that has come under my own supervision has been likewise satisfactory.

An Extract Taken from the June Number of Domestic Engineering.

During the recent convention of the Canadian Electrical Association held in the King Edward Hotel, a thorough examination was made of all the electrical work in the hotel, and it was pronounced second to none on the continent. Therefore, great credit is due Mr. Duncan MacGregor, who superintended the entire conduit, electrical and power system for the firm of Bennet & Wright, of this city, who were the contractors for all the different branches of the electrical work in the new hotel.

WM. ARMSTRONG'S LIFE SENTENCE.

Prisoner is None Other Than the Notorious Stanley Steele.

And was Sentenced for Life for Attempted Murder Pardoned after Twenty Years.

It now transpires that William J. Armstrong, who is in gaol awaiting trial for obtaining money under false pretences, by advertising for young men and women to go to St. Louis to look after exhibits at attractive prices, exacting in the beginning $5.00 from each applicant, as stated, is none other than the notorious Stanley Steele, who was sentenced for Life in 1887 for attempted murder. When Detective Parkinson searched "Armstrong's" trunk he found correspondence there which proved him that his hird was an ex-convict. The detective sent "Armstrong's" photograph and all the information he had gathered about him to Co. Sherwood, Commissioner of Dominion Police at Ottawa, on Thursday, and yesterday received a reply that after twenty years, prisoner was Stanley Steele, and the capture was an important one.

In 1887 Steele, who was only about 20 years of age, attempted to rob a bank at Antigonishe, Nova Scotia. He was caught in the act and in his desperation shot one of the young clerks. The wound was not fatal and instead of being hanged Steele was sentenced to imprisonment for life. He was at first confined in Dorchester prison, but so troublesome was he to the authorities there that the police removed him to Kingston. Seeing it would be the better for him if he was not a source of annoyance to his warders, he became more docile and his conduct was so exemplary that a telegram from him stating that the loss his good conduct allowance, he was pardoned and allowed to go. He would thus have probably served sixteen years imprisonment for his desperate crime. What the prisoner did and where he went after his release from the penitentiary last spring is not known, the only next link in the chain of his life being when he went to the lumber camps last fall. He is aged 36 years, but looks fully 10 years junior to that. The police believe that when he finds out that they know all about him and his previous career, that he will plead guilty to the charge of obtaining money under false pretences.

PETERBOROUGH BOY'S SUCCESSFUL CAREER.

Mr. Geo. A. Morency's Steady Climb up to Ladder of Promotion.

Mr. George A. Morency, chief clerk of the Grand Trunk General Passenger Agent, Montreal, and son of Mr. Ed. Morency, now and for many years, engineer to the Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Company, was in town to spend Good Friday with his father and family.

Mr. Morency is an example of steady advancement from a humble beginning to the important position he now holds. He started at the foot of the ladder as telegraph operator at Quebec at the age of 15 years. Necessarily at that age he had not had great advantages of education, but he had qualities that compensated. By industry and faithful service, he commended himself to his employers, and his rise was steady. He is now one of the most efficient employees of the office he is in; he stands very high in the esteem of the General Passenger Agent, and no doubt the next step in promotion will place Mr. Morency in position of General Asst. Passenger Agent of the Grand Trunk Railway System. Mr. Morency could only make a brief stay, and he left last night for Montreal so as to be on duty this morning.

The regiment will parade at the Armouries at 8.00 p.m. on Tuesday, April 5th, 1904, and on each subsequent Tuesday at the same hour until further notice.

By order,
D. WALKER,
Capt. and Adjutant.

PETERBOROUGH'S LIFT LOCK.

Attracts the Public as well as Elevates Steamers.

The Examiner has often insisted upon the importance of keeping the Lift Lock in the public eye, and what has been done in this direction is bearing fruit. A private letter received in Peterborough states that the Methodists of Brighton intend running an excursion to Peterborough to see the lift lock, some time in the early summer. Meant me it would not be inadvisable to make the formal opening on May 12th an occasion worthy of the event.

GENERALLY SPEAKING

ONE WOULD not think that a staid and dignified government department would be guilty of an official, and at the same time, practical pun. It is announced that the Department of Canals has decided to formally open the lift lock at Peterborough on May 12th. This date happens to be Ascension Day. Did the Department realize the practical character of the pun they were committing by naming "Ascension" Day to open a "lift" lock. And by the way, keep that sam opening in mind. Let Peterborough unite to make it the occasion of a big boom for the canal, and a big advertisement of the town.

THE POWER OF PERSONALITY has been rather forcibly exemplified by an experience which a local gentleman went through recently. He was booking dates for an entertainment, and wrote 75 letters explaining the nature of the concert, the terms, etc., and asked for a date. To these letters he received three replies. Then a friend told him that if he enclosed a stamp for reply, the results would be more satisfactory. This he did in the fifty letters that he subsequently wrote, and to the one half hundred eloquent appeals, he received four replies. Next he decided to take a trip and personally interview the persons to whom he wrote. This course resulted more satisfactorily, as arrangements for 46 night's entertainments will prove. Chances are he might have written as many more letters, and have made his arguments incontrovertible and still the dates would not come, until he came into personal contact with those to whom he wrote.

THE DUPLICATION of street names in the town proper and the new fifth ward is a matter which should engage the attention of someone. Three months have passed since the union of the two municipalities was consummated and nothing has as yet been done to remove what has proven to many, a source of inconvenience. There are a number of streets in the fifth ward of the same name as those in the town proper. Stewart street, for instance, and the fact that there are two Stewart streets in Peterborough gave a gentleman a merry chase the other day. He was a stranger in town, and meeting a residence of the fifth ward on his way up from the station, inquired the way to Stewart street. The man thus spoken too, of course thought only of the Stewart street in his particular part of the town, directed the stranger to it, which, of course, was the wrong one, and a couple or hours were thus wasted in looking for the person wanted, who lived on Stewart street, on this side of the river. This is a matter which might well engage the attention of the proper authorities. And while the subject of streets is up for consideration, a little thought on the system, or lack of it, in numbering the houses, might be profitably given. There are any number of houses upon which there are no numbers, and Peterborough has now reached a stage of development which makes it impossible for everyone to know where everyone else lives, consequently some uniform system of numbering should be adopted. One or two instances will serve to show the defects of the present numbering: A house on a certain street is numbered 571, while the next house, 583, and a space of not more than 50 feet between them. Another house on another street, with No. 7 on it, almost touches one numbered 51. There is evidently something wrong about this, and to a stranger it must be in many cases very confusing. Perhaps the proper authorities will see that in the near future the defects mentioned are remedied.

THE SYSTEM, or want of system, of designating streets is the worst kind of a humbug. Dozens of street intersections have no signs telling their names. Painted wooden signs were put up ten or fifteen years ago, but the great majority of these if not blown off, or torn off, have become almost unreadable through the ravages of age and the weather. It is an actual fact that strangers in town, (and there are many) do not know the name of the street they live on. A few dollars spent in obtaining enamelled or other indestructible signs, and placing them at each street intersection, would be money spent to the very best advantage, and would be a convenience to residents, and especially to strangers.

ANY PERSON who was present at the railway stations or on the trains, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, will admit that Easter is becoming almost as great a home-coming as Christmas. And there is reason for this. From a religious point of view Easter is as important a Festival as Christmas. The two occasions are closely associated though, so to speak they represent opposite poles of the great world of Redemption. Christmas represents the concrete beginning of the work of redemption, while in a general sense, Easter represents its culmination. The birth of our Blessed Lord. His life, His ministry, His passion, His death on the cross, are but necessary events leading up to the triumphant fact of the resurrection. The reunions founded on Christmas and Easter are bright gleams of social sunshine in the clouded course of our lives. As Easter marks the re-creation of man and as to season, of nature, so does it represent to the [illegible] and [illegible]

GOOD FRIDAY IN VARIOUS CHURCHES.

Service of a Devout and Quiet Nature were Held.

GEORGE STREET METHODIST.

At the Good Friday service in the George street church yesterday morning, there was a very large congregation. The pastor spoke on the sayings of Christ on the Cross. Mr. Eyres offered the opening prayer, and Mr. J. Jeffries read the prophecies concerning Christ, while Mr. D. W. Dumble read extracts from the Gospels. The basis of the sermon was the prayer of Christ, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do." In "this prayer Christ showed His forgiving spirit, and in His salvation of the dying thief exemplifies the power of His life and death. "It is finished were the words which brought reconciliation to the world. Christ's death was a glorious one. At the conclusion of the morning service a fellowship meeting was held.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

In spite of the weather large congregations assembled at St. John's church yesterday. The services were of a solemn, quiet and devotional character. In the morning Rev. J. C. Davidson's subject was "Strength from the Cross," and at the evening service the "Seven words from the Cross."

At the afternoon service for children the address was illustrated by pictures of the Crucifixion.

ALL SAINTS' CHURCH.

Service was held in All Saints' yesterday at 11 a.m., and was well attended considering the unpropitious weather. A very forcible and instructive sermon was preached by the Rev. Mr. Major from the 19th chapter of the Gospel of St. John, 30th verse, "It is finished." The Rev. Mr. Major and family have arrived in town and are residing on Reid street.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH.

Large congregations attended the Good Friday services in St. Luke's church yesterday. At 10.30 Morning Prayer and Ante-Communion were celebrated, while at 12 o'clock the three hours' passion service was commenced. The pastor-rector, Rev. J. I. Holah, spoke from the seven words of Christ on the Cross:

"Father, forgive them, they know not what they do."

"Verily to-day shalt thou be with Me in Paradise."

"Woman, behold they son—behold thy mother."

"I thirst."

"My God, My God, why hast Thou forsaken Me?"

"It is finished."

"Father, into Thy hands, I commend My spirit."

Interspersing these the penitential psalms, hymns and prayers were sung.

EASTER SUNDAY IN PETERBORO

How the Resurrection of Christ Will be Celebrated To-morrow.

To-morrow, in keeping with the glad Easter-tide, special services will be held in all the town churches. All choirs have prepared special music for the day, and to-morrow the services will all be bright and cheerful. The Easter decorations will be very beautiful, and considerable time has been spent by the ladies in the various churches preparing for the day's services.

The Easter Sunday services will be as follows:—

ST. JOHN'S.

The Holy Communion services at St. John's church will be celebrated at 8 o'clock instead of 8.30 and at 12.15. The church has been appropriately decorated for the Easter Festival, and the choir has for some time been engaged on special musical work. The preacher at the 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. services will be Rev. E. L. King, M.A., lecturer at Trinity University, who is a speaker of much power.

ALL SAINTS' CHURCH.

To-morrow, Easter Sunday, there will be two celebrations of the Holy Communion, one at 8 a.m., and one at the mid-day service. At 3 p.m., a special children's service will be held when it is hoped that all the Sunday school pupils and those interested in Sunday school work, will be present. The choir will supply special Easter music at each service. The rector will conduct each service.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.

The Easter services at St. Paul's church to-morrow will be conducted by Rev. E. F. Torrance, the pastor, and the sermons at both the morning and evening services will be on the Resurrection. The choir will furnish special music.

Morning.

GREW THIS HAIR

Testimonial No. 422.

MISS NORA GASTAGER
2106 Centre Ave., Pittsburg, Pa.

When the scalp throws off either dandruff or a gummy substance, it is an evidence of scalp disease, and no time should be lost in correcting it. You certainly would not hesitate to take treatment were you to look at this matter through a magnifying glass. When highly magnified, dandruff resembles a working mass of insects. These creatures absorb the nutriment of life-supplying fluid in the scalp causing the scalp to become dry and feverish, resulting in the loss of hair and finally baldness. Seven Sutherland Sisters' Hair Grower and Scalp Cleaner works wonders in all such cases. It thoroughly eradicates all trace of scalp bacteria and makes the hair grow unusually long, strong and beautiful. One application is enough to show you that it will do all this and even more. NOW at all druggists, two sizes, 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

GAMEY AND SPEAKER

Member For Manitoulin Attacks Presiding Officer of House.

WHITNEY TRIES TO HELP HIM

Other Conservative Members Endeavored to Lighten His Fall From Legislative Usages—Taxation of Railway—Premier's Views on Mr. Pettypiece's Bill—Finally Referred to a Select Committee.

Toronto, March 31.—"I accept your ruling, Mr. Speaker, knowing your proclivities to my liberties in this House."

In these words Mr. Gamey yesterday in the Legislature created a scene fortunately very rare not only in the Legislature of Ontario, but in any other legislative body.

When the orders of the day were called he rose on a question of privilege to call the attention of the Premier to an apparent discrepancy between his reply on March 18, that no definite application had ever been made for a grant by the Grand Trunk Pacific, and the letter of Mr. William Wainwright, which appeared among the applications for aid presented to the House, and which bore the date of March 9, 1904, and the previous request of Mr. Hays, bearing date of February, 1903. He said that this was not the first time an unsatisfactory reply had been made by the Government, and was proceeding to make a speech, when the Speaker called him to order, as it is clearly against the rules of the House to make a speech on a question of privilege.

"I accept your ruling, Mr. Speaker, knowing your proclivities to my liberties in this House," said Mr. Gamey. The Speaker appealed to the House, but it was overlooked for the moment, as Mr. Gamey's words had not been heard everywhere, and the Premier had already risen to reply to the question about the Grand Trunk Pacific.

Hon. Mr. Gibson rose a few minutes later and asked the member for Manitoulin to withdraw his statement, which reflected on the impartiality of the Speaker, and was probably dropped in an unguarded moment.

Mr. Gamey, after a moment, rose and said: "I am perfectly satisfied with the Speaker's ruling to-day. My reference was intended for the Government side of the House."

The Government side of the House refused to accept this statement as a retraction of the offensive words to the Speaker, and loudly cried "Withdraw! Withdraw!"

Mr. Whitney Helps Mr. Gamey.

Mr. Whitney tried to palliate Mr. Gamey's offence by exclaiming "He has withdrawn."

Hon. Mr. Gibson declined to accept the statement as a withdrawal, and pointed out that Mr. Gamey had withdrawn something else altogether. The Government side of the House again cried "Withdraw! Withdraw!"

Mr. Whitney insisted that Mr. Gamey, in using the words "your proclivities," referred to the Premier.

Mr. Gamey repeated that he was perfectly satisfied with the Speaker's ruling yesterday, but said that he was not satisfied with the proclivities of the Premier towards himself and others on that side of the House.

Hon. Mr. Gibson replied that if he was wrong in the construction put on Mr. Gamey's words the Speaker was also, for the latter had put himself on the protection of the House. There was no necessity for an innuendo about the Premier, who could defend himself.

Mr. Whitney said that it would make no difference if the offensive words had been addressed to the Speaker in the first place, because Mr. Gamey had stated that they were intended for the Premier.

Hon. Mr. Harcourt protested that, however much the members might differ politically, they had a common interest in protecting the chair they might ask the Speaker from insult. He suggested himself what he thought as to the application of the words.

Mr. Foy, interposing before the Speaker, rose and remarked that the solution of the whole misunderstanding was easy. Mr. Gamey, in using the word "your," had broken the Parliamentary rules, which require that a member must be addressed impersonally as "the hon. gentleman." If it were interpreted literally it might mean the Speaker, but Mr. Gamey had already said that he meant the Premier.

Mr. Gamey then rose and said: "I have already said that I did not mean any disrespect to the Speaker. I am sorry, Mr. Speaker, if you interpret the word 'you' to apply to yourself."

The Speaker's Remarks.

The Speaker pointed out that the rules which permitted a question at such a time did not contemplate a discussion, and that when Mr. Gamey had finished his question he violated the rules by continuing with a speech. That was why he called his attention to it. As to the expression used, he certainly understood Mr. Gamey to say that he accepted the ruling, knowing your proclivities," and some other words which he did not recollect precisely. If he had not understood that the reference was to himself he would not have [illegible] to the House for protection. On another occasion he had called Mr. Gamey's attention twice to a similar breach of the rules, but that gentleman went on, though he was out of order. He was then obliged to say that if the member persisted he would have to declare him out of order. The next day the paper came out with a story: "Attempt to Gag Gamey," the expression being applied to himself. Then afterwards two members of the House, speaking at a public meeting in Hamilton, had used similar expressions. One was reported to have said that he "choked off Gamey unfairly," and another that he had "books ready to rule off Gamey." He thought that the latter reference might be complimentary, for it showed that he had taken pains to study the questions involved. However, on this occasion he did understand that Mr. Gamey had referred to him personally. He accepted that gentleman's statement to the contrary, and hoped that they would start afresh and get along satisfactorily for the rest of the session. He assured the House that he was anxious to give Mr. Gamey the same privilege as the Premier or anyone else. He did not think any member of the House could consider that on any occasion he had ruled unfairly.

Mr. Hanna rose to make an explanation, but in the general buzz of conversation his remarks were inaudible.

Mr. St. John, protesting his sincere anxiety, asked when the temperance bill would be brought in.

The Premier—I am unable to say.

Mr. Whitney asked when the "Soo" guarantee bill would be read a second time.

The Premier replied—I am unable to say.

Mr. Whitney asked when the document asked for in connection with the bill would be brought down.

The Premier—The papers will be brought down in plenty of time before the second reading.

The House, after deciding to sit a couple of hours later in the evening and then adjourn until Tuesday afternoon, proceeded with the order paper.

Factory Girls Back Hair.

Mr. Dryden's Factory Act amendment came up for a second reading. The clause requiring female employees to wear their hair close to the head was changed to enable them to wear caps, which would confine the flowing tresses and prevent them getting tangled up with the machinery. The hour for knocking off work was fixed at 6.30, instead of 7.

Hon. Mr. Dryden informed Mr. Downey that a second female factory inspector would probably be appointed.

Hon. Mr. Harcourt's bill, providing for the amalgamation of school boards in cities and towns passed the committee stage after the section requiring the merging of public library boards with the school boards was struck out.

Third Readings.

The following bills were read a third time: To consolidate the floating debt of the Township of Osnabruck (McCart); respecting the Lakeport Cemetery, and to incorporate the Lakeport Cemetery Company (Clarke, Northumberland); to incorporate the St. Joseph & Stratford Electric Railway Company (Brown.)

Taxation of Railways.

The debate on Mr. Pettypiece's bill to provide for the further taxation of railways was resumed by Premier Ross, who, in a speech of three-quarters of an hour, ably dealt with the general principles of the measure. Would they, he asked, be justified in adopting the proposals in the bill now, in the face of the report of the select committee which had pretty thoroughly investigated the question and reported against any change in the methods of taxing railways?

The Premier said it was his intention to bring down next Tuesday a supplementary revenue bill, which would involve further taxation of railways. Mr. Pettypiece's bill provided for a railway commission, the same as in many states of the union.

Mr. Ross said in addition to the municipal taxes of $55 a mile, which the railways paid, they also paid large sums to the Dominion treasury. The Grand Trunk Railway in Ontario paid last year in duties on coal alone $663,000, or $30 a mile, so that they paid in taxes $355 a mile. He proposed to increase the tax on railways by from $150,000 to 200,000.

To What Committee?

Mr. Pettypiece insisted that only a Provincial board could levy the taxes equitably, and that the bulk of the taxation should go to the municipalities. The Premier had suggested a select committee to consider the bill. He wanted some committee to deal with the bill, and did not want the bill shelved off as it was last year. If this Government did not deal with the question some other Government would when this one was out.

Mr. Whitney regretted that the bill had been left till so late in the year, but that should not be an insuperable obstacle towards its being treated as it should be. He agreed with the Premier that the railways should not be treated too harshly, but he had no doubt that the railways would oppose any measure tending to impose further burdens on them. The bill had not received fair consideration. To give it fair consideration was not to be committed in favor of it or against it.

The bill passed its second reading, and the Premier moved that it be referred to a special committee consisting of Pettypiece, Dryden, Stock, Cameron (Huron), Davidson, Pense, Preston (Brant), Carscallen (Hamilton), Hoyle, Duff, Smith (Soo), Clark (Bruce), Tucker.

Mr. Pettypiece said he had agreed with the Government as to the committee, but he suggested an amendment that the bill go to the committee of the whole House.

Mr. Hanna moved an amendment that the bill be referred to the committee of the whole House.

Mr. Speaker declared the amendment out of order, as the rules required that a public bill in the hands of a private member should go to one of the standing committees.

The speaker put a stop to the disorder by asking that the debate be adjourned to enable him to satisfy himself upon the point. Accordingly, Mr. Graham moved the adjournment of the debate and another item of business was taken up.

The House adjourned at 11.30 p. m. until Tuesday afternoon.

Strike Averted.

Glace Bay, C. B., March 31.—The threatened strike at Dominion No. 2, which gave promise of involving all miners in the employ of the Dominion Coal Company, has been averted by the action of General Manager Duggan in yielding to the request of the Provincial Workmen's Association that the dismissed firemen be taken back and that they be not required to do extra shovelling of ashes asked of them, and which caused the trouble. The result is considered a victory for the men.

Delarey For Peace.

Krugersdrop, March 31.—General Delarey, the former Boer commander, addressing a congress of farmers yesterday, said he wished to bring to the notice of the world the fact that the Boers had abandoned all thoughts of vindictiveness toward Great Britain, and that it was now their privilege to work in peace.

Vetoed Asbestos.

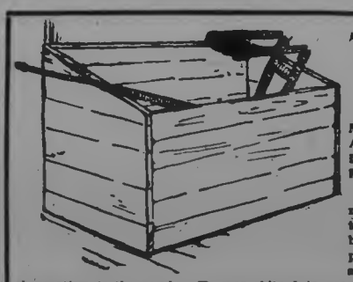
Trenton, N. J., March 31.—Governor Murphy yesterday vetoed a bill requiring iron or asbestos curtains in theatres.

PLAYFUL CHILDREN.

What treasure on earth is more to be prized than a bright, active, healthy, playful child? In homes where Baby's Own Tablets are used you never find sickly, cross, sleepless children; if the little one is ill the Tablets will promptly make it well. Ask any mother who has used the Tablets and she will tell you that this is absolutely true—she will tell you the Tablets always do good and never do harm. You can give them to a child just born with perfect safety, and they are equally good for well grown children. Mrs. Mary J. Moore, Hepworth, Que., says: —"My baby has never been sick since I began giving her Baby's Own Tablets. They are a real blessing to both the mother and child, and I would not be without them." Don't let your child suffer and don't let it be dosed with strong drugs or opiates. Give Baby's Own Tablets, which you can get from any druggist or by mail at 25 cents a box, by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

Famine For Britain.

London, March 31.—(C.A.P.)—Colonel George Harvey, editor of The North American Review, has an article in the April number of The Nineteenth Century Magazine. He does not see how Britain could be shielded from famine in the case of a war with the United States. The Russian surplus of wheat and Canada could not be relied upon, because the Canadian granaries would be overrun by the American forces. The success of Mr Chamberlain's project would produce prompt reprisals, but it would take more offensive legislation than that to disturb the existing Anglo-Saxon cordiality.



The Crutch

(soliloquizing)

"I HAVE STOOD BY THE OLD MAN FOR FIFTEEN LONG YEARS, AND NOW HE HAS TURNED ME DOWN FOR A BOX OF Bu-Ju. I FEEL ALL BROKEN UP OVER IT."

The doctor told him he had rheumatism as the result of kidney trouble—too much uric acid in the blood. The kidneys had failed to perform their proper functions, and a long, continuous, painful case of rheumatism is the result. He was obliged to use a crutch off and on for 15 years until he read an advertisement of

and provided himself with that never failing remedy for all kidney disorders, and in a short time was enabled to cast the crutch into the woodbox, to take part in the building of its own funeral pyre.

Many people are suffering from kidney trouble who are not aware of it. They are sick, and unfit for work, business or pleasure. There may be one or many of the symptoms arising from disordered kidneys and they are treating for symptoms instead of fighting the disease, which is kidney trouble.

We Will Buy

A 50c. Bottle of Liquozone and Give it to You to Try.

Liquozone is the only way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissues, too. It is the only way to end the cause of any germ disease. It is also a vitalizing tonic with which no other product can compare.

It is new in America, and millions who need it don't know of it. For that reason, we make this remarkable offer. We will buy the first bottle and give it to you if you need it. We will do this gladly to let the product itself show you what it can do.

We Paid $100,000

For the American rights to Liquozone—the highest price ever paid for similar rights on any scientific discovery. We did this after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, in this country and others. We paid it because Liquozone does what all the skill in the world cannot do without it. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Every physician knows that medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease.

Not Medicine

Liquozone is the result of a process which, for more than 20 years, has been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research. Its virtues are derived solely from gas, made in large part from the best oxygen producers. By a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time, these gases are made part of the liquid product.

The result is a product that does what oxygen does; and oxygen is the very source of vitality, the most essential element of life. The effects of Liquozone are exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying. Yet it is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. The reason is that germs are vegetables; and Liquozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetable matter. That is why Liquozone kills every disease germ, and with a product which to the human body is life.

Germ Diseases

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone kills the germs, wherever they are, and the results are inevitable. By destroying the cause of the trouble, it invariably ends the disease, and forever.

San Jose Scale Spreads.

Ottawa, March 31.—Dr. James Fletcher, botanist and entomologist at the Central Experimental Farm, gave evidence before the committee on Agriculture and colonization yesterday. He informed the committee that the stink weed, which has become such a pest in the West, had been located in different parts of Ontario. The San Jose scale was the worst insect that had invaded Canada. During the year it had become worse in the section previously infected.

Enormous Growth.

Ever since Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills were first introduced to the public the sales have steadily increased, each year being larger than the year previous. Purified by Suffering

BY MARY J. HOLMES.

"Say, mother, are you willing I should marry Helen Lennox?"

There was a struggle in Mrs. Banker's heart, and for a moment she felt jealous of the girl who she had guessed was dearer to her son than ever his mother could be again; but she was a sensible woman. She knew that it was natural for another and a stronger love to come between her and her boy. She liked Helen Lennox. She was willing to take her as a daughter, and she said so at last, and listened half amazed and half amused to the story which had in it so much of Aunt Betsy Barlow at that very moment an occupant of their best guest chamber, waiting for her cap from the Bowery.

"Perhaps it was wrong to bring her home," he added, "but I did it to spare Helen. I knew what a savage Wilford would be if he found her there. Say, mother, was I wrong?"

He was not often wrong in his mother's estimation, and certainly he was not now, when he kissed her so often, begging her to say he had done right.

"Certainly he had. Mrs. Banker was very glad to find him so thoughtful; few young men would do as much," she said, and from feeling a little doubtful, Mark came to look upon himself as a very nice young man, who had done a most unselfish act, for of course he had not been influenced by any desire to keep Aunt Betsy from the people who would be present at the dinner, neither had Helen been at all mixed up in the affair.

It was all himself, and he began to whistle "Annie Laurie" very complacently, thinking the while what a clever fellow he was, and meditating other generous acts towards the old lady overhead, who was standing by the window and wondering what the huge building could be gleaming so white in the fading sunlight.

"Looks as if it was made of stone cheese," she thought, just as Mrs. Banker appeared, her kind, friendly manner making Aunt Betsy feel wholly at ease, as she answered the lady's questions or volunteered remarks of her own.

Mrs. Banker had lived in the country, and had seen just such women as Aunt Betsy Barlow, understanding her intrinsic worth, and knowing how Helen Lennox, though her niece, could still be refined and cultivated. She could also understand how one educated as Wilford Cameron had been would shrink from coming in contact with her, and possibly be rude if she thrust herself upon him. Mark did well to bring her here, she thought, as she left the room to order the tea which the tired woman so much needed. The satchel, umbrella, and cap-box, with a note from Mattie, had by this time arrived, and in her Sunday cap, with the purple bows, Aunt Betsy felt better, and enjoyed the tempting little supper, served on silver and Sevres china, the attendant waiting in the hall instead of in her room, where her presence might embarrass one unaccustomed to such usages. They were very kind, and had Mark been her own son he could not have been more deferential than he appeared when just before starting for the dinner he went up to see her, asking what message he should take to Helen. Mrs. Banker too, came in, her dress eliciting many compliments from her guest, who ventured to ask the price of the diamond pin which fastened the point lace collar. Five hundred dollars seemed an enormous sum, but Aunt Betsy was learning not to say all she thought, and merely remarked that Katy had some diamonds too, which she presumed cost fully as much as that.

"She should do very well afone," she said; "she could read her Bible, and if she got too tired, go to bed," and with a good-bye she sent them away, after saying to Mrs. Banker: "Maybe you ain't the kissin' kind, but if you be, I wish you would kiss Katy once for me."

There was a merry twinkle in Mark's eyes as he asked: "And Helen too?"

"I meant your marm, not you," Aunt Betsy answered; while Mrs. Banker raised her hand to her mischievous son, who ran lightly down the stairs, carrying a happier heart than he had known since Helen Lennox first came to New York, and he met her at the depot.

CHAPTER XXVII.

It was a very select party which Wilford Cameron entertained that evening; and as the carriages rolled up to his door and deposited the guests, the cloud which had been lifting ever since he came home and found "no Darlow woman" there, disappeared, leaving him the blandest, most urbane of hosts, pleased with everybody—himself, his guests, his sister-in-law, and his wife, who had never looked better than she did to-night, in pearls and light blue silk, which harmonized so perfectly with her wax-like complexion. Aunt Betsy's proximity was wholly unsuspected, both by her and Helen, who was very handsome in crimson and black, with lilies in her hair. Nothing could please Mark better than his seat at table, where he could look into her eyes, which dropped so shyly whenever they met his gaze. Helen was beginning to doubt the story of his engagement with Juno. Certainly she could not mistake the nature of the attentions he paid to her, especially to-night, when he hovered continually near her, totally ignoring Juno's presence, and conscious apparently of only one form, one face, and that the face of Helen Lennox.

There was another, too, who felt the influence of Helen's beauty, and that was Lieutenant Bob, who, after dinner, attached himself to her side, while around them gathered quite a group, all listening with peals of laughter as Bob related his adventure of two days before, with "the most rustic and charming old lady it was ever his fortune to meet." Told by Bob the story lost nothing of its freshness, for every particular, except indeed the kindness he had shown her, was related, even to the sheep pasture, about which she was going to New York to consult a lawyer.

"I thought once of referring her to you, Mr. Cameron," Bob said; "but couldn't find it in my heart to quiz her she was so wholly unsuspicious. You have not seen her, have you?"

"No," came faintly from the lips which tried to smile; for Wilford knew who was the heroine of that story; wondering more and more where she was, and feeling a sensation of uneasiness, as he thought, "Can any accident have befallen her?"

It was hardly probable; but Wilford felt very uncomfortable after hearing the story, which had brought a pang of doubt and fear to another mind than his. From the very first Helen feared that Aunt Betsy was the "old woman" who had gotten upon the train at some station which Bob could not remember; while, as the story progressed she was sure of it, for she had heard of the sheep pasture trouble, and of Aunt Betsy's projected visit to New York, privately writing to her mother not to suffer it, as Wilford would be greatly vexed. "Yes, it must be Aunt Betsy," she thought, and she turned so white that Mark, who was watching both her and Wilford, came as soon as possible to her side, and adroitly separating her from the group around, said softly, "You look tired, Miss Lennox. Come with me a moment. I have something to tell you."

Alone with her in the hall, he continued, "I have the sequel of Bob Reynolds's story. That woman—"

"Was Aunt Betsy," Helen gasped. "But where is she now? That was two days ago. Tell me if you know, Mr. Ray, you do know," and in an agony of fear lest something dreadful had happened, she laid her hand on Mark's, beseeching him to tell her if he knew where Aunt Betsy was.

It was worth torturing her for a moment to see the pleading look in her eyes, and feel the soft touch of the hand which he took between both his own, holding it there while he answered her: "Aunt Betsy is at my house; kidnapped by me for safe keeping, until I could consult with you. Was that right?" he asked, as a flush came to Helen's cheek, and an expression to her eye which told that his meaning was understood.

"Is she there willingly? How did it happen?" was Helen's reply, her hand still in those of Mark, who, thus circumstanced, grew very warm and eloquent with the sequel to Bob's story, making it as long as possible, telling what he knew, and also what he had done.

He had not implicated Wilford in any way; but Helen read it all, saying more to herself than him, "And he was at the opera. Wilford must have seen her, and that is why he left so suddenly, and why he has appeared so absent and nervous to-day, as if expecting something. Excuse me," she suddenly added, drawing her hand away and stepping back a little, "I forgot that I was talking as if you knew."

"I do know more than you suppose—that is, I know human nature—and I know Will better than I did that morning when I first met you," Mark said, glancing at the freed hand he wished so much to take again.

But Helen kept her hands to herself, and answered him:

"You did right under the circumstances. It would have been unpleasant for us all had she happened here to-night. I thank you, Mr Ray—you and your mother, too—more than I can express. I will see her early to-morrow morning. Tell her so, please, and again I thank you."

There were tears in Helen's soft brown eyes, and they glittered like diamonds as she looked even more than spoke her thanks to the young man, who, for another look like that, would have driven Aunt Betsy amid the gayest crowd that ever frequented the Park, and sworn she was his blood relation! A few words from Mrs. Banker confirmed what Mark had said, and it was not strange if that night Miss Lennox, usually so entertaining, was a little absent, for her thoughts were up in that chamber on Twenty-third Street, where Aunt Betsy sat alone, but not lonely, for her mind was very busy with all she had been through since leaving Silverton, while something kept suggesting to her that it would have been wiser and better to have staid at home than to have ventured where she was so sadly out of place. This last came gradually to Aunt Betsy as she thought the matter over, and remembered Wilford as he had appeared each time he came to Silverton.

"I ain't like him; I ain't like this Miss Banker; I ain't like anybody," she whispered. "I'm nothing but a homely, old-fashioned woman, without larnin', without nothin'. I might know I wan't wanted," and a rain of tears fell over the wrinkled face, as she uttered this tirade against herself, standing before the long mirror, and inspecting the image it gave back of a plain, unpolished countrywoman, not much resembling Mrs. Banker, it must be confessed, nor much resembling the gay young ladies she had seen at the opera the previous night. "I won't go near Katy," she continued; "it would only mortify her, and I don't want to make her trouble. The poor thing's face looked as if she had it now, and I won't add to it. I'll start for home to-morrow. There's Miss Smith, in Springfield, will keep me over night, and Katy shan't be bothered."

When this decision was reached, Aunt Betsy felt a great deal better, and taking the Bible from the table, sat down again before the fire, opening, as by a special Providence, to the chapter where the hewers of wood and drawers of water are mentioned as being necessary to mankind, each filling his appointed place.

"That's me—that's Betsy Darlow," she whispered, taking off her glasses to wipe away the moisture gathering so fast upon them. Then resuming them, she continued, "I'm a hewer of wood—a drawer of water. God made me so, and shall the clay find fault with the potter for making it into a homely mug. No, indeed; and I was a very foolish old jug to think of sticking myself in with the china ware. But I've larnt a lesson," and the philosophic old woman read on, feeling comforted to know that though a vessel of the rudest make, a paltry jug, as she called herself, the promises were still for her as much as for the finer wares—aye, that there was more hope of her entering at last where "the walls are of precious stones and the streets are paved with gold," than of those whose good things are given so abundantly during their lifetime.

Assured, comforted and encouraged, she fell asleep at last, and when Mrs. Banker returned she found her slumbering quietly in her chair, the Bible open on her lap, and her finger upon the passage referring to the hewers of wood and drawers of water, as if that was the last thing read.

Next morning, at a comparatively early hour, Helen stood ringing the bell of Mrs. Banker's house. She had said to Katy that she was going out and could not tell just when she would return, and as Katy never questioned her acts, while Wilford was too intent upon his own miserable thoughts as to "where Aunt Betsy could be, or what had befallen her," to heed anyone else, no inquiries were made and no obstacle put in the way of her going direct to Mrs. Banker's, where Mark met her himself, holding her cold hand until he led her to the fire and placed her in a chair. He knew she would rather meet her aunt alone, and so when he heard her step in the hall he left the room, holding the door for Aunt Betsy, who wept like a child at the sight of Helen, accusing herself of being a fool who ought to be shut up in an insane asylum, but persisted in saying she was going home that very day without seeing Katy at all. "If she was here I'd like it, but I shan't go there, for I know Wilford don't want me." Then she told Helen all she did not already know of her trip to New York, her visit to the opera, her staying with the Tubbses, and her meeting with Mark, the best young chap she ever saw, not even excepting Morris, "If he was my own son he couldn't be kinder," she added, "and I mistrust he hopes to be my nephew. You can't do better, and if he offers take him."

Helen's cheeks were crimson as she waived this part of the conversation, and wished aloud that she had come around in the carriage, as she could thus have taken Aunt Betsy over the city before the train would leave.

Bigamy.

Owen Sound, March 31.—Margaret Plummerfeldt and Albert Tucker are in custody here on a charge of bigamy. It is alleged that Mrs. Plummerfeldt and Tucker were married by a local pastor about Jan. 18. The woman's husband is in Owen Sound and Tucker is said to have a wife living in Sarnia. The principals give the extraordinary excuse that the marriage took place with the consent of the prosecutor, William Plummerfeldt.

It is reported that one brother was in bed and the other was partly undressed. Mounted police and a coroner have left to investigate the fatality.

LOVE

Often leads to poverty. No real woman ever sold her heart for the luxuries of life. But many a woman who has gladly faced poverty for the man she loved, may well doubt her wisdom when pain becomes the mate of poverty. If she were rich, she thinks, she could find a way of cure.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is within the reach of every one. It lifts the burden of pain which weighs down those who suffer from womanly diseases. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"You have my heartfelt thanks for your kind advice to me," writes Mrs. Geo. Fletcher, of 106 Victoria Avenue, Galt, Ontario. "Was troubled with catarrh of uterus for over a year. The doctors said I would have to go through an operation but I commenced to use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery' also his 'Lotion Tablets' and 'Antiseptic and Healing Suppositories.' Now I am completely cured, after using six bottles of Dr. Pierce's medicines. I am glad to say his medicine has made me a new woman."

Weak and sick women, especially those suffering from diseases of long standing, are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sagredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

CREATED A SENSATION IN GALT

The Whole Country Ringing with Praises of

PSYCHINE

(PRONOUNCED SI-KEEN)

Mr Weaver, Cured two years ago, continues to spread the good news of his recovery from Grinder's

CONSUMPTION

Publicly corroborates the history of his restoration to health, as published recently by the daily press of Canada.

Doctors and specialists despaired of a cure and gave Mr. Weaver but three months to live.

MR. L. WEAVER, GALT.

Who desires to publicly confirm the history of his remarkable recovery, as published quite recently by the daily press of Canada. Mr. Weaver was as bad a case of Consumption as might well be imagined. He was employed for five years in the grinding room of James Warnock & Co's, better known as "The Axe Factory," in Galt. Here he contracted consumption from the steel-laden dust. He persisted with local physicians' treatment for over a year, also consulted a number of lung specialists. They all did their utmost to cure, but declared Mr. Weaver's an incurable case of grinder's consumption giving him but three months to live. Mr. Weaver himself, despaired of a permanent cure, as two of his brothers before him had already died of consumption.

It is but seldom that any remedy receives such strong endorsement as Psychine is receiving daily. Seldom indeed that the cured come forward voluntarily to state their case a second time so that all may be convinced of the truth. The instance herein reported from the busy town of Galt, Ont., is a typical instance of what is occurring in every city, town, hamlet and country-side in this broad Dominion. Scores of people living in Galt were long ago conversant with the facts of this notable case; while to others the publication of it in the daily press came as a revelation.

Scores of people recently called upon Mr. Weaver to see if all that had been published was really true. Medical men evidenced a desire to see the good work wrought with Dr. Slocum's famous remedy, Psychine (Si-keen). Mr. Weaver has also been the recipient of hundreds of letters from all parts of the country enquiring as to his case.

Sad and sorrowful is the first chapter of the story told by the man whose case has excited the interest of Lung Specialists and of medical men and whose cure and complete restoration to health is the talk of Galt and the wonder of the medical profession. Such, in brief, are the opening remarks of the case of Mr. Weaver, of Galt, whose portrait appears above.

Mr. Weaver is to-day a splendid specimen of manhood and the picture of robust health. His lungs give him no more trouble. He is strong and healthy, eats and sleeps well, and feels better than he has for ten years.

Mr. Weaver's Case as given to the press, January 30th, 1904.

Dr. T. A. Slocum:—For five years I worked as a grinder in the James Warnock, better known as the Axe Factory, here. The dust from the grinding did for me what it has done for many others. It gave me "grinder's consumption." I was compelled, of course, to quit work. I persisted with two local physicians, and also consulted a number of lung specialists. Their diagnoses were all alike:—"You have Grinder's Consumption, and may possibly live three months, but you are liable to drop off at any time." This was over two years ago.

I then almost abandoned myself to what seemed my fate, my two brothers having died of consumption a few years previous. I was in an advanced stage of the disease. I was thin and weak, had night sweats, chills and fever, and a terrible cough.

I saw your advertisement of "Psychine," and I determined to try it. Through the kind advice and assistance of REV. MR. KETTLEWELL, Methodist minister in charge here at that time, I procured your treatment. The very first bottle gave me great relief, and after taking six bottles I could walk down town and even work occasionally. Have since then entirely regained my health, and work hard every day. I can eat and sleep well. I feel better to-day than I have for years. I owe my life to Psychine.

Yours truly,
LEVI WEAVER.

Mr. Weaver's second statement after the above was published.

GALT, ONT.

Dr. T. A. Slocum:—The publication of the history of my case in Toronto and Galt papers has caused quite a sensation in this town. There have been scores of people ask me if such were really the case. I have also received by mail numbers of like enquiries. Some people hardly think it possible that I was so near death's door. But I can say for certain that Psychine saved my life and I bless the day I saw Psychine advertised and became convinced of its merits enough to try it. I have spread the good news in three counties, and shall ever continue to praise Psychine. Every word, as published January 30th, is true to the facts of the case.

Yours truly,
LEVI WEAVER.

If you suffer from Lung Trouble, La Grippe, Asthma, Throat Diseases, Pneumonia, Catarrh of the Stomach, Bronchitis, Night Sweats, Loss of Flesh or Run-down System, or diseases where a tonic is required, there is no other medicine in the wide world that will act more promptly or effectively.

PSYCHINE is pronounced SI-KEEN.

For sale at all drug stores, or, if you have not tried it a sample can be obtained by writing to Dr. T. A. Slocum's laboratory, 179 King Street West, Toronto, Canada. Send for Dr. Slocum's Treatise on the prevention and cure of Throat and Lung Diseases.

A sample of Psychine will be sent free of charge to all who desire to test it. Write to-day to DR. T. A. SLOCUM, Limited, Offices and Laboratories, 179 King St. W., Toronto, Can.

MANTEL CLOCK FOR DEPARTING TEACHER.

Mr. T. J. Wallace Remembered by Keene Pupils.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Keene, April 1st.—The Keene public school had a very pleasant time at the closing on Thursday last. A very large number of the old or ex-pupils were on hand. Mr. William Short was voted to the position of chairman and the following programme was rendered in a very pleasing manner:

Duet, "Rose My Rose" Misses Edith Bryce and Jean Shaw.
Reading, Miss Katie McFarlane.
Solo, "In the House of Too Much Trouble," Mr. Joe McCarthy.
Recitation, "The Dead Doll," Miss Edna Wedlock.
Chorus, "The Cobbler."
Reading, Miss Jessie Read.
Dialogue, "Recess Speeches."
Recitation, Miss Lena Shearer.
Solo, Mr. Norman Taylor.
Reading, Miss Addie English.
Club Swinging by the school.
Recitation, Miss Hettie Webb.
Chorus, "This Life is What we Make It."
Recitation, Miss Beatrice Scriver.

Chorus, "Sweet Music."
Recitation, Mr. George Read.
Duet, Misses Sadie Waters and Jean Clary.
Speeches by Messrs. O. Weir, P. Skinner, Lex. Seccombe and others.
Solo, Miss Eleanor Scriver.

At this part a very pleasing act was performed. Mr. T. J. Wallace was asked to come forward, when the following address was read by Miss Pearl McCann, Mr. Berson Seccombe making the presentation of the clock:

To Mr. T. J. Wallace:

Dear Teacher,—We have now arrived at a parting of the ways, and we are constrained to bid you a reluctant adieu before doing so, we would express our gratitude to you for your unwearying patience with us as pupils.

Although it may sound paradoxical, we have always wished to merit your approbation. We earnestly hope, and, knowing your ability, we are confident that you will succeed in your new sphere. We would ask you to be graciously pleased to accept as a souvenir of your discipline in Keene, this mantel clock. May we all observe the lesson of admonition it teaches as it marks off the fleeting hours, so that we may apportion them to their proper objects, viz., prayer, duty, relaxation, and repose. We are yours in love, purity and fidelity.

PUPILS OF KEENE SCHOOL.

Keene, March 31st, 1904.

The clock was a very handsome one and will often remind Mr. Wallace of the six years spent in charge of Keene school. Mr. Wallace was entirely taken by surprise but replied in feeling terms giving the pupils very good advice for the future. The excellent entertainment closed with singing "Auld Lang Syne" and "God Save the King." Mr. Armour takes charge after the holidays.

Lime Hill, C. B., April 1st.—(Special.)—The splendid work done by Dodd's Kidney Pills throughout the Maritime provinces, has caused them to be generally recognized as the one sure cure for Kidney Diseases, and there are many in this neighbourhood who tell of pains banished and health restored by them.

Mr. Angus Campbell, a well known resident of Lime Hill, says—"For over a year I was troubled with a sore back and loss of appetite, and the doctors did me no good. At last I sent for two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and the result is that they cured me completely."

And many another tells the same story. Dodd's Kidney Pills are no cure all. But they have proved in thousands of cases that they cure the kidneys. That means that backache, urinary complaints, rheumatism, dropsy and Bright's disease, are among the ills that they never fail to cure. And these and kindred diseases are the causes of the great bulk of the suffering the people of Canada have to contend with.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are the greatest tonic of the age.

Came to No Decision.

Toronto, March 31.—Temperance legislation was the chief topic under discussion at a caucus of the Liberal members of the Legislature yesterday afternoon. A number of the representatives advised strongly against the introduction at this session of a license bill, but the meeting adjourned without coming to a decision.

CUTICURA SOAP

Assisted by Light Dressings of Cuticura, the Great Skin Cure.

This treatment at once stops falling hair, removes crusts, scales and dandruff, destroys hair parasites, soothes irritated, itching surfaces, stimulates the hair follicles, loosens the scalp skin, supplies the roots with energy and nourishment, and makes the hair grow upon a sweet, wholesome, healthy scalp when all else fails.

Millions now rely on Cuticura Soap, assisted by Cuticura Ointment, the great skin cure, for preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin, for cleansing the scalp of crusts, scales and dandruff, and the stopping of falling hair, for softening, whitening and soothing red, rough and sore hands, for baby rashes, itchings and chafings, for annoying irritations, or too free or offensive perspiration, for ulcerative weaknesses, and many sanative, antiseptic purposes which readily suggest themselves, as well as for all the purposes of the toilet and nursery.

NEW GOLD FIELD DISCOVERED.

Another B.C. River Yields Up Rich Yellow Treasure.

Victoria, B.C., April 2.—Jack Hyland, a pioneer trader of Telegraph Creek, B.C., has arrived with specimens of gold from the Nahuani River, near the junction of the Laird and Dease Rivers, northern British Columbia.

The discovery was made by Hyland's manager, John Morrow, two years ago. Recently Morrow sent an Indian to try the river beds, not thinking there was much in it. The Indian made a rude sluice box and shovelled in some dirt. In an hour he got a big handful, which Hyland purchased at $17 an ounce, and experts pronounce it equal to anything ever found in the Northwest. The Indian said there is an unlimited quantity where he was sluicing.

The news has caused a stampede all over the north. Miners are rushing from all quarters to the new fields, although the ice and snow are heavy on the ground and on the water.

MOVEMENTS OF ARMIES ON LAND.

Japanese Army Said to Have Landed in Manchuria.

TWO ARMIES LANDED IN COREA.

No Fighting Reported — Latest News From Port Arthur Says All is Quiet—Rumours of Fresh Quarrels Between Alexieff and Kuropatkin—Russian Soldiers Fear Sorcery—Fall of Port Arthur.

London, April 4.—The Daily Telegraph's Shanghai correspondent gives an unconfirmed report that a Japanese army of 15,000 men has landed opposite Takushan, in Southern Manchuria, and is marching north and northwest; that another army of 40,000 has landed in Northwestern Corea and is marching toward the Yalu River, and that a third force has disembarked in Northwestern Corea and is marching westward.

The correspondent adds that the statement that the captain of the Russian cruiser Boyarin is to be court-martialled is regarded as confirming the report that the vessel was blown up by a mine.

Alexieff and Kuropatkin.

Paris, April 4.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Echo de Paris telegraphs as follows:

"Rumors are current in high circles of fresh dissension between Viceroy Alexieff and Gen. Kuropatkin. It is alleged that the Viceroy wants his views on the subject of the quickest way of ridding the country of Japanese adopted, whereas Gen. Kuropatkin insists on retaining sole responsibility for the conception and execution of military operations. There is reason to believe that Gen. Kuropatkin will be left free. Viceroy Alexieff being too malicious to create trouble on account of a mere supposed slight."

The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Figaro says that Russia has ordered 250 cannon in England for the Manchurian army. He adds that the 10th and 17th army corps will not start for the seat of war before the end of the month.

Won't Shell Yinkow.

St. Petersburg, April 4.—A correspondent at Yinkow says the opinion prevails there that the Japanese will not bombard that place because 99 per cent. of the population is made up of Chinese, who are not at war with Japan, and because a shell from the ships would be sure to strike the residence of the United States Consul, who is safeguarding Japanese interests.

Japs Move Onward.

Tokio, April 4.—The advance guard of the Japanese army in Northwestern Corea occupied the Town of Sengcheng Saturday afternoon without opposition. Sengcheng is on the Pekin road, 18 miles west of Chengju, and about 30 miles south of Wiju.

When the Japanese drove the Russians out of Chongju last Monday the Russians withdrew in two columns, one going over the Konksan road and the other over the Pekin road. The Japanese advance from Chongju was made very rapidly. It was anticipated the Russians would resist this advance, but they failed to do so, and now it is not probable that there will be any further opposition south of the Yalu River.

It is reported that the ice on the Yalu is well broken up, and in the future the river must be crossed either in junks or over pontoon bridges.

Japs Land at Chemulpo.

Seoul, April 4.—Five Japanese transports, carrying light artillery, cavalry and infantry have arrived at Chemulpo. The men are entraining for Seoul. Haraguchi, the newly-appointed commander of the Japanese forces here, has arrived.

Predicts Port Arthur's Capture.

London, April 4.—Reports of further skirmishing between the Russians and Japanese in Yalu River region are reaching London, but no reliable details are given.

The Daily Telegraph's Seoul correspondent believes that the defences of Port Arthur have been so weakened that the early capture of the port is to be expected. There is little doubt, the correspondent says, that only a narrow passage is left at the harbor mouth, and at the first favorable opportunity the Japanese will block the channel. The Russians have taken many 12-inch guns out of their ships to arm the old and new defences of Port Arthur.

Japs Cannot Carry War Into Manchuria.

A correspondent of The Morning Post at Yinkow says that the position there is daily becoming stronger.

A fortnight ago they could have landed with comparative ease, while now they would experience great difficulty. The correspondent says he has received trustworthy information that the concentration of troops along the railway has been so rapid that it is now impossible for the Japanese to carry the war into Manchuria with any hope of success, and that the most they can do is to isolate Port Arthur and possibly Vladivostock.

Battle Imminent.

London, April 4.—A fierce land engagement is imminent in Northern Corea. Two thousand Russian troops, including Cossacks and infantrymen, are entrenched about the gate on the south side of Wiju, while the town is filled with the Czar's soldiers ready and eager for battle.

That the Japanese armies have been placed in the positions outlined by the military council at Tokio is evidenced by the fact that the Government has allowed the newspaper correspondents to leave the capital for the front.

The reported bombardment of Port Arthur the night of March 30-31 is given little credence.

Port Arthur reports there is no change in the situation. The weather is warmer and the sick and wounded are making good progress toward recovery.

The Japanese who were killed in the last attack upon Port Arthur were buried yesterday in the Chinese cemetery outside the town with military honors.

Real War at Cruiser Bayan.

St. Petersburg, April 4.—The Novikrai of Port Arthur describes the scene on board the cruiser Bayan during the recent bombardment in which she distinguished herself, as follows:

"Bursting shells bowled over man after man until the decks were slippery with blood. Amidst this hell the captain stood unmoved in the conning tower, calmly telephoning his orders to the gun captains. His wonderful calmness had a marvelous influence upon all the officers.

"The cockpit was soon crowded, thirty-nine being there before the fight ended, but amidst the crash of guns, the hiss of flying projectiles, the thunder of explosions, the racket of splinters and the din of the working engines, the surgeons labored over the wounded at the hospital operating table. Although some of the men suffered frightful agony, there were few groans, in spite of the fact that anesthetics were administered in only one case.

"When the battle ended and the enemy began to draw off the officers on the bridge cheered, and the cheers extended down into the hold, the stokers and even the wounded joining in it.

"The captain signalled for full speed ahead after the retreating Japanese, but the Bayan had not gone far before the flagship signalled it to return."

SLAUGHTER AT GURU

Thibetan Soldiers Killed Each Other In Mad Excitement.

CORRESPONDENT WOUNDED

British Force Is Now Occupying Guru—Why British Loss Was Small—Thibetan General Fired the First Shot—Onset Was Unexpected—Col. Macdonald's Presence of Mind Saved Disaster.

Tuna, Thibet, April 4.—The Thibetan general, the whole of his personal escort and five high Lhassa officials, were among the hundreds killed in the fighting on March 31 at Guru, Thibet. The small British losses are accounted for by the fact that the Thibetans were so huddled together that the majority were unable either to use their swords or to fire. The swordsmen in the front rank could not reach the Sikhs, who had fixed bayonets, while men in the middle of the mob could not reach the enemy, but many of them probably killed each other in the mad excitement. The scene recalled old-time fights in cockpits, the grim determined faces of the Thibetans lighted with devilish savagery, expressing contempt for the Sikhs, whom they outnumbered six or seven to one.

Saved Correspondent's Life.

When the Lhassa general fired the first shot the Thibetans with wild shouts drew their swords, fired their matchlocks and surged forward in all directions. About a dozen swordsmen made a desperate rush in the direction of Colonel Macdonald and a small knot of officers. Four Thibetans attacked Mr. Candler, the correspondent of The London Daily Mail, but Col. Macdonald seized a rifle and shot down two of them at a few yards and another officer killed the other two, thus saving Mr. Candler's life. Those of the Thibetans who tried to climb the wall were met with a terrible magazine rifle fire, but they did not falter, those behind springing over the heaps of dead and continuing the fight until riddled with bullets.

Best of Thibetan Army Perished.

A mountain battery was brought into action and tore the retreating lines with shrapnel. A terrible trail of dead and dying marked the line of march. At length the last wounded, limping Thibetan turned the corner, some four hundred yards from the scene of the grim tragedy where the best of the Thibetan army had perished.

The fighting at Guru will not alter the political aspect of the British mission to Thibet, which is going to Gyangste as has been arranged. Col. Younghusband has not received any communication since the fight from either Chinese or Thibetan officials.

Most Truculent Lama Killed.

The Thibet general killed at Guru belonged to one of the most influential families at Lhassa. Among the identified dead was found the body of the most truculent Lhassa Lama, well-known to the political officers. All the Thibetan prisoners have now been released. A British force is occupying Guru, where the telegraph line is being extended. The Thibetan wounded were attended by surgeons and men from the British forces, whose attentions were gratefully received, though without a show of cringing, the wounded men preserving an attitude of proud independence.

700 Were Slain.

London, April 4.—The India Office has issued long despatches sent by Colonel Younghusband, through Lord Curzon, which confirm the story concerning the engagement in which seven hundred Thibetans were slain.

The despatches add that it was a Lhassa general who fired the first shot, thereby inciting the Thibetans to attack, and show that but for the fact that the Thibetans were so hemmed in that they could not use their weapons upon the British the loss might have been more serious.

Candler Received Twelve Wounds.

Later despatches show that so little was the onset expected that the British officers were eating sandwiches and adjusting cameras. Mr. Candler, the unfortunate correspondent of The Daily Mail, was sitting, unarmed, writing. He had a narrow escape from death, receiving twelve wounds.

Col. Younghusband and his staff were not distant and also were wholly unarmed, and it is evident that but for the personal courage and presence of mind of Colonel Macdonald and his officers a terrible disaster might have occurred.

Fearless in Their Ignorance.

The Thibetans displayed dogged fearlessness, apparently being misled by the smallness of the British force and ignorant of the effect of modern firearms. The whole affair only occupied ten minutes, and even in the retreat the Thibetans disdained to scatter and run, and marched solemnly to lines under a hail of fire.

EDWARD THE PEACEMAKER.

Russian Newspapers Comment on Lord Curzon's Speech.

St. Petersburg, April 4.—The newspapers continue to discuss the British expedition of Thibet, and a speech of the viceroy of India, Lord Curzon of Keddelston, March 30, at Calcutta (when he reviewed the last five years of Indian administration and referred to the Government's watchful policy), but most of them in a singularly dispassionate tone.

The Bourse Gazette openly suggests that King Edward is planning an entente between Great Britain and Russia, and then says: "There is no need for alarm. We have been accustomed since the days of Disraeli and Salisbury to veiled threats referring to Lord Curzon's speech, Indian Secretary Brodrick's announcement of big guns for India has broken no bones, nor is any one frightened by the forthcoming British naval demonstration in the Mediterranean. The fact is that the British foreign policy is now in higher hands than Lord Curzon's, and we all know that a sincere, peaceful and loyal influence is being exerted by King Edward. There is no longer doubt of British neutrality, and there is no reason for apprehension regarding the promise of a friendly agreement with Russia concerning Thibet. We are only curious to see how Great Britain will explain armed aggression in a Chinese province."

Nothing But Sorrow.

London, April 4.—The Standard, referring to the Thibet fight, says nothing but sorrow can come from slaughter inflicted on the fanatical hillmen, but if the Indian troops had given way the story of Isandula would likely have been repeated.

Against Thibet Raid.

London, April 4.—(C. A. P.)—The Rev. F. B. Meyer, President of the Free Churches of Britain, denounced the Thibet fight at his Easter services. "We erect a monument to Boadicea," he said, "and then shoot down men who are doing what she did against the Roman invaders of her country."

Bryan Appeals.

New Haven, Conn., April 4.—William Jennings Bryan has appealed the decision omitting the letter of the late Philo S. Bennett instructing Mrs. Bennett to give Bryan $30,000.

Died From Natural Causes.

Winnipeg, April 4.—The verdict in the Regina double tragedy is that the Norris brothers died from natural causes, one of pneumonia, the other of inflammation of the bowels.

"GIVE THE DEVIL HIS DUE."

The season which is drawing to a close has been of such exceptional severity that the oldest residents in Canada declare that not since the early forties of the nineteenth century has the weather been so remarkable, the snow so deep and continuous and the cold so intense.

The effect of such a winter upon the trade of the country has naturally been very serious. Wholesale houses have been unable to deliver their goods with promptitude and regularity and merchants have been without customers owing to the impassability of the roads.

The lines were blocked with snow and the freight sheds packed with merchandise. It was a grim fight to keep the systems open, but the men employed were never beaten.

Few people have been so irrational as to blame the railways. The majority recognize how absurd and how illogical it is to make them responsible for the conditions that have prevailed. The general disposition has been to accept the conditions as inevitable. In the press there have been some sporadic outbursts on the part of the more irreconcilable critics of railway management and administration, but those who take a broad and rational view of the conditions are willing to give credit to the railway management for the manner in which they have coped with conditions of unknown rigour.

Not in the whole history of railways in this Dominion have the trains had to fight their way through such quantities of snow and in such an intensity of frost.

The fact that we have to go back to the forties for a parallel to the winter suggests a contrast between the conditions sixty years ago and those of to-day.

Merchants naturally feel irritated at being unable to send their travellers out until a month later than usual, and lumber dealers may be exasperated at being unable to supply customers when the demand is great; but the communications with the outside world have always been kept open, and upon the whole, thanks to the cold weather having come early, which caused orders to be filled in December, that are not usually dealt with till January, the great volume of trade has not suffered very materially.

But think what the conditions would have been had we been dependent upon the means of communication that were available sixty years ago! It may be said that but for the railways the large towns and cities would have been non-existent, and that, consequently, the dislocation of traffic would not have been seriously felt; but there was settlement in those days and people had to travel.

It was not a case then of running down to Montreal for a few dollars, or of having the necessaries of life brought from the large distributing centres at a few cents additional cost to the consumer; but travel could only be undertaken at great risk and at enormous cost, while the transportation of stores multiplied their value many times.

One is apt sometimes to overlook the very great debt that we owe the railways; how much we are dependent upon them for the conveniences and comforts we enjoy, how, thanks to the manner in which they have worked their systems and kept their roads open for the benefit of commerce generally and the public at large.—Montreal Herald.

PREVENTION OF MOULD ON BUTTER.

Some Precautions Which Creamery Owners Should Take.

Complaints are received from time to time, at the Dairy Division, Ottawa, regarding the appearance of mould on the parchment paper linings of butter packages. In some cases it is said to have penetrated the butter for some distance. Mould is a minute and low form of plant life. It grows from seeds, which we call spores, and which develop only in the presence of moisture and where they have a supply of suitable food. Mould will grow readily on damp wood; hence the necessity of keeping the interior of a creamery, and, especially, the refrigerating room, as dry as possible.

Poorly constructed refrigerators are apt to be damp, because the warm air which gets in from the outside carries moisture with it, which is deposited on the cooler surfaces of the walls, floors and packages. Frequent and prolonged opening of the doors also causes dampness.

Prevention of mould in the factory.—It would be a good thing for the creamery owners, as well as for the trade generally, if it were compulsory to have all creameries thoroughly disinfected every spring before operations begin. The spores of mould and other germs which cause bad flavours, are destroyed, if the work is properly done. It is a comparatively simple and inexpensive operation if the following plan is adopted.

Method of disinfection.—Wash the whole interior of the creamery, including the walls, ceilings, floors, posts, shelving, etc., with a solution of one part of bi-chloride of mercury to one thousand parts of water. Apply with a brush and scrub well wherever applied. The bi-chloride of mercury (corrosive sublimate) may be procured in tablet form of the right strength to make the above solution by adding one tablet to every pint of water used. This substance is a deadly poison and must be handled with every care and precaution.

Formalin may also be used, either as a spray or by being allowed to evaporate from a sheet of cotton suspended in the room, when the doors, windows and other openings, are tightly closed. It requires about five ounces of pure formalin to disfect 1000 cubic feet.

Prevention of Mould on Butter.—As a preventive of mould on butter, the following practice is highly recommended:—Soak the parchment paper linings, immediately before using in a saturated brine to which has been added one ounce of pure formalin to three gallons of brine; place the paper in the boxes without drying. Keep the brine in a special covered vessel. Boil the brine every week and add fresh formalin in the same proportion as at first. This treatment has been found effective in the Government creameries in the North-west Territories, where there was a great deal of trouble with mould at one time, and has given good satisfaction wherever it has been properly carried out.

Care of Parchment Paper and Empty Boxes.—Probably much of the mould on butter is due to the intention of the parchment paper is at best about the creamery without any protection and not always in a dry place. The spores do not develop on the dry paper, but as soon as it comes in contact with the butter there is sufficient moisture to encourage the growth of the mould. The parchment paper and empty packages should be kept in a thoroughly dry, clean place.

Quality of Parchment Paper Important.—Only the very best, pure vegetable parchment paper should be used. Inferior paper encourages the growth of mould and does not protect the butter. Much of the paper sold is too light in weight. A ream (500 sheets measuring 30 x 12 1-2 inches) should weigh at least 40 pounds, and the same number of sheets 28 x 12 1-2 inches should weigh not less than 30 pounds, with other sizes in proportion.

THE DISTRIBUTION OF CHOICE SEEDS.

Ontario Agricultural and Experimental Union's Work among the Farmers.

Western Canada wheat has an enviable reputation in foreign countries, says Mr G. H Clark, chief of the Seed Division, Ottawa. It is in demand for American milling centres, as well as those of England and Scotland, because it is rich in gluten of exceedingly good quality. The crop of western Canada ten years hence will reach, it is estimated, 500,00,00 bushels. In view of the rapidly increasing production it is important that its present good reputation be maintained or improved in order that it may continue to grow in favour in foreign countries, where it must find a market.

But the high standard of excellence has already been appreciably lowered through the introduction of wheat of inferior milling quality. Through carelessness these mixtures are allowed to yearly increase, while in other districts inferior qualities have been grown, that depreciate the value of the total crop.

The advantage of growing only unmixed wheat may be judged from the difference in price between "No. 1 Hard," and the next two grades, as this difference is most commonly due to the prevalence of soft, starchy grains in the lower grades. No. 1 hard invariably has a high percentage of translucent grains indicating a high percentage of a good quality of gluten, as it is the quality of the gluten that lends value to the superior wheat.

Red Fife is the standard variety and the hardiest wheat grown in Canada. It will survive late spring frosts that are sufficiently severe to kill out most other varieties. Its milling qualities are not excelled.

Preston wheat is a bearded variety that has grown in favour among farmers in districts where Red Fife has frequently been injured by early frost. It is from two to five days earlier than Red Fife. If the weather be unfavourable at the time when ripening takes place it may ripen even ten days earlier than the latter variety. Some Canadian millers claim to have made careful milling tests of Preston wheat and openly condemn it as much inferior to the Red Fife. Results of tests carried on under Prof. Shutt and of Dr. Saunders, who originated the variety, indicate that it is only slightly inferior to the Red Fife.

The comparative productiveness of varieties differs with localities and conditions of soil and climate. Again there may be quite as much difference between two strains of seed of the same variety as between two distinct sorts, so far as their capacity to give a large yield of grain is concerned. Whatever varieties are selected, they should be grown separately and each kept reasonably pure. On account of careless practices in the matter of seed selection, of undesired sorts have increased in the standard wheat of the west. These impurities consist chiefly of earlier maturing varieties that shell more readily than the Red Fife, thus having a larger proportion of seed from them, to come as volunteer wheat in the next succeeding crop.

It is of much importance to the country, as well as to individual wheat growers, that these conditions be overcome. It is clear that every farmer who is careless about keeping their seed pure are willing to pay fancy prices for ten, twenty or fifty bushel lots of good pure seed of wheat, oats and barely. But the supply of high class seed is limited. Although the demand for it is great, but little effort has been made by farmers to meet the demand. Appeals have been made to the Dominion Department of Agriculture to establish farms at various points for the purpose of growing pure seed of wheat, and other cereals, fo distribution to farmers at the cost of production. That would entail a large expense and would be undertaking work that farmers are quite able to do themselves. The Department of Agriculture is willing to grant such assistance as may be necessary to encourage private enterprise in an endeavour to cope with the situation. In matters of this kind the best results are obtained from organized effort.

SEED GROWERS' ASSOCIATION.

With a view further to encourage the production and more general use of seed of the best quality, an announcement was made in the spring of 1903, inviting farmers, who had been giving some special attention to the growing of seed grain, to unite and form an association of seed growers. Rules governing the association and standards of perfection for pedigreed seeds will be controlled by an advisory board composed of representative men from the various branch associations. There are now thirty-five seed growers who are members of the Western Canada Association. Their work is supervised and inspected by a superintendent. Records are kept of the amount and pedigree of seed produced by them. According to the rules of the association, each member is required to give a definite guarantee as to purity, vitality and freedom from seed of noxious weeds, with all lots of seeds sold by him. The association certificate will show the pedigree of the seed—the number of consecutive years during which hand selection has been followed.

Farmers in Western Canada who have farms that are free from noxious weeds and otherwise suited to growing good seed of wheat, oats, rye, barley and other grain, are invited to become members of the association and make seed growing a special industry in their farm operations. They may commence by sowing a plot in the coming spring with the best obtainable seed. There will be a ready market for all the seed that can be produced by members, at prices that will pay handsomely for the extra trouble in producing it. There is now an annual demand for 75,000 bushels of seed wheat alone.

RIDEAU HALL PARTLY BURNED.

Countess of Minto Had to Be Carried Downstairs.

Ottawa, April 4.—A fire which broke out in the new wing of Rideau Hall at 5.30 o'clock yesterday morning did about $40,000 damage. It is supposed to have caught from electrical wiring in the room of Arthur Guise, comptroller of the household. His room was gutted and the fire traveled the whole length of the roof of the wing.

The members of the household made an effort to quench the fire with buckets of water, but it soon became evident that such efforts would prove futile and the Ottawa brigade was summoned. The brigade managed to restrict the blaze to the new wing, but not without heavy damage. A great deal of valuable antique furniture and paintings were got out, but a considerable quantity of stuff was practically ruined by the deluge of water.

Lady Minto Carried Downstairs.

Their Excellencies occupied rooms in the old wing adjoining that destroyed. Her Excellency, who was helpless suffering from a compound fracture of the right leg, received recently while skating, was brought downstairs and an ambulance was in waiting to take her away should the fire have got beyond control. Fortunately this was not necessary and Her Excellency is reported to have not suffered in any way as a result of the early morning experience.

Those who were sleeping in the rooms at the time were the children of their Excellencies, Hon. Esmonde Elliott, Lady Ruby Elliott and Lady Violet Elliott. Besides these were Mr. Guise, Capt. Bell, A.D.C.; Capt. Graham, A.D.C.; Hon. Mr. Howard, Madame De Joffa, a governess, and Miss Seymour.

The Government architect places the loss at not less than $40,000, and as it is Government property the loss is a total one.

We wish to draw the attention of the public to a few of the many complimentary testimonials received by Mr. McGregor for the high quality of the work he has installed in Plumbing and Heating:—

From the Firm of Bennet & Wright, Plumbing, Heating and Electrical Contractors, Toronto.

This is to certify that Duncan McGregor has been in our employment steady for about fifteen years and during that time we have found him to be steady, honest and trustworthy. He has given every satisfaction as a practical mechanic in each of the following branches: Plumbing, steam and gas fitting, also electrical and conduit work, and for some time has had charge of some of our largest contracts with satisfactory results.

From Illsley & Horn, General Contractors, Toronto.

The bearer, Mr. Duncan McGregor, had charge of the electric wiring at the King Edward Hotel Building. The job was a large and complicated one and by the way Mr. McGregor handled the work he proved himself a mechanic of more than ordinary ability. We unhesitatingly recommend him as a first class mechanic to anyone needing his services.

From Mr. J. Ross Robertson, of the Evening Telegram.

Mr. Duncan McGregor, who has been connected with the Bennet & Wright Co. for some years, and who has superintended the work of plumbing and heating for the Bennet & Wright Co., is not only in my opinion, but also that of my architect, a fully competent mechanic. His work, my architect informs me, has been most satisfactory. Any thing that has come under my own supervision has been likewise satisfactory.

An Extract Taken from the June Number of Domestic Engineering.

During the recent convention of the Canadian Electrical Association held in the King Edward Hotel, a thorough examination was made of all the electrical work in the hotel, and it was pronounced second to none on the continent. Therefore, great credit is due Mr. Duncan MacGregor, who superintended the entire conduit, electrical and power system for the firm of Bennet & Wright, of this city, who were the contractors for all the different branches of the electrical work in the new hotel.

WRECK ON THE I. C. R.

Nineteen Cars Smashed and Fifty Cattle Killed.

ACCIDENT NEAR ROTHSAY, N.B.

Stampiog, Struggling, Bellowing Cattle Created a Wild Scene—Second Car From Engine Left the Rails and Turned at Right Angles and the Others Followed—Cattle Instantly Deprived of Life.

St. John, N. B., April 4.—Nineteen freight cars were wrecked, fifty cattle were killed and the roadbed was torn up by a disastrous wreck on the I. C. R., near Rothsay, about 10 miles from the city, yesterday morning. The train was made up of 30 cars, including 12 of cattle, containing about 200 head, shipped from Chicago by D. Munro. The cattle were to be shipped to Glasgow, on the Donaldson Liner Marina. There were also in the train a car of paper, a car of steel bars, two of sugar and several were coal laden.

The train, a special freight, in charge of Conductor Wilbur, was running about 20 miles an hour and had passed Rothsay when at 9.15 o'clock something went wrong. The second car from the engine suddenly left the rails, turned at right angles and bounded off the roadbed. Then like a flash 18 other cars followed. These included the 12 cattle cars, and they ranged side by side, but crushed and smashed badly. A wild scene followed with the stamping and struggling and bellowing of the cattle.

Killed Cattle With Rifles.

Efforts was made promptly to disengage those of the animals which were uninjured. Of the 50 killed nearly all were deprived of life instantly, some were disemboweled, others had limbs torn off and one was found headless. Residents of the place also hurried to the scene and returned for rifles and put out of misery several of the suffering animals. One whole carload, eighteen head, escaped without a scratch. The end of the car was knocked out, and they were rescued.

News of the wreck was quickly sent to St. John and Moncton. Wreckers hurried out from here and a heavy wreck train was also sent from Moncton. All day the work went on, while the uninjured cattle were herded along the sides of the track under care of cattlemen. A special immigrant train from Halifax, carrying the Bavarian passengers westward has been stalled some hours by the wreck.

THEY ACTUALLY DO THE WORK.

Food Eaten is Worthless Unless Digested. Some Stomachs Must Have Help.

Food taken into the stomach, which, from the nature of the food or the condition of the stomach, is not digested, is worse than no food at all. This is a true statement as far as it goes, and a great many dyspeptics go only this far with their reasoning. They argue with themselves that because their stomachs do not do the work given them, they must be given less work; in other words, they must be starved. It would be just as sensible for a business man who is unable to do all his own work to cut down his business to his own capacity as it is for a man to starve himself to relieve his stomach. The sensible business man employs help and goes forward with his business. Likewise the sensible dyspeptic will employ help for his stomach and give his body proper nourishment.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets actually do the work assigned to them. They relieve weak and overburdened stomachs of a great portion of digestive action. Their component parts are identical with those of the digestive fluids and secretions of the stomach and they simply take up the grind and carry on the work just the same as a good strong, healthy stomach would do it.

On this account Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are perfectly natural in their action and effects. They do not cause any unnatural or violent disturbance in the stomach or bowels. They themselves digest the food and supply the system with all the nourishment contained in what is eaten and carry out Nature's plans for the sustenance and maintenance of the body.

How much more sensible is this method than that employed by many sufferers from weak stomachs. By this means the body and brain get all the good nutritious food they need and the man is properly nourished and equipped to carry on his work and perform his duties. He could not possibly be in proper working condition by starving himself or employing some new fangled, insufficient food that does not contain enough nutriment for a year old baby. A strong man doing strong work must be properly fed, and this applies to the brain as well as the body.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, by relieving the stomach of its work, enable it to recuperate and regain its normal health and strength. Nature restores the worn and wasted tissues just as she heals and knits the bones of a broken limb, which is of course not used during the process of repair.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a box, and they are the one article that the druggist does not try to sell something in the place of that is "just as good." Their unqualified merit and success and the universal demand for them has placed them within the reach of every one.

Get My Book, if Sick

Don't Send a Penny.

Don't send a penny.

Just wait till you see what I can do. Let me take the risk. Let me prove up first what Dr. Shoop's Restorative can do. The Restorative will gain your friendship, your endorsement, if you test it. And for a whole month you can use it without the slightest risk.

I will tell you of a druggist near you who will furnish six bottles of Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month or, trial.

I will absolutely stand all the cost if it fails. If you say, "It did not help me," that ends it as far as cost to you is concerned. Do you understand me? I am telling it as plainly, as clearly as I can. I want you to know absolutely and without doubt that this offer is made on honour. I have the prescription that cures. My only problem is to convince you that Dr. Shoop's Restorative will cure—is an uncommon remedy. A common remedy could not stand a test like this. It would bankrupt the physician making the offer. And I am succeeding everywhere, and here is the secret of my success. I found invariably that where there was a weakness the inside nerves were weak. Where there was a lack of vitality, the vital nerves lacked power. Where weak organs were found, I always found weak nerves. Not the nerves commonly thought of, but the vital organs' nerves. The inside—the invisible nerves.

This was a revelation. Then my real success began. Then I combined ingredients that would strengthen, that would vitalize these nerves. That prescription I called a restorative. It is known the world over now as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Thousands are accepting my offer and only one in each forty writes me that my remedy failed. Just think of it. 39 out of 40 get well and these are difficult cases too. And the fortieth has nothing to pay. That is a record I am proud of. It is wrong to stay sick when a chance like this is open. If well, you should tell others who are sick, of my offer. Don't let a sick friend stay sick because he knows not of my offer. Tell him. Get my book for him. Do your duty. You may be sick yourself, sometime. Sick people need help. They appreciate sympathy and aid. Tell me of some sick friend. Let me cure him. Then he will show to both of us his gratitude. Your reward will be his gratitude. Send for the book now. Do not delay.

A DUTCH VICTORY.

541 Achinese Killed in a Fight in the Acheen District.

Amsterdam, April 4.—A despatch from Eotaradja, Sumatra, to The Telegreff, says that the column of Dutch troops which is operating in the Acheen district, found all the villages in Gajoolens strongly intrenched. A fight ensued between the Achinese and the Dutch troops. The enemy had 541 killed. The Dutch loss was three killed and twenty-five wounded.

Though only a small fraction of the population of Sumatra, the Achinese, who are fierce Mohammedan Malays, numbering about 450,000, have successfully resisted Dutch rule since they were deprived of their autonomy in 1874.

Desultory warfare between the Dutch and the Achinese has hardly ever ceased in the thirty intervening years.

England Seeking Cotton.

London, April 4.—The disastrous effects upon the spinning industry in Lancashire of the shortage in American cotton have come to such a pass that, on the suggestion of the Duke of Marlborough, monthly meetings are to be held in the Colonial Office to discuss measures for the promotion of cotton growing in the British Colonies.

Frozen to Death

Gore Bay, April 4.—A week ago Saturday John Poole, aged 22, perished on the ice on Meldrum Bay. He was returning from Owen Sound, where he had been at business college all winter. He played out while walking across the ice with companions, who hurried to gain assistance, but it did not reach him in time.

Two Aldermen Disqualified.

Calgary, N.W.T., April 4.—Chief Justice Sifton has rendered his decision in the investigation into recent civic sale of certain city lots, and holds that Ald. MacKenzie and Ald. MacDonald are disqualified. He censures the city clerk and comments on actions of land syndicates which purchased the lots.

Now An Ecclesiastical Province.

St. John's, Nfld., April 4.—A Papal bull was received Saturday, creating Newfoundland an ecclesiastical province, and elevating Mgr. M. F. Howley, the present Bishop of St. John's, to the archbishopric.

Want More Pay at Panama.

Panama, April 2—The railroad laborers threaten to strike to-day, unless the company accedes to their demands, the principal one being an increase of wages from $2.20 to $3. The railroad company claims it will be unable to accede to the demands until the Canal Commissioners arrive here Tuesday next. The Government has taken necessary precautions to prevent disorder and protect the company's property.

Britons Are Stayers

London, April 2—(C. A. P.)—The Daily Chronicle publishes a list of 100 men leading busy lives, though over 70 years of age in proof of British vitality. The oldest is the Rev. T. Lords who at 96 still preaches. The writer asks What other country can produce the equal? adding that certainly it is not America where it would be difficult to name six men over 80 with any outside fame.

Capt. Scott's Great Work.

London, April 1.—From the far south comes another recital of British pluck which thrills old seadogs with pride. This is the return of the Antarctic expedition to New Zealand, after a highly successful exploration of a vast unknown stretch of barren land and frozen sea. The accounts telegraphed to The Daily Mail and other journals show that behind Erebus a desolate plateau of great altitude extends toward the pole, but that westward of the grim Bullony volcanoes, where land has been sighted by various explorers, there are only fields of floating ice. Captain Scott's work in enlarging the stock of human knowledge by systematic surveys of the desolate Antarctic region has never been surpassed in the annal of polar adventure.

Five Were Found Guilty.

Toronto, April 4.—The jury required but 10 minutes on Saturday to find Abram Cahoon and Thomas Kerr, D.R.O. and poll clerk respectively in sub-division 2 of the Fifth Ward, guilty of election irregularities. They both made vigorous and positive denials. The Grays, father and son, have been convicted alike of conspiracy, though they entered positive denials also. Sam Thompson, the D.R.O. in the Fourth Ward, sub-division 9, where the illegal practices were so glaring that they resulted in the unmasking of the whole deplorable state of affairs existent in Toronto's municipal elections did not plead total ignorance. He, too, awaits appearance next Saturday for sentence.

Drifted For 25 Days.

New York, April 4—The German Levant Line steamer Tenados, which arrived yesterday from the Black Sea and the Mediterranean, fell in with the disabled Belgian steamer Clematis, on March 16, latitude 39, longitude 11, and towed her into Fayal. The Clematis was bound from Antwerp for Savannah in ballast, and had been drifting about for twenty-five days when the Tenados was sighted. The shaft was broken, and the stern tube was shattered. The after compartment was full of water.

APPROVE OF CHURCH UNION.

Halifax Presbyterians and Methodists Unanimously Favorable.

Halifax, N.S., April 2.—An informal meeting of the pastors and some of the members of the Presbyterian and Methodist Churches of this city was held yesterday to discuss the question of union. Rev. Dr. Pathern spoke of the resolutions of the Methodist general conference and Presbyterian general assembly in favor of union and of the recent informal meeting in Toronto, which had awakened so much interest. Rev. Dr. Pollock, Rev. Dr. Murray, Rev. John McMillan, Rev. Dr. Forrest, Rev. Dr. Falconer and Rev. Dr. McLean also spoke strongly in favor of union.

Resolutions in favor of the movement were passed unanimously. The greatest unanimity and cordiality prevailed at the meeting. After passing the resolutions, a committee was appointed to bring these expressions of opinion to the notice of the union committee and of the churches.

Small Veterinary Staff.

Ottawa, March 31.—The organization of a small veterinary staff is contemplated by the Militia Department. This will in no way affect the appointment of veterinary officers to corps. Each cavalry corps and each artillery corps will have its veterinary. The new establishments, however, give only one veterinary to a brigade, instead of one to each battery of the brigade, as hitherto. But where a battery is independent, as most batteries now are, it will have its veterinary officer.

Fast Train Wrecked.

Moncton, March 31.—The fast freight going west was badly wrecked yesterday afternoon five miles above Rogersville, nine cars left the rails and went over a bank and were badly broken up, and three were thrown across the track. None of the train hands were injured. A refrigerator car, containing a heater stove took fire and the train hands had considerable difficulty in getting it out. An auxiliary train was sent out to clear the road.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at last one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer one hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Made Counterfeits in Prison.

Binghamton, N.Y., April 2.—One of the cases to be presented to the grand jury to convene at Utica next week is that of Julien and Adelbert Chapin, prisoners confined in Auburn State Prison, who are charged with making counterfeit money in that institution. They are said to have made moulds for silver dollars and nickels. Their benches were near each other, one of them being engaged at such employment that he had to use molten metal.

One of them would have the moulds, the other the metals, and at frequent intervals, the metal man would carry over a ladle full of his counterfeit material and pour it into the moulds, the guards supposing they were at their regular work.

The counterfeits were good, and some of them were smuggled out of prison and placed in circulation before the work was discovered.

Defends Churchill

London, April 2.—(C.A.P.)—Lord Hugh Cecil, writing to The Times, defends the honesty of Winston Churchill in attacking the Government, in spite of his being well aware it is not the part of self-interest. Lord Hugh Cecil reminds the Unionists of the acrimonious attacks made by Mr. Chamberlain and the Liberal-Unionists on the Liberal side against Mr. Gladstone.

London, April 2.—(C. A. P.)—The editor of The National Review accuses Sir Alexander Acland-Hood, chief Whip of the Unionist party, of inspiring J. L. Wharton's amendment, which he declares was undoubtedly an attempt to stab Mr. Chamberlain in the back.

Difficulty For Diplomats.

New York, April 2.—Official society is more than a little exercised over the lawn fete which the Countess Cassini, niece of the Russian Ambassador, is planning for May 6 for the benefit of the Russian Red Cross Society, says a Times despatch from Washington. Mrs. Hay and most of the women in the diplomatic circle have been asked to serve as patronesses. The recent executive order that all Government officials and employes refrain from any expression of opinion or sympathy that could be constructed as a violation of neutrality, is embarrassing many of the countess friends in political life.

Niagara Claims Another Victim.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., April 2.—An old man, whose identity was established yesterday afternoon as that of Otis White of Ransomville, N.Y., committed suicide at Prospect Point yesterday by deliberately walking into the rapids, where he sat down and was carried over the American Falls. He had been in ill-health for some time.

Ever since Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills were first introduced to the public the sales have steadily increased, each year being larger than the year previous. This is probably the best evidence of their remarkable efficiency, as a treatment for the derangements of the Kidneys, Liver and bowels. They are invaluable as a family medicine.

Mortality in N.Y. State.

Albany, N.Y., April 2.—The State Health Department's bulletin shows 12,719 deaths in the State for February, 2,000 more than during the same month previously. Pneumonia caused 14.3 per cent of the deaths. Smallpox exists in 17 municipalities.

LATE W. A. STRATTON, K. C.

A Prominent Lawyer and Highly Respected Citizen Passes Away.

The Salient Features of a Busy and Useful Life.

Universal regret was felt in Peterborough this morning when the painful intelligence became public of the death of Mr. W. A. Stratton, K. C., which sad event took place at 7 a.m.

Though this ending was not unexpected, yet it came as a shock to relatives and friends and to the general public in the community where the deceased gentleman was so well and favourably known and universally respected, for his high qualities of mind and heart.

William Armstrong Stratton was the second son of the late James Stratton, and was born in Ashburnham 44 years ago. He received his early education at the public school and Collegiate Institute, subsequently continuing his studies at Toronto University, from which he graduated with distinction, taking his degree of B.A. in June 1880, and subsequently was admitted to the degree of M.A. He entered upon the study of law on the completion of his university course. He read in the office of Mr. D. W. Dumble, K.C., and later with the legal firm of Morphy & Miller, Toronto. He was called to the Bar in 1883 and entered upon the practice of his profession in his home town, his offices having been on the corner of George and Simcoe streets.

In June, 1888, he entered into partnership with Mr. R. R. Hall, constituting the well known law firm of Stratton & Hall. The late Mr. Stratton was appointed a Queen's Counsel in October, 1899. He was [illegible] and was a member of the Law Society of Upper Canada. He was also a member of the Peterborough Club, and was a member of the Presbyterian church. He was esteemed by all who knew him, his genial disposition and kindly nature endearing him to all with whom he came in contact. He was very successful in his profession, and although he took only public position, he, however, took an active interest in politics from time to time. He had a natural talent for organization, and Liberal success in West Peterborough owes much to his assistance. In the earlier years of his life he became associated with several Societies. At the time of his death he was a member of Peterborough Lodge, A.F. and A.M. He was Past Grand of Peterborough Lodge of Oddfellows, and was a member of the Encampment and Rebekah degree. He was also a member of the Knights of Pythias, and was a member of the Sons of England Benefit Society.

Mr. Stratton was unmarried. He leaves behind him to sincerely mourn his death, a mother, Mrs. James Stratton, three brothers, Hon. J. B. Stratton, A. H. Stratton and Dr. E. G. Stratton, now at the Riviera, and four sisters, Mrs. (Dr.) Hunter, Miss Stratton, Miss Mary Stratton, and Mrs. T. E. Matthews.

The funeral will be held under Masonic auspices, on Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock.

TO HOLD MEETING IN PETERBOROUGH.

Master Plumbers Association Will Meet Here on Thanksgiving Day.

Mr. T. D. MacGregor, the Town's Representative At the Recent Meeting in Hamilton.

Mr. T. D MacGregor, of the firm of MacPherson & MacGregor, has just returned from Hamilton, where he has been attending the semi-annual meeting of the Provincial Master Plumbers' and Steam and Hot Water Fitters' Association and Mr. MacGregor has succeeded in getting the next meeting of the Association, on Thanksgiving Day, for Peterborough. The meeting, which was held on Good Friday, was attended by about 140 master plumbers from all parts of Ontario, and was one of the most successful in the history of the Association. Only thoroughly practical men are admitted into membership in the Association, the object of which is to bring the plumbing up to the highest standard of efficiency, and to improve the sanitary conditions, which to a large extent are dependent upon proper plumbing.

On Friday night the members of the Association held a banquet in the Waldrof Hotel, Hamilton, which was largely attended.

The supply dealers on Wednesday night tendered the members a banquet in McConkey's, Toronto, at which there were about 100 present, and which was a most enjoyable event. Mr. MacGregor is very enthusiastic on the question of sanitary plumbing, and is at present the only member of the Association in Peterborough, although he expects to form a local branch of the Association. He is a member of the Organizing Committee to prepare the work for the next meeting here.

The fact that Peterborough has been chosen as the place of meeting is evidence of the importance of the town in the estimation of public bodies such as the Plumbers Association.

EASTER SUNDAY IN THE LOCAL CHURCHES

Special Services Held Yesterday—The Easter Music and Decorations—Large Congregations.

Of all the festivals in the calendar of the churches, that of Easter is the greatest. For, whereas, our Lord by His birth, life and death, showed Himself to be man, by His resurrection on the first Easter morning He proved Himself to be God; and this is the foundation stone of Christianity. The religious exercises of Easter Sunday were marked with joyful music and in all the churches were attended by large crowds of worshippers.

The churches were all beautifully decorated for the occasion, and the services were joyful and in keeping with the glad occasion.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH.

Large congregations attended the Easter services at St. Luke's church, yesterday, which were conducted by acting-Rector, J. L. Holah, L.S.T. The altar and the pulpit were beautifully decorated with Easter Lilies, and the choir under the direction of Mr. Jos. Legg, gave the following special music:—

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.

Large congregations attended the services at St. Andrew's church yesterday, which were conducted by Rev. Principal Kent, of Toronto. The choir, under the leadership of Mr. Wm. Hall, rendered special music. The anthem, "Christ our Passover," was rendered in a very effective manner. The offertory during the day amounted to $100.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

The Easter services at St. John's church were even more bright and glorious this year than ever on former years and were attended by large congregations, completely filling the church. The chancel was beautifully decorated with flowers, the work on the reredos being specially artistic and was moreover the original design of a member of the congregation. There were over 500 communicants at the two communion services. The choir numbered 28, and their work, under Mr. Gibbon's direction, was of the highest order, which was especially shown in the anthem, "Awake Thou that Sleepest." The Easter hymns were heartily sung and enjoyed by the congregations. A handsome bracket for the font appeared for the first time. This too, was carved by a talented member of the congregation. On it stood the brass bowl and the lily and still presented yesterday. Announcement was also made that former members of the congregation had sent Easter gifts to their old church. During the day Rev. J. C. Davidson was assisted by Rev. E. L. King, M.A., of Trinity University, who preached both morning and evening. His evening sermon was an specially powerful one and the text was, "I Know that My Redeemer Liveth." The offertory during the day amounted to upwards of $430, of which $390 was given in special envelopes for the Rectory Fund.

There was a bright children's service in the afternoon, which was attended also by the girls of Dr. Barnardo's Home. The children's boxes for Missionary Homes, amounted to $21.00.

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.

His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, assisted by the clergy, celebrated Pontifical High Mass at St Peter's Cathedral yesterday. Rev. Father McColl preached in the morning and Rev. Father Galvin in the evening. The church had been beautifully decorated. The choir, under the leadership of Mr. R. J. Hillier, of Montreal, as choir leader, rendered very creditably special music. In the morning Mallard's Mass was sung and those who took the solos were Miss E. Walsh, Miss A. Simon and Mr. Mayo Casey.

How the sparrows of Winnipeg are Up to Date.

The divine command, "Help ye one another," seems to be followed a great deal more unfailingly by a certain community of sparrows that hang out in the C.N.R. depot, Winnipeg, than it is by the majority of humans, says a despatch from that city.

Last fall the powers that be on the C.N.R. concluded that the little brown chirpers had become so important in point of numbers and had so entirely misconceived the real aim and object of the huge canopy which covers the four tracks that strenuous measures must be taken to be rid of them.

British Warships That Guard Our Shores and Our People in Foreign Lands in Times of Peril.

Since the outbreak of the war the safety of Canadian missionaries laboring in Corea has been an object of no small concern to their friends at home. When the season for campaigning has fairly begun on that battle ground of the Far East the bearers of the message of the Gospel who remain there will be encompassed with danger on every side. In war time the camps of even the most civilized and most Christianized nations are not a safe neighborhood for non-combatants. The Japanese and Russian soldiery may not be more savage or licentious than the troops of any other race, but men of whom the occupation is slaughter, who have had experience of the sacking of cities, are not unlikely to be violent to helpless neutrals. Possibly more to be feared than the belligerents are the natives of Corea, who may become disorderly in this time of their country's trouble, and may thereby be excited to fanatical attacks on the Christian missionaries. We know how the people of Seoul broke loose against the "foreign devils" when the idea took possession of their minds that the electric railway was a profanation and a curse. They had had a drought, and this they deemed to be a visitation of the displeasure of the rain god, offended because the power-house was built upon soil sacred to his service. And, similarly, the war with which their country is overrun may be ascribed by the natives to their harboring of Christian missionaries. No member of a missionary household would be safe in Corea a moment after that notion got abroad.

Realizing the peril, officers of Canadian Foreign Missionary Associations urged the Dominion Government to request the British Minister at Seoul to take measures for the deliverance of their brethern in Corea. A despatch was sent. The British Minister at the Corean capital promptly replied with an assurance that the missionaries would be looked after. To the missionaries themselves, operating in the interior of Corea, he at once sent word that they would be met at Long-Chin and brought to the treaty port of Wonsan, where a vessel would meet them. This was followed by an advice from the Canadian High Commissioner in London that the missionaries had been communicated with, that they would be assembled at the place appointed, there taken on board a British warship, and carried to a place of safety, probably to the British port of Hong Kong.

Merchant vessels were at that time touching and trading at Wonsan and Long-Chin, and on one of these the missionary party could have taken passage. But merchant vessels are not quite safe in waters upon which the ships of two contending navies are cruising. A trading vessel is subject to stoppage and search if it is suspected of carrying contraband goods. Nor is the manner of challenging suspected merchantmen always according to the rules of war. A Russian warship fired on a British trader by mistake. And most of the trading done with Corean ports is now by Japanese vessels. So, if the missionaries got on a merchant ship it would probably be one flying the Japanese flag. We know the fate of one Japanese merchantman. It was fired on and sunk, with all on board, by a Russian cruiser. Should a Japanese passenger or freight ship, carrying the missionaries, and their wives and children, meet a vessel belonging to the Vladivostock squadron, the latter might open fire and send the trading vessel and those on board of her to the bottom of the sea. Fearing such a chance, the British Government sent a man-of-war. That was not fired on.

When they find awaiting them a formidable warship, one of the upholders of Britain's mighty sea power, the Canadian mission workers in the Far East must feel proud and grateful to belong to such an Empire. They can truly boast that they are citizens of no mean State. This Mistress of the Seas, who sends her naval vessels for the safe conveyance of Canadians from regions of danger, is the "worn-out nation" Mr. Bourassa would have Canada separated from. Canadians are British subjects, and the protection of the British navy is as much at their service as it is at that of the people of the United Kingdom. Canadian missionaries in the Far East have always been watched over by British power. Their welfare has been provided for in treaties, and when they have been molested Britain has demanded reparation. At the time of the war between China and Japan she afforded means for the missionaries to reach asylum. During the "Boxer" rising she made them the objects of her special care, and more strongly than any of the other powers did she insist on the punishment of the ringleaders of that movement against the missionaries.

But the British navy has always been a wall of defence to Canada. Our increasing foreign trade has that navy as its insurance against attack. On our Eastern coast, with headquarters at our Eastern port of Halifax, hovers every summer the Atlantic squadron. On our western coast, with headquarters at Esquimalt, is the Pacific squadron. When Behring Sea was claimed by the United States as a mare clausum Secretary Blaine gave notice that Canadian sealers found there would be seized. Lord Salisbury replied that British naval vessels would be there to guard them. And when the season came, no Canadian vessel was interfered with. Years before that when feeling was hot about the three-mile limit on our Atlantic coast, a British squadron kept an eye on the situation. It is by British cruisers that Behring Sea is patrolled during the sealing season. French naval commanders would not allow our fishermen to enjoy their full rights in waters adjoining Newfoundland if British warships were not at hand to take the Canadians' part.

More Preference Wanted.

London, April 2.—(C.A.P.)—The Imperial Fiscal Committee of Birmingham issues a pamphlet dealing with the results of preferential trading with Canada, and quoting the figures prepared for the Duke of Argyll by the Canadian Government. The pamphlet says preferential trading has been tried and proved advantageous, let us have more.

COL. M'BRIDE'S PET

By CYRUS DERICKSON

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure

One day, while some of the officers of the Bengal lancers were tiger hunting, they found a baby tiger three months old and took it back to cantonments and presented it to their commanding officer, Colonel McBride. In due time the beast became full grown and was in and out of the bungalow like a favorite dog. He was apparently tame, but now and then he moped and snarled and betrayed the ferocity lying dormant in his nature, but on such occasions he was given the whip and always crouched in submission at his master's feet. Like the average dog, the tiger had his likes and dislikes of men. Some of the officers never laid hands on his head without being rewarded by a low, deep growl, while he was ready to welcome and make friends with others. Among the former was Major Swift. He had exchanged from an English cavalry regiment and been received cordially. He was a gay bachelor of forty, supposed to be possessed of a large income and a man who was first in society and sport of all kinds. That he had lived a fast life was known to all, but that fact was not permitted to count against him. His many friends boasted of his gains or losses on the race track or at cards and held him up as free handed and a good fellow.

"IT'S THE MAJOR!" HE GASPED.

There had just been a breath of scandal about the major at Allahabad. It had been softly whispered that he had run through his patrimony and was hard up and that his success at cards was not always due to luck alone. These whispers did not circulate far and were stamped as the result of spite and jealousy. No one but the major himself knew that they were founded on fact and that they were the sole reason for his exchange. He was tendered a farewell banquet by the officers of his late regiment, and the soldier or civilian who had dared to repeat the gossip of Allahabad would have been silenced very quickly. Had the major been a man to take any one into his confidence and reveal his true situation he would have been obliged to say:

"At forty years old I am without a pound I can call my own; my estate is mortgaged for its full value; I am in debt to the money lenders; my last two horses are not paid for; I owe my tailors and am being pressed for payment, and if I should lose £20 at cards tonight I should have to borrow the money to pay the debt of honor. I am simply living on my past reputation as a man of money, and I see no way to better my circumstances except to become a card sharp and fleece the officers at this cantonment."

That would have been the truth and only the truth, but the major would have sent a bullet through his head rather than make any such admission.

There was much sporting blood in the Bengal lancers, and the officers played for high stakes. The major did not have to encourage them to gamble; they were waiting for him, but they soon had cause to regret that he had appeared. His bets were high and his luck phenomenal. But for his continued extravagance he could have paid off much of his indebtedness with the money won during the first six weeks. Those not in the game praised his nerve and talked of his luck; those who always came out losers did a great deal of thinking, but were silent. At the end of two months whispers were heard again. No one could trace them to any authentic source, and they did not exactly charge the major with card sharping, but when they reached the colonel's ears he listened and planned. He himself had been a heavy and continuous loser and had not always been a philosopher as his gold changed hands. There had been games at his bungalow as well as elsewhere, and the first time that Major Swift made his appearance there those in his company had considerable curiosity to know how he would be received by the colonel's pet.

The tiger no sooner caught sight of the new officer than he ceased to frolic and became sulky and morose. There was no outbreak of temper, but he lay down and fastened his eyes on the major as if reading him through and through, and it was evident that there was dislike and distrust of the man. The beast continued his glare until the colonel's man was ordered to take him away and tie him up. The colonel had said nothing to any of the officers, but he had secretly determined to watch the major's play and discover if there was a cause for his winning the way he did. The major could have had no hint of it, and yet perhaps intuition had given him warning, and he was not himself at all. He played and won, but he also played and lost, and his losses were far greater than his gains. Seated at his right hand and taking no active part in the game was the colonel, and he never left his chair from first to last. The major came out loser by £200. On the next night he lost £75, on the third night £100. He made good his first two losses from his former gains, but when he rose from the third sitting he knew that he would have to borrow of a brother officer to pay his losses.

The officer had not been detected cheating, but he had been out of luck. The colonel may have put two and two together in his own mind, and so perhaps might one or two of the players, but the party broke up with the greatest apparent good feeling all around, and half an hour later the colonel was in bed. He was a sound sleeper, and it was partly for this reason that at night the tiger was given free range of the bungalow. There were no sentinels stationed outside the place, but a native watchman slept on the veranda. At 2 o'clock in the morning this man slept, and the colonel was in dreamland. The tiger was stretched on the floor, blinking and dozing, when he suddenly pricked up his ears and opened wide his eyes. He had heard a step on the earth outside. As he listened the step came nearer. It being in the heat of the summer, the doorways were guarded only by mats. Presently the animal saw one of these slightly move, and he got the scent of a stranger. He did not growl or spring up, but the fire in his eyes grew brighter, and his [illegible] slowly and carefully pushed the mat aside and crept into the room, which was one in which the guests had been entertained that night, ought to have caught the blaze of the tiger's eyes in the darkness, but he did not. With footfalls as gentle as a hare's he stole across the room to the colonel's desk. The desk had been carelessly left unlocked, and he took from it a bag containing the money to be given to the winning horses of the races to be held a week later. There was £600 in the bag, and the robber had just turned from the desk to make his stealthy escape when there was a roar and a bound, and he went down with a crash. It was hardly a minute before the colonel was at hand with a light, but the beast had done his work. A blow from his paw as he sprang had broken the man's neck, and teeth and claws were still at work. He was promptly shot, and then the colonel bent down and rolled the dead man over that he might see his face.

"Heavens, but it's the major!" he gasped out as he started back. "It's the major, and he has the bag of money clutched in his hand!"

Not Absolutely Helpless.

Some few persons still cherish the idea that all women are absolutely helpless in business matters and that they are so lacking in financial ability that they cannot safely be trusted to handle money.

Mr. Black belonged to this class. He had been in the habit of paying all the household bills at the end of each month, and his wife, although allowed unlimited credit, had never had an allowance. One day the Blacks happened to be passing the comparatively new building in which the bank was situated.

"Do you know, John," remarked Mrs. Black, "I have actually never been inside the bank since it was built more than two years ago?"

"You haven't!" exclaimed John. "If that's the case I guess I'd better give you a check this month and let you pay the bills. Do you think you'd know how to cash it?"

Mrs. Black received the check. That evening Mr. Black asked, not without sarcasm, if she had succeeded in indorsing it properly.

"Oh, yes!" returned Mrs. Black cheerfully.

"How many bills did you pay?"

"None. It seemed a pity to waste all that money paying bills."

"Then what in the world did you do with it?"

"Oh," returned the little woman serenely, "I just deposited it to my own account!"—Collier's Weekly.

DR. CHASE'S SYRUP LINSEED AND TURPENTINE.

The sales of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine during 1903 were over forty per cent. larger than in 1902.

This means that nearly half as much again was used. Can there be better proof of the merit of this family medicine?

It is undoubtedly the far-reaching effect of this preparation that makes it so popular.

People soon find out that it is far more than a mere temporary relief and that it can be absolutely depended on in serious and severe cases of throat and lung trouble.

Mrs. J. Provost, Renfrew, Ontario, states:—"My fourteen-year-old boy had a very severe cold in the chest last winter and I really thought he was going to die. He coughed nearly all the time and sometimes would spit up blood. We had about given up all hopes of his recovery when I heard of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. After using one bottle there was a great change in his condition, and I can positively say that he was completely cured by two bottles and he has not been troubled since. I never saw medicine take such quick effect and can sincerely recommend it."

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, 25 cents a bottle, family size (three times as much) 60 cents, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Purified by Suffering

BY MARY J. HOLMES.

"Mark spoke of that when he heard I was going to-day," Aunt Betsy said. "I'll warrant you he'll attend to it."

Aunt Betsy was right, for when Mark and his mother joined their guests, and learned that Aunt Betsy's intention was unchanged, he suggested the ride, and offered the use of their carriage. Helen did not decline the offer and ere a half hour had passed, Aunt Betsy, with her satchel, umbrella, and cap-box, was comfortably adjusted in Mrs Banker's carriage with Helen beside her while Mark bade his coachman drive wherever Miss Lennox wished to go, taking care to reach the train in time.

They were tearful thanks which Aunt Betsy gave to her kind friends as she was driven to the Bowery, to say good-bye, lest the Tubbses should "think her suddenly stuck up."

"Would you mind taking 'Tilda in? It would please her mightily," Aunt Betsy whispered, as they were alighting in front of Mr. Peter Tubbs's, and as the result of this suggestion the carriage, when again its emerged into Broadway, held Maria Tubbs, prouder than she had been in all her life before, while the gratified mother at home felt amply repaid for all the trouble her visitor had made her.

And Helen enjoyed it, too, finding Mattie a little insipid and tiresome, but feeling happy in the consciousness that she was making others happy. It was a long drive they took, and Aunt Betsy saw so much that her brain grew giddy, and she was glad when they started for the depot, taking Madison Square on their way, and passing Katy's house.

"I dare say it's all grand and smart," Aunt Betsy said, as she leaned out to look at it, "but I feel best at hum, where they are used to me."

And her face did wear a brighter look, when finally seated in the cars, than it did before since she left Silverton.

"You'll be home in April, and maybe Katy'll come, too," she whispered as she kissed Helen good-bye, and shook hands with Mattie Tubbs, charging her again never to let the folks in Silverton know that "Betsy Barlow had been seen at a play-house."

Slowly the cars moved away and Helen was driven home, leaving Mattie alone in her glory as she rolled down the Bowery, enjoying the eclat of her position, but feeling a little chagrined at not meeting a single acquaintance by whom to be envied and admired.

Katy did not ask where Helen had been for she was wholly absorbed in Marian Hazelton's letter, telling how fast the baby improved, how pretty it was growing, and how fond both she and Mrs Hubbell were of it, loving it almost as well as if it were their own.

"I know now it was best for it to go, but it was hard at first," Katy said, putting the letter away and signing wearily as she missed the clasp of the little arms and touch of the baby lips.

Several times Helen was tempted to tell her of Aunt Betsy's visit, but decided finally not to do so, and Katy never knew what it was which for many days made Wilford so uneasy, starting at every sudden ring, going often to the window and looking out into the street as if expecting some one, while he grew strangely anxious for news from Silverton, asking when Katy had heard from home, and why she did not write. One there was, however, who knew and who enjoyed watching Wilford, and guessing just how his anxiety grew as day after day went by, and she neither came nor was heard from in any way, for Helen did not show the letter apprising her of Aunt Betsy's safe arrival home, and so all in Wilford's mind was vague conjecture.

She had been in New York, as was proven by Bob Reynolds, but where was she now, and who were those people with her? Had they entrapped her into some snare, and possibly murdered her? Such things were not of rare occurrence, and Wilford actually grew thin with the uncertainty which hung over the fate of one whom in his present state of mind he would have warmly welcomed to his fireside, had there been a dozen dinner parties in progress. At last, as he sat one day in his office, with the same worried look on his face, Mark, who had been watching him, said:

"By the way, Will, how did that sheep-pasture come out, or didn't the client appear?"

"Mark," and Wilford's voice was husky with emotion, "you've stumbled upon the very thing which is tormenting my life out of me. Aunt Betsy has never turned up or been heard of since that night. For aught I know she was murdered, or spirited away, and I am half distracted. I'd give a thousand dollars to know what has become of her."

"Put down half that pile and I'll tell you," was Mark's nonchalent reply, while Wilford, seizing his shoulder, and compelling him to look up, exclaimed:

"You know then? Tell me—you do know. Where is she?"

"Safe in Silverton, I presume," was the reply, and then Mark told his story, to which Wilford listened, half incredulous, half indignant, and a good deal relieved.

"You are a splendid fellow, Mark, though I must say you meddled, but I know you did not do it unselfishly. Perhaps with Katy not won I might do the same. Yes, on the whole, I thank you and Helen for saving me that mortification. I feel now like a new man, knowing the old lady is safe at home, where I trust she will remain. And that Tom, who called here yesterday, asking to be our clerk, is the youth I saw at the opera. I thought his face was familiar. Let him come, of course. In my gratitude, I feel like patronizing the entire Tubbs family."

And so it was this flash of gratitude for a peril escaped that procured for young Tom Tubbs the situation of clerk in the office of Cameron & Ray, the application for such situation having been urged by the ambitious Mattie, who felt her dignity considerably increased when she could speak of her brother Tom in company with Messrs. Cameron & Ray.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

Does the reader remember the pleasant spring days when the thunder of Fort Sumter's bombardment came echoing up the Northern hills and across the Western prairies, stopping for a moment the pulses of the nation, but quickening them again with a mighty power as from Maine to California, man after man arose to meet the misguided foe trailing our honored flag in the dust? Nowhere, perhaps, was the excitement so great or the feeling so strong as in New York, when the Seventh Regiment was ordered to Washington, its members never faltering or holding back, but with a nerving of the will and a putting aside of self, preparing to do their duty. Conspicuous among them was Mark Ray, who, laughing at his mother's tears, kissed her livid cheek, and then with a pang remembered Helen—wondering how she would feel, and thinking the path of danger would be so much easier if he knew that her prayers would go with him, shielding him from harm and bringing him back again to the sunshine of her presence.

And before he went Mark must know this for certain, and he chided himself for having put it off so long. True she had been sick and confined to her room for a long while after Aunt Betsy's memorable visit; and when she was able to go out, Lent had put a stop to her mingling in festive scenes, so that he had seen but little of her, and had never met her alone. But he would write that very day. She would say that he did well to go, and she would answer yes to the question he would ask her. Mark felt sure of that; but still the letter he wrote was eloquent with his pleadings for her love, while he confessed his own, and asked that she would give him the right to think of her as his affianced bride — to know she waited for his return, and would crown it at last with the full fruition of her priceless love.

"I meet a few of my particular friends at Mrs. Grandon's to-night," he added, in conclusion. "Can I hope to see you there, taking your presence as a token that I may speak and tell you in words what I have so poorly written?"

This note he would not trust to the post, but deliver himself, and thus avoid the possibility of a mistake, he said, and half an hour later he rang the bell at No. —, asking "If Miss Lennox was at home." She was, and handing the girl the note, Mark ran down the steps, while the servant carried the missive to the library, where upon the table lay other letters received that morning, and as yet unopened, for Katy was very busy and Helen was dressing to go out with Juno Cameron, who had graciously asked her to drive with her and look at a picture she had set her heart on having.

Juno had not yet appeared, but Mark was scarcely out of sight, when she came in with the familiarity of a sister, and entered the library to wait. Carelessly turning the books upon the table, she stumbled upon Mark's letter, which, through some defect in the envelope, had become unsealed, and lay with its edge lifted so that to peer at its contents was a very easy matter had she been so disposed. But Juno, who knew the handwriting—could not at first bring herself even to touch what was intended for her rival. But as she gazed the longing grew, until at last she took it in her hand, turning it to the light, and tracing distinctly the words: "My dear Helen," while a storm of pain and passion swept over her, mingled with a feeling of shame that she had let herself down so far.

"It does not matter now," the tempter whispered. "You may as well read it and know the worst. Nobody will suspect it," and she was about to take the folded letter from the envelope, intending to replace it after it was read, when a rapid step warned her some one was coming, and hastily thrusting the letter into her pocket she dropped her veil to cover her confusion, and then confronted Helen Lennox, ready for the drive, and unconscious of the wrong which could not then be righted.

Juno did not mean to keep the letter and all that morning she was devising measures for making restitution, thinking once to confess the whole, but shrinking from that as more than she could do. As they were driving home they met Mark Ray; but Helen, who chanced to be looking in the opposite direction, did not see the earnest look of scrutiny he gave her, scarcely heeding Juno, whose voice trembled as she spoke of him to Helen and his intended departure. Helen observed the tremor in her voice, and pitied the girl, whose agitation she fancied arose from the fact that her lover was so soon to go where danger and possibly death was waiting. In Helen's heart, too, there sprang a pang whenever she remembered Mark, and what had so recently passed between them, raising hopes, which now were wholly blasted. For he was Juno's, she believed, and the grief at his projected departure was the cause of the young lady's softened and even humble demeanor, as she insisted on Helen's stopping at her house for lunch before going home.

To this Helen consented—Juno still revolving in her mind how to return the letter, which grew more and more a horror to her. It was in her pocket, she knew, for she had felt it there when, after lunch, she went to her room for a fresh handkerchief. She would accompany Helen home—would manage to slip into the library alone, and put it partly under a book, so that it would appear to be hidden, and thus account for its not having been seen before. This seemed a very clever plan, and with her spirits quite elated, Juno drove round with Helen, finding no one in the parlor below, and felicitating herself upon the fact that Helen left her alone while she ran up to Katy.

"Now is my time," she thought, stealing noiselessly into the library and feeling for the letter.

But it was not there, and no amount of search, no shaking of handkerchiefs, or turning of pockets inside out could avail to find it. The letter was lost, and in the utmost consternation Juno returned to the parlor, appearing so abstracted as scarcely to be civil when Katy came down to see her; asking if she was going that night to Sybil Grandon's, and talking of the dreadful war, which she hoped would not be a war after all. Juno was too wretched to talk, and after a few moments she started for home, hunting in her own room and through the halls but failing in her search, and finally giving it up, with the consoling reflection that were it found in the street no suspicion could fasten on her, and as fear of detection, rather than contrition for the sin, had been the cause of her distress, she grew comparatively calm, save when her conscience made itself heard and admonished confession as the only reparation which was now in her power. But Juno could not confess, and all that day she was absent-minded ed her closely, wondering what connection, if any, there was between her burning cheeks and the letter she had found upon the floor in her daughter's room just after she had and silent, while her mother watchleft it; the letter, at whose contents she had glanced, shutting her lips firmly together, as she saw that her plans had failed, and finally putting the document away, where there was less hope of its ever finding its rightful owner than if it had remained with Juno. Had Mrs. Cameron supposed that Helen had already seen it, she would have returned it at once; but of this she had her doubts, after learning that "Miss Lennox did not go up stairs at all." Juno, then, must have been the delinquent; and the mother resolved to keep the letter till some inquiry was made for it at least.

And so Helen did not guess how anxiously the young man was anticipating the interview at Sybil Grandon's, scarcely doubting that she would be there, and fancying just the expression of her eyes when they first met his. Alas for Mark, alas for Helen, that both should be so cruelly deceived. Had the latter known of the loving words sent from the true heart which longed for some word of hers to lighten the long march and beguile the tedious days of absence, she would not have said to Katy, when asked if she was going to Mrs. Grandon's, "Oh, no; please don't urge me. I would so much rather stay at home."

Katy would not insist, so went alone with Wilford to the entertainment, given to a few young men, who seemed as heroes then, when the full meaning of that word had not been exemplified, as it has been since in the life so cheerfully laid down, and the heart's blood poured so freely, by the tens of thousands who have won a martyr's and a hero's name. With a feeling of chill despair, Mark listened while Katy explained to Mrs. Grandon that her sister had fully intended coming in the morning, but had suddenly changed her mind and begged to be excused.

"I am sorry, and so I am sure is Mr. Ray," Sybil said, turning lightly to Mark, whose white face froze the gay laugh on her lips and made her try to shield him from observation until he had time to recover himself and appear as usual.

How Mark blessed Sybil Grandon for that thoughtful kindness, and how wildly the blood throbbed through his veins as he thought, "She would not come. She does not care. I have deceived myself in hoping that she did, and now welcome war, welcome anything which shall help me to forget."

Mark was very wretched, and his wretchedness showed itself upon his face, making more than one rally him for what they termed fear, while they tried to reassure him by saying that to the Seventh there could be no danger after Baltimore was safely passed. This was more than Mark could bear, and at an early hour he left the house, bidding Katy good-bye in the hall, and telling her he probably would not see her again, as he would not have time to call.

"Not call to say good-bye to Helen," Katy exclaimed.

"Helen will not care," was Mark's reply, as he hurried away into the darkness of the night, more welcome in his present state of mind than the gay scene he had left.

Now that Mark was gone, Mrs. Banker turned intuitively to Helen, finding greater comfort in her quiet sympathy than in the more worldly condolence offered her by Juno, who, as she heard nothing from the letter, began to lose her fears of detection, and even suffer her friends to rally her upon the absence of Mark Ray, and the anxiety she must feel on his account. Moments there were however, when thoughts of the stolen letter brought a pang, while Helen's face was a continual reproach, and she was glad when, towards the first of May, her rival left New York for Silverton, where, as the spring and summer came on, her services were needed.

THE BUGLER'S CHEST

Is well expanded. He uses his lungs to their fullest capacity. People in ordinary do not use much over half their lung power. The unused lung surface becomes inert, and offers a prepared ground for the attack of the germs of consumption. There is no need to warn people of the danger of consumption, but warning is constantly needed not to neglect the first symptoms of diseased lungs.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures obstinate coughs, bronchitis, bleeding lungs, and other conditions which, if neglected or unskilfully treated, find a fatal termination in consumption. It is entirely free from opiates and narcotics.

"About three years ago I was taken with a bad cough, vomiting and spitting blood," writes Mr D J Robinson of Spring Garden, W Va. "I tried many remedies, nothing seemed to help me till I commenced using Dr Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. After using ten bottles and four vials of his 'Pleasant Pellets' I commenced to improve. My case seemed to be almost a hopeless one. Doctors pronounced it ulcer of the lungs. I was sick nearly two years—part of the time bedfast. Was given up to die by all, thought it would be impossible for me to live over night at one time. I haven't spit any blood now for more than twelve months and worked on the farm all last summer. It was Dr. Pierce's medicines that cured me."

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach.

There are two kinds of emulsions of cod liver oil—Scott's and all the others. Not one of the latter is as valuable as Scott's Emulsion and there's a reason for it. Only the purest ingredients enter our Emulsion and its quality never varies. That is why it helps when all others fail.

There's not much oil in the market now; it's scarce and high in price. But seal oil and other inferior oils are cheap and plentiful. That's why you can buy so many substitutes for Scott's Emulsion at a lower price.

THE REAL YUKON.

As Peaceful as Rural Ontario—Pictures of Life in the Territory.

The Yukon Territory, so picturesque and so productive of copy for the illustrated journals a few years ago, has settled down into a quiet, humdrum existence as peaceful and uneventful as that of rural Ontario. Here are some items to prove this statement culled from a recent issue of The Dawson News:

The Popular Billy Stone.

Adams Hill, Jan. 25.—The bachelor home of Billy Stone is a model of neatness and completeness, and admired by all lady visitors, and on Sunday he was chosen as guide and escort by two of the most popular members of the Ladies' Aid Society, while selling tickets for the Caskey-Le Roche concert.

Prohibition for Tyrrell.

When William Tyrrell started drinking hot whiskies for a cold last night he took a course that led without a swerve to the dock in the Dawson Police Court. Before he had finished with the cough cure he succeeded in getting placed against him two aggravating charges. In the first he is accused of assaulting his wife. The other is an information charging an infraction of the law governing the actions of interdicted persons, of whom Tyrrell is one.

In speaking of his drinking, Tyrrell said he did not know that the law prevented an interdicted man from drinking in his own home and had entirely misunderstood it. The Judge made him fully aware of the strictures of the ordinance, and concluded by telling Tyrrell that the intent of the ordinance was to get liquor entirely out of the system of the interdicted.

"The law," His Lordship said, "is the only gold cure we have in this country."

Against the Government.

Dominion Creek, Feb. 2.—The committee appointed to draft the constitution for the Conservative Association of Dominion Creek has called a meeting for the adoption of the constitution and the election of officers, to which all opponents of the present administration are invited.

A Budding Monopolist.

Rampart, Dec. 24.—Sam Hoeter has received nearly 200 cords of the dry cordwood, which he is selling at $7 per cord. Hoeter's enterprise has practically given him control of the wood market in Rampart.

Nicolai, the old medicine man of the Rampart tribe, is lying seriously ill at the village with his second seizure of paralysis.

Harry Gordon, an old-timer of Caribou, and who is now hunting up the Klondike, has killed seven moose, which are being sold on the creeks at 22 cents per pound.

Gold Run, Sulphur and Granville will have money order services added to their postoffices by June 1, 1904. Advices to this effect were received by Postmaster Hartman from the Postmaster-General at Ottawa yesterday.

The Wolf's Long Howl.

Wolves on Twelve-mile and Fifteen-mile Creeks this winter abound as never before. A hunter named Wilhams recently went from the roadhouse for a trip up Fifteen-mile Creek. He had a fine team of six dogs. When he returned a week later he was "mushing" his own sled, and reported the wolves had killed and eaten his entire team.

Two days ago R. J. Thaine returned from a tour of Twelve-mile Creek. He confirmed the report of previous hunters that game, such as moose, are exceedingly scarce this season and adds to the available information as to the cause. A number of moose were seen on the trip, and in each and every case the poor beast was being tagged and hounded by from six to a dozen wolves. The smallest pack of wolves thus seen chasing the moose to its death was the half dozen. In several instances the moose was seen to have been without sleep or a moment's rest for days, and was nearing the time when it would drop exhausted, affording an easy prey for the fierce forest rovers.

Big Day for Gold Bottom

Messrs. Lithgow, Temple and Burns will start for Whitehorse Saturday. They will overtake Governor Congdon at Gold Bottom, where he will lecture Friday night before the Gold Bottom Debating Society on the judiciary of Canada.

Pringle's Merry Christmas.

Rev. John Pringle returned to-day from the Whitehorse placer district. He has been away from Dawson several weeks, and in the meantime has traveled something more than 1,000 miles. While in the Whitehorse district Mr. Pringle met Richard Fullerton, an Australian miner. These men located discovery on a creek hitherto unknown, which they named Christmas Creek. It empties into Fauhne Lake on the east side, towards the southern end, and is about eight miles in length.

Fullerton and Pringle washed two pans of gravel from the bed of the creek, which yielded colors, about eight to each pan, some of which could be picked up between the thumb and finger.

OUR FORMER GOVERNOR.

Gives His Views on the Settlement of the Alaska Boundary Question.

The Marquis of Lansdowne, former Governor-General of Canada, and at present leader of the House of Lords, speaking in reference to the Alaska award, said: "Though it is quite true that the tribunal which disposed of the Alaskan difficulty was not strictly speaking an arbitral tribunal, it affords an illustration of the possibility of settling by other than diplomatic means a long standing and dangerous international difference. I describe it as dangerous because I believe that the condition which till now has been prevalent on the frontier of Alaska has been of a kind which might at any moment have brought us into a serious and acute controversy with the United States, and for this reason, that the frontier might have been challenged not by diplomatic process, but by over acts on the part of the population which pursues the mining industry. Any serious clashing on the spot between settlers belonging to Canada on the one hand or the United States on the other might have brought about an incident of the utmost gravity. It is, therefore, most fotunate that we should be successful in removing this question from the pathway of our diplomacy. The result of the finding of the tribunal has not been entirely satisfactory to us, and in this respect I do not draw any distinction between the interests of Canada and our interests. The question at issue is not merely a question of the position of the frontier of Canada, but of the frontier of the British Empire, for the defence and integrity of which we are responsible. I do not think that in our hearts anybody expected that we should obtain a favorable verdict all along the line, but I am inclined to find consolation in the fact that our military and naval advisers tell us that the two islands in the Portland Channel given to the United States are of no strategical value whatever."

Think We Are Indians.

Mr. W. T. R. Preston, Commissioner of Immigration, comments as follows in his annual report to the Department of the Interior upon the ignorance which still prevails in Britain regarding Canada and Canadian affairs: "The mistaken ideas existing in Great Britain respecting Canada and native Canadians gave currency to the thought that the elements of civilization are sometimes very largely wanting in the Dominion. One comes across this in almost every phase of life in the United Kingdom. It sometimes finds expression in an exaggerated form. For instance, it is not very long ago since I was asked in all seriousness whether it was safe to send a remittance of £5 through one of the Canadian banks, which has a paid up capital of nearly twelve millions of dollars. On another occasion I was asked as to the wisdom of a young man who proposed going to Canada getting married before his departure, inasmuch, as the gentleman said, "there are no facilities for getting married in Canada." These are undoubtedly extreme illustrations, but they nevertheless furnish a clue to the want of knowledge existing in this country respecting the political, the social and the religious life of the Dominion. Thousands of educated people can be found in the United Kingdom to-day who believe that there are no native Canadians but with a strain of Indian blood in their veins."

Hear, hear.

In England, a bank note when presented at the bank which issued it is retired. It only gets one chance. A new one is issued in its place.

Why not here? The people are generous to the banks. A bank note represents money loaned to the bank by the people without interest. Banks might reasonably in return keep clean paper going.

The Government, too. It issues millions of dollars in bank notes, which represent a Government borrowing which pays no interest. Both from gratitude and public considerations, our Governments might try to keep the paper clean.—Ottawa Journal.

Drying Up Cows.

Feeding timothy hay, exercising the cows and refraining from giving much grain will cause the cow to dry up in six days.

Increasing English Divorces.

Some people are noting with uneasiness the number of divorces granted in our courts. In London this growth has been very rapid. In the first term of court the number of cases down for trial have increased from 177 in 1902 to 383 this year; in the second, from 216 in 1901 to 285 in 1903; in the third, from 210 in 1901 to 262 in 1903, and in the fourth, from 232 in 1901 to 351 in 1903. About 60 per cent. of the actions are brought by injured husbands.—Answers.

THE WORLD HIS PARISH

LEFT RECORD ILLUSTRIOUS IN THE HISTORY OF CANADA.

Bishop Robert Machray, Anglican Primate of Canada, and His Great Career of Over Half a Century's Work for the Church—Was a Cambridge Wrangler and Became Erudite to Talk the Jargon of Poor Lo.

Robert Machray, Anglican Primate of Canada, is dead, and behind him he has left a record which must be forever illustrious in the history of Canada. For nearly half a century his life was devoted to the Church. Apart from it, he had no life. He never married. Neither revels in the original Greek, nor the culture of roses, helped to alleviate the hardships of his career. His recreation was work, his holidays laborious. On one of the rare occasions when he was ordered on a vacation, when he might, with a clear conscience, have taken a rest, he fell ill. Holidays did not agree with him. So he has died in harness, his hand set to the plow, his eye not glancing back at the tremendous fifty-year furrow in his wake. It was almost superfluous for the despatch from Winnipeg to say that his illness was very short. One would assume that of Machray. He was the kind of man who works up to the last, always a little in debt to his physical needs. So when he took to his bed, in the grip of pneumonia, it was time to prepare for the end.

Was a Cambridge Wrangler.

Like many another noted Canadian clergyman, Robert Machray was born in Scotland. From King's College he went to Cambridge, where he pursued a brilliant career. When twenty years old he obtained a foundation scholarship at Sidney, Sussex. He became a prize man in classics, mathematics, divinity, and the Latin and English essay. Next year he captured another scholarship, and in 1855 was in the list of wranglers. Shortly after his graduation he was elected to a fellowship, which he held to the time of his death. His M.A. degree was presented in 1858, in the same year he became dean of his college. In the two following years he was a university examiner. Just such a university record as this one would expect to be the natural prelude to the career of a Premier, a famous philosopher, novelist, or scientist. And yet all this erudition, all the stern discipline to which the young soldier of knowledge subjected himself was to fit him to labor among savages. The wrangler was to talk Chinook jargon to the Crees and the Chippewas. The Cambridge examiner was to hear squalid half-breeds recite the Apostle's Creed. But even with his degree, and his university fame, he was not yet equipped. In 1855 he was ordained, and from 1859 to 1862 he assisted an English vicar, and then he was given the vicarage of Madingley. For three years he labored over this well-tilled field, and then from across the Western seas came the call, which, hearing, he obeyed. Dr. Anderson resigned from the See of Rupert's Land, and the vacant bishopric was given to the young vicar.

The World His Parish.

His diocese was nearly as large as Europe. There was not a mile of railway nor a steamboat in it. The population was largely composed of Indians, thousands of these being nomads who moved their camp to their kill, who would, as the Bishop might reckon, be in Edinburgh this year and in Florence the next. The white settlers consisted of a few thousands along the shores of the Red and Assiniboine Rivers, and some hundreds of trappers and Hudson's Bay traders, scattered from the Rocky Mountains to Lake Superior, from the Arctic Circle to the borders of Montana. Well might he say with greater truth than any churchman since Wesley, "My parish is the world." To aid him in the life struggle which he was about to begin were a scant eighteen clergymen, no two within a day's journey of each other, many of them many weeks apart. To make his task still more difficult, he found the white settlers discouraged by bad crops and plagues of locusts. Bishop Machray did not waste time in summing up the forces arrayed against him, but plunged into the fray. The first thing he did was to call a conference, which was attended by ten clergymen and eighteen lay delegates. There, at old Fort Garry, nearly forty years ago, was inaugurated that crusade which was destined to be reckoned by posterity one of the most heroic chapters in the history of the Church of England in Canada.

The Bishop Missionary.

Machray was bishop of the largest See in the world. In his vast diocese great theoretical authority was his. But the very word "bishop" conveys a meaning which would be misleading if applied to the Cambridge man who had established himself in the wilderness. One should think rather of the Jesuit priests of the old French regime to picture his life. He found himself in a colony of settlers hardly able to support themselves, much less maintain Church dignitaries. The Bishop worked with his own hands to supply his daily needs. For months at a time he lived like an Indian. Perhaps he trapped and hunted animals that he might not perish in the wastes, whither he traveled to visit distant parishes. By canoe, by dog-train, on horseback, on snowshoe, he visited the outposts of his vast territory, some of the journeys, going and coming, occupying months. For years this was the life of Missionary Machray, the Moffatt of Rupert's Land. When, later on, his physical hardships became less, he could thank, as much as anything else his own accumulated toil of earlier days.

The Mother Church.

The true mother Church of the Diocese of Rupert's Land, or, as we should say, of Manitoba and the Northwest Territories, had been established before the coming of Machray at Kildonan, two miles north of Fort Garry. Near this was Bishop's Court, a long building, which was to become the educational soul of the great West. This was the home of the Bishop for many years, if such a traveler could be said to have a home, in the true sense of the word. Here it was that Machray planned the reopening of St. John's College, founded by his predecessor, and afterwards abandoned, and from the time of his coming to this country this college was as an elder son to the childless man. How the old place was opened, how it prospered, and what influence it has since exerted on the intellectual development of the West are matters of history. The college was the only rival the Church had in the Bishop's affections, and for all it is and has been Machray must be thanked. His indefatigable labors have been recognized by churchmen in Canada and England. The late Queen made him a prelate of the Order of St. Michael and St. George. The Anglican Church in Canada chose him Primate of that body. Churchmen have called him the greatest of their number outside of England, but Canada reveres the memory of his Grace, the missionary.

Too Much for Cabby.

The cabman was taking Mr. Algernon Ashton out of his way, and on being remonstrated with he shouted, "You'd better get out!" So the fare got out, with the remark, "You're a nice creature." The cabman then uttered the sarcasm, "And you call yourself a gentleman!" Upon which Mr. Ashton instantly said, "I never called myself a gentleman." The cabman naturally felt that language was unequal to a situation like this, and he drove away without another word. "I think I had him there," said Mr. Ashton in telling me the story.—London News.

Whales in Canadian Waters.

The Marine and Fisheries Department has had more than a dozen applications from the Maritime Provinces for the exclusive privilege of taking whales in those waters. Legislation will probably be adopted next session to regulate this industry, from which Americans are now reaping a handsome profit. Even the coast waters between St. John and the main border are frequented by monsters of the fin-back tribe, often more than a hundred feet in length. It is too hazardous an occupation to attempt to take these leviathans by the harpoon, and so Parliament will be asked to sanction the adoption of measures such as will enable our own people to make a little money out of this industry and yet save the species from extermination.

JAPS OCCUPY WIJU

The Advance in Northern Corea Continues Unchecked.

NEAR MOUTH OF YALU RIVER

Japanese Possess Corea Before Any Real Fighting Having Taken Place Since the War Began Eight Weeks Ago—Japanese Troops Have Greatly Improved—Russian Fleet Not Totally Shut In.

London, April 5.—A despatch to Reuter's Telegram Company from Shanghai, says: "Japanese scouts entered Wiju, Corea, at 11 o'clock this morning. The Russians apparently retreated beyond the Yalu River."

Japs Possess Corea.

London, April 5.—Eight weeks from the opening of the war sees Japan without any real fighting, apparently in complete possession of Corea, and the first stage of the campaign.

According to The Daily Mail's Kobe, Japan, correspondent, who telegraphs under date of April 4, a Pingyang despatch has been received there, confirming the report from Shanghai that Japanese scouts entered Wiju, Corea, at 11 a.m. Monday, and that Russians apparently retreated beyond the Yalu River, but no further news of any kind is to hand throwing light on either land or sea occupations. Everything, however, is regarded as pointing to the imminence of important developments.

The Daily Mail's Seoul correspondent, telegraphing Monday, asserts that the landing of Japanese troops at Chinampo has now ceased, but that the port is guarded by a large fleet, and the Japanese base has moved north from Pingyang, where only a few troops now remain.

Japs Have Improved.

The correspondent of The Standard at Tokio reports that the Japanese correspondents at the front who followed the army through the Chino-Japanese war express great surprise at the improvement of the Japanese troops.

The Morning Post's Tokio correspondent says Japanese torpedo boats, scouting at Port Arthur, discovered unencumbered a channel 130 yards wide, which still admits of the passage of vessels.

The Times' correspondent at sea, on April 4, in a wireless message via Wei-Hai-Wei, says: "I am cruising in the vicinity of Port Arthur, and have discovered no evidence of vessels of either belligerent. The impression is gaining ground that the Russians are not totally shut in by the Japanese attack on March 27."

Liao River Is Mined.

The Times' Che Foo correspondent says the Liao River is extensively mined, and that twelve stone-laden junks are ready for sinking at the entrance to the river at a moment's notice. The guns of the Russian gunboat Sivoutch have been reshipped.

Cossacks Occupy Unsan.

St. Petersburg, April 5.—It is reported that five hundred Cossacks, commanded by General Artemanoff, have occupied Unsan, Corea, forestalling the Japanese, who were marching on Unsan from Chongju.

Bombardment on April 3.

London, April 5.—The Times' correspondent at Che Foo, cabling under date of April 4, says there was another bombardment of Port Arthur, April 3, but that there are no authentic details of the engagement available.

Prince to Cossacks.

Blagovestchensk, Siberia, April 5.—The Persian Prince Mansur Mirsa, who will be attached to the Amur Cossacks, has passed through here on his way to the front.

Russia Stifles News.

St. Petersburg, April 5.—As the time approaches for the opening of land operations on a large scale, the Russian authorities are exercising greater vigilance to prevent the news of their plans for the movement to and the disposition of troops in the theatre of war from going abroad where they might be of service to the enemy. For ten days not a scrap of real information, except that contained in official despatches, has been given out or come from the front. There practically exists an embargo on news despatches, those coming through being colorless and devoid of importance

Japs Have 260,000 Troops.

Shanghai, April 5.—A letter received here from Kobe, Japan, says the Japanese Government has 260,000 troops in motion, and fully 60,000 more under arms, in garrisons and at the depots. These numbers are exclusive of the third reserves, numbering 120,000, which have not been called to the colors. The exact number of troops which have left Japan for their various destinations are not known, but the entire first army has been landed and has established itself in Northwestern Corea, with its main base at Chinampho. The Japanese general staff still carefully guards the plan of campaign.

Lost His Prisoner.

Windsor, April 5.—Constable Chauvin of Stoney Point was very sore yesterday morning when he reached Windsor minus his prisoner. The latter, George Aubrey, broke away from Chauvin and jumped from the train Chauvin was bringing him to Windsor prior to his being sent to Toronto.

S. K. Bastien, a Barr Colonist, Killed.

Winnipeg, April 5.—S. K. Bastien, formerly of London, Eng., was crushed to death at Moose Jaw Sunday while working in the yards. He failed to notice an engine near one of the cars, and was cut down. He came to Canada with the Barr colonists, and was aged 23 years.

Union Label Bill.

Ottawa, April 5.—The bill to legalize the union label as a trade mark will be introduced in the Commons at the present session in the interest of the labor organizations. It was the Senate which threw out the measure last session.

Big War On.

New York, April 5.—Unable to settle their differences in the stock market or through arbitration, John D. Rockefeller and J. P. Morgan have carried the war for possession of the Northern Pacific Railway into the courts.

Hon. Raymond Prefontaine Says It Is Now a Certainty.

BANQUET TO THE MINISTER

Great Gathering of Maisonneuve Liberals in Montreal—Minister of Marine and Fisheries Presented With An Address—In His Reply He Argues For Continuing a Moderate Tariff.

Montreal, April 5.—Hon. Raymond Prefontaine, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, was the guest of honor last night at an immense banquet tendered him by the combined Liberal clubs of Maisonneuve, the constituency which he represents in the Commons. The large attendance proved in unmistakable manner Mr. Prefontaine's great popularity among those who know him best. Upwards of 700 persons were present, and the large hall at the St. Jean Baptiste Academy was scarcely large enough to accommodate all at the table. Among whose present were Hon. R. Lemieux, Solicitor-General; Senators Cloran and Casgrain, and the local Liberal representatives in Parliament and the Legislature.

Mr. Prefontaine was presented with an address, to which he responded in a speech lasting more than an hour. He said that the purpose of the Laurier Government was to maintain the policy set forth in 1897. The continuance of a moderate tariff would be to pursue a truly Canadian policy. That did not mean, however, that new industries, industries that absolutely required assistance would be ignored. On the contrary, the Government were ready to give to such all fair consideration. Stress was laid on the remarkable prosperity already realized in Canada under Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and in this connection the certainty of a surplus of $15,000,000 this year was reiterated.

Turning to matters relating more particularly to his own department, the Minister of Marine said that the policy of developing the natural waterways of the Dominion would be continued even more energetically than heretofore, and he felt able to promise that within a very few years there would be open navigation between Quebec City and the Gulf all the year round, and between Montreal and Quebec night and day during the regular season.

The Minister's remarks were heard with every show of enthusiasm, and when he took his seat he received an ovation.

—There will be no meeting of George street Young Men's Guild tonight on account of the evangelistic services.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I suffered for several years with general weakness and bearing-down pains, caused by womb trouble. My appetite was poor, and I would lie awake for hours, and could not sleep, until I seemed more weary in the morning than when I retired. After reading one of your advertisements I decided to try the merits of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am so glad I did. No one can describe the good it did me. I took three bottles faithfully, and besides building up my general health, it drove all disease and poison out of my body, and made me feel as spry and active as a young girl. Mrs. Pinkham's medicines are certainly all they are claimed to be."—MRS. M. E. MISLEADING COMMENT.

The Hamilton Spectator, a rabid Conservative—or rather hidebound Tory—newspaper has the following:

"The Toronto News tells us that bank clearings at Toronto fell off $5,000,000 for the week, $13,000,000 for the month, and $31,000,000 for three months, as compared with the same periods in 1903. What is the matter? Is the growing time becoming inverted?

Nothing could be more fallacious than such so called reasoning. Nothing more far-fetched in the way of an attempt to discredit a Liberal Government, whose period of rule, coincident with abounding prosperity, has been gall and wormwood to envious "Tory" journals of the Spectator type. Why shouldn't there be a tremendous falling off in bank clearings during the past three months? For six months straight-away a winter without parallel for continued severity, has held all commercial operations, bound in its paralizing grip. The railways, the great factors in commercial activity have been almost useless. Trade as it would have been under normal conditions has been greatly affected. The stores of country merchants, have been inaccessible, even if farmers could have got their produce to market. As a consequence payments to wholesale city houses have fallen off tremenduously. In turn the bank clearings have been affected and it was nothing more than any person who studied the situation expected. In the area where traffic facilities made commercial operations possible, there was a very close approximation to the familiar conditions of the growing time. In Peterborough a month ago, on the great setting day, March 4th, the paper of merchants was well in hand and the condition of general prosperity showed very little variation from the pleasant normal one of years past. If there has been dullness in trade the severe winter accounts for it and no one is surprised. It is not patriotic for the Spectator or to decry the credit of the country and attribute temporary lack of trade activity to general conditions instead of, as the fact is, to special conditions, apart altogether from the effect of any Government policy. But, anything to discredit the Laurier Government, is lawful to the Spectator and its journalistic ilk, which cries "wolf," when there is no wolf, and all for the paltry purpose of discrediting political opponents.

FALSIFYING FACTS.

The Galt Reformer says: "Tomorrow every factory in Galt, including the woollen mills, will run all day as usual. The manufacturers are so rushed with orders that they cannot afford to shut down for one day, consequently not a wheel will stop on Good Friday. This will, of course, be unwelcome intelligence for the local Tory organ, as it badly discounts its blue ruin talk. We shudder to think of the fate that awaits the factories for thus convicting the organ of untruth."

The Reporter, the local organ referred to, is, the Hamilton Times thinks, in very dirty business, and its course shows to what the viler organs of the Opposition will stoop in the absence of a popular policy, to try to injure the Liberals. Wonder what the people of its locality, whose prosperity it is trying to "knock," think of its course?

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Two of Toronto's crooked election officials were convicted on Saturday. If that sort of thing goes on, says the Hamilton Times, Toronto's big Tory majority will melt away. "We have to do this (stuffing the boxes) every year," was the way one deputy returning officer explained it to a clerk.

John D. Rockefeller, says the Ottawa Journal, has obtained control of Ontario's asbestos fields, which supply the major portion of the world's asbestos, (a fibre which makes clothing material supposed to be fire-proof.) It is evident that Rockefeller is beginning to look forward to a future life.

England is seriously attacking the beet sugar problem. From Experiments made, it is claimed that beets can be grown of as good, if not better, quality as those grown on the continent of Europe. Sugar beets have been grown successfully in every county of England, Scotland and Ireland. It would seem that the old country, with its congested population, with large numbers of young persons available for service in the culture of beets, is especially well adapted for raising them. In this province the chief obstacle in the way of the general cultivation of sugar beets, is the difficulty of procuring sufficient help at reasonable prices to make the growing possible. We can grow a first class quality of beet but the demand for adult labour for general farm purposes makes its employment for thinning and weeding beets unprofitably expensive. In the old country child labour in the growing season can be found, and on this account alone, given soils suitable for growing beets of a good quality, the cultivation of beets, and the manufacture of sugar, should become

SCENE IN HAVANA HOUSE.

Crowd Too Great For Sergeant-at-Arms to Preserve Order.

Havana, April 5.—The scene in the House of Representatives yesterday was one of wild disorder. There was no formal opening of the House owing to the inability to muster a quorum, for the reason that every Nationalist member refused to enter the chamber, fearing they would be outvoted on the question of contested seats by the coalition of Republicans and Moderate Liberals.

The Nationalists, however, entered the building, accompanied by several hundred followers, who shouted "vivas" for the Nationalist party. These followers crowded the halls and nearby streets. The Republicans and Moderate Liberals for the most part remained in their seats. During the confusion the Vice-Speaker, who was presiding, called upon the sergeant-at-arms to preserve order, but the crowd was too great to handle. Lionaz Castillo, a prominent Nationalist, mounted the reporters' table and assured the crowd that justice would be done.

As the disorder continued, Representative Boza, a Nationalist, addressed the people to the effect that such a demonstration was outrageous, and he counselled that no redress for grievances could be had by such means. The people thereupon began to withdraw quietly just as a squad of police entered the building.

A HARD STRUGGLE.

Views of United Empire Trade League—Mr. Drummond Says Canada Wants Skilled Workmen, Boy Emigrants.

London, April 5.—(C.A.P.)—The annual report of the United Empire Trade League, signed by Sir Howard Vincent, M.P., states that the league declares a long struggle may be necessary ere the citadel of prejudice, fortified by political intrigue and passion, is overthrown, but that victory is assured under the leadership of the grand chieftain of the cause, Joseph Chamberlain.

Canada Wants Workmen.

London, April 5.—(C.A.P.)—George Drummond, asked for his opinion on the expressed intention of the Toronto Trades' Labor Council to send delegates to England to oppose the emigration of skilled labor to Canada, replied that it would be a crime against Canada's progress to say that hundreds of workingmen trusting in the promises of Canadian manufacturers on arrival find themselves in a destitute condition. Both skilled and unskilled labor is wanted in almost every line of industry. Emigrants willing to work have a much brighter future in Canada than in the Motherland.

Wants No Criminals.

London, April 1.—(C.A.P.)—B. E. Walker of Toronto, writing to The Morning Post, expressing regret at the decision come to by the Board of Guardians of Wandsworth to continue dumping the workhouse brand of boy emigrant upon Canada, says Canada has plenty of room for the children of industry, but none for the descendants of criminals and chronic paupers.

Is It Race Suicide?

London, April 5.—(C.A.P.)—Henry Havelock Ellis, in an article in The Independent Review, noting the decreasing birth rate in Ontario and New Zealand, says that the symptom is due to increasing civilization. A member of the French Society of Anthropology had declared that nothing could be done legally to check the same condition in France. "Except to applaud," remarked another member, which Mr Ellis quoted approvingly.

Opposes Preference.

London, April 5.—(C. A. P.)—S. Jacobs, president of the General Council of Chambers of Commerce of Australia, opposes the preference to Britain on the ground that it is dangerous to expose the colony's 17½ million pounds trade with foreign countries to the risk of retaliation.

Labor For Free Trade.

London, April 5.—(C.A.P.)—The Independent Labor party, at its conference, the largest for 12 years, held at Cardiff yesterday, passed resolutions in favor of free trade and the nationalization of all the means of production. Chairman Snowden said the conference was the first successful effort of the working classes to form their own political party.

Shows Net Profit.

London, April 5.—(C.A.P.)—The report of the Scottish Ontario and Manitoba Land Co. for 1903 will be submitted in Glasgow on April 12, and shows a net profit on sales of £1,159. The total sales being 23,957 pounds.

Canada's Hog Industry.

London, April 5.—A writer in The Irish Times attributes the falling-off in the Irish bacon trade to the competition of Canada, where 30,000 pigs are killed weekly, to Ireland's 5,000. He suggests, as a remedy, that all foreign bacon be branded with the country of origin.

Tampa, Fla., April 5.—A fire swept West Tampa, Tuesday and before it was over had caused a loss which will exceed $200,000. The origin of the fire is unknown, but it was discovered in the sugar factories.

Wild Man of Nome.

Dawson, April 5.—The United States marshal at Nome has in captivity a wild man who has hair and beard to his waist, twisted nails and walks and leaps like a wolf. The man wears a crucifix and is believed to be an escaped convict. He was captured in the hull of a ship up the coast near Kingsgan by a man named McLean and two Esquimaux. The man was apparently 45 years of age, somewhat below medium height, thin as a famine figure, red-eyed, wild looking and in rags. He is easily handled, but seems to have no understanding beyond recognizing food when placed before him.

McPherson & McGregor

(Successors to the F. R. J. McPherson Co.)

Take this opportunity of thanking the public for the very liberal patronage accorded the late firm. Trade has been so satisfactory that Mr McGregor decided to increase his interest in the business and, as a consequence, the firm will be known hereafter as McPHERSON & McGREGOR.

Our specialties are:—

Sanitary Plumbing
Sanitary Ventilating
Steam and Hot Water Heating
Electrical Wiring and Supplies

We wish to draw the attention of the public to a few of the many complimentary testimonials received by Mr. McGregor for the high quality of the work he has installed in Plumbing and Heating:—

From the Firm of Bennet & Wright, Plumbing, Heating and Electrical Contractors, Toronto.

This is to certify that Duncan McGregor has been in our employment steady for about fifteen years and during that time we have found him to be steady, honest and trustworthy. He has given every satisfaction as a practical mechanic in each of the following branches: Plumbing, steam and gas fitting, also electrical and conduit work, and for some time has had charge of some of our largest contracts with satisfactory results."

From Illsley & Horn, General Contractors, Toronto.

The bearer, Mr. Duncan McGregor, had charge of the electric wiring at the King Edward Hotel Building. The job was a large and complicated one and by the way Mr. McGregor handled the work he proved himself a mechanic of more than ordinary ability. We unhesitatingly recommend him as a first class mechanic to anyone needing his services.

From Mr. J. Ross Robertson, of the Evening Telegram.

Mr. Duncan McGregor, who has been connected with the Bennet & Wright Co. for some years, and who has superintended the work of plumbing and heating for the Bennet & Wright Co., is not only in my opinion, but also that of my architect, a fully competent mechanic. His work, my architect informs me, has been most satisfactory. Any thing that has come under my own supervision has been likewise satisfactory.

An Extract Taken from the June Number of Domestic Engineering.

During the recent convention of the Canadian Electrical Association held in the King Edward Hotel, a thorough examination was made of all the electrical work in the hotel, and it was pronounced second to none on the continent. Therefore, great credit is due Mr. Duncan MacGregor, who superintended the entire conduit, electrical and power system for the firm of Bennet & Wright, of this city, who were the contractors for all the different branches of the electrical work in the new hotel.

EASTER SUNDAY IN THE LOCAL CHURCHES

Special Services Held on Sunday—The Easter Music and Decorations—Large Congregations.

Continuing the reports of the Easter services in the different churches on Sunday, the following are given:—

ALL SAINT'S CHURCH.

The Easter services at All Saints on Sunday partook of a bright and interesting nature. The church was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and potted plants. The music furnished by the choir was of a very high order, and showed great care in preparation. The Rev. Mr. Major conducted both services as he also did the children's service at 3 p.m. He took as his morning text, I Cor. 15th chap., and 20th vs, "Now is Christ risen from the dead and become the first fruits of them that slept."

The choir sang the anthem, "I am He that liveth," Mr. A. Brundrette taking the solo in a pleasing manner.

In the evening the rector read the 12th chapter of Exodus, and part of the 11th verse, "It is the Lord's passover," was the basis of his evening discourse. It was a very practical sermon.

The choir rendered the anthem, "Why seek ye the living?" in splendid style, the solo and duet parts being taken by Mrs. Greenslade and Miss Mary Rush. The congregations were large and the offertory a munificent one. The communicants numbered 160.

The children's service was also largely attended and much enjoyed by the little ones, who were tendered some very good advice by the rector. Miss Mary Rush sang "The Choir Boy" very sweetly.

CHARLOTTE STREET CHURCH.

The services at the Charlotte street church were largely attended, and the choir rendered the following music:—

Anthem, "Why Seek Ye," ... ... Cooke.
Solo, "The Lord is King," ... ...Coombs.
Mr. R. N. Jolliffe.
Quartette, "Christ the Lord is Risen Today," Charlotte street male quartette.

Evening.

Anthem, "He is Risen," ... ...Facer
Solo, "Come See the Place Where Jesus Lay,"
Miss Belleghem.
Quartette, "Lead, Kindly Light," the Charlotte street Male Quartette.

The decorations were beautiful, and appropriate to the occasion. In the morning, Rev. W. J. Jolliffe spoke on the subject, "Risen with Christ." The speaker said that the resurrection stood in a most important relation to Christian living, as well as belief. A moral crucifixion must precede a moral resurrection. And those who are thus raised from the death of sin to a life of righteousness will seek those things which are above, that is, all such things that can be brought down into our earthly life.

In the evening, the pastor again preached, his subject being "Heart burning on the Way to Emmaus." He spoke of Christ expounding the Scriptures concerning Himself to His disciples on their journey to Emmaus. In conclusion he spoke of the benefits of taking the Bible for a daily guide.

MURRAY STREET BAPTIST.

Easter services in Murray street church were bright and cheerful, and the church was beautifully decorated for the occasion. The music was of an especially enjoyable nature, and evidenced careful training on the part of Mrs. Miller the new chorister, and that the musical service was highly appreciated was evident. The pastor, Rev. J. Bastow, preached two Easter sermons, that in the morning being on the Epiphany of Christ to the two Disciples on the walk to Emmaus, from which he drew a number of devotional and practical lessons of great interest. In the evening he spoke on "Spiritual Death and Spiritual Resurrection." These two phases of thought were presented clearly and forcefully with striking and fresh illustrations.

The morning sermon was based on the text found in St. Luke 24: 13 and to verses. The speaker referred to this Epiphany as the fourth that Christ made on the day of His resurrection. It is known that Cleophas was one of the Apostles to whom Christ showed Himself, and the name of the second is unknown. Although it is known that he was one of the Apostolic Band. The purpose of Christ in appearing to the two was to illuminate their minds as to the meaning of death and to dispel their sorrow. Christ was always forgetful of His own comfort; gave all His time and thought to the comfort and help of the Apostles. The whole evening previous to the crucifixion was spent in the upper room in Jerusalem in prayer and quiet conversation on His approaching death and in Christ's effort to fortify them for the trials which they were approaching. So it is not surprising to find Him thus appearing to the two disciples who were troubled and bringing light and joy to them. Christ seeks to comfort today as truly as in the days of His resurrection, and makes use of Divine and providential means for this purpose.

The evening text was Ephesians 2; 1—6.

The speaker introduced his subject by saying that all Christian ministers and churches are expected on Easter Sunday to concentrate their thought and feeling on the resurrection. Music and sermons all concentrate the people's thought on the great central fact. The first thought in His resurrection is the fact that we shall also share in it, and that our bodies will be raised, glorified, spiritualized and immortalized. But a still greater blessing than that of the restoration of the physical being is that of the resurrection of the soul from spiritual death. We are all spiritually dead, by nature, but God through the redemption by Christ's death and resurrection has made it possible for us to be restored to spiritual life.

Mr. Bastow here introduced an illustration to show that in our physical natures some parts of our bodies may be healthy while other parts may be affected. Sir James Sampson, formerly the great medical professor in Edinburgh University, says, "We often have patients who are dead in certain parts and alive and healthy in others." I had a patient recently who was wounded in the lower part of the neck, and his head was clear and healthy while his body was perfectly helpless, and so men not regenerated may be spiritually dead. This spiritual death is a universal experience and all must be born again. We shall see in a few weeks a transformation in nature, at present the trees are bare and soil is apparently dead, but in a few weeks this will all be changed and a beautiful carpet of green will cover the earth. There is a resemblance in this to the spiritual life.

The following is the special music rendered:

Morning.

Anthem, "Hail, Thou Happy Morn."
Anthem, "I Know that My Redeemer Liveth."
Solo, "The King of Ages."... ... ...
Mrs. G. B. Miller.

Evening.

Anthem, "I Will Extol Thee."
Solo, "The Ressurection." ... ...
Miss Hall.

GEORGE STREET METHODIST.

The congregations in the George street church on Sunday were very large, and the services thoroughly enjoyed. The church was beautifully decorated with white, Easter lilies and white hyacinths. The music was an especially enjoyable feature of the day's services, and the full choir, under the direction of Mr. G. W. Mulligan, rendered a good programme of Easter music most effectively.

The sermons were preached by the pastor Rev. J. P. Wilson, and were in keeping with the day celebrated. The text of the morning sermon was Mark 16. Easter day, said the speaker, is a day of joy. Death is swallowed up in victory. The last enemy destroyed, when Christ conquered death. Christ, by His resurrection proved that death should not an end of life. Death are not looked upon as a sleep. We afraid to go to sleep, because we believe that we shall awaken. Death is also like coming home. Christ said, "In My Father's house there are many mansions." Christ went the way we all must go.

It was imperative that we should look carefully to the way we are living. Can we say, "Father, into Thy hands, I commit my spirit?"

In the evening the text was that in I Cor. 15, 20. Speaking of the derivation of Easter, he said it originated from the Saxon word, Oster, to rise. It is a movable feast, held between the days of March 25th and April 25th. Two great surprises met the disciples. Instead of a crucifixion they expected a coronation, and even when Christ was on the Cross they expected by some means He would save Himself. They had seen the wonderful restorations to life that he had been instrumental in, and were deeply disappointed that He should die. With Him they buried their religion, and were hard to convince that Christ really had risen. It was only after repeated appearances that they were ready to believe. The resurrection of Christ changed the character of the apostles. They went out strong men and proclaimed the truth of the resurrection, and it has held sway in the world ever since, in spite of all opposition. Paul was persecuted, because of his boldness in preaching the fact that Christ rose from the dead, and all the apostles, with one exception, became martyrs to the faith.

There are four witnesses to Christ's resurrection: 1. The four Gospels, written by men who saw Him. 2. The fact that Christianity still lives after 20 centuries. 3. The Christian Sunday. 4. The Spirit sent.

MARK STREET CHURCH.

There were unusually large congregations at the Easter services.

The fine display of flowers had both a pleasing and an educative effect, particularly when associated with Rev. Mr. Lewis' short talk on Flowers to the children. The choir was not as large as usual owing to several of the members having colds. All the hymns and anthems were sung with sweetness and feeling. The solos by Miss Courtney and Mr. Miller were very appropriate and impressively rendered.

Mr. Lewis' morning text was John 20, 28, the words of Thomas, "My Lord, and my God." In his introduction he spoke of the period following the burial of Jesus as the most mysterious of his earthly ministry. The event of the resurrection had apparently no human witness. Jesus passed from place to place without human means of locomotion. He came to His followers in the dimness of the morning, the shadows of evening, and without final farewell He disappeared from them in a cloud. Sometimes His disciples did not recognize Him, and when they did they were restrained from the freedom of former days. They had an awe and reverence before unknown. Only on six of these forty days did He appear, and perhaps for not more than six hours in all.

This period though so mysterious reveals the great truths of the Christian faith and is the very centre of the thought and hope of believers.

What did it bring to the world? What has it for us? The answer is to be found in what it did for the first disciples. It was more than the coming to them again of Christ as they had known Him. Before this they viewed Him chiefly as human. Like themselves they had known Him to be hungry and thirsty, to be weary, sorrowful and lonesome. They admired His teachings, gloried in His miracles and were swayed by His life. But no radical change took place in their life before this. They continued worldly and self-seeking, and there was jealousy and rivalry among themselves. They thought of Christ at the head of an earthly kingdom, and themselves filling the chief places. In the hour of His capture they all forsook Him, and when He expired on the cross they utterly despaired. They believed in Him as a good and a great man — the ideal son of Man. Hence their despair at His death.

The resurrection brought to them a new conception and a new conviction. As suggested by their thought and feeling that He was the same, yet different after His rising. He is all and more than He was to them.

As proof of this see the effect in their lives. No longer selfish, or worldly, or contending. How they would face and armed mob, suffer the loss of all things, and lay down their lives for His sake. Their faith did more now than the bodily presence of Jesus before. Before they believed in Him as the son of Man, but now as the Son of God, also He was proved of as the son of Man. He divinity men could not touch. He raised Him self as the Son of God, so Peter said, "Whom ye crucified, whom God raised up." This then is the great resurrection truth, that Christ is "declared to be the Son of God, with power by the resurrection." Any other belief, though pleasing and helpful, such as in His teachings, examples, etc., will fail us in the trying time of life and cannot change and sustain the life, as shown in the lives of the disciples. We need the drawing of the human side, but only the divine can sustain. The call of the resurrection, is, "Have faith in God."

Mr. Lewis based his evening discourse on I Cor. 15, 20, expanding more fully the thought of the morning. He quoted in conclusion the following impressive poem:—

THE NAZARENE.

"So the Nazarene is dead,"
Caiaphas, the High Priest, said.
"His wonder-working deeds are o'er,
He will trouble us no more.
May blasphemers such as He,
Perish on the shameful tree,
And our holy Temple's law
Be kept free from ev'ry flaw;
For the Temple must have sway
Till heaven and earth shall pass away."
"So the Nazarene is dead,"
Caiaphas, the High Priest, said.

"So the Nazarene is dead,"
In his palace Pilate said.
"Good His words and just His life,
But the priests who stirred up strife,
Said His followers would be
From imperial Rome set free.
Vain their plotting and their care—
All the yoke of Rome must bear—
Rome that will forever stand
Mighty lord of every land."
"So the Nazarene is dead,"
In his palace Pilate said.

The Temple now has passed away,
Ended Rome's imperial day,
But the Nazarene still lives,
Peace to myriad sould He gives,
Lives in gentle words and deeds,
In all that meets the spirit's needs,
And the cross on which He died
By His death is sanctified;
Hosts in many lands acclaim
The Crucified One by His Name;
In their faithful hearts are seen
The ever-living Nazarene.
Priest and Pilate both have said
That the Nazarene is dead.
False their wisdom, false their lore—
He liveth now and evermore.

RIVERDALE SUNDAY SCHOOL

The Riverdale Sunday School held an open session yesterday for their Easter service. The workers, with great care had provided a very profitable programme of poems and music which were recited and sung by the children. Rev. A. H. Brace, of the Park street Baptist church, gave an address suitable to the occasion. The attendance was very encouraging.

HUMAN BAROMETERS.

A Rheumatic Mystery.

Here are some marvels of medicine!

A dose of Aconite will climax at three o'clock in the morning.

Aloes will operate at five o'clock a. m., and sulphur at eleven o'clock.

No matter what time, in the preceding day, you have taken these medicines, they will climax at the fixed hours here stated and reveal certain symptoms always.

How do you account for this?

How account for a Rheumatic person's ability to predict a coming storm 24 hours ahead by the peculiar ache in his bones?

Rheumatism is simply Uric Acid in the blood. Can Uric Acid have its time limit, like other chemicals, but reflecting backward like a barometer?

Uric Acid is due to a lack of Alkaline material in the blood. This acid absorbs the debris, or waste matter, of the system.

It carries this waste matter into the blood, when there are not enough Alkaline elements, like salt or soda, to neutralize the Uric Acid, and to free the debris before it reaches the kidneys.

As the blood circulates through the system, it then deposits small particles of this waste matter in the joints and muscles.

These particles are like granulated sugar, or sand, and they grind between the joints and muscles at every movement.

This grinding causes intense pain and inflammation frequently. If the disease be not checked the inflammation will cause the Uric Acid particles to be coated with a fleshy cushion, which in time grows to the joints as well. Then "bony joints" and crooked limbs ensue.

The only way to cure Rheumatism is to convert the Acid condition of the blood into an Alkaline. Then to dissolve, and carry away the deposits in joints and muscles.

Then, to get the digestive organs into a normal condition, so they will secrete, without further help, less Acid and more Alkalines. Upon this condition depends cure, and the permanence of cure. But, it is useless to kill Rheumatism if we also kill the stomach in doing so.

Few drugs powerful enough to dissolve Uric Acid deposits are safe enough to take into the stomach. This is why so-called "quick cures" are dangerous.

Rheumatism is slowly acquired, and so, a cure cannot be expected in a few weeks' treatment, and never by external applications. The first essential in a Rheumatic cure is safety, the second, effectiveness; the third, permanence.

In a medical experience of thirty years I have known but one remedy which combined these three qualities. It took nearly ten years of my life to discover and perfect that remedy.

The chief ingredient I found in Germany, and to this I added, subtracted from and combined, until now I have a prescription on which I daily stake fortune and repute.

After 2,000 test cases I found that Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure" succeeded in 39 out of each 40 cases. Then I decided it was safe to supply it on a month's trial, at my risk, to Rheumatic sufferers everywhere.

If it fails, the treatment and six bottles of Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure cost you not a farthing, and I bear the whole cost myself without question.

If it succeeds, the cost to you is but $5.50. This is no mere sample proposition, but a practical guarantee of success or no pay. Write me to-day—before you forget it—for my free Treatise on Rheumatism.

Address Dr. Shoop, Box 47, Racine, Wis. Simple cases often yield to one bottle of Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure, (Druggists, $1). But all druggists do not supply it on a month's trial. You must write me for that.

Startling Revelations.

It frequently happens that people suffer for years from kidney derangements without knowing the cause of their backaches, aching limbs and other bodily sufferings, suddenly the truth is revealed to them that they are the victims of serious kidney disease and in imminent danger. There is no medicine which gives such prompt and lasting relief for every form of Kidney disease as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They are positively effective even in the most chronic cases.

Mr. Gunn Swindled.

Montreal, April 5.—A smart trick was played yesterday upon John A. Gunn, of Gunn, Langlois & Co., produce men. A man came to the office and bought $2,500 worth of stuff and then remarking that it was not a bank day he would like to borrow $500. Mr. Gunn was an easy mark, for he took the stranger to the Windsor and dined him and then handed him over the $500. Soon after the unknown disappeared.

How to Ward Off an Attack of Rheumatism.

"For years when springtime came on and I went into gardening I was sure to have an attack of rheumatism and every attack was more severe than the preceding one," says Josie McDonald, of Man, Logan Co., West Va. "I tried everything with no relief whatever, until I procured a bottle off Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and the first application gave me ease and before the first bottle was used I felt like a newp erson. Now I feel that I am cured, but I always keep a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm in the house and when I feel any symptoms of a return I soon drive it away with one or two applications of this liniment. AN APRIL WEDDING AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

Mr. F. L. Peat and Miss Alina Bourchier were Married Yesterday.

At St. John's church yesterday evening, Rev. J. C. Davidson officiated at the wedding ceremony of Miss Mary Alina Bourchier, eldest daughter of Mr. George L. Bourchier, C.E., of town, and Mr. Frederick L. Peat, youngest son of the late William Peat, of Jamaica, West Indies.

The groom was supported by Mr. A. P. Jameson, while the bridesmaids were Miss Winnifred Peat, sister of the bride, and Miss Marguerite Hanner, niece of the groom.

The bride looked charming in dress of cream voile. She carried a bouquet of cream roses. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was held at the residence of Mrs. Helliwell, 677 Aylmer street. Mr. and Mrs. Peat will in future reside at 212 McDonel street.

PRETTY WEDDING IN Y. W. C. A. ROOMS.

Miss Ada Hall Married to Mr. S. J. Little Last Night.

An interesting event took place last night at the Y.W.C.A. rooms, George street, when Miss Ada Hall was married to Mr. S. J. Little, of Cobourg. The ceremony, which was performed by Rev. J. G. Potter, of St. Andrew's, took place in the prettily decorated rooms, in the presence of about thirty friends of the bride, who was very popular with the members of the association.

The bride, who was very becomingly attired in a navy blue travelling suit, was attended by Miss Little, sister of the groom, as bridesmaid, while Mr. George Hall, brother of the bride, assisted the groom. Mendelssohn's wedding march was played as the bridal couple entered the room in which the ceremony was performed, and following it the company partook of refreshments, at which the health of the bride was proposed, and fittingly honoured.

After an hour had been very pleasantly spent, during which music was rendered by members of the association, the happy couple left by the 9.10 G.T.R. train for Cobourg, where they will make their home.

A FREE SITE TO BE GRANTED.

Town and County Agree to Help Armories to this Extent.

A Joint Meeting was Held Yesterday Afternoon Will Give Portion of Central Park.

A joint committee meeting was held yesterday afternoon in the County buildings, at which committees representing the Town and County Councils, met to confer with regard to a site for a new armouries, which the Government will erect in Peterborough.

The events leading up to this meeting are briefly, these. Some months ago the Government advised the Town Council of its intention to erect a new armouries here, and intimated that the usual custom was for the town to grant a free site upon which to erect such a building. The Council was asked if Peterborough would be willing to do this. The Council considered the matter and, in view of the fact that the Central Park, upon which the present drill hall stands, was the site which was thought to be the most suitable for the site of the new structure, the County Council was asked at its December meeting to appoint a committee to confer with a similar committee from the Town Council, with regard to giving the site.

The park is vested jointed in the Town and County, consequently the consent of both parties had to be obtained. At the meeting yesterday there were present from the town council: Mayor Roger and Ald. Best, Rush, Johnston and McWilliams; and from the county: Warden Peck, Fitzgerald, Johnston and Hunter.

After having heard the case stated, the county representatives expressed themselves as being in favour of granting the site suggested.

The new building will be considerably larger than the present drill hall, and will be substantially built of brick. The general opinion seems to be that the best place to erect the new armouries is to the north of the present building and facing on McDonel street. The dimensions of the armouries will probably be about 210 by 105 feet.

QUESTION WORTHY OF CONSIDERATION.

Important Statement by Mr. John Bertram.

Regarding the Trent Canal He is now in Favour of its Completion A National Waterway.

While discussing be results of the various meetings held by the Transportation Commission, since the beginning of the year, with a representative of the Montreal Herald, Chairman John Bertram is reported as having made the following statement regarding the sitting which was held in Peterborough a few days back:—

"For instance; in the last meeting at Peterborough, the representatives from the different towns around all advocated the Trent Valley Canal, because they considered that their own towns would be benefitted by it. The real question in which the commission was interested was whether by the Trent Valley Canal grain could be brought through from the Georgian Bay to Montreal at a lower cost than by the present route. When I was member of Parliament for Peterborough in the early 80's, I was not in favour of the canal. At the present time, however, conditions have changed entirely, and the question is worthy of particular consideration, especially when it is considered that the Americans, in order to improve their canal facilities, have not hesitated to provide a hundred million dollars."

T. A. S. "AT HOME" BRILLIANT SUCCESS.

A Thoroughly Enjoyable Evening Spent Last Night.

T. A. S. Hockey Club Benefit Proved a Good Drawing Card Good Work of the Ladies.

The "At Home" given last night by the ladies of St. Peter's T A S for the benefit of the Hockey Club was in every way an unqualified success. The attendance was large and everyone present spent a thoroughly enjoyable evening, the early part of which was taken up by the playing of progressive euchre, in which 132 persons participated, the prize-winners being Misses Primeau and McFadden and Mr. Eugene Hurtubise.

Following this refreshments were served, and that this portion of the evening was enjoyed was amply evidenced. A few hours were then pleasantly spent in dancing, the music for which was provided by Prof. Kaygn and Mr. Jas. Doris. The gathering broke up early, all present having had a most pleasant evening. Mr. H. Gainey made an efficient floor manager, while the duties of chairman were assigned to Mr. John McCabe, who acquitted himself with credit.

During the evening the announcement was made that on Monday night Mr. Burnham would give a lecture on the "Causes which led up to the Russian-Japanese war." Mrs. K. Eardley-Wilmot will sing at the lecture, which will be under the auspices of the Literary Section. The Ladies are to be congratulated upon the success of the evening.

SUNDAY SCHOOL AND DEPARTING TEACHER.

George Street S. S. Bids Farewell to Miss Richardson.

It was with genuine regret that the scholars of the George street Sunday School bade farewell to Miss Mint. Richardson. Miss Richardson has taught a Bible class in the school for some time and leaves shortly for Arnslie Hall, Toronto, the boarding house in connection with Victoria University. Superintendent Robinson and Rev. J. P Wilson, both spoke of the good work done by Miss Richardson for the church, and both proclaimed their sincere regret at her departure. Miss Richardson was given the Chautauqua salute.

Four of the primary classes also received the promotion and those members who were moved were each given a Bible.

Chas. S. Botsford, proprietor Bankrupt Stock Store, 408 George street, Peterborough, will retire from business on 1st of May and the business will change hands. $7000 worth of goods must be sold in that time, and the prices will induce people to buy. Mr. Botsford thanks the good citizens of Peterborough and the jolly farmers of surrounding country for their liberal patronage during the last 18 months and now invites you to his farewell sale of dry goods. This is your chance.

VESTRY MEETINGS HELD LAST NIGHT.

The Anglican Churches Show an Increase.

Satisfactory Conditions at St. John's, St. Luke's and All Saint's Wardens Presented.

The annual Easter Vestry meetings of the three local Anglican churches were held last night, and there was a unanimity about the reports presented at all of them, in that each gave evidence of advancement and progress.

ST. JOHN'S MEETING LARGELY ATTENDED.

Rev. J. C. Davidson Occupied the Chair The New Wardens.

The annual Vestry meeting held in St. John's School House last night was largely attended. Rev. J. C. Davidson occupied the chair. The Secretary read the minutes of the two previous meetings, after which the Church Wardens presented their annual report, which showed a substantial balance on the right side. There had been several extraordinary expenditures last year, two new furnaces being placed in the Sunday School and Church, which had resulted in the Church and Sunday School being thoroughly heated during the winter. The retiring Wardens Dr. Boucher and Mr. Howden, were then presented by Rev. J. C. Davidson with handsome mementoes of their year's work. Mr. Davidson referred to the hard work which fell to the lot of the two men who were responsible for the finances of the church, and congratulated them on the good financial showing this year.

The two Wardens made appropriate replies in accepting the presentations made, referring to the satisfaction their work had given them. They had exercised the greatest economy, scrutinising all expenditures, but the same time had taken all steps which seemed to be for the advantage of the church. They were both heartily applauded as they resumed their seats.

Rev. J. C. Davidson next requested Lt.-Col. Rogers to act as his Warden for the coming year, expressing the pleasure he felt in so doing both from Lt.-Col. Rogers' connection with the church and also from his intimate connection with the town, the history of which was so closely intertwined with that of St. John's. He was fully aware that the nomination would meet with the warm approval of all members of St. John's congregation.

Lt.-Col. Rogers in a short speech signified his assent of what he felt was an honourable position. He had been for nearly 25 years a member of St. John's congregation and might therefore be regarded as an old member and certainly he was an interested one. His energies would now be bent in helping to direct the important work of Peterborough's historic church, but as he had had no previous experience in these matters he appealed for the warm support of the congregation, including the ladies as well as the men.

Nomination for Peoples' Warden was then offered to Mr. W. H. Cluxton. Reference was made to the long connection of his family with the church, and the interest he himself had taken.

Mr. Cluxton in a few words accepted the position offered to him, thanking the meeting for the honour and expressing his determination to carry forward the work to the best of his ability. He sat down amid applause.

The election of sidesmen was deferred until the next meeting in two weeks time.

The church accounts were handed over to the auditors for supervision.

A committee composed of the retiring and incoming wardens, together with Messrs. Dennistoun and Eardley-Wilmot, was appointed to consider the present financial position, and report upon it at the next meeting.

A discussion then ensued on the rectory fund, which was now over $2300, and the subject was referred to the standing committee to report on at the next meeting.

Mr. R. M. Dennistoun reported that the Young Men's Bible Class, together with the help of the congregation, collected the sum of $150 for a window for the Sunday school.

The Vestry expressed its appreciation, approving warmly of the intention that it should be placed in memory of the late Charlotte Nicholls, who had, been so great a benefactor of the different churches and public enterprises of Peterborough.

A committee was appointed to draft a resolution in memory of the late organist, Miss Cochrane.

The vestry then adjourned and a congregational meeting was held. Dr Boucher, Mr. R. M. Dennistoun and Mr. H. Rush were appointed delegates to the Synod.

ALL SAINT'S CHURCH AND ITS NEW OFFICERS.

Retiring Wardens Made their Annual Roport.

The annual Vestry meeting of All Saint's Church was held last night and was very largely attended, the Rector, Rev. Wm. Major presiding.

The minutes of the two previous meetings were read and confirmed.

Mr. G. L. Manghan, people's Warden, presented the Warden's report, which showed a satisfactory state of affairs. Following this the reports of the various Guilds were received and all showed a very encouraging standing. Mrs. J. W. Latimer presented the report of the Women's Auxiliary. That of the Senior Girls Guild was read by Miss Rickey, while Mr. E. L. Davis presented, verbally, the report of the Sunday School.

The election of officers for the year resulted as follows:—

Rector's Warden—Mr. James Mulholland.

People's Warden—Mr. Jas. Edgar.

Lay Delegates—Messrs. R. E. Lovefield, J. H. McClellan, and D. H. Burnett.

The meeting then adjourned.

THE NEW WARDENS OF ST. LUKE'S CHURCH.

Elected at the Vestry Meeting Held in Sunday School Room.

The annual Vestry meeting of St. church was held last night in the School House, with the following present: Messrs J. Z. Rogers, F. Adams, E. A. Peck, S. Gaskins, A. O. Sawyer, T. Q. Quartermaine, J. Ball, H. Adams, Mrs. Saweyr, Mrs. Adams, Miss Graham.

The meeting was opened by Rev. Mr. Holah with prayer. In the absence of the rector, Mr. J. Z. Rogers, the Rector's Warden, occupied the chair. The minutes of the last annual Vestry meeting and subsequent meetings were read and adopted.

The Wardens' reports were presented, and on motion the financial report was referred to the auditors.

The financial statement showed that by the liberality of the members of the church during Lent, the deficit occasioned largely by the absence through illness of the Rector, had been wiped off, and they now start on the church year of 1904 with a credit balance, which is a very gratifying condition of things.

The following appointments were then made: Auditors — Messrs. F. J. Jameson and G. G. Pratley.

People's Warden — F. Adams.

Rector's Warden — J. Z. Rogers.

Assistant Wardens — Mr. Nesbitt and G. G. Pratley.

The meeting then adjourned to reassemble on April 25th.

A subsequent congregational meeting was held and at it Messrs. Sawyer, Warde and J. J. Turner were elected lay delegates to the Synod.

REPLY OF BELGIUM

Denial of Reported Cruelties in Congo State.

ANSWER TO BRITISH CONSUL

Summary of the Brussels Note Made By Mr. James G. Whiteley—Combats Charges and Says They Have No Corroboration—Argument Against Concluding Issue of Single Case of Boy Epondo.

Washington, April 5.—By authority of the Congo Free State, James G. Whiteley, has given a resume of the Brussels note issued in reply to charges made in a recent report of the British Consul in the district.

The Consul's report, says Mr. Whiteley, contains a number of statements of cruel treatment of natives, but gives no corroborative statements, and these stories are valueless because they were not investigated. The report, he says, also fails to give times and places.

The resume continues: "One case, however, which the Consul investigated, and which he gives as a most flagrant example, was brought to the knowledge of the Congo authorities and was investigated by them. This is the case of the boy Epondo, who claimed his left hand had been cut off by a native sentry in the services of La Lulong Rubber Co. The Consul, accompanied by two missionaries, went to the village of Bossunguma and proceeded to hold an impromptu court of inquiry. The injured boy accused the sentry Kelengo to his face. The Consul then questioned the chief and a number of headmen and they replied by accusing the sentry. Most of them declared that they had been eye-witnesses of the deed. The Consul asked whether there were any more witnesses and nearly all those present, about 10 persons, shouted out with one voice that it was Kelengo who did it. The accused sentry denied the charge. Other natives came forward with various charges of robbery and wrongdoing against the sentry, and finally the Consul, considering the evidence conclusive, announced to the assembled multitude that Kelengo deserved severe punishment for his illegal and cruel acts, and taking with him the maimed boy, laid the case before the State authorities, saying dramatically that he denounced not an individual, but a system. It would be unwarrantable to draw a conclusion from a single case, even if the case were well founded, but as a matter of fact the accusations of Epondo against the sentry were shown to be without any foundation whatever. When the proper state authorities came to investigate the case the boy's evidence broke down. He admitted that he had fled, and explained that he had lost his hand in a boar hunt. When asked why he had falsely accused the sentry he said that he had done it at the instigation of the natives of the district, who hoped thus to secure the intervention of the British Consul and a release from the necessity of gathering rubber."

Most of the other natives who accused the sentry, says Mr. Whiteley, fled, but when captured, admitted they had given false evidence.

Mr. Whitely says the British Consul's deductions are illogical, and concludes:

"The Brussels note refutes all the points of the British Consul's report, and is a most convincing testimony to the humanitarian work which King Leopold has accomplished in Africa."

IN THE MERRY MERRY SPRINGTIME

You Must get Rid of That Tired Spring Feeling How and Why Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Drive it Away.

In the Springtime the Stomach needs a rest. It has been working overtime all the winter through supplying the different parts of the body with the heat and strength they need.

It is wearied, and when the stomach is wearied all the body must be in a like condition. For when the stomach is tired and unable to do its full work the different muscles and organs do not receive the food they need. They become weak and starved.

This causes that tired feeling that is so prevalent in the spring time. The remedy is to give your stomach a rest and the simplest and best way to do it is to use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets rest the stomach by taking the work of Digestion off its hands. They digest the food and the stomach rests and returns to its natural and healthy state. That's why Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cure permanently as well as relieve.

SORROW, MY SORROW.

Sorrow, my sorrow, I thought that you would be
My faithful mate, and bear me company
While I should live, but now I find that you,
Like joy, and hope, and love, have left me too.
Sorrow, my sorrow, you have left me more
Forlorn than all the rest that went before;
For you were last to come and longest stay,
And you were dearest when you went away.
Sorrow, my treasured grief, my hoarded pain,
Where shall I turn to have you mine again?
Wherever there are other breasts that ache,
Wherever there are hearts are like to break,
Wherever there are hearts too hard to fear,
Turn and look for me, you shall find me there,
But not to take and have me for your own,
Or keep me, as you thought me, yours alone;
If you would have me as I used to be,
Beyond yourself you must add he with me.

You Can Keep the Liver Active

And Ensure the Regular and Healthful Action of the Bowels by Using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

The bile is nature's cathartic. So long as the liver filters the bile from the blood and passes it into the intestines, the bowels will be regular and active.

Constipation can never be permanently cured until the liver is set right.

Because they act directly on the liver as well as the bowels Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are wonderfully successful as a cure for constipation and liver troubles.

They rid the system of accumulated poisons, thoroughly cleanse the system and invigorate the organs of digestion and exertion.

No family medicine was ever so universally used by the people of Canada, and none so generally endorsed.

Constipation, biliousness, kidney disease, liver complaint, backache and stomach troubles are among the ailments which are promptly cured by this treatment.

Mr. Jas. H. Harvey, baker, 641 George street, Peterborough, Ontario, states:

"I was troubled very much with constipation and pains in the back. At times the pains were sharp like a stab with a knife and caused me great suffering.

"I heard of many being cured by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and decided to try them. I am pleased to say that they soon helped me and I used them right along until cured. I never have pains in my back now and only occasionally take a pill in order to keep my bowels regular."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 11

Purified by Suffering

BY MARY J. HOLMES,

CHAPTER XXIX.

A summer day in Silverton—a soft, bright August day, when the early rare-ripes by the well were turning their red cheeks to the sun, and the flowers in the garden were lifting their heads proudly, and nodding to each other as if they knew the secret which made that day so bright above all others. Katy was really coming home, and in proof thereof, there were behind the house and barn piles of rubbish, lath and plaster, mouldy paper and broken bricks, the tokens and remains of the repairing process, which for so long a time had made the farm-house a scene of dire confusion.

As a condition on which Katy might be permitted to come home, Wilford had stipulated an improvement in the interior arrangement of the house, offering to bear the expense even to the furnishing of the rooms. To this the family demurred at first, not liking Wilford's dictatorial manner, nor his insinuation that their home was not good enough for his wife. But Helen turned the tide, appreciating Wilford's feelings better than the others could do, and urging a compliance with his request.

"Anything to get Katy home," she said, and so the chimney was torn away, a window was cut here and an addition made there, until the house was really improved with its pleasant, modern parlor and the large airy bedroom, with bathing-room attached.

The furniture, too, which he sent on from New York, was perfect in its kind, and suitable in every respect, and Helen enjoyed the settling very much, and when it was finished it was hard telling which was the more pleased, she or Aunt Betsy, who, having confessed in a general kind of way at a sewing society, that she did go to a play-house, and was not so very sorry either, except as the example might do harm, had nothing to fear from New York, and was proportionately happy, at least she would have been if Morris had not seemed so off, as she expressed it, taking but little interest in the preparations, and evincing no pleasure at Katy's expected visit. And Morris was greatly changed. The wound which in most hearts would have healed by this time, had grown deeper with each succeeding year, while from all he heard he felt sure that Katy's marriage was a sad mistake, wishing sometimes that he had spoken, and so perhaps have saved her from the life in which she could not be wholly free. "She would be happier with me," he had said, with a sad smile to Helen, when she told him of some things which she had not mentioned elsewhere, and there were great tears in Morris's eyes, when Helen spoke of Katy's distress and the look which came into her face when baby was taken away. But she was coming home; Providence had ordered that and he accepted it, looking eagerly for the time, but repressing his eagerness, so that not even Helen suspected how impatient he was for the day of her return.

Marian was working at her trade, and never came to the hotel except one day when Wilford was in New York, but that day sufficed for Katy to know that after herself, it was Marian whom baby loved the best—Marian, who cared for it even more than Mrs. Hubbell. And Katy was glad to have it so, especially after Wilford and his mother decided that she must leave the child in New London while she made the visit to Silverton.

Wilford did not like her taking so much care of it as she was inclined to do. It had grown too heavy for her to lift; it was better with Mrs Hubbell, he said, and so to the inmates of the farm-house Katy wrote that baby was not coming.

They were bitterly disappointed, for Katy's baby had been anticipated quite as much as Katy herself, and Aunt Betsy had brought from the wood-shed chamber a cradle, which nearly forty years before had rocked the deacon's only child, the little boy, who had died just as he had learned to lisp his mother's name. As a memento of those days the cradle had been kept, Katy using it sometimes for her kittens and her dolls, until she grew too old for that, when it was put away beneath the eaves from whence Aunt Betsy dragged it, scouring it with soap and sand, until it was as white as snow. But it would not be needed, and with a sigh the old lady carried it back thinking "things had come to a pretty pass when a woman who could dance and carouse till twelve o'clock at night, was too weakly to take care of her child," and feeling a very little awe of Katy who must have grown so fine a lady.

But all this passed away when the time drew near when Katy was to come, and no one seemed happier than Aunt Betsy on the morning when Uncle Ephraim drove from the door, setting old Whitey into a canter, which by the time the "race" was reached, had become a rapid trot, the old man holding up the reins and looking proudly at the out-fed animal speeding along so fast.

He did not have long to wait his train, for the train soon came rolling across the meadow, and while his head was turned towards the car where he fancied she might be, a pair of white arms was thrown impetuously around his neck, and a little figure, standing on tiptoe, almost pulled him down in its attempts to kiss him.

"Uncle Eph! oh, Uncle Eph, I've come! I'm here!" a young voice cried but the words the deacon would have spoken were smothered by the kisses pressed upon his lips, kisses which only came to an end when a voice said rather reprovingly, "There, Katy, that will do. You have almost strangled him."

There was a good deal of the city about her dress and style, and the deacon felt a little over-awed at first; but this wore off, as, on their way to the farm-house, she talked to him in her old, loving manner, and asked questions about the people he supposed she had forgotten, nodding to everybody she met, whether she knew them or not, and at last, as the old house came in sight, hiding her face in a gush of happy tears upon his neck. Scarcely waiting for old Whitey to stop, but with one leap clearing the wheel, she threw herself into the midst of the women waiting on the doorstep to meet her. It was a joyful meeting, and when the first excitement was over, Katy inspected the improvements, praising them all and congratulating herself upon the nice time she was to have.

"You don't know what a luxury it is to feel that I can rest," she said to Helen.

"Didn't you rest at New London?" Helen asked.

"Yes, some," Katy replied, "but there were dances every night, or calls upon the last and I had to go, for many of our friends were there, and Wilford was not willing for me to be quiet."

This, then, was the reason why Katy came home so weary and pale, and craving so much the rest she had not had in more than two years.

Katy had inquired for Morris immediately after her arrival, but in her excitement she had forgotten him again, until tea was over, when, just as she had done on the day of her return from Canandaigua, she took her hat and started on the well-worn path to Linwood. He was thinking of that time now, and how differently it had all turned out, when he heard the bounding step and saw her coming toward him, swinging her hat in childish abandon, and warbling a song she had learned from him.

"Morris, oh, Morris!" she cried, as she ran eagerly forward. "I am so glad to see you. It seems so nice to be with you once more here in the dear old woods. Don't get up—please don't get up," she continued, as he started to rise.

She was standing before him, a hand on either side of his face, into which she was looking quite as wistfully as he was regarding her. Something she missed in his manner, which troubled her, and thinking she knew what it was she said to him: "Why don't you kiss me, Morris? You used to. Ain't you glad to see me?"

"Yes, very glad," he answered, and drawing her down beside him, he kissed her twice, but so gravely, that Katy was not satisfied at all, and tears gathered in her eyes as she tried to think what ailed Morris.

He was very thin, and there was a few white hairs about his temples, so that, though four years younger than her husband, he seemed to her much older, quite grandfatherly in fact, and this accounted for the liberties she took, asking what was the matter, and trying to make him like her again, by assuring him that she was not as vain and foolish as he might suppose from what Helen had probably told him of her life since leaving Silverton. "I do not like it at all," she said. "I am in it, and must conform, but, oh Morris! you don't know how much happier I should be if Wilford were just like you, and lived at Linwood instead of New York. I should be so happy here with baby all the time."

It was well she spoke that name, for Morris could not have borne much more, but the mention of her child quieted him at once, so that he could calmly tell her she was the same to him she always had been, while with his next breath he said, "Where is your baby?" adding with a smile, "I can remember when you were a baby, and I held you in my arms."

"Can you really?" Katy said; and as if that remembrance made him older than the hills, she nestled her curly head against his shoulder, while she told him of her bright-eyed darling, and as she talked, the mother-love which spread itself over her girlish face made it more beautiful than anything Morris had ever seen.

"Surely an angel's countenance cannot be fairer, purer than hers," he thought, as she talked of the only thing which had a power to separate her from him, making her seem as a friend, or at most as a beloved sister.

"And you are not as strong as you once were," he added, pulling her shawl around her shoulders with careful solicitude, and thinking how slender she had become.

From the back parlor Helen saw them coming up the path, detecting the changed expression on Morris's face, and feeling a pang of fear when, as he left them after nine o'clock, she heard her mother say that he had not appeared so natural since Katy went away as he had done that night. Knowing what she did, Helen trembled for Morris, and Morris trembled for himself as he went back the lonely path, and stopped again beneath the chestnut tree where he had so lately sat with Katy. There was a great fear at his heart, and it found utterance in words, as kneeling by the rustic bench, with only the lonely night around him and the green boughs overhead, he asked that he might be kept from sin, both in thought and deed, and be to Katy Cameron just what she took him for, her friend and elder brother. And God, who knew the sincerity of the heart thus pleading before him, heard and answered the prayer, so that after the first night of trial, Morris could look on Katy without a wish that she were otherwise than Wilford Cameron's wife and the mother of his child. He was happier because of her being at the farm-house, though he did not go there one half as often as she came to him.

Those September days were happy ones to Katy, who became a child again—a petted, spoiled child, whom every one caressed and suffered to have her way. To Uncle Ephraim it was as if some bright angel had suddenly dropped into his path, and flooded it with sunshine. He was so glad to have again his "Katy-did," who went with him to the fields, waiting patiently till his work was done, and telling him of all the wondrous things she saw abroad, but speaking little of her city life. That was something she did not care to talk about, and but for Wilford's letters, and the frequent mention of baby, the deacon could easily have imagined that Katy had never left him. But these were barriers between the old life and the present; these were the insignia of Mrs. Wilford Cameron, who was watched and envied by the curious Silvertonians, and pronounced charming by them all. Still there was one drawback to Katy's happiness. She missed her child, mourning for it so much that her family, quite as anxious as herself to see it, suggested her sending for it. It would surely take no harm with them, and Marian would come with it, if Mrs. Hubbell could not. To this plan Katy listened more willingly from the fact that Wilford had gone West, and the greater the distance between them, the more she dared to do. And so Marian Hazelton was one day startled at the sudden appearance at the cottage of Katy, who had come to take her and baby to Silverton.

There was no resisting the vehemence of Katy's arguments, and before the next day's sunsetting, the farm-house, usually so quiet and orderly, had been turned into one general nursery, where Baby Cameron reigned supreme, screaming with delight at the tin ware which Aunt Betsy brought out, from the cake-cutter to the dipper, the little creature beating a noisy tattoo upon the latter with an iron spoon, and then for diversion, burying its fat dimpled hands in Uncle Ephraim's long white hair, for the old man went down on all fours to do his great-grand-niece homage.

The First Sign of Kidney Trouble.

He says: "Our little boy was troubled with kidney disease. We had tried many kinds of kidney pills but they only helped for a time. We got Doan's Kidney Pills and one box effected a perfect cure. About six weeks after this I caught a very bad cold that settled in my kidneys. My back was so sore I could hardly walk. I went to the drug store and got a box, took them according to directions and the result was that my back was completely cured. I believe they are the best kidney pill on the market to-day."

LIGHT AND DARK.

Day and night, sunshine and shadow are not more different from each other than a healthful from a sickly woman. The healthful woman carries light and sunshine with her wherever she goes.

The woman who suffers from ill-health casts a shadow on her own happiness and the happiness of others. She cannot help it. Those who suffer cannot smile and sing.

Ill-health in woman is generally traceable to disease of the delicate womanly organism. Many women have been restored to happiness by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. If there is an invalid woman, suffering from female weakness, prolapsus, or falling of womb, or from leucorrhea who has used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription without complete success Dr. Pierce would like to hear from such person—and it will be to her advantage to write as he offers, in perfect good faith, a reward of $500 for any case of the above maladies which he cannot cure.

"I feel it my duty to inform you that I had been a sufferer for many years from nervousness with all its symptoms and complications," writes Mrs O. N. Fisher of 101 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. "I was constantly going to see a physician. I was induced to ask Dr. Pierce's advice. I then took five bottles of Favorite Prescription. I am not a nervous and irritable and I have a good color in my face. I have also gained about ten pounds in weight and one thousand of comfort, for I am a new woman once more."

The dealer who offers a substitute for "Favorite Prescription" does so to gain the little more profit paid on the sale of less meritorious medicines.

GOING TO TELL IT.

The Great South American Rheumatism Cure; the kind that cures in a few days the most obstinate and painful cases.

If you have a friend suffering from that horror, or from lumbago or neuralgia, it is your duty at least to offer it to him. It will relieve, with the first dose. You too.

William Marshall, of Varney Post Office, County of Gray, Ontario, writes:

"For the last year I was continually in bed. I spent hundreds of dollars in doctoring and medicines which proved of little relief. The first dose of South American Rheumatic Cure gave me instant relief. I am completely cured."

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE TONIC builds up into vigor and health the most shattered systems. It is unmatched in female complaints, or general debility in either sex.

BLOOD POISON

On account of its terrible effects, blood disease is called the king of all diseases. It may be either hereditary or contracted; so while it may not be a crime to have the disease, it is a crime to permit it to remain in the system. It may manifest itself in the form of Scrofula, Eczema, rheumatic pains, stiff or swollen joints, itchiness of the skin, eruptions or blotches, ulcers in the mouth or on the tongue, sore throat, falling out of hair, disordered stomach, and a general depression of the system. If you have any of these symptoms don't neglect yourself. You have no time to lose. Beware of "old fogy" treatment—beware of mineral poisons—beware of Quacks and Fakirs. OUR NEW METHOD TREATMENT is guaranteed to cure this disease, never to return. Bank Bonds will protect you. Our treatment is not injurious in any way, but reaches the very root of the disease and eliminates all poison from the system. The symptoms of disease gradually disappear. The blood becomes pure and enriched, the whole system is cleansed and purified, and the patient feels prepared anew for the duties and the pleasures of life. CURES GUARANTEED OR NO PAY. 25 Years in Detroit. 250,000 Cured.

TO ORGANIZE A LACROSSE LEAGUE.

Meeting to be Held in Peterborough on April 23rd.

It is now almost an assured fact, that the Trent Valley Lacrosse League will be formed. Mr. T. P. Lancaster, of Havelock, was in town yesterday, and stated to the Examiner that he had received assurances from enough clubs of their intention to enter the League to make its organization a possibility. Mr. Lancaster has worked energetically for the institution of the League, and deserves great credit for the success which he has met with.

A meeting is being called by Mr. Lancaster for Saturday, April 23, in the Oriental Hotel, Peterborough, at 1.30 p.m., for the purpose of forming a League. It is expected that at least three districts will be formed, with four teams in each. This will give a league with 12 teams, which is a very good beginning indeed. Already a number of teams have organized and have signified their intention of joining the League, and all others desirous of doing so should at once effect an organization.

The League will probably include teams from Lindsay, to Belleville, which, with three districts, will make it very easy for the different teams to play their games, as no long trips will be necessary.

It is desired by those who have been instrumental in the formation of the League that there should be a large attendance of representatives from the different towns at the meeting to be held in Peterborough on the 23rd.

LOCAL BASKET-BALL TEAM IN TORONTO.

Played a Good Game with the Toronto Central Y. M. C. A. Team.

The Globe this morning said: Two good games of basket-ball were played at Central Y. M. C. A. last evening. In the first the Peterborough team went down before the Central Y.M.C.A. gymnasium team, City Senior League Champions, by a score of 34 to 20. The second game between the Central business boys' second team and All Saints' junior team resulted in favour of the first named team by a score of 32 to 18. The senior teams lined up as follows:

Peterborough, 20—Miller and Fitzpatrick, forwards; Hodgson, centre; Richardson and Renton, guards.

Toronto, 34—Bartlett and Powell, forwards; Salter, centre; Brent and Breckel, guards.

Summary.—Goals from floor, Miller 3, Fitzpatrick 3, Hodgson 2, Brent 4, Breckell, Salter 2, Bartlett 3, Powell 3. Points by fouls—Peterborough 4, Toronto 8. Fould called on Miller 3, Hodgson, Richardson, Renton 4, Brent 2, Breckell, and Salter 3. Timekeeper and referee, Mr. McLeod.

BOARD OF EDUCATION'S REGULAR MEETING.

Held in the Secretary's Office Last Night.

A Number of Communications Received The Cadet Corps to be Revived by Sergt. Major Britton.

The regular meeting of the Board Education was held in the Secretary's office last night, beginning at 7.15 o'clock, and was attended by Mr. J. J. Hartley, chairman, and Messrs. Jas. Stevenson, W. H. Hill W. Pringle, H. P. Kennedy, J. Crane, Dr. Burnham, L. M. Hayes, W. Wrighton, R. B. Rogers and V. Eastwood.

COMMUNICATIONS

The following communications were read and dealt with as follows:

From Miss Mina Richardson, enclosing a certificate from a throat specialist that she was forced to resign her position as public school teacher for a time.—Received.

From E. Duncan Walker, Inspector of Public Schools, stating that he had attempted to fill the vacancy created by Miss Richardson's resignation, but without success. The communication further suggested that the Board fill the vacancy as soon as possible.—Received.

From T. J. Wallace, Keene, accepting a position on the local public school teaching staff.

From Miss Annie Weir, of Port Hope, accepting an appointment on the local High School teaching staff.—Received.

From the Board of Public School Trustees, Sturgeon Falls, soliciting the aid of the Peterborough Board of Education, "in combatting the infamous special act spoken of in the Toronto News' Editorial of the 18th inst." The communication also enclosed a copy of the News' editorial.—Received and no action taken.

From S. R. Armstrong, town clerk, stating that the town solicitor had advised the Committee of the Council that there was considerable doubt whether the town had authority to issue debentures for a longer period than 20 years for Collegiate Institute purposes, and that it had also received letters from several brokers and financial institutions advising against issuing instalment debentures, as they would not sell as well as debentures issued for a straight period. He was instructed to say that unless they hear from the Board of Education to the contrary the by-law would be submitted to the electors to issue debentures for 20 years and payable at the end of that period.—Received.

From Dennistoun, Peck, Kerr & Stevenson, stating that in consulting two of the trustees, they pointed out that the High School Act of 1901 authorizes the issue of debentures for High School purposes for a term of thirty years, and they advised that the Board adhere to their demand for 30 year debentures for the building of the new Collegiate Institute building.—Received.

CUSTOMS RETURNS SHOW DECREASE.

But March 1903 Was an Exceptional Month Say the Authorities.

The customs returns for the past month were $26,554.52 while those for March 1903 were $27,380.03, a decrease this year of $795.51. This, however, is explained in March 1903 being an exceptional month at the customs house, and that the returns are ever increasing is evidenced in the fact that the receipts for February of this year were only $15,388.79.

UNUSUAL STATE OF THINGS

Junks Thought to Be Victualling Port Arthur—Russians Will Await Japanese Attack on the Right Bank of the Yalu River—S. Manchuria Strikingly Full of Active Life.

London, April 6.—The Times today has the following despatch: "At sea, April 5, by wireless telegraphy via Wei-Hai-Wei.—I have been cruising in the vicinity of Port Arthur for fifty hours. The situation is extraordinary, inasmuch as there has been no evidence of hostilities beyond the searchlight on the Golden Hill fort at night. I have seen nothing of the vessels of either of the belligerents, and there has been no sign, night or day, since Sunday, or even the scout boats. I regard this as a most unusual state of things, quite different to former experiences of cruising in these waters. I have seen large flotillas of junks steering northwest, their destination presumably being Liautishan, and their object the victualling of Port Arthur.

Russ Waits Jap.

Paris, April 6.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of The Echo de Paris says that the Russian general staff is convinced that the Russians will await a Japanese attack on the right bank of the Yalu, which they are busily fortifying at its mouth. A remarkable bridge has been constructed on the prolongation of the Wiju line connecting it with Pinhujan. The correspondent says the Russians are seeking to draw the Japanese on by sending small groups across the river.

Filled With Life.

St. Petersburg, April 6.—A correspondent of the Associated Press at Port Arthur, who returned to the fortress Monday from a trip through Southern Manchuria, telegraphs that the country is strikingly full of active life, that the troops are vigorous and healthy and animated by a desire for active operations, and that the entire native population, including that of the commercial world, is friendly to Russia and full of faith in the Russian arms. The correspondent says:

"The Chinese volunteer militia wear a special uniform with epaulettes bearing the Russian national flag. The natives provide provisions freely and are selling horses brought from the surrounding country. The mandarins are an exception to this general rule, as they are trying to carry water on both shoulders. As their conduct is passive, it does the Russians no harm."

The correspondent says the railroad works regularly. He continues: "Sentries are posted at the boundary and are doing duty in the neutral zone dividing China and Manchuria. The weather is warm and the rivers are open. In Port Arthur all is quiet and the inhabitants have become accustomed to a state of war."

Main Points Settled.

Paris, April 6.—Foreign Minister Delcasse had a long conference yesterday with M. Paul Cambon, French Ambassador at London, relative to the Anglo-French colonial treaty, settling several long-standing issues, principally in regard to Morocco, Egypt and Newfoundland. M. Cambon will return to London to-day, and it is said the treaty will be signed toward the end of the present week. The main points are settled, but there are some details capable of causing delay.

Rifle For Bisley.

London, April 6.—The secretary of the National Rifle Association, referring to the improvements in the Ross rifle, whereby the magazine will be handled with greater ease, and the alteration in the bore to render the bullet less susceptible to atmospheric influence, expresses the hope that the Ross authorities will see that the Canadian team for Bisley will be provided with a weapon possessing these improvements.

Girl Slugged By Strikers.

Chicago, April 6.—Bertha Van Gelder, aged 22, one of a number of girls employed as press feeders by a local printing establishment, in place of striking members of Franklin Union, was the victim of alleged slugging tactics employed by the strikers. While on her way home Miss Van Gelder was attacked and brutally beaten by two men, who she declared are striking press feeders or their sympathizers.

Miles For "Dry" President.

Indianapolis, April 6. — Indiana Prohibitionists assembled yesterday in convention to nominate a State ticket. A boom for a national ticket composed of Gen. Nelson A. Miles for President, and Felix T. McWhirter of Indiana for Vice-President, was started by the ninth district delegation, and was received with enthusiastic applause.

Shut Down Two Days a Week.

Fall River, Mass., April 6.—Twenty of the corporations engaged in the manufacture of print cloths, controlling sixty-five mills, have agreed to curtail production by shutting down two days a week, due to unsettled conditions in the cotton and cloth markets.

Canadian Starts It.

London, April 6.—(C.A.P.)—A correspondent, signing himself "Director of a Canadian Railway," has started a brisk correspondence in the Times on the danger of overcoming English ours through the lack of regulators.

Duty on Oil.

London, April 6.—The Daily Mail says there is reason to believe that in the forthcoming budget, Austen Chamberlain, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, will propose an import duty on petroleum and petroleum products, probably a penny per gallon.

Edinburgh Presbytery Cautious.

London, April 6.—(C.A.P.)—The Edinburgh Presbytery, by a vote of 54 against 33, after exciting scenes, declined to discuss the question of Chinese labor in the Transvaal on the ground that it was a politi-

HEALTH IN SPRING.

Nature Requires Assistance in Making New, Health-giving Blood.

Spring is the season when your system needs toning up. In the spring you must have new blood just as the trees must have new sap. Nature demands it. Without new blood you will feel weary, weak and languid. With new, rich, red blood you will be sprightly, happy and healthy. The one sure way to get new blood and fresh energy is to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They actually make new blood. They are the greatest spring tonic in the world. Mr. J. J. Mallette, a well known grocer in Montreal, says: "I wish to thank you for the great good your Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done me. My system was very much run down and your pills have made a new man of me. As I am in business, coming in contact with many people, I am often able to recommend the pills, and they have already relieved a dozen of my friends who suffered as I did."

Many people further weaken their system in spring through taking purgative medicines. What nature needs to help her is a tonic, and Dr. Williams Pink Pills supply this need. is no other medicine can. Be sure you get the genuine with the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" printed on the wrapper around the box. Sold by all medicine dealers, or post paid at 50 cents per box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

NEW BY-LAWS FOR WATER USERS

In Force on April 1st. No Radical Changes Made.

The Water Commissioners have for some time been engaged in framing a set of by-laws, rules and regulations for general maintenance and management of the town's waterworks, with forms of applications for extension of mains and house service, and schedules of rates and charges, for the use of the water for all purposes to which it can be applied. At a meeting held last Saturday these by-laws, etc., were passed and were declared to be in force from and after the first day of April. No radical changes have been made, but a good many were found necessary in order to enforce economy in the use of the water, and requiring a more substantial class of plumbing. Provision has been made in most ample manner for maintenance and regulation, under all circumstances of the works, the whole consisting of fifty-six clauses. Then follow the requisite forms and a full schedule of charges, with the discounts to be allowed, in various cases. The above will be printed in small book form, and as soon as this is done, a copy will be placed in the hands of each consumer. In the meantime anyone interested and desiring information can obtain same from Mr S. R Armstrong, the Commissioners' secretary.

THEY KNOW IT.

Thousands of people throughout the country know that the ordinary remedies for piles—ointments, suppositories and appliances — will not cure.

The best of them only bring passing relief.

Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Rod is a tablet taken internally that removes the cause of Piles, hence, the cure is permanent. Every package sold carries a guarantee with it.

It is perfectly harmless to the most delicate constitution. A month's treatment in each package. Sold at $1.00.

Further information in regard to it at the drug store of James Lynch, 168 Hunter street. 5

Petrel Getting Ready.

Windsor, April 5.—The Dominion steamer Petrel is being fitted out for the season at Walkerville. The Government has forwarded two new guns to be placed in position on the vessel's decks. It is claimed of these cannon that they can send a shot sufficiently far to make up for any deficiency in the vessel's speed when she is after a poacher.

HAVELOCK NOW ELECTRIC LIGHTS.

New System is Highly Satisfactory to the Patrons.

Interesting Happenings From the Eastern Railway Town Personal News.

Havelock, April 6th.

To-night for the first time in the annals of the history of Havelock the town is lighted up by electricity. After nine months of hard and laborous work they have succeeded in lighting up the town. Although a number of people claimed that it was impossible to bring the power successfully over the eight miles of ground it is at last a reality, and Mr. O'Mallott and his men deserve great credit for the fine work on the line during the severe weather which they had to contend with during the long winter. The plant was installed by the Canadian General Electric Company, who has furnished one of the most up-to-date dynamos on the market. The lights have added greatly to the appearance of the town, and we hope that the time shall not be far distant when a number more of these lights shall be added to those already installed. It is thought that as soon as the new, big dynamo, which they intend to install as put in, the line will be extended right through to Norwood and give Norwood the all night system, which they are badly in need of and which the people would be glad to have.

The ball given under the auspices of the Havelock Lacrosse Club was a brilliant success. A number of persons from Peterborough, Campbellford and Norwood attended it. There were upwards of one hundred couples present. After all expenses have been paid the Club will net about $30, which will be used for the purchasing of uniforms for the team.

A very sad event was the sudden death of Mr. Joseph Trotchie, of town. Mr. Trotchie went down on his regular train Friday, the 22nd, and on his arrival there he took very sick with inflammatory rheumatism which affected the heart, causing death after three days' illness. He leaves a wife and two children to mourn his loss.

Dr. J. McLean, of Bancroft, arrived in town April 2nd to spend Easter.

Miss Sadie Paquette left for her home in Carleton last Friday evening after an extended visit at her cousin's, Mrs. Charles Powers of town.

Miss Johnston of Toronto, is the guest of Mrs. Barrett.

Miss Katie Smith of Norwood, is the guest of Miss Eva Lancaster, of town.

Mr. Flynn, of Sharbot Lake, went under a successful operation for appendicitis, and is doing remarkably well under the circumstances.

Mr. Hugh Cunningham of Deseronto, has accepted a position as brakeman on the C.P.R. here.

Mr. John Farmer, of Brownville, N.Y., is spending Easter in town, renewing old acquaintances.

Mr. Norman M. McLeod, of town, spent Easter with friends in Peterborough.

Mr. A. C. Donike of town, is the first to have his place of business lighted by electricity.

Miss Timmerman of Maberly, is the successor to Mr. Sam Cross, music teacher, who is now able to resume his duties as brakesman. Miss Timmerman is a competent young lady in this line, and we wish her every success in her undertaking.

A pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James McCracken by a number of their friends in honour of the anniversary of their wedding.

Miss Powell, after an extended visit at Mrs. Ben Haig's, has returned to her home in Smith's Falls.

A very enjoyable evening was spent at Mr. Firman Haig's by a number of friends and acquaintances on Good Friday evening.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at last one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer one hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

YOUNG'S POINT.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Mr. Jas. Reid had the misfortune to sustain two bad fractures in one of his legs about the ankle. The accident to Mr. Reid happened a few days ago while digging sand out of Mr. Walter Young's sandpit. A big pile of sand fell crushing his leg against another piece, causing the fracture. His many friends hope it will not be long before he is able to be around again.

Mr. A. Smith of Buckhorn is spending the Easter holidays with friends here.

On Easter Sunday the music in St. Mary's church here was especially fine. The choir had been long practicing and deserve great credit. The music was characterized by joyfulness in keeping with the commemoration of Easter. The principal solos were taken during the mass by the Misses Lottie and Maggie Kearney, who sang a duet at the offertory entitled, "As it was written," and Mrs. P. P. Young, a solo, "Christ has risen," which were deserving of special mention. After the mass a stirring march was played by Miss M. Kearney and Mr. McPherson, violin and organ.

Rev. Father Phelan preached a very effective sermon during the mass and the high respect and esteem in which the Rev. gentleman is held by his congregation, was amply shown on Easter morning, when the people presented him with a well filled purse.

Mrs. M. Godfrey received word last week of the death of her brother, Mr. William Young, of Chilly, Wisconsin, who died while undergoing an operation in Chicago. The deceased was also a brother of Mrs. Jas. Welsh of this place, and Mrs. John McDonald and Mr. Matthew Young of Peterborough.

A very quiet wedding took place on Tuesday evening of last week at the residence of Mr. Jos. Harvey, when his son Mr. J. Harvey, was united in marriage to Miss Ettie Coon, daughter of Mr. Ali Coon of Burleigh. Only a few invited relatives and friends were present.

Can Consumption be cured?

Science says "Yes." Science also says that Cod Liver Oil, Iron and Phosphorus are the remedies which must be used if a cure is to be effected.

McPherson & McGregor

(Successors to the F. R. J. McPherson Co.)

Take this opportunity of thanking the public for the very liberal patronage accorded the late firm. Trade has been so satisfactory that Mr McGrego decided to increase his interest in the business and, as a consequence, the firm will be know hereafter as McPHERSON & McGREGOR.

Our specialties are:—

Sanitary Plumbing
Sanitary Ventilating
Steam and Hot Water Heating
Electrical Wiring and Supplies

We wish to draw the attention of the public to a few of the many complimentary testimonials received by Mr. McGregor for the high quality of the work he has installed in Plumbing and Heating:—

From the Firm of Bennet & Wright, Plumbing, Heating and Electrical Contractors, Toronto.

This is to certify that Duncan McGregor has been in our employment steady for about fifteen years and during that time we have found him to be steady, honest and trustworthy. He has given every satisfaction as a practical mechanic in each of the following branches: Plumbing, steam and gas fitting, also electrical and conduit work, and for some time has had charge of some of our largest contracts with satisfactory results.

From Illsley & Horn, General Contractors, Toronto.

The bearer, Mr. Duncan McGregor, had charge of the electric wiring at the King Edward Hotel Building. The job was a large and complicated one and by the way Mr. McGregor handled the work he proved himself a mechanic of more than ordinary ability. We unhesitatingly recommend him as a first class mechanic to anyone needing his services.

From Mr. J. Ross Robertson, of the Evening Telegram.

Mr. Duncan McGregor, who has been connected with the Bennet & Wright Co. for some years, and who has superintended the work of plumbing and heating for the Bennet & Wright Co., is not only in my opinion, but also that of my architect, a fully competent mechanic. His work, my architect informs me, has been most satisfactory. Any thing that has come under my own supervision has been likewise satisfactory.

An Extract Taken from the June Number of Domestic Engineering.

During the recent convention of the Canadian Electrical Association held in the King Edward Hotel, a thorough examination was made of all the electrical work in the hotel, and it was pronounced second to none on the continent. Therefore, great credit is due Mr. Duncan MacGregor, who superintended the entire conduit, electrical and power system for the firm of Bennet & Wright, of this city, who were the contractors for all the different branches of the electrical work in the new hotel.

MANY TRAMPS AT HAVELOCK.

Are a Source of Annoyance to Travellers, who use G. P. R. Waiting Rooms.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Havelock, April 5th.—A number of tramps have been loitering around this vicinity for some time, making there head quarters at night in the C.P.R. waiting room, where they refuse to be put out. This is a very disagreeable thing for the passengers, especially the ladies, who are unable to rest in the waiting rooms owing to this nuisance. It is a matter for the authorities of the town to not take this up and give them short notice to leave town, under the penalty of being put in jail.

COUNTY ENGINEER IN PRACTICAL JOKE.

Mr. J. Belcher With Other Gentlemen had a Fruitless Trip.

The Lindsay Post has the following account of the perpetration of a practical joke on All Fool's Day:—

"It has leaked out that the visit of Warden Sam Ferguson, of Ida, Northumberland County, Mr. T. B. Carlow, County Councillor, and Mr. J. Belcher of Peterborough, County Engineer, to Marsh Creek bridge, last Friday, was the result of a gross practical joke played on them by some party unknown. Warden Ferguson received a telegram, ostensibly from Contractor Dickson, stating that two of the masonry piers were badly out of plumb, and the news was considered so serious that the hurried visit followed. If they ever discover the perpetrator of the joke, they may be summoned on a charge of assault and battery."

VERY PLEASANT MARCH WEDDING.

Nuptials of Mr. T. H. Roddy and Miss M. A. Clarke, Both of Cavan.

On Wednesday, March 30th, Mr. J. H. Roddy, of Cavan, and Miss Mary A. Clarke, of the same township, were married at 6.00 o'clock, at the parsonage, Fraserville, by Rev. N. D. Drew. The contracting parties were supported by Mr. Arthur Wood and Miss Ruby Pue. The bride was dressed in white organdie trimmed with chiffon and silk lace and the bridesmaid was similarly attired. The party at once proceeded to the future home of the happy couple, near Fraserville, recently purchased from Mr. J. J. Herron, where a large company received the young couple. Among the guests were Mrs. A. Willis, of Cobourg, aunt of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. McKnight and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Larmour, cousins of the bride, all of Millbrook.

THEY ACTUALLY DO THE WORK.

Food Eaten is Worthless Unless Digested—Some Stomachs Must Have Help.

Food taken into the stomach, which, from the nature of the food or the condition of the stomach, is not digested, is worse than no food at all. This is a true statement as far as it goes, and a great many dyspeptics go only this far with their reasoning. They argue with themselves that because their stomachs do not do the work given them, they must be given less work; in other words they must be starved. It would be just as sensible for a business man who is unable to do all his own work to cut down his business to his own capacity as it is for a man to starve himself to relieve his stomach. The sensible business man employs help and goes forward with his business. Likewise the sensible dyspeptic will employ help for his stomach and give his body proper nourishment.

Stuart's Dyspeptic Tablets actually do the work assigned to them. They relieve weak and overburdened stomachs of a great portion of digestive action. Their component parts are identical with those of the digestive fluids and secretions of the stomach and they simply take up the grind and carry on the work just the same as a good strong, healthy stomach would do it.

On this account Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are perfectly natural in their action and effects. They do not cause any unnatural or violent disturbance in the stomach or bowels. They themselves digest the food and supply the system with all the nourishment contained in what is eaten and carry out Nature's plans for the sustenance and maintenance of the body.

How much more sensible is this method than that employed by many sufferers from weak stomachs. By this means the body and brain get all the good nutritious food they need and the man is properly nourished and equipped to carry on his work and perform his duties. He could not possibly be in proper working condition by starving himself or employing some new fangled, insufficient food that does not contain enough nutriment for a year old baby. A strong man doing strong work must be properly fed, and this applies to the brain as well as the body.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, by relieving the stomach of its work, enable it to recuperate and regain its normal health and strength. Nature restores the worn and wasted tissues just as she heals and knits the bones of a broken limb, which is of course not used during the process of repair.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a box, and they are the one article that the druggist does not try to sell something in the place of that is "just as good." Their unqualified merit and success and the universal demand for them has placed them within the reach of every one.

Don't send a penny. Let me take the risk.

Let me tell you of a druggist near you who will give you six bottles of Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month on trial. Take it and see for yourself what it will do. Then decide.

No cost—not a penny—if you say, "I am no better." Don't leave it to the druggist—nor to me. We might be prejudiced.

You, you alone shall say the word, whether you pay $5.50 or nothing. The druggist can't complain. He is to bill the cost to me if you say so.

Try Dr. Shoop's Restorative at my risk. No a penny if it fail.

It's a two-cent stamp—or a postal—against six bottles of my Restorative—against $5.50, their cost. Don's you begin to believe the Restorative can do something unusual for the sick? I have found long ago, how certain it is, how seldom it fails.

I'll risk my reputation on it. And the cost of the medicine too. I know, and I want you to know. This is my way of gaining your interest. Others don't do it that way. It's pay anyway with them. Ask me for the book you need. Write me. Now—to-day.

THE G. T. P. CHANGES

Sir Wilfrid Fully Discusses the Railway Project.

EXPLAINED MODIFICATIONS.

Mr. Borden Proposes An Amendment Condemning the Plan of the Government—Says the Proposal Would Be Fatal to Any System of State-Owned Railways in the West.

Ottawa, April 6.—The ratification of the amended Grand Trunk Pacific agreement was moved yesterday by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and the House entered with spirit once more upon a discussion of the National Transcontinental Railway. The Premier's speech was of an hour's duration, and was remarkable for its statesmanlike grasp and concise presentation of the details of the changes in the agreement. Sir Wilfrid was in happy form, and though the subject was nearly exhausted last session, he threw the new interest into it which its importance warranted. He said there were many features of the transportation problem pressing for solution, but another transcontinental railway was of first importance at the present time. The eastern section, in his judgment, was just as much needed as the western division. He bantered the Opposition on their attitude to the "mountains of information," and said that if they would not come to the mountain, the mountain could not go to them. He added to the information on the northern regions by quoting from the story of a Jesuit explorer, as published in 1671 in the Jesuit Relations. This early voyageur reported very favorably on the soil of northern Quebec and the James Bay basin.

When the Opposition saw the narrow extent of the modifications asked for, Sir Wilfrid remarked, amid the cheers of his followers, they were surprised at the moderation of the Grand Trunk. He then explained in detail the changes made, and justified the action of the Government in yielding to some of the requests of the company. The Premier was listened to with intense interest by both sides of the House, and was frequently cheered by his followers.

The Opposition Leader.

Mr. R. L. Borden replied to Sir Wilfrid in a speech of three hours and forty minutes. He attacked the Government for having rejected the Opposition's amendment last fall, on the ground that the contract could not be altered, and then reopening it and not making the changes they had proposed. He gave a revised estimate of the cost to the country, placing the amount at $150,000,000, or $171,000,000 if the bonds sell at only 90. He denied that the Opposition were hostile to the G.T.R., but saw no use in granting public money without security that it would not be used to develop an American port. His dissatisfaction with the amended contract led him to move an amendment, in which he declared for a system of national transportation which would include:

(1) The immediate construction and control by the Dominion of such lines of railway in the west to the Pacific as the enormous importance and increasing development of the great western country require.

(2) The extension of the Intercolonial Railway to the Georgian Bay, and thence to Winnipeg, and the extension and improvement in the Province of Quebec and in the Maritime Provinces of the Governmental system.

(3) The development and improvement of our canals and inland waterways, and the thorough and efficient equipment of our national ports and terminals on the Atlantic and Pacific, as well as on the St. Lawrence and on the great lakes.

(4) The thorough examination, exploration and survey of the country between Quebec and Winnipeg with a view to the future construction of such lines of railway as may be found in the public interests.

RAILWAY TAXATION

More to Be Levied on a Sliding Instead of a Uniform Scale.

AID TO BEET SUGAR INDUSTRY

Supplementary Revenue Bill Provides That Railways in Organized Districts Will Pay $30 a Mile For Single Track, and in Unorganized Districts $30 Per Mile—New Principle in Taxation.

Toronto, April 6.—The Legislature quickly settled down to business yesterday after the holiday, for a great deal of business remains yet to be done. The whole day practically was spent in committee on the municipal taxation bill. The bill was reported for the purpose of having the innumerable amendments printed, but it was understood that it might then be reported back for further consideration.

More Railway Taxation.

The Premier introduced his bill for the taxation of railways, all of the proceeds of which are to go to the Crown. The chief clause is as follows: "Every railway company owning, operating or using a steam railway in this Province shall pay a tax of $30 per mile for one track, and $10 per mile for each additional track, when the line consists of two or more tracks, operated or used in any county in this Province, and $20 per mile for one track, and $5 per mile for each additional track so operated or used in unorganized territory, being the districts without county organization, except that a railway company owning and operating a steam railway not exceeding 100 miles in length from terminus, and not being leased to or amalgamated with or forming part of the system of any other company, shall pay a tax of $15 per mile for one track, and $5 per mile for each additional track." The bill further provides that the measurement of trackage shall not include switches, spurs or sidings.

Hon. Mr. Gibson introduced a bill respecting police magistrates, and one to amend the election law.

Beet Sugar Encouragement.

Mr. Ross introduced a bill to give further encouragement to the beet sugar industry. This has already been explained, being a continuance of the 1c. a pound duty for a further period of three years.

Third Readings.

The following bills were read a third time: To amend the Agricultural and Arts Act (Dryden); respecting the Lac Seul, Rat Portage & Keewatin Railway Company (Smith, Sault Ste. Marie); respecting the Township of Toronto and the Toronto & Mimco Railway Company (Smith, Peel); respecting the City of Toronto (Pyne); respecting the Nepigon Railway Company (Smith, Sault Ste. Marie); to amend the law respecting the destruction of noxious weeds (Cameron, Huron).

Protection of Witnesses.

The statute law amendment act, which received its second reading, contained a number of clauses, which Hon. Mr. Gibson said were of not much importance, but there was one section introduced at the instance of Toronto. This clause provided that in any investigation under section 321 of the municipal act no person shall be excused from answering any question on the ground that the answer may tend to criminate him, but yet the answer shall not be received as evidence against him in any trial under any Ontario act. Hon. Mr. Gibson, in reply to Mr. Crawford, explained that the clause did not interfere with any proceedings under the criminal code of the Dominion.

Mr. Whitney declared himself opposed to any such legislation, on the ground that it tended to encourage perjury.

In committee on the bill to amend the game protection act by prohibiting the use of guns in the Temagami forest reserve during the close season for deer, Mr. Matheson said that he had been told that the Italians on the Temiskaming Railway had cleaned up all the game there. Hon. Mr. Gibson laughingly replied: "That is just what I would expect. There is no close season for the Italians."

Attorney-General Gibson's municipal amendment act contains a clause making controllers liable to the same proceedings as the mayor or aldermen of a municipality. It is retroactive in its effect, and will validate the quo warranto proceedings instituted against controllers of the city of Toronto.

Municipal Taxation.

A new principle of taxation was suggested by Hon. Mr. Gibson in committee on the bill respecting municipal taxation. It had been suggested to him that there was a ground rent, an unearned increment, which there was no reason to exempt, even though the land itself was taxed. Messrs. Whitney, Foy, Beck and Crawford were opposed to it, and Mr. Hoyle supported it. The Attorney-General remarked that he had suggested it in order to elicit a discussion, and would drop it for the present, though the principle might be heard from in the future.

The Municipal Taxation Bill was further discussed, and the committee rose at 10.45 o'clock.

Mr. Graham's Bill Killed.

The special committee to which was referred G. P. Graham's bill to appoint a board of examiners to issue certificates to duly qualified stationary engineers met yesterday and after a full discussion threw out the bill. The main objection was the clause providing that a person having less than four years experience as a stationary engineer may not be granted a certificate.

THE OLD FOLKS AT HOME

Are Never Without Peruna in the House for Catarrhal Diseases.

MR. AND MRS. J. O. ATKINSON, INDEPENDENCE, MO.

UNDER date of January 10, 1897, Dr. Hartman received the following letter:

"My wife had been suffering from a complication of diseases for the past 25 years.

"Her case had baffled the skill of some of the most noted physicians. One of her worst troubles was chronic constipation of several years' standing.

"She also was passing through that most critical period in the life of a woman—change of life. In June, 1895, I wrote to you about her case. You advised a course of Peruna and Manalin, which we at once commenced, and have to say it completely cured her. She firmly believes that she would have been dead only for these wonderful remedies.

"About the same time I wrote you about my own case of catarrh, which had been of 25 years' standing. At times I was almost past going. I commenced to use Peruna according to your instructions and continued its use for about a year, and it has completely cured me.

"Your remedies do all that you claim for them, and even more. Catarrh cannot exist where Peruna is taken according to directions. Success to you and your remedies."

John O. Atkinson.

In a letter dated January 1, 1900, Mr. Atkinson says, after five years' experience with Peruna:

"I will ever continue to speak a good word for Peruna. In my rounds as a traveling man I am a walking advertisement for Peruna and have induced many people during the past year to use Peruna with the most satisfactory results. I am still cured of catarrh."

John O. Atkinson,
Box 272, Independence, Mo.

When old age comes on, catarrhal diseases come also. Systemic catarrh is almost universal in old people.

This explains why Peruna has become so indispensable to old people. Peruna is their safe-guard. Peruna is the only remedy yet devised that meets these cases exactly.

Such cases cannot be treated locally; nothing but an effective systemic remedy could cure them. This is exactly what Peruna is.

If you do not receive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

Miss Muriel Foster has, so far as New York is concerned, "Come, seen and conquered." In Carnegie Hall, a few evenings since, the gifted soloist who is to appear in concert in Peterborough on April 14th, scored, according to the New York press, the triumph of the Metropolitan musical season. Of Miss Foster, the New York Tribune, of March 25th, says: "Miss Muriel Foster, the English contralto, whose first hearing in New York was deferred by illness till last night, achieved an astonishing vivification of the music allotted to the representative of Mary Magdalene. In Miss Foster the public made the acquaintance of an artist of striking gifts and graces. Nature has endowed her with prodigal generosity. Hers is an opulent voice in both quantity and quality, and it is full of emotion and fervour. It is a pity that she came to us so late in the season."

"PEOPLE I HAVE MET," BY PROF. CLARKE.

Interesting Lecture in the Y. M.C.A. Hall

For the Purpose of Refurnishing the T.C.S., Chapel, Port Hope—A Large Audience was Present.

The fact of the knowledge of the hitherto marked success of Professor Clarke's lecture, entitled, "People I have met," was the cause for the large hall in the Y.M.C.A. building being crowded to the doors to such an extent that seats had to be provided in the adjacent room at the back of the hall. And the lecture given last night was a perfect treat in every sense of the word. It was a bright talk on which Prof. Clarke continuously introduced delightful anecdotes of men he had met; "the men of the age" of the past fifty or sixty years. In every way it was an address inconceivably different from the conventional lecture. Prof. Clarke has a peculiarly friendly manner of speaking, even when addressing so large an audience as was present last night and anyone who was there can warrantably say that the speaker held their fast attention through every short second and even when he apologized for having overreached his time limit, the audience like Oliver Twist, "asked for more," although they did it with their hands rather than their mouths.

The chair was occupied by Dean Oswald Rigby, head master of Trinity College School, Port Hope, who in his introductory remarks explained the reason of his presence. He had not taken the chair on his own initiative but had been put there by a lady, "and," said Dean Rigby, "when a lady commands, I obey." He continued by expressing his pleasure at meeting so large an audience especially when the object of the lecture was the refurnishing of the chapel of Trinity College School, Port Hope, of which he was the head master. He was, secondly, pleased at presiding because Prof. Clarke was announced to speak. Dean Rigby then called upon Miss Davies to sing, and explained that Mrs. K. Eardley-Wilmot would not be able to sing. The announcement was received with disappointment, as Mrs. Eardley-Wilmot is seldom heard, and then always with pleasure. Miss Davies sang, "The Lord is My Lord," for which selection she was encored. She replied with a more airy piece, "The Swallows."

On rising Prof. Clarke said that he also was present at the command of a lady, and, moreover, one whose command could not be refused. He introduced himself as a Scotchman from Aberdeen. One day he related while going out for a sail with one of his acquaintances in early boyhood, they were met by a workingman, who predicted that they would be drowned. "Ah!" returned his companion, "but it will only be the first time!" He told an amusing story of "tit for tat," in which the well known Professor Blackie, whom the lecturer knew personally, was prominently connected. One day, for some reason, Prof. Blackie was unable to deliver his college lectures, and he wrote on the black board, "Prof. Blackie will be unable to meet his classes to-day." A mischievious undergraduate rubbed out the "c" of the word classes, leaving it "lasses." The professor passing through, saw the joke, but was equal to the occasion by rubbing out the "l," which he left — "Professor Blackie will be unable to meet his asses to-day." A gentleman thinking it would be a benefit for his son to personally visit some of the greatest men of the day, took him to Herbert Spencer and Thomas Carlyle. They visited the former first, and when about to take leave the gentleman stated the cause of his visit, and incidentally remarked that the other great man he wished his son to meet was Thomas Carlyle. "Ah!" said Spencer, "Carlyle's done more to retard the progress of scientific investigation than any man alive." To Carlyle the gentleman out of curiosity as to what he would reply, said that they had just visited the celebrated Herbert Spencer. Carlyle said, "Spencer is an unutterable ass,"—and so on. In books and magazines one has learned, or can learn, the serious nature of the men whom Prof. Clarke brought face to face with the audience. But he with an ability and with a fluency for which he is noted showed the playful side of the lives of these well known men.

At the conclusion of the lecture, Rev. J. C. Davidson moved a vote of thanks to Prof. Clarke, which was heartily endorsed by the audience.

Old Town Hall and One Eighth Acre of Land Sold for $720.

The sale of the old building was by auction, Mr. Edward Corkery, the reeve, acting as auctioneer, with credit to himself. The price obtained for the building and one-eighth acre of ground, which was sold to Mr. John Flood, was $720, and in view of the fact that the building was of very little value, the price of Ennismore land is seen to be very valuable, being at the rate of $5,760 per acre. Mr. Flood will remodel the building and use it for a butter factory.

SAD DECEASE OF MR. J. H. CAVANAH.

Father of two Peterborough Residents Died in Lethbridge Alberta.

Further information with regard to the death of Mr. J. H. Cavanah, of Lethbridge, N.W.T., announced in yesterday's issue of the Examiner, has been received. Mr. Cavanah recently visited Winnipeg as a representative to the Grand Lodge of the A.O.U.W., of which Order the deceased was an enthusiastic member, and while there consulted a physician on a pain which sometimes gave him trouble. He was advised to undergo an operation, and, consequently on his return to Lethbridge he immediately went to the Galt Hospital there, where the operation was performed on Saturday. Friends of the deceased here received a telegraph message that the operation had been performed and that Mr. Cavanah's condition was very serious. This was followed yesterday by the news of his death.

The deceased was about 45 years of age at the time of his death, and was one of the pioneer settlers in the town in which his death occurred. He was there before Lethbridge was a town, and for a number of years conducted a general store. Later he was offered, and accepted the position of manager of the Hudson Bay Company's store in that town, which is one of the most important posts of the Company. He still held this position at the time of his death, and was one of the most popular men in that part of the West. He was a devoted member of the English church and a prominent Mason.

He leaves to mourn his loss a wife and six children, two of whom are at present living in Peterborough, and well known. Miss Mona, who lives with her aunt, Mrs. W. J. Green, and Mr. Will Cavanah, of the American Cereal Company. Mrs. Green is a sister of Mrs. Cavanah.

Mr. Will Cavanah left for Lethbridge this morning, and he will probably bring the remaining members of the family to Peterborough.

The deep sympathy of their many friends in Peterborough are extended to the bereaved ones.

BROKE INTO THE NEW CANAL DREDGE.

Police on Look out for Wrong Doers in the Case.

On frequent occasions during the winter the new dredge on the Trent Canal, below the Lift Lock, has been broken into as has also the storehouse nearby. Nothing, as far as can be ascertained has ever been stolen, but the miscreants have done sufficient damage to be a nuisance. The affair has been reported to the police, and there'll be trouble in store for the wrong doers if it occurs again.

THE FLUENT FLOW OF CHOICE LANGUAGE.

Two Cases at this Morning's Police Court.

Mary Lancaster and Ida Robinson had a little difference on Bethune street the other day, and now Mary Lancaster has a difference in her purse of $10. The case was voiced in Court this morning and the personal language which was repeated was such that could not be found in any dictionary, English or Foreign. Everybody seemed shocked except the two women concerned, who were very matter-of-fact in repeating the expressions of the other.

A young boy who pleaded not guilty on Monday of stealing a pair of boots from Mr. Douglas' store on George street, and was remanded, reconsidered the matter and suddenly discovered that he was the guilty one. Owing to the boy's youth Magistrate Dumble discharged him on suspended sentence.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN PETERBOROUGH.

Season of 1904 will be One of the Busiest in the Town's History.

A Large Number of Residences and Business Places Being Erected—Plenty of Work for all Building Mechanics.

"Peterborough will, in 1904, see the greatest building boom in its history," is the prediction of a prominent local gentleman, and the facts seem to warrant such a statement. Already ground has been broken and building operations commenced in a large number of large building contracts, both for industrial establishments and residences. All the carpenters and masons in the town who want work will be given employment this season and even then it is believed that there may not be sufficient help, perhaps, to complete all the buildings the erection of which is contemplated or commenced. Notwithstanding the comparatively high prices of building material, the demand for houses is so great that there will be a great many new buildings erected.

The outskirts of the town are being rapidly build up, and the population is stretching out to the west and south in a remarkable manner.

One of the best indications of the prosperity of Peterborough, and its steady progress, is the fact that building operations are very active, and, not only are a large number of new buildings being erected, but there is a demand for more houses than can be supplied. Though the optimistic view expressed in the heading of this article, may not be entirely warranted, yet as the view of a leading contractor, it is entitled to respect. In any event, however, it is pretty certain that building operations will be unusually active this year.

What on the surface tends to substantiate the statement that there is more building under progress this spring in Peterborough than has ever been in the history of Peterborough, is for one to take a walk through the town.

The great majority of new buildings of course are residences, and it is a noticeable feature that nearly all of those are being constructed with more than ordinary regard to the quality of its structure, while beauty of design is also being incorporated into their construction.

One of the largest buildings to be erected this season will be the new addition to the Matthews' Company's packing house. The addition will almost equal in size that of the present building, and the whole establishment when completed, will be one of the largest of its kind in the country. Other industrial concerns will build additions, and some new factories will be erected during the summer.

Peterborough is rapidly extending its borders, and, particularly in the west and south outskirts of the town, large numbers of new residences are being built to accommodate the increasing number of artizans who are making their homes in Peterborough.

Even with the many new houses now being built in Peterborough, there is yet, and will be after all those now under way are completed, a great scarcity of houses. The most serious problem affecting the local manufacturers in extending their business is that of procuring employees, because of the fact that men desiring to move their families to the town find great difficulty in getting house accommodation, and as a result there are hundreds of men now working in Peterborough, with families living in other towns, because of the fact that they cannot find suitable houses near their place of employment. Local manufacturers pay better wages than those in similar lines in other towns, and as a consequence mechanics prefer to work here to other towns, but they are seriously inconvenienced by the scarcity of houses.

It is quite probable that even with the great demand that there is for houses, there will not be as many built as will be required, because of the fact that it is impossible to secure carpenters. A prominent contractor said to the Examiner recently that at least 150 or 200 more men could be given employment in building operations than will be available.

When seen by the Examiner the local contractors stated that a busy summer was expected and the general opinion was that from fourty to fifty private residences would be erected in Peterborough this year. The building was being done in every quarter of the town, but especially in the north and south. Asked as to building expense, the reply given was that building was 35 per cent. more expensive this year than it was three years ago. In many instances material is double the cost. This is especially the case in lumber, while brick is now 50 per cent. higher. At the present time, it was learned, there is a scarcity of brick in town and it is not expected that any more can be got until the end of May. On the whole the opinions of the contractors regarding new dwelling houses were quite optimistic. It is at present rather early for building in Peterborough, and better knowledge in this regard can be obtained in the course of a month.

THE LAST SOCIAL ON FRIDAY NIGHT.

To be Given Jointly by Girls' and Men's Guild of St. John's.

A joint social will be held in St. John's Sunday School Room by the Girls' Guild and the Young Men's guild on Friday evening next. The arrangements have been well made and an excellent programme has been arranged. It is also understood that Mr. Halpany's orchestra has been engaged. As this will probably be the last social of the year it is hoped that there will be a large attendance of the young people of the congregation.

PRETTY WEDDING IN PORT PERRY.

Mr. J. H. Scobell Married to Miss Lila Blackstock Meharry.

The Church of Ascension, Port Perry, was the scene of a very interesting social event on Thursday, March 31st, when the wedding of Miss Lila Blackstock Meharry, eldest daughter of Mr. J. Wesley Meharry, to Mr. Jas. Hutcheson Scobell, of Peterborough, was celebrated, the officiating clergyman being Rev. Geo. Scott, B. A.

The church was beautifully decorated with palms, lilies and carnations and at the entrance to the chancel hung a large floral bell. At 2.30 o'clock to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Mr. D. A. Chapman, A. T. C. M., the bridal party proceeded to the chancel. The dainty bride was charmingly attired in white silk brocaded crepe de Paris over white taffeta, the whole gown being elaborately trimmed with silk duchess lace. The customary veil and orange blossoms were worn. The bridesmaid, Miss Ethel Scobell, Bowmanville, sister of the groom, was becomingly gowned in white silk crepe de chene over taffeta, with trimmings of accordian plaiting and touches of blue velvet. The maid of honour, Miss Edna Ferguson, Stratford, cousin of the bride, looked pretty in white French organdie, inserted with Valenciennes lace. Both maids wore large white chiffon picture hats, with white plumes. Miss Kathleen Meharry, sister of the bride, wore a green coliomne with insertions of ecru lace and carried the wedding ring on a silver tray. The groom was supported by Mr. W. McAlpin, of Montreal. H. B. Clunes, Lindsay, and L. H. Allison, Port Perry, acted as ushers.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, "Fairview Cottage," which was tastefully decorated with carnations, tulips and smilax. The colour scheme carried out was pink and white. The groom's gift to the bride was a gold chain and pendant, with his family crest embossed in pearls and rubies. To the bridesmaid a pearl and olivienne ring was given, and the maid of honour received a pearl crescent and Miss Kathleen a ruby and pearl ring. The bride's going away gown was navy blue, with blouse of white liberty satin and violet toque.

Mr. and Mrs. Scobell will reside at the Oriental Hotel, Peterborough, for the present.

WESTERN RANCHERS SUFFER LOSSES.

The Severe Winter Has Resulted in Loss of Live Stock.

A letter received in Peterborough recently from the North-west Territories gives the information that the ranchers in that part of the country have suffered severely from the hard winter, and that a large quantity of live stock will perish unless spring comes very soon. The last storm experienced was very severe, and it is feared that many of the smaller ranchers will lose heavily.

LADY'S DEMAND FOR JUSTICE

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I have seen it stated that the Peterborough Central Fair Association has $600 to the good this year. This is good news and especially to many lady exhibitors, who, like myself, have not been paid the prizes won in the years 1900 and 1900. And I would suggest that, if the managers want to secure the help and co-operation of the ladies, they must keep faith. Breach of promise is no more popular with the ladies in the matter of prize winning than in the matter of husbands. A good name is better than riches and I would suggest that the managers would get a good name for their exhibition by paying unpaid prizes. Part of the surplus of this year might well and profitably be used for this purpose. From my point of view, it would be a wise investment.

However, if the managers cannot bring themselves to do this obviously fair thing, they might at least present ladies and others who have not received back prize money with a free ticket of membership. It should be remembered that the prizes won by the ladies represent hard personal work. The cow or the bushel of grain the man gets a prize on was growing while the farmer slept. On the other hand, the farmer's wife was working hard on the fancy quilt or needle work on which she may have taken a prize, while the farmer slept. Therefore it is doubly hard for a lady to be deprived of the prize money she has so hardly earned.

Hoping that the directors will take a liberal view of my request, I remain

Yours truly,
EXPECTANT EXHIBITOR

Peterborough, April 6th, 1904.

SPECTATOR'S COMPLAINT.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

I would like, through the columns of your paper to call the attention of the C.P.R. authorities to a state of affairs which exists, and which frequently causes considerable annoyance to persons having occasion to drive across the company's tracks at the Hunter street bridge.

A few days ago a gentleman was returning to town from across the river with a spirited horse, and at the tracks near the bridge an engine was standing with steam up, across the sidewalk on one side of the street, while on the other side a car was standing, also blocking the pedestrians' travel, unless one went into the street where a very narrow passage was left. The gentleman referred to was driving a horse which was frightened of a locomotive, and as a consequence, he was obliged to wait nearly half an hour before he was able to cross the tracks and proceed on his way. There was no apparent reason why the engine should not have backed up a short distance to allow the horse and buggy to pass.

I am informed that this same thing occurs frequently and think that some action should be taken in this matter.

Yours truly,
A SPECTATOR.

A BREAK FOR FREEDOM.

Defying the London Police, "Texas" Burdell, Burglar and Companion of Steve Doyle, Again at Liberty.

London, April 6.—The desperado, Harry Burdell, alias "Texas," the companion of Steve Doyle, the burglar killed by the local police several weeks ago, made a daring escape from jail yesterday morning. In spite of the frantic search conducted by the authorities the burglar is still at liberty. As he is known to have friends in this section fear is expressed that his capture will not be effected except at the cost of the life of some of the officers. Burdell is a "bad" man, a "gun fighter" like his "pal," who faced the police with two revolvers and prepared to do battle before he was shot.

The escape of the prisoner is another of the many astonishing evidences of the resourcefulness of the young crooks who menace this section of Canada, which have been exhibited lately to the chagrin of the authorities. He was to have been tried at the Assizes now opening for burglary, and was suspected of having, together with Doyle, shot and murdered the Hamilton policeman, who met death so mysteriously recently. Therefore the incentive for the desperate escape was strong as a long sentence was inevitable.

Once before, since his latest incarceration, the daring burglar came within an ace of making his escape. He got out by snatching the keys from Turnkey Poole, and, notwithstanding a long chase by the police, he is still at liberty.

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP.

Chicago Votes For the City to Own Street Railways.

Chicago, April 6.—In the municipal election yesterday the Republicans elected 18 aldermen, the Democrats 16, and one independent Republican. The last Council was composed of 36 Republicans, 32 Democrats, one Independent Democrat and one Socialist. The next Council will have 36 Republicans, 31 Democrats, two Independents, one of whom is a Democrat and the other a Republican, and one Socialist.

The chief interest in the election centred in the vote on the proposed municipal ownership of the street railways. By a vote of 152,431 to 30,401 the city voted to accept the Mueller Act, providing that cities construct, own, operate and lease street railways.

On a proposition that the city should at once take over the street railways into its control, the vote stood 120,711 for and 50,893 against.

For the temporary licensing of street railways until such time as the city is prepared to take them over the vote was 120,481 for, and 18,056 against. It was also voted to choose members of the Board of Education by direct vote.

Engine and Car Collide.

London, April 5.—Fire broke out last evening at the residence of F. E. Lonard, corner Queen's avenue and Adelaide street, here. The brigade was called and the blaze quickly extinguished, with damage small, covered by insurance. As the London South brigade was hurrying to the scene of this fire, they met with a sensational occurrence. The team came tearing down king street, and at the same time a belt line street car approached from the north on Richmond street. The team and the car came together at full speed. The driver of the wagon was thrown to the ground and sustained light injuries. One horse was badly cut and bruised about the chest and legs, while the front of the car was badly damaged.

Whitby, April 5.—While out for exercise in the jail yard yesterday afternoon Norman York, a prisoner, under sentence for horse stealing, made his escape, getting over the 20 feet brick wall by placing a step ladder on a snow pile several feet high. Jailer Davey and High Constable Calvert started in pursuit. Eventually they cornered him in Farmer Vanston's barns on the base line, where he was captured, having hidden under a seed drill.

THE MISSION TO THIBET.

A Chinese General From Lhassa Asks That It Be Withdrawn.

Guru, Thibet, April 5.—The British mission to Thibet, accompanied by Col. Macdonald's flying column, arrived here yesterday afternoon. A Chinese general from Lhassa visited Col. Younghusband and requested that the mission withdraw.

Lost Hand at Guru.

London, April 5.—Mr. Candler, The Daily Mail correspondent wounded in the fighting between the British and the Thibetans at Guru, Thibet, March 31, and whose left hand has been amputated, thus describes the attack on him: "I was watching the Thibetans being disarmed when I was attacked by a swordsman. This was before a shot had been fired. The onslaught was too sudden for me to draw my revolver. I caught the Thibetan around the knees and threw him, but I was myself dragged down, and in trying to rise was cut down by several swordsmen. These were were eventually shot."

A Sudden Stroke Of Paralysis.

Only Results After Months or Years of Nervous Exhaustion There are Always Symptoms to Give Timely Warning.

It is a great mistake to imagine that persons of robust health and good vitality are suddenly seized with paralysis.

All nervous diseases are slow in coming on, and for this reason the victim often does not realize his danger until overtaken by prostration or paralysis.

Loss of interest in life, sleeplessness, irritability, failure of memory, inability to concentrate the mind, muscular weakness, indigestion, headache, twitching of the nerves, feelings of depression and despondency are among the symptoms which tell of an exhausted nervous system and the approach of paralysis.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food stops the wasting process by which the nerve cells are being destroyed, and by forming new rich blood, and creating new nerve force positively and permanently restores the nervous system.

There is no other way in this world by which nervous exhaustion can be overcome and prostration and paralysis prevented.

Stimulants and narcotics merely hasten collapse. Restorative treatment is necessary.

The process of reconstruction is necessarily gradual, but you can be absolutely certain that every dose of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is doing you lasting good.

It is your duty to study your symptoms and prevent the dreadful results of neglected nervous diseases.

Mrs. M. A. Sharp, 316 Dublin street, Peterborough, Ont., states: — "For some years I was troubled with indigestion which developed into nervous dyspepsia and besides suffering from nervousness, strange dizzy spells would come over me. Hearing of the good results obtained from Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I decided to try it. After a pretty thorough test of this medicine I can say that I never used anything that did me so much good. It seemed to be the very treatment that I needed and as a result of the use I am quite restored to health."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Company, Toronto. To protect you against imitations, the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author are on every box. 12

Purified by Suffering

BY MARY J. HOLMES.

That night Doris came up, stopping suddenly as a loud baby laugh reached him, even across the orchard, and leaning for a moment against the wall, while he tried to prepare himself for the shock it would be to see Katy's child, and hold it in his arms, as he knew he must, or the mother be aggrieved.

He had supposed it was pretty, but he was not prepared for the beautiful little cherub, which in its short white dress, with its soft curls of golden brown clustering about its head, stood holding to a chair, pushing it occasionally, and venturing now and then to take a step, while its infantile laugh mingled with the screams of its delighted auditors, watching it with so much interest.

"Oh, Morris," Katy cried, "Baby can almost walk. Marian has taken so much pains, and she can say 'papa.' Isn't she a beauty?"

Baby had turned her head by this time, her ear caught by the whistle and her eye arrested by something in Morris which fascinated her gaze. Perhaps she thought of Wilford, of whom she had been very fond, for she pushed her chair towards him and then held up her fat arms for him to take her.

Never was mother prouder than Katy during the first few days succeeding baby's arrival, while the family seemed to tread on air, so swiftly the time went by with that active little life in their midst, stirring them up so constantly, putting to rout all their rules of order and keeping their house in a state of delightful confusion. It was wonderful how rapidly the child improved with so many teachers, learning to lisp its mother's name and taught by her, attempting to say "Doctor." From the very first the child took to Morris, crying after him whenever he went away, and hailing his arrival with a crow of joy and an eager attempt to reach him.

"It was altogether too forward for this world." Aunt Betsy often said, shaking her head ominously, but not really meaning what she predicted, even when for a few days it did not seem as bright as usual, but lay quietly in Katy's lap. A blue look about the mouth and a flush upon his cheeks, which neither Morris nor Marian liked.

More accustomed to children than the other members of the family, they both watched it closely, Morris coming over twice one day, and the last time he came over regarding Katy with a look as if he would fain ward off from her some evil which he feared.

"What is it, Morris?" she asked. "Is baby going to be very sick?" and a great crushing fear came upon her as she waited for his answer.

"I hope not," he said; "I cannot tell as yet; the symptoms are like cholera infantum, of which I have several cases, but if taken in time, I apprehend no danger."

There was a low shriek and baby opened its heavy lids and moaned, while Helen came at once to Katy, who was holding her hand upon her heart as if the pain had entered there. To Marian it was no news, for ever since the early morning, she had suspected the nature of the disease stealing over the little child. All night the light burned in the farm-house, where there were anxious, troubled faces, Katy bending constantly over her darling, and even amid her terrible anxiety, dreading Wilford's displeasure when he should hear what she had done and its possible result. She did not believe as yet that the child would die; but she suffered acutely, watching for the early dawn when Morris had said he would be there, and when at last he came, begging of him to leave his other patients and care only for baby.

"Would that be right?" Morris asked, and Katy blushed for her selfishness when she heard how many were sick and dying around them. "I will spend every leisure moment here," he said, leaving his directions with Marian, and then hurrying away without a word of hope for the child, which grew worse so fast that when the night shut down it lay upon a pillow, its blue eyes closed and its head thrown back, while its sad moanings could only be hushed by carrying it in one's arms about the room, a task which Katy could not do.

She tried it at first, refusing all their offers with the reply, "Baby is mine, and shall I not carry her?"

But the feeble strength gave out, the limbs began to totter, and staggering backward, she cried: "Somebody must take her."

It was Marian who went forward, Marian, whose face was a puzzle as she took the infant in her strong arms, her stony eyes, which had not wept as yet, fastening themselves upon the face of Wilford Cameron's child with a look which seemed to say: "Retribution, retribution."

But only when she remembered the father, now so proud of his daughter, was that word in her heart. She could not harbor it when she glanced at the mother, and her lips moved in earnest prayer that if possible, God would not leave her so desolate. An hour later and Morris came, relieving Marian of her burden, which he carried in his own arms, while he strove to comfort Katy who, crouching by the empty crib, was sitting motionless in a kind of dumb despair, all hope crushed out by the answer to her entreaties that he would tell her the truth and keep nothing back.

"I think your baby will die," he said to her very gently, pausing a moment in awe of the white face, whose expression terrified him, it was so full of agony.

Bowing her head upon her hands, poor Katy whispered sadly: "God must not take my baby. Oh, Morris, pray that he will not. He will hear and answer you. I have been so bad I cannot pray. I am not going to be bad again. If he will let me keep my darling I will begin a new life. I will try to serve him. Dear Lord, hear and answer, and not let baby die."

She was praying herself, now, and Morris's broad chest heaved as he glanced at her kneeling figure, and then at the death-like face upon the pillow, with the pinched look about the nose and lips, which to his practiced eye was a harbinger of death.

"It's father should be here," he thought, and when Katy lifted up her head again he asked if she was sure her husband had not yet returned from Minnesota.

"Yes, sure—that is, I think he has not," was Katy's answer, a child creeping over her at the thought of meeting Wilford, and giving him his daughter dead.

"I shall telegraph in the morning at all events," Morris continued, "and if he is not in New York, it will be forwarded."

"Yes, that will be best," was the reply, spoken so mournfully that Morris stopped in front of Katy and tried to reason with her.

But Katy would not listen and only answered that he did not know, he could not feel, he never had been tried.

"Perhaps not," Morris said, "but Heaven is my witness, Katy, that if I could save you this pain by giving up my life for baby's, I would do so willingly; but God does not give us our choice. He knows what is best, and baby is better with Him than us."

For a moment Katy was silent; then, as a new idea took possession of her mind, she sprung to Morris's side, and seizing his arm demanded, "Can an unbaptized child be saved?"

"We nowhere read that baptism is a saving ordinance," was Morris's answer, while Katy continued, "but do you believe they will be saved?"

"Yes, I do," was the decided response, which, however, did not ease Katy's mind, and she moaned on: "A child of heathen parents may, but I knew better. I knew it was my duty to give the child to God, and for a foolish fancy withheld the gift until it is too late, and God will take it without the mark upon its forehead, the water on its brow. Oh, baby, baby, if she should be lost—no name, no mark, no baptismal sign."

"Not water, but the blood of Jesus cleanseth from all sin," Morris said, "and as sure as he died so sure this little one is safe. Besides, there may be time for the baptism yet—that is, to-morrow. Baby will not die to-night, and if you like, it still shall have a name."

Eagerly Katy seized upon that idea, thinking more of the sign, the water, than the name, which scarcely occupied her thoughts at all. It did not matter what the child was called, so that it became one of the little ones in glory, and with a calmer, quieter demeanor than she had shown that day, she saw Morris depart at a late hour, and then turning to the child which Uncle Ephraim was holding, kissed it lovingly, whispering as she did so: "Baby shall be baptized—baby shall have the sign."

CHAPTER XXX.

Morris had telegraphed to New York, receiving in reply, that Wilford was hourly expected home, and would at once hasten on to Silverton. The clergyman, Mr. Kelly, had also been seen, but owing to a funeral which would take him out of town, he could not be at the farm-house until five in the afternoon when if the child still lived, he would be glad to officiate as requested. All this Morris communicated to Katy, who listened in a kind of stupor, gasping for breath, when she heard that Wilford would soon be there, and moaning "that will be too late," when told that the baptism could not take place till night. Then kneeling by the crib where the child was lying, she fastened her great, sad blue eyes upon the pallid face with an earnestness as if thus she would hold till nightfall, the life flickering so faintly and seeming so nearly finished. The wailings had ceased, and they no longer carried it in their arms, but had placed it in its crib, where it lay perfectly still, save as its eyes occasionally unclosed and turned wistfully towards the cups, where it knew was something which quenched its raging thirst. Once indeed, as the hours crept on to noon and Katy bent over it so that her curls swept its face, it seemed to know her, and the little wasted hand was uplifted and rested on her cheek with the same caressing motion it had been wont to use in health. Then hope whispered that it might live, and with a great cry of joy Katy sobbed, "She knows me, Morris—mother, see; she knows me. Maybe she will live!"

But the dull stupor which succeeded swept all hope away, and again Katy resumed her post, watching first her dying child, and then the long hands of the clock which crept on so slowly, pointing to only two when she thought it must be five. Would that hour never come, or coming, would it find baby there? It was striking five, and with each stroke the dying baby moaned, while Katy strained her ear to catch the sound of horses' hoofs hurrying up the road. The clergyman had come and the inmates of the house gathered round in silence, while he made ready to receive the child into Christ's flock.

Mrs. Lennox had questioned Helen about the name, and Helen had answered, "Katy knows, I presume. It does not matter," but no one had spoken directly to Katy, who had scarcely given it a thought, caring more for the rite she had deferred so long.

"He must hasten," she said to Morris, her eyes fixed upon the panting child she had lifted to her own lap, and thus adjured the clergyman failed to make the usual inquiry concerning the name he was to give.

Calm and white as a marble statute, Marian Hazelton glided to the back of Katy's chair, and pressing both her hands upon it, leaned over Katy so that her eyes, too, were fixed upon the little face, from which they never turned but once, and that when the clergyman's voice was heard asking for a name. There was an instant's silence and Katy's lips began to move, when one of Marian's hands was laid upon her head, while the other took in its own the limp white baby fingers and Marian's voice was very steady in its tone as it said, "Genevra."

"Yes Genevra," Katy whispered, and the solemn words were heard, "Genevra, I baptize thee in the name of the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost."

Softly the baptismal waters fell upon the pale forehead, and at their touch the little Genevra's eyes unclosed, the waxen fingers withdrew themselves from Marian's grasp, and again sought the mother's cheek, resting there for an instant, while a smile broke around the baby's lips, which tried to say "Mam-ma." Then the hand fell back, down upon Marian's the soft eyes closed, the limbs grew rigid, the shadow of death grew deeper, and while the prayer was said, and Marian's tears fell with Katy's upon the brow where the baptismal waters were not dried, the angel came, and when the prayer was ended, Morris, who knew what the rest did not, took the lifeless form from Katy's lap, and whispered to her gently, "Katy, your baby is dead!"

Many a child has been fooled by the story of the pot of gold which is to be found just at the foot of the rainbow, and has started out to gather riches full of happy dreams.

Many a man and woman have been deceived by the tale that there was health to be found out beyond the sunset, and they have started out dreaming of a healthful future, never to be realized.

People who have tried change of climate in vain for the cure of weak lungs have been perfectly and permanently cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures deep-seated coughs, bronchitis, bleeding lungs, emaciation, and other conditions which, if neglected or unskilfully treated, find a fatal end in consumption.

"Last spring I had a severe attack of pneumonia which left me with a very bad cough, and also left my lungs in a very bad condition," writes John M. Russell, Esq., of Brent, Cherokee Nat., Ind. Ty. "I had no appetite and was so weak I could scarcely walk. My breast was all sore with running sores. I got two bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which I believe saved my life. I cannot express my gratitude to you. I am able now to do very good work."

Any substitute offered as "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery" is a shadow of that medicine. There are cures behind every claim made for the "Discovery," which no "just as good" medicine can show.

The boys are visiting a number of the larger associations in Ontario and Quebec, and at each place holding conferences on boys' work, and thus making a practical study of the same. They also play a game of basketball with boy teams where such can be arranged.

The following are the names of the boys with those who are entertaining them while here:—R. Spry with Herb Johnston, H. Willis with Stanley Madill, H. O. Eamans with G. H. Williamson, Wright and Brown with Ray Scott, the Woods brothers with Gordon and Roy Thornton, Duncan with Dan Shook, Shepperd with F. Cressman, D. Marr with Wm. Pratt, Whiten with Max Dobbin.

Yesterday afternoon the Beavers and Londoners engaged in a cleverly contested game of basketball in which the visitors won in a score of 21 to 16. However, the Peterborough bunch had the best of the first half, having a lead of 12 to 4. Messrs. Aplin and Eamans officered the game.

At 5.45 p. m., the boys representing both Associations sat down to a very enjoyable tea so kindly provided by the ladies' Auxiliary of the Association. Col. E. B. Edwards, president of the Y.M.C.A. presided. Following this was a conference in the parlour on the foreign work of the Y.M.C.A. and Bible study. Papers were read by Messrs. G. Thornton, F. Turner, S. S. Aplin and Stanley Fife. A live discussion followed.

The boys then joined in the evangelistic meeting in the Boys' Assembly Room, which was too small for the crowd. The Londoners led in the song service. A short conference concluded the programme of the day.

This morning the conference was continued for an hour in the parlours, Mr. Williamson, presiding and conducting the devotional exercises.

The themes discussed were "Social work, and boys' camps."

At 10.15 the boys were given a drive around town, visiting the lift lock, Nicholls' oval, and other points of interest. The party was then driven to the C.P.R. station, and was given three hearty cheers as the train pulled out for Montreal, where they will be to-night. The boys were delighted with the splendid reception tendered them while here.

WANT THE MIDLAND LEAGUE TO AFFILIATE

Ontario Association Football League will Ask Local League to Join.

The governing body in association football affairs, the Ontario Association Football League, met yesterday at the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, and transacted a tremendous lot of business. The meeting was a prolonged affair, lasting from 10.30 a.m., until 5 o'clock in the afternoon. The rules of the game were revised, many important changes being made. Dr. W. P. Thompson, president of the league, presided.

Several amendments to the constitution were considered. Among those carried were:

The annual meeting shall be held in Toronto on Easter Monday.

The Match Committee shall have power to arrange all championship matches. It shall consist of the Honourary President the Secretary Treasurer and one other member elected at the annual meeting, the latter being chairman.

Rules of competition for the senior, intermediate and junior championship games were adopted. Each affiliated association wishing to compete for a championship must give notice to the Secretary of the league not later than June 15th and November 15th. In all protests the defending club must deposit $10 as well as the club entering the protest. It was provided that in case the league should receive another trophy for competition in the senior series the Caledonia cup should revert to Galt. The duration of each junior match was fixed at one hour.

The report of the committee appointed to revise the rules was presented by H. W. Brown of Berlin. The report simplified the rules and made them much clearer in every reason. Considerable trouble has arisen in games by the failure to kick the ball after the whistle has sounded. The rule was made to read so that the ball is in play on a place kick or a penalty kick as soon as the referee sounds his whistle. The following important rule was carried, affording more protection to the goal-keeper:

11.—The goal-keeper may, within his own half of the field of play, use his hands, but shall not carry the ball. The goal-keeper shall not be charged except when he is holding the ball or obstructing an opponent, or when he has passed outside of the goal area.

The duties of the referee were clearly set forth and almost every conceivable point is covered.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

Hon. President—H. J. Crawford, B.A., Toronto.

President—Dr. W. P. Thompson, Toronto.

Secretary-Treasurer—D. Forsyth, B.A., Berlin.

Vice-Presidents—T. T. Aitkin, Galt; W. F. A. H. W. Brown, Berlin; W. F. A. F. W. Rutherford, Inter-College; H. H. Evans, Toronto; W. E. Bryans, Toronto; B. W. Collinson, Cornwall, Eastern District.

The Midland (Peterborough) League and Peninsular League will be asked to affiliate and appoint their own Vice-Presidents.—Globe.

DIVISION OF JAPANESE FLEET

Skirmishing Along the Yalu River — Russian Volunteers Reported to Have Killed Six Japanese Without Loss to Themselves—Wounded Russians Taken to Harbin and Vladivostock—Bandits Slain.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Berlin, April 7.—The Local Anzeiger says the situation in Asia is developing most unfavourably to Russia, and asserts that powerful influences both at home and abroad are being brought to bear on the Czar to seize the first opportunity which a Russo-Military victory would afford to restore Manchuria to China and conclude peace with Japan.

Port Arthur, April 7.—The Russian battleship Perevict reports that she sighted the enemy to-day in Kwantung waters.

London, April 7.—The Daily Telegraph's Seoul correspondent says he learns from a Japanese sailor who participated in the attacks on Port Arthur that the Japanese fleet is divided into seven squadrons. Four of these are watching Port Arthur, the fifth patrols the Corean coast, and the sixth and seventh cruise between Vladivostock and north Japan.

"All Quiet on the Yalu."

St. Petersburg, April 7.—"All is quiet on the Yalu" is the report which General Kachtalinsky telegraphed April 5 to Gen. Kuropathin, who forwarded the message to the Emperor. Gen. Kachtalinsky also reported that opposite Turmitchen on the Island of Matuzeo, in the Yalu River, some Russian volunteers had a skirmish with a Japanese outpost from Wiju. There were no casualties on the Russian side. Six Japanese were killed.

Thirteen Wounded at Harbin.

Paris, April 7.—The correspondent of The Matin at Harbin, telegraphing yesterday, says: "A hospital train arrived here to-day from Port Arthur with thirteen wounded and five sick. They were in the care of four sisters."

Wounded at Vladivostock.

Vladivostock, April 7.—Many wounded men from Port Arthur have been brought here. They are receiving the greatest attention from the numerous volunteer sisters of mercy.

Japs Kill Bandits.

Seoul, Corea, April 7.—It is reported that the Japanese have killed two Tonghaks (bandits), near Gensen.

Prepared For the Japanese.

Newchwang, April 7.—On account of the mining of the river and also in expectation of practice firing from the fort, merchant ships are not using the lower reach of the river. Gen. Kondratovich, the Russian commander here, says he is now prepared for a Japanese attack, which, it is evident the other authorities also expect.

TREATY WITH THIBET.

Col. Younghusband Expects One Soon—The Expedition's Progress.

Before the motormen could stop either car, Shears shouted for them to go on and he was rolled the length of the cars. Every window on the inside of each car was smashed and the wooden framework about the windows crushed in.

THE CRAIG INQUEST AGAIN ADJOURNED.

Was to Have Been Continued Yesterday but Put off for a Week.

The adjourned inquest into the circumstances surrounding the death of the late James Craig, which was to have been continued at Lakefield yesterday afternoon was again adjourned for one week without any further evidence being taken.

Coroner Dr. Grey, of town, sent the deceased man's stomach to Toronto for examination, and the tin of sardines from which the deceased ate two or three a few hours before his death, were also sent up, a month ago. As yet Coroner Gray has received no report and it was for this reason that the inquest was again adjourned.

PREMIER ROSS' REPLY.

Prohibition the Only Efficient Protection Against Evils of Excessive Drinking—Other Means Available.

Toronto, April 7.—Here is the Premier's reply to the ministerial delegation touching temperance legislation. It was delivered to Rev. Dr. Rankin at 1.15 Wednesday afternoon. The minister said that the communication would come up for discussion at 10.30 a.m. Monday at the board rooms in the Wesley Building:

Toronto, April 6, 1904.

My Dear Sir:

In reply to the deputation which I had the honor of meeting yesterday, I desire to express my concurrence in the view presented by the different speakers, that nothing short of the prohibition of the sale of liquors in hotels and the strict control over sales, for purposes generally recognized as proper and legitimate, would fully protect society from the evil effects of excessive drinking, so far as legislation can be invoked for that purpose. Your decided preference for such a measure as against amendments of the license laws I understand to mean that you do not favor at present any other form of temperance legislation. If the Government is unable to give the measure desired this session, it will be our duty to consider what means are available for further action.

Yours truly,
G. W. Ross.

Favors Municipal Ownership.

St. Thomas, April 7.—The City Council has appointed a special committee to confer with the Gas & Electric Company, with the object of purchasing the plant. The mayor and aldermen are without exception in favor of municipal ownership of the power and lighting franchises. The contract for lightning the city will soon expire, and City Engineer Bell considers that the corporation could do the work more cheaply.

Railway Freight Tariff.

Ottawa, April 7.—The representatives of the various railroads met the Railway Commission yesterday and asked that as soon as possible that the new freight tariff and classification be approved. Mr. Blair said that this could not be done until an expert adviser was appointed. C. M. Hays introduced the delegaton.

He said that were the request made at a later date, when such a change would not involve an increase in price the request might be granted.

BYLAWS

Ald. Adams moved the first reading of a bylaw authorizing the town to raise $50,000 for the purpose of buying a site and paying for the erection of a Collegiate Institute.

Ald. Best objected to the bylaw on the ground that the site had not yet been chosen, and he thought the bylaw should not be passed until the site had been located.

The Mayor stated that as far as he understood the matter, the council had no authority to say where the site should be, and that the School Board had full authority to make the demand on the council, and the latter had no option but to act on the demands of the Board.

Mr. V. Eastwood of the Board, who was present, stated that the Board had prospective sites in view, the cost of which would be reasonable, but it was not considered in the interest of the public to make known these sites at the present time.

The bylaw provides that the question shall be submitted to the ratepayers on May 5th, with George K. Martin, John Kincaid, Angus Williams, J. Lundy, J. M. Greene, Jos. Metheral, John Irwin, J. T. Wright, and T. Q. Quartermaine, to be the returning officers.

The bylaw was given its three readings and passed.

AN IMPORTANT PROPOSITION

Mr. D. A. Gordon, of Wallaceburg, who was present at the meeting, wrote to the Council, submitting the proposition contained in the following letter:—

The Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough:

Gentlemen,—I beg to submit for your consideration a proposition pertaining to the early completion of your beet sugar factory now under construction.

I have looked carefully into the prospects of the industry in your district and do not hesitate to say they are exceptionally good. Your surroundings are all that can be desired; and the sugar beets grown in your neighbourhood are of a very high grade. This latter fact was shown by the tests of the Wallaceburg Sugar Company, of which I am president and managing director, and in which I have a large sum invested.

The recent action of the Ontario Government, in agreeing to extend the bounty of 1-2 cent per pound, not exceeding $75,000 per annum altogether, for a period of three years from this date, and to restrict the bounty to the present factories and to Peterborough, further insures the success of the beet sugar industry; and it is also confidently expected that the Dominion Government will, during the present session, grant to it either a bounty or protection.

It seems to me, therefore, that it would be a misfortune if, in this prosperous and enterprising community, the sugar factory already more than half built, in a thoroughly substantial manner, situated as it is upon an excellent site, should remain incomplete for lack of that municipal support which is commonly given to important industrial projects. So confident am I of the success of the beet sugar manufacturing in this Province that I am prepared, with associates, with the concurrence of the Directors of the Peterborough Sugar Company, Limited, to invest $100,000 in the stock of the company if the town will do its part in granting the aid required. The town of Wallaceburg, with a population under 3,500, granted a cash bonus of $30,000 and partial exemption from taxation for 10 years. The village of Dresden granted a cash bonus of $40,000 and partial exemption from taxation. The Town of Berlin granted a cash bonus of $25,000 and exemption from taxation for 10 years. The Town of Wiarton granted a cash bonus of $25,000 and exassessment for ten years. These precedents show the value attached in different parts of the Province to the establishment of a beet sugar factory.

My proposition does not involve on the part of Peterborough any payment of money or increase in taxation. To procure sufficient cash to complete the factory the Company will issue first mortgage bonds for $100,000, payable at the expiration of fifteen years with interest at 4 1-2 per cent, payable half yearly. The mortgage securing said bonds will provide that at the end of the 6th and each subsequent year such a sum shall be paid into a sinking fund as to extinguish the debt at the end of the term. As insurance companies are not permitted by law to purchase the bonds of industrial concerns, and as other lending corporations are unwilling to do so unless they are guaranteed, you are therefore respectfully asked to submit without delay a bylaw to your property owners for the guarantee of the said bonds, in order to make them at once marketable. The town will have as security a first mortgage upon the Company's property consisting of 32 acres of land and a factory costing not less than $350,000. It is expected that the assessment of the real and personal property of the Company be fixed for a period of 10 years at $10,000.

If the necessary by-law be passed by the ratepayers, I give you my assurance that the factory will be in operation next fall.

You will find below important data.

I have the honour to be, Gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
D. A. GORDON

Sugar factory costing $350,000 to $400,000. Capacity, 450 tons per day; 50,000 tons in the season.

Beets under contract, over 1,000 acres. 2,000 acres more can be secured in time. 4,000 acres of beets produce 36,000 tons at $4.50, equals $162,000.

36,000, tons of beets produce 9,640,000 pounds of sugar at $3.75, equals $324,000.

Operating expenses	...$125,000
Paid for beets	162,000	287,000
Net gain		...$ 37,000
Bounty		20,000
Total		...$ 57,000

Number of employees, 150 for 120 days of 24 hours. Wages equal to one year's regular wages.

Mr. Gordon, supporting the proposition, addressed the council, and complimented the council and the town on its progressive appearance. He had been highly pleased with the town, and particularly so with the quality of the beets grown here. He found that they were practically one per cent. higher in sugar than those grown in Wallaceburg, which tested 15.3. The company he represented was in this country to engage in the sugar beet industry, and he was deeply impressed with the possibilities of Peterborough for this industry. He spoke of the great future for the sugar beet industry in Canada, and pictured it as being very bright. He stated however that the initial expense in establishing an industry in a new country made it difficult to establish and operate for the first few years. He referred to the difficulties experienced at Dresden and Wiarton and said that the trouble had not been in the industry, but in lack of practical knowledge, and lack of foresight in locating. His factory had lost $618,000, which was more than was necessary; according to his idea it was too high. All the machinery used were imported from Germany. His company had an option on a complete plant in Germany, upon which he had a report stating that it was in excellent condition. As to the prospects for the industry here, he believed that the Government would give substantial aid to the industry. His company would be willing to take a block of stock in the local factory, and would endeavour to place it on a satisfactory basis, providing the assistance asked for is granted. He figured that a plant could be erected here for $350,000, and if the proposition made by him were accepted the town would be well secured. The Dresden plant had been given a bonus of $10,000 from the town and a bonus of 1 per cent. on the price of beets from the farmers on the second year's supply.

In reply to Ald. Best, Mr. Gordon stated that himself and his associates would be willing to invest $ 50,000 for the purpose of completing the plant and purchasing the machinery. Ald. Best pointed out that it would be impossible for the town to make any guarantee or give any assistance until the site upon which the plant was located were dealt with the town.

Mr. Garvin, who followed, stated that he believed that there would be little difficulty in uniting the property in question to the town. He expressed his opinion that the Council could take any portion of the township into the corporation by a two-third vote. What they wanted the Council to do was to submit the proposition to the people. He thought that the Trent Valley was particularly well situated. Beets could be grown here testing 17 per cent on the average, and this was much higher than the average in Michigan. Mr. Gordon had consented to accept the presidency of the Peterborough Company if the propositions were accepted. A plant could be purchased in Holland for $150,000 and the complete plant without the drier, could be erected for $300,000, which was a very low figure. He stated that the industry filled in admirably with the dairying industry.

The proposition now submitted insured the success of the local industry. The beet sugar industry had come to this county to stay. $250,000 was required in a month to complete the factory to insure its operation this year, and the town was being asked to take no risk. Mr. Gordon and his associates were willing to invest $100,000, and if the town would guarantee bonds for $100,000 he could sell $50,000 of stock in the vicinity. He believed that the plant this year would pay a good return on the investment. The leading citizens to whom he had spoken were favourable to the proposal.

He prophesied that in five years the factory here would slice 1,000 tons of beets per day, and would be the largest sugar factory in the country.

In answer to Ald. McWilliams, Mr. Garvin stated that there were at present two factories in operation in Ontario and with the Peterborough factory, the bounty of $75,000 would be divided about equally between the three factories, which would give the local industry $25,000 in three years.

Mr. Gordon replying to the Mayor said that he anticipated no trouble in providing labour and his experience had been that every year the acreage of beets was increasing. Mr. Garvin attested to the truth of the statement of Mr. Gordon, and stated that a farmer with three acres of beets would pay the wages of a man for 8 months from the sale of the product.

The Mayor stated that the statutes provided that a town could not borrow money above 10 per cent. of the assessed value of the property, and stated that the present borrowing power of the town is $749,000, while up to the present $368,000 had already been borrowed. This would leave the town practically at the end of its borrowing power, if the $100,000 was applied to this part of the statute.

Ald Morrison thought this was a matter which should receive the serious consideration of the Council. He had visited the Wallaceburg factory and had been highly pleased with what he saw there. He moved that the question be referred to the Committee of the Whole Council, and that Mr. Gordon be requested to meet the Council. Ald Johnson seconded the motion which was carried.

Ald Adams thought that the town should be represented on the Board of Directors, and Mr. Gordon thought that it was only reasonable that the request should be granted.

Ald. McWilliams suggested that the date of the meeting be fixed.

The Mayor introduced the question of arranging for a celebration on the occasion of the opening of the Lift Lock, on the date announced, May 12th, and suggested that a committee be appointed.

Ald Johnston moved, seconded by Ald Morrison, that the Mayor, Ald. Best, Adams, McWilliams and Rush, constitute the committee, which was carried.

The Council then adjourned.

PETTYPIECE'S BILL

House Votes to Send This Railway Measure to Committee.

A DECISION BY THE SPEAKER

Government Ownership and Operation Discussed With Reference to Temiskaming Railway—Largely Accepted By Government of Ontario—Dr. Pyne's Motion Defeated—The Third Reading of Bills.

Toronto, April 7.—The Legislature yesterday disposed of a mass of routine work. A number of bills were read a third time, and several bills were advanced a stage. An important amendment was made to the university act, enlarging the President's powers. Government ownership of railways was discussed, and several ineffectual efforts were made to obtain from the Premier a statement as to temperance legislation.

The Pettypiece Bill.

What to do with Mr. Pettypiece's bill to amend the assessment act, chiefly in the direction of taxing railways, was again discussed. On March 30 it received its second reading, and the Premier moved that it be referred to a select committee. Mr. Hanna moved in amendment that it be referred to Committee of the Whole House. A discussion arose over the proper place of reference, and the Speaker asked time to consider, as the rules apparently were not conclusive.

Mr. Speaker's Ruling.

When the debate was resumed Mr. Speaker gave his ruling on the point of order raised when the bill was last before the House, as to the propriety of referring it to a select committee or the Committee of the Whole House. There was no rule naming the committee to which such bills should go, but in all unprovided cases the rules of the British House of Commons were taken for guidance. In the rules of the British Parliament it is provided that bills having been read a second time shall be referred to the whole House, a standing committee or a select committee. Mr. Speaker, therefore, declared the amendment of Mr. Hanna in order.

Another interesting point was brought out by the Speaker in these words: "Since having been called upon to deal with this matter perhaps I may be permitted to say with reference to the bill No. 89 in question that it seems to be in direct contravention of the rule which governs the imposition of taxes. But of our rule No. 92 is as follows:

By the 54th section of the Imperial Act Vict., chap. 3, the British North America Act, 1867, it is provided that the House shall not adopt or pass any vote, resolution, address, or bill for the appropriation of any part of the public revenue, or of any tax, or impost, to any purpose that has not been first recommended by a message of the Lieutenant-Governor in the session in which such vote, resolution, address or bill is proposed.

"Although my attention has not been called to this during the discussion of the bill so far, I have thought it not out of place for me to refer you to the rule."

The Premier's Reasons.

The Premier said there were reasons why the bill should be sent to a select committee.

The Premier assented to the principle of the bill which is that railways should contribute more taxes, and gave his reasons for desiring a select committee. Evidence could be taken much more properly than before the committee of the whole House. It might be necessary to find out how to get at American railways using Canadian roads which would escape under the system of taxation of Mr. Pettypiece. The select committee might find a way to tax the Standard Oil Co. for using its own cars on Canadian railways. The Pere Marquette and the Wabash system are untouched, as well as the Armour and Swiss Beef Companies and the Standard Oil Co. If the House wanted to get information the appointment of the select committee would be the most useful way to do it.

There was a discussion on procedure, and then Mr. Hanna's amendment to refer to committee of the Whole House was lost by 40 to 43 on a straight party vote, and the reference to a select committee was carried on the same division.

Read a Third Time.

The following bills were read a third time: To incorporate the municipality of the Township of Paipoonage—Cameron. Fort William Respecting the Town of East Toronto—Richardson. Respecting the Irondale, Bancroft and Ottawa Railway Company—Tudhope. Respecting the Toronto Railway Company—Foy.

The Temiskaming Railway.

When the Government bill to extend the Temiskaming Railway was considered by the committee of the whole in the Legislature last night, Dr. Pyne offered a few observations in support of the Government control of the railway. He moved in conclusion: "That the Temiskaming Railway be operated for ten years by the Government through the Commissioners or under such other conditions as may be adopted, and all the provisions referring to the leasing of the railway are hereby repealed."

In reply, the Premier said the question of Government ownership was involved, and there was no question but the road was to be sold or leased to anybody. That had not been suggested by anybody. As a matter of fact, the Government could not lease the road unless the lease was ratified by Parliament, so that there was no necessity for the amendment. The Premier attached a good deal of importance to the principle of Government ownership, and that principle had been adopted by the Government in many respects. The Government retained the ownership of the land sold for timber and pulp purposes. As to Government control, it had not been established that it was a success. Half the roads of Germany were owned by the Government, and he did not know that these roads were run any better than roads run by private individuals. Was Dr. Pyne sure that the operation of the Temiskaming Railway by the Government would be a success? The Intercolonial road was being run at a loss. New Zealand was a long way off, and they were not able to say that Government ownership was a complete success there. If the Government gave cheap excursions on the Temiskaming Railway, the loss would have to come out of the people of the province. No doubt the C. P. R. or any other railway would give a great many cheap excursions if the Government would make up the deficit.

The Government had no intention of leasing the road and could not do so without the consent of Parliament. The House would stultify itself by adopting the policy outlined, which might mean to turn the road over to a private corporation after ten years, when it would become a paying institution.

Mr. Whitney pointed out that there was no proposition to give cheap excursions or to turn the railway over to private individuals after ten years. Dr. Pyne's proposition was that as the Government had built the road it should go on and run it. When they spoke of Government ownership, which was being carried out in other counties successfully, they meant Government ownership and operation. Here was an opportunity to see whether it would be wise to put into operation the principle of Government ownership and operation; and if the experiment was successful there would be a good reason to continue to operate the road. If he understood the Premier's argument it was opposed to the principle of Government ownership.

The Premier observed that he was pointing out that Government ownership and operation was not necessarily a source of revenue.

The amendment of Dr. Pyne was declared lost.

Soo Enquiry Closed.

The Soo enquiry was continued by the Public Accounts Committee yesterday, one of the Consolidated lawyers, who figure on the pay roll, Mr. Elliott being on the stand. This closed the enquiry, and it was decided that the committee should report the evidence to the Legislature without comment.

The Legal Committee has thrown out the bill of Dr. Reaume, which aimed to put a stop to the excess of marriages in Windsor.

Trying to Stop Saw Offs.

The committee took up Hugh Clark's election law amendment, giving candidates 60 days to file a protest, and providing for the forfeiture of the deposit money if the trial is not gone on with. A discussion ensued on the best means to do away with the sawing off of protests, and the committee appeared to be anxious to meet the case in some way. The bill will again be considered to-day.

If You Have These Symptoms

Send for My Book.

If you want to feel better.
If you want more strength.
If you lack ambition.
If you can't do things like you used to.
If you lack confidence in yourself.
If your nerve—your courage—is leaving you.
If you lack vim, vigour, vitality.
If something is eating away your constitution, write to me for the book you need.

The book tells of my discovery. Tells how after thirty years I found the cause of these symptoms, and many others given above.

The book tells how by scientific experiment I traced out the causes that bring on chronic diseases. It tells how I perfected my prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

I found invariably that where there was a weakness the inside nerves were weak. Where there was a lack of vitality that the vital nerves lacked power. Where weak organs were found, I always found weak nerves. Not the nerves commonly thought of, but the vital organs' nerves, the inside—the invisible nerves.

This was a revelation. Then my real success began.

Then I combined ingredients that would strengthen, that would vitalize these nerves. That prescription I called a restorative. It is known the world over now as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. After that I did not fail to cure one case in each hundred. In the extremely difficult cases my failures for five years were one in each forty treated. I found cancer incurable. Cancer is for surgery, not medicine.

Then how to get this prescription to sick ones everywhere was my thought. I must announce it in the public press. But, thought I, will they realize the truth of my discovery—the real power of Dr. Shoop's Restorative? Then a way came to me—like an inspiration. "I will offer it to the sick on trial. Then they will know I am sincere."

I wrote a reliable druggist in each city and village in America. They agreed to co-operate with me.

Now by any sick one

can be taken on trial. For a full month I will let you use it entirely at my risk.

Send me no money. Just write me for the book you need. When I send it I will tell you of a druggist near by who will permit the month's trial. Use the Restorative a month—then decide. If you say to the druggist, "It did not help me," that will relieve you of any expense whatever. He will bill the cost.

This is my way of clearing your mind of all doubts as to what Dr. Shoop's Restorative can do. No matter how prejudiced, you cannot dispute this absolute security I offer. You cannot resist an offer like this of you are at all sick.

If you have a weakness, write me. If you can't do things like you used to do them, tell me about it.

Write in confidence. As a physician I will tell you a way to help. Get my book now—to-day.

FOR COMPLETION OF SUGAR FACTORY.

A New Proposition Made Last Night to the Town Council.

MR. GORDON WILL INVEST $100,000

If the Town will Guarantee Company's Bonds for an Equal Amount — Council Decide not to Change Standard Size of Bread — A Heavy Programme at Last Night's Council Meeting.

Last night's council meeting was an important one, inasmuch as at it a proposition was made which, if the town accepts, will mean the completion of the sugar beet factory, and its operation in time to handle the crop of 1904. Mr. D. A. Gordon, president of the Wallaceburg Sugar Company, and the largest individual shareholder in the concern, was at the meeting, and stated that he and his associates would be willing to take stock to the extent of $100,000, providing the town would guarantee bonds to the extent of $100,000 additional, taking as security first mortgage on the property.

Mr. Gordon is an American, who is enthusiastic on the question of beet sugar, and believes that there is a great future for the industry in Canada. His factory at Wallaceburg was working satisfactorily, as was also the one at Berlin. He stated that the cause of the trouble at the Wiarton factory was gross mismanagement, and lack of knowledge by the promoters. Mr. Gordon believed that the vicinity of Peterborough was admirably adapted to the growth of the sugar beet, and gave as proof the fact that beets grown here tested 16.3 per cent., as compared with 15.3 in Wallaceburg, which had been considered remarkably high. It would require $350,000 to complete the plant here, with drier, but it was not proposed to instal the latter at the present time. He had an option on a plant in Holland, which he considered first class, and which could be purchased for $156,000; $35,000 will be required to take the plant down, ship it here, and re-instal it in the factory; $40,000 will complete the present building. Mr. Gordon stated that he considered the proposition a good one, if the town would take the action asked, and he was confident of the success of the factory.

The Council will consider the question at a meeting of the Committee of the Whole to-night, and will meet Mr. Gordon again to-morrow on that gentleman's return from Ottawa, where he goes to-day. The question will have to be submitted to the ratepayers before the proposition can be accepted, and before this is done the property upon which the factory is being erected will have to be made a part of the town corporation.

The Town Council met last night in the Council Chamber with the Mayor in the chair and the following Aldermen present: — Messrs. Johnston, Edgcumbe, Morrison, Rush, Mason, Hicks, Scott, Adams, Clinkscale, McWilliams, Batten and Best.

The minutes of the last meeting were adopted.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The following communications were read:

From J. Coyle Brown, asking for authority to make sewer connections between his house and the George street sewer.—Board of Works.

From W. G. Morrow, Secretary of the School Board, advising the town that in case the bylaw for the new Collegiate Institute building carries, they would like to have the debentures issued for 30 years.—Finance Committee.

From property owners, asking that a granolithic walk be constructed on the north side of Dalhousie, from Stewart to Bethune, on the usual conditions.—Board of Works.

From M. H. Halpin and C. Halpin protesting against the construction of granolithic sidewalks on the south side of Rink and north side of Perry streets, and south of Perry and north of Lake streets, as they do not wish their property made liable for such expense.—Board of Works.

From the town teamsters, asking that the rate of wages be raised to $3.50 per day.—Finance Committee.

From twenty ratepayers, asking that an electric light be placed on Romaine street, west of the G.T.R. track and east of Park street.—Fire, Water and Light Committee.

From Geo. L. Bluteh, C.A., and his assistant, J. A. Jackson, the chartered accountants, of Ottawa, secured by the Council this year to make an audit of the Town's finances. They reported that the general system of government of the financial affairs of the town is as good as that of any town in Ontario. They thought, however, that if legislation can be effected, to provide that the Court of Revision be composed of three qualified men outside of the members of the Council, the system would be strengthened, and the result would be more satisfactory to the members of the Council as well as to the ratepayers. They also congratulated the town on its officers, who so far as they were capable of judging, are well qualified for the positions they hold. The Clerk and Treasurer are certainly valuable officials, and a word of praise for the collector of taxes also is not out of place, as the taxes are exceedingly well collected. The Water Commissioners were also complimented on the fact that the general principles on which their system of accounting is based, are sound and the books carefully kept. —Finance Committee.

From 91 ratepayers, protesting against the proposed bylaw respecting street watering, whereby the owners whose properties abut against the streets to be watered, are called upon to pay the whole cost of the same. The streets proposed to be watered being the principal business streets of the town, are used by the public in general, who should be assessed in proper proportions. If the principal streets are not watered, the public in general will protest, but it is unfair to compel any certain section of the ratepayers to pay for such expenditures.—Board of Works.

From property owners praying for the construction of a granolithic sidewalk on the north side of Sherbrooke street, from Stewart to Bethune streets, under the usual conditions.—Board of Works.

From the Peterborough Gun Club, asking for the privilege of continuing trap-shooting at clay birds on the Riverside Park as they have for years past.—Legal Committee.

From Fred G. Wescott, saying that should a granolithic walk be constructed on Crescent street, from Lake to Romaine street, he hopes it will be laid in its proper position, and not on the lines of the present one.—Board of Works.

From Mrs. R. Stewart, asking permission to connect her house on Wolfe street with the sewer on Aylmer street.—Board of Works.

From G. A. Rutherford, asking for a position on the police force.—Received.

From Aubrey White, assistant Commissioner of Crown Lands, saying that Alfred J. Cameron had been instructed by the Ontario Land Surveyors, to make a survey of the town's lands along the river front, north from Wolfe to Hunter street. —Board of Works.

From property owners praying that a granolithic sidewalk be constructed on the west side of Stewart street, between Dalhousie and Townsend streets.—Board of Works.

From Dr. Bingham, M.H.O., saying that since January last he has been doing the sanitary work of No. 5 ward at a salary of $50 a year, allowed him by the village before incorporation with the town, and he hoped the town would not pay less than that amount.—Received.

From George S. Matthews, protesting against the construction of a granolithic walk on Rubidge street, opposite his property on the corner of Rubidge and Hunter streets. As he is not in Peterborough he would ask that his name be added to any petition that may be presented to the council against the work.—Board of Works.

From Jas. and Fred Metheral, and Miss D. Archambault, objecting to the construction of a granolithic walk on the west side of Cedar street between Cross and Chambers streets. —Board of Works.

From M. H. Spenceley asking for a position as Sanitary Inspector.—Received.

From A. Stevenson, secretary of the Town Trust Commissioners, enclosing the statement of the demands for 1904, which are as follows:—

School purposes	$ 3,539 28
Town purposes	14,859 47
Waterworks	15,274 91

Residents of Chamberlen street were present, asking for a sidewalk on that street. Those constituting the deputation were Messrs. G. Sloan and Geo. Tovey, and they stated that a petition had been presented by the residents for the walk last year, but the request had not been granted.

Ald. Best stated that when the petition was presented the matter had been referred to the Town Engineer who had reported against the walk.

Mr. Tovey stated that a sidewalk was wanted from Lafayette avenue avenue to Allison street on the north side, and that the petition had been

OBITUARY.

Lamented Death of Mrs. Bowie, of Water Street.

The friends of the late Mrs. E. E. Bowie, will deeply regret to learn of her decease, which occurred in London yesterday. The deceased, who had been ailing for about two months from a catarrhal trouble, went to London two weeks ago to visit her sister, Mrs. Gunn, and, rapidly becoming worse, died yesterday, as stated above.

The late Mrs. Bowie was 59 years of age, and was a daughter of the late Alex. Hodge, of Port Stanley, where she was born, and lived for a number of years. Her father was a prominent business man of that town. She was married to Mr. Bowie in London in 1882, and lived there until 18 years ago, when they removed to Peterborough, and have made their home here ever since. One son, Edgerton Roland, with Mr. Bowie, and one sister, are the surviving relatives.

The deceased was greatly beloved by her wide circle of friends here, and her death will be genuinely regretted.

The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2.30 o'clock to the Little Lake Cemetery, from the family residence, 696 Water street.

Mr. Jas. Heal had the misfortune to lose a purse containing a sum of money some days ago. His first act on discovering the loss was to come to the Examiner office and insert an advertisement asking for the return of the purse. This advertisement had the desired effect, and in the course of a few days his property was returned. Mr. Heal now wishes to take this medium of returning thanks to the honest person who found the purse, and returned it, and to express his appreciation of the Examiner as an advertising medium.

Miss Florence Hall Sang in Belleville With Marked Success.

Miss Florence Hall, of town, sang at a social in Belleville on Monday night, and the Intelligencer's report says:—

"Miss Hall of Peterborough made her first appearance before a Belleville audience, and in the three numbers given by her made a very favourable impression. She sang 'The Spirit of Spring,' 'The Nightingale Song,' and 'He was a Prince,' and as a recall 'This and That.' Miss Hall has a pure, sweet voice, of splendid compass, while her manner is pleasing and free from affectation. Many expressed the hope that she may be heard again in the near future. Miss Vera Riggs and Miss Elliott played the accompaniments."

HUNDREDS SHOW RESPECT FOR DECEASED.

Funeral of the late W. A. Stratton, K.C. Very Largely Attended.

Conducted Under Masonic Auspices—Many Beautiful Floral Offerings.

The funeral of the late W. A. Stratton, K.C., which took place from the family residence, on Wednesday afternoon, April 6th, was one of the most largely attended and impressive occasions of the kind that has occurred in years. There was a very large attendance from the town and county, from surrounding villages and towns, and distant cities, Toronto, Hamilton and London being represented. The local clergy, of every denomination, was also represented. The great cortege that followed the remains to the Little Lake cemetery, was over a mile in length.

The religious services at the residence were conducted by Rev. J. Bastow and Rev. Dr. Torrance.

Rev. Mr. Bastow said in part:—"We are met here to-day for the purpose of paying the last service of respect to our departed brother. Most of you know that his habits and tastes were very simple, and we can easily infer that he would greatly desire that simplicity and brevity should be observed in this funeral service, and I would certainly be the last to depart from his wish. Besides there is little to be said in this presence. He was a native of the town and spent the 43 years of his life in our midst. Since his was a professional life, he was prominent in the public eye. He was well known to most of you, who are here to-day, and you have come to express by your presence your respect, love and affection for him.

"There are many of you who felt a deep sympathy for him and his family, when a few months ago the break in his health came, and now you feel keenly his departure. So there are many who mourn to-day his death that are not bound to him by blood ties.

"Some men have very agreeable exteriors, but the closer one gets to them the less one sees to admire in them. It was not so with Mr. Stratton however. The more intimately he was known the better he was liked. The nearer one got to the centre of his heart the more one was surprised at the nobility, warmth, strength and constancy of his heart affections. He was naturally reserved and undemonstrative, and covetous of his time for work, and therefore spent much less time than most men in social relations. He was not therefore as well understood by the general public as most men, and casual interviews did not make a full revelation of him, but all who got to his heart, found much to admire and love, so I find that those who knew him well and long, whether relatives or others, were ardent in their attachment and praises.

"Where would you find a nobler son than he has proven to be? Since the father of this household was taken away, he has, so far as a son could, filled the place of the head of the home. This was shown in his extraordinary affection for his mother and sisters, and in the great and valuable service he rendered to his older brother, who bears heavy responsibilities in connection with our province.

"He made himself perfectly identified with the interests of his clients, and worked as industriously for them as he did for himself. When called upon to help the poor, orphan children, or struggling churches, he gave cheerfully, and promptly and generously."

Mr. Bastow sought to administer comfort to the bereaved family and earnestly appealed to those present to make this reminder of our mortality a preparation for a glorious immortality.

The floral offerings were rich and abundant. Besides private tributes, there were floral emblems sent by the following:—Peterborough Lodge A. F. and A. M., Canadian and Independent Orders of Foresters, the office staff of Stratton & Hall, Peterborough Law Association, Liberal members of the Legislative Assembly, Toronto, employees of the Peterborough Bookstore, the editorial and business staff of the Examiner, staff of the Canadian Cordage Company.

Besides the Masonic fraternity, the members of the Peterborough Law Association followed the remains, and Messrs. J. H. Burnham and Miles Hamilton were present, representing the old Peterborough cricket eleven, of which the deceased was in its day perhaps the most important member. The pall bearers were Messrs. A. L. Davis, R. M. Dennistoun, E. A. Peck, W. G. Ferguson, John Crane and Adam Hall.

VERY PRETTY NORTH MONAGHAN WEDDING.

Miss Clara Arnott Becomes Bride of Mr. Harry Jeffery.

A pretty wedding took place last night at the residence of Mrs. Wm. Arnott, North Monaghan, when Miss Clara Arnott, youngest daughter of the late Wm. Arnott was married to Mr. Harry Jeffery, of town. The ceremony, which was performed by Rev. W. L. Armitage, took place in the presence of about 60 guests, friends of the contracting parties. The bride, who was very prettily attired in a cream crepe de chene gown, was attended by Miss Anita Simmons, of Frankford, while Mr. Albert J. Arnott, brother of the bride, acted as groomsman.

After the ceremony a dainty wedding repast was enjoyed by those present, and a delightful evening was spent.

A number of handsome and costly gifts were given the bride and groom, among them being an onyx clock and silver sugar bowl and milk pitcher, from the employees of the Armature Department of the C.G.E. Works, of which staff the groom is a member.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeffery will reside at 43 Patterson street.

AN EARLY MORNING CATHEDRAL WEDDING.

Nupitals of Mr. L. J. Picard and Miss Katie Overend.

At St. Peter's Cathedral at 5.30 o'clock on Wednesday morning, Miss Katie Overend, second daughter of Mr. W. F. Overend, and Mr. L. J. Picard, both of town, were quietly married in the presence of only their immediate relatives, the ceremony being performed by Father John O'Brien.

The bride was married in a handsome travelling gown of navy blue, with Tuscan trimmings, and was attended by her sister, Miss May Overend, while the groom was supported by Mr. William Grady of town. The happy couple, who were the recipients of numerous beautiful presents, left for Buffalo on their honeymoon, but will take up residence in town.

THE G. T. PACIFIC R.

Mr. Sifton Makes a Telling Reply to Mr. Borden's Arguments.

MR. SINCLAIR INTRODUCED

Minister of the Interior Aroused the Enthusiasm of the Government's Supporters By His Logical Reasoning and Analytical Discussion of the Facts and Terms of the Contract—Other Speakers.

Ottawa, April 7.—The introduction of Mr. J. H. Sinclair, Guysboro', N.S., by Hon. W. S. Fielding and Mr. Johnston (Cape Breton), in the House of Commons yesterday, afforded an opportunity for the Government supporters to pound their desks vigorously.

G.T.P. Debate.

The feature of the debate on the ratification of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway agreement was the speech by Hon. Clifford Sifton. In a masterly address of two hours' duration he made a most effective reply to the criticisms of the Opposition leader. By logical reasoning and the analytical discussion of the facts and terms of the contract, and by the vigor with which he defended the Government's policy and attacked the position of the Opposition, the Minister of the Interior aroused the enthusiasm of the Government supporters. He dealt exhaustively with the financial aspect of the agreement and exposed the fallacy that the bargain was unduly favorable to the railway company and disadvantageous to the Dominion. Mr. Sifton added materially to the interest of the debate and to the information in possession of the House by presenting the results of the preliminary surveys, which were made in 1903.

Mr. Sifton Applauded.

The announcement that the possibility of getting a line from Winnipeg to the point where the North Bay branch diverges with grades not to exceed 0.4 per cent., which the engineer was confident could be reduced to 0.3 per cent., and with curves not more than 4 degrees, had been demonstrated, was received with applause from the Government benches. The first 100 miles from Winnipeg can be built for $25,000, the next 250 miles for $35,000, and the next 180 miles for 30,000 per mile, while the remainder of the distance to Quebec, it is estimated, can be constructed for $30,000 per mile. Hon. John Haggart and Mr. E. F. Osler also spoke, the latter expressing the opinion that a standard road could not be built across northern Ontario and Quebec, because of difficulties regarding grade and curves.

Mr. Wade moved the adjournment of the debate.

Bills Introduced.

The following bills were introduced to-day:

Respecting the Temiscouata Railway Company—Mr. Talbot.

To incorporate the Canadian Credit Indemnity & Guarantee Co.—Mr. Holmes.

Respecting the Guelph Junction Railway Co.—Mr. Holmes.

To incorporate the Guelph & Goderich Railway Co.—Mr. Holmes.

To incorporate the Walkerton & Lucknow Railway Co.—Mr. Henderson.

Respecting the Vancouver, Victoria & Eastern Railway & Navigation Co.—Mr. Aulay Morrison.

A bill respecting the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Co. was introduced by Mr. L. McCarthy. It was explained by the mover as designed simply for the purpose of enabling the company to carry out the proposition now before the House.

Premier Answers Mr. Tolton.

Mr. Tolton (North Wellington) had a question upon the order paper inquiring: What benefit the farmers of Canada received, financially or otherwise, for the expenditure for traveling expenses of Hon. Sydney Fisher during the year 1903, and similar expenditure in connection with Mr. Fisher's visit to the Osaka, Japan, Exhibition?

When the question was put in its proper order Sir Wilfrid Laurier rose and made the following reply, which was greeted with Government cheers and laughter: "The benefit which the farmers of Canada have received for the very moderate expenditure mentioned in the question is that under the able administration of Mr Fisher the Department of Agriculture has been of more service to the farming community than at any time since its creation, and that by the active work of Mr. Fisher the farmers of Canada have had made available to them sources of profit which they never had before."

The House adjourned at 10 45 p.m.

Writ Against the Bank.

Montreal, April 7.—An action involving almost $200,000 has been commenced by Arthur K. Fisk as curator of the insolvent estate of Thomas May & Co., against the Bank of Montreal. A writ was issued yesterday morning in the case against the bank for $196,000. The action arises out of the relations subsisting between the Bank of Montreal and Thomas May & Co., prior to the latter's insolvency.

Cronje and His Boers.

Newport, Mass., April 7.—General Cronje and 200 Boers, accompanied by 120 British soldiers who saw service in the Boer war, 50 women and children, and 20 Zulus, Kaffirs and Zambesis, arrived here yesterday on the steamship Donne Castle, from Cape Town, via St Vincent, Cape Verde Islands. Murdered With Shovel.

Chicoutimi, Que., April 6.—On Monday a murder was committed at St. Fulgence parish, nine miles from here, by Jos. Maltais, who quarrelled with Jos. Laforest, a farmer of the same parish, about the proprietorship of a small piece of land. Maltais seized a shovel and struck Laforest on the head, causing such injuries that he succumbed in three hours. Maltais surrendered himself to the authorities. He claims that Laforest took a pitchfor to attack him.

Purified by Suffering

BY MARY J. HOLMES.

It was Morris's task to comfort poor stricken Katy, telling her of the blessed Saviour who loved the little children while here on earth and to whom her darling had surely gone.

"Safe in His arms, it would not come back if it could," he said, "and nother would you have it."

But Katy was the mother and human love could not so soon submit, but went out after the lost one with a piteous, agonizing wail.

"Oh, I want my baby back. I know she is safe, but I want her back. She was my life—all I had to love," Katy moaned, rocking to and fro in this her first hour of bereavement, "and Wilford will blame me so much for bringing my baby here to die."

At nine o'clock next day there came a telegram. Wilford had reached New York and would be in Silverton that afternoon, accompanied by Bell. At this last Marian Hazelton caught as an excuse for what she intended doing. She could not remain there after Wilford came, nor was it necessary. Her task was done, or would be when she had finished the wreath and cross of flowers she was making for the coffin. Laying them on baby's pillow, Marian went in quest of Helen, to whom she explained that as Bell Cameron was coming, and the house would be full, she had decided on going to West Silverton, as she wished to see the old lady with whom she once boarded, and who had been so kind to her.

"I might stay," she added, as Helen began to protest, "but you do not need me. I have done all I can, and would rather go where I can be quiet for a little."

To this last argument there could be no demur, and so the same carriage which at ten o'clock went for Wilford Cameron carried Marian Hazelton to the village where she preferred being left.

* * * * *

In much anxiety and distress Wilford Cameron read the telegram announcing baby's illness.

"At Silverton!" he said. "How can that be when the child was at New London?" and he glanced again at the words:

"Your child is dying at Silverton. Come at once. M. Grant."

There could be no mistake, and Wilford's face grew dark, for he guessed the truth, censuring Katy much, but censured her family more. They of course had encouraged her in the plan of taking her child from New London, where it was doing well, and this was the result. Had Katy obeyed me, it would not have happened," he said, pacing up and down the parlor and preparing to say more, when Bell came to Katy's aid, and lighting upon him, asked what he meant by blaming his wife so much.

"For my part," she said, "I think there has been too much fault-finding and dictation from the very day of the child's birth till now, and if God takes it, I shall think it a judgment upon you. First you were vexed with Katy because it was not a boy, as if she were to blame; then you did not like it because it was not more promising and fair; next it was in your way, and so you sent it off, never considering Katy any more than if she had been a mere automaton. Then you must needs forbid her taking it home to her family, as if they had no interest in it. I tell you, Will, it is not all Cameron—there is some Parlow blood in its veins. Aunt Betsy Barlow's, too, and you can't wash it out. Katy had a right to take her own child where she pleased, and you are not a man if you censure her for it, as I see in your eyes you mean to do. Suppose it had staid in New London and been struck with lightning, you would have been to blame of course, according to your view of things."

There was too much truth in Bell's remarks for Wilford to retort, even had he been disposed, and he contented himself with a haughty toss of his head as she left the room to get herself in readiness for the journey she insisted upon taking. Wilford was glad she was going, as her presence at Silverton would relieve him of the awkward embarrassment he always felt when there, and magnanimously forgiving her for the plainness of her speech, he was the most attentive of brothers until Silverton was reached, and he found Dr. Grant awaiting for him. Something in his face as he came forward to meet them, startled both Wilford and Bell, the latter of whom asked quickly:

"Is the baby better?"

"Baby is dead," was the brief reply, and Wilford staggered back against the door-post, where he leaned a moment for support in that first great shock for which he was not prepared.

Upon the door-step Bell sat down, crying quietly, for she had loved the child, and she listened anxiously while Morris repeated the particulars of its illness and then spoke of Katy's reproaching herself so bitterly for having brought it from New London. "She seems entirely crushed," he continued, when they were driving towards the farm-house. "For a few hours I trembled for her reason, while the fear that you might reproach her added much to the poignancy of her grief."

Morris said this very calmly, as if it were not what he had all the while intended saying, and his eye turned towards Wilford, whose lips were compressed with the emotion he was trying to control. It was Bell who said impulsively, "Poor Katy, I knew she would feel so, but it is unnecessary, for none but a savage would reproach her now, even if she were in fault."

Morris blessed Bell Cameron in his heart, knowing how much influence her words would have upon her brother, who brushed away the first tear he had shed, and tried to say that "of course she was not to blame."

They were in sight of the farm-house now, and Bell, with her city ideas, was looking curiously at it, mentally pronouncing it a nicer, pleasanter place than she had supposed. It was very quiet about the house, and old Whitey's neighs as Morris's span of bays came up was the only sound which greeted them. In the wood-shed door Uncle Ephraim sat smoking his clay pipe, while by his side, upon a log of wood, holding a pan of the luscious peaches she was slicing up for tea, sat a woman whom Bell knew at once for Aunt Betsy Barlow, and who, pan in hand, came forward to meet her, curtsying very low when introduced by Morris, and asking to be excused from shaking hands, inasmuch as hers were not fit to be touched. Bell's quick eye took her in at a glance, from her clean spotted gown to her plain muslin cap, tied with a black ribbon, put on that day with a view to mourning, and then darted off to Uncle Ephraim, who won her heart at once when she heard how his voice trembled as he took Wilford's hand and said so pityingly, so father-like, "Young man, this is a sad day for you, and you have my sympathy, for I remember well how my heart ached when, on just such a day as this, my only child lay dead as yours is lying."

Every muscle of Wilford's face quivered, but he was too proud to show all that he felt, and he was glad when Helen appeared in the door, as that diverted his mind, and he greeted her cordially, stooping down and kissing her forehead, a thing he had never done before. But sorrow is a great softener, and Wilford was very sorry, feeling his loss more here, where everything was so quiet, so suggestive of death.

"Where is Katy?" he asked.

"She is sleeping for the first time since the baby died. She is in here with the child. She will stay nowhere else," Helen said, opening the door of the bedroom, motioning Wilford in.

With hushed breath and a beating heart, Wilford stepped across the threshold, and Helen closed the door, leaving him alone with the living and the dead. Pure and beautiful as some fair blossom, the dead child lay upon the bed, the curls of golden hair clustering about its head, and on its lips the smile which settled there when it tried to say "mamma." Hard indeed would Wilford have been had he cherished one bitter thought against the wife so wounded. He could not when he saw her, but no one ever knew just what passed through his mind during the half hour he sat there beside her, scarcely stirring and not daring to kiss his child lest he should awaken her. He could hear the ticking of his watch and the beating of his heart as he waited for the first sound which should herald Katy's waking.

Suddenly there was a low, gasping moan and Katy's eyes unclosed and rested on her husband. He was bending over her in an instant, and her arms were round his neck, while she said to him so sadly:

"Our baby is dead—you've nobody left but me; and oh! Wilford, you will not blame me for bringing baby here? I did not think she'd die. I'd give my life for hers if that would bring her back. Would you rather it was me lying as baby lies, and she here in your arms?"

"No, Katy," Wilford answered, and by his voice Katy knew that she was wholly forgiven, crying on his neck in a plaintive, piteous way, while Wilford soothed and petted and caressed, feeling subdued and humbled, and, we must confess it, forgetting too how very good and generous he was to be thus forgiving, when it is for Katy's act of disobedience they might not now be left childless!

With a great gush of tears, Bell Cameron bent over the little form, and then enfolded Katy in a more loving embrace than she had ever given her before, but whatever she might have said was prevented by the arrival of the coffin, and the confusion which followed.

Much Wilford regretted that New York was so far away, for a city coffin was more suitable, he thought, for a child of his, than the one which Dr. Grant had ordered. But that was really of less consequence than the question where the child should be buried. A costly monument at Greenwood was in accordance with his ideas, but all things indicated a contemplated burial there in the country churchyard, and sorely perplexed, he called on Bell as the only Cameron at hand, to know what he should do.

"Do just as Katy prefers," was Bell's reply, as she led him to the one and pointed to the name: "Little Genevra Cameron, aged nine months and twenty days."

"What is it, Wilford—what is the matter?" she asked as her brother turned whiter than his child.

"Had Genevra Lambert, aged 22," met his eye, he could not have been more startled than he was; but soon rallying, he said to Morris:

"The child was baptized then?"

"Yes, baptized Genevra. That was Katy's choice, I understand," Morris replied, and Wilford bowed his head, wishing the Genevra across the sea might know that his child bore her name.

"Perhaps she does," he thought, and his heart grew warm with the fancy that possibly in that other world, whose existence he never really doubted, the Genevra he had wronged would care for his child, if children there need care. "She will know it is mine at least," he said, and with a thoughtful face he went in quest of Katy, whom he found sobbing by the side of the mourning garments just sent in for her inspection.

Wilford had spoken to her of Greenwood, but she had begged so hard that he had given up that idea, suggesting next as more in accordance with city custom, that she remain at home while he only followed to the grave; but from this Katy recoiled in such distress that he gave that up too, and bore, magnanimously as he thought, the sight of all the Barlows standing around that grave, alike mourners with himself, and all a right to be there. Wilford felt his loss deeply, and his heart ached to the very core as he heard the gravel rattling down upon the coffin-lid which covered the beautiful child he had loved so much. But amid it all he never for a moment forgot that he was Wilford Cameron, and infinitely superior to the crowd around him — except, indeed, his wife, his sister, Dr. Grant, and Helen. He could bear to see them sorry, and feel that by their sorrow they honored the memory of his child. But for the rest—the village herd, with the Barlows in their train—he had no affinity, and his manner was haughty and distant as ever as he passed through their midst back to the carriage which took him again to the farm-house.

WM. ARMSTRONG IN THE POLICE COURT.

The Crown was not Ready and the Prisoner was Again Remanded.

William Armstrong was arraigned before Police Magistrate Dumble this morning and charged with obtaining money to the extent of $5 from James E. Quigley, under false pretences. The information which had been amended, read: "William Armstrong, alias F. H. Bradley, alias Stanley Steele, alias J. G. Steele, alias W. E. Armstrong," giving the prisoner the full benefit of the various names under which he is alleged to have travelled.

The case attracted quite a crowd, but they were doomed to disappointment, as the Crown was not ready to proceed. The prisoner declined to elect as to his trial, and was remanded for eight days. Mr. D. O'Connell appeared on his behalf.

STATEMENT OF A STOCK GROWER.

His Lumbago Was Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Suffered for Twenty Years Before He Found Relief in the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy.

Rosedene, Ont., April 6.—(Special)—Robert C. Lampman, the well known Gainsboro farmer and stock grower, is completely cured of a long standing case of Lumbago, and he has made a statement for the benefit of the public, in which he gives the entire credit for the cure to Dodd's Kidney Pills. In his statement Mr. Lampman says:

"For twenty years I suffered from Lumbago with all its worst symptoms. I had the most distressing pains it seemed possible to bear, coupled with an irritation of the spine.

"At times I was entirely prostrated and was for weeks unable to do anything whatever, and required the services of my family to assist me in dressing and moving from a chair to the sofa.

"I tried doctors and medicines, but got no benefit till, on the advice of a neighbour, I commenced to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. After the first box I noticed an improvement, and when I had taken six boxes every symptom of my trouble had vanished."

Like Rheumatism, Lumbago is caused by Uric Acid in the blood. Sound Kidneys take all the Uric Acid out of the blood. Dodd's Kidney Pills make sound Kidneys.
